GLASGOW.—Lodge Athole (No. 413).—The regular meeting of this prosperous lodge was held on Tuesday evening, the 23rd ult., in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, Bro. J. Louttit, W.M., presiding, Bros. Neilson, D.M.; Leeds, S.W.; Holms, J.W.; Agnew, Treas.; and others. Visitors: Bros. W. Ferguson, P.M. 116; Dobson, W.M. 571; Bannerman, D.M. 73; Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); and members from Lodges Nos. 87, 102, 117, 178, 197, 275, 332, 347, and 360. Mr. J. McKay was initiated by the W.M. The Provincial Grand Lodge made their annual visit of inspection to this lodge this evening; the deputation consisted of Bros. J. Baird, P.G.S.M., acting P.G. Master; with Bros. Jas. Gillies, Treas.; A. McTaggart, Sec.; John Miller, J.D.; J. Ritchie, Architect; A. Allison, jeweller; J. Balfour, Dir. of Ceremonies; J. Miller, Dir. of Music; and David Reid, I.G. The deputation having been received in due form, the W.M., Bro. Louttit, vacated the chair for the time being in favour of the acting P.G. Master, who then called upon the P.G.S. to read the report. Premising that he had simply to congratulate the lodge upon its continued prosperity, Bro. McTaggart accordingly read the report, which was in effect that the books of the lodge were found to be in a very satisfactory condition, and that, generally, No. 413 was working in strict accordance with Grand Lodge law. The amount of funds on hand, as at last audit, was £108 2s. 4d.; amount handed over by the lodge to the P.G. Benevolent Fund, £5 15s.; and amount distributed by them in private charity, £2 4s. The number added to the roll of membership during the past working year was 22. In briefly commenting upon the report, Bro. McTaggart referred to the satisfactory facts deduced by the examination of the night, namely, that the funds on hand had advanced from £93, as at last visitation, to the handsome figure above-mentioned; that, which was something remarkable, there had been no emergency meetings during the past year, and that, of the number of entrants stated, only one received the three degrees in one night. Of the books, he might add that the Secretary's was remarkably well kept, and the Treasurer's, as before, a model of excellence. The acting P.G.M., Bro. Baird, said he had no doubt it would afford the members of the lodge much pleasure to hear how they had been prospering, and, after a few words of wholesome advice as to their working, referred to the unfortunate circumstance that, through continued indisposition, their worthy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Montgomerie Neilson, had been unable to take his place in these visitations. Unable to appear amongst the brethren of his province personally, he had forwarded to him (Bro. Baird) a communication to be read to them, and which he would accordingly now read. It was as follows: "Brethren, Having made all my arrangements to devote a considerable time to the visitation of lodges in my province, it is exceedingly disappointing to me to have been laid up with a severe illness, from which I have not yet so far recovered as to be able to leave the house. I feel, therefore, constrained to send you this message. Brethren, although it is desirable that your Provincial Grand Master should be with you as often as possible, still I have great confidence that, notwithstanding my absence, you will do your duty as Freemasons to yourselves and to the Craft; selecting true and tried brethren for your Master and office-bearers, who accept the offices and honours not for the gratification of power or pride, or for any selfish motive, but for the good of the lodge and the upholding of the Craft in all its ancient rites, ceremonies, and privileges. I have had cause sometimes to regret the evident appearance of a selfishness that restricted to the narrow limits of a lodge that open-hearted sympathy and brotherly love which every Freemason ought to extend freely and impartially to all members of the Craft. Brethren, I take this opportunity of impressing upon you the great Masonic truth that the existence of any lodge in a state of honourable prosperity depends upon how Freemasonry generally stands among us, and more particularly in the province to which that lodge belongs. Every good Mason ought to aim at, first, upholding Freemasonry everywhere in honour and dignity before the brethren and the outer world; second, do all in his power to promote its welfare in the province to which he belongs; and third and last, be true and faithful in all his dealings within his own lodge. In this province the state of the individual lodges is very satisfactory; but I deeply regret that there is not a stronger bond of brotherhood throughout the whole province, with a united determination to place Freemasonry in a more prominent and honourable position. I hope in a short time to ask your assistance in this direction, feeling confident that you will give me your willing and earnest co-operation. Meantime, until I am able to meet you, accept my fraternal salutation. (Signed) Montgomerie Neilson, P.G.M. of Glasgow." The acting P.G.M. then asked the W.M. to resume the chair he so worthily occupied. The latter said he was sure they all sympathised deeply with the P.G.M. in his present condition, and he hoped it would not be long before he was strong and able to be with them again. On behalf of Lodge 413, he had to thank the acting P.G.M. and other brethren of the deputation for the favourable report they had given them; and it would be the study of the lodge always to work in harmony with the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and with the instructions they received from the Provincial Grand Lodge on their annual visits. The Provincial Grand Lodge deputation thereafter retired. Three brethren were afterwards passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by the W.M. in his usual able manner.

Obituary.

BRO. SIR THOMAS HENRY FERMOR-HESKETH, BART.

On Sunday last, the 28th ult., the death was announced of Bro Sir Thomas Henry Fermor-Hesketh, eldest son of the late Sir Thomas George Fermor-Hesketh, of Rufford Hall, late R.W.P.G.M. of West Lancashire. Deceased, who resided at Fermor Lodge, Southport, was in the 30th year of his age. He had been ailing a little for a day or two, but there was no apprehension of immediate danger. However, on Dr. Shaw, of Southport, making his usual rounds in the evening he called at Fermor Lodge, and found Sir Thomas in bed in a dying state. Every possible attention was paid to him, but he expired about an hour and a quarter after the doctor's arrival, the cause of death being effusion on the brain. The deceased took the title and estates on the death of his father, about three years ago, and these are now taken by Captain T. G. Fermor-Hesketh, who for some time has been abroad. There are two sons and two daughters still living, one of the latter being married. Deceased was interred in the family vault at Rufford Church during the week.

On Monday evening the Lady Mayoress gave a grand fancy dress ball at the Mansion-house. The spacious apartments of the official residence were very tastefully decorated, and the saloon was converted into a perfect garden of the choicest plants and flowers. The Lord Mayor, who assumed the character of Charlemagne, and the Lady Mayoress, as the wife of that monarch, received the company in the saloon, and with them were several members of their family, Mrs. Savage representing "Snow"; Mrs. Tindal-Bosanquet, "the Chateau-de-Poil," from the famous picture in the Peel collection; Miss Cotton, the Princess Mary, daughter of Henry VII. The fifteen stewards wore the costume recently suggested by Mr. Du Maurier in Punch—white cloth evening dress suits, relieved by black linen—and looked very well in that novel garb. The reception lasted from 9.30 o'clock until close upon 11, when, preceded by the City Marshal and the Sword and Macebearers and the Stewards, the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress proceeded to the dais in the Egyptian Hall, where dancing at once commenced to the music of the Coldstream Guards, under the direction of Mr. F. Godfrey. The effect of all the various costumes was picturesque in the extreme. Supper was served soon after midnight in the old ball-room, and afterwards dancing was resumed and continued far into the morning. Of the many splendid dresses worn on the occasion none were more noticeable than those copied from the recently missing picture of Gainsborough's "Duchess of Devonshire." The French, German, and Austrian Ambassadors were among the guests, as were also a large number of members of both Houses of Parliament, many officers of the Army and Navy, and a considerable circle of private guests.

A movement is on foot to organise a corps of gentlemen to be called "Knights of the Red Cross." Their mission will be to proceed to the Levant, and if necessary, to act in defence of the Christian population, and more especially of British subjects, who are to a great extent helplessly exposed to the religious fury of the Mussulmans. The Knights will be carefully chosen, and will be under command of a tried practical soldier with large experience of Eastern countries, aided by a competent staff of Lieutenants. As the cause is just, holy, merciful, and needful, an appeal is made to Christians of every denomination—Templars and all other knights included—for their aid and sympathy.

Messrs. Peachey's establishment in Bishops-gate-street was brilliantly illuminated on Saturday last in honour of the return of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The device displayed was the Royal Arms surrounded with rays of light, which was much admired.

Royal Academy of Music, Hanover Square.—Dr. Llewelyn Thomas was appointed Hon. Consulting Physician to this institution at the last meeting of the Committee.

In this age of change, when old fashioned ideas of trading are scattered to the winds, not always with satisfactory results, it is well at times to note that change means progress, and a good example is furnished by the London and Westminster Supply Association (Limited), its success ensured by the energy, tact, and sound principles on which the Association is conducted. The stores, situate opposite the Ludgate Hill Railway Station, affording ready access to members from all parts, are replete with every requirement; the various departments arranged on separate extensive floors affording all the convenience of completing purchases under one roof, without experiencing the waste of time and inconvenience entailed by a round of calls on tradesmen, and at a reduction in price. A bulky volume of some 250 pages is forwarded quarterly post free, containing with price list full particulars of the association. With the practical experience in kindred institutions of Mr. Graham Irwin as General Manager, and Mr. Ashton as Secretary, from whom every information can be obtained, it cannot but continue to progress as heretofore; and we advise those who are interested to call at 10, New Bridge-street, and judge for themselves the working of this popular institution.

The consecration of the "Lewis" Royal Arch Chapter, No. 1185, will take place at the King's Arms Hotel, Wood Green, on Saturday next. The ceremonies of consecration and installation will be worked by Comp. John Hervey, G.S.E. The Officers Designate are Comps. A. Leared, M.E.Z.; George James Row, H.; A. Durrant, J. A full report of the meeting will appear in the "Freemason" of the 17th inst.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Clydesdale (No. 556).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in their own hall, 106, Rose-street (S.S.), on Tuesday evening, 16th ult., Bro. W. Phillips, W.M., presiding; J. McNaught, S.W.; T. Phillips, J.W.; J. McKechnie, Treas.; G. B. Yuill, Sec.; J. Webster, Chaplain; W. Smith, I.G.; and W. Graham, Tyler. There was a full attendance of members and visitors, among whom we noticed Bros. D. Ronald, W.M. 275; McNaught, P.M. 275; J. Horn, Sec. 275; J. Louttit, W.M. 413; P. Brownlie, J.W. 34; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); and others. On the minutes being read and confirmed Messrs. J. Downie, S. Johnstone, and R. McMillan were initiated by the W.M. The members of the P.G. Lodge on leaving Lodge Thistle, 87, visited this lodge, and were received with the usual formalities. The W.M., handing the mallet to Bro. Sinclair, requested him to occupy the chair. Bro. Sinclair thanked the W.M. and returned the same, and then called upon the Secretary to read the report. Bro. McTaggart said: This is the second visit to this young lodge, and I am glad the account we have to give is very good; your books are in excellent order, with a very small exception as regards the Roll Book. That, I trust, will be remedied soon. You have a balance of £18 10s, after clearing the debt of this comfortable new hall, which cost £138, and in the future you will be sitting rent free. You have given the handsome sum of £9 15s. to-night to the Benevolent Fund, and I am glad to notice you have given a considerable sum during the past year towards charity. You have initiated the large number of 61 last year, and as far as our visitation has gone no lodge in the province has been more careful in conferring the degrees according to the Grand Lodge Constitutions. I have therefore much pleasure in congratulating the Lodge Clydesdale, No. 556, on the efficient manner in which the business has been conducted. Bro. Sinclair then complimented the Master, office-bearers, and members on the prosperous condition of the lodge. Bro. Phillips, after moving a hearty vote of thanks to the deputation of the P.G. Lodge, proposed that Bros. Sinclair, Gillies, and Allison, and also Bro. W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"), become honorary members of the lodge, which was unanimously agreed to, and they were duly obligated by Bro. McTaggart, P.G. Sec. The lodge was then called to refreshment, when the brethren spent a short time in harmony.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Kenmuir (No. 570).—This lodge held their regular meeting in Balgray Hall, Springburn, on Thursday evening, 11th ult., Bro. R. Aikman, W.M. presiding; J. Wark, S.W.; W. Reid, J.W.; J. Sharp, Treas.; D. Russell, Sec.; the other office-bearers, and a good attendance of members and visitors. Three brethren were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. R. Currie, 73. The Provincial Grand Lodge deputation, consisting of Bros. J. Gillies, P.G. Treas.; A. McTaggart, P.G. Sec.; A. Bain, P.G.B.B.; J. Balfour, P.G.D. of C.; D. Reid, P.G.I.G.; and J. B. Hardie, P.G. Tyler, having arrived about nine p.m., were admitted and received with the usual honours, the W.M. handing the mallet to and requesting Bro. Gillies to preside over the meeting, which was acceded to. Bro. McTaggart, P.G. Sec., read the report, which showed the lodge to be in a very prosperous state, and complimented the Master and members on the efficient manner in which the books, &c., of the lodge were kept. They were young, but he was glad to see that they had initiated nineteen members since August, 1875, the date of constitution of the lodge. Bro. Gillies having briefly addressed the members, returned the mallet to the W.M., at whose request the members of Prov. Grand Lodge, along with Bro. G. M. Donald, W.M. Thistle and Rose, 73, and Bro. W. J. E. Dobson, W.M. Dramatic, 571, were made honorary members of the lodge. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned for a short time to refreshment, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Dramatic (No. 571).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Wednesday, the 17th ult., at 2.30 p.m., Bro. W. J. E. Dobson, W.M., in the chair; Bros. J. Houston, D.M.; H. W. Jackman, S.W.; W. Sivewright, J.W.; W. Barbour, Treas.; D. Campbell, Sec.; R. S. Smyth, S.D.; L. Mitchell, J.D.; and Robertson, I.G. This was the most numerously attended meeting of the lodge since its constitution. Among the visitors were Bros. G. McDonald, W.M. 73; K. Jack, W.M. 128; J. Morgan, W.M. 219; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); R. Aikman, W.M. 570; J. Bannerman, D.M. 73; C. McKenzie, J.W. 354; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; B. Smart, Treas. 219; P. Brownlie, J.W. 34; and a large number of others. On the lodge being opened Messrs. J. Cameron and Hendri Ludwig were initiated by the W.M. Bro. Mitchell, J.D., presented the lodge with a very handsome mahogany case for holding the office-bearers' aprons, sashes, jewels and collars, and a hearty vote of thanks was awarded him by the W.M. The Provincial Grand Lodge deputation, consisting of Bros. J. Gillies, P.G. Treas.; A. McTaggart, P.G. Sec.; J. Miller, P.G.J.D.; J. Ritchie, P.G. Archt.; A. Allison, P.G. Jew.; A. Bain, P.G.B.B.; and J. Balfour, P.G.D. of C., were then received, the brethren being upstanding, and after taking their places on the dais the W.M. handed the mallet to and requested Bro. Gillies, P.G. Treas., acting P.G.M., to occupy the chair and preside over the meeting, which he accordingly did, and called upon the P.G. Sec. to read the report as drawn up by the deputation. Bro. McTaggart, after referring to the desirability of having a lodge such as the Dramatic for professional gentlemen in a large city like Glasgow, complimented the W.M. on the efficient position the lodge occupies in the province, and attributed the success the lodge has attained to the energetic Master and his office-bearers. The report I have to read is to the following effect:—"We, the undersigned office-bearers of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, hereby certify that we have visited the Lodge Dramatic, No. 571, on Wednesday, 17th May, 1876, examined the various books and found them in excellent condition, and the lodge generally is working in strict harmony with the Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of Scotland." Bro. Gillies, after confirming the report read, and the remarks made by the P.G. Sec., said he was glad to see such a large meeting, and especially at this hour of the day, and concluded by wishing every success to the Lodge Dramatic. Bro. Dobson, W.M., returned thanks to the deputation for their flattering report and friendly visit, also to the members and visiting brethren for their attendance. The W.M. then proposed, and Bro. Jackman seconded, "That the members of Provincial Grand Lodge, and also Bros. J. Morgan, W.M. 219; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); R. Aikman, W.M. 570; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; and G. W. Wheeler, Chaplain 73, become honorary members of the lodge," and were accordingly obligated by the W.M. The deputation then withdrew. The lodge was then raised to the Third Degree, when Bro. J. Bromilow, of Lodge 73, was raised by Bro. Wheeler, Chaplain 73.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Plantation (No. 581).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, 207, Craigiehall-street, Plantation, on Monday evening, the 15th ult., Bro. Thos. Stobo, W.M., in the chair; D. Peacock, S.W.; J. Henry, J.W. The Master was supported on the dais by Bros. J. Morgan, W.M. Lodge Star, 219; W. Ferguson, D.M.; Alex. Gow, S.M.; W. Taylor, Treas.; R. Allan, Sec. On the lodge being opened and minutes of last meeting read and adopted, and other business of minor importance disposed of, Messrs. J. Guthrie Smith and John Hart, who were regularly proposed and seconded at last meeting, were favourably balloted for and admitted, and received the First Degree at the hands of Bro. Ferguson, D.M. Bros. J. Lindsay, Thos. Walker, and J. Neish were passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. J. Morgan, W.M. 219.

An emergency meeting of this lodge was held in the hall, Craigiehall-street, on Friday evening, 10th ult., Bro. Stobo, W.M., presiding; Peacock, S.W.; Henry, J.W.; and all the other office-bearers in their respective places, and a good attendance of members and visitors. Messrs. David Young, superintendent of police, and John Gardner were initiated into the First Degree, and Bros. J. A. Campbell and J. Neish were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason, both ceremonies being performed by Bro. W. Ferguson, D.M.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

[The following appeared in our Second Edition last week.]

The General Committee meeting of this Institution was held on Thursday afternoon, 23th ult. Lieut.-Col. Crauton presided. There were also present Bros. H. Browne, H. A. Dubois, W. Bristow, John Symonds, W. Paaz, Joshua Nunn, John A. Rucker, John Gibson, S. P. Norris, Joseph Clever, Benj. Head, A. H. Tattershall, A. Senfold, J. B. Shackleton, E. Harris, George Aingold, Lieut.-Col. Peters, Rev. J. M. Vaughan, Thos. J. Sabine, H. J. Tuson, Dr. Erasmus Wilson, Frank Richardson, Peter De L. Long, Robt. B. Webster, W. Pendlebury, Raynham W. Stewart, W. Noak, Robert Kenyon, J. Boyd, B. H. Swallow, M. S. Larham, Alfred H. Diaper, H. G. Bess, Herbert Dicketts, Thos. W. White, Thos. Bull, Frank Green, W. H. Smith, J. K. Stead, J. M. P. Montagu, W. Hyde Pullen, T. B. Lancaster, Robert Bridgde, Henry W. Bothamley, William Dodd, H. Massey ("Freemason"), F. W. Ramsay, Griffiths Smith, T. F. Peacock, F. Binckes, Wm. F. C. Moutrie, E. H. Finney, A. L. Dussek, Henry Venn, Z. D. Berry, W. Myatt, John Geo. Marsh, Pierce Egan, J. Mason, B. Picking, W. Ramsey, Wm. Roebuck, Joseph Hill, J. B. Dellagana, M. D. Loewenstark, J. T. Moss, Thos. Taylor, and W. Hedges (in place of Bro. Little, Secretary, absent through ill health, but who, the brethren will be happy to learn, is much better than he has been).

After the reading of the minutes, upon the recommendation of the House Committee, Bro. Joshua Nunn gave notice of motion for next meeting to increase the salaries of the three assistant governesses. One extra governess taken from among the pupils was appointed.

Three little girls passing satisfactorily were placed on the list for election; one case was withdrawn, and one deferred for better reading.

The election of members of the House and Audit Committees was afterwards proceeded with, for which Bros. Venn, Major Finney, and W. F. C. Moutrie, were scrutineers of votes. At the declaration of the poll the following brethren were found to have been elected:

HOUSE COMMITTEE.—Bros. John Boyd, 51; Henry Browne, 48; Henry A. Dubois, 52; Benjamin Head, 64; Peter De Lande Long, 43; Joshua Nunn, 74; Lieut.-Col. James Peters, 58; John A. Rucker, 68; Griffiths Smith, 70; Alfred H. Tattershall, 60; Rev. Joseph M. Vaughan, 45; Thomas W. White, 75.

AUDIT COMMITTEE.—Bros. John G. Chancellor, 50; Herbert Dicketts, 54; Thomas Kingston, 37; Henry C. Leavander, 67; Hyam M. Levy, 38; John G. Marsh, 41; Joshua Nunn, 67; William Roebuck, 60; Robert B. Webster, 64.

Votes of thanks to the chairman and scrutineers closed the proceedings.

THE LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND IN BELFAST.

His Grace the Lord Lieutenant, accompanied by Lady Georgiana Hamilton, Lord Claud John Hamilton, and attended by several aides-de-camp, arrived in Belfast on May 22 by special train from Dublin. The Viceregal party having been met at the Terminus of the Great Northern Railway by the Mayor (Mr. Robert Boag, J.P.), Sir Charles Lanyon, J.P., High Sheriff of County Antrim; Lord Templetown, and a number of other gentlemen, were escorted to carriages in waiting and driven to the Town Hall. Throughout the entire route the enthusiasm was very great, the reception accorded to the distinguished visitors being cordial in the extreme. The Council Chamber was specially prepared and adorned for the occasion, and here his Grace was presented with an address on behalf of the Corporation, to which he made an appropriate reply. Subsequently, the Viceregal party were conducted through the extensive premises of Messrs. Richardson, Sons, and Owden, Limited, which they inspected with great interest. They were afterwards driven to the Abbey, the seat of Sir Charles Lanyon, with whom they remained as guests during their stay in the country.

One of the most interesting incidents connected with His Grace's visit to Belfast was his reception by the Freemasons of Antrim and Down in the Music Hall, immediately after the Mayor's luncheon. His Grace, as our readers are aware, is the Grand Master of the Masonic body in Ireland. He has always shown a deep interest in the welfare and advancement of the Order, and it was due to his exalted position as well as to his high personal character that the brethren of this and the adjoining Masonic province should show their respect for him on the occasion of his visit. Accordingly, large numbers assembled in the Music Hall on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of presenting an address, congratulating His Grace on his acceptance of the office of Grand Master, in succession to the late Duke of Leinster, who so long presided over the counsels of the body, and expressive of that loyalty which has always characterised the Freemasons of this and the sister kingdoms. The doors were thrown open at half-past three, and immediately the lower hall was filled by representatives of nearly all the lodges of the provinces of Antrim and Down. The brethren were attired in the regalia of the Order, some in the beautiful insignia of the Prince Mason Degree, others in that of the Knight Templar, and others again in the red and blue of the Royal Arch and Master Mason Degrees. The appearance of the whole body was most imposing, and seldom, indeed, has such a display been witnessed in the North of Ireland in connection with Masonry. Bro. John G. McGee, one of the oldest and most experienced Masons in Belfast, acted as Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies, and, assisted by Bro. Robert M'Calmont and Bro. Edward Allworthy, discharged the duties of the office with much acceptance and ability. The brethren were first formed in lodges, and a procession having been formed, the whole body proceeded to the upper hall, where they filed off alternately in lodges to the right and left of the room, leaving ample space in the centre for his Grace and the Grand Officers to proceed to the dais. A choir, composed of brother Masons, and under the direction of Bro. John H. Carroll, who presided with his accustomed ability and skill at the harmonium, occupied the gallery. On the platform a raised dais was erected for the Grand Master, the Provincial Grand Master of Antrim, and his deputy. The arrangements were altogether highly satisfactory, and were carried out with great precision and accuracy.

At about half-past four o'clock, Lady Georgiana Hamilton, attended by several ladies, and escorted by the Right Worshipful the Mayor of Belfast, was ushered on to the platform. On her appearance the whole assembly rose, and for several minutes the hall resounded with cheers in honour of her ladyship. His Grace, who was accompanied by Bro. Sir Charles Lanyon, the Provincial Grand Master of Antrim, was received in the lower hall by the holders of platform tickets, the Stewards, and Provincial Grand Lodge Officers. A procession was then formed, and the Grand Master was conducted to the upper room.

On arriving at the door of the upper room the procession filed off to right and left, leaving an avenue for the Grand Master to proceed to the dais, to which he was conducted by the Deputy Grand Master. As his Grace walked up the room, a march was played by Bro. Carroll on the harmonium. On arriving at the platform he was loudly and enthusiastically cheered. He took his seat in the Grand Master's chair, having on his right Bro. Sir Charles Lanyon, and on his left Lady Georgiana Hamilton.

Among those on the platform and in the body of the hall we observed:—The Right Worshipful the Mayor of Belfast, Hon. Edward O'Neill, M.P., Bro. William Johnston, M.P., Sir Richard Wallace, M.P., Bro. James Alexander Henderson, J.P., Bro. Alexander Tate, Provincial Grand Secretary of Antrim; Sir Charles Lanyon, P.D.G.M.; R. McCalmont, P.G. Treas.; T. Valentine, John Lanyon, D. F. Spiller, John G. McGee, P.G.D.C.; Thomas Fisher, P.S. G.W.; John Ireland, P.P.S.G.W.; O'Connell Shaw, John Hanna, P.P.S.G.W.; Rev. Hans Woods, Rev. W. C. McCullagh, P.G.C.; Rev. Jonathan Seaver, William Redfern Kelly, C.E.; G. A. Reid, Ward, P.P.S.G.W.; Clendinning, John Wright, E. Allworthy, R. J. Hilton, P.P.G.S.; Hugh Doey, Armstrong, Henry Bottomley, P.J.G.W.; William J. Owen, P.S.G.W.; Morrow, P.G.J.G.; Boyd, P.G.S.B.; N. W. Grimshaw, P.P.G. J.D.; Frederick Kinahan, Emerson, P.P.G.J.; T. J. Welland, P.P.G.C.; Wakefield Dixon, John Woods, P.P.G.I.G.; James Scott, P.P.G.J.W.; Robert, Neill, William Dobbin, James Henry, John Stott, Henry McCashin, John H. Carroll, Louis Mantell, James Neill, Robert Campbell, William Rankin, W. J. Rainey, Denis

Leonard, William Whitla, C. L. Reid, John Davidson, Lewis Ryans, W. A. Parke, J. P. Harris, Charles Stewart, C. H. Atkinson, S. S. Frackelton, P.G.C.; Herbert Lanyon, Girdwood, Edward Orme, C. H. Ward, Andrews, Poole, Robert Irwin, Gibson, E. O'R. Dickey, W. C. Cunningham, Robert Vance, Charles Litley, B. J. Sandheim, John W. Templeton, Samuel Abernethy, Robert Matthews, Robert Adison, Simpson, W. Tennent Henry, Provincial Grand Senior Deacon, Down; Henry Montgomery, Past Provincial Grand Secretary, Down; Beauchamp N. Johnson, Downpatrick, James Jordan, P.M., do.; J. S. Clarke, P.M., do.; R. J. Harrison, P.M.; Thomas Jennings, P.M.; James Atkinson, do.; Robert McIlwaine, do.; Douglas Lithgow, R. Deeves, T. Nesbitt, and others.

On the Grand Master taking his seat, Bro. Sir Charles Lanyon, addressing the brethren present, said: I will ask you to salute the Right Worshipful the Grand Master of Ireland by three times eleven on the third coming down, taking the fire from me.

A right hearty salute having been given, Bro. Sir Charles Lanyon said: Bro. Tate, Provincial Grand Secretary, will now read the address of the Masons to the Most Worshipful the Grand Master of Ireland. (Loud applause.)

Bro. Alexander Tate then read the following address:—To His Grace James Duke of Abercorn, K.G., Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Most Ancient and Honourable Society of Free and Accepted Masons of Ireland.

Most Worshipful Sir,—On the auspicious occasion of your Grace's visit to Belfast, we, the Freemasons of the Province of Antrim, beg leave to approach your Grace with the warmest feeling of respect and attachment.

It has been a source of deep gratification to the brethren of this province, as of every other in the country, that your grace should have so readily consented to preside over our ancient Order in Ireland, and that the chair so long adorned by the virtues of our late revered Grand Master should now in succession be so worthily and happily filled.

Mindful of the exalted position occupied by your Grace in the government of the country, we gladly avail ourselves of this opportunity to give expression to the firm principles of loyalty and devotion which we entertain towards our Queen and country, and which have ever honourably distinguished the Masonic fraternity. We hail your Grace's connection with the Craft as a bright omen of its future prosperity, and it is our fervent prayer that your Grace may long be spared in health and happiness to preside over our councils, and that beneath your fostering care the spirit of Masonry may still further advance on her beneficent cause of charity, brotherhood, and good will.

DONOGALL, P.G.M.

CHARLES LANYON, D.P.G.M.

ALEX. TATE, P.G. Sec.

The Grand Master, in reply, said: Right Worshipful Sir and brethren—I am very glad that my visit should have afforded me the opportunity of receiving your kind address, and I thank you very heartily for it. I can the more cordially appreciate your expressions of loyalty and devotion to our most gracious Sovereign and country, because my long experience as a Mason convinces me of their perfect sincerity. (Applause.) I thank you also for your kind sentiments towards myself. Your gratification at my presiding over the most ancient and honourable Society of Free and Accepted Masons in Ireland affords me much pleasure (loud applause), and I can assure you that the honour was one which I gladly accepted. I trust I may be long able to preside over our ancient Order in Ireland, and use my best endeavours to further those feelings of charity, brotherhood, and good-will which have always animated our Craft in this kingdom. (Loud applause.)

The choir then sang the Masonic glee "Come Brother Masons," which was rendered in truly excellent style, the assemblage testifying their appreciation of the ability displayed in its execution by hearty applause, in which his Grace himself joined.

Bro. Robert M'Calmont then called for three cheers for the Grand Master, which were given in a most enthusiastic manner. Cheers were also given for Sir Charles Lanyon, Lady Georgiana Hamilton, and the other ladies present.

The choir then gave a Masonic version of "God Save the Queen."

The Viceregal party then took their departure amid loud and long-continued cheering, his Grace shaking hands with several of the brethren on his way out. The reception accorded to the Grand Master was altogether of a most enthusiastic character, and seemed to afford much gratification to his Grace, as well as to his beautiful daughter, whose presence lent additional interest and éclat to the proceedings.

Nothing tends so much to render a railway excursion uncomfortable as the preliminary struggle at the booking office. The companies in multiplying agencies for the sale of tickets render it a passenger's own fault if he undergoes the inconvenience. It will be seen from an announcement in another column that tickets for the popular excursions of the Great Western, and also of the Brighton Company, may now be obtained at Bro. Kingston's Universal Railway Office, Fitzroy-square, an arrangement which will be of some value to the populous north-west district of London.

Bro. Dr. Bartolomé, the well-known physician of Sheffield, has been unanimously elected President for the next meeting of the British Medical Association, the largest medical body in the world.

Masonic and General Tidings.

The Prince of Wales has, we are informed, presented portraits of himself and the Princess of Wales to the officers of the Serapis.

In a Convocation held at Oxford on Tuesday afternoon, the proposal to confer the degree of D.C.L. by diploma upon Bro. His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, of Christ Church, was carried unanimously. The Latin document, embodying the resolution of the University, specified; the "comitas, modestia, et simplicitas" which had won for Prince Leopold in his three years' residence the general regard, and expressed the hope and expectation that his father might live again in him. His Royal Highness will, it is understood, be present at the festivities of the Commemoration, and will arrive at Oxford on Thursday, June 15, to be present at a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Oxford on the 16th inst. It has been stated that the Prince and Princess of Wales will also honour the Commemoration with their presence.

THE QUEEN'S AIDES-DE-CAMP.—The following general order has been issued by His Royal Highness the Field-Marshal Commanding-in-Chief:—By the Queen's command Field-Marshal His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., and Major His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K.G., are hereby appointed personal aides-de-camp to Her Majesty.

The remains of the late Dowager Countess of Carnarvon were conveyed on Wednesday by the Great Western Railway from the family seat at Pixton, Somersetshire, to Newbury, accompanied by one of her ladyship's sons, the Hon. Alan Herbert, and several old servants from Pixton. As a remark of the respect to the deceased Countess, whose family has long been associated with Newbury, the Mayor and Corporation, attended by the mace-bearers and a large number of the principal inhabitants, formed a procession in the Station-road, and preceded the hearse to the outskirts of the borough. The corpse was conveyed to Burghclere Old Church, where it will be deposited in the family vault.

His Excellency the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, M.W.G.M. Ireland, and the Duchess of Abercorn and Lady Georgiana Hamilton left Dublin on Tuesday evening for their residence, Hampden House, Green-street, Grosvenor-square.

The Dutch journals announce that Prince Frederick of the Netherlands will celebrate in July next the 16th anniversary of his installation as Grand Master of the Freemasons of the Netherlands.

Among those present at the levee held on Monday at St. James's Palace, by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, on behalf of Her Majesty, were Bro. J. B. Monckton, Town Clerk of London, President of the Board of General Purposes, and Bro. J. Whichcord.

The Southern Star Lodge of Instruction (No. 1158) will be opened at the Crown Hotel, Blackfriars-road, on Thursday, June 15th, 1876, when the ceremonies of consecration and installation will be rehearsed.

The St. Luke's Lodge of Instruction (No. 144) has been removed to the White Hart Tavern, 49, King's Road, Chelsea. The meetings are held every Friday evening at half-past seven o'clock.

The Domestic Chapter of Instruction, under the able care of such accomplished workers as Comps. Boyd, Bull, Cameron, Cottebrune, Kench, Wheeler, and others, has been most successfully resuscitated, and will henceforth meet at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Piccadilly, every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

NEW CHAPTER IN LIVERPOOL.—The Consecration of the Hamer Chapter (No. 1393) will take place at the Lodge Room, Everton Road, Liverpool, on Thursday, the 8th inst. Bro. John Jones, P.M., is the Z. designate; Bro. R. H. Evans, I.P.M., the first H.; and Bro. Henry Jackson, W.M., the first J. From the well-known Masonic enthusiasm of these brethren and others associated with them in the formation of the new chapter there is no doubt the Hamer will prove a decided success and do honour to the memory of the name which it bears.

The death is announced from Rheims of M. Eugène Roederer, the head of the celebrated champagne firm of Louis Roederer.

TESTIMONIAL TO BRO. HAYDON.—A meeting was held at the Three Bucks Tavern, Old Jewry, under the presidency of Mr. Inspector Bailey, for the purpose of presenting a testimonial to Bro. M. Haydon, detective-sergeant, on his leaving the force, in which he has served a great number of years. The testimonial consisted of a timepiece, presented by members of the force, and a purse of £52 10s. from other friends. The timepiece bore the following inscription:—"Presented to Mr. Michael Haydon, detective-sergeant of the City of London Police, on his retirement from the force after a service of 34 years, by his brother officers, as a mark of their esteem and high appreciation of his character. May, 1876."

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey will be held on the 13th inst., at half-past one o'clock punctually, at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon. R.W. Bro. Lieut.-Gen. J. S. Brownrigg, C.B., requests the attendance of the brethren at Divine service, which will take place in the parish church, Croydon, at 3.30.

Mrs. Lydia Gidney, Norwich, desires to express her heartfelt thanks to the brethren who kindly assisted her at the late election.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1876.

HOW SHALL WE BEST CELEBRATE OUR GRAND MASTER'S RETURN?

Several opinions may be expressed on this very interesting topic, and we do not claim for anything that we are about to say either the tone of dogmatism or the attribute of infallibility. There are difficulties no doubt attendant on any very large gathering of our Order, whether at the Crystal or the Alexandra Palace, or elsewhere, and of course much would have to depend on the view our Grand Master himself takes of the matter in all its bearings, Masonic and otherwise. But Grand Lodge meets on June 7th, and it is clear that, failing any larger assembly for the purpose of gratulation and loyal welcome to our Grand Master, some notice must be taken of this unusual and striking event in the annals of Freemasonry. Accordingly, two notices are on the agenda paper for June 7th with reference to this subject—the first by our esteemed and distinguished Bro. John Havers, P.G.W., the other by our worthy Bro. P.G.C. R. J. Simpson. By the first notice the Grand Lodge would record its grateful recognition on its own minutes of our beloved Grand Master's return, and in order to commemorate fitly so happy an event would give £1000 to the fund for the restoration of St. Alban's Cathedral and £1000 for the completion of St. Paul's. Bro. Simpson's motion would lead to a service at St. Paul's in grateful remembrance of this glad event, and would also grant £1000 to be devoted to some Indian charitable purpose, to be approved of by the Grand Master. With all deference to our worthy brother, the P.G.C., we incline to think, and to think strongly—and we therefore feel bound honestly to say so—that the motion of P.G.W. John Havers most commends itself to our feelings, alike of Masonic loyalty and to every Masonic sentiment in us, as a speculative and accepted brotherhood to-day. It may, indeed, be argued by some, we think illogically, that as Freemasonry is professedly neutral on all matters of religious distinction or denominational teaching it ought not, even by implication or indirectly, ever seek to identify itself with any one religious body. But the fallacy of such an argument lies in this. We are not proposing to make any such donation to St. Alban's Cathedral, or St. Paul's Cathedral, because they are the churches of a religious body. We are not suggesting by our vote that we in any way identify ourselves with the Church of England, or any other aggregation of religionists, but we vote the money as Freemasons towards a religious work, by whomsoever carried on, and because both these cathedrals specially appeal to us as historical landmarks in the annals and archaeology of our great Order. For be it remembered here why no doubt P.G.W. Havers, with his customary ability and clearness of vision, has thought well to invoke the aid of the Grand Lodge of England to these two great undertakings. This is of course our way of looking at the matter, an hypothesis of our own, and we do not presume to put anything forth as the actual theory of our brother the P.G.W., not even to assume that such will be the able argument he will assuredly, "more suo," adduce in support of the proposition. St. Alban's is in all our legends identified inseparably with the first effort of our operative Order, and all our later Masonic MSS., from the 16th century at any rate, mention St. Alban and the provincial Verulamium. That great and interesting cathedral contains mementoes both of Alban and Amphibalus, and no history of our operative forefathers can be complete without recognition of the early connection of Alban with the operative guilds. And so St. Paul's is equally linked on, through Sir Christopher Wren, and the Masons who revived Freemasonry in 1717 (from which revival the whole of existing Freemasonry everywhere now takes its origin), with our great speculative brotherhood to-day. We cannot conceive a more fitting use of our funds for general purposes, we cannot ourselves realise any very serious opposition to such a wise and seasonable, such a large-hearted, and, in our humble opinion, such a truly Masonic proposal. Some time ago our distinguished D.G. Master in his own zealous province brought forward a proposal to aid in the restoration of Chester Cathedral, which was happily and heartily carried, and we then ventured to point out how thoroughly Masonic, in our opinion, such a proposal was, and how untenable the objection to it on any supposed grounds of denominational preference. If our good brethren will seriously consider the matter they will see that the ground East Lancashire took, and we took, is a perfectly Masonic and safe one, viz., that we are not making the grant simply to a denominational body, as an act of denominational sympathy, but that we are making it as Freemasons, because our operative fathers built those very cathedrals, and we seek in our generation, and in our measure to aid to renovate and restore them. St. Alban's Cathedral was built, no doubt, by the then operative guild of Freemasons; St. Paul's Cathedral was raised by those who formed part of the revival lodges of 1717, and who have every claim on our respect and remembrance, on our great material prosperity to-day as a flourishing and purely speculative brotherhood. No more fitting recognition, we venture to repeat, can be made of our gratitude and loyalty as an united fraternity than the proposal so seasonably put forward, and we venture to express the hope and the belief that it will meet with unanimous acceptance and approval on the part of Grand Lodge, sure as we are that it will be readily and enthusiastically endorsed by our intelligent and educated Craft. We have every reason to believe, from what we know of the public Masonic career of our esteemed Bro. P.G.W. Havers, that he would have good cause for knowing that his resolution would receive the approval of H.R.H. the Grand Master.

OUR ROYAL BROTHER KING GEORGE OF HANOVER.

As loyal Freemasons, we shall have noticed that this distinguished member of our own Royal Family, the Duke of Cumberland, and also King George of Hanover, is now in England, on a visit alike to his native country, and the Queen, and the Royal Family. He is, we all know, a member of our Order, a P.G.M. of the Old Grand Lodge of Hanover, and as such merits, as he will receive, a warm and sympathetic greeting from our English brotherhood. We, too, for whom alike the fortunes and movements of our Royal Family have always an abiding interest—we are rejoiced to think how well this pleasant meeting of the Royal Family chimes in with the happy return of the Prince of Wales from India, and we are also pleased to note that amid the gay luster of the Court our Royal Family is ever so truly mindful of kindly association and affectionate intercourse. We beg—as we know we represent the feelings of our Order, always loyal, in bright as well as cloudy days—to express a hope that some opportunity may be accorded the Fraternity of expressing its respectful attachment and regard for this distinguished member of our Royal Family, a sincere and earnest member of our ancient Craft.

THE MYSTERIES OF FREEMASONRY.

We are not a little amused at the evident embarrassment into which the reviewer in our good contemporary, the "Guardian," has recently fallen when writing upon the "Aporreta" of Freemasonry. He is reviewing the "Discrepancies of Freemasonry," &c., a posthumous work of Bro. Dr. Oliver, recently published by Bro. Hogg, and though he writes a longish review, and says a good deal, it is quite clear, to use a common phrase, that he hardly knows what to make of it all. He seems to be startled at the fact that there are any discrepancies in a subject which is clearly one of those things which a "fella" can't be expected to understand. And he soon, therefore, becomes lost in the abysses of confusion worse confounded, of unsolvable doubts, of a hopeless dilemma. It is even inexplicable to him, alike, why any discrepancies should exist at all, and, above all, what those discrepancies are. So that his review ends where it begins, however skilfully worded, in haze and ignorance, in doubt and difficulty. Nor could it well be otherwise, nor need we affect to wonder at it. Indeed, it would have been even more strange had it been otherwise. For here is the reviewer not "in the swim," to use a young man's term of the day, professing to know all about everything, and to explain everything clearly to wondering clerical readers. But what does he know? What can he explain? It is quite clear that he cannot unfold, even though he be like the Delphic Oracle, what he does not understand, even on his own showing, and Dr. Oliver's own showing, what is surrounded by mystery, and wrapped up in enigma and obscurity! As a very remarkable evidence of how much any one can say about nothing at all, and of a lucid explanation of what he does not understand, we commend the "review" in the "Guardian" of the 24th May, page 695, to which we have alluded, to the careful study of our clerical and non-clerical subscribers. We do not overlook, in saying all this, that Bro. Dr. Oliver's book was intended primarily for Freemasons, not the "profanum vulgus," and that he is professedly expounding the exoteric teaching of the Order, to initiates. Therefore, he takes for granted a certain amount of existing knowledge on the subject in the minds of those who read his words, which ostensibly in the case of the reviewer, did not and could not exist. Hence the reviewer's bewilderment and bewonderment, his hopeless endeavour to unravel the twisted skein of Masonic discrepancies, his mournful confession of hopeless and helpless ignorance. Here is a grave work, issued by a respectable publisher, professing to unfold the "discrepancies of Freemasonry," and all to him is a jargon of an unknown tongue, he finds in the hoped-for solution of cavils and controversies, only assertions in which nothing is asserted, and explanations in which nothing is explained. Now we confess we sympathize with the reviewer, because we are strongly of opinion that after all the fault does not so much lie with him as these professed explanations of Masonic teaching. We have always felt, and feeling so, we have a right honestly to express our opinion, that the latitude of publication assumed by our excellent old brother Dr. Oliver, cannot Masonically be defended, or recommended to-day for imitation. It is quite clear to us that he allowed himself, for one motive or another, to issue, before a curious and reading public, a great deal concerning Freemasonry which ought never to have appeared in print at all. We all of us recognise gladly his great ability as a writer, his assiduous labours as an Archaeologist, the love he had for our good old Order, the scholarly turn he gave to all those striking disquisitions which he so carefully elaborated. But having said this, and with great admiration for our old teacher, we must not, as it appears to us, shut our eyes to the clear, if somewhat unpalatable fact, that he inaugurated and initiated a system of Masonic explanation and exposition fraught with danger to the best interests of Freemasonry, and forbidden by its normal constitutions. We mean this. He put before profanes as well as professed the inner teaching and cherished ceremonial of our Order far too unreservedly, in our humble opinion, and explained in print accessible to all, what after all is far better confined, and meant to be confined moreover, to the tyled area of the lodge-room. There can be little doubt that, as always happens, the explanatory system he introduced has had its neophytes and imitators, who have outdone their first preceptor, and have sought to disrobe Freemasonry, so to say, and leave her like some blushing nymph of old before startled and inquisitive gazers. We fear that the process has done no good, but rather harm, to the Craft. There is with some a morbid anxiety, to which it is wrong to pander, there is with others a love of notoriety which is little less than unworthy. And in the meantime our "Alma Mater" silently suffers. What the limits of Masonic publication should be is no doubt a somewhat difficult matter to decide, and it is one on which many conflicting opinions exist. We shall recur to it next week. But in the meanwhile we feel bound to say this, that while we are most favourable naturally to the diffusion of all proper Masonic light on all matters which can fairly come before the open court of the public, we deprecate the appearance of anything which is intended to be kept "in camera," and above all we fear that the open communication of details of ritual, which, solely intended for the lodge, deters many of our brethren from that support to Masonic literature which otherwise they would be disposed to accord. We have for some time past carefully guarded the pages of the "Freemason" from all purely ritual discussions, and we intend for the future to follow the same course.

HYPERCRITICISM.

We did not intend to return to this subject, but the letter of our correspondent, "Plain English," seems to call for a few more fraternal remarks from us. To say the truth, we do not quite comprehend what it is our good complaining brother is really "driving at." He says he did not wish us to write "Anglo-Saxon," but that his words were "plain Saxon English." Then he informs us that "every well informed person knows that the Anglo-Saxon was a transition language, and passed away soon after the Norman Conquest"—this we fancy will be news to Mr. Max Müller; and lastly he tells us that Carlyle's is "plain Saxon English." These then seem to be the main points of his letter, except that he still says "sub sigillo confessionis" is not a common expression, and that as for "clientèle" he admits his "ignorance of the appropriate use of it." What then has it all come to? But simply this. Our good brother like a great many of our fellows now-a-days, "Rari nantes in gurgite vasto," will try and deal with subjects which they have not carefully studied, or even laboriously thought out. For we live in an age of flippancy of assertion, and shallowness of information, be it ever remembered. We, however, who have both studied and thought out the matter, are not likely to heed even our friendly critic "Plain English," as, with all deference to him, his communications clearly evidence, that whatever may be the strength of his peculiar views, they are literally his own, and opposed to all that philology has achieved, or literary culture would suggest. When a brother gravely recommends Carlyle's verbiage as a model of plain Saxon English, he is either, as the French would say, an Anglo-Saxon "enragé," or he supposes that none of us have ever read Carlyle. Now, we have studied Carlyle; and much as we admire his originality of thought, his honesty of utterance, and his force of words, we must decline to accept either his language or his style as a model for English composition. Old Johnson was probably right when he told us that we must carefully study Addison if we wished to write the English language correctly and gracefully, and we cannot admit that Carlyle's thundering passages have in any way affected the truth of his "dictum" or offered us a better style in the place of that which is alike clear and forcible, apposite and eloquent. Still we will not be hypercritical. We agree with "Plain English," "après tout," that it is not advisable as a general rule to use foreign words when you can supply their English equivalents, but we equally feel convinced that many a heavy sentence of pure English prose is lightened materially by the contrast of some lighter foreign expression, which covers a good deal of ground, and relieves the monotony of our classic vernacular. So here the controversy ends, in all good humour. We shall be on our guard not to hurt our good brother's feelings more than we can help, and that is all we can safely promise.

THE CENTENNIAL AT PHILADELPHIA.

We are glad to be permitted to send across the wide Atlantic our hearty good wishes to our American brethren, who are now amid the world's citizens gathering together at Philadelphia. They will see a noble hall, one of the later Exhibitions which mark the depth and sincerity of the Masonic spirit in America, and they will behold the onward growth of that noble fraternity which persecution has not been able to impede nor cruel slander to destroy. It is very striking for us, even amid our material prosperity, and growing numbers at home, to realize the fact, patent and positive, that considerably over half-a-million of brethren range themselves under the sacred banners of Freemasonry in the United States, and that if this ratio of increase continues, a few years will see that number probably doubled. One of our little insular amiable weaknesses, perhaps defects, is that we do not know much of the actual condition of other countries. We take haphazard statements as indubitable verities, and the flashy assertions of some hurried traveller, too hurried to be reliable, as accurate data. Some wiseacre has said that Freemasonry in the United States, though numerically great, is not intrinsically Masonic in sentiment or work—that it is too much given to outside show, and does not remember the "weightier matters" of its unchanging law of love and active benevolence. We have denied the statement before, by whomsoever made. We deny it again to-day. That Freemasonry has some difficulties to contend with in the United States is true; that some anomalies attend its present position we are not ignorant of; but, as we have before pointed out, these arise from conflicting jurisdiction and separate Grand Lodges—all necessarily in the way of an uniform system of teaching or action. Indeed, some of the reported decisions of individual Grand Masters seem to us at times to savour more of the personal idiosyncrasies of the "Ego" than of any proper authority or Masonic teaching. But giving all this in, and let the objector make the most of it, we fancy that the Freemasons in America may fairly challenge those of other jurisdictions on most points of Masonic principle, practice, and obedience. They adhere very firmly to the lex scripta of the Order, and seek to uphold the landmarks of Freemasonry. They are endeavouring to throw around their lodge ceremonial all the attractiveness of a chaste æstheticism, and they are also seeking to raise Masonic halls everywhere, so as to give to the brethren the priceless advantages of privacy and Masonic independence. And not only this, but they are doing a great deal in the cause of Masonic charity, some no doubt more, some less, but all the facts, and they are many, which constantly come before us of the earnest benevolent spirit of American Freemasons towards their suffering brethren, or their "belongings," left in privation or penury, are very "thorough" in themselves and very pleasant to note. It often appears to us that we hardly make allowance enough, even in matters worldly, for the many difficulties attendant on the formation of that very great country, the United States of America. Equally we err often in Masonic matters. They have had harder struggles than we have had to go through in this old sheltered land of ours, and they have come out of them nobly, unscathed and undaunted, stronger and more compact than ever. All honour to them! And we to-day, knowing well the warm heart and the true Masonic feeling of our good English Craft, beg in their name to congratulate our brethren now in Philadelphia on this their Centennial, in an honest fraternal spirit, and with many hearty good wishes. Knowing what we do of many eminent Masons there, publicly and personally, as brother Masons and as valued friends, we rejoice to claim them as belonging to the great brotherhood of Freemasonry. We, if we may say so, shake them heartily by the hand to-day, as we express our hope that their Exhibition may be a complete success, and that while all may gain alike pleasure and improvement from this great peace federation of the world, our brethren in the United States will not the least enjoy their visit and be stimulated by the working of Freemasonry in Philadelphia to a deeper attachment even, if possible, to the principles and practice of our excellent Fraternity.

The preliminary works in connection with the Channel Tunnel have just commenced at Langatte, near Calais. Shafts have already been sunk to a depth of forty metres, and the work is being carried on rapidly, the labourers working night and day. A powerful pump has been set up to absorb the water that is met with in rather large quantities.

THANKSGIVING FOR THE PRINCE OF WALES' SAFE RETURN.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

It has been declared as a landmark of the Order that "Freemasonry is a peculiar system of morality veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols." Masonic writers and others equally well versed in matters appertaining to the society have proclaimed the Order to be neither of a political nor religious tendency, and that it accepts men of every diversity of creed, providing their moral qualifications are of a satisfactory character. Bearing these facts in mind, I would ask whether any critical member of the fraternity can, after reading the paragraph inserted in the last number of your journal, reconcile the statements referred to with the first proposition of our reverend brother? I think not. The demonstration would prove a dangerous precedent, and would seriously affect the foundation of the institution. Why should Masonry be identified with religious proceedings? Is it to gratify vanity, or what? The fact is, Sir, there has been for some time past a persistent desire on the part of many clerical members of the fraternity to associate Masonry with religion. Unless this growing evil is suppressed I fear that the Order in England will become as disreputable as in France. I must here mention that I am not personally acquainted with Brother the Rev. R. J. Simpson, the originator of the movement. He enjoys the reputation of being a powerful orator, and has, according to accounts furnished me, done much good in the parish of which he is rector. With regard to the second proposition in respect to the sum of £1000, it must be admitted that, being for a charitable object, it has a legitimate claim upon the consideration of Grand Lodge. But why should this amount be sent abroad when so many poor and deserving brethren at home are clamouring for assistance? It is proverbial that the English take especial care to enquire into the wants of the "interesting foreigner," whilst those of their countrymen are scarcely noticed. If the demonstration at St. Paul's Cathedral has been suggested to our rev. brother it was ill advised. If otherwise, then let us be charitable and ascribe it to an error of judgment. As Pope says:—

"'Tis with our judgments as our watches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own."

Every brother in the Masonic Order is no doubt glad that His Royal Highness has returned in safety to his native land, and sincerely wishes him long life and happiness. The Prince is unquestionably a sensible man, and is, if I mistake not, from what I have observed on one or two occasions, opposed to what is generally experienced by distinguished men—obsequious flattery.

I am, dear Sir and brother, truly and fraternally yours
London, 29th May, 1876. C. S.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

It has been suggested to me by a brother, that my proposal to meet in St. Paul's for a thanksgiving service would identify Freemasonry with a particular religious body—I venture to think that this is indeed "straining at a gnat," and to a most unpractical extent.

1. In the Provinces Provincial Lodges constantly attend service in the parish church of the town in which they meet.

2. At weddings, funerals, and other special occasions, Churchmen, Nonconformists, Roman Catholics, and Hebrews often meet without danger or inconsistency.

3. Masonry is professedly a religious institution, and should not allow any trifling or technical difficulty to stand in the way of its asserting its religious character when a great national and Masonic occasion fairly calls for solemn and united action.

4. Such a gathering for such a purpose would surely suggest those ideas of union, brotherly love, and charity which are so much needed in these days, and so consonant with the spirit and principles of our Order.

Lastly, Does not the argument I allude to, if of any weight against my proposal, tell with twofold force against Bro. Havers' proposition—for surely thousands of non-members of the Church of England would and do gladly join their fellows in her Churches on special occasions, who would not dream of giving a donation to her Church building or decoration.

It is not as a clergyman of the Church of England, but as a Mason, I have made the present proposal (with the warm approval of many and distinguished Masons), and I hope we may not lose such an opportunity of proving before the world our loyalty, our charity, and our religion.

Fraternally yours,
May, 31st, 1876.

R. J. SIMPSON.

WELCOME TO OUR GRAND MASTER.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Referring to your valuable suggestions as to a public Masonic welcome to the Most Worshipful the Grand Master of Freemasonry in England on his return from India, would it not be well that the demonstration, say at the Alexandra or Crystal Palace, or elsewhere, should be of a cosmopolitan character, and include such of the brethren as have at least attained the P.M. Degree—who, although non-subscribing members to a symbolic lodge in this country, are nevertheless de jure Masons at heart in the fullest acceptance of the Order,

I am, fraternally yours,

I. M. L., P.M., &c., &c.

HYPERCRITICISM.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

A recent issue of your journal contains a leader on "Hypercriticism," which is called forth by my letter signed "A Stickler for Plain English." It misrepresents my views on one or two points. I did not recommend the use of "Anglo-Saxon" by English people of the present day. It would have been nonsensical, because every well-informed person knows that the Anglo-Saxon was a transition language, and passed away soon after the Norman Conquest. What I did say was suggested by your expression, "our Anglo-Saxon Brotherhood." And accordingly I was led to mention my views about the propriety of using "plain Saxon English." I am aware that what you say is correct about our English language comprising a mixture of other languages. But I still maintain a long-held opinion that our present use is degenerating. Note our English Bible. With a few trifling exceptions the diction is suited to the age in which we live. Everybody knows that our language undergoes constant change. I observe it every year. The very spelling of simple words, and even of proper names becomes changed. But my notion is that in modern journalism we often find ourselves in a blaze of newly-made English. The other day I read in a leading journal an account of the Prince's arrival in England, wherein it was stated that an address was illuminated on vellum (the italics are my own). This substitute for illuminated might be the error of the writer, or perhaps of the printer only. I cannot agree with you that the Latin phrase "sub sigillo confessionis" is ordinarily used by modern writers. I identify it entirely with a certain system of the Roman Catholic Church. I admit my ignorance as to the appropriate use of the word "clientèle;" of course anybody could ascertain its meaning by turning to a French dictionary. I confess I am not a constant reader of Carlyle's works, nor do I always comprehend the views of that mystical writer. But it is plain Saxon English. So also is the language used by an eminent clergyman now deceased, the Rev. Frederic Denison Maurice. In each of these authors I read what is acceptable to

THE FREEMASONS' TAVERN.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I notice in the agenda paper of Grand Lodge a communication respecting the Freemasons' Tavern. I should like to know what connexion there is between tavern interest and Freemasonry. Are the funds of Grand Lodge dependent on the success of a public tavern? Is it not time that Freemasonry stood alone, independent of any such questionable income?

Yours fraternally,

P. M.

MRS. FARNFIELD AND GRAND LODGE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

May I ask through your columns if the relatives of the widow of our late Bro. Farnfield are cognisant of the fact that Bro. H. Green has given notice of motion "That the sum of £100 be voted to Widow Farnfield as an annuity during the pleasure of Grand Lodge?"

Yours fraternally,

ENQUIRER.

A SUGGESTION.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The reading of a letter in the "Freemason" of May 20th, headed "Officers' Jewels," and giving a very minute description of some antique jewels in the possession of a lodge at Sheerness, suggested to me how entertaining to the readers of the "Masonic Magazine" would be the publication of full-sized engravings, with a short history of all such jewel-, tokens, and medals pertaining to Masonry.

Apologising for thus troubling you, I remain, yours fraternally,

THOS. FRANCIS, 804.

LAST MEETING OF GREAT PRIORY.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Permit me to express my great disappointment in seeing no report (as yet) in your columns of the meeting of the Great Priory of England and Wales which was held in London on the 12th ult. Surely many K.T.'s subscribe to the "Freemason" who would like to see reports of the doings of the Great Officers of our Order in its columns. And surely, also, you are supplied with or are allowed to furnish such reports.

Yours fraternally,

A PAST PROVINCIAL GREAT OFFICER.

FRENCH LODGES IN LONDON.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the April number of the "Monde Maçonnique," at page 386, I find these words:—"Avis aux Maçons Voyageurs. Les tenues régulières de la loge Française établie à Londres sous le titre les 'Philadelphes et la Concorde Réunion,' ont lieu tous les Mercredis à 9 heures du soir 6, Charles-street, Middlesex Hospital, au Spread Eagle."

I wish, therefore, to ask through your columns, 1st. Is this lodge a regularly warranted lodge? and 2ndly, is it warranted by the Grand Lodge of England, or the Grand Orient of France?

I am, yours fraternally,

AN ENGLISH READER OF THE
"MONDE MAÇONNIQUE."

[Perhaps some French brother can answer this.—Ed.]

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

By some curious mistake in your report of the Phoenix Lodge on the 27th ult., you have inserted the name of your reporter, Bro. Massey, as having been installed W.M. of that lodge. Bro. J. D. Massey who now holds that position, is I believe, no relation whatever to your representative, who was not present on that occasion, but as you are aware, your journal was represented, as it has been in many London and provincial lodges for some three years past, by

Yours truly and fraternally,

T. C. WALLS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you kindly answer the following questions in your next issue? 1. Is a present S.W. of a colonial lodge entitled to visit Grand Lodge by virtue of his office? 2. If so, is an introduction necessary from any other member of Grand Lodge, or how is he to obtain admission?

I remain, Sir and brother, yours fraternally,
Dover, 30th May, 1876.

[He will require a voucher, but if returned to Grand Lodge as S.W. of his lodge he has no doubt a seat in Grand Lodge.—Ed.]

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

The following is the agenda of business to be transacted in Grand Lodge, Wednesday, 7th June, 1876:—

The minutes of the Quarterly Communication of the 1st March for confirmation.

The minutes of the Grand Festival of the 26th April for confirmation.

The M.W. Grand Master will make an announcement with reference to certain alterations and additions which it is the pleasure of His Royal Highness to make in relation to the charity jewel.

Election of members of the board of General Purposes.

Election of members of the Colonial Board.

Election of members for the Committee of management of the "Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons."

Report of the Lodge of Benevolence for the last quarter, in which are recommendations for the following grants, viz.:—

The widow of a brother of St. Bartholomew's Lodge, No. 696, Wednesday ...	£50 0 0
The widow of a brother of the Lodge of Nine Muses, No. 235, London ...	50 0 0
A brother of the De Grey and Ripon Lodge, No. 905, London ...	100 0 0
The daughter of a late brother of St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 222, London ...	50 0 0
The daughters of a late brother, of Royal Forest Lodge, No. 401, Slaidburn ...	50 0 0
A brother of the Star and Hope Lodge, No. 520, Agra, Bengal ...	50 0 0

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.
The Board of General Purposes have to report as follows:—

Several questions bearing on the interpretation of the Book of Constitutions have been, during the past quarter, brought under the notice of the board, which, having been duly considered, have been satisfactorily dealt with, no specific report to Grand Lodge upon or in connection with them becoming necessary. Some important matters connected with the buildings of the society have been dealt with by the Premises Committee, and approved by the board.

The question of a re-arrangement of the seating accommodation for the brethren in Grand Lodge has received considerable attention, resulting in the addition of upwards of one hundred seats, which, in the opinion of the board, is the utmost that can be done in the existing area.

The board have been for a long period engaged in correspondence with the lessees of Freemasons' Tavern with reference to the question of rent, and in result recommend to Grand Lodge that if a thoroughly responsible tenant or tenants can be found by the Tavern Company (the present Lessees), who would be willing to take over the lease, Grand Lodge should assent to a reduction of the rent of the tavern from £1500, at which it at present stands, to £1200 per annum, and to such re-adjustment of the term as may appear fair and reasonable, and that the Board of General Purposes be empowered to negotiate and act accordingly.

The President will therefore move to that effect.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON, President.

At the meeting on the 16th May, after the ordinary business was concluded, it was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that the best thanks of the members of the board are eminently merited by the President for the great attention he has paid to the duties of his office, for the admirable manner in which he has discharged them, and the great courtesy and kindness he has on all occasions evinced to his colleagues, and they are therefore fraternally tendered to him.

(Signed) PETER DE LANDE LOGG, Vice-President.

To the report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 12th day of May, shewing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £6172 12s. 8d.; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £96 15s.

Appeal of Bro. W. C. Rowe, W. Master of the Lodge of Truth, No. 944, Bombay, against the decision of the R. W. District Grand Master of Bombay, censuring the lodge for having passed and raised a brother at one and the same meeting.

The papers relating to this appeal will be in the Grand Secretary's office till the meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the brethren during office hours.

The report of a special general meeting of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, held at Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, the 25th day of April, 1876, will be laid before Grand Lodge, and the following proposed alterations in the rules which were then agreed to will, in accordance with the laws of the institution, be submitted for the approval of Grand Lodge.

That Law 4, page 12, be altered by substituting the figures "£40" for £36, and that Law 4, page 13, be also altered by substituting the figures "£32" for £28.

The laws as altered now read thus:—

"The amount of the annuity shall be £40 per annum," and "The amount of the annuity shall be £32 per annum."

The annual report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, dated the 19th of May, 1876, will be laid before Grand Lodge.

PROPOSED MOTIONS.

By R. W. Bro. John Havers, P.G.W.:

That this Grand Lodge desires to return its humble and hearty thanks to the Almighty Architect of the Universe for the safe return to his native land of their beloved Grand Master, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and, in memory of that happy event, determine to devote the sum of £2000 in aid of the restoration of the two churches which are most intimately connected with the history of Freemasonry in England.

Resolved therefore—

(1st.) That a sum of £1000 be granted from the Fund for General Purposes towards the restoration of St. Paul's Cathedral, and the like sum of £1000 from the same fund towards the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey.

(2nd.) That a committee, to consist of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, the Grand Treasurer, Grand Registrar, President of the Board of General Purposes, and the Grand Superintendent of Works, be and is hereby appointed, and such committee (after conference with the Restoration Committee of the respective churches) shall decide in what manner the gifts can best be made so as to carry out the wishes of Grand Lodge.

By W. Bro. Benjamin Head, P.G.D.:

That the sum of £70 be given from the Fund of General Purposes; that the money be placed in the hands of the Secretary of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, to supply the inmates of the asylum at Croydon with coals during the winter months.

By Bro. Henry Greene, P.M. 256:

That the death of the late Bro. William Farnfield, Past Assistant Grand Secretary, having left his widows and two daughters in very restricted circumstances, he having been unable—in consequence of the expenses incidental to the bringing up of his numerous family (ten)—to make suitable provision for them, that an annuity of £100 per annum be granted to Mrs. Farnfield during the pleasure of Grand Lodge.

By V.W. Bro. the Rev. Robert James Simpson, P.G. Chaplain:

Resolved—

(1.) That this Grand Lodge desires to record its humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God for the preservation and safe return of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master of English Freemasons, and that with a view to testifying to this loyal and devout feeling in a more united, public, and solemn manner, this Grand Lodge resolves (with the approval of the Most Worshipful the Grand Master and with the kind permission of the proper authorities) to hold on some convenient day a service of praise and thanksgiving in St. Paul's Cathedral.

(2.) That as a thank offering on this occasion this Grand Lodge votes from its fund the sum of £1000, which, together with the offerings made at the service in St. Paul's, shall be devoted to the benefit of such charitable object in India as may be recommended by the Most Worshipful Grand Master.

In the event of the above resolutions being passed,

Resolved—

(3.) That the following brethren constitute a special Committee to carry out the Resolutions, viz.:—

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Protracted suffering of any kind soon wears down the strongest frame, and weakens the most determined spirit, as the dropping of water will in time wear away the hardest granite, so will persistent pain wear away the powers of the strongest mind. Let none, therefore, who are afflicted with chronic, rheumatic, or neuralgic pains, or old painful sores, and ulcerations, which render their life miserable, yield to despair, but give these inestimable twin remedies a steady and fair trial. Many who have done so (having previously tried "almost everything" without relief) have been delighted and amazed at the change for the better, which has been the result of their use. They are invaluable in skin diseases.—ADVT.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

A RAILWAY ACCIDENT to any particular person is a (theoretically) remote contingency; but as it may happen, as a matter of fact, the very next journey undertaken, and as the sum at which it will be seen the risk (in a pecuniary sense) may be extinguished FOR LIFE is almost absurdly small, it is not too much to say that the insurance is an OBVIOUS DUTY in the case of most travellers. £1000 if killed, with liberal allowances if injured, for a single payment of £3, covering the whole life. UNITED GRAND LODGE.

The Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge of English Freemasons was held on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall. The brethren began to assemble at a very early hour, even before the doors were opened, although that event always occurs an hour before the Grand Master takes the chair. It was evident that some excitement prevailed among the Craft, for the brethren mustered in large numbers, and completely filled the body of the hall. When the procession of Grand Officers, accompanying Lord Leigh, who was to preside, entered, the dais was the only portion of the hall unoccupied. An impression had prevailed that the Prince of Wales would be present, and this would account for the presence of many of the brethren. But the principal cause of the large gathering was the notices of motion on the agenda paper for the devoting £3000 to various objects as a thankoffering for the safe return of the Grand Master to England. A fortnight ago information was given in the daily press, as well as in the "Freemason," of an intention on the part of Bros. Havers and Simpson to move that three sums of £1000 each should be given to the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, and in charity in India. Hence the large attendance.

Among the brethren present were Lord Leigh, Major Ramsay, District G.M. Punjab, D.G.M.; Earl of Donoughmore, G.S.W.; the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, G.J.W.; Sir H. Edwards, Earl of Shrewsbury, Lord Tenterden, Richard Giddy, the new District G.M. of Griqualand, South Africa; John Havers, Æ. J. McIntyre, Q.C.; J. B. Monckton, John Hervey, Rev. Sir J. Warren Hayes, Rev. S. R. Wigram, Rev. C. J. Martyn, Rev. R. J. Simpson, Sir Michael Costa, H. D. Sandeman, Rev. C. W. Arnold, G.C.; Sir F. M. Williams, S. Rawson, F. Pattison, Rev. T. F. Ravenshaw, Rev. C. R. Davy, Brackstone Baker, C. Hutton Gregory, W. White, Captain Platt, Colonel Creaton, Dr. Jabez Hogg, R. W. Stewart, E. S. Snell, Benjamin Head, H. Browse, Edmund Phillips, W. E. Gumbleton, C. A. Murton, Percy Leith, S. L. Tomkins, F. P. Morrell, R. Havers, R. J. Spiers, F. P. Cockerell, Dr. R. Williams, Alderman Hadley, Joshua Nunn, Hyde Pullen, J. Mason, James T. Collins, Wilhelm Kuhe, Sir Albert Woods, Garter, P.G.W., and G.D.C.; Col. Birchall, G.D.; T. W. Boord, M.P., G.D.; E. J. Barrow, G.D.; J. M. Case, G.D.; J. E. Saunders, H. J. P. Dumas, J. C. Parkinson, J. A. Rucker, I. Fenn, S. G. Homfray, W. F. Nettleship, Rev. Edward Moore, James Glaisher, Robert Gray, A. J. Filer, C. A. Cottebrune, T. Adams, W. Ough, S. G. Foxall, John Coutts, E. P. Albert, Joseph Smith, James Brett, and John Wright.

Grand Lodge having been formally opened, and the minutes read by Grand Secretary and confirmed,

The Acting Grand Master rose and said: Brethren, I have now orders to make an announcement, which I will do in a very few words. Certain charges of complaints having been preferred against the District Grand Master of Trinidad, the Grand Secretary, by command of the M.W. Pro G.M., requested an explanation from the District Grand Master on several occasions. No explanation whatever having been given, the M.W. Pro Grand Master superseded the District Grand Master, and intimated to the lodges in Trinidad that his powers had ceased.

Grand Secretary then, by command of Lord Leigh, read the following announcement with reference to certain alterations and additions, which it is the pleasure of H.R.H. the Grand Master to make in relation to the charity jewel:

A brother having served the office of Steward to any two of the following institutions, viz., the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, has the privilege of wearing the charity jewel, provided he shall at the time of so serving have personally subscribed, as to each of the two Masonic schools, 10 guineas at the least, and as to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, £10 at the least. The jewel shall be suspended to a ribbon of one and a half inches in width, the colours of which shall be white and blue, white and red, blue and red, or white, blue, and red respectively, according to the institutions for which the brother has served the Stewardships as above, namely, white for the Institution for Girls, blue for the Institution for Boys, red for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.

A brother being, according to the foregoing regulation, entitled to wear the charity jewel, and who may have served the office of Steward to any other institution a second time, may wear a clasp attached to the ribbon, and an additional clasp for each occasion of having served the office of Steward to any of the institutions, but in no case shall he be entitled to wear such clasp or clasps unless he shall on each of those occasions at the time of serving such Stewardship have personally subscribed a like amount as above named.

A Vice-President of any one or more of the Masonic Institutions being otherwise entitled to the charity jewel, may wear attached to the ribbon immediately above the jewel a rosette of the colour or colours before mentioned, or in combination, according to the institution or institutions of which he is a Vice-President.

A Vice-Patron of any one or more of the Masonic Institutions, being otherwise entitled to the charity jewel, may wear the same suspended from a ribbon around his neck, of the like width and colour or colours respectively, or in combination, according to the institution or institutions of which he is a Vice-Patron.

Every brother who shall serve the office of Steward at any anniversary festival of any one of the Masonic charities as the representative of some provincial or country lodge, who shall personally attend such festivals, and shall bring up thereto contributions amounting to not less than 100 guineas, shall have the same rights and privileges as to wearing the charity jewel or clasp as if he had himself contributed the sum of 10 guineas whilst serving such stewardship.

No charity jewel, clasp, ribbon, or rosette shall be obtained, except through the office of the Grand Secretary, to whom the Secretaries of the respective institutions shall after their respective annual festivals hand lists of the names of the brothers entitled to the jewel or decorations hereinbefore authorised.

The election of members to serve on the Board of General Purposes and the Colonial Board were then taken; and at the close of the evening the following were found to have been chosen:—

BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.—MASTERS.—Bros. E. March, G.S.L.; John Brockett Sorrell, 176; Henry Bishop, 66; John Gibson, 259; Henry A. Dubois, 1325; Alfred Richards, 40; Robert Freke Gould, 92; Rev. Wm. Taylor Jones, 1601. PAST MASTERS.—Bros Peter De L. Long, 1150; Daniel Betts, 1351; Henry C. Levander, 632; Charles F. Hogard, 205; John F. Huggins, 18; Samuel Poynter, 902.

COLONIAL BOARD.—Bros. James Brett, 177; Erasmus Wilson, 2; Brackstone Baker, 21; Francis Bennoch, 1; Samuel Poynter, 902; Griffiths Smith, 569; Robert Freke Gould, 92.

The under-mentioned brethren were nominated at the General Committee on the 24th of May to be on the Committee of Management for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, and no others were named:—Bros. James Brett, P.M. 177; Charles A. Cottebrune, P.M. 733; Thomas Cubitt, P.M. 157; John A. Farnfield, P.M. 256; Charles F. Hogard, P.M. 205; M. Levy, P.M. 188; John G. Stevens, P.M. 554; Alfred H. Tattershall, P.M. 140; Henry George Warren, P.M., G.S.L.; and Thos. Wm. White, P.M. 21.

The recommendations of the Board of Benevolence were severally put and agreed to.

The following Report of the Board of General Purposes was then presented:—

Several questions bearing on the interpretation of the Book of Constitutions have been during the past quarter brought under the notice of the board, which, having been duly considered, have been satisfactorily dealt with, no specific report to Grand Lodge upon or in connection with them becoming necessary. Some important matters connected with the buildings of the Society have been dealt with by the Premises Committee and approved by the board.

The question of a re-arrangement of the seating of the brethren in Grand Lodge has received considerable attention, resulting in the addition of upwards of one hundred seats, which in the opinion of the board is the utmost that can be done in the existing area.

The board have been for a long period engaged in correspondence with the Lessees of Freemasons' Tavern with reference to the question of rent, and in result recommend to Grand Lodge that if a thoroughly responsible tenant or tenants can be found by the Tavern Company (the present Lessees), who would be willing to take over the lease, Grand Lodge should assent to a reduction of the rent of the tavern from £1500, at which it at present stands, to £1200 per annum, and to such re-adjustment of the term as may appear fair and reasonable, and that the Board of General Purposes be empowered to negotiate and act accordingly.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C.,
16th May, 1876.

At the meeting on the 16th May, after the ordinary business was concluded, it was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that the best thanks of the members of the board are eminently merited by the President for the great attention he has paid to the duties of his office, for the admirable manner in which he has discharged them, and the great courtesy and kindness he has on all occasions evinced to his colleagues, and they are therefore fraternally tendered to him.

(Signed) PETER DE LANDE LONG,
Vice-President.

To the Report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 12th day of May last, showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £6172 12s. 8d.; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £96 15s.

On the motion of Bro. Monckton, the Report was taken as read, and it was afterwards agreed to be received and entered on the minutes.

Bro. Monckton, President of the Board of General Purposes, said he wished to say a few words as to the recommendation of the board contained in the last paragraph in their report, and he should move that that paragraph be approved. He did not think that the Grand Lodge would require that all that had taken place between the committee on the one hand and the board on the other should be made public, or give in detail what had taken place by the Board of General Purposes in their interviews with the directors. He might say that it was notorious that the Tavern Company was not a success, and little need be said on that point, but he thought he might say for his colleagues on the board, that it was their opinion that it would be better for the interests of the Craft if the tavern was in their hands rather than in that of a company. In the present state of the Tavern Company they asked them what was to be done to enable them to find a tenant, but the board had no power to modify their terms unless it was done with the consent of the Grand Lodge, and after giving the subject the fullest consideration they recommended that if a tenant was to be found that the Grand Lodge should consent to a reduction of the rent from £1500 to £1200 per annum. In making that recommendation the Board were of opinion that the adoption of it would be for the interest of the Craft.

Bro. Raynham Stewart said he considered the best way to deal with this matter was to leave it in the hands of the Board of General Purposes, and he had great pleasure in seconding the motion.

Bro. Mason said he felt sure that many of the brethren must have been taken by surprise at the proposed reduction of the rent of the tavern, as a reduction of it had taken place three years ago. He should have been glad if he could have supported the proposition, but they were not there for the gratification of their own feelings, but to legislate for the interests of the Craft. They were the custodians of the property, not for themselves, but for the benefit of others. He contended that if the Tavern Company failed to make it profitable it was through their mismanagement, and because that was so were they to be called upon to reduce their rent? It was a matter of notoriety that the tavern was not properly conducted. (Loud cries of "Time, time.") It was all very well for brethren to cry out "Time," but this was a matter of great importance, and the Book of Constitutions said that a brother was not to be interrupted when he was speaking. If their tavern was properly conducted it would be one of the most prosperous in London. He opposed the resolution, and moved as an amendment that the report be referred back for further consideration, and that it be brought up at the next quarterly communication.

Some delay occurred before a seconder was found, and after a few words from Bro. Binckes the amendment was negatived, and the original motion was put and agreed to by a large majority.

The Grand Registrar (Bro. Æ. J. McIntyre) then moved the adoption of the following paragraph of the report:—

"At the meeting on the 16th May, after the ordinary business was concluded, it was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that the best thanks of the members of the board are eminently merited by the President for the great attention he has paid to the duties of his office, for the admirable manner in which he has discharged them, and the great courtesy and kindness he has on all occasions evinced to his colleagues, and they are therefore fraternally tendered to him."

The motion having been seconded, it was put and carried unanimously.

Bro. Monckton said he felt that he could best express his gratitude to the Grand Lodge by saying as little as possible, but he felt deeply grateful for their kindness to him upon all occasions.

The Report of a Special General Meeting of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, held at Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, the 25th day of April, 1876, was before Grand Lodge, and the following proposed alterations in the rules, which were then agreed to, were, in accordance with the laws of the Institution, submitted for the approval of Grand Lodge:—

That Law 4, page 12, be altered by substituting the figures "£40" for £36, and that Law 4, page 13, be also altered by substituting the figures "£32" for £28.

The laws as altered now read thus:—

"The amount of the annuity shall be £40 per annum," and

"The amount of annuity shall be £32 per annum."

The report and alterations were put and agreed to.

Bro. McIntyre said there was an appeal of Bro. W. C. Rowe, W.M., of the Lodge of Truth, No. 944, Bombay, against the decision of the R.W. District Grand Master of Bombay, censuring the lodge for having passed and raised a brother at one and the same meeting. This appeal was of a rather curious character, as there could be no doubt that the District Grand Master was right in his decision. The facts of the case appeared to be that the W. Master of the lodge was absent from his lodge in India, and the Senior Warden was a Mason made under the Scotch Constitution, under which it was not uncommon—in former times more than at present—for more than one degree to be conferred in the same night. He gave a direction to the J.W. to apply to the District Grand Master for a dispensation for the two degrees to be conferred on the same night. The District Grand Master happened also to be absent, and it so occurred that his deputy was also a Scotch Mason, and he, acting on his knowledge of Scotch Masonry, granted the dispensation. In the event it happened that on the evening in question there was no P.M. of the lodge present, but there was a P.M. from another lodge, and he, acting on the dispensation, conferred the degrees upon the same night. Somehow or other a report of the proceedings was communicated to a Masonic paper that is published in India, and in the notes and queries in that paper it was asked whether this was not a rather extraordinary proceeding. I do not know that a document was sent home, but it came to be known in England, and our worthy Grand Secretary, who is always taking care that nothing wrong should be done in Masonry, heard of it, and a communication was made to India. On its receipt, the District Grand Master for Bombay acted very properly; he called attention to the irregularity that had occurred, and stated that under all the circumstances he censured the lodge for their irregularity, censured the brethren who had taken part in the proceedings, and warned them not to do it again. In the meantime the S.W. resigned his office under the English Constitution, and so escaped censure. Now, against this censure there was an appeal, on the ground that those censured were not the only persons to blame and that those others had not been censured. Bro. McIntyre concluded by suggesting that the appeal should be dismissed, and that the decision of the District Grand Master should be confirmed, which was done accordingly.

Bro. Havers: During a period of nearly 40 years, 30 of which I have spent in the active exercise of the duties of Grand Lodge, many times I have addressed you, many times pleasantly, often on difficult occasions, and though I have lately felt disposed to leave the discussions here to younger and abler hands I find that there is still an occasion on which I must claim the privilege of addressing you. If ever there was an occasion in which I spoke with confidence this is the occasion, because the subject of my remarks will find its way to the heart of every man present. I beg to propose that this Grand Lodge desires to return its humble and hearty thanks to the Almighty Architect of the Universe for the safe return to his native land of their beloved Grand Master, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and in memory of that happy event, determine to devote the sum of £2000 in aid of the restoration of the two churches which are the most intimately connected with the history of Freemasonry in England. I therefore beg to move that the sum of £1000 should be voted for the restoration of St. Paul's, and a like sum of £1000 to the restoration of St. Alban's. (No, no.) I am sorry to observe those objections. They show that some have come here with a foregone conclusion, but I will ask those brethren to permit me to state my arguments, which, with all modesty, I will endeavour to make clear. None will doubt that we have abundant cause of rejoicing in the safe return of our beloved Grand Master, but if we have occasion to return thanks for the safe return of the Prince of Wales, we have abundant reason to return thanks for the blessings which have been vouchsafed to our Order. Any one who will compare Masonry now with Masonry twenty years ago cannot fail to be struck with the result. Our charities are flourishing beyond the expectation of the most sanguine of us all; we have not a shilling of debt, we have an increasing income of £12,000, and an expenditure of less than £6000; we have, therefore, abundant means to assist on a great public occasion. Now, no doubt the grant of £2000 is a large outlay to make to bodies that are not strictly Masonic, Masonry never lost and never will lose by stepping out of the beaten track. Some say that we ought to devote this to our charities. The success of the charities is secure; whatever they have had, they are having, and will continue to have. The welfare of our Order, and the success of our charities is our first consideration, but it is unwise to restrict our charities to these sole objects. We should teach the outside world that Masonic charity can go outside of Masonry. I think it is a wise and politic thing for Grand Lodge to step out of the beaten track, and I think this a grand opportunity for doing so. Now, it may be asked, what claims have St. Paul's and St. Alban's upon us? And why should we give our funds for denominational purposes? I will endeavour to show you. St. Alban, like him whom we have all represented, lost his life, as you know, from his fidelity to his order. He was the builder of that great Abbey that bears his name, probably one of the most beautiful structures in the country. To most of us St. Alban's is familiar. To those who have not seen it I would say you could not better spend a summer afternoon than in viewing the grand work I have mentioned. All St. Alban's history is associated with our most cherished traditions, but it is not because he gave his life to save the life of his guest that we principally cherish his memory; it is because he was the founder of the first Grand Lodge of England. St. Paul's brings us down to a much later date. It was built, or rather rebuilt, by our most illustrious Grand Master Sir Christopher Wren. You know it is one of the greatest ornaments of the metropolis; and probably you know, too, that the interior of the building has never been completed according to his designs. I may mention, incidentally, that the identical maul and working tools that he used are now used in his own lodge, the Lodge of Antiquity. I am told that this vote if carried would be for a denominational object. Outside these walls I hate the term "denominational." It is not denominational; as well might you say that Grand Lodge is denominational, because the plain truth is this, Masons are of no special religion, they honour every man's religion and interfere with none. I ask you to vote this money to these churches because I think that there could not be a better thank-offering to God; I ask you only because these are historical ornaments which are inseparably and intimately connected with our honoured Institution. Let us look even to our neighbours on the continent; be their head king or emperor, or the government republican, they devote a sum annually to the restoration of a cathedral. Have our provincial brethren considered this objection when they restored St. Mary, Redcliffe, or Gloucester Cathedral? They did not consider that their gifts were for denominational purposes. There are some, who know nothing of us, who charge us with being of no religion. I need not waste a moment's words upon these. Every Mason who hears me knows it is utterly untrue. I will venture to say on my own behalf, and I think I may say on yours, that Masonry is a help to religion. I ask you to accept my resolution at the end of a long Masonic life, as I feel assured it will make us stand better in the eyes of the world; it will induce men of higher influence and greater intelligence—(no!)—to join our Order. Let us pass this resolution in justice to ourselves; let us do it in reverence for our predecessors—why should you allow their cherished works to languish and decay. We never close our social gatherings without wishing for our poor or distressed brethren a safe return to their native country if they desire it. How much more then should we show our gratitude when the safe return of our beloved Grand Master has been granted us. It is a grand opportunity which we should not neglect as a graceful expression of our feelings towards him, and also of a substantial expression of thanks to Almighty God for a blessing received. Before concluding I may mention that I have submitted this resolution for the Grand Master's approval, and I am permitted to say that it received his hearty and entire approval. There is one more subject before I sit down that I must allude to. If this is to be done it should be done with unanimity. I am sorry to find that this is not likely to be the case. I take occasion to inform my brethren that my resolution and the last one on the paper do not run together. I could not expect to carry them both. My resolution stands on its own merits. It is a right thing to do, and this is a right time to do it; and I trust that by your vote this evening you will add a jewel to that diadem of loyalty which has ever been our proudest boast.

Bro. Gould, W.M. No. 92: I beg to second the resolutions which have just been proposed by R.W. Bro. Havers; resolutions so good in themselves and urged in so able a manner, as to induce me to bespeak the indulgence of Grand Lodge in trespassing even for a few moments upon its attention. It may, I think, be taken as a fact that we are all agreed as to the fitness of voting a sum of money, though a divergence of views may exist as to the purposes to which it should be applied. Without again going into subjects which have been so ably and so exhaustively discussed by Bro. Havers, I may be allowed to say that, in my judgment, there could be no more appropriate way of celebrating our Grand Master's safe return than by adopting the resolutions now before Grand Lodge. The purposes proposed are simple and unostentatious. No elaborate machinery is required to carry them into effect; but they would demonstrate most forcibly the expression of our gratitude to the Giver of all Good, our fealty and attachment to our Grand Master, and our desire to illustrate those sentiments by aiding in the restoration of two national edifices, whose histories, as Bro. Havers has so eloquently shown, are inseparably connected with that of our Order, and who, in a great measure, own their very existence to the labours and exertions of our ancient brethren.

Bro. Simpson rose and said: I take the liberty of rising at this early stage of the proceedings in order that I may lay before this Grand Lodge a few remarks on the very complicated state of affairs that we find ourselves in at present. It is very evident that the whole of the brethren present cannot support the motion of Bro. Havers. Seeing, therefore, that such a motion should be unanimous, I beg to state that I withdraw the motion I have put on the paper. I am sure Most W.G. Master, that I am not trusting too much to the charitable indulgence of my brethren when I say that they will give me credit for two things which I will explain—one is an honest expression of an opinion, and the other is the upholding the character and dignity of our Order. It was with such motives that I ventured to propose the motion that is upon the paper. I wrote to Bro. Havers for his opinion, and I am sure that our Deputy Grand Master if he were here would state that he approved of it. He said to me, Bro. Simpson, I like your idea, and you are at liberty to state this. Thus it was made, but feeling that the passing of a resolution on such a subject should be unanimous, I withdrew it. I propose an amendment. I propose that the words from "the Prince of Wales" be omitted, and the following words be inserted:—That a special committee be appointed to consider the best mode in which this feeling can be perpetuated in some practicable and charitable form, and to report thereon to this Grand Lodge. This would give time for thought and for the ventilation of the many excellent suggestions which no doubt various brethren will desire to make. I will not yield to Bro. Havers in zeal for the Craft—and after 25 years I ought to know its general principles. I will not yield to him in zeal for the religious body to which, out of this lodge, I belong. If Bro. Havers's motion pass to-night, if he is able to throw an archæological veil over the motion he has made, if he can do this, it gives a blow to Masonry from which it will never recover. I say that it will involve us in questions which we desire to keep entirely distinct from Freemasonry, and that it will be employed in the future to our detriment. If brethren wish to benefit the cathedrals let them come out like men, or like churchmen, and do it; but Grand Lodge represents the whole of Masonry, and, therefore, dipping into its funds for outside purposes is, in a measure, a breach of trust. I give Bro. Havers credit for the highest motives in proposing this motion. I cannot but feel that his archæological knowledge and his reverence for and desire for the restoration of beautiful edifices is very praiseworthy, but can these objects be compared with good scholarships for our Boys' School—(cheers)—and a Prince of Wales wing for our old men—(loud and continued cheering)—or some other proposal better than my Indian project. I shall be perfectly ready, for I do not stand upon the fact that because I propose a thing it is the best thing that can be done, but I do think that this amendment will give us time, brethren, and Bro. Havers may feel that we shall not lose unanimity, and if we are able to come to some conclusion which will be satisfactory to the whole Craft, our time will not have been lost.

Bro. Baxter Langley rose to second the amendment of Bro. Simpson, and in doing so remarked that, giving full credit for excellent motives to Bro. Havers, he did not think he had proposed the best method of commemorating the return to this country of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales; and he thought that if noble Sir Christopher Wren were present he would say "Not St. Paul's, not St. Alban's, but the charities of our institution."

Bro. Hutton Gregory said that Bro. Simpson, by this amendment, instead of introducing the dove had thrown down the apple of discord. He was quite sure the meeting was unanimous up to a certain point, beyond which they were divided in opinion whether or not it should take the form of charity. He believed that something in the monumental style would be more appropriate; and he instanced, as a precedent, the statue of the Duke of Sussex, which stands on a niche behind the throne, which was executed 30 years ago in honour of the M.W.G.M. of the day.

A brother rose and suggested that, for the sake of unanimity, Bro. Havers should be asked to divide his motion into two parts, so that the first part, on which they were all agreed, might be passed unanimously, and they might then proceed to consider the remainder as a separate resolution.

Bro. Baxter Langley suggested that as a great many Masons were Jews, these brethren were not likely to concur in a vote for ecclesiastical purposes.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart reminded the lodge that they had to consider whose money and funds they were dealing with as members of Grand Lodge. They were the funds of all creeds, and Grand Lodge had no right to appropriate them to our own. He suggested that the question be referred to a committee.

Cries of "time" having been frequently repeated.

Bro. Binckes expressed his surprise that in the discussion of so important a question the cry of "time" should be raised at nine o'clock in the evening. He said he would not follow Bro. Havers's argument, but would remind him that the matters he had referred to were only traditional. He should not support the original motion. Bro. Havers had tried to carry Grand Lodge with him by saying that by passing his resolution they would be doing something towards erecting and repairing God's house. But he would remind them that churches had been built by most irreligious men. He would like the vote to stop at £2000, leaving it open in what direction the sum should be distributed.

Bro. Havers replying to the observation that had been made said that he could scarcely have credited that he should not have been allowed to read his resolution without interruption, and animadverted upon the conduct of the brethren who had caused the interruption. "Bro. Simpson had said that if this resolution were carried it would give a blow from which Freemasonry would never recover, but, he would ask, had it so suffered in past times? They had been asked to give the money to the charities, he answered, do, in heaven's name, give twice as much to your charities, but do let us for once act like high-minded Masons, and step out of the line to do a graceful act. Do not lay yourselves open to the charge of keeping your charity all to yourselves. It may be a good sort of charity that begins at home, but not that stops there. He had been asked to withdraw his motion; as a member of Grand Lodge he could not do so. He had been asked to divide his motion, to stop at the preamble, and it would be carried; of course it would, for that would be an empty vote which would cost them nothing.

The M.W. Acting Grand Master: Before I put this to the meeting I must be permitted to express, occupying this chair for the first time since the return of the G.M., occupying it in the unavoidable absence of the Pro-Grand Master, from causes with which we all sympathise, I must be permitted to express my own gratitude in connection with the gratitude of every member of the Craft of the province over which I have had the honour and pleasure of presiding for twenty years, and of every Mason in the United Kingdom to the Great Architect of the Universe having spared our Grand Master to return to this country after the most successful visit to India, where it appears to everybody that he gained the esteem of every individual with whom he has come in contact. I hope that that visit to our great Indian empire will create above all things that unity and brotherly love which we, who are Freemasons, should always desire to maintain with our brethren in India. I have now to put the amendment as proposed by Bro. Simpson and seconded by Bro. Langley.

The amendment was carried by a large majority, but there being some dissatisfaction expressed, cries of "Divide!" were raised, but the division only made the result the more apparent.

After some further remarks of no real importance from brethren who had already spoken,

W. Bro. Benj. Head's motion "That the sum of £70 be given from the Fund of General Purposes; that the money be placed in the hands of the Secretary of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, to supply the inmates of the asylum at Croydon with coals during the winter months" was put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

Grand Lodge was then closed in ample form and with thanksgiving.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

METROPOLITAN LODGE (No. 1507).—An emergency meeting of this young lodge was held on Tuesday, May 30th, at 269, Pentonville-road, King's-cross, Bro. Michael, W.M. Also present Bros. Willing, I.P.M.; Williams, S.W.; Kingham, J.W.; Tims, Sec.; Side, as S.D.; Seales, J.D.; Stiles, I.G.; Read, Saintsbury, Check, Cadett, Hewison, Solomon, Clark, Tims, jr.; Wrigley, &c. Visitors: Bros. Bull, P.M. 145; McDougall, I.P.M. 713; Finner, S.D. 1227; Morgan, 1385. There were five raisings, one passing, and four initiations. Ceremonies worked in a very fluent and impressive manner, after which Bro. Check's first motion was withdrawn, and his other one not securing a seconder fell to the ground. Notice of motion respecting the inadequacy of the rooms for the large gatherings of the lodge, was given for the ensuing meeting in September, which will be the installation. The brethren adjourned to banquet, when a very pleasant evening was spent, several of the brethren giving proofs of no mean vocal powers.

THE ALEXANDRA PALACE LODGE (No. 1541).—The usual meeting of this progressing lodge was held on Saturday last in the private rooms at the Palace whose name it bears. The attendance was good, and Bro. P.M. Kelly King, the S.W., in the absence of the Master, opened the lodge, the officers assisting being Bros. P.M. Dyte, P.M. Stacey, P.M. Palmer, P.M. Haigh, P.G.S.; Lee, Daniel, and John Rowlands. The first business, after the confirmation of the minutes, was the initiation of five gentlemen who had been duly elected, and this duty was undertaken by Bro. P.M. Stacey, in order to permit the acting W.M. to transact other lodge business. The work was done in Bro. Stacey's St. James's Union and Victoria style—"perfect in all its parts," and honourable to the worker. The gentlemen who were now made brothers were Messrs. W. W. Fitch, J. Hulme Pearman, John Neil, William Knight, and William Shelly. The acting W.M., Bro. Kelly King, then took the chair, and passed Bros. Blackman, Daniel, and Stubbins, and Bros. Harris, Calvert, Gush, and Delvalle were raised. The lodge was then resumed in the Primary Degree, and the ballot was taken for the election of Bro. C. Wedding Skinner, whose desire to join the brethren of the Alexandra Palace Lodge was proved to be unanimously reciprocated by a clear ballot box. The election of Master—the first election which the lodge has had—ensued, and the members showed their appreciation of Bro. Kelly King's assiduous labours by unanimously electing him as the W.M. for the ensuing year, and all who know our Bro. Kelly King will say that by this act the lodge has at once proved its worthiness as a Masonic body and its acknowledgements of favours received. The hardworking and universally esteemed Bro. Dyte was as unanimously elected Treasurer, and thanked most warmly for his labours throughout the year. The brethren dined "en famille" at the table d'hôte, and of course there were none of the usual speeches. If the usual eloquence was lacking the usual good feeling was not; and with braced up nerves for the second year of the life of the lodge the brethren broke up their meeting at an early hour.

SURREY MASONIC HALL LODGE (No. 1539).—An emergency meeting of this highly successful lodge was held at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road, on Thursday evening, the 1st inst., Bro. Mark Samuel Larham, W.M., presided, supported by Bros. Ramsay, S.W. (W.M. elect.); Oliver, P.M., Sec.; Ritherdon, J.D.; Ross, I.G.; Harvey, D.C.; Allen, Claris, Martin, Chartres, Seal, Tims, Murray, Walden, and the following visitors:—Bros. Hines, Royal Jubilee; Wallis, P.M. De Grey and Ripon; Cackett, S.W. Duke of Connaught; H. Thompson, Great City, and P.M. Domatic and Southern Star ("Freemason"); Perryman, Sphinx; Hastie, P.M., Macdonald; Rock, P.M. Kennington; Vockins, P.M. Sphinx; Dubois, P.M., Era; Middlemass, Leigh; and Pain, Granite. The lodge was opened in due form. Bros. Claris and Moss were severally raised to the Sublime Degree with all the care and correctness which has ever distinguished the working of the W. Master. He also most impressively recited the traditional history, and gave a beautiful explanation of the Tracing Board and Working Tools. The ceremony gave entire satisfaction, and several of the visitors expressing their opinion that this splendid ritual was seldom so efficiently rendered. The next business was to pass Bros. Cannon and Wells to the Second Degree, which was also most ably performed by the W. Master. A ballot then took place for Mr. John Walden and Mr. Francis Tims, which being unanimous in their favour they were impressively initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. There being no further business the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment, which was well served. On the withdrawal of the cloth the W.M. said that as an emergency meeting the toasts would be few in number, and in some few concise remarks proposed "The Queen and the Craft," which was duly honoured. The W. Master next gave "The Health of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master," and congratulated the Craft on his return in good health to his native land. This toast was most enthusiastically responded to. The W.M. said the next toast he had to propose was "The Health of their Newly-Initiated Brethren," and remarked that he was very proud of having the privilege of initiating two gentlemen into the Order who would do credit to the lodge, and not before his time as W.M. expired, as that would be the last time he would occupy the chair for the performance of that ceremony. He therefore called upon the brethren to join heartily with him in drinking "The Health of their Newly-Initiated Brethren." This toast was most cordially responded to. Bros. Walden and Tims expressed the great pleasure they had derived from being admitted to the ancient Order of Freemasons, and for the very cordial manner in which their health had been drank. They were deeply impressed with the ceremony they had gone through, and said it would be their study to become good members of the Order. Bro. Clarke, P.M., said he had much pleasure in proposing the next toast, which was "The Health of their Worshipful Master." It had been at various times a great pleasure to him to propose that toast, for he felt assured that Bro. Larham had done all that was possible for him to do to promote the welfare of the lodge, and he believed that the brethren would regret that he was about to quit the chair of W.M. He asked them to join with him in cordially drinking his health. The toast was drunk with hearty cheering. The Worshipful Master, in reply, thanked Bro. Clarke for the kind remarks he had made, and the brethren for the unanimous way in which they had responded to them in drinking his health, and if he had given them satisfaction he was amply repaid for any trouble to which he had been put. He ought not, however, to say anything about trouble, for it was really a pleasure to him, or he should not devote as much time as he did, for he always devoted two or three nights a week to Freemasonry, to shew the love he had for it. He cordially thanked them for the honour they had conferred upon him. The W.M. said there was one toast that must not be omitted, and that was "The Health of their brother Visitors," and the lodge gave them a hearty welcome. The toast was well received. Bro. H. Thompson ("Freemason") said he had been highly pleased with the very able manner in which the working of the lodge had been conducted that evening by the W.M., but it was nothing less than he expected of him, when he knew the able tutor who had instructed him, and the information he received he also most willingly imparted to others as the preceptor of other lodges. He thanked the brethren also for their hospitality, and took occasion to remark that the present was a particularly interesting period as regarded the Order of Freemasonry, for His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales would again appear and take his place in the Grand Lodge as the Most Worshipful Grand Master, and it was almost needless to say that on his return from his tour in a distant land he would be warmly received by his brother Freemasons. There were two or three notices on the agenda of the Grand Lodge which were open to criticism, and upon which there might possibly be a difference of opinion, but as that as it might there was one point upon which they would all be unanimous, and that was the hearty welcome his Royal Highness would receive on his return from his successful tour in the East, where he had been received with acclamation in every part of those vast and distant dominions. He (Bro. Thompson) believed that they as Freemasons were greatly indebted to the Prince of Wales for the suggestions he threw out to the Craft at the time of the glorious gathering of the greatest number of Freemasons ever assembled together at his installation twelve months ago, when he impressed upon them that the watchwords of the Order were "loyalty and charity." The brethren had profited by those suggestions, for at the last election for their Benevolent Institution an event had occurred which had no parallel in its previous history, for all the male candidates were taken on to the fund without undergoing the ordeal of an election, and a large proportion of the widows who were candidates were successful in obtaining the benefits of the Institution, which showed how the charitable feelings of the Craft, had been stimulated by the appeal which had been made to them by their Royal Grand Master. He thought, therefore, that this was a position most gratifying to them, and that when they met His Royal Highness at the Grand Lodge he would receive the welcome he so eminently deserved. Bro. Middlemass also returned thanks in a very humorous speech, in which he jocosely rated Bro. Thompson for having taken the wind out of his sails and left him little to say beyond thanking the lodge for the Masonic treat in working, and the hospitality he had received. Bro. Rock said he was greatly pleased to be amongst them, and expressed his determination to become a member of the lodge. Bro. Vockins, P.M. of the Sphinx Lodge, also briefly returned thanks. The Tyler's toast brought a most enjoyable evening to a close at an early hour. A number of songs were sung, and the entire proceedings were distinguished by harmony and goodwill, and the parting took place in the true spirit of Masonry.

BATH.—Royal Cumberland Lodge (No. 41).—An emergency meeting was held in the Masonic Hall, on Thursday, June 1st, which was attended by Bros. Brown, W.M.; Clark, I.P.M.; Cooper, P.M.; Rubie, P.M.; Ashley, P.M. and Treas.; Captain Peel Floyd, P.M.; Wilton, P.M. and D.C.; Major Preston, P.M.; Dr. Hopkins, P.M. 41 and 938, and P.P.G.S.W. for Warwickshire; F. Wilkinson, S.W.; Faulkner, J.W.; C. Wilkinson, Sec.; P. Braham, S.D.; Gummer, I.G.; Hunt and Radway, Stewards; Bigwood, Tyler; and other members. As visitors Bros. Col. Ford, P.M. 58; Collins, 53; Hughes, 53; Reeves, P.M. 906; Freeman, 906; Styles, 906; Cantrell, 1501. The lodge was opened in the First Degree, at quarter to eight, by the W.M. A ballot was taken for a candidate for initiation, which proved unanimous in his favour. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree, Bro. Ashley took the chair, and Bros. Mercer, Meatyard, and Wheeler having been presented as candidates for raising were examined as to their proficiency. This proved unusually satisfactory, entitling them to be entrusted previous to dismissal for preparation, which was done. The lodge was opened in the Third Degree; the candidates were re-admitted, and duly raised by W. Bro. Ashley, who performed his duty in an admirable and impressive manner, ably assisted by Bro. W. Bro. Cooper, in certain portions for which his voice and style peculiarly fit him. The S.W. explained the symbolism of the working tools. It may be stated that on this occasion, as also in the First and Second Degrees, throughout the Mastership of the present W.M. the form of ceremony differs considerably from that in ordinary use, described as the Old York ritual, in which the verbiage is somewhat more diffuse. At the conclusion of the traditional history the lodge was closed in the Third and afterwards in the Second Degree. Bro. Brown, W.M., then resumed the chair, and finally closed the lodge at quarter to ten.

GREENWICH.—Lodge of Amity (No. 171).—The installation meeting of this old lodge was held on Tuesday evening, at the Ship, Greenwich. Bro. Clarence Harcourt, W.M., presided, and he was assisted by Bros. C. P. Whiteley, S.W.; J. H. Batty, J.W. pro tem.; S. W. Partridge, S.D.; W. H. Bateman, J.D. pro tem.; and J. W. Clever, I.G. pro tem. There was also a fair attendance of brethren of the lodge and visitors. Bros. Green, Gooding, and Mardon were raised, and Messrs. Buck and Straith were initiated. Afterwards Bro. Joseph Clever, P.M., installed Bro. Charles Perry Whiteley as W.M., who invested the following brethren as his officers:—Bros. Partridge, S.W.; J. W. Clever, J.W.; Clarence Harcourt, I.P.M., Treas.; Joseph Clever, P.M., Sec.; J. H. Batty, S.D.; W. H. Bateman, J.D.; E. Phillips, I.G.; and Geo. Smith, T. A P.M. jewel was presented in open lodge to Bro. Harcourt by the W.M., who congratulated him on the ability with which he had discharged the important functions of Master of the lodge during the past year. Bro. Harcourt acknowledged the compliment which the lodge had paid him. He reminded the brethren that at the beginning of his term of office he had not been able to attend very regularly, but during the latter portion of the time his engagements have allowed of his paying more attention to the affairs of the lodge, and he had endeavoured to discharge the duties of W.M. to the satisfaction of the brethren. The brethren afterwards dined together and honoured the usual toasts. Bro. Johnson (G. Master's Lodge) responded for "The Grand Officers," &c. Bro. Scotter, No. 22, responded to the toast of "The Visitors," Bro. James Terry for "The Masonic Charities," and Bro. J. W. Clever for "The Officers." Both the initiates replied to the toast drunk specially in their honour. The list of visitors comprises the names of Bro. Llewellyn Jones, W.M. 1460, and Lemon, Treas. 1601. A most agreeable evening was spent by the brethren.

PORT ELIZABETH (Cape of Good Hope).—Lodge of Good Hope (No. 863).—At the installation meeting of this lodge there was a large attendance of members of the lodge and visiting brethren. The Past Masters present were:—Bros. C. T. Wheelwright, S. Bain, J. C. Kelmsley, Jas. Kelmsley, Dr. McIntjes, and the I.P.M., Bro. E. R. Smith, who acted as Installing Master, and performed his duties most creditably. Bro. S. Alabaster, having been installed and duly honoured, invested his officers as follows:—Bros. C. R. Whinfield, S.W.; C. R. Read, J.W.; W. Philip, T.; J. L. Laurie, Sec.; J. C. Probert, S.D.; F. Holmes, J.D.; C. Dickinson, Org.; B. Holmes and H. Smith, Stewards; T. Colling, I.G.; J. Morley, O.G. The installation over, the brethren adjourned to the banquetting room, where an excellent repast had been laid out. To this the fullest justice was done. The newly-elected W.M. then gave first "The Queen and the Craft," and afterwards "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and Grand Master of England," both of which were drunk with enthusiasm. In a neat speech Bro. Smyth, I.P.M., proposed "The Health of the Worshipful Master, Bro. Alabaster," expressing the confidence he felt that he would satisfactorily perform the onerous duties that would now devolve upon him. The toast having been duly honoured, Bro. Alabaster acknowledged the compliment paid him in suitable terms, promising his best endeavours to fulfil the duties pertaining thereto. Bro. S. Bath P.M., in proposing "The Health of the Installing Master," complimented Bro. Smyth highly upon his zeal and efficiency. Bro. Smyth having replied, "The Newly-elected Officers" was given by Bro. Wheelwright, P.M., and acknowledged by Bro. Whinfield. "The Health of the Visiting Brethren" was next proposed, and in responding Bro. Dr. McIntjes, W.M. of the Bon Accord Lodge, Aberdeen, made a most eloquent and thoroughly Masonic speech, which made a deep impression upon all present. The usual interchange of compliments then took place between the two sister lodges; the services of the retiring officers were acknowledged; "The Past Masters" were toasted; "Sweethearts and Wives" were remembered; the "Banquet Committee" were thanked; and "Poor and Distressed Masons" were not forgotten. The gathering, which was of a most pleasant nature, did not break up till after eleven o'clock.

SOUTHEND.—Priory Lodge (No. 1000).—The usual monthly meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Thursday, the 1st June, at the Middleton Hotel, Southend. The lodge was opened at seven o'clock by the W.M., Bro. Dr. E. E. Phillips, P.M. 379, supported by the following officers and brethren, viz.:—Bros. A. Lucking, P.M. 160, Prov. A.G.D.C., I.P.M.; H. Rowley, P.M., P. Prov. G.D., acting S.W. (the S.W., Bro. Rev. S. R. Wigram, Grand Chaplain, being unavoidably absent); Revs. H. J. Hater, S.W. and W.M. elect, 160; P. Prov. G. Chaplain, acting J.W.; Rev. H. Hayes, Chaplain; J. A. Wardell, P.M. 160 and 1000; P. Prov. G.D., Sec.; J. R. Hemmann, P.M., P. Prov. G.D., Org.; W. Chaplin, S.D.; W. P. Beliss, J.D.; F. D. Grayson, acting I.G.; J. C. Johnstone, P.M. 25 (I.C.) D.C.; Mountain, Tyler; J. V. Harris, P.M., P. Prov. A.G.D.C.; H. Briggs, F. V. Jillings, J.W. 100; W. Frost, W. D. Meritt, G. F. Jones, J. English, and B. Mackie. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, the ballot having proved unanimous in favour of Mr. W. H. Newman, he was duly initiated. Bro. G. F. Wood was then raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M. by the W.M., who afterwards gave the traditional history, the whole of the ceremonies being well carried out. A candidate having been proposed for initiation, the lodge was then duly closed and adjourned to the last Thursday in September. The brethren then partook of refreshment. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly honoured, some excellent songs were well rendered, and the Tyler's toast having terminated the proceedings, the brethren separated, after the enjoyment of a most successful evening.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Lodge (No. 1051).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Monday morning, the 5th inst., in the Masonic Rooms, Athenaeum, the Worshipful Master, Bro. H. Longman, occupying the chair of King Solomon. The lodge having been opened in the First Degree with the usual formalities the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Mr. John Thomas Jackson and Mr. Thomas Bell were balloted for and unanimously elected, but in consequence of its being Whit Monday, no degrees were conferred, the work being postponed till Monday, June 12th. The usual proclamations were made, and hearty good wishes having been tendered by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed in peace and harmony.

FOREST HILL.—West Kent Lodge (No. 1297).—The regular bi-monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, the 27th ult., when there were present at the commencement of business Bro. D. Stead, W.M.; J. Allen, I.P.M.; C. R. Crouch, S.W.; E. C. Massey, J.W. ("Freemason"); with the Deacons and other officers, and also many brethren. The business included the passing of Bro. Zuccardi, and the initiation of Mr. Gay Ess, the ceremonies being performed by the W.M. in a manner which entitled him to the sincere approbation of the brethren, inasmuch, as was afterwards observed by the I.P.M. it was abundantly clear that which it was asserted that a Master should know the W.M. was acquainted with in every particular. At the conclusion of the active part of the proceedings two candidates of good social position were proposed by Bro. G. Coruni, and duly seconded. The lodge having been closed in due form there was a short sitting for refreshment, and it being the Queens birthday "Her Majesty's Health" was proposed and drunk with, if possible, more than the customary cordiality. "The Health of the Brother Initiate," and that of "The W.M." were also drunk.

NORWICH.—Walpole Lodge (No. 1500).—The ceremony of installing Bro. T. Isley as the W.M. of Lodge Walpole for the ensuing year was admirably performed in the Assembly-rooms at Norwich, on Thursday afternoon, the 1st inst., by the I.P.M., Bro. T. Lord, in the presence of a goodly number of P.M.'s and brethren, who subsequently spoke very highly of the working. The W.M. appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. T. J. Mackley, S.W.; F. Mills, J.W.; D. Mannings, S.D.; A. Bullard, J.D.; J. Harper, I.G.; P.M. F. B. Quinton, Sec.; S. J. Carman, Treas.; P.M. G. Brittain, Org.; P.M. W. H. Stevens, D.C.; Matthews and Payne, Stewards. In the evening the brethren sat down to a splendid banquet, exceedingly well served by Mr. Levett, who made most satisfactory arrangements for the comfort and enjoyment of the brethren. The newly-installed W.M. filled the chair, and ably fulfilled its duties. He was supported by Bros. A. M. F. Morgan, P.D.P.G.M.; G. B. Kennett, W.M. 52; J. C. Chittock, W.M. 943; J. Commins, W.M. 93; G. C. Stevens, Sec. 52; W. Provart, W.M. 807; G. Brittain, P.M.; Bonfellow, W.M. 100, Yarmouth; Bond, I.P.M. 100; D. Stone, Lowestoft; H. Lamb, P.M. 807; H. Burgess, 943; R. Thorns, P.M.; R. Gilman, P.M. 93; Henneymeyer, 51, Colchester; F. Wright, Colchester; Chas. Winterbon, Colchester; H. J. Martin, 807; R. Boulton, and others. The S.W. and J.W. chairs were occupied by the brothers appointed to those offices. Letters apologising for non-attendance were received from several brethren high in the Craft. A feature in the after-dinner proceedings was the presentation of a handsome Past Master's jewel to the retiring W.M., Bro. Lord, as a mark of fraternal esteem and a recognition of the efficiency with which he "worked" the lodge during his term of office; and a similar jewel to P.M. W. H. Stevens, in cordial acknowledgment of his twenty years' services to Masonry in various positions, and especially as Preceptor of the Lodge of Instruction. The presentation in each case was made in felicitous terms by the W.M., who announced that a list of the subscribing brethren was being beautifully illuminated by the well-known local artist, Mr. Gunn, the son of a respected brother Mason. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been given, that to the memory of the late distinguished brother after whom the lodge is named being drunk in solemn silence, Bro. A. M. F. Morgan proposed "The W.M.'s of Lodges," and took occasion to refer to the admirable working which he had witnessed in this lodge, and to express his confidence that its good reputation would be sustained by the present W.M. Bro. G. B. Kennett responded to the toast, and among others which were honoured were, "The Initiate," Bro. C. Daniels; "The Installing Officer," Bro. Lord; "The Visitors," Bro. G. C. Stevens responding; "The Officers," Bro. Mackley; "The Past Masters," Bro. Brittain; "The Treasurer and Secretary," Bro. Quinton; "Non-resident Brethren and Visitors from other Provinces," Bros. Wright, Bond, Stone, and others; and "The Press," Bro. H. J. Martin responding for the "Freemason." Some excellent vocal and instrumental music interlarded the speeches, Bro. Winterbon playing in a masterly manner a fine selection on the pianoforte.

GREAT STANMORE.—Abercorn Lodge (No. 1542). The second regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Abercorn Hotel on the 2nd ult. Bro. R. Helsdon, W.M., in the chair, supported by his officers and many of the brethren. Visitor, Bro. C. Cathrow, P.P.G.S.B. Surrey. The lodge was opened in solemn prayer at 3.40 p.m., and after the usual regular business was disposed of, Bro. E. G. Swatton, having undergone a highly satisfactory examination, was duly passed to the Second Degree, and the Tracing Board ably explained by the W.M. The lodge having resumed to First Degree, the ballot was unanimous in favour of Mr. W. S. Marshall, and Mr. T. Peach as candidates for initiation. Bro. C. Long, I.G. 733, was also admitted as a joining member. Mr. Marshall being unavoidably absent, Mr. Peach was duly enlightened and impressed with the First degree. The election for W.M. was then proceeded with, for the ensuing year, and was unanimous in favour of Bro. J. W. Garrod, S.W. Bro. Rogers was also unanimously elected Treasurer, and Bro. Huddleton appointed Tyler. The W.M., Wardens, and three brethren were then appointed on the Audit Committee to meet June 13th, at 5 p.m. Various other minor matters were then disposed of, and the sum of £5 5s. voted annually for a Past Master's jewel. Mr. A. E. Fradelle was proposed for initiation at the next meeting, and after the usual good wishes the lodge was adjourned, until the installation meeting in July, and closed with solemn prayer at 6 p.m. The customary banquet followed, enlivened by the musical brethren and assisted by the talented Organist, Bro. H. L. Winter, all passing off highly satisfactory.

MORECAMBE.—Morecambe Lodge (No. 1561).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Room, Morecambe-street, on the 1st inst. Although the lodge has only been consecrated within the last nine months, yet, under the superintendence of its first Worshipful Master, the zealous and indefatigable member of the Craft, Bro. J. D. Moore, P.G.S.B., England, it has during the time considerably extended itself, and already occupies a prominent position amongst the Masonic lodges in West Lancashire. There was an unusually large number of brethren present, as well as several visitors from Lancaster. Amongst the former were Bros. Dr. Moore, Capt. Garnett, J.P., (the Worshipful Master elect); W. Duff, T. Longmire, H. Hartley (Morecambe), H. Hartley (Heysham), G. Bingham, W. Stephenson, R. Bannister, J. Shaw, A. E. Poole, W. Aspdon, W. W. Wilde, J. Gott, and amongst the latter being Bros. W. J. Ley, P.G.W.; H. Longman, W.M., (1051); J. L. Bradshaw, P.M. (1051); F. G. Dale, J.W. (1353); T. Atkinson, W.M.; F. Dean, P.M.; John Hatch, P.M.; E. Simpson, P.M.; E. Cardwell, S.D.; J. Atkinson, J. Pilkington, J. Thistlethwaite, (281); W. Stewardson, W.M. (Heskell Lodge); D. Redwood, (1800); Dr. Tidswell, &c. The Worshipful Master, Bro. Dr.

Moore, occupied the chair as installing officer, and was supported by his respective officers. The lodge having been opened in the first degree the minutes were read and confirmed, after which the lodge was raised to the second and third degrees. The Worshipful Master elect having been previously presented by the Wardens, the ceremony of installation was proceeded with, officially performed by the installing officer, by whom Bro. Capt. Garnett was inducted to the Chair of King Solomon, according to the ancient rites and ceremonies of the Craft, and afterwards received the homage of the assembled brethren. The working tools were presented by Bro. Longman. The newly elected Master then proceeded to elect his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. W. Duff, S.W.; T. Longmire, J.W.; H. Hartley, (Morecambe), Treas.; W. Stephenson, Sec.; A. Hartley, (Heysham), S.D.; W. Longmire, J.D.; A. K. Stansfeld, I.G.; and R. Bannister, and E. C. Poole, Stewards, who were inducted into their respective offices by Bro. Moore. The lodge was afterwards closed down to the first degree, when on the motion of the newly-installed Master, seconded by Bro. Duff, a most cordial and hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Dr. Moore for the able and efficient manner in which he had performed the ceremony of installation. The remaining Masonic business was then gone through, at the conclusion of which the brethren adjourned from labour to refreshment, and proceeded to the house of Bro. T. Longmire, the West View Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was prepared, which was presided over by Capt. Garnett, the newly-appointed Master, who was supported by Bro. Dr. Moore and other leading brethren of the Craft; the duties of croupier being ably discharged by Bro. Duff, the S.W., who was supported by the Deacons and other members of the lodge. On the conclusion of the repast, the chairman gave "The Health of the Queen," and of "The Prince of Wales, the Most Worshipful Grand Master of England." Speaking of the proposal to be brought forward in the Grand Lodge that the Freemasons should have a Masonic thanksgiving in honour of His Royal Highness's safe return from India, the Chairman said he felt sure that nothing could more meet with the approval of the Masonic brethren throughout the country than such a proceeding as that, for the Prince of Wales was endeared to them, not only by Masonic ties, but also by the many other good qualities which he had shown. (Applause.) Bro. Longman proposed the next toast, "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, the M.W.D.G.M., and other Grand Lodge and Provincial Grand Lodge Officers," coupling with the former the name of Bro. Dr. Moore, and with the latter that of Bro. W. J. Sly, each of whom acknowledged the toast. Bro. Moore, in a few well-chosen sentences, proposed the health of the Chairman, and said that although some of them had not seen much of him, yet he would be found no mere tyro in Freemasonry. He considered that in their proceedings to-day honour had been distributed in two places—Bro. Capt. Garrett having conferred honour on the Morecambe Lodge in accepting the office of Master, whilst the Morecambe Lodge had conferred equal honours on Capt. Garnett in installing him as its head. (Hear, hear.) He was sure their new Master would make a good and efficient officer, and that the prestige of the office would lose nothing at his hands. The toast was received with enthusiasm, and the Chairman was heartily greeted on rising to respond. He first expressed the pleasure he felt at being so kindly received amongst them, and expressed his indebtedness to Bro. Dr. Moore for the position he occupied on the occasion. He had always been desirous of attaining to the Master's chair, but owing to the exigencies of a soldier's life, he had never remained long enough in one place to allow of his accomplishing it, and he was obliged to give up hope of doing so till he should have left the service. It was entirely owing to Bro. Dr. Moore that he occupied the position he did, and so long as he had the honour of being Master of the Morecambe Lodge it would be his pleasure and duty to follow as clearly as he could in the footsteps of his worthy predecessor in the office—Bro. Moore. The Chairman then proposed "The Health of the Installing Officer," and thought the Morecambe Lodge must feel much indebted to Bro. Moore for the interest he had taken in it. Bro. Dr. Moore briefly acknowledged the compliment, and expressed his readiness at all times to give what assistance he could for the advancement of the lodge and its members. Bro. E. Simpson proposed "The Health of the Wardens," which was responded to by Bros. Duff and T. Longmire. Bro. Dr. Moore next gave "Success to the Lancashire Lodges," which was responded to by Bros. T. Atkinson, W.M. 281; H. Longman, W.M. 1051; and G. Dale, J.W. 1353, with whose names the toast was coupled. "The Healths of the Treasurer and Secretary" was proposed by Bro. John Hatch, and acknowledged by Bro. Stephenson. Bro. Sly proposed "The Assistant Officers," which was responded to by Bros. H. Hartley and W. Longmire. "The Visitors" followed, and was responded to by Bro. Tidswell. Bro. Moore proposed "The Health of Bro. F. Dean, as an old Past Master, the toast being warmly received, and was duly acknowledged by Bro. Dean. Bro. Duff proposed "The Masonic Press," and alluded to the discretion and prudence exercised by Bro. J. Atkinson in the reports which he furnished of Masonic proceedings, and with whose name the toast was coupled. Bro. J. Atkinson having acknowledged the compliment, Bro. Dr. Moore proposed "The Newly Initiated," coupling with the toast the name of Bro. John Gott, who responded. Other toasts were given and responded to, and the proceedings, which throughout had been of a very agreeable character, terminated about half-past nine o'clock.

The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Room, Morecambe-street, on Friday, 2nd inst., the chair of K.S. being occupied by the newly-installed W.M., Bro. Capt. Garnett. There was only a small number of members present, but several brethren were present from Lancaster. The lodge having been opened with solemn prayer, the minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed, after which the lodge was raised to the Second Degree. Bros. Wilde and Gott having given proof of their proficiency as Fellow Craftsmen, retired, and the lodge having been opened in the Third Degree, they were subsequently re-admitted and raised to the sublime degree of M.M.'s by the W.M., whose working of the ceremonies connected therewith was marked by an exactness and impressiveness very rarely witnessed in one who has hitherto held only subordinate offices in the Craft. The concluding portion of the ceremony was worked by the I.P.M., Bro. Dr. J. D. Moore, P.G.S.B. England, with his well-known ability; the working tools being presented by Bro. H. Longman, W.M. 1051. The lodge was then closed down to the First degree, when Bro. J. C. Bradshaw, P.M. 1051, and Bro. F. G. Dale, J.W. 1353, were proposed as joining members. The usual proclamations were made, and hearty good wishes having been rendered by the visiting brethren, the lodge closed in peace and harmony.

BOLTON.—St. John's Chapter (No. 848).—The regular meeting of this chapter was held at the Bull's Head Inn, Bradshawgate, Bolton, on Thursday, the 1st of June, when there were present Comps. Jos. Horrocks, Z.; Robt. Harwood, P. Prov. G. Standard Bearer, H.; Harry Ainsworth, J.; Thomas Chambers, P.Z.; James Newton, P.Z.; Thos. Wilson, P.Z.; and others. The chapter having been opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for a candidate for exaltation, who was unanimously elected. The installation of Principals and investiture of officers then followed, the ceremony being performed by Comp. James Newton, P.Z. The following are the new officers for the ensuing year:—Comp. Robert Harwood, Z.; H. Ainsworth, H.; R. Glaister, J.; Thos. Chambers, E.; H. Greenwood, N.; Jas. Allen, Prin. Soj.; J. Harwood, 1st Ast. Soj.; Thos. Milligan, 2nd Ast. Soj.; T. Wilson, Treas.; T. Higson, Janitor. A candidate was proposed for exaltation, and the chapter was closed.

Mark Masonry.

HINCKLEY.—Knights of Malta Lodge (No. 32).—This old time-immemorial Mark Lodge held its regular meeting on Wednesday, May 24. Present: V. W. Bro. Rev. W. Langley, P.M. 21, P.G.C., Prov. D.P.G.M.M.M., in the chair of Adoniram; Bros. Clark, S.W.; Preston, as J.W.; W. H. Griffiths, M.O.; Smith, as S.O.; Worthington, as J.O.; G. Toller, I.P.M. of 19 as Deacon; Marston, I.G.; and several other brethren. Two candidates being present, Bros. Blastich and Simpkin were advanced to the degree of Mark Man and Mark Master by the W.M. The by-laws of the lodge were considered and amended as to the fees for advancement and annual subscription. Several candidates were proposed, and the lodge was closed in harmony.

A MASONIC FUNERAL IN CHINA.

Interments with Masonic honours are by no means infrequent in America; but as the distinctive features of the Craft never appear at the grave unless at the request of the deceased, such funerals are very rare in this colony. Mr. E. Estarico, who was formerly proprietor of the Hotel d'Europe, died on Monday last, and according to his dying wish, he was buried in the Happy Valley Cemetery on the 28th March, with all the ancient forms and ceremonies of the Order. Deceased was a member of the Zetland Lodge, and the dispensation having been obtained from the R.W. District Grand Master, T. G. Linstead, by the W. Master of the above named lodge (Bro. L. Mallory), the lodge was formed in the Masonic Hall, a large number of members being present, including the D.G. Master. The preliminary part of the solemn service having been gone through, the members unrobed and adjourned to the Mortuary Chapel, where the lodge was re-formed, and the brethren accompanied the remains of the deceased to the grave.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF NORTHAMPTONSHIRE AND HUNTINGDONSHIRE.

The holding of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of the province of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, at Peterborough, on the 2nd inst., afforded an opportunity for laying the foundation stone of the new aisle which is to be added to the church of St. Mary in that city. The brethren began to assemble at half-past eleven at St. Peter's College, and after attiring themselves, proceeded to the lodge-room and took up the positions assigned to them.

The lodge was opened in due form by the W.M. of St. Peter's (Bro. Waller), and shortly afterwards his Grace the Duke of Manchester, Provincial Grand Master, and Bro. Butler Wilkins, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, with the other Provincial Grand Officers, arrived, and the business was proceeded with. Bro. R. Howes, 445, Fidelity, was re-elected Treasurer; Bro. R. H. Griffin, P.G. S.W. 442, St. Peter's; Bros. J. T. Green, 360, Pomfret, P.G.J.W.; the Hon. and Rev. J. Courtenay Vernon, 607, Chicheley, P.G. Chap.; the Rev. S. Westbrook, 373, So-crates, Prov. G. Assist. Chap.; J. M. Stanton, P.M. 360, P. Prov. G.S.D.; Hawley, Prov. G. Reg.; F. G. Buckle, Prov. G. Sec.; G. Gaches, 442, St. Peter's, Prov. G.S.D.; Percival, 445, Fidelity, Prov. G.J.G.D.; Jackson, 373, Socrates, Prov. G. Supt. of Works; Marson, P.G.D. of C.; Molyneux, 607, Chicheley, A.P.G.D.C.; Ward, 466, Merit, P.G. Swd. B.; Margetts, 455, Perseverance, P.G. Purst.; Eales, 737, Wentworth, Std. B.

The officers were invested by the Right Worshipful Grand Master, assisted by the D. Prov. G.M.

Bro. Buckle, P. Prov. G.S., then read the report of the Board of Benevolence, who voted the sum of £25 and £20 to two widows in the province, £10 to the male fund of the aged and decayed, and £21 to the Boys' School.

Jewels commemorative of the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G., M.W. Grand Master of England, were voted to the Stewards of Norths, and Hunts, Bro. E. Cox, 360, Pomfret, and Bro. J. Marson, 373, Socrates.

The Prov. G.M. then moved that an address of congratulation be presented to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., on his safe return from India.

The W.M. of St. Peter's seconded, and it was approved.

A vote of thanks to the brethren of that lodge for the handsome manner in which they had received the Provincial Grand Lodge was proposed by Bro. Butler Wilkins, D. Prov. G.M., seconded and approved, and this concluded the business.

The brethren were then marshalled by Bro. Marson, Dir. of Cers., in the quadrangle of the College, and proceeded by the playground through the Deanery to the Cathedral, opening out right and left along the nave, so that the Prov. G. Officers and Chaplain might pass up the centre, and then closing in and taking the seats allotted to them in the north and south transepts. Prayers were read by the Rev. W. Katterns, curate of St. Mary's, and the lessons by the Assistant Chaplain (Bro. F. S. Westbrook) and Canon Argles respectively. The anthem was "O give thanks," that most appropriate passage being introduced. The stone which the builders refused has become the headstone in the corner, and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" was finely rendered by the lay clerks and choristers after the anthem proper. The sermon was preached by the Prov. G. Chaplain (Bro. the Hon. and Rev. J. Courtenay Vernon), who took for his text 1 Peter iii. 8—"Be ye all of one mind." He said he had selected the words because he considered them appropriate to that day's business, and more particularly to the Craft to which so many of those present belonged. One of the great beauties, and the chief essence of the brotherhood, was that in all its principles and precepts it inculcated and sought to instil into the mind unity amongst themselves, and good will and peace to all mankind. The preacher then showed the wider significance of the words to Christians, and contrasted those who held the unity of the faith with that false unity which was to be found amongst the ungodly, but which rested on no solid foundation because there was no true love amongst them. He concluded with an appeal on behalf of the building fund of St. Mary's and the Masonic Charities, and after the sermon the Stewards collected amongst the brethren. The singing of the hymn, "All people that on earth do dwell" was followed by the Benediction.

The service being over, the brethren re-formed, leaving the west part of the Cathedral in the following order:—Bros. Mills and Willson, Sword Bearers; Lodge No. 737, Wentworth (Wellingborough), T. Cook, H. James, &c.; Lodge No. 607, Chicheley (Thrapston, Bros. Revs. Westbrook, Hawthorn, and J. Courtenay Vernon); Lodge No. 466, Merit (Stamford), Bros. Orford, Peck, Wright, Rev. S. G. W. Sanders, &c.; Lodge No. 455, Perseverance (Kettering); amongst whom we noticed Bros. Miller, P.P.J.G.D. and P.M.; Margetts, W.M.; Coles, P.M.; Salmons, P.M.; Standley, I.G.; Dainty, and Beeby; Lodge No. 445, Fidelity (Towcester), Bros. G. Osborn, R. Howes, W. A. Howes, T. M. Percival, W. H. Linnell, Crowley, G. Wilcox, Smith, J. Tunnard, &c.; Lodge No. 373, Socrates (Huntingdon); Lodge No. 360, Pomfret (Northampton), represented by Bros. R. Howes, P.G.T.; J. T. Green, P.G.J.W.; J. Stanton, P.M.; H. J. Atkins; J. Whitehouse, P.G.S. and J.W.; H. W. Parker, H. Spoor, E. Ashford, A. Richardson, J. Bingley, Gadsby, Wood, H. Brown, Rev. S. J. W. Sanders, &c.; J. H. Williams, Winter, S.W., and Dean; Lodge No. 442, St. Peter's, Junior Members, Past Masters, the Cornucopia containing wheat, and the trowel, Bro. Vergette, S.W., with ewer of wine, and Bro. Gachen, J.W., with ewer of oil; Dr. Waller, W.M. of 442, with mallet of the lodge. Past Provincial Grand Lodge Officers of Norths and Hunts; visitors of the other Provincial Grand Lodges, Juniors in front, and Wardens and Deputy Grand Masters in the rear, the Grand Lodge officers; Superintendent of Works and Registrar, the latter with bottle containing newspapers, including copies of the "Freemason," to put under the stone; the Secretary and Treasurer, the latter with coins to put under the stone; Junior Warden with plumb rule, and Senior Warden with level; Assistant Chaplain and Chaplain of Provincial Grand Lodge; the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Dr. Butler Wilkins, with a square; the Director and Assistant Director of the Ceremonies; Standard Bearer, Sword Bearer; His Grace the Duke of Manchester, P.G.M.; Bros. Dixey and Pilcher, Stewards.

It may be easily conceived that the procession was one of which the like has not been seen for many a day in Peterborough. The inhabitants, no doubt, were gratified by the sight, and the profuse use of flags, streamers, and banners, many of which were inscribed with "Hearty Good Wishes," showed that something out of the ordinary way had been anticipated. As the procession moved through the Minster and out of the west gateway, to the Market-place, and then turned along the Causeway, in the direction of the New-road, the route, admirably kept by the Stewards, assisted by the police, was lined with hundreds of people, many of whom were, no doubt, discussing with much curiosity the clothing, so richly adorned with gold and silver, and the jewels, which in the case of the Provincial Grand Officers, literally covered their breasts.

On arriving at the Church of St. Mary's, the hymn, "We love Thy place, O God," was sung, and the brethren having opened out and faced inwards, the Duke, and those who were to take part in the ceremony, walked through to the site of the stone-laying. Canon Argles heartily welcomed His Grace, who had come with so many of his brethren to assist the work of enlarging a church which was so much required for an increasing population. There was still a deficiency of £400, and they had looked forward to something being done that day by the powerful Masonic body, of which His Grace was the head.

The bottle of papers and coins was then placed in a cavity of the stone, and covered; after which His Grace (the P.G.M.) spread the mortar with the trowel belonging to the St. Peter's Lodge, and the stone was lowered with three drops. The plumb rule, level, and square were next applied, and the Duke then tapped it with the gavel or mallet and pronounced it well and truly laid, in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. The mallet used on this occasion has a history, as the inscription on the plate shows. It is as follows:—"By order of the Worshipful Grand Master, His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex and Worshipful Master of the Lodge of Antiquity, and with the concurrence of the brethren of the lodge, this plate has been engraved and affixed to this mallet, A.L. 5831, A.D. 1817, to commemorate that this being the same mallet with which His Majesty King Charles the Second levelled the foundation stone of St. Paul's Cathedral, A.L. 5672, A.D. 1675, was presented to the old Lodge of St. Paul, now the Lodge of Antiquity, acting by immemorial constitution by Bro. Sir Christopher Wren W.D.G.M., Worshipful Master of this Lodge and architect of that edifice.

Bro. F. G. Hodson, P.P.G., Chaplain, said he had been requested to address a few words to them in connection with the ceremony they had just witnessed. When engaged on a work like that they were but performing the natural duties of their order. They were Masons. In Masonry and all akin to it some of their deepest sympathies were enlisted, especially in such Masonry as that which, when completed, they had reason to believe would add to the glory of God and the good of their fellowmen in that city. It was the pride of true Masonry to lend both its sanction and its help to all works which were consecrated to the honour of the great Architect of the Universe, and the eternal welfare of their brethren in the world. He reminded them of what was done at the last general meeting of the Grand Lodge of England to commemorate the safe return of the Grand Master, the Prince of Wales, and said that being influenced by a similar spirit, their Provincial Grand Lodge felt itself at home in the good work in which it was engaged. Doubtless that addition to St. Mary's Church was a good work, for the church was at present inadequate to the wants of the increasing population, and there could not be so many worshippers as would otherwise avail themselves of the privileges offered. The remembrance of the glories and fair proportions of Solomon's magnificent temple came to the mind of the Mason on such an occasion as that, and stirred within him a desire to make God's house more beautiful and more majestic than was His own house then. Many of the noble sentiments of their Craft were intimately connected with that grand old temple at Jerusalem. God grant that they might so influence their minds as to cause them to freely open their purses and freely lend their aid to all kindred institutions.—In reply, his Grace, the P.G.M., said he had been very much favoured in being requested to lay the stone, and he hoped that success might attend their efforts in getting funds to complete the building. The brethren had done something towards reducing the deficit, and in any case he hoped the services would still be continued for the benefit of their fellowmen and to the Glory of God.

His Grace then scattered wheat upon the stone as an emblem of the blessing they desired to be poured upon them by Him whom they honoured, and the Masonic part of the ceremony being concluded, the public were invited by Canon Argles to contribute to the building fund.

The stone laid was inscribed as follows:—"Dei gloria. This corner stone of the north aisle as an addition to the Church of Saint Mary, Peterborough, was laid on the 1st of June, 1876, by his Grace the Duke of Manchester, Prov. G.M., and the officers and brethren of Norths and Hunts.

The new aisle, we may add, will be 14 ft. 9 in. wide, and 62 ft. long, and will be seated with chairs so as to accommodate 208 persons. The north wall will be removed and in the place of that will be an arcade like that on the south side, while the windows will be utilized for lighting the new aisle, and it will thus accord more closely with the other part of the church, which has but little claim to notice architecturally. It is also intended at the same time to construct a tower which will be carried up to the new roof and covered, so that the spire can be added hereafter. The total cost of the work is upwards of £1,000, of which £400 has yet to be obtained. Mr. H. M. Townshend is the architect, and Mr. J. Thompson the builder.

After the ceremony of laying the stone the brethren re-formed in procession and walked to the Great Northern Hotel, where the banquet had been prepared in a tastefully-decorated marquee. The canvas was lined with red, white, blue, and green bunting, and shields bearing the Masonic emblems were affixed to the poles. There were three or four gasaliers in case artificial light was needed, and the general effect was heightened by large mirrors at each end of the marquee. The chair was taken by the Prov. G.M., and on the right of his Grace sat the D. Prov. G.M., Bro. Butler Wilkins; on his left Bro. Kelly, P. Prov. G.M. of Leicestershire, with the provincial officers on either side.

About 200 sat down to the excellent repast served in Bro. Moore's usual manner, and which gave the greatest satisfaction.

After grace, which was said by the Prov. G. Chaplain, the good things were discussed for some time, Bro. Marson taking the office of toast-master, which he discharged most efficiently.

In giving "The Queen and the Craft," his Grace said he was sure he could not say anything in an assembly of loyal Englishmen, much less in an assembly of loyal Masons, to induce them to receive cordially the health of the Queen. Under her reign the country had flourished, the Empire had increased both in extent and in wealth, in power and in prosperity. They all hoped as Masons and as loyal subjects that her reign might long continue, and that they might long drink the toast of "The Queen and Craft."

The toast was duly honoured, a private band playing the National Anthem.

The Prov. G. Master next gave "The Health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G., the M.W. Grand Master of England," and said he had been told by those who had accompanied His Royal Highness on his Indian tour that nothing could have been happier than the way in which he received persons of all races and ranks. He made a most favourable impression upon all, and his friends especially were delighted with the tact, the discretion, and the good taste which he showed at all times. As a Mason they knew his merits, and as his (the Duke's) time was short he would say no more, but ask them to drink cordially "The Health of their Grand Master, the Prince of Wales."

As the P.G.M. had to leave in order to be present at the State Ball at Buckingham Palace that evening, the chair was afterwards taken by the D.P.G.M., Bro. Butler Wilkins, who gave the "M.W. Pro G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon, and the M.W.D.G.M., Lord Skelmersdale, and Officers of the Grand Lodge," and then called upon Bro. Waller, W.M. 442, to propose "The Health of the P.G.M., his Grace the Duke of Manchester."

That was done in suitable terms, Bro. Waller saying that the popularity of their P.G.M. was proved by the many public demands made upon him.

Bro. Kelly, P.P.G.M. Leicestershire, next gave "The Health of the P.D.G.M., Bro. Butler Wilkins.

Bro. Kelly remarked that however generous the Grand Master might be, upon his deputy must fall the burden and heat of the day in carrying out the duties. He was glad to know that Bro. Inns had such a successor. But as "good wine needs no bush," a good toast required no eulogium.

D.P.G.M., Butler Wilkins, replied very ably. He took the opportunity of thanking the different lodges and chapters in the province for the kind reception they had given him whenever he had had the honour of paying them a visit, and he thought that had not the Prov. G.M. been compelled to leave he would have been gratified to know that throughout the province over which he presided all the lodges were in working order. Differences of opinion would arise in all communities, but he was happy to say that in that province they were so slight as not in any way to interfere with the carrying out of those Masonic principles which all should observe, and which tended to unite them more closely in the cause of brotherly love, relief and truth. In meeting his brethren at the close of the first year of office, he felt himself in a position somewhat similar to that of a member of Parliament before his constituents, sensible of many shortcomings; but when he saw so many present, to welcome the R.W. Prov. G.M., and remembered that many had entered the higher degree of Royal Arch with satisfaction to themselves,—when he called to mind the energy and zeal displayed in working the different lodges which so many had joined, while others were seeking admission into their Craft,—he could not help feeling, that Masonry was steadily and surely progressing. It was progressing, he was happy to say, in the right direction. He made the remark last year on a similar occasion, that there should be no standing still, but that they should all do their best to support those institutions, from which they derived benefit. That had borne fruit, for they had seen that day in the person of the present Senior Warden (Bro. R. H. Griffin) a well known truth amply illustrated, that in every age men would always rise to fill the offices as occasion required. The D.P.G.M. then spoke of what the province had done for the Masonic institutions, remarking though it numbered only eight lodges, it stood in the front rank, and was, he might say, A 1 in the amount of its subscriptions. He was sure that the honour conferred on Bro. Griffin would be endorsed, and that it would stimulate other brethren in after years to follow so good an example. The D.P.G.M. spoke amusingly of the Provincial Grand coach, and its double team of eight having gone so smoothly that all he should have to do would be to try and remove the difficulties if the road became rough and rugged, and keep the necessary parts well oiled; and he closed with expressing thanks to the P.G.S. and the brethren of St. Peter's.

The toast of "The Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution" gave opportunities for Bros. Binckes and Terry to advocate those they represented, and several other toasts—"The Visiting Brethren," "Past Provincial Grand Officers," "Provincial Grand Treasurer and Secretary," "Provincial Grand Wardens, and Officers, and W.M.'s of Lodges," &c.—were afterwards given, with the Tyler's toast at the finish.

The Provincial Grand Lodge will be held next year at Thrapston.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LEICESTERSHIRE AND RUTLAND.

The half-yearly communication of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held at the Corn Exchange, Melton Mowbray, on Monday, May 29th.

The charmingly fine weather, the numerous attendance, and the reception accorded by the members of the local lodge contributed to render the meeting one of a most successful and enjoyable character. The Rutland Lodge, No. 1130, under the auspices of which the Prov. Grand Lodge was held, was opened by the W.M., Bro. Luke Riley, after which the R.W. Prov. G.M. and the officers of the Prov. Grand Lodge entered the lodge in procession, the chair being surrendered to the Prov. G.M., the Right Honourable the Earl Ferrers, who opened the Provincial Grand Lodge in due form. Amongst those present, in addition to the Prov. G.M., were the following:—Bros. Rev. W. Langley, P.P.S.G.W., acting as D.P.G.M.; Rev. J. F. Halford, Prov. S.G.W.; J. J. Fast, P.P.S.G.W.; J. C. Duncombe, Prov. J.G.W.; W. Adcock and C. Stretton, P.P.J.G.W.'s; Revs. J. H. Smith and (Canon) H. J. Burfield, Prov. G. Chaplains; W. B. Smith, Prov. G. Treas.; C. Woodcock, Prov. G. Reg.; S. S. Partridge, Prov. G. Sec.; F. J. Baines, Prov. G.S.D.; Weare and Duff, P.P.G.S.D.'s; W. Hardy, P.P.G.J.D.; R. Dalgleish, Prov. G. Supt. of Works; C. J. McBride, Prov. G.A.D.C.; T. Markham, P.P.G.D.C.; R. Boughton-Smith, P.P.G.A.D.C.; H. James, Prov. G. Sw. B.; C. L. Ferneley, as Prov. G. Org.; J. Wright Smith, Prov. G. Purst.; Bright and Amatt, P.P.G.P.'s; L. Riley, Prov. G.A.P.; Alfred Palmer and C. E. Stretton, P.P.G.A.P.'s; Worthington, Prov. G. St. B.; Cleaver, Selby, and Mason, Prov. G. Stewards; Bembridge and Dunn, Prov. G. Tylers, and many other Past Provincial Grand Officers, W.M.'s, and Wardens of private lodges. The visitors' list included Bros. H. Peake, Prov. S.G.W. Norths and Hunts; P. Glover, Prov. G. Org. Berks and Bucks, and Hunts.

The Prov. G.M. having been saluted with the customary honours, the Prov. G. Secretary read the minutes of the last meeting in November last, which were confirmed.

The Roll of Lodges was next called, when it was found that every lodge in the province was well represented.

A Report of the Provincial Committee of General Purposes was submitted, recommending the appointment of a Provincial Charity Committee for the purpose of managing and utilizing the voting power of the province at the elections of the great Masonic charities, and more systematically and effectively advocating the claims of those institutions on the liberality of the brethren, and also further recommending the formation of a Charity Fund to be devoted to the support of the charities above referred to, and for Masonic relief in special cases. The report was unanimously adopted and by-laws, framed by the Committee and submitted for adoption for the purpose of carrying into effect their recommendations, were considered and discussed seriatim, and, with certain additions and amendments, proposed by Bros. Langley, Stretton, and others, were duly passed.

Amendments were also made in the by-laws of the Prov. G. Lodge for the purpose of giving the Committee of General Purposes a more representative character, and also for admitting new lodges and other Masonic bodies using the Leicester Masonic Hall to representation on the Committee of Management of that building.

Bros. L. A. Clarke and C. Stretton were unanimously re-elected to represent the Leicester Masonic Hall Committee.

The following congratulatory address to the M.W.G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, on his return from India, was read by the Prov. G. Secretary:—

"To His Royal Highness, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England,

"May it please your Royal Highness,
"We, the Provincial Grand Master, the Past Provincial Grand Master, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Officers and Brethren of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Leicestershire and Rutland, in Provincial Grand Lodge assembled, desire to embrace the opportunity, which our half-yearly communication this day held at Melton Mowbray affords us, of offering to your Royal Highness our warmest congratulations upon your safe and happy return to your native land. We have heard with feelings of unbounded satisfaction that on all sides you have been received with that respect and devotion which your exalted position justly entitles you to, and at the same time with a thorough heartiness which the generous nature of your character so fully inspires. We are confident that the journey so wisely undertaken by your Royal Highness and now prosperously terminated, has been fraught with immense advantages to the princes and peoples of India, and that the judicious and conciliatory manner in which you have treated those with whom you have come in contact has left an impression which will not be easily effaced.

"We feel that our heartfelt gratitude is due to the Great Architect of the Universe for safely carrying you through the dangers and difficulties of your journey, for the preservation of your health in the changes of temperature and climate to which you have been subjected, and for giving you strength to carry out the arduous duties you have everywhere so ably and willingly performed. Our fervent prayer will ever be that He will have you in His keeping and give you health and much happiness, that you may be a blessing to your country, your family, and the Ancient Craft over which you so worthily preside.

"Signed this 29th day of May, 1876.

"Ferrers, Prov. G.M.

"William Kelly, P.P.G.M.

"Henry St. John Halford, D.P.G.M.

(Countersigned)

"S. S. Partridge, P.M., Prov. G. Sec.

Bro. the Rev. Canon Burfield moved and Bro. the Rev. J. F. Halford seconded the adoption of the address, and on being put by the R.W. Prov. G.M., the motion was carried by acclamation.

This concluded the business of the meeting, and after hearty good wishes had been expressed by the several visitors and an invitation tendered by Bro. Peake, Prov. S.G.W. of Norths and Hunts, to the Leicestershire and Rutland brethren to visit his province at the meeting of Prov. G. Lodge at Peterborough on Thursday next, the Provincial Grand Master closed his lodge in accordance with ancient custom.

The brethren afterwards went to the George Hotel, where an excellent banquet, prepared by Bro. Childs, was in readiness, at which the Provincial Grand Master presided, and on his retirement to leave by an early train the chair was taken by Bro. the Rev. W. Langley, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly honoured, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

It is but just to the brethren of the Rutland Lodge, No. 1130, to record that the various arrangements, both in the lodge-room and at the banquet, for the reception of the members of Provincial Grand Lodge were in every respect admirable and perfect, and the hearty welcome offered to them was most gratifying.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF ESSEX.

The annual meeting of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held at the Mission Hall, Harwich, kindly lent for the occasion by Bro. R. J. Bagshaw. There was a large attendance. The hall was tastefully decorated with flowers at the upper end, supplied by Bro. Ward, of Ramsey, and the furniture of the lodge was entirely new, being that provided for the Star of the East Lodge, Harwich, under whose banner the proceedings were held. Much credit is due to the W.M. of the Harwich Lodge, Bro. G. G. Pye, and his indefatigable Secretary, Bro. Basham, for the completeness of the arrangements for the reception of the brethren of the province. The Provincial Grand Treasurer, Bro. Barton, opened the proceedings. The Right Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. M. Clark, was then installed, and the lodge opened in form, Bro. the Rev. Mr. Pertwee offering prayer.

A letter was read from the R.W.P.G. Master, Bro. R. J. Bagshaw, regretting his inability to be present; also from the Grand Secretary, Bro. Hervey, the First Master of the Star in the East Lodge; and Lord Waveney, P.G.M. Suffolk, to the same effect.

The officers for the ensuing year were appointed as follows:—The Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Matthew E. Clark; Senior Warden, Augustus Clench, W.M. 697; Junior Warden, Alfred Welch, W.M. 51; Chaplain, the Rev. E. Pertwee, Lodge Hope, Brightlingsea; Treasurer, Joseph Burton, P.M. 276, Chelmsford; Secretary, John Wright Carr, P.M. 160 and 276; Registrar, — Clarkson, Bagshaw Lodge, Buckhurst Hill; Senior Deacon, Frank Whitmore, W.M. 296; Junior Deacon, E. E. Phillips, W.M. 1000; Director of Ceremonies, Peter Matthews, W.M. 276; Assistant Director of Ceremonies, Alfred Lucking, P.M. 160; Superintendent of Works, — Burgess, Hope and Unity; Organist, Rogers; Sword Bearer W. Basham, Sec. 650; Bishop, 276; Tyler, — Sarell, 276.

The only lodge unrepresented was the Rosslyn Lodge, the Master of which was prevented at the last moment from attending by a domestic affliction.

The brethren afterwards dined at the Great Eastern Hotel. The banquet was served in a style that gave general satisfaction. There was some excellent singing, and towards the close of the proceedings a party of hand-bell ringers performed an entertaining selection.

The R.W.D.P.G. Master presided, supported by the W.M. of the Star in the East, Bro. G. G. Pye, and about eighty other brethren. Bro. Clench, W.M. of the United, Colchester, G.S. Warden, in the vice-chair.

Among those present at the lodge and banquet were the following:—W. O. Ward, 65, P.P.G.P.; James Durrant, P.M., P.P.S.D. Essex; H. Foulger, 433; E. West, W.M. 1431; W. H. Walker, 650; Walter Balls, 650; Alfred Sturgeon, S.W. 1343; Frederick Adlard, 276, P.A.D.C.; William Balles, 433; A. S. Rogers, S.D. 433; W. Clarry, P.M. 433; C. Blyth, P.M. 433; G. Riches, P.M. 433; J. E. Wiseman, P.M. and Sec. 433, P.P.G.S.D.; B. York, P.M. 433; John Ward, P.M. 433; Joseph Hanly, I.G. 51, P.G.S. Essex; Francis B. Capon, 51; W. Nichols, 433; T. R. Quilter, P.M. 51; J. Howard, 650; Thomas Jennings, 650; W. H. Butcher, 650; J. Dunlop, S.W. 650; N. Dickson, P.M. 650; F. Edwards, 1091; G. Jackson, 650; Charles Pratt, 650; D. Oxenham, J.D. 650; Thos. Malchom, 100, 1457; A. K. Clench, W.M. 697; T. Eustace, P.M. 697; W. Bright, 1312; G. Harvey, 697; E. Shedd, W.M. 276; T. W. Naylor, S.W. 697; A. Richardson, 697; W. P. Lewis, P.M. and P.Z. 51; Geo. Mercer, 51; W. H. Ablitt, 51; T. Downing, 697; W. Barrett, 213; R. Thackeray, 650; A. T. Chambers, 650; W. H. Bateman, J.W. 697; W. G. Siggers, 697; A. Hunt, 276; E. Hennemeyer, 51, 697; A. Welch, W.M. 51; Ambrose Tennant, Henry Samuel, P.M. 51; W. Richey, 51 and 700; W. S. Sprent, 51, P.G.S.B.; W. Basham, Sec. 650; A. C. Veley, P.M. 276, P.G.J.W.; C. Gunner, Tyler 51; J. Brice, 650; W. Murray, 225; T. Truce, P.G.D. 276; Frank Whitmore, P.M. 276; W. G. Burgess, W.M. 214; G. Gard Pye, P.P.G.S.W., W.M. 650, S.W. 51; F. A. Cole, P.P.G.R., P.M. 51; S. Chaplin, P.P.G.S.W., P.M. 51; T. J. Ralling, Sec. 51; Fred. Standingford, 1024; John Coppin, P.M. 51, P.P.

G.J.W.; T. Rix, R.M. 697, P.P.G.S.B.; J. H. Boulton, D.C. 697; Chas. Lucas, 650; D. M. B. Wheeler, J.W. 276; and others.

Visitors—J. R. Foulger, P.M. 177 and 795, P.Z. 177; Robert Bewick, J. H. Staddon, W.M. 376; and others.

The Provincial Grand Lodge voted £10 10s. out of its funds towards the Harwich lifeboat.

Masonic and General Tidings.

At the Levée held by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales for and on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen our excellent and well-known Bro. Lieutenant-Colonel James Peters had the pleasure and honour of presenting to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales Bro. the Rev. J. Vaughan, M.A.

The Prince and Princess of Wales arrived on Monday afternoon at Sandringham with their children for the Whitsun holidays. The Prince has been absent from Sandringham for eight months. Their Royal Highnesses and suite consisted of Lady Emily Kingscote, Miss Knollys, Colonel Teesdale, Bro. Francis Knollys, Mr. Holzmann, and the Rev. J. N. Dalton.

A valuable testimonial, in the shape of a handsomely-chased silver claret jug, has been presented to Bro. J. T. Ward, of St. John's College, Cambridge, the senior wrangler, by the master and scholars, past and present, of the Rochester Grammar School, at which Bro. Ward was educated. Bro. Ward, who met with a complete ovation, alluded in terms of gratitude to the excellent education he had received at Rochester, before he passed to the University, under the able tuition of his valued master, the Rev. Robert Whiston.

POSTAL ARRANGEMENTS.—It is announced by order of the Postmaster-General that correspondence for the French colonies will be subject, on and after July 1st, to the rates of postage applicable to the Postal Union. There will also be a reduction of postage to the East Indies, Aden, and Zanzibar, and to Australia and New Zealand, via Brindisi, and to Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, China, Labuan, and other foreign countries in the East, either via Brindisi or via Marseilles.

The thirty-first festival of the Royal General Theatrical Fund was held on Wednesday night in the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street. Mr. Alfred de Rothschild presided, and among those present were Mr. J. B. Buckstone, Mr. Alfred Wigan, Mr. E. Villiers, Mr. J. Coleman, Mr. E. L. Blanchard, Mr. E. Ledger, Mr. C. W. Thompson, and Mr. Garston Murray.

The Coaching Club has given a donation of £50 to the Cabdrivers' Benevolent Association, 15, Soho-square, as a contribution to the annuity fund for aged or infirm cabmen.

The annual fiête and summer entertainment at the Asylum for Idiots, Earlswood, Redhill, Surrey, will be held on Thursday, July 6th.

It is expected that H.R.H. Prince Leopold, Prov. G.M. Oxford, who arrived in Paris on Tuesday night, will make some stay in that capital.

Sir Gilbert Scott's design for completing the restoration of the exterior of the octagon of Ely Cathedral, at a cost of nearly £3000, has been adopted.

The Secretary of State for War has approved of a review of Volunteers taking place in Hyde Park on or about July 1. The exact date will hereafter be notified.

Madame Tussaud and Sons have added a model portrait of the late Sultan, Abdul Aziz, to their collection.

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., was presented with a congratulatory address by the brethren of Lynn on Monday last.

The annual dinner of the Needlemakers' Company will take place at the Star and Garter, Richmond, on Saturday, the 24th inst.

The annual festival of the Benevolent Fund of Mark Grand Lodge will be held on the 19th July.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Kent is to be held at Deal on Wednesday, July 12th, at which meeting it is proposed to vote one hundred pounds to the relief of three poor brethren, two hundred pounds to the Freemasons' Boys' School, forty pounds to the Girls' School, and a similar amount to the Benevolent Institution; also to consider the following proposition, proposed by Bro. G. Snow, P. Prov. G.S.W.:—"That in the opinion of this Provincial Grand Lodge the time has arrived for special provision being made for the infant orphans of Masons, and that the opinion of the other Provincial Grand Lodges be ascertained as to whether an institution, somewhat similar to the Infant Orphan Asylum, having for its object the reception of infant orphans of Masons' be established, it would receive their support."

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE IN LIVERPOOL.—The warrant for the Dramatic Lodge, No. 1609, was received last Saturday, and the consecration will take place in the course of next week or that following. Bro. J. Bell, W.M. 1356, is, by special dispensation, the W.M. Designate, and Bro. W. Chapman the S.W. Designate; and there is little doubt that the latest addition to the roll of lodges will, from the spirit displayed in connection with its foundation, take first rank in every respect amongst those in West Lancashire.

On Wednesday evening the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers entertained a numerous and distinguished assembly in their hall at London Bridge, on the occasion of the presentation of the freedom of the guild to Bro. His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught.

THE LIMITS OF MASONIC PUBLICATION.

This is confessedly one of the most difficult topics on which to dilate, or with which to treat. And the difficulty arises from the very nature of things, from the necessities of the case. For we in England—rightly or wrongly, we pause not to enquire to-day—adhere firmly to the oral delivery of ceremonial and exposition. In some countries it is different, but with us, and we think wisely, there is no "sealed book," so to say, of general appeal and infallible authority. Hence the publication of the proceedings of the Craft in England always has two great difficulties to contend with, and runs the risk of being confronted by one of the two "horns of the dilemma," over-publication of detail, uninteresting repetition of commonplace and well-known Ritual formularies. "Incidis in Scyllam cupiens evitare Charibdin." If, for instance, you dilate too much on lodge proceedings, you inevitably find yourselves treating as common and fit matters for publication the minutiae of the ritualism of Freemasonry until to profanes as well as to professed the technical terms and usages of lodge work become quite familiar. This we hold to be a great mistake, and therefore we have now for some time carefully eschewed, as far as lay in us, all references and correspondence respecting pure ritual, and shall certainly continue to do so. So again, if you simply relate the normal proceedings of lodge work and lodge banquets, the reading becomes neither very intellectual nor very profitable. Like in all other things, sameness produces monotony, and plethora leads to surfeit. It appears to us, therefore, that in order to keep to the "golden mean" in this branch of Masonic literature we should always endeavour to avoid too much expansion and freedom of language on the one hand and too much repetition of well-known habits on the other. While one extreme is hurtful to the interests of Freemasonry, the other falls upon our Masonic palate, so that it often requires a steady hand to keep the helm amidships, and steer the good old Craft safely through the breakers on either side into the still water of peaceful and approving sympathy. We hold, then, it will be observed, that great caution is still both advisable and requisite in all Masonic publication, and that especially as regards the current proceedings of the Order our reports should be neither too profuse in gushing statements, nor too dry in long-accustomed technicalities. That is a most mistaken view of the Masonic Press which would identify it with anything of unlicensed publication, and we cannot too severely deprecate anything like hasty indiscretion on a point which is, in our opinion, so essential to the best interests of Freemasonry, owing to the peculiar nature and characteristic of the Institution itself. But there is another feature of this question, of publication which we must now consider. It is not merely the hebdomadal reporting of Masonic proceedings, or lodge gatherings, with which we have to do. We may observe that the actual reports in the "Freemason," qua reports, are marked by great clearness, skill, and fairness. But there is a Masonic literature which is, to say the truth, going ahead. And if it be true that good old Dr. Oliver paved the way by a too liberal dealing with Masonic regulation, by too much of communicativeness on matters, too, not purely archaeological, we can but feel that others have out-Heroded Herod. In some countries and by some writers Masonic publication seem to have been pushed to the extreme that propriety would suggest or duty sanction. Some might be disposed to say and to think a good deal beyond both, but we do not wish to appear to lay down anything like the principles of a Masonic censorship. There is still a wide difference, in our humble opinion, between what is allowable to print on Masonic archæology, and what is permissible, even in good form, to publish in respect of Masonic ceremonial. The former may fairly be submitted to the profane and to the world, the latter ought to be reserved for the professed and the lodge-room. In this respect we feel sure that we are on a wrong tack and a "false scent," so to say, and shall have to retrace our steps, to "hark back." We cannot continue to go the pace! If the system some are following is to be persisted in, there will be little left of Masonic reserve, and all the checks of Masonic silence and caution will have been ruthlessly swept away. Though this is true rather of other countries than our own, still the warning is needed by us, as we have a school, though not a large one, anxious apparently, though not on any very intelligible grounds, to be very generous and communicative as regards the arcana of Freemasonry. We can, then, have little hesitation in condemning such a system openly to-day. It is hurtful to Freemasonry, and injurious to us all. It affects our Masonic character for fair dealing and plain sailing, and our fidelity to an honorable observance of our own laws, and tends more than anything else to give arms to the hands of those who deprecate or dislike Masonic literature per se, while it alarms the timid, and decides the hesitating, being so clearly an open violation of the first principles of our Order. What Masonic literature may be, might be, ought to be, we will consider next week.

THE EXPENSES OF LODGE BANQUETS.

One of the most unsatisfactory arrangements of our private lodges is, that connected with the victualling and commissariat department. A very large amount is annually swallowed up by the payment for dinners, which might be much better used, for which no satisfactory return is made, and which are too often, amid much external show, but a "Barnacles feast" for hungry and querulous brethren. It is certainly very hard, after a long day's work in chambers or counting-house, amid the Bulls and the Bears, in the hospital, or in the parish, amid the grave duties which harass and perplex all ordinary mortals, to find ourselves seated down to partake of insipid viands and questionable wines, to receive indeed but a very poor equivalent for what we pay so liberally. One feels under such melancholy circumstances how the innate dignity of the Briton and of the Freemason is palpably and materially injured; how the needful feelings of self-respect and self-gratification ought to be asserted and vindicated. But what is to be done? Labour requires refreshment. We must eat and drink, though the cynic may say, "Je ne vois pas la nécessité," and how else are the arduous sacrifices we make for the work and honour of our lodges to be fitly repaid or compensated? What "solatium" are we to receive when we have adjourned from the serious responsibilities of lodge rule and work, to the pleasant symposium, or the sustaining and animated banquet? It appears to us that lodges have the remedy in their own hands, and that all complainants can speedily have their vehement and indignant complaints remedied. Why should not lodges, for instance, cater for themselves at Freemasons' Hall and elsewhere? Why should they not, if they think well so to do, cook their own victuals, and lay in their own wine, alike in that central house of English Freemasonry and in all private lodge halls? The adjournment for the banquet to cafés and hotels is, we believe, a great mistake. We apprehend that there is no real difficulty in the matter, and that where there's a will there's a way. There is accommodation, for instance, under the Board Room, and elsewhere, at Freemasons' Hall, where lodge private kitchens might be set up. There is space and convenience, with some easy alteration, for the storage of lodge cellars. We feel sure that such a change would be most acceptable to lodges and valuable to the health of our brethren. The expenses of the banquets could be materially reduced, and contentment instead of grumbling would be the result. If the whole of these arrangements were placed under one able and active brother, with autocratic powers, the present difficulty would soon cease, and we should no more hear the mournful complaint of excellent men and Masons, that their digestions are impaired and their tempers soured, and that they do not receive a "quid pro quo." We feel deeply for all such, and for their bodily and mental sufferings, and can only hope that ere long we may have to report in our veracious pages a happier state of things, and publish even the expressed satisfaction of a grateful clientèle. It is just possible that the complaints which rise up are somewhat exaggerated, and much perhaps may be allowed at the close of May, when diners out are somewhat dyspeptic, and the average Briton or Freemason is looking forward for sea breezes, or Welsh hills, for the waters of some German "Bad," or for the restoring freshness of the English Channel. It is at such a time that molehills become mountains, and that Bro. Grogan's indisposition and Bro. Potter's objurgations are traceable as much as anything to successive dinners and a good deal of "refreshment." We are only talking now of bonâ-fide complaints, and we are perfectly aware that such complaints are not universal. But we contend that our whole system of lodge banquets requires revision and control. We spend, in our humble opinion, too much upon it, owing to defective arrangement, and we feel sure by a careful readjustment of our Grand Lodge regulations in this respect a wonderful saving would accrue and more satisfaction generally be given to the Craft. We are of course aware that there are two sides to this, as to every other question, and if any of our good brethren like to give us their opinion on it, "pro or con," we shall, with needful editorial supervision of course, "bien entendu," be willing to give them a fair field and free course in our impartial columns.

THE EAST.

What memories and associations belong to the East. Whether as Freemasons or as citizens of the world, we must be the dullest, or most apathetic of mortals, if we do not feel an interest in that wondrous region, whence has burst forth, so to say, the whole history of the world, from which still flow to us to-day the most affecting and the most solemn of human association. The voices of a great dead past, of a mighty old world, seem to emerge alike from the lapse of ages, and the haze which still overhangs that wondrous Orient, reminding us of a common origin and fellowship, the same sympathies, and the same rejoicings, of blended hopes and fears, interests and aspirations, united aims and relationships, the faith of ages, the rule of life! As Freemasons we must ever look kindly and benignly on the East. The East beheld our origin and witnessed our onward march; its legends and its living memories, distinguish from first to last every tradition of our Order, and every portion of our ritual! But taking a broader view even as citizens of the world, the East must have, as it seems to us, a charm ever for us all! It is still to us the magic land of romance, and early dreams, the land whose marvellous yet fascinating story still affects the innocence of youth, warms the maturity of manhood, and brightens the twilight of old age! Its history and its people, its vicissitudes and its trials, its heroes and its heroines, its wonders and its landmarks still move the imagination and arrest the steps of the wandering pilgrim abroad, of the admiring student at home. There is a spell from its calm decay, its monumental glories, its scenes, its sands, its palm trees, its seas, its palaces, its pyramids, and its rivers, which can lend to poetry a charm, to prose a fervour, which equally attract the attention of our statesman and the student, the antiquary, and the annalist, the believing, and the sceptical, the traveller, and the stay at home. From it what mighty impulses have been lent to art, and science, to poetry, to the drama, to the architecture we admire, and to the paintings we praise? Say what we will, the East is still for us the land of romance and yet of reality, of strange contrasts, of marvellous vicissitudes, of all that is often weird and awful, and yet graceful and glowing, of all that makes up the sentiment of life, or develops the poetry of being. And the East is a clime moreover, of often startling intelligences, and unlooked-for events. Beneath that blue sky and glaring sun, beneath the lethargy and exhaustion, so to say, of nature, are to be found the vivid passions, and the stirring emotions of more excitable lands! We hear in the daily telegram, of the deposition of this Sultan, the elevation of that Caliph of the Faithful, and we are lost in a mist of strange conjectures and endless queries. To-day all seems to be done in a new way, on the most approved plan, of this civil and sagacious age, of a time when men often think the veil of outward and affected courtesy, may be a substitute for angry acts and outrageous proceedings! Exit the old Sultan, enter the new Sultan; the cards are shuffled, and the situation is changed. Voila tout. With that exception all remains the same, and what the future has in store for us, and for the East, who can venture to say? Well all this is better than the days of dark deeds in the Seraglio, of heartrending shrieks in the Bosphorus, of the crimes which stain the annals of Turkey, of that recklessness of human suffering which too often marks the revolution of empires. The old Sultan is in the Pavilion of the Tcheragan Palace, resigned and contented with his family, and numerous dependants, and the new Sultan is amid all the stateliness and glories of the Dolma Bagtche Palace, a few days previously hiding in a cellar, his life hanging on a thread. How wonderful are the vicissitudes of the world, and the shifting scenes of this sublunary life. For some time to come we all shall await with breathless interest the telegraphic intelligence of each returning day, as the life drama of the East is played out, and one act succeeds to another, on that crowded stage. Still as Freemasons, our sympathies go with the East. Not being politicians, we do not even presume to glance at what the profane publicist may conjecture or assert, but this we may be permitted to observe, that as of old, the East still plays the most important part in the history of the ages as they roll on, and so we believe it will ever be in the good Providence, of the Great Architect of the Universe, until that greater hour, when even the wonders of the Orient shall have passed away, and this world of ours, with its greatness and littleness, its triumph and its defeats, its heroism and its horrors, is itself but a faded vision of the past.

We had written this when the sad news is flashed to us in a few hours of the dark ending of Abdul Aziz, an astounding surprise, as the "Times" has it, and an awful incident, we will add of Oriental politics. The telegrams assert that by suicide in the Tcheragan Palaces, Abdul Aziz put an end to his life, on the morning of June 4th. He was buried, it is said, "in the afternoon of the same day, with all the usual pomp, and all the honour due to the deceased," and was "placed in the Mausoleum of the Sultan Mahmoud." Here we leave the matter to-day, as it would be a waste of time now, in our imperfect information, to dilate at any length on such wondrous changes and so mournful a catastrophe.

WHIT-MONDAY'S HOLIDAY.

As Freemasons, we rejoice in all that affects the social happiness, and comfort, and welfare of the People. We leave politics to the politicians, and grievances to the grievance-mongers, and the turbid scenes of foreign affairs to those whose duty and interest are identified with their peaceful progress and happy solution. But on our own principles we have a right, and we mean to exercise it, from time to time, to express our humble opinion on all matters which relate to the social progress of our own "goodfolk" or of humanity at large. We are among those who have always welcomed the quarterly holiday. We feel sure that it is a wise provision, fraught with health and happiness, to many toiling thousands, whose lives of hourly, daily labour are cheered by the anticipation of a pleasant outing. And do not let us too hastily take stock, or affect to discuss the question how the holiday is used, for many very difficult considerations arise up before us at once. It is not the working-classes alone who misuse opportunities, or pervert hours of ease! And because of the "abuse" by some of these days of "holiday," are we to deny the use to the great majority, which seriously and soberly avails itself of its hard-earned day of honest recreation? It is pleasant to note how, despite the marring weather, how thousands were abroad everywhere on Whit-Monday in health and good-humour determined to enjoy their "Alba dies!" We trust that on another holiday we may not hear that "red tape" again interferes even with a holiday. It seems that at the British Museum and other places women with babies in their arms were not admitted. Now we are not much given to babies ourselves—we are like the man who said distinctly that he "objected to babies on principle!" We are quite aware of the nuisance sometimes caused by vociferous and uneasy babies, and as a rule no doubt the exclusion of this turbulent portion of the community is justified by every law of comfort, quiet, and hygiene. But it is not so much the babies, as the women who carry their babies, we are thinking of. What are they to do? Why should they be excluded on their holiday? It is their one holiday for many weary months, and as they cannot leave their babies, why are they not on these holidays to have the same enjoyments as others? It seems to us very "hard lines" for the women, who can appreciate as well, if not better, than the men, the acquisitions of science and the wonders of nature, the results of enterprise, and the relics of archæology. So let us hope for better things, and for the increased use of the popular holidays, never grudging on any ground whatever that occasional cessation of toil and care which is ever good, depend upon it, for us all alike.

THE QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION.

The early hour at which we go to press on Thursday renders it impossible for us to call attention editorially to the proceedings of the last Quarterly Communication, which we shall hope to do next week.

ERRATUM.

In the first leader of last week read "West Lancashire" for "East Lancashire."

REGALIA.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I was pleased to see that my letter on this very important subject called forth criticism, and I will at once proceed to answer Bros. "R. W. O." and "Magnus Ohren," i.e. to the best of my ability.

I agree with "R. W. O." that the private lodge jewels, referred to on p.p. 121 and 122, seem to be those that are worn suspended from the collar of office; but, that, Article 2, p. 118, appears to allow a P.M.'s jewel to be worn as a breast jewel (one may suppose) although "Past Master" is not named on p. 16 as a degree "recognised and acknowledged."

It is a pity that Bro. "M.O." did not take a little more time when he so kindly essayed to put "R. W. O." and myself to rights, as a very cursory glance at his letter and the following remarks will indicate:—

Firstly: He gives a quotation from my letter, yet attributes it to "R. W. O."

Secondly: He says "R. W. O." and "Ad Rem" "confound presentation with regulation jewels," but reference to my letter, or "R. W. O.'s" second letter, will show neither of us to be in such a state of abject ignorance of the main point, or article, on which this "vexata questio" turns.

Thirdly: He seeks to fix the case personally on "R. W. O." by suggesting "if he should become eligible to attend Grand Lodge he will find," &c. Personalities are un-Masonic, unnecessary, and objectionable.

Fourthly: He gives an extract from the Constitutions on jewels, but as there is another, under the head of regalia, that is so much more explicit and binding which I think would have been the better to have reproduced, therefore I will embody a copy of it in this letter.

Fifthly: Respecting Bro. "M.O.'s" title or affix, is it right or wrong? Is not a Warden of the Grand Lodge termed a "Grand Warden?" and of a Prov. Grand Lodge a "Prov. Grand Warden for ———?" If so, should not Bro. "M.O.'s" affix run as follows:—"P.P.J.G.W. for Surrey?"

Article 2, p. 118 (referred to above), says:—"No honorary or other jewel or emblem shall be worn in the Grand Lodge or any subordinate lodge which shall not appertain to or be consistent with those degrees which are recognized and acknowledged by and are under the control of the Grand Lodge as part of pure and ancient Masonry."

If the foregoing admits of a Past Master wearing a P.M.'s jewel on his breast, in addition to the one on his collar, it is still qualified by the Article on p. 122, which says they shall be in silver, for with certain exceptions, made and provided, is it not clear that in regalia—

Private lodges are restricted to sky-blue and silver, and are termed "Blue."

Grand Lodge and Provincial Grand Lodges are restricted to garter-blue and gold, and are termed "Purple."

So, in a word, you may designate the former as "silver" and the latter as "gold."

Such being the case, can gold be said to appertain, or belong to, be consistent with, or be substituted by silver?

Further—The degree or status of a Past Master being acquired in a "Silver" lodge, I should say, as a paragon of inconsistency, give me a brother who wears a Past Master's jewel in silver on his official collar, yet can wear a gold one on his breast.

In reference to what Bro. "M. O." says about "confounding presentation with regulation jewels," while he admits presentation jewels must be consistent with the degrees recognized and acknowledged, yet he would allow gold to be substituted for silver; would it not be as consistent to allow a Rose Croix jewel to be worn simply because it is a "presentation jewel?" Could anything be more incongruous? The one word "consistent" is surely enough to make the meaning of the law clear. Crabb ("English Synonyms") defines consistent as follows:—"It is not consistent with the elevated and dignified character of a clergyman to engage in the ordinary pursuits of other men."

Gold to be substituted at pleasure for silver is surely as inconsistent as it would have been to have expected the late Mark Lemon to have appeared at an evening party in the motley costume of a jester.

Or that evening dress, generally understood to mean black and white, would justify any one appearing (as "Punch" suggested) in a black shirt, and white coat, trousers, &c.

Or, again, of the actor who, having but a scanty wardrobe, played Hamlet in a red cloak, and, on being taken to task, made a virtue of the necessity by referring to the text,—

"Tis not alone my inky cloak, good mother," and adding,— "Had they never heard of red ink?"

Bro. "M.O." says that P.M.'s jewels are generally presented. Perhaps so, but surely a P.M. is equally justified in buying one as he is in receiving one as a present.

Doubtless many a worthy P.M. has not been so fortunate as to have one presented to him, and the high price set by the fashion of illegal or inconsistent (gold) jewels may deter him, or he may prefer giving the money to the charities.

As a recommendation to lodges, or brethren, about to present a P.M.'s jewel to a brother they esteem worthy of such a proud mark of distinction, let me suggest that they buy a silver jewel, and as it is so truly worldly to mete out esteem by intrinsic value, let the difference be made up to five or ten guineas and paid over to one of our noble charities, in the name of the P.M., and let these facts be recorded in a plain address—thus, say, £13 would be ample for the jewel, the address, and to make the P.M. a Life-Governor in one of our charities. Where is the P.M. who would not elect this truly Masonic and self-commending plan, notwithstanding how much he might have personally given to the charities? Such a jewel would be a "jewel" indeed.

Fraternally yours,

"AD REM."

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Bro. R. W. O. asks certain questions for his own information. I presume that when you allow letters to appear in your paper you expect replies to be given which may be interesting to the Craft in general. My letter was so intended, and is, I consider, sufficiently intelligible. I beg to be excused from going into personal questions for which I have neither time nor inclination.

I am, &c.,

MAGNUS OHREN, P.P.G.J.W.

HONORARY MEMBERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

If your space permits would you kindly give a short resumé of the status of an honorary member in a lodge, or refer me to some work where it may be found. I think this would be of sufficient general interest to warrant its insertion.

Yours fraternally,

"AN HONORARY MEMBER."

FRENCH LODGES IN ENGLAND

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Referring to a letter from an English reader of the "Monde Maçonnique" in this days "Freemason," I think if your correspondent will refer to our Grand Secretary he will find that the lodge referred to is not recognised by any Masonic body, as I have in my possession a copy of a certificate issued by a lodge calling itself "The Reformed Masonic Order of Memphis, or Rite of the Grand Lodge of Philadelphia," and holding its meetings at Stratford, in Essex. This was sent to all the lodges, accompanied by a circular from our late Grand Secretary, Bro. Wm. G. Clarke, dated 24th October, 1859, cautioning all regular Masons against allowing any member of such a body under any circumstances to have access to their lodges, or holding any communication with such irregular lodges.

I have no doubt that you can obtain a copy of the above on application at the Grand Secretary's office.

Yours fraternally,

ARTHUR LEARD,

P.M., Sec. Lewis Lodge, 1185, Wood Green, June 3rd, 1876.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Would you kindly inform us (Lodge 579, St. Bryde), through the columns of your influential journal: (1) Whether a brother can demand being a member of a newly constituted lodge, because he merely signed a petition praying a charter to be granted, without producing vouchers, such as diploma, to demit from his mother lodge—to prove beyond doubt he is the man he represents himself to be. (2) If he becomes a member is he not required to obligate or take some obligation to obey the bye-laws and office-bearers of the lodge? (3) Can such a brother belong to his mother lodge and be a voting member of another without owing any obedience or obligation to the latter? (4) Whether should the Greater Light be closed during the lodge being called from labour to refreshment, or shut during such refreshment. Is it illegal to have it open during the latter?

Yours fraternally,

W. H. LINDSAY CRAWFORD,

Secretary 579, S.C.

[(1) A brother signing a petition for charter as a founder has a right to be a member, but must produce diploma, and demit from his mother lodge or last lodge he may have been a member of. (2) He must be obligated to the newly constituted lodge. (3) He cannot be a voting member of any lodge unless all dues are paid and obligated. (4) The Greater Light should be closed during the time the lodge is at refreshment.]

A CAUTION.

The following circular has been issued by Lodge Friendly, 1513, Barnsley:—

"April, 1876.

"Dear Sir and Brother,—

"A man, having a foreign accent, grey whiskers, tall, and aged about 65 years, who gives the name of Francis Joseph Risse, has by his artfulness imposed upon several members of this lodge, and obtained various sums of money from them on misrepresentation. He says that he is, or was a member of St. Peter's Lodge, Peterboro'; that he is a Hungarian, and only wants sufficient money to enable him to get to Peterboro', when he will be able to obtain money to take him to his native place. Enquiry having been made at the lodge named, we find that he is an impostor, and never was a member of St. Peter's Lodge. As this man is in possession of a great deal of information we take the liberty of putting you on your guard, lest the members of your lodge be imposed upon as we have been.

"We are, Worshipful Sir and Brother, yours faithfully and fraternally,

"THOMAS BRAITHWAITE, W.M.,
"T. F. SHEPHERD, Secretary."

REPORTS OF THE HIGH DEGREES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I wish to join "A Past Provincial Grand Officer" in expressing my disappointment as no report has been given in the "Freemason," not only of the meeting of Great Priory held in London May 12th, but of two other important meetings held in London the same week, namely, the A. and A. Rite 33° and the Royal Order of Scotland. I am sure a report of the business transacted at such meetings as these would be far more interesting to a large number of the brethren who are not able to attend them than the speeches that are so fully reported from Craft lodges.

I should like to see the "Freemason" move like what it professes to be, namely, "a first class reference and chronology of the leading events in Freemasonry during the year."

I am, yours fraternally,

CHAS. FENDELOW.

CATCH QUESTIONS.

Can any brother give me the interpretation of certain letters, and catch questions—at page 100 of the Revelations of a Square, either in the "Freemason," or privately to "Enquirer," care of Editor of the "Freemason," 108, Fleet-street, London, E.C. The letters are T. F. B. G. T. H. A. F. G., and H. F. W. P. O. T. T. P. O. T. F. ENQUIRER.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF EAST LANCASHIRE.

The annual meeting of the above Prov. Grand Lodge was held in St. Saviour's School, Bacup, on Thursday, the 25th May. There was a large attendance of brethren from all parts of the province, the total number present being about 400. The Craft Lodge was opened in the Three Degrees by the W.M. and Officers of the Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, Bacup, after which the R.W. Prov. G. Master (Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie), and the Prov. G. Officers entered in procession, and the Prov. G. Lodge was opened in due form and with prayer at half-past one o'clock. The roll of lodges was called over, when it was found that all the lodges in the province—82 in number—were represented, in some instances very numerously. The R.W. Prov. G. Master announced that he had received letters of apology from the absent Prov. G. Officers, also one from Bro. J. L. Hine, P. Prov. S.G. Warden, Chairman of the Charity Committee, who was to have been presented at this meeting with a testimonial as an acknowledgment of his assiduous and successful exertions in promoting the interests of this province with the various Masonic charitable institutions, but who was prevented from attending by severe indisposition. The R.W. Prov. G. Master paid an appropriate tribute to Bro. Hine's eminent services, and expressed his deep sympathy with him upon the circumstances which prevented him from being present.

The Right W. Prov. Grand Master then said he would now proceed to instal Bro. George Mellor, the May of Ashton-under-Lyne, as Deputy Provincial Grand Master, but he could not do so without alluding to the loss the province had sustained by the death of Bro. W. Romaine Callender, who formerly held the office. On a former occasion he had alluded to the death of the late Deputy Grand Master, but the event was then so recent, and their sense of the loss they had sustained so painful, that he could not fully and adequately express his feelings, and it was quite impossible for him to do so now. He then proceeded to speak of the zealous, courteous, and efficient manner in which Bro. Callender had discharged his Masonic duties, and said with regard to Bro. Mellor, that he was a gentleman who was known both in his private and public capacity to be a thoroughly honourable, straightforward, upright, and gentlemanly man. He had succeeded well in the various municipal and civic offices he had held in the borough in which he resided, and he had no doubt the same conduct he had displayed in those offices would be equally well displayed in the distinguished Masonic office that was now about to be conferred upon him.

Bro. George Mellor having been duly installed, briefly returned thanks for the honour the Provincial Grand Master had done him in appointing him, with the approbation of his brethren, to that high and distinguished position. Referring to the late Bro. Callender, he spoke of him as a perfect and excellent Mason, and said he could not find words in which to express himself better and more appropriately than those of our national bard—

"He was a man, take him for all in all

We shall not look upon his like again."

He trusted that in the discharge of his duties he should be encouraged by their approbation and help. (Applause.)

Bro. Statham, Prov. G. Treas., presented his statement of the accounts of the Provincial Grand Lodge, which were found to be in a highly satisfactory condition. Bro. John Thomas Hooper, of Blackley, near Manchester, was elected G. Treasurer for the ensuing year by an almost unanimous vote.

The Provincial Grand Master then proceeded to invest the Provincial Grand Officers with their insignia and jewels of offices as follow:—

W. Harrison, Blackburn	Prov. S.G.W.
Thomas Rhodes, Manchester	Prov. J.G.W.
The Rev. A. Salts, LL.D., Littleborough, and the Rev. S. Y. Bradshaw, Manchester	Prov. G. Chaplains.

The business of the Provincial Grand Lodge was then transacted, and amongst other business it was agreed that Bro. Tannah, the Prov. G. Sec., should be paid the sum of £100 per annum for the services of an assistant. We may here state that Bro. Tannah, was appointed to his present office in 1848, when the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge was held at Bacup, since which time he has held the office with entire satisfaction to all concerned. The services of Bro. Mutton, his assistant, were also spoken of in high terms.

The Prov. Grand Secretary then announced that Bro. N. Chadwick, of the Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, had to perform what he had no doubt would prove a very pleasing duty. Bro. Chadwick then, approaching the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, said he had been requested by the officers and brethren of the Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, to undertake what was to him a most pleasant duty. It was to present to the Right Worshipful Grand Master some acknowledgment of his great kindness in causing the most important, successful, and in several respects memorable meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of East Lancashire to be held at Bacup. That acknowledgment had taken the form of an address, which read as follows:

"The Honourable Fraternity of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons.

"To Colonel Le Gendre N. Starkie, Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master of East Lancashire.

"Right Worshipful Sir and brother,—

"We, the officers and members of the Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, Bacup, desire to offer you our hearty thanks for the honour you have conferred upon us in holding the annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge at Bacup, and also to accord to you, and to all the provincial officers and brethren, a most cordial welcome on the occasion of your visit to this populous and enterprising part of our province. We feel proud to acknowledge that you have, since your elevation to your high and distinguished position, discharged your onerous duties with commendable zeal, tact, and efficiency, and that under your fostering care the Craft has not only been, but continues to be, favoured with increasing prosperity. We fervently pray that under Divine Providence you may be long spared to preside over this important and flourishing province, and faithfully to preserve our landmarks, symbolisms, ceremonies, and privileges, as Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons of England.

"We are, Right Worshipful Sir and Brother, on behalf of the officers and members of the lodge, yours fraternally,

"James Pilling, W.M.

"Henry Taylor, S.W.

"John Wilson, J.W.

"James Barker, P.M., Hon. Sec.

"John Pilling, P.M., Treas.

"Bacup, 25th May, 1876."

He scarcely need say that the expression of feeling in that address was sincerity itself. It was a downright honest and true Masonic feeling, and one that on the part of the R.W. Grand Master was well merited. He had only to hope, and he had no doubt such hope would receive the fullest realisation, that the address would be received in the same kind spirit as that which had dictated its presentation.

The address was beautifully illuminated, and was enclosed in a massive gold frame.

The R.W. Prov. G. Master, in acknowledging the compliment, said it gave him great pleasure to find that his Masonic conduct had so far commended itself to the approval of the brethren of the Samaritan Lodge as to elicit from them such a tangible mark of their confidence. It was the first testimonial he had received since he entered upon the duties of his present high and distinguished position, and he should treasure it as a memento of one of the most pleasant provincial meetings he had ever attended. He should hang it in his home where it could be seen by his friends, and should hand it down as an heirloom to his children and his children's children. He hoped that as the letters of that address were illuminated in blue and gold that the address itself would ever illuminate his Masonic conduct.

The Prov. G. Lodge was then closed, after which the officers and brethren were, under the direction of Bro. C. M. Jones, Prov. G. Dir. of Cers., and his assistant, Bro. James Shillito, marshalled in processional order to the Mechanics' Institution, where the usual banquet was to be held. The brethren wore their badges and jewels of office, and were headed by the Wellington brass band. The streets were well lined with spectators, and as the weather was tolerably favourable, the procession, though we are afraid it did not meet everybody's expectations, was a great success.

The arrangements for the banquet at the Mechanics' Institution were on a large and costly scale. The hall had been decorated for the occasion in a most artistic and superb style. The back part of the platform was raised and covered with carpet, on which was placed a table extending the full width of the platform. There was also a table on each side of the platform, each of which was hung round with blue and purple velvet, &c., and overlaid with fine white muslin. The space behind the Grand Master was made to represent a bay window with orange and blue curtains, and red valances trimmed with spangles, &c. The space behind the side tables was made to represent windows, with red and white curtains and purple and silk velvet valances, &c., trimmed with gold lace. Over these were shields, banners, &c., and from the roof were suspended festoons of green and pink muslin. In front of the platform there was placed, among a variety of beautiful plants, a statue, representing a female figure with a light in her hand. The windows were all draped with red and green sateen, trimmed with gold lace, &c., and overlaid with fine leno muslin, and purple and crimson silk velvet valances trimmed with gold lace. On the walls between the windows there was placed, on a blue ground, a fine landscape scene in Switzerland, and also figures representing different nations. These were placed on a scarlet ground, and underneath were very magnificent mirrors in gilt frames (kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. Henry Clough, Messrs. P. and J. Greenwood, and Mr. Wm. Lord). These were on a green and gold ground, over which were hung very massive silver-plated stars, shields, and banners, and other ornaments and Masonic emblems. Under the gallery, at the back part of the hall, was a framework of wood, covered with gold and green, and in the centre there was a mirror and other ornaments. The ground work was blue and the centre scarlet, and bore the initials H.R.H. in gold. Over these were placed the Prince of Wales' feathers in gold, and on each side was a magnificent shield, covered with gold and ornamented with Masonic emblems. The two spaces on each side of the platform were made in the form of panels, on which were figures, on a blue and white ground, of the Prince of Wales and the Princess of Wales. Various parts of the hall were adorned with shields and banners. The gallery was very neatly adorned with plants, flags, and shields, and the seats were covered with scarlet baize. The staircase and entrance were also decorated with shields, banners, &c., and the steps and landings were all covered with carpets. There was a profuse display of plants and flowers, which had been kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. E. Hoyle, of Moorlands, Mr. H. Maden, of Rockcliffe House, and Mr. John Hargreaves, of Greensnook.

The address which had been presented to the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master was exhibited in front of the platform, and was greatly admired. After the banquet ladies were admitted to the gallery, and they attended in large numbers, and were supplied with dessert. The vocalists were Miss Ho't, of Rawtenstall; Miss Smith, of Radcliffe; Mr. Green, of Rochdale; and Bro. Dumville, of Manchester; Bro. H. Taylor, S.W., ably officiating as accompanist, and they went through a most appropriate performance in first-class style. After dinner,

The Prov. Grand Master gave in succession the toasts of "The Queen," "The Prince of Wales, M.W. Grand Master." In proposing the toast of the Prince of Wales, the Grand Master referred to the fact that our future Sovereign had become a member of the Order, and had become Worshipful Grand Master of this country and the colonies. The toast was received with "three times nine."

The Prov. Grand Master next proposed "The Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family." Her fame, her goodness, and her beauty went before her before she arrived in this country. No princess ever came to this country who had more identified herself with the people of this country. The rest of the Royal family fulfilled their duty in a manner creditable to themselves and satisfactory to the country.

The Deputy Grand Master, Bro. George Mellor, proposed "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, Provincial Grand Master, the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master;" and the Grand Officers Present and Past." When they saw noblemen like these becoming members of the Craft, and doing their best for the good of the Order, they ought to be very proud.

Bro. James A. Birch proposed "Col. Le Gendre Starkie, R.W. Provincial Grand Master," which was received with loud cheers. In another portion of the county the name of Starkie was revered. He ventured to assert that the prestige of that house had never been more highly sustained than in the person of the Provincial Grand Master. The manner in which he performed suit and service in the Grand Lodge showed how fit he was for the position. The progress of Freemasonry in the province during his rule had been most rapid. He referred to the successful exertions which the Grand Master had made to establish a Masonic charity in East Lancashire, and said he ventured to think that in future days the rule of the Provincial Grand Master would be blessed by the families of indigent Masons. The toast was drunk with much enthusiasm.

The Prov. Grand Master returned his heartfelt thanks for the manner in which Bro. Birch had proposed his health, and said he only wished he was half as good a Mason as their brother had represented him to be. Though he was a stranger in that part of Lancashire, the manner in which he had been received would ever remain impressed on his mind. He simply wished as a man and a Mason to do his duty, and he hoped they would excuse his deficiencies. He had been brought up in the cradle of Freemasonry, and had the example of his father, as a Mason, before him. He sought neither honour nor glory. The true Mason did not seek honour or glory, but endeavoured to do his duty. They were a body of people who wished to do good. Friendship, love, and truth were the elements they held by. He loved his province as a father loved his family, and if he enforced the laws he would endeavour to do so justly, but as leniently as possible. He thanked the brethren of Bacup for the hearty manner in which they had received him, and the testimonial which they had presented to him.

The Prov. Grand Master, after passing a warm tribute to the memory of Bro. W. R. Callender, M.P., proposed "George Mellor, Esq., Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and the Provincial Grand Officers, Present and Past." He trusted Bro. Mellor would long have the pleasure of working in harmony and unity with him for the good of the Order. He trusted Bro. Mellor would have happiness in his new office.

Bro. Mellor briefly returned thanks. He said he had been thirty-five years connected with the Craft, and he had always tried to do his best for the interest of the Order. He thanked them for the great honour they had conferred upon him, stating that he would do all in his power for the good of the Craft.

The Prov. G. Master gave the next toast, "The Samaritan Lodge, No. 286, Bacup." He expressed the delight of himself and the other members on the manner in which they had received the Grand Lodge. He was glad there was a lodge of Freemasons in Bacup. He did not know how they managed their meetings, or whether they got blown up when they went home. He could assure them he never got blown up when he went home. He wished prosperity to the Bacup Lodge, and he hoped to meet many of them in future Grand Lodges.

Bro. the Rev. A. J. Harrison returned thanks for the W.M. He spoke only the sentiments of the brethren of the lodge when he said it was a proud day for the Freemasons of Bacup. The coming among them that day of so many men of high intelligence was a proof that Freemasonry was worthy of respect. Not only would the seventy or eighty members in Bacup be stimulated by the events of the day, but all the brethren of the Craft in Rossendale.

The other toasts were "The Masonic Charities," proposed by Bro. W. Harrison; "The Visiting Brethren," proposed by Bro. W. Blackledge, and acknowledged by Bro. Helliwell, of Bury; "The Ladies," proposed by Bro. J. T. Barcroft; "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers," proposed by Bro. R. H. Hardman; and "All Poor and Distressed Masons." The appropriate glee of "Good Night to the Day" exhausted the programme, after which the meeting broke up.

In the evening the front of the Mechanics' Institution was illuminated, the devices being a star and the Prince of Wales' feathers.

NAVAL PREPARATIONS.—Preparations have been made for dispatching to Malta medical stores for 5000 men, in addition to the strength of the squadron at present in the Mediterranean.

GRAND MARK LODGE.

The Half-yearly Communication of Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons was held on Tuesday evening, at 33, Golden-square, the Hall of the High Degrees of Freemasonry. At the opening of Grand Lodge it was formed as follows:—The Earl of Limerick, M.W.G.M.M.M.; Rev. G. R. Portal, P.G.M.M.M.; Col. Starkie, as G.S.W.; Capt. N. G. Philips, G.J.W.; Major Geo. H. Cozens, P.G. Org. Middlesex and Surrey; and H. Massey ("Freemason").

Bro. F. Binckes, Grand Secretary, having read the minutes of the last half-yearly communication, and of the movable Grand Lodge held at Bristol on the 28th April last, they were severally put to Grand Lodge and confirmed.

Bro. Binckes then read the following Report of the General Board:—

The number of certificates issued in the six months to 31st March last is 438.

During the same period warrants for new lodges have been granted:—

No. 189, Scarlett, Burnley.

No. 190, Adoniram, Mussoorie, Bengal.

No. 191, Friendship, Unanimity, and Philanthropy, Bridgewater.

No. 192, St. Cuthbert's, Berwick-on-Tweed.

The lamented death of Bro. W. Romaine Callender, M.P., caused, in addition to the loss of his valuable services as R.W. Deputy Grand Mark Master, a vacancy in the government of the province of Lancashire, in connection with which his exertions in behalf of the Order had been so successful and so highly appreciated. Fitting and appropriate notice of this unexpected and regretted event has already been taken, and it now only remains to add that the duties of R.W. Deputy Grand Mark Master, and of R.W. Provincial Grand Mark Master of Lancashire, have devolved upon the Rt. Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, whose appointment, it is confidently believed, will be hailed with satisfaction, not only by the brethren of the Province of Lancashire, but by the members of the Order at large.

Another change in provincial rule has been occasioned by the death of R.W. Bro. Sir John Cordy Burrows, whose too brief tenure of office as first Provincial Grand Mark Master of Sussex was productive of very considerable benefit to the Order, though the full advantages of his presidency could not be realised, as undoubtedly would have been the case had his valuable life been prolonged.

As successor to Sir Cordy Burrows, the brethren of the Province of Sussex, in Grand Lodge assembled, unanimously recommended Bro. James Mackay Cunningham, M.D., who so ably assisted his predecessor as Deputy Provincial Grand Mark Master, and the M.W. Grand Mark Master has been pleased to approve such recommendation.

In Madras the board have to report that in succession to R.W. Bro. Arthur Macdonald Ritchie, B.A., whose term of office had expired, Bro. Aubrey William Ogilvie Saunders has been recommended and approved as R.W. Provincial Grand Master.

A movable Grand Lodge was held by command of the M.W. Grand Mark Master at Bristol on Friday, 28th April, for the purpose of constituting a Mark Province of Bristol, and of installing Bro. William Augustus Frederick Powell as first Provincial Grand Master. A very successful meeting was held under the presidency of the W.M. Past Grand Mark Master, the Rev. G. R. Portal, in the unavoidable absence of the W.M. Grand Mark Master, who had fully proposed to be present, and from the known zeal of the Bristol brethren and the Provincial Grand Master, it may be safely predicted that the degree will take firm root in that ancient city.

The board have had under consideration the memorial, together with letters under date 26th November and 29th December, 1875, and 8th January, 1876, from a brother whose case has been previously before the General Board and this Grand Lodge. They regret that the personalities contained in these communications make it inadvisable under present circumstances to go further into the questions which he has raised. The correspondence is open to the inspection of any member of Grand Lodge.

Copies of the proceedings of the General Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the United States of America, and of the proceedings of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of the State of Maine, have been received. The board have to express their cordial acknowledgments to the learned and illustrious Comp. Josiah H. Drummond, Past General Grand High Priest, for his able defence of the Masonic position of this Grand Lodge as the legitimate head of the Mark Degree in England, contained in both the above publications.

The resolution adopted by this Grand Lodge at the last half-yearly communication, with reference to the relations between this Grand Lodge and other supreme Masonic jurisdictions under the "Tripartite Treaty," has been formally communicated by the Grand Secretary to the recognised officials of those bodies.

The annual festival in aid of the "Benevolent Fund" will be held on Wednesday, 19th July. The arrangements will be published in due course. The services of brethren representing lodges or provinces as Stewards are earnestly requested.

A grant of £20 to Bro. M. E., recommended by the board, requires confirmation by Grand Lodge.

The board has extreme satisfaction in submitting a recommendation, in proof of the gratifying condition of the finances of Grand Lodge, for the investment of £200 on account of the General Fund.

The invested property will then be:

On account of General Fund £400 0 0

On the motion of Bro. the Rev. D. Shaboe, P.G.C., seconded by the Rev. Dr. Brette, this report was ordered to be received.

On the motion of Bro. Levander, G. Reg., seconded by Bro. Meggy, P.G.M.O., the grant of £20 to Bro. M.E. was confirmed.

On the motion of Bro. W. S. Webster, seconded by Bro. Davison, G.T., £200 was ordered to be invested for the General Fund account.

The report was then ordered to be received and entered on the minutes, on the motion of the Rev. D. Shaboe, P.G.C., seconded by Bro. T. J. Sabine, P.G.A.D.C.

This being the day for the annual Installation of Grand Master, Dr. Thomas Trollope, G.D.C., proclaimed the Right Hon. the Earl of Limerick M.W.G.M.M.M. for the ensuing year, and he was saluted accordingly.

The Earl of Limerick afterwards rose and said,—Brethren, I have to thank you for this proof of your confidence in electing me for another term of office. I thank you heartily for the honour you have done me. I think I may say that during the past year of my office the Order has in no way gone backward. We have had, however, owing to individual losses of brethren high in office, and much esteemed in our Order, times of most sincere and heartfelt mourning; but, in spite of these losses, which we all deplore, the Order has gone on steadily progressing during the last year. A considerable number of new warrants have been granted, a new province has been formed, and I may say that the Degree is in as flourishing a state now as it ever has been in time past. I trust that during the next term of office with which you have so kindly entrusted me the progress which has been made will be continued. (Hear, hear.) My next duty is to thank those brethren who have so well discharged the duties of Grand Office during the past year, in my own name, and I am sure I may also do it in the name of Grand Lodge. Having done that I have to declare the Grand Offices vacant, and to proceed with the appointment and investiture of officers in their places. The office of Deputy Grand Master became vacant, as you are aware, since the last meeting of Grand Lodge, by the lamented death of our Bro. Romaine Callender. That office I have been able to fill, I trust and believe, to the satisfaction of all brethren of the Order by appointing to the vacancy Lord Skelmersdale. All the brethren are acquainted with the fact that from the nature of his duties during the parliamentary session, which are very arduous, he is kept pretty constantly in London. Our meeting now is held during the short parliamentary recess, and he is unfortunately out of town and not able to be here to-night. The brethren know that he discharges the duties of any office he undertakes very ably, and that he never takes an office the duties of which he does not thoroughly intend to discharge zealously. I appoint Lord Skelmersdale as Deputy Grand Master.

The following brethren were then appointed Grand Officers for the year:—

The Earl of Jersey.....	G.S.W.
General Brownrigg	G.J.W.
Rev. P. H. E. Brette, D.D., and Rev.
J. S. Brownrigg, M.A.	G.C.
F. Davison (elected)	G.T.
H. C. Levander	G.R.
F. Binckes	G.S.
W. Roebuck	G.M.O.
W. S. Webster	G.S.O.
H. Matthews	G.J.O.
Josiah Austin	G.S.D.
J. E. Curteis	G.J.D.
Edis	G.S.W.M.
H. M. Green	G.D.C.
Charles Lacey	G.A.D.C.
Henry Bagot	G. Swd. B.
E. W. Franklin	G. Std. B.
Frederick H. Cozens	G. Org.
John G. Fast	G.I.G.
H. W. Binckes	G. Asst. Sec.
C. T. Speight	G.T.
Captain Mason, C. Pulman, and
George Bolton	G. Stewards.

The Grand Master next nominated Bros. W. E. Gumblerton, Thomas Meggy, S. Rosenthal, Edis, Dibdin, and Ohren to serve on the General Board, and the Rev. G. R. Portal to be President.

Bros. Cubitt, Dewar, Sabine, Stidolph, and Roebuck were elected as members of this Board.

The Grand Master invested Bro. W. Roebuck with the Charity Jewel. Addressing Bro. Gerald Martin, from Poonah, he said that it was exceedingly pleasant to him to have to discharge a duty which had been cast on him by the brethren of Poonah. They had requested him to present to Bro. Gerald Martin, P.M. 1,34, a P.M. jewel, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented by the Brethren of the Mallet and Chisel Lodge, No. 134, to Worshipful Brother Gerald Martin, as an expression of their admiration and esteem for him as a Master, and their regard for him as a friend and brother."

Bro. Gerald Martin said it would always be a great pride to him to wear this jewel.

A Brother moved for a return at next Grand Lodge of the expenses of the Mark Grand Lodge Benevolent Festival of 1874, with the names of the Stewards, the amount payable by each, and a list of those who had not paid their proportion.

Bro. the Rev. D. Shaboe said that this subject had been mentioned before, and he had himself spoken upon it. He hoped that the expression of the brethren's feelings then given would have induced every brother who had not paid to forward the money. It was with great regret he found it necessary that such a motion should be made. Still he did not think there was one brother in that room who would put his name down as representing such a magnificent lodge as that, and not pay his money, unless through some forgetfulness. He hoped that by next Grand Lodge they would find that the right thing had been done; if not, he should have to say something very strong on that occasion.

Bro. Binckes informed the Grand Master that he had made repeated applications to the brethren who had not paid, but he hoped that what had just been said would have the desired effect.

Bro. Curteis, G.J.D., said they had heard that the funds of this Grand Lodge were in a flourishing condition, so flourishing indeed that they were able to put aside certain sums for investment. He therefore thought that they might also put aside something for some charitable object. (Hear, hear.) Consequently he would propose that 25 guineas be given to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and begged to give notice of motion to that effect.

The Rev. Bro. Langley, Leicester, then said he had been desired by the Prov. G.M. of Leicestershire to express his regret for his absence from this Grand Lodge, but he hoped that the Right Hon. the Grand Master would honour the province of Leicestershire by holding the Movable Grand Lodge there in the autumn, when he trusted another Mark Lodge would be consecrated there.

The M.W.G.M. said he should be very happy to accept the invitation which had been given by the brethren of Leicestershire, to hold a Movable Grand Lodge there.

The customary salutes for the new Grand Officers were afterwards given, and Grand Lodge was closed.

The banquet was held at the Café Royal, Air-street, and was followed by the usual toasts. The Right Hon. the Grand Master presided, having the Rev. Dr. Brette, G.C., on his right, and the Past Grand Master, Bro. Portal, on his left.

In giving the toast of "The Queen and Mark Masonry," the Grand Master said that there was no one who practised that most exalted principle of our Order, Charity, more than the Queen and the Royal family. With respect to Mark Masonry, it never was more flourishing than now, and he believed it was steadily progressing, both as regarded numbers and usefulness at home and abroad, and wherever it took root. It lost no ground it ever made, and wherever it was planted its roots struck. (Hear, hear.) This toast was followed by that of "The Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," and the Grand Master said that Craft and Mark Masons, and all Englishmen, gladly welcomed the Prince on his return to England. Although he had been suffering from illness lately, it was not of a serious character. At present Mark Masons had the honour and pleasure of having only one member of the Royal family belonging to them, but he trusted this would not long be the case. They certainly had a most zealous and hard-working brother among the Order in his Royal Highness Prince Leopold, and before very long he would be Master of a Mark Lodge, in which position, as in every other he took upon him, he would thoroughly work out his obligation. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, P.G.M., proposed "The M.W.G.M.M.M." The growth of this degree was really almost marvellous. He could remember, when he was Grand Chaplain, attending Grand Lodge in a very small room in Freemasons' Tavern; there were but fifteen persons present (who all talked at once). Now, however, they saw what a brilliant assembly was got together, and they had heard that night that 600 certificates had been issued in the year, and there were now nearly 200 lodges on the roll. He thought this was due to no one brother in particular, but to each of the Grand Masters. Never was it safer than in the hands of Lord Limerick, and he would say this with the greatest confidence, having known them all. No one had set himself more at work than the present Grand Master, and the success of the Order was certain while his lordship was at its head.

The M.W.G.M., in reply, said,—Your M.W.P.G.M. has spoken of me in terms much more complimentary than I could in any way deserve (No), because all I could endeavour to do has been to follow closely in the footsteps of the previous Grand Masters, during whose time Mark Masonry has made steady progress. I am only thankful that that progress has not been in any way retarded during my year of office. I feel very proud at the continued progress it has made, and I trust and hope it will make still further progress in the future. Everything leads us to suppose that the progress which has been made in the past is only an augury of what it will be in the future. At the present moment the Mark Degree is second only to the Craft to which we all belong. It surpasses the Royal Arch; it surpasses the other degrees in the number of its lodges, and in the number of its members; and I trust at some future time it will rival the Craft itself, for I cannot see any reason why where there is a Craft lodge there should not also be a Mark lodge. I look upon the Mark Degree as a complement of the Craft. I thank you, brethren, very heartily for the manner in which you have received the toast of my health. I have said that the Order has continued to prosper and flourish in the United Kingdom and in places abroad. I may add that there are openings in places abroad for its taking root where it has not hitherto. We had with us to-night a brother who, I believe, is returning to the Cape of Good Hope as District G. Master of that colony, and I trust he will be able to explain the principles of our Mark Degree out there, which may lead to the formation of new Mark lodges there. Much as we regret his temporary absence, I trust it will tend in a considerable degree to the progress of the Order. I must say that I look forward to a very great future for this Mark Degree, and as it has not gone back during my time I confidently expect to see it prospering, and spreading its useful work.

The M.W.G.M. then proposed "The Past Grand Masters," and approved of the custom of this Grand Lodge selecting its G. Masters for a certain term only. This he considered had a very beneficial effect, for it had surrounded the G.M. for the time being with a body of brethren who were acquainted with the customs, the traditions, and working of the Order. All the brethren knew what excellent Grand Masters they had had and how much they had done for the degree; but he believed not one of them had done more for it than Bro. Portal. (Hear, hear.) They all knew how thoroughly his heart was with the degree and how zealous he was in promoting its best interests. He had known Bro. Portal for a great many years, and was aware how entirely his heart was with Mark Masonry.

Bro. Portal, in reply, said it was a singular fact, which had been suggested to him by a sharp-witted friend, that all the Past Masters of this Grand Lodge were in the ruddiest and most vigorous health. Grand Lodge had not lost one of them. On the General Board their attention had been directed towards the promotion of this Order. When he saw how rulers were treated in other countries he could not but congratulate himself that the rulers of this Order were the receptacles of the confidence of Mark Masons, and he was thankful that they gave the P.M.'s credit for what they did for the good of the Order. With such feelings they would go on doing their best, because they knew they would have the sympathy and encouragement of the brethren.

The M.W.G.M. then gave "The Grand Officers," and referred to the great zeal those brethren had always displayed who were entrusted with office that evening. Among them he alluded to Lord Skelmersdale, Bros. Levander, Binckes, Davison, Dr. Brette, Rev. J. S. Brownrigg, Gen. Brownrigg (who was the oldest Mark Master present, having been advanced thirty-three years ago). One of this brother's first acts on his arrival in India was to sign a petition for a new Mark lodge out there. (Cheers.) With a staff of such G. Officers he (the M.W.G.M.) felt sure of efficient support.

General Brownrigg, in the course of a very brief reply, said he was afraid he had not done so much for Masonry as he ought to have done. Still, as we read in a very old authority that the sins of the fathers were visited on the children, he hoped in this case that the good his sons might do would be some recompense for his own faults.

The M.W.G.M. then gave "The Prov. Grand Lodges," on whom Grand Lodge relied for the conduct of the Order on proper and constitutional principles. These Provincial Grand Lodges had of late years greatly developed; their numbers had increased, and their efficiency had grown

Grand Lodge congratulated itself on the way the work was done in the provinces. The Province of Bristol had recently been constituted, and it augured well for the progress of Mark Masonry in that ancient home of Masonry. The year before two Provincial Grand Lodges were formed, and from year to year Mark Masonry was spreading, and a strong and settled form of government was established.

Bro. Elliot, D.P.G.M. Devon, replied.

Bro. Levander proposed "The Benevolent Fund," to which Bros. Roebuck and Brette responded.

The M.W.G.M. proposed "The Grand Stewards," coupling with it the name of Bro. H. Massey ("Freemason"), Past Grand Steward, who briefly acknowledged the compliment, and the remaining toasts were afterwards given, and the brethren separated.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Kilwinning (No. 4).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held in the hall, 162, Kent-road, on Friday afternoon, at 4 p.m., the 2nd inst., Bro. R. Prout, W.M., presiding, supported by his office-bearers and a fair attendance of members. On the lodge being opened a brother was passed to the F.C. degree by Bro. T. Stewart, P.M. Thistle and Rose, No. 73, and afterwards a brother was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. by Bro. G. W. Wheeler, Chaplain No. 73.

KIRKINTILLOCH.—St. John Kilwinning Lodge (No. 28).—The regular monthly meeting of this very old lodge was held in their lodge-room, "Black Bull" Inn, on Saturday afternoon, the 27th ult. Bro. D. Cameron, W.M., presided, supported by his Wardens, and Bro. Allan, D.M., acting Sec. On the lodge being opened, and the minutes of last monthly meeting read and confirmed, two applications were read from the following gentlemen—Messrs. John Buchanan and Alexander Russell—and favourably received. They were then admitted and received the E.A. degree at the hands of Bro. Cameron, W.M., in that brother's able and impressive manner. Bro. Archibald Neven was afterwards raised to the sublime degree of M.M. by Bro. D. Gilchrist, W.M. St. Andrew's, Glasgow, No. 465. The meeting was well attended by members, and a deputation was present from Maryhill Lodge, No. 510, headed by Bro. John McKay, W.M. The lodge was then resumed in the First Degree, and closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—Union and Crown Lodge (No. 103).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Commercial Hall, 30, Hope-street, on Monday evening, the 29th ult., Bro. D. Murray, W.M., in the chair, supported by Bros. A. M. Wright, I.P.M., acting S.W.; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543, acting J.W.; R. Munro, D.M.; J. McFarlane, S.M.; Neil Cameron, Treas.; J. Gillies, P.M. Sec.; A. Gray, J.D.; J. Gray, I.G.; and R. Boyd, Tyler. Among the visiting brethren were Bros. D. Butler, W.M. St. Mungo, 27; W. Foster, P.M. 354; David Reid, I.P.M. 465; Jas. Findlay, S.M. 333; J. McLeish, S.M. 465; J. Bannerman, D.M. 73; John Stewart, 360; R. Young, St. Patrick, Belfast, 195 (I.C.), and members from Nos. 28, 73, 169, 219, 292, 204, 307, 333, 465, and 553. On the lodge being opened, the Secretary read the minutes of the last monthly and one emergency meeting, which were approved. The W.M. then complimented the office-bearers and members of the lodge on the choice they had made in securing the Commercial Masonic Hall for holding their meetings, at the same time remarking that he (the chairman) hoped the day was not far distant when the Union and Crown Lodge, No. 103, would be in a position to have a hall of their own. The W.M. then said he was glad in using his prerogative in proposing for honorary affiliation to the Union and Crown Lodge Bros. J. Findlay, S.M. 333; W. Ferguson, I.P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); J. Stewart, 360 (N.B.D.M.); and J. Bannerman, D.M. 73, for services rendered to the lodge; and they were duly obligated by Bro. Gillies, P.M., Sec. Mr. Jas. Patterson was initiated by Bro. A. M. Wright, I.P.M., in his usual careful manner. The lodge was then closed, and afterwards a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and conferred that degree on Bro. W. Foster, P.M. 354. Bro. Ferguson officiating, supported by Bros. Gillies, Murray, and Reid. The brethren then adjourned to refreshment, when a short time was spent in harmony.

RUTHERGLEN.—Lodge St. John Operative (No. 347).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Friday evening, the 26th ult., Bro. D. Smart, W.M., in the chair; J. Murdoch, S.W.; T. Alston, J.W. The W.M. was supported on the dais by Bros. D. Butler, W.M. 27; Hamilton, W.M. 116; W. Phillips, W.M. 556; A. Gow, S.M. 581; J. Cunningham, I.P.M.; and M. Abbott, D.M. of the lodge. The principle feature of the evening's business was presentation to Bro. Cunningham, I.P.M., for his valuable services to the lodge as W.M. for the long period of four consecutive years, and the occasion turned out a large number of brethren from the different lodges in the Province of Glasgow and neighbourhood, no less than 200 were present. Deputations were present from the following lodges—33, 4, 18, 27, 28, 73, 103, 116, 128, 142, 219, 275, 278, 305, 333, 362, 408, 441, 556 and 581. The lodge having been opened, and minutes of last meeting read and confirmed, four gentlemen, Messrs. P. McGregor, J. McCrae, S. Burlington, and S. Wilson were initiated into the E.A. Degree by Bro. Smart, the W.M. The lodge was then closed and transferred to refreshment. Bro. M. Abbott, D.M., was called upon to make the presentation, who, in a excellent speech, referring particularly to the past conduct of the worthy brother whom he had the honour to present with this testimonial, the untiring energies with which he had for the past years wrought for this, his mother lodge in particular, and the Craft in general. He also referred to this charitable disposition, remarking that he had set a good and true example to those who may follow in his footsteps. Bro. Abbott then presented Bro. Cunningham with a massive gold watch and chain with appendages, and they were, we understand, subscribed for not only in Scotland, but in England and Ireland as well, owing to the esteem in which he is held. Bro. Cunningham replied in feeling terms, confining himself principally to the progress of the lodge during his mastership. He stated that the initiates had been numerous, they had also acquired a splendid hall which they were now assembled in, and that he had worked pretty hard, but all the honour was not due to him, if he had not been supported by the most able and willing office-bearers it would have been utterly impossible for him as an individual to have gone through the work, he therefore thanked the brethren for the handsome and costly present. (Applause.) During the evening the several W.M.'s present occupied the chair in rotation, and among the various toasts which were honoured, "The Prosperity of Lodge St. John, No. 347," was proposed by Bro. D. Butler, W.M. 27, and replied to by Bro. Smart, W.M. "The Visitors," proposed by Bro. Smart, W.M., and replied to by Bro. Robert Allan, Sec. 581.

GLASGOW.—Commercial Lodge (No. 360).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in their hall, 30, Hope-street, on Friday evening, 2nd inst., Bro. John Munro, W.M., in the chair; Davidson, P.M.; J. M. Oliver, S.W.; J. M. Duncan, acting J.W.; John Smith, Sec.; G. Scott, Treas.; R. Brodie, D. of M., and a very good attendance of members and visiting brethren. Among the latter was a Bro. J. Richmond, of Lodge 526, holding of Grand Lodge of Springfield, America. On the lodge being opened the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. W. Campbell was then raised to the sublime degree of M.M., Bro. Oliver, S.W., giving the obligation, and the W.M., Bro. Munro, performing the remaining part of the degree in his able and impressive style. The lodge was then resumed in the First Degree, and closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—Clyde Lodge (No. 408).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Friday evening, the 2nd inst. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. W. Harper, W.M., Bro. T. Gordon, P.M., D.M., occupied the chair; J. McInnes, S.M.; W. Bilsland, S.W.; J. Neagle, J.W. 441, acting J.W.; W. Anderson, Treas.; R. Wallace, &c. Among the visitors were Bros. G. McDonald, W.M. 73; J. Bannerman, D.M. 73; Wheeler, Chap. 73; Kay, S.D. 73; A. Bain, P.M. 103; Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"). The lodge was opened, and Mr. Angel Roman Colunga was initiated. Messrs. Louis Lesser Dutch and Andrew Deans were also initiated on behalf of Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73. Bros. Colunga and Dutch having to leave Scotland in a few days, were then passed at their own request to the F.C. degree, and they were afterwards, along with Bro. M. Smith, raised to the sublime degree of M.M., Bro. T. Gordon, P.M., D.M., performing the whole of the ceremonies. The lodge was then reduced to the E.A. degree, and closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew Lodge (No. 465).—A meeting of this lodge was held in their Masonic Hall, 69, Garngad-road, on Thursday evening, the 1st inst., Bro. D. Gilchrist, W.M., presiding; J. McLeish, S.M.; G. B. Davidson, S.W.; W. Chalmers, J.W.; W. Campbell, Sec. Visitors: Bros. J. T. Muir, W.M. Argyle, No. 335; J. Martin, D.M. 219; B. Smart, Treas. 219, and a deputation of fifteen; J. McInnes, S.W. 332; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); J. S. Allan, D.M. 28, and others. The lodge being opened, and the minutes read and confirmed, it was called to refreshment, when the W.M. in succession proposed the following toasts, which were most enthusiastically responded to, viz., "The Queen and the Craft," "The Three Grand Lodges," "Grand Lodge of New Brunswick," (replied to by Bro. Campbell, of Lodge No. 22), "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow," "The Visitors," coupled with the name of Bro. Muir, W.M. 335, who replied in a very able manner; "The W.M.," proposed by Bro. Martin, D.M. 219, and neatly replied to by Bro. Gilchrist; "The Masonic Press," by the W.M., replied to by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"). Other toasts followed. During the evening Bros. Chalmers, Davidson, Neven, Grieve, and others contributed to the enjoyment by singing some excellent songs, and the brethren, after spending a most harmonious evening, separated, after the Tyler's toast, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again."

THORNIEBANK.—Lodge Thorntree (No. 512).—The regular monthly meeting of this prosperous lodge was held in their hall, on Saturday last, Bro. Robert Scobie, W.M., presiding, supported by Bro. Robert Fletcher, S.W., and Bro. Robert McEwan, J.W., and was attended by a numerous and distinguished company. Amongst the visiting brethren were deputations from the Paisley St. Mirren's Lodge, No. 129, and Renfrew County Kilwinning Lodge, No. 370, Paisley. On the lodge being opened on the First Degree, it was announced that the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge, Renfrewshire East, were in waiting outside for the purpose of inspecting the lodge. The W.M. gave instructions to receive them, which was accordingly done, with the usual honours. The deputation, in the unavoidable absence of the Provincial Grand Master, Col. Campbell, of Blythwood, was headed by ex-Bailie Caldwell, of Craigielea, P.G. Deputy Master, who, on taking his seat on the dais, was handed the mallet by the W.M. of Thorntree Lodge, and requested to occupy the chair, which compliment the Deputy Master gracefully acknowledged, at the same time returning the mallet, and requesting the R.W.M. to retain his seat. Ex-Bailie Caldwell then said that they had made a careful examination of the books of the Lodge Thorntree, No. 512, and found them to be in a most satisfactory condition, reflecting great credit on the Secretary. The general working of the lodge was found to be in strict harmony with the constitution of the Grand Lodge. He complimented the lodge on their excellent staff of office-bearers, making special reference to the W.M., and also spoke of its prosperity, no less than twenty-five new members being added to its roll for last year. In conclusion, he hoped that the same prosperity would attend the lodge in the future as had been the case in the past. The W.M. then thanked the deputation for their flattering report; after which two candidates were admitted as members of the Order, the initiation ceremony being ably rendered by Bro. Scobie. The lodge was called to harmony, and the Provincial deputation and visiting brethren most hospitably entertained by the office-bearers of Thorntree Lodge, when hearty good wishes were expressed by the brethren from the various visiting lodges towards the Thorntree Lodge for their kindness to them on this occasion.

GLASGOW.—Clydesdale Lodge (No. 556).—A meeting of this lodge was held in their hall, 106, Rose-street, S.S., on Tuesday, 30th ult., Bro. W. Phillips, W.M., in the chair; J. McNaught, S.W.; T. Phillips, J. W.; H. M. Culloch, D.M.; J. McKechnie, Treas.; G. B. Yuill, Sec.; P. Young, S.D.; J. McCammon, J.D.; W. Smith, I.G.; and W. Graham, Tyler; and a large turn-out of members and visitors. Among the latter we noticed Bros. W. J. E. Dobson, W.M. Dramatic, 571; G. C. H. McNaught, P.M. 275; Wm. Foster, P.M. 354; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; M. Stark, 553; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); J. Robertson, I.G. 571, and others. The minutes of last meeting being read and confirmed, and other business disposed of, Messrs. J. Bennet, R. Mabin, and Peter Lloyd were initiated into the E.A. degree by the W.M. Bros. Alex. Moore, S. Johnstone, and Robt. McMillan were passed to the F.C. degree by Bro. W. Ferguson, P.M. 543; and Bros. R. Wilson, A. Richardson, and J. Moore were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. by Bro. Phillips, W.M. The lodge was then reduced to the First Degree, and afterwards a short time was spent in harmony and refreshment.

MASONIC AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY, LIMITED.—We would again call the attention of our readers to the steady progress which this company is making. We do so more particularly at this time as its financial year ends on 30th September next. It is also a very satisfactory fact that this company has had no difficulty or trouble whatever in passing its accounts and balance-sheet with the Board of Trade, in compliance with the Act. The accounts for the year ending 30th September, 1875, have been duly filed and passed by the Board of Trade, and when the next blue-book is issued will appear therein. These are facts which should be pleasing to our readers, and we strongly recommend our brethren to follow out the advice of the late Charles Dickens, "Be assured, whether you are thinking of the safety of your life by land, or by railway, or by sea, or of the unbroken condition of your arms and legs, or of the maintenance of general health, or of comfort, and competence in your old age, or of the interests of wife and children when you may be no more, or for a provision for your boy when he reaches the apprenticeship age, or of the happy marriage and the wedding portion of your little Mary Anne, one day to be, you hope, a blushing bride, now a tiny prattling fairy of two or three years—never mind the subject matter—"Be assured." In a recent but eloquent speech made by the Rev. Dr. Gillan on assurance matters, he said: "I commend such institutions because I see in them the centre point or germs of many of the higher virtues which adorn man and the Christian. Among these, self-abnegation stands out the most prominent. Narrowness is banished, and liberality takes its place. In many cases of life assurance restraint is placed on individual inclination. Domestic privations are often submitted to, which the selfish must admire; and where luxuries or superfluities are denied for this purpose, a blessing is safe to rest on what remains. This is the highest sentiment which can inspire the breast, and what can be more touchingly indicative of genuine generous affection than the adoption of such a course? Whatever is contained in your Policy is secured for the benefit of others. It is a provision for your nearest and dearest when you can provide for them no longer. It is to ward off the horrors of poverty, and, humanly speaking, to render destitution impossible. To vindicate the neglect of such a precaution on the plea of plenty while living cannot be admitted. On the contrary, the more comfortably the family are kept, the greater the cruelty of leaving them to the cold charity of an unfeeling world. The greener the pasture now, the more dreary will the desert be then. Such exercises of self denial cannot go without their reward."

What ought to prove an investigation of interest and value is about to be made in Glasgow. It is determined to begin a series of observations on the air of that city. It is understood that Dr. Russell, the medical officer of health has associated with himself Dr. Joseph Coates and Mr. Dickson, the former of whom will undertake the microscopic examination of the air-working, and the latter the chemical. The result should be exceedingly interesting, and the example might with advantage be followed in other great cities.

Copies of the "Freemason" for May 1st and 8th, 1875, containing a full account of the proceedings at the Installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, as Most Worshipful Grand Master and First Grand Principal, are still obtainable at the office, 198, Fleet-street.

The "Masonic Magazine" for the current month, contains an engraving of the first church built in England, A.D. 61.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of this institution was held on Saturday, the 3rd inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. John Symonds in the chair. There were also present Bros. Benj. Head, Capt. J. Wordsworth, H. Browne, Jesse Turner, R. B. Webster, J. B. Scriven, Alfred H. Diaper, W. Hyde Pullen, George J. Palmer, H. Massey ("Freemason"), F. H. Ebsworth, J. G. Chancellor, Richard Spencer, Alex. Wallace, W. Mann, J. W. Dosell, F. Adlard, Percival Sanford, S. Rosenthal, A. Durrant, and F. Binckes, Secretary.

After the reading of the minutes it was agreed, on the recommendation of the House Committee, to admit two boys by purchase on the payment of 170 guineas each.

Bro. H. Browne, P.G.D., again brought forward the subject of admission to the School by purchase, which he wished the brethren to weigh well. He thought that by allowing such a system they were not doing good to the Craft at large. It was all very well when the School was not in a prosperous condition, but that state of things was now altered; and if they took in children whose friends were sufficiently well off to raise amongst them a sum of 170 guineas, they were excluding those children whose friends were really without any means to support them. The system of purchase was to the injury of the poor and distressed; and he had it in contemplation to give notice for the next Quarterly Court to consider the desirability of discontinuing the present system. He felt that it was a matter which required consideration by the whole body of Masons.

The Chairman, having referred to the "laws" of the institution, found that to carry out Bro. Browne's object it would be necessary to repeal the two laws which allowed the purchase system.

Bro. Browne said that that would be his notice of motion.

Capt. J. Wordsworth observed that three years ago he was on the committee appointed to consider these laws. They had many meetings, at the first of which they decided to strike out purchase; but as they found that it would be very hard to lose any deserving case, after considerable argument the price of purchase was raised from 150 to 170 guineas. Now that the laws had been made after considerable thought and care, he believed they would be making a mistake if they again altered them, more especially as they had assimilated the rules of the Girls' School with those of the Boys'. By-and-bye, if they went on making so many alterations, they would not understand what the laws were.

Bro. Browne then gave his notice of motion.

The House Committee was afterwards elected as follows:—

Bros. Henry Browne, J. Giles Chancellor, Benjamin Head, W. Henry Hunt, W. F. C. Moutrie, William Paas, W. Hyde Pullen, William Roebuck, Sigismund Rosenthal, J. Bagot Scriven, R. W. Stewart, John Wordsworth.

The election of the Audit Committee was then taken:—

Bros. John Boyd, J. W. Dosell, Benjamin Head, W. Mann, D. W. Pearce, George James Row, Jesse Turner, Alexander Wallace, R. B. Webster.

There was no contest for either of these elections.

Four boys were then placed on the list for the October election, and two cases were deferred for better reading. An outfit was granted to one ex-pupil, and the Committee adjourned.

Mr. J. L. Toole is just now the star of the Scottish theatrical evening. The genial comedian opened at the Edinburgh Theatre on Monday, and was received as usual by a "bumper." Mr. Toole is very popular in Scotland. He spends his day in receiving visits from and visiting the literary and other intellectual dignitaries of the land. Heaps of invitations to dine await him; and it is no secret that some of the Fathers of the Church are delighted to make his acquaintance, and see him also from a sly corner of the theatre. If you see an individual with his coat collar turned up and a wide-awake on, sitting in the shadow of the balcony or the pit, depend upon it that man is a reverend father or a university professor. Mr. Toole's visits will always put money in his purse.

A report of the "Premier" Red Cross Conclave will appear in our next.

We are requested to state that the Bishop of London has removed his residence to Fulham Palace.

Her Majesty the Queen has been pleased to send a box of toys, brought in Germany, to St. Andrew's Hospital, Clewer, Windsor, for the use of the children in that hospital.

A marriage has been arranged between Lady Gwendolin Talbot, second daughter of the Right Honourable the Earl of Shrewsbury, Provincial Grand Master for Staffordshire, and Viscount Helmsley, M.P. for the North Riding, eldest son of the Earl of Faversham.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Old Wounds, Sores, and Ulcers are not only unsightly, often loathsome, they frequently give rise to exhaustion of body, and depression of mind, which seriously retard recovery, and remotely endanger life. Daily experience confirms the fact, which has triumphed over all opposition for thirty years, viz., that no means are known to equal Holloway's remedies for curing all Legg, Sores, Wounds, Diseases of the Skin, Erysipelas, Abscesses, Burns, Scalds, in all cases, where the skin is broken. To cure them infirmities quickly is of primary importance, as compulsory confinement weakens the general health. The ready means of cure are found in Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which heal the sores and expel their cause.—ADVERT.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

CAVEAC LODGE (No. 176).—The installation meeting of this excellent lodge was held on Saturday, the 10th inst., at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, Bro. J. Brockett Sorrell, W.M., presiding. Among the items of ordinary business disposed of during the evening was the balloting for, as a joining member, of Bro. William Kirkness, Lodge 18 (S.C.), proposed by Bro. Akenhead, and seconded by Bro. Perceval A. Nairne, P.M., and the raising of Bro. Cecil Lamb. The lodge was called off for a short interval, and on reassembling the W.M. elect, Bro. Walter Miller Goss, was announced, admitted, and presented to the W.M. for the benefit of installation, and having notified his adhesion to the tenets laid down in the Book of Constitutions, he was obligated, and presented to a Board of Installed Masters, and installed into the chair of K.S. in due form. The work was most admirably performed under the very efficient management of Bro. C. Browne, D.C., whose zeal for the good working of the ceremonies is well seconded by all the other officers, who appear to be most solicitous for the true well-being of the lodge. The officers appointed were Bros. Stride, S.W.; Sorrell, jun., J.W.; C. T. Dorey, P.M.; Sec.; Stansfield, S.D.; Neumegen, J.D.; Thorpe, I.G.; Chs. Browne, D.C.; and Ryley, Tyler. The appointment of Treasurer was reserved, as both Bros. Pemble Browne and Nairne were unavoidably absent on account of family bereavement, for which the lodge expressed its sorrow and condolence. The W.M. then rose, and said that one of the first acts he had to perform as Master of the Caveac Lodge was a duty of an extremely pleasant character, which was to invest the I.P.M., Bro. J. B. Sorrell, with the Past Master's jewel, which had been presented to him by the unanimous vote of the brethren for the admirable manner in which he had conducted the affairs of the lodge during his year of office. He trusted that Bro. Sorrell would live long to enjoy the happiness of wearing it. Bro. Sorrell, in acknowledging the gift, thanked the brethren for the unanimity of their vote, and also expressed his obligations to the Past Masters for the aid they had so willingly rendered him, and to the officers for the ability with which they had assisted him in the working of the ceremonies. He concluded by saying that the jewel with which they had just graced him would ever remind him of the unanimous goodwill which had always followed his footsteps during his career in the Caveac Lodge. Among the other brethren present were the following:—Bros. Thos. Quihampton, P.M.; G. Le-mann, P.M.; H. Besley, P.M.; A. F. Morice, E. Akenhead, C. S. Lamb, A. Enfiller, Wm. Kirkness, Oscar Moore, Wm. Jones, members of the lodge; and among the visitors were Bros. F. H. Cozens, Royal Albert, 907; E. B. Grabham, W.M. Royal Athelstone, 19; W. G. Moore, P.M. Polish National, 534; Herbert Puckle, Macdonald, 1216; Charles Atkins, P.M. Egyptian, 27; F. S. Knysett, Lodge of Felicity, 58, G.S., and W.M. Felix Lodge, 1494; T. H. Waterworth, P.M. Gihon, 49; Chs. Bischoff, P.M. Serendib, 112, I.C.; Jas. Verity, W.M. Ebury, 1348; T. Gus-cotte, J.W. Good Report, 136; J. H. Hastie, P.M. Macdonald, 1216; R. Symington, I.G. St. Peter's, 1330; and E. C. Massey, J.W. West Kent, 1272 ("Freemason"). The business of the evening having been concluded, the lodge was closed in peace and harmony, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet. At the conclusion of the report grace was sung by the musical brethren present, Bros. Distin, Baxter and Carter, who also during the evening sang some excellent songs, glees, &c., greatly increasing thereby the pleasurable effect of the entertainment. On the removal of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed by the W.M., and cordially responded to by the brethren. In replying to "The Health of Lord Skelmersdale and the rest of the Grand Officers, Past and Present," Bro. Eneas McIntyre, Grand Registrar, said: Worshipful Master, Bro. Wardens and brethren—I rise with great pleasure to return thanks on behalf of the officers of Grand Lodge Past and Present. I can well bear testimony to the great powers that is always exhibited by Lord Skelmersdale, and how especially anxious he is to perform the duties of his high office. During a very short period he has consecrated two lodges, one in the metropolis, and one in the country. The only lodge that he has consecrated in the metropolis will, I think, have very great influence on the Craft, because at that lodge at the first meeting it initiated five Q.C.'s and the Attorney-General is to be one in addition. Now, when eminent lawyers came thus into the Craft I think that they must strengthen the debating power of Grand Lodge. Not but that there is considerable debating power there already, as we frequently hear there some very long and very able speeches; but at all events when the first law officer of the crown, and a great many other distinguished members of the law bar, who have the Queen's commission as Queen's Counsel, come in, it shows that men of intelligence do not hesitate to come into this institution. The other lodge is in the country, whose members are chiefly brethren in the higher grades of Freemasonry. They have done their best to officer it with those who have aspired to the higher degrees, who are still desirous to do their duty to their Sovereign and the M.W.G.M., and are equally anxious to be instrumental in spreading a knowledge of Freemasonry. I was, unfortunately, unable to arrive in time to see the working of the ceremony of raising to-day, but the able manner in which the addresses were given by the Past Masters of the lodge were admirable indications of what the general working must be. I have often heard of the Caveac Lodge, where the true working was done in the true style, and I can quite believe that the rumour does not exceed the truth. Of one thing I am sure, and that is the cordiality with which you have received the officers of the Grand Lodge. Bro. Browne proposed "The Health of the W.M.," who, in returning thanks, observed that he never should have the same pride in occupying a similar position in any other lodge, because the Caveac was his mother lodge. It had been pointed out to him that the chisel, though a very small instrument, was one of the greatest importance, and this encouraged him to hope that he might be able to make himself useful. He concluded by proposing "The Health of the I.P.M." Bro. Sorrell, in returning thanks for the compliment paid to him, said that he retired from the position of Master with a feeling of relief, because the office of Master of a lodge involved grave and great responsibilities, one of the gravest of which consisted in the fact that the Master of a lodge ought to set a good example to the brethren. He had not been able to do much during his year of office. He had had the pleasure of serving two Stewardships for Masonic charities, and he had been placed on the Board of General Purposes. He was not yet acquainted with the duties, but whatever he had to do he would endeavour to do it with his might. The toasts of "The Visitors," "Past Masters," "Treasurer," and other officers of the lodge were given from the chair and responded to with the heartiest cordiality, after which the Tyler's toast brought to a conclusion the proceedings of a very pleasant evening.

MACDONALD LODGE (No. 1216).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday evening, June 8th, at the Head Quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Flodden-road, Camberwell. Bro. Mark Samuel Larham, W.M., presided; Bro. Ross, S.W. pro tem.; and Bro. Carnell, J.W. The other officers were in attendance, with Past Masters Wagstaff, Messenger, Hastie, and others, besides several visitors, amongst whom were Bros. Middlemas, 957; Reynolds, 1329; H. Thompson, 1426, and P.M. 177 and 1158 ("Freemason"), &c. The minutes of the installation meeting having been read and confirmed, the lodge was opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. C. G. Danford was examined as to his progress in the science. His answers being deemed satisfactory, he was directed to retire, and the lodge being advanced to the superior degree he was impressively raised by the W.M. to the degree of M.M., and, as is the custom of Bro. Larham, the entire ritual was gone through without any of the omissions which sometimes take place. Seldom is this beautiful degree worked with more care and accuracy, and general approbation was awarded to the W.M. for the ability he had displayed in the performance of his duties. The lodge was then lowered to the Second Degree, and Bros. Besley and Golding were severally passed to the Second Degree. A ballot took place. It being unanimous, Mr. Augustus Carnell, a brother of the Senior Warden, was initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. There being no other business, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the canteen of the corps, where refreshment was provided by Bro. Kethro, sergeant major and sutler. At its conclusion the W.M. said as the hour was advanced, and many brethren were anxious to catch their trains, the toasts would be very few and very brief, and without further comment he would give "The Queen and the Craft," which was cordially responded to. The W.M. said the next toast he had to propose was that of "Their Brother Visitors," and that evening it was his privilege and pleasure to welcome a large number. Having enumerated them, he called upon Bros. Thompson and Middlemas to respond to the toast. Bro. H. Thompson ("Freemason") said, as the evening was far advanced, he should adopt an expression used by Bro. Monckton, the President of the Board of General Purposes, at the Grand Lodge on the previous evening, in returning thanks for the complimentary vote which had been passed to him by the Grand Lodge for his services during the past year, when he said that the best way he could show his gratitude for the honour conferred upon him was by making his observations as short as possible. Although he should adhere to that, still he should take the opportunity of saying that he felt they must all be well pleased at the working of the different degrees by their talented Worshipful Master. For his part to be present on that occasion gave him unmixed pleasure, and although it might be a form a speech sometimes on the part of visitors to pass favourable criticisms on the working of lodges, stimulated by their friendship for many of the members, yet in the present instance he could sincerely and conscientiously say that during the whole of his Masonic career he rarely saw equalled, and never excelled, the excellent working of the lodge from the Worshipful Master in the chair down to the lowest officer, and most heartily did he congratulate the lodge on arriving at such happy results. Having thanked the brethren for their hospitality, not enjoyed for the first time, he should leave Bro. Middlemas to fill up what he had left unsaid. Bro. Middlemas, in one of his exceedingly jocose addresses, also acknowledged the compliment conferred upon the visitors. The W. Master said he had great pleasure in proposing "Their Newly-Initiated Brother, Bro. Carnell," and he hoped that he should have an initiate at every meeting so that he might be able to go through the three ceremonies at every meeting of the lodge throughout the year, and he then gave them an intimation that he should call an emergency meeting for the second Thursday in July. The toast was heartily received. Bro. Carnell thanked the brethren for the kind manner in which he had been received, and for the honour they had done him in admitting him to their lodge, and he hoped that he should prove a good Mason. Bro. Hastie, I.P.M., said when the brethren saw the gavel in his hand they knew what toast he was about to propose, which wanted no words from him to recommend it. He called upon them to rise and drink the toast he was about to propose, which was "The Health of their W. Master." The Worshipful Master thanked the brethren for the kind manner in which they had responded to the toast. It would be a great pleasure to him if during his year of office they would give him plenty of work, so that he might have a candidate at every meeting. One or two other toasts were given, and the brethren separated.

MIDDLETON.—Imperial George Lodge (No. 78).—In consequence of the Provincial Grand Lodge of East Lancashire being held on the 25th ult., the regular meeting of this lodge was postponed, by circular, until the following Thursday, June 1st. The brethren having assembled on that date at the Assheton Arms, the lodge was opened in due form at 5 p.m. by Bro. David Reid, W.M. The minutes of the last regular meeting, after being read by Bro. Forrester Fothergill, Sec., received confirmation. The passing of Bros. Robert Beresford and George Brunt was next proceeded with, after which Bros. David Tatton and Edwin Dodd were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason. The W.M. performed each of the four ceremonies. A telegram was received by Bro. D. Reid, W.M., from W. H. Kershaw, I.P.M., regretting his inability to attend, and asking him to bring forward on his behalf (in accordance with notice of motion) the desirability of raising the annual subscription to enable the lodge to make suitable grants to the Masonic charities. Bro. D. Reid, W.M., put the matter before the brethren, and the same received immediate and unanimous support, and was therefore carried. "Hearty Good Wishes" were accorded from Lodges 935 and 1219, after which the usual ritual brought the lodge to a close. Before quitting the chair of K.S. the W.M. informed the brethren that his absence at the social board was compulsory, he having to take a journey northwards. Prior to discussing the capabilities of Bro. David Reid's principal officer, Bro. George Bradbury, who had charge of the banquet board, we must remark that the idea introduced by Bro. Wood, P.M., D.C., and duly passed on April 27th, viz., "That the lodge buy and supply all clothing and jewels, the profits to go to the Charity Fund," when coupled with the subject introduced by Bro. W. H. Kershaw, I.P.M., which also bears upon charity, is regarded as a bold marching step, bringing the members of No. 78 nearer to their brethren in distress. All hope that the lodge will shine with renewed lustre in the annals of charity, and by joining hand in hand, and journeying step by step, to assist the tempest-tossed to "Anchor fast, Anchor." The social meal having been completed, Bro. George Bradbury, S.W., gave the customary toasts in a masterly manner, dilating upon each, but at the same time keeping in mind that old saying, "Brevity is the soul of wit." The newly-passed and raised brethren made suitable replies to the toasts relating to them. "The Health of the W.M.," wishing him a speedy journey and a safe return, was also received with acclamation, verifying the old adage, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." Harmony abounded freely, in some instances vocalists rendering their own compositions with pleasing effect. Bro. John Rogers, W.M. 1219, gave his own effusion, and a very appropriate one as a visitor's song, "One hour with you, and you, and you," the whole of the brethren joining hand in hand during the chorus. Bro. Forrester Fothergill, Sec., concluded the list of "originalities" with "Sailing on the deep blue sea." In accordance with time-honoured custom, the Tyler's toast, given by Bro. Jno. Kent, brought a pleasant evening to a close.

WARRINGTON.—Lodge of Lights (No. 148).—The Masonic world at Warrington was fully alive on Tuesday, the 6th inst. The Craft has a history in this thriving manufacturing town. The distinguished antiquary Elias Ashmole was initiated there in 1646, and so pleased was he with all he then saw and heard that he carefully recorded the fact of his initiation in his diary, which can be seen at the British Museum. From that time down to the present the Craft has been well cared for. Some twenty years since, however, it was in rather a languishing condition, but, thanks to the present Secretary, of No. 148, and others, new life was infused into the working, and from that time to the present, Warrington has been looked upon as a model of correct, well-interpreted ritual. At the time of the "revival" the old lodge, which was the only one, had about twenty members; now there are two lodges, and a chapter, and the muster roll records nearly two hundred names. In the early part of the present year Bro. Greenall, one of the senior members, was made a Baronet, and a unanimous desire was at once expressed to present that worthy brother with an address of congratulation. The first convenient opportunity of presenting the address was during the Whitsuntide recess, and accordingly a Lodge of Emergency was summoned for five o'clock on Tuesday, June 6th, 1876. The W.M.

Bro. W. H. Robinson, was supported by his Wardens, Bros. Thomas Tunstall and Joseph Pickthall, and a large number of brethren. The lodge was opened in due form, and it being reported that Bro. Greenall sought admission, he was duly received, and under the direction of Bro. John Bowes was saluted as became his rank. The W.M., rising from his chair, said: Right Worshipful Bro. Sir Gilbert Greenall, we are met for the especial purpose, as you are aware, of presenting to you an address of congratulation on the occasion of your elevation to a baronetcy. I assure you we are all actuated by one single desire, and that is in a feeble manner perhaps to give expression to the intense gratification we experience on the present occasion. You have lived amongst us all your life, and for more than a quarter of a century been one of us. In filling the various offices you have secured credit to yourself and great advantage to your brethren. Such being the case, we all felt a brotherly desire of giving you some tangible proof of our esteem and regard. I now call upon our esteemed Secretary, Bro. Bowes, to read the address, of which he is the author, after which I shall invite those brethren who desire the opportunity to support the sentiments briefly expressed in the address. Bro. Bowes then read the address as follows:—"To Sir Gilbert Greenall, Bart., M.P., R.A.C., P. Prov. G.S.W., W.L. and Past Senior Grand Warden of England. Right Worshipful Sir and Brother,—We, the W.M., Wardens, officers and members of the Lodge of Lights of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, No. 148 Warrington, beg your acceptance of our fraternal congratulations on the occasion of your being raised to the dignity of a baronetcy by Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen. As members of your mother lodge we experience peculiar pleasure on this occasion, because you have been long and intimately associated with us in the promotion of the best interests of our ancient Craft. You were admitted to Masonic light on Monday, 28th January, A.D. 1850, and we are proud to know that in your mother lodge you were promoted to those positions which qualified you for the high Masonic distinction you now enjoy. During the first year of your Mastership of the lodge, A.D. 1865, we celebrated our centenary festival, and we have good reason to remember the great importance your official position amongst us imparted on that interesting occasion. That the Most High may long preserve you and Lady Greenall, and when this transitory life shall have passed away that the Lewis, upon whose birth it was our pleasure and privilege to congratulate you, may sustain the high distinction conferred upon his father with equal honour, dignity, and grace, is our ardent prayer. So mote it be.—We are, Right Worshipful Sir and Brother, your faithful brethren. Signed on behalf of the lodge—W. H. Robinson, W.M.; Thos. Tunstall, S.W.; Jos. Pickthall, J.W.; John Bowes, P.M., &c., Hon. Sec. Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, Warrington, 27th March, A.D. 1876." Bro. Jas. Hepherd, P.M., J.P., on the invitation of the W.M., said that he felt it a great honour, as one of the senior members of the lodge, to take part in the interesting proceedings of that day. The members of the Lodge of Lights felt proud that they numbered among their members a brother who deserved so well of his Queen and country. Bro. Greenall was well known to all present, and to know him was to esteem and respect him. As a Mason he held high rank, as he deserved to do, and they felt proud of him in that respect. He cordially endorsed the sentiments conveyed in the address drawn up by their excellent Secretary, and in common with every member of the lodge he tendered to Bro. Greenall his hearty congratulations. Bro. Pickthall, J.W., said he could not let the occasion pass without adding his congratulations to those of his brethren. Bro. Sir Gilbert Greenall had their best wishes. They all united very heartily in the prayer with which the address closed, and he hoped their distinguished brother would assure Lady Greenall and the Lewis how sincerely they prayed for their health and happiness. Bro. Thos. Tunstall, S.W., said, as one of the younger members of the lodge, he begged on behalf of himself and that section of the members, to express the extreme gratification they all felt at his elevation to a baronetcy. The name of Greenall was a household word amongst them, and it was their aim to emulate his good example in carrying out the sublime precepts of their ancient and honourable Order. Bro. Sir Gilbert Greenall, in reply, said he begged to express his heartfelt thanks for the very kind sentiments expressed towards him by the W.M., his Wardens, Bros. Hepherd, Bowes, and other brethren, and for the presentation which had just been made to him as a token of regard from the brethren of the lodge. He received them with pleasure and delight, and he should ever remember his having been amongst them on that occasion. He always felt that there was amongst them that good and kindly feeling which ought always to exist amongst brethren, members of the Masonic Order. He felt especially grateful for the reference which had been made to him in the position he held as a Mason. He was first attracted to Masonry by the respect which he had for some excellent friends who were Masons, and having voluntarily offered himself as a candidate for the mysteries and privileges of the Order, he could most sincerely assure them that he had never had the least reason to regret having taken that step. The honour that it had pleased Her Majesty to bestow upon him would in no way alter their friendly relations. He felt towards his brethren as he ever had done, and he hoped to meet them again and again in lodge, and in the discharge of those great and important duties which they had in common undertaken to perform. He felt very grateful to them for the kind allusions which had been made to Lady Greenall, and the good feeling expressed for the welfare of his and her son. He was sure his wife would highly prize their good feeling, and he hoped that if their son was spared to grow up to manhood he would be a good and useful man, and, like his father, be attached to Masons, and in due time to be a good and true Mason himself. He again begged to thank them for their kindly expressions and the token they had given him of their friendship, which he should always look upon with pleasure and prize very highly. The address was beautifully written and illuminated in book form on vellum, and elegantly bound in blue morocco, with suitable Masonic emblems in their proper colours. The work was executed by Bro. Hine, of Manchester.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. John (No. 34).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in their hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday evening, the 6th inst., Bro. D. M. Nelson, W.M., in the chair, supported by Bros. Fletcher, P.M., acting S.W.; P. Brownlie, J.W.; Craig, P.M.; J. D. Young, D.M.; T. B. Bell, S.M.; J. Dunn, Treas.; J. Dick, Sec.; and others, and a very numerous attendance of members and visiting brethren. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Applications were read from Messrs. Isaac De Casseres and Paterson Wingate, and favourably received, and they were afterwards initiated into the E. A. Degree by Bro. T. B. Bell, S.M. The W.M. informed the brethren that tickets for the annual summer excursion to Stirling, Dollar (for Castle Campbell), and Rumbling Bridge were now ready, and could be had from any of the office-bearers. He (the Chairman) hoped that as many of the members as possible would find it convenient to join in the excursion, which takes place on Thursday, the 29th June, and he felt sure from the route selected that it would be a most enjoyable one. The lodge was then called to refreshment, when the Chairman proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, and after spending an agreeable hour in harmony the lodge was closed in due form.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Chapter (No. 112).—The regular monthly meeting of this chapter was held in St. Mirren's Masonic Hall, 5, Moss-street, Paisley, on Friday evening, 2nd inst. There were present Comps. W. Gemmell, acting M.E.Z.; James Gilmour, acting H.; John Carswell, J.; A. McPherson, S.E.; George Fisher, acting S.N.; Brennan, First Soj.; M. Leod, Assist. Soj., and a full attendance of companions and visitors. The chapter was opened in regular form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and adopted. Thereafter Bros. Rev. W. F. Mills, Chaplain; Peter Blair, Treas.; and J. Knox (all of Lodge St. Mirren, 129, Paisley), were exalted R.A. Masons. Comps. J. Marshall and F. McGibbon, of Abbey Chapter, 76, Paisley, were affiliated members of No. 112. This having brought the business of the meeting to an end, the chapter was closed in due and ancient form.

SHETTLSTON.—Lodge St. John (No. 128). This ancient lodge was visited by the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow on Wednesday evening, the 7th inst. The deputation, headed by Bro. James Gillies, acting P.G. Master, was received with due demonstrations of fealty by the W.M. (Bro. R. Jack), his office-bearers, and the brethren of the lodge assembled. In the absence of the P.G. Secretary (Bro. McTaggart) the report made by the deputation was read by Bro. D. Reid, P.G.I.G., and was in terms of commendation as to the working of the lodge. The number added to the membership from December, 1874, to December last was 21; at balance at the credit of the lodge, as at last audit, was £27 7s. 0½d.; they had handed over £3 to the Benevolent Fund of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and no disbursements had been made during the year in the way of private charity, none having been required. The acting P.G. Master, Bro. Gillies, said they would observe that the report of the deputation was a short one. The books of the lodge were in perfect order, and the members of the deputation were very much pleased to find that the lodge had at their credit the handsome balance of £27 odd, and also that during the past year they had made so many as 21 new members. Bro. Gillies concluded his few remarks with paying a well-merited compliment to his "old and respected friend, Bro. Allan," Secretary of the lodge, who joined the Craft so far back as 58 years ago, and whose minute book at this day is a marvel of exactness and beautiful calligraphy. The W.M., Bro. Jack, said it gave him great pleasure to hear the very satisfactory account of their last year's proceedings, as reported by the P.G. deputation. He could assure the latter that he would do his very best to forward the interests of Lodge 128, and, if possible, make it better than it had been before. After a hearty vote of thanks to the deputation, and Bros. John Miller, P.G.J.D., and David Reid, P.G.I.G., had received affiliation into Lodge St. John, the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge withdrew. This concludes the round of Provincial Grand Lodge visitations for the present year.

PAISLEY.—Lodge St. Mirren (No. 129).—The regular monthly meeting of this most prosperous lodge was held in their Masonic Hall, 5, Moss-street, on Monday evening, the 5th inst., Bro. H. S. Edmonds, W.M., presiding, with Bros. W. Gemmell, S.W.; G. Fisher, J.W.; A. Wallace, P.M.; A. Macpherson, Sec.; McLeod, S.D.; and the other office-bearers, with a very full attendance of members and a few visiting brethren. The lodge having been opened, the Secretary read the minutes of last meeting, which were adopted. Bros. J. Harris and J. B. Gibson were passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. Edmonds, W.M., in his usual able style. Thereafter the same brethren, on account of having to leave the country in a few days, were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason by Bro. G. Fisher, J.W., at request of the W.M., in a very able and impressive manner. The lodge was then resumed on the First Degree, and closed in due form.

GREENOCK.—Lodge St. John's (No. 178).—A meeting of this lodge was held in St. John's Hall, Greenock, on Friday evening, the 5th inst., Bro. McMaster,

W.M., in the chair, supported by the other office-bearers, who were in their respective places. The lodge being opened in the First Degree, three candidates were regularly proposed and balloted for, and initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. The lodge was then advanced to the Second Degree, and afterwards to the Third Degree, when the same three brethren were passed and raised. As this lodge is largely composed of seafaring brethren, they hold a special grant from the Grand Lodge to confer the three degrees in one night. The lodge was then resumed in the E.A. Degree, and put under the sway of the J.W., when the following brethren enlivened the evening's harmony with some excellent songs and recitations, viz., Bros. Wright, Martin, Anderson, Douglas, and Elliot, Bro. Martin officiating at the harmonium. After the Tyler's toast had been duly honoured, the lodge was called back to labour, and closed in due and ancient form by the W.M.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Caledonian Railway (No. 354).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, 30, Hope-street, on Wednesday evening, the 7th inst., Bro. A. B. Ferguson, W.M., in the chair; John Harley, S.W.; C. McKenzie, J.W.; R. A. McLean, Sec.; D. T. Colquhoun, Treas.; J. Harley, J.D.; and others, and a very large and influential attendance of members and visitors. Among the latter were Bros. Julius Brodie, P.M. 360, and I.P.M. 541; W. Ferguson, I.P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); J. Scott, D.M. St. Bryde, 579; Capt. R. Walker, Lodge Pelham Pillar, 792, Grimsby, E.C.; James Conner, Lodge La Sicilia, Palermo; J. McInnes, S.W. 408; R. Mitchell, D.M. 332; J. Fyfe, 465; and others. On the lodge being opened and the minutes of last regular meeting and one emergency meeting having been read and approved of, an application was made to the lodge on behalf of a deceased brother's widow for relief, and a sum of money was unanimously voted out of the funds of the lodge, and also out of the benevolent fund, towards her assistance. Mr. Henry Borrill was then initiated into the Entered Apprentice Degree by the W.M., and thereafter was passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543. He (the candidate) having to leave this country in a few days, was afterwards, along with Bros. T. Donaldson and H. Harff, raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543. The lodge was then reduced to the First Degree, and after going through the usual routine of minor business, and according a vote of thanks to Bro. Ferguson for working the Second and Third Degrees, the lodge was closed in due form.

GOVAN.—Lodge Govandale (No. 437).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Portland Buildings, Govan, on Tuesday evening, 6th inst.; Bro. J. Miller, W.M.; J. McFarlane, I.P.M.; A. Campbell, P.M.; R. Muir, S.W.; A. James, J.W.; A. Blair, Treas.; J. Sutherland, Sec.; and others. The occasion being the visitation of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, the meeting was largely attended by the members and visiting brethren from lodges Nos. 34, 28, 86, 116, 117, 124, 204, 219, 347, 360, 401, 413, 405, 543, and 581. The deputation consisted of Bros. J. Gillies, P.G. Treas., acting P.G.M.; A. McTaggart, M.A., P.G. Sec.; J. Miller, P.G.J.D.; Alex. Bain, P.G.B.B.; J. Ritchie, P.G. Arch.; and D. Reid, P.G.I.G. At the request of the W.M., Bro. Gillies, acting P.G.M., occupied the chair, and called upon the P.G. Sec., Bro. McTaggart, to read the report. The latter said it was his pleasing duty again to congratulate Lodge Govandale upon another year of success. Their working during the past year had been admirable, as was borne testimony to in the report of the deputation, which was as follows:—"We, the undersigned office-bearers of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, hereby certify that we visited Lodge Govandale, No. 437, on the 6th day of June, 1876—examined the various books of the lodge, and found them in a very satisfactory condition—and that, generally, the lodge is working in strict harmony with the constitution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. He (Bro. McTaggart) thought they would admit that it was almost impossible to give them a higher certificate than that. The deputation were delighted to have found that night that they had been unable to detect anything whatever in the books of the lodge worthy of animadversion. With regard to the books, he, in the first place, begged to pay a distinct compliment to the Tyler of the lodge, that old and tried servant Bro. McIntyre, for the admirable condition of the sederunt book. A better kept one they had not seen that year. The minute book was admirably kept; the roll book in very good condition, and the cash book very well kept indeed. The balance at the credit of the lodge as at last audit was £57 15s. 3d.; and he (Bro. McTaggart) was very proud to know that the successors of the present deputation, to whom it would fall to visit Lodge 437 next year, would have the satisfaction of finding that the funds were very much increased. Another item he had to notice was that during last year the lodge had had no distinct claims upon their private charity, and that indicated, so far, that the character of their membership was beyond reproach. They had handed over to the P.G. Benevolent Fund the handsome sum of £9 10s.—as against £8 last year; and the number of intrans during the past year was 21. The acting P.G. Master (Bro. Gillies) said it must be very gratifying to the lodge to hear such a report as they had just heard read; showing, as it did, that Lodge Govandale was second to none in the Province of Glasgow. Indeed, there was scarcely a lodge in the province that held such a position at the present time as Lodge 437. The W.M. (Bro. Miller) said he had much pleasure in informing the deputation that the office-bearers of Lodge Govandale worked together all as one; and for his part (the speaker) it would always be his aim, so long as he was there, to work in strict conformity with Grand Lodge laws. He then proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the deputation for their visit, which was given with a will. Bro. Gillies, in returning thanks for the compliment, stated that with regard to the report they had made of the condition of the lodge, he might inform them that their P.G. Secretary could not put his finger upon a single black spot in the books. Before retiring the following members of the deputation received honorary affiliation to the lodge at the hands of Bro. John McFarlane, P.M. viz., Bros. John Miller, James Ritchie, and David Reid. Bro. Ritchie returned thanks for the honour conferred on behalf of himself and Bros. Miller and Reid. Thereafter Bro. W. Findlay was passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. W. Ferguson, S.M.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Dramatic (No. 571).—A meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Wednesday, 7th inst., at three o'clock p.m., Bro. W. E. Dobson, W.M., presiding; G. Houston, D.M.; H. W. Jackman, S.W.; W. Sivewright, J.W.; Weir, acting Sec.; R. S. Smyth, S.D., and a good attendance of members. Among the visitors were Bros. W. Bell, I.P.M. 34; J. Balfour, P.G.D. of C.; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); W. Borland, 117; G. W. Wheeler, 73; W. Adams, D. of Mus. 153; W. McDonald, 153; D. C. Allan, 153; Gault, 441; A. Gray, 458; and others. The minutes of last meeting were read by Bro. Weir and confirmed. Bro. James Cooper, Lodge Neptune, 375, Aberdeen, was elected a joining member, and obligated by the W.M. Thereafter Bros. J. Cameron, Henri Ludwig, and Adam Gibb were passed to the Fellow Craft Degree in a very efficient manner by Bro. J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360, and Bro. Walter Buchanan was raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543, Bro. Adams, 153, presiding at the harmonium during the ceremonies. The lodge was then closed.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Plantation (No. 581).—The regular meeting of this young lodge was held at the new Masonic Hall, Cragiehall-street, on Monday evening, the 5th inst. In the absence of Bro. Stobo, W.M., Bro. W. Ferguson, P.M. 543, D.M., occupied the chair, supported by Bros. D. Peacock, S.W.; J. Henry, J.W.; Wm. Taylor, Treas.; Robt. Allan, Sec.; Imrie, S.D.; Halley, J.D.; Paterson, I.G.; and Cumming, Tyler; and, as usual, the meeting was well attended by visiting brethren and members of the lodge. The acting W.M. was supported on the dais by Bros. John Monro, W.M. Commercial Lodge, 360; John Davidson, P.M. 360; and J. W. Burns, I.P.M. Thistle Lodge, 87. The lodge having been opened, the Secretary read the minutes of one emergency and last regular meeting, which were approved of. Bros. John Hart and Peter Stobo were passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. Ferguson, D.M. On the lodge being resumed on the First Degree, it was unanimously agreed to hold a harmony meeting on Monday evening, the 26th inst., to celebrate St. John's Day (24th June). Thereafter a new Code of bye-laws was read for the third time and passed, after a few slight alterations. The business being ended, the lodge was closed.

THE DEATH OF ABDUL-AZIZ.

The following is a translation of the official report of the physicians who were summoned to examine the body of the late Sultan:—"In a lower room of the guard-house adjoining the Imperial Palace of Tcheragan we found a body lying on a mattress placed upon the floor, and covered by a new linen cloth. Upon removing the covering we recognized the body as that of the ex-Sultan Abdul-Aziz. Every part of the body was cold and bloodless, pale, and covered with coagulated blood. There was no rigidity, the eyelids were partly open, the cornea slightly opaque, and the mouth half closed. Upon removing the linen bandages from the arms we found a little below the bend of the left arm an opening five centimetres in extent and three in depth. The edges of the wound were jagged and irregular; the direction of the wound downwards and from without. The veins in this region were cut, and the cubital artery was open for three parts of its internal diameter. In the bend of the right arm we found a wound in a slightly oblique direction, also jagged, of two centimetres in extent and one-and-a-half in depth. In this place only the smaller veins had been touched, the arteries being intact. A pair of scissors was produced to us ten centimetres long, very sharp, and having upon one of the blades a small lateral knob towards the point. The scissors were stained with blood, and we were told that it was by means of that instrument that the ex-Sultan had inflicted upon himself the wounds described above. We then proceeded to the residence of the deceased ex-Sultan, where we were shown a vast chamber looking upon the sea. We found there, upon the corner of a sofa, placed near a window, a pool of blood, and upon the matting on the floor was a large quantity of coagulated blood in one mass, with several smaller patches in other places near it. From the above facts we are unanimously of opinion—1, that the death of the ex-Sultan, Abdul-Aziz, was caused by hemorrhage produced by injuries to the vessels in the bends of the arms; 2, that the instrument produced to us was perfectly adapted to effect such wounds; 3, that the direction and the nature of the wounds as well as the instrument which might have inflicted them lead us to the conclusion of suicide. General Brownrigg	Prov. G.M.
George White	as Prov. G.S.W.
Dr. Rhys Williams	Prov. G.J.W.
Rev. C. W. Arnold	Prov. G.C.
T. P. Dickens	Prov. G.R.
Chas. Greenwood	Prov. G. Sec.
H. G. Francis	Prov. G.S.D.
Wells	Prov. G.J.D.
Albert Dawes	Prov. G.Org.
W. Sharp	Prov. G.Swd. B.
C. T. Speight	Prov. G. Tyler.

After the usual preliminary business had been transacted, the minutes and Grand Treasurer's accounts received, five guineas were voted to the widow of a deceased Surrey brother; five guineas to the Croydon Hospital; five guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls; five guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; and five guineas to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.

The Prov. Grand Master proceeded to appoint his officers for the year, but before doing so he said there was one thing which he must speak of. He had only two superior officers, the Wardens, but he knew the worth of a large number of brethren of the province; and if it were possible he should make Wardens of them all. Some of the brethren considered that they should have the higher offices, but he would state that whatever office he bestowed on a brother, that brother was a Grand Officer, and should be perfectly satisfied with the purple in that office, because it was given to the best of the Provincial Grand Master's ability. (Hear, hear.)

The Grand Officers of the year were then given as follows, the Prov. Grand Master himself investing the brethren:—

Harrison	D. Prov. G.M.
Rev. Ambrose Hall	Prov. G.S.W.
John Lambert Sim	Prov. J.G.W.
Rev. D. J. Drakeford	Prov. G.C.
A. B. Cook	Prov. G. Reg.
Charles Greenwood	Prov. G. Sec.
Eager	Prov. S.G.D.
C. Gale	Prov. J.G.D.
Podmore	Prov. G.S. of Wks.
John Close	Prov. G.D.C.
Rhodes	Prov. G. Org.
Capt. M. S. Brownrigg	Prov. G. Swd. Br.
D. B. Woodward	Prov. G. Purst.
Charles Pawley, F. West, W. Kemp, and Turquand	Prov. G. Stewards.

The Prov. G.M. afterwards said that on these occasions it was usual to say something with regard to the position of Masonry in the province, and he was very grateful to be able to give the brethren a good account of its progress during the last year. Since the former meeting he had consecrated three new lodges, the Addiscombe Lodge, the St. John's Lodge at Knaphill, the Studholme Lodge; and on Tuesday next he was going to consecrate the Lodge of Friendship and Harmony, at Walton-on-Thames. He thought that was a very good year's work. In fact, were it not that he was well satisfied with the elements of which these lodges were composed, he should say that this progress was almost too quick. It was very easy to have lodges too numerous, and he owned that he should always hesitate to recommend to the Most Worshipful the Grand Master the granting of a new lodge unless he was perfectly well satisfied that occasion required it, and that the component parts of it were such as would be an honour to the Craft, and do credit to the province. He continued to receive excellent accounts of all the lodges in the province. He regretted he had not been able to visit so many as he could wish; but in all he had visited he had found good feeling and that exhibition of true brotherhood that must always be the great characteristic of the Order. (Hear, hear.) He repeated that the state of Masonry in the province was very satisfactory. He would now mention another subject which had been canvassed very much in the neighbouring province of Berks and Bucks, and he believed in that of Middlesex also. A letter had been received from the Deputy Prov. G.M. of Berks and Bucks, the Rev. J. Studholme Brownrigg, G.C., with reference to the votes for the Masonic charities. It was thought by the brethren in those provinces, and also in this province, that they might utilize their votes for the charities more than they did by a combination of the three provinces, which were territorially annexed to each other. If there was a very urgent case in either province, by a combination of their votes they might bring such an amount of power to bear as would insure the success of the candidate. Of course it was not intended to interfere with any strong case of their own; but in a case which was very urgent in either province where the other provinces had no very urgent case it would be a very good thing if the provinces could help one another. With respect to his own votes, when an election was coming on he always looked down the list to see if there was a Surrey Mason, or the widow or child of a Surrey Mason, on it. If there was he gave his votes for that case; because the brethren must remember he only held those votes in trust; they were the votes of the province, to be devoted to cases from the province. Sometimes there was no Surrey case, and then he gave his votes to what he thought the most deserving case. He would now call upon Bro. Greenwood to read the letter he had referred to, and after that the brethren could consider what they should do upon the subject. He thought a charity committee might be appointed.

Bro. Greenwood, Prov. G. Sec., then read the letter from the Rev. J. Studholme Brownrigg, which contained the suggestions mentioned in the Prov. Grand Master's above observations.

The Rev. C. W. Arnold said he had a communication on this subject from the Dep. Prov. G.M. of Berks and Bucks some time ago, asking him to consider the question, and at the present meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge to take part in a discussion on it, and if possible bring it to a result. He had very great pleasure now in moving that a committee, as suggested by the Prov. G.M., be appointed for this province, and that they should unite with the neighbouring provinces—he did not see why Wiltshire should not be included; the more they were the stronger they would be—in supporting candidates. No doubt they would be able to carry any candidate in. At present a great many votes were lost; some were frittered away by being given to a candidate in whom the subscribers had no particular interest, and whom they did not know; others were spoiled by not being properly filled up; and others by not being filled up at all. It was a most desirable thing that the votes should be sent to a charity committee, who would see that they were properly filled up. He took a great interest in this question because he thought it would be doing more good to the charities, and more good to their own parties. He would conclude by moving that a charity committee be appointed for the province.

Dr. Strong seconded the motion. He quite concurred in the above remarks that many votes were lost from papers not being properly filled up, or not filled up at all. If they were sent to the committee they would not be lost. In the course of a few years it would be known who had votes and who had not. He would like to throw out the suggestion that the committee should not consist of the W.M.'s of the lodges in the province, because they were annually changed, and would come to their work in ignorance of their work; but if one brother was appointed from each lodge to hold the office permanently he would be acquainted with the work.

The Prov. G.M. said this was a good suggestion; and perhaps the Treasurer or Secretary of a lodge would be the best member they could get for the purpose. He then called on Col. Burdett to give them any information he could on the question of the Charity Committee.

Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M. of Middlesex, said that the question of a Charity Committee for the province of Middlesex was brought before the brethren some time back; but it was only discussed then, although he hoped now to carry it out not only in that province, but in combination with the adjoining provinces. There was this point to be taken into consideration, that the brethren of Surrey and Middlesex, which were really Metropolitan provinces, belonged, in a great proportion, to London lodges as well, and the province of Middlesex felt a difficulty in uniting as a province independently of those brethren acting in London. All the brethren acting in the province were most anxious to work in their own lodges and for their own candidate, and so a Middlesex candidate or a Surrey candidate would have little chance unless those two provinces or more were joined together. They might carry their candidate, if joined together, without the assistance of the London brethren, although he did not wish it to be understood that they were not at all times happy to have the assistance of the London brethren. Joined together the provinces might carry one or two cases without much difficulty. Middlesex considered the question last year, but gave it up because the brethren could not see that the province was strong enough to carry a candidate by itself.

Bro. Greenwood, Prov. G. Secretary, said that in 1859 the same question was brought before Grand Lodge of England.

Col. Burdett observed that he had communications from East Lancashire which pointed out that in that province the principle was thoroughly carried out.

Bro. Greenwood said it was Bro. Symonds who brought the matter before Grand Lodge in 1859, but it was then done more in aid of the charities than to concentrate voting power on behalf of a candidate. Bro. White (now present) sent up each year his report for some time, but gradually the system fell into decay. The system then adopted was for the purpose of obtaining funds for the charities; now it was to unite voting power on behalf of candidates.

The Prov. Grand Master thought the question before the brethren was the approval of the design; it would be for them to appoint a committee hereafter; after which it would be communicated to the other provinces of Middlesex, Berks and Bucks, and Wilts. If they approved of the principle they would have to appoint a committee. Bro. Grand Chaplain had moved that a committee be appointed. This had been seconded. When carried, Grand Lodge would nominate the members. The suggestion of Dr. Strong was a good one, that some permanent officer of a lodge should be appointed; and his own feeling was that they could not have better members than the Secretaries; who, with the Prov. Grand Chaplain, the Deputy Prov. G.M., and the Prov. G.M. could form the charity committee of the province. He did not wish to propose any; he only threw out the suggestion; but he would be happy to take any trouble himself.

Bro. the Rev. C. W. Arnold said he thought it would be better to put it all into one resolution. Of course the Secretaries would be the best persons to place on the committee, because they had all the communications respecting their lodges, and were perfectly conversant with all the business brought forward. He begged to add to his motion "That the committee consist of the Prov. G.M., the Deputy Prov. G.M., the Prov. G. Chaplain, the Prov. G. Secretary, and the Secretaries of the different lodges."

Bro. Webster, W.M., St. John's Lodge, seconded the motion, as altered, which was then put and carried, after which the Audit Committee was appointed.

Bro. H. J. P. Dumas, P.G.D., then rose and proposed "That Grand Lodge should vote a sum of money towards a testimonial which was on foot to be presented to Bro. Charles Greenwood, who for nearly a quarter of a century had ably discharged the duties of Secretary of the Prov. Grand Lodge." He thought that such a testimonial should at least be subscribed to by Prov. Grand Lodge. He would leave it to the Prov. G. Treasurer to propose the amount; and he was sure that Bro. Greenwood himself and all the subscribers to the testimonial would appreciate it.

The Prov. G.M. said he cordially agreed with the proposal to present to Bro. Greenwood this testimonial, sensible as he was that there was no brother in the province who more deserved such a recognition of his services.

The Prov. Grand Treasurer said he also heartily concurred in the proposition, for no one had derived so much assistance from Bro. Greenwood as he had for a period of twenty years; and he did not know what he should have done without him. Bro. Greenwood took upon himself a vast amount of work, burdens which really none but a brother like him could properly bear, and it was all done in a business-like way. He should propose that twenty guineas be voted towards the testimonial. (Cheers.)

Bro. H. E. Francis seconded the motion, which the Prov. Grand Master put to the Grand Lodge, who carried it unanimously.

Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed, and the brethren went to the parish church of Croydon to join in the afternoon service. The grand old church was crowded, notwithstanding its immense size. Seats were reserved for the brethren (who attended without Masonic clothing) in the body of the church. Prayers were read by the Rev. Canon Hodgson.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. C. W. Arnold, Grand Chaplain, who took for his text I. Cor., iii., x., xi.

The sermon will be given in extenso in our next.

The offertory, which amounted to £25 7s. 6d., was given to the Croydon Hospital.

Shortly after five o'clock the brethren partook of a sumptuous banquet at the Greyhound, where the Provincial Grand Officers were the guests of the East Surrey Lodge of Concord. The customary toasts were honoured subsequently.

The Prov. Grand Master said, in proposing "The Queen and the Craft," that as it was impossible a Queen could ever be a Freemason, the Craft symbolised their fealty to their sovereign by connecting her with the Craft in this toast. At the same time the brethren must not forget that irrespective of the loyalty they owed Her Majesty, she was the daughter of a Mason, and out of four of her sons, three were Masons. If anything could attach her more warmly to the Order, it must be that fact.

The Prov. G.M. in giving "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M.," said that the hearts of all Masons went with him when he set out on his Eastern expedition. It was impossible when he went that long journey to dissociate in our minds certain perils which attached to the journey. He went among a fanatic population; and it was fresh in our memory that the Viceroy of India had not long before fallen by the hand of an assassin. There were also dangers of climate, and dangers in the field. We all knew his pluck in sports, in which he was always in the front rank of the sportsmen. Well, he had come back, and it had been our good fortune to see him come back sound and safe in wind and limb. We rejoiced to see him again amongst us; and if he received a Masonic reception it would be such a one as he might be proud of.

The Prov. G.M. next proposed "The Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon," who, he said, had frequently expressed to him his regret that he was unable to attend lodges and chapters more frequently than he did.

In proposing "Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers," the Prov. G.M. said he was a fine manly English gentleman, and a good cricketer, who must win the hearts of all who knew him. He begged to couple the name of the Grand Chaplain with the toast. The brethren of the Province of Surrey—perhaps it was a feather in their caps—had the honour of finding Bro. Arnold made Grand Chaplain at last Grand Festival. (Hear, hear.) They must all have been delighted with that excellent sermon they had just heard. (Hear, hear.) It was a very difficult sermon to preach, for they must remember they were in a church of which the vicar was not a Freemason; and he could not imagine any subject treated with more good taste than Freemasonry was by the Chaplain in that sermon. He made himself perfectly understood by the brethren; his references to Masonic symbols could not have been more perfect; and yet it was a sermon which could be preached to the whole world. It appealed thoroughly to the sympathies of the brethren as Masons, and was yet an admirable sermon to the outer world. They would all join with him in thanking Bro. Arnold for his excellent discourse. His appeal produced £25 7s. 6d., the greater part of which was contributed, he thought, by the Masons. He hoped so. The musical service was very good, and he had never heard the Hallelujah Chorus done better. Many who took part in the musical service were amateurs, who wished to do the Masons, or rather Bro. Woodward, honour. Next time Prov. Grand Lodge met he hoped more of the choir would be Masons. He wished to express his thanks to all who took part in the church portion of the ceremony.

Bro. Rev. C. W. Arnold, G.C., in reply, said, if there was one thing which had given him more pleasure than another in being one of the Prov. G. officers this year it was that they had given him plenty of work to do. In the first place, as the Prov. G.M. had said, in the present year there had been three lodges consecrated in the province of Surrey, and at all of these he (Bro. Arnold) had assisted, and he was glad to do so. An idle man was a disgrace to Freemasonry. Therefore, when he was asked by the Prov. G.M. to preach a sermon that day he said at once he should be glad to have the occasion, because he should feel he had done his duty of a Chaplain, and he did not care about being a Chaplain unless he had got some work to do. There was one thing he should wish to say. When they were at church he could not bring it into his sermon, because it was a thing most intimately connected with Freemasonry. He spoke about those who were of a fraternity, but he could not speak to them about the admission of persons into a fraternity. Now, they all knew that Freemasonry was extending largely in the country. Lodges were being opened day after day; and there was no doubt that there had been a great impulse given to Freemasonry of late. What he would say was, that he hoped every Freemason would carefully guard this in his heart, and take the greatest pains that no unworthy person should come into it. Having added this, he had nothing more to say. He thought then that his work as their Chaplain would be done.

The Prov. G.M. next proposed "The Visitors," and trusted they would accept from him in name of the Prov. G. Lodge the heartiest welcome.

Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex, replied. He said he had been very much gratified by what he had seen that day, and by the presence of so many Masons of the Province of Surrey. It was always gratifying to get a little interchange of hospitalities, and he only hoped that when he held the Prov. G.L. of Middlesex the Grand Master and brethren of Surrey would accept of its hospitality. The more these interchanges took place the more it strengthened the hands of the parties. They were able to do a great deal more than they could individually; and with respect to the charity committees which had been spoken of in Grand Lodge, it would be found that they would be able to effect an immense amount of good.

The Prov. G. Treasurer proposed "The Health of the Prov. G. Master." He was not going to say he regretted this toast should have fallen to him to propose, or that it should have fallen to better hands, although he regretted his inability to do justice to the toast. But there was not a brother in the room better qualified to discharge this duty than himself, because he was the oldest Prov. G. officer in the kingdom. He was made a Prov. G. Officer by Bro. Hall. He served under Bro. Dobie; and he now served under Bro. Brownrigg. As such an old Prov. G. officer, he ought to be a judge of the qualities of a Prov. G. Master, and although he knew very well, and they all knew, what Bro. Dobie was, and now difficult it was for a Prov. G.M. to follow Bro. Dobie, their present Prov. G.M. did follow him, and followed him well, and they were fortunate in having such a brother to preside over them. They knew his great ability, and he was well skilled in the Masonic Craft; and above all they knew that he was impartial. He thought he should weaken the toast if he dwelt longer upon it.

The Prov. G.M. said he was sensible of the brethren's kindness, which it appeared to him, increased year after year. It went straight to his heart. He congratulated the brethren on the very excellent gathering they had had that day. Every year he came among them he knew them better, and recognised many old faces. But he found many new ones, which was always pleasant. Four years he had held the office, and in that time the province had done very well indeed. They had done very well, even if it was only in the accession to the number of the lodges. But it was not that so much that he felt. Of course that was an advantage to them. They got more cosmopolitan; they embraced a larger circle of friends and brothers; but what he felt most was the invariable kindness with which he was received. He then proposed "The Grand Treasurer," who had been for many years a faithful and trusted officer of the province.

The Prov. G. Treas. responded, and said his work had been one of love. His duties, however, had been light by his having been associated with other excellent officers, particularly the Prov. G. Sec.

Bro. H. J. P. Dumas said, with reference to the testimonial to Bro. Greenwood, that he expected such an amount of spontaneity and readiness of concourse on the part of the brethren that there would be no need of any committees. All that would be required was that circulars should be issued to the lodges, which would no doubt subscribe their £5 each, and the individual brethren could subscribe what amount they chose. He expected altogether as much as £140.

The Prov. G.M. next proposed "The Prov. G. Secretary." He could only say what he had said before, that he did not know what he should have done without Bro. Greenwood. With such a supporter the brethren must be well satisfied. He (the Prov. G.M.) took all the responsibility of his own acts; but he could not have a better supporter.

Bro. Greenwood, in the course of a very brief reply, said he had been Prov. G.S. for several years, and during that time he had seen the Craft progress vastly in the province. Year by year lodges had been added to the roll, and certainly that circumstance had tended to increase his labours; but still that was a labour of love.

The Prov. G.M. then gave "The Health of the Prov. Senior and Junior Grand Wardens." Whether a brother received the appointment of Prov. G. Warden or Prov. G. Pursuivant, the appointment conveyed the Prov. Grand Master's sentiments of the worth of those on whom he bestowed the appointment, and one should be considered as good as the other. The appointments he had made that day had been made after due consideration, and he hoped and trusted that the province would think that his selection was a good one.

Bro. Ambrose Hall said, in reply, that the toast was an important one, and the Provincial Grand Officers were an important body Masonically. Although the work they had to do Masonically was not large, yet the Grand Officers were determined to do it well; to carry out in the lodges the teachings of the Order; and to set such an example as they should set. Above all it would be theirs, in any way they could, to uphold the offices they respectively filled, and to support the Provincial Grand Master who now so ably, so eminently, and so courteously ruled over the important Province of Surrey. He was sure the few words he had said expressed the feelings of the brethren who were associated with him in Grand Office. The offices they held they were not only proud of, but they were determined to fulfil the duties of them with honour to the Craft and credit to the province.

The Prov. G. Junior Warden also expressed the same sentiments.

The Prov. Grand Master then proposed "The East Surrey Lodge of Concord," under whose auspices the Prov. Grand Lodge had been held. It would not be inopportune while proposing this toast if he made a suggestion, in which he was quite sure they would all agree, that the Secretary of the lodge be requested to convey to that beautiful choir which had sung in the church the very grateful thanks of the brethren. Something of that sort should be put on record, because he felt that they could not have been more gratified with the singing if it had been given in any of the cathedral churches in England. A great many of the gentlemen came forward spontaneously to do honour to them as Freemasons, and he thought the brethren would be wanting in courtesy if they did not ask Bro. Woodward to convey their very best thanks for the great treat they had had that afternoon. He would propose "The Health of the W.M. and the Brethren of the East Surrey of Concord," who had so sumptuously entertained the Provincial Grand Lodge. It had seldom occurred in any province that a Provincial Grand Lodge had been so well entertained.

Bro. Dickens, W.M., East Surrey Lodge of Concord, responded. He said the lodge were much pleased that what they had done had met with the gratification of the Prov. G. Lodge. He could not help thinking that it was impossible they should not have been pleased with the musical ceremony in the splendid old parish church. The brethren of the East Surrey Lodge of Concord were very much pleased with the Grand Chaplain's sermon, and they were sorry he had been obliged to leave so early. He hoped that the thanks of the brethren of the East Surrey Lodge of Concord would be conveyed to him. He would also add that the R.W. Prov. G.M. might suggest to him that the sermon should be printed and distributed among all the lodges of the province.

The Prov. G.M. was at this time compelled to leave, and he deputed the Prov. G. Treasurer to take his place.

The Prov. G. Treasurer proposed "The Press," and called on Bro. H. Massey, of the "Freemason," to reply. This having been done, the Prov. G. Treasurer proposed "Bro. C. H. Woodward's Health." On him had fallen the burden and heat of the day, and his services had been most useful. All the proceedings had been managed by him, and he had gone heart and soul into them, not only with regard to Grand Lodge or the banquet, but more especially as regarded the church. The proceedings had gone through without a hitch.

Bro. H. C. Woodward said, the toast had taken him by surprise, but as the representative and Acting Secretary of the East Surrey Lodge of Concord he felt very deeply the compliment paid him. Without being egotistical he must say he had thrown all his effort and strength into making this meeting a great success. He had worked hard and spent many hours over it, and had exerted himself in many ways to attain his end; great assistance had been given him by others, and they had been the means of carrying the service in the church through in a way which must be memorable in the annals of Croydon for many years to come. The choir numbered nearly one hundred voices, and there was not six Masons among them. He felt very proud that the Prov. G.M. had asked him to write a letter thanking those gentlemen who had so rallied round the Craft. The offertory had gone to Croydon Hospital; and this was an object he had in view, to show that Masonic benevolence was not confined to their own circle. He was also very proud when the vicar in an interview he had with him gave him the use of the church. The vicar however said to him, "I rather regret Mr. Woodward, that you have not selected something local for the offertory." He (Bro. Woodward) said, "If you will excuse me, I will alter it in a moment," and he decided to give it to Croydon Hospital.

"The Masonic Charities" were then proposed, for which Bro. F. Binckes, Secretary of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, responded, and the Tyler's toast closed the evening's proceedings, which were enlivened by some beautiful music by Bros. Carter and Lawler.

PROVINCIAL PRIORY OF LANCASHIRE.

By command of Sir Knight Albert Hudson Royds, V.E. Prov. Prior, the annual meeting of the Provincial Priory of Lancashire was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Union-street, Oldham, on Thursday, the 1st inst., for the purpose of transacting "divers urgent and important business in connection with the province."

The St. George Preceptory was opened at twelve o'clock noon by Sir Knight Hollingworth, E.P., and the Provincial Officers, subsequently marshalled by Sir Knight Hopkins, Prov. D.C., then entered in procession. The V.E. Sub-Prior, Sir Knight C. R. N. Beswicke-Royds (acting in the absence through illness of the V.E. Prior), having been received under the A.O.S., took his place on the throne, and opened the Provincial Priory in due form and with solemn prayer.

Sir Knight Ashworth, Chancellor (in the absence of Sir Knight Chadwick, Registrar), called the muster-roll of the preceptories and of the Provincial Officers of Lancashire, when it was found that all the preceptories were represented except the De Lacy, Burnley (vacant); Edmund Plantagenet, Ardwick (suspended); Faith, Wigan; St. John of Jerusalem, Todmorden; and Plains of Mamre, Burnley. The following Provincial Officers were present:—Sir Knts. C. R. N. Beswicke-Royds, V.E.P. Sub-Prior, on the throne; J. B. Phillips, Prov. P.; W. Ashworth, P. Chancellor; W. Doyle, P. Constable; J. A. Birch, P. Treas.; G. Turner, P. Vice-Chancellor; S. H. Smith, P. Sub-Marshal; J. Greaves, P. Almoner; P. M. Jones, P. St. B. (Vex Belli); J. Worsley, P. B.B.; J. Hall, 1st P. Aide; J. B. Carr, 2nd P. Aide; J. W. Taylor, P. C. of G.; J. E. Jackson, P. S.B.; J. L. Goodwin, P. Org.; H. Thomas, P. 1st Pur.; and J. Lawton, P. Equerry. Letters of apology, expressing regret at inability to attend, were read from Sir Knts. Hall, Prov. G.M.; T. Clark, Prov. St. B.; Jenkins, Prov. W. of R.; and Dr. J. K. C. Smith, Prov. 1st Pur.; and the reasons given for their absence were accepted as satisfactory. Amongst others present were the following Sir Knights:—H. L. Hollingworth, E.P.; John Greaves, P. G.C.; P.G.A.; H. Thomas, 1st Capt.; J. Crompton Lees, 2nd Capt.; J. G. Ireland, Registrar; W. Blackburn, Capt. Lines; J. Clifton, A. Clegg, P. Phillip Melate, H. S. Alpess, P.P., First Grand Captain; Thomas Birchall, P. G. Constable; J. Wood, Treas. Wm. de la More Preceptory; T. P. Ainsworth, J. Hall, P. Royle, Dr. S. D. Lees, P.P. G.C., &c.; T. Ginni, E. Pierpoint, P.G.C. of L.; E. Halliwell, C. M. Jones, E.P.; Reginald Young, E.P.; R. H. Low, E.P.; M. Mawson, 1st Captain (Alpess Preceptory); R. Landless, E.P.; W. Cottam, E.P. (Prince of Peace); J. A. Birch, Treas.; R. Whitworth, E.P. (Albert); W. H. Hopkins, P.P.G.D.C.; J. Potter, E. Whittaker, J. Procter, B. Taylor, 1st H. (St. Joseph); J. F. Tweedale, P.P.G. Sub-Prior (St. George's); and others.

The minutes of the previous Provincial Priory held at Liverpool were passed, and the accounts of the Prov. Treasurer (Sir Knight J. A. Birch), audited by Sir Knights H. L. Hollingworth and J. E. Jackson, were certified as correct, the balance in hand being £16 12s. 9d. Sir Knight J. A. Birch was re-elected the Treasurer for the ensuing year.

The Prov. Sub-Prior then invested the officers for the ensuing year, and the following is a complete list of the staff at the head of the province:—Great officers: Sir Knights A. H. Royds, V.E. Prov. Prior; Clement R. Beswicke-Royds, E. Sub-Prior; Rev. J. B. Phillips, Prelate; W. Ashworth, Chancellor; J. Greaves, Constable; S. H. Smith, Marshal; J. A. Birch, Treas.; and J. Chadwick, Registrar. The officers were Sir Knights G. Turner, V.C.; T. H. Jenkins, Sub-Marshal; C. M. Jones, S.B. (Beauceant); J. Worsley, W. of Reg.; J. Hall, Almoner; J. B. Carr, S.B. (Vex Belli); J. Taylor, B.B.; J. E. Jackson, 1st Aide; J. K. Smith, 2d Aide; H. Thomas, C. of G.; R. Landless, Swd. Bearer; J. L. Goodwin, Org.; H. L. Hollingworth, First Pur.; J. C. Lees, Second Pur.; and J. Lawton, Equerry (unanimously elected).

The P. Sub. Prior nominated, on his own behalf, as members of the General Purposes Committee for the ensuing year, Sir Knts. W. H. Wright, P.D.P.G.C.; Col. Berchall, P.G. Chamberlain; R. H. Hutchinson, P.G. S.B.; and T. Croxton, P.G.S.B. The Provincial Priory nominated Sir Knts. G. P. Brockbank, P.G.C.; J. F. Tweedale, P.G.S.B.; W. Doyle, P.P. Con.; and G. Mellor, P.P.G. Cap., with the following Knights, ex-officio:—V.E. Sir Knt. A. H. Royds, Prov. Prior; Em. Sir Knt. C. R. N. Beswicke-Royds, P. Sub. Prior; Sir Knt. W. Ashworth, P. Chancellor; J. A. Birch, P. Treas.; and J. Chadwick, P. Registrar.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting of the Provincial Priory under the banner of the Jerusalem Preceptory, Manchester. After alms had been collected,

The Prov. Sub. Prior addressed the Knights on the present position and prospects of the Order, and referred to the report presented to Great Priory, strongly condemning the conduct of the Grand Chancellor in suppressing the circular containing the opinion of 103 P.E.C.'s and Preceptors of this province respecting Sir Knt. Montagu's motion and the recent changes in the statutes of the Order. He concluded by thanking those Knights who had attended, and urged all who could possibly do so to attend the next convent general. He also urged the P.E.C.'s and Preceptors to attend to all communications received from the Chancellor.

The announcement that the Grand Chancellor had suppressed the papers containing the opinion of the Preceptors and P.E.C.'s in reply to Sir Knt. Montagu's motion was received with great disapprobation. It was stated that 103 P.E.C.'s and Preceptors in the province had sent in replies stating it as in their opinion desirable that the word "Masonic" should be restored to the title of the Order, that the designations "E.C." and "First and Second Captains" should also be restored, and that Past Rank should be bestowed on all who had held any Grand or Provincial office, after having once attained the office of Preceptor.

On the motion of Sir Knt. Major Turner, seconded by Sir Knt. Captain Greaves, the thanks of the Priory were voted to the V.E.P., with the expression of a desire that he would soon be restored to health and enabled to resume his active duties for the good of the Order.

The Priory was then closed, and the Sir Knights adjourned to a recherche banquet in the same building.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The Committee of this Institution met on Wednesday afternoon at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Colonel Creation presided. The other brethren present were Bros. J. Rawson, Raynham W. Stewart, Hyde Pullen, Griffiths Smith, H. G. Warren, Benjamin Head, R. Warner Wheeler, J. M. Case, William Hale, James Brette, John Constable, H. M. Levy, Thomas W. White, Thomas Cubitt, W. Hilton, C. F. Hogard, H. Massey ("Freemason"); W. Lane, and James Terry, Sec.

Bro. James Terry, after reading the minutes, announced the death of one male annuitant who had received one year's annuity. Bro. Terry also reported the names of the brethren elected by Grand Lodge to serve on the House Committee of the Institution. He likewise reported that the apartments lately occupied in the asylum by an annuitant whom the Committee had, after repeated promises of amendment, been necessitated to expel, on account of his persistently rendering himself obnoxious to the other residents, had been wilfully damaged by this brother, and it was imperative on the Committee to have them repaired. Whereupon it was decided to have the required repairs effected, and the brother informed that the cost of such repairs would be deducted from the amount of his next quarter's annuity. A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Dr. Strong, the Medical Officer of the Institution, for his gift of a very handsome clock for the use of the Asylum.

Bro. Terry read a letter from the brother of the late Bro. Cutbush, acknowledging, on behalf of the deceased brother's widow, the letter of condolence directed at the last meeting of the Committee to be sent to her. The writer of the letter added, in his own behalf, that he should do his utmost to carry out the wishes and intentions of the late Bro. Cutbush with respect to supporting the Institution if he had lived.

The Chairman informed the Committee that three candidates, who were each over 80 years of age, were unsuccessful at the last two elections. The Committee had the power, by the laws of the Institution, to take candidates under such circumstances on the fund without further election, and that, having that power, he should move that they be taken on.

Bro. John Constable seconded the motion, which was then put to the meeting and carried.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart moved, pursuant to notice, that Miss Norris, the daughter of Bro. Norris, an inmate of the Asylum, be appointed as Matron of the Institution. She had been a most valuable person down there, and he himself had witnessed the kind way in which she had behaved to all the inmates, both male and female. It was very desirable that there should be a female there to attend to the wants of the old ladies. No one could have done so with more care and affection than Miss Norris had for a long time without fee or reward. She gave up a good situation to go there and look after her father; and the time had come when he thought the Institution should no longer accept her services gratuitously. He therefore moved that her services be secured at a salary of £30 a year.

Bro. John Constable seconded the motion.

The Chairman said that he quite concurred with Bro. Stewart's remarks. Miss Norris was a most valuable person to the Institution, according to his own observation.

Bro. Terry said he had a telegram from Dr. Strong regretting his inability to be present, as he had intended, to bear his testimony to Miss Norris's valuable services and to support the motion.

The motion was then put and carried, and a vote of thanks was passed to the chairman, and the Committee adjourned.

Masonic and General Tidings.

Bro. Albert Blengini (late professor of fencing to Bro. H.R.H. the King of Greece) will give a grand assault of arms at Willis's Rooms, St. James's, on Thursday, June 22nd, on which occasion he will be assisted by the principal Masters at present located in London. Prices of admission 10s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and 3s. Tickets may be obtained of Bro. Blengini, at the ticket office, Willis's Rooms, St. James's.

An official communication from the War Office notifies that Field-Marshal His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, will review the Volunteer Force belonging to London and the vicinity, in Hyde Park, on Saturday, the 1st July. Should any volunteer corps within an easy distance of London wish to attend the review at their own expense, their application will be taken into consideration with a view to their admission so far as space and numbers will allow, provided that such applications be received at the War Office on or before Monday, the 9th inst. Instructions will be issued as to the place and times at which the several brigades will be formed. The review is to be at five o'clock.

The Cripplegate Lodge, No. 1613, will be consecrated on Saturday, June 24th, at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Bros. J. R. Foulger, P.M. 177, W.M. designate; G. M. Felton, C.C., S.W. designate; C. J. Benson, J.W. designate.

The seventh annual fete in aid of the Metropolitan and City Police Orphanage will be held at the Crystal Palace on Wednesday, June 5th. The entertainments will be on a grand scale.

BRO. SIR EDWARD LEE (manager of the Alexandra Palace Company, Muswell-hill) has consented to undertake the management of the Manley Palace and Park Company (Limited), on the expiration of his agreement with the Alexandra Palace Company.

Bro. Sir Gilbert Greenall, M.P., Past S.G.W. of England, has been presented by the Freemasons of Warrington with an illuminated address, congratulating him on his recent elevation to a baronetcy.

A presentation of a very gratifying character was made on Friday last to Bro. W. J. Jennings, manager of the Albion, Aldersgate-street, on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday. The staff of the establishment, with a few other personal friends, had united to give him a testimonial of their esteem and regard, and it took the form of a timepiece and two candelabra, all under glass shades, together with a handsome silver salver, bearing a suitable inscription. The presentation was made by Mr. J. Staples (one of the directors), in the name of the donors, and in concluding a highly complimentary address, the speaker expressed a hope that Bro. Jennings, with Mrs. Jennings, would be spared for many years to come, and that each succeeding year would be pleasanter and more prosperous than the preceding—a wish that was heartily endorsed by the staff who assembled together at the time.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, and attended by Lieutenant-General Sir T. M. Biddulph, the Dowager Marchioness of Ely, and Colonel Maude, will return from Scotland to Windsor on Thursday the 22nd inst., being a few days later than was expected.

Prince Hassan, son of the Khedive, arrived in London on Sunday evening, and is staying at 85, Lancaster-gate.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE.—The Rev. George C. Bell, Head Master of Christ's Hospital, and late Fellow of Worcester College, Oxford, was yesterday unanimously elected Master of Marlborough College, in place of Dr. Farrar, now Canon of Westminster.

BRO. CAPTAIN WEBB, the "Hero of the Channel," as he is now popularly styled, appeared at St. James's Hall on Saturday, in what was probably a new experience to him, viz., the character as a lecturer. The lecture was upon swimming in general, and the great swim across the Channel in particular, and with it, as his stock in trade, Bro. Webb means to visit most of the provincial towns of England.

Bro. A. Tisley has been appointed Vestry Clerk of St. Dunstan's in the West, in the place of his father, who has resigned through ill health.

A report of the consecration of the Hamer Chapter, No. 1393, will appear in our next.

The Countess of Zetland gave birth to a son and heir at her town house in Arlington-street, on Sunday. The infant takes the title of Lord Dundas.

Obituary.

BRO. COL. A. B. RICHARDS

We regret to announce that Bro. Col. A. B. Richards died on Monday night after a protracted illness. The deceased gentleman was the author of several dramatic productions, and had for some years occupied the post of editor of the "Morning Advertiser." Having taken an active part in the early stages of the volunteer movement, he remained a consistent supporter of the claims of our citizen soldiers.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—There is always taking place in the blood an interchange of material. Nutrient is absorbed into it from the processes of digestion and assimilation, and effete and useless matter is constantly being eliminated from it by the various excretory processes which Nature has furnished us with. During hot and sultry weather, when various causes are at work to urge into undue activity the circulation of the blood, and to retard one or other of these excretions, great risk occurs of the balance being disarranged, and violent and sudden attacks of diarrhoea, cholera, cramps, and similar diseases are the consequences thereof. Holloway's remedies restore the loss of balance, regulate the circulation and excretions, and quickly give relief.—ADVT.

SECOND EDITION.

A Second Edition of the "Freemason" will be published at nine o'clock on Saturday morning, containing a full report of the proceedings at the Provincial Grand Lodge of Oxford, at which His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, Provincial Grand Master of Oxford, will preside.

THE LAST QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION.

The greatest enemies of the "Freemason" cannot accuse it of truckling to the opinions of one or many. It has from the first hour of its existence been most independent in tone and temper, in thought and utterance, and perhaps that is the very reason, a good reason—by the way—why it has received so much kindly and general support from the Craft at home and abroad. If brethren do not agree with its expressed sentiments, at any rate they know well that such openly avowed opinions are both original and independent, based on deliberate convictions, and animated by proper independence. We still shall have, we trust, to-day, full credit with our numerous readers for simple honesty of utterance, for "straight running," and "plain sailing," in what we are about to say. We shall hoist no strange colours, and throw out no false signals, but shall steer a steady course. The intelligent and perspicacious reader will by this time probably have discovered that what we are going to say will not be all "couleur de rose," or please every one. Nothing, indeed, is easier than to swim with the stream, it is perhaps even, humanly speaking, not the most unpleasant of proceedings; nothing is more convenient at times than to go with the majority. We shall all of us remember the axiom of safety at Eatonswill election, where, we believe, it was the poetic Snodgrass's view of matters that if there are two mobs shout with the largest. But then such an accommodating disposition is often purchased at a high price, viz., the complete loss of manly independence. So we prefer to stick to our own old colours, on which the motto, "honest and free opinion," is inscribed, leaving both the words we use and the arguments we bring forward, to the kindly and fraternal criticism of an indulgent but appreciating Masonic public. Nothing, in our opinion, is so detrimental to the character of the press, Masonic or profane, as any mere yielding to passing delusions or unreasoning majorities; nothing so sad as to note too often the complacency of writers and speakers who go with the popular current, and fancy that they form the views of the majority. At such a time all that the serious and thinking can do is to lament over that insufferable and inflated egotism, which seems to cry out in stentorian tones see "how we apples swim." So they may, pro tem, but, after all, what a contemptible bobbing up and down it is! After this high-flown exordium, need we say that we do not agree with the result of the last Quarterly Communication, nay, that we rather think it a matter for much concern. With all deference to Grand Lodge, and with all respect to the speakers and voters for the amendment, we venture to express our very great regret that Bro. Havers's seasonable resolution was not carried, and that the amendment was. We venture even to think, that in coming to the decision it did Grand Lodge acted somewhat hastily and impulsively, led away by mistaken appeals, "at Lathomos," on grounds we equally venture to consider illogical. We cannot help feeling strongly that the whole question was decided on an incorrect issue, and that the line of argument, as against Bro. Havers's motion, was very defective in all its premises. For, as we read the speeches of the orators we find, according to our comprehension, which we admit is limited, that the simple and straightforward resolution of the Past Junior Grand Warden was met by considerations of sectarian feeling and very limited views of Masonic benevolence, which ought never even to have been glanced at in Grand Lodge, and appeals were made to severances and sensibilities which ought never to have been invoked at all. The difference, for instance, as between Christian and Hebrew brethren in respect of a supposed denominationalism ought never to have been dwelt upon for one moment, and we feel sure of this, that our worthy Hebrew brethren, good Masons as they are, will not the least feel thankful to those who in their nervous anxiety came forward as it were to protect their rights and to claim their votes. For the motion was not, and never was intended in any way, as a denominational one. That the two cathedrals selected for aid belonged to a Christian body of religionists is most undoubtedly true, but it was not proposed that they should receive the support of Grand Lodge on denominational grounds but on Masonic ones, because they appealed to the "sentiment" and memories of Freemasons. The gift was proposed as a Masonic gift, as a grateful recognition to a kind Providence, which has brought our Grand Master safe and sound back to us and to old England, and it was based on Masonic principles alone, just as it was in our opinion sanctioned by Masonic teaching, and archaeological souvenirs. It may seem to some that the distinction we have just laid down is without a difference, that it is rather special pleading. But it is not so, the difference between the two positions being very real and distinct, and we may add, very wide indeed. We always deeply deplore the appeal to anything like the intolerance of sectarianism in our peaceful and liberal-minded Order. Bro. Havers's whole Masonic career has been one of unflinching and unswerving maintenance of absolute toleration; and he was not à priori likely to suggest any denominational preferences; and, as we know that he based his proposal on Masonic grounds, and Masonic association alone, we do much regret, we venture to repeat, that anything like the "tocsin" of religious differences should have been rung in the slightest degree within the uncontroversial arena of Grand Lodge. The proposal was either good or bad per se, and in our opinion should have been met solely on the ground of inexpediency, if at all. We can quite understand brethren objecting to the vote, on the principle that Masonic funds were meant for Masonic purposes alone, but such an argument could not be put forward in the face of a recent grant for £100 for the exploration of Palestine, which, though in our opinion reasonable and proper, was not practically defensible on such grounds. We are all aware that there was a second openly professed ground of resistance to the resolution, and we confess that the second reason was, and is, as distasteful to ourselves. We have always objected to that narrow view of many, that Masonic benevolence is meant only for Freemasons. When, then, one of the grounds openly put forward was that something might be better done for the Asylum or the Boys' School, we certainly think it well to point out to-day that such is not the most elevated view of our Masonic responsibilities. We have always felt that there was a certain amount of truth in the popular objection that Masonic benevolence had somewhat of selfishness about it if you confined the liberality of the Order to Masons alone. Primarily, of course we are bound to do so, but, as it appears to us, there are occasions from time to time, when by a large-hearted munificence and liberal sympathy, we are to evince our good will towards humanity at large, towards religion, towards local distress, towards national objects, towards æsthetic improvements, and we will add, towards church restoration. The argument that we ought to do something specially for our Masonic charities does not exclude the propriety of doing something for something else, which the Grand Lodge might approve of, and which as Freemasons we ought to feel it to be our duty to do. It is a great pity, we think, that as before the outer world just now, Grand Lodge should, by its vote, seem to endorse any such, in our opinion, narrow-minded view in respect of Masonic charity. It is in fact so great a limitation of Masonic benevolence, as to reduce it to the mere donations of a benefit order. That such is a popular way of looking at the matter among Masons just now is, we fear, the case, but that fact does not make it any more the truth, or creditable to Freemasons or Freemasonry. We have the matter here to-day. We trust that all our brethren will believe that in writing as we do we write both conscientiously and carefully. We have measured our words, and we feel it to be our duty to give full scope to our own honest convictions. They may not chime in with the views of some of our good brethren, but unless ours was an untrue utterance of deliberate conviction, unless we were to write to order, and to please either a majority or a minority, which we do not, we must frankly say what we really feel and believe. We always welcome free discussion in the pages of the "Freemason," within proper limits, but we have a right to claim for ourselves, alike freedom of expression, and honesty of purpose. We feel strongly that a good opportunity of doing a very handsome thing properly and gracefully has been allowed to slip away unimproved. The only effect of the amendment has been "to hang things up," as they say, until September, as the resolution will have to be confirmed, and some provisions made for the appointment of a committee by somebody, which at present is "in nubibus." Then in our opinion the movement, as a movement of the Craft, will be too late, the proposal will come with a halting grace, and perhaps the best solution of all now, for this difficulty, as perhaps the "dignus vindice modus" will be simply to confine the resolution to a record of our grateful thanks for our beloved Grand Master's safe return. We must consider our Grand Master in the matter more than anything else, more than some of us have done, more than any question even of the triumph of particular views, or above all of a successful amendment.

MASONIC NARROW-MINDEDNESS.

We all of us sadly remember, and as sadly experience day by day, amid the cares which harass, or the treacheries which betray, how most imperfect and disappointing everything is of earth. For some reason or other it is a truth, however, which we hardly like to realise. And yet too surely and too plainly it is so. Often, like children with their fairy tales, we surround our "Chateaux en Espagne," and all the adjacent country with glowing shadows, with a roseate hue. All is fair and pleasant to the sight; we listen to the voices of songsters which fill the fairy groves, we inhale the perfume of odorous flowers which lift up their heads in many a gay parterre. All is full to us of life and light, and brightness and bloom, there seems to be for us no possible change, there loom for us no dark clouds in the distant horizon. Alas, in the early morn the shadows have been swept away while the dew is on the grass, and the grey tints around us warn us of the approach of day. The fairy fabric has crumbled into nothingness, gone from us for ever, and no trace of it remains. We see nothing but the misty and dingy moorland before our very eyes. Life has indeed come to us with its trials in the family, its worries abroad, its public annoyances, and its private griefs, and we most of us have a ghost in the cupboard which we lock up, as we think, safely at home. Such is the world for us and ours in which we live to day, and such will it, such must it be always here. Neither time, nor chance, nor civilization, nor education, nor public opinion, nor anything else, can affect, or alter this way of the world. Such as it has been, such it is, and such it will be, until this earth of ours has fulfilled its weird, and its pomp and pleasures, and show and sorrows, all are forgotten among the things which were, in a "long ago" never to return. Now, amid some of the imperfections of this earthly lot of ours, some of the "petites misères de la vie humaine," narrow-mindedness is, though very prevalent, most annoying. We see it in many ways and things, and it always appears to us as the veriest parody alike on our professions of humanity, our claims for sympathy, and our "outcome" of civilization. As a general rule, narrow-minded people, and we know a "bonny lot" of them, are the greatest of bores. To use a familiar expression, they never "look beyond" their "noses," and most ungenial companions, and unsympathetic associates they are. They try and judge everything here by the one unailing standard of their own narrow-mindedness, which is simply the sublimation of the personal ergo, the embodiment of concentrated selfishness, in opinion, in policy, and in practice. Nothing here now seems to go down with them, which does not accord with their canon of supreme and overpowering narrow-mindedness. Their rule of life, their expression of opinion, is always consistent in this respect. They will not look beyond the "narrow limits" of their own subjective sympathies, and the consequence is that on all occasions, public or private, they betray a narrow-mindedness which is most conspicuous, which almost always leads to pettiness of aim, and seems to sanction grovelling motives of action; and is fashioned into exclusiveness and pharasaism, and ends in callousness and intolerance. We have met many narrow-minded persons in our life, and hopeless and unpractical they are in every relation of earth. They stop all improvements, they resist all reforms, they are obstructives, A. I. copper-bottomed at Lloyd's, (see the log of the Water Lily), and everything has to be meted out and regulated on secondary principles according to their narrow-minded view of things, persons, and events. Most hard, intolerant, and unsympathetic they ever are. They always prove themselves narrow-minded in their narrow-mindedness, whether in the "Forum" or in matters of business, surrounded by a family circle, or taking part in the affairs of men. Now narrow-mindedness in Freemasonry would seem to be impossible, and yet, even in Freemasonry, and among Freemasons, it can be found. It is strange that it should be so, but so it is, though most inconsistent with the enlarged principle of thought and practice we Freemasons profess before men. There are many Freemasons who look on Freemasonry, not as a means to a great end, high aims, and noble effects, but as a means to itself, a means for themselves. They boldly avow a narrow minded opinion in all such matters. Freemasonry was intended for Freemasons, Freemasonry was not intended for the many, but for the few, Freemasonry ought to keep its good things for its own members, Freemasonry is not meant to be too elevated, either in teaching or practice. For them all appeals either to first principles, or more sympathetic aspirations is looked upon as moonshine and humbug. Freemasonry is only to be valued for what it is to them. It has pleasant gatherings, good banquets, agreeable re-unions, a certain amount of charitable activity, but not too much, all is as well as can be, what more does anyone want? Well, we certainly always prefer "optimists" to pessimists" in this life, but we object very much to that far too common view of matters, which in its own narrow-mindedness, condemns the efforts and longings of those, who believing in Freemasonry, seek to raise it to the proper sense, and discharge of its goodly mission. Of course if Freemasons do not believe in Freemasonry "cadit quæstio," you can do nothing with them. They are too narrow-minded to bear the light, they will never admit that they are in the wrong, or never move out of their "jog trot." For them Freemasonry means something quite different from what it means to the ardent and the earnest, but so it is, and nothing any one can say will mend matters, or change the situation. We always deplore narrow-mindedness in things Masonic because Freemasonry is to us the epitome of all that is liberal, tolerant, large-hearted, and generous. It condemns with no uncertain voice the hateful differences and the petty disputes which often warp the minds and conscience of living men until they become narrow-minded, bigoted, intolerant, persecuting, unbelieving in their time and generation. Freemasonry would inculcate a higher morality and unfold a nobler lore. It would lead us all, be who we may, to uphold the right and maintain the true, not in narrow-minded persecutors, but because they are to us simply the right and the true. Freemasonry would tell us all "be just and fear not," never allow the tumult of passion, or the violence of party, to blind your eyes to what is good and true in others, to the nobler and more exalting, sentiments of our warring humanity. Above all, do not be narrow-minded. Freemasonry would urge you to take a large liberal enlightened view of men and things, and never by word or action, as Freemasons, proclaim to any one, that your governing rule of life is a narrow-mindedness which nothing can enlarge, a grovelling idea of Freemasonry itself, which is fatal to your very profession as a Freemason, and is destructive of the great and glorious principles of our tolerant and enlightened brotherhood.

AN ULTRAMONTANE INSULT TO THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The "Times" of June 13th publishes from its own correspondent at Cadiz, by telegram, among other items of intelligence, which we take "verbatim et literatim" from our august contemporary, the following startling passage:—"In Cadiz and Cordova the fact that the Bishop of Cadiz having, at a public dinner, alluded to the Prince of Wales as 'the Herejote,' or Great Heretic, excites much discussion and disgust." We are glad to find that the good sense of the Spanish people revolts from the vulgarity and rowdiness and intolerable impertinence of the Ultramontane party. Let us conceive what the state of feeling would be in England if some exalted prelate, "plenus veteris Bacchi," were to venture in the excess of his ultramontane ardour thus to insult the Prince of Wales. We do not think that such a thing could happen in England, but there is really no knowing to what lengths the "insanis ira" of the Ultramontanes will not lead them now. They seem to be perfectly unmanageable. It has become a very serious matter indeed for all thinking persons, for all who know anything of the history or teaching of the Roman Catholic Church, because all this violent "monomania" only too surely evidences that behind the flowery professions of able and agreeable persons like Monsignor Capel the ascetism of Cardinal Manning, and the earnest zeal of Bishop Ullathorne, there still is in the Roman Catholic Church the fixed persuasion that all are heretical except themselves, and that it is their duty to denounce to condemn, and to burn all such misguided persons. Will no Roman Catholic lift up his voice against these continued outrages upon all that is kind and courteous, decent and decorous, fitting and true? With many as regards the golden and fiery days of the loving Inquisition their quotation would be, "Adveniant utinam sic mihi sæpè dies." But when to this, what we fear is the fact, we superadd the intense virulence and we may say brutality of the ignorant, the perverse, and the fanatic, it becomes indeed both a very alarming question and a very mournful lookout, alike for civilization and for Christianity—for religion and for humanity.

THE EAST.

The news from the East is still conflicting and dubious. The medical profession in England seems to be somewhat sceptical, and somewhat justly, we think, as to the unsatisfactory account of the nineteen medical men and their professional accuracy in this special case. No doubt many of the surroundings are full of doubt, fear, and mystery, but still on the whole the balance of probabilities is in favour of the hypothesis, that Abdul Aziz committed suicide. We can hardly believe that two English medical men, or, indeed, any medical men at all, would for any reason of state, or other cause, have put their names to a lying document in the face of the whole civilized world, or that of Abdul Aziz had been cruelly and shamefully murdered, this truth would not have leaked out by this time. We do not deny that some of the "surroundings" of the case are very unsatisfactory and suspicious, but Midhat Pasha, and those who are honestly seeking to reform and preserve the Turkish Empire, if they have yielded to the temptation of violently removing an uneasy rival to the new Sultan could have taken no worse course for Turkey or for themselves. At this present era, such a fact, if substantiated, would be looked upon with universal abhorrence, and would be the forerunner in our humble opinion of the downfall of Turkey in Europe. But we lean to the belief, on the whole, that the medical account is true per se, despite some not unreasonable objections in this country as the hurried nature of the enquiry would arise to a great extent from the peculiarities of Turkish feelings and institutions on the subject of "post mortem" examination for instance and the like. Let us hope then that peace may be preserved, and that all [those "rumours"], of war may pass away, so that the Turkish Government may have every facility accorded to them, of endeavouring to prop up a "sinking state," and to bring order into the unfortunate condition of these financial affairs, and above all to recognize the claims of the unfortunate Turkish bondholders. Under the careful provisions of a constitutional régime Turkey may be able perhaps to "weather the storm," and we in England, as citizens of the world as well as Freemasons, must applaud the efforts of all who honestly seek to give security to property, and the sanctions of law and good government to all alike, and above all, to enforce the principles of toleration, amid the very contrasted classes and religions of the inhabitants of Turkey. We do not however, write as politicians, but as Freemasons, anxious for peace, and liberty of thought and conscience, and the happy progress of civilization, order, law. The most recent accounts from Turkey in the "Times" of Monday and Tuesday seems fully to bear out our view of the question, the "Times" notes that many disquieting rumours are going abroad. We will add, that despite some uneasy feeling on the matter, we believe the character of the present ruler, and of his constitutional advisers is too high to warrant even a suspicion of unfair play. The unfortunate Abdul Aziz seems deliberately to have put an end to his own life, and was, as the "Times" says, "Felo de Se." The translations of the medical report of the "inquest," such as it was, is, in our opinion, decisive of the case, as the medical men who have signed that remarkable document (in another column), are many of them of the highest professional skill and most honourable character. Medical men have always a very high sense of the responsibility of truth. We may add that the account of "Our Own Correspondent" in the "Times" of Monday is a very sad "romance of the harem," indeed.

THE LAST QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The whole proceedings in reference to the opposition to my motion in Grand Lodge on Wednesday last are so utterly incomprehensible to me that I think it right to place the following facts before my brethren:—

Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson wrote to me some little time ago, asking me my opinion as to the propriety of holding a thanksgiving service at St. Paul's, strongly urging it, and adding that if I thought well of it he would be glad if I would bring it forward.

I wrote him in reply, telling him of the objections I saw to it, and sending him a copy of the notice of motion I had given.

All who were present in Grand Lodge will remember that he led the opposition to my motion, and at once withdrew his own. All will remember how earnestly, and even solemnly, he denounced my motion; how it was wrong in principle; how it would strike a great blow at Freemasonry, and open the door to worse things, and how painful it was to him as a clergyman of the Church to be obliged to sacrifice his feelings to his principles.

I shall hardly need to say that I heard this statement with amazement when I knew that he had expressed the very reverse opinion to me, when I held in my possession a letter from him, addressed to me and dated 23rd May (the day before the meeting of the Board of Masters), in which, after replying to some of my objections, he thanks me for sending him a copy of my notice of motion, adds that he prefers his own, and then concludes his letter thus:—

"Your plan is an admirable one per se, but I venture to say it is not so apposite to the occasion as the one I propose. It wants that personal and living element which I think should (sic) an occasion possess. A mere resolution, and confined to Grand Lodge, would scarcely embody the feeling of the whole Craft. Let me add that I rather question how far donations to two churches would meet with universal acceptance. I like the idea very much from my standpoint, but I do not think it sufficiently linked with this occasion. I am going to propose £1000 from Grand Lodge, together with the offerings at St. Paul's, for such charitable object in India as the G.M. may recommend. Ever fraternally yours, R. J. SIMPSON."

I make no comments on this: here are the facts. I leave others to judge of them.

Permit me to say that I feel the most intense feeling of regret at the result of last Wednesday's discussion, not mere personal mortification at my defeat, for I would ten times rather have my defeat than gain such a victory as Bro. Simpson gained, but an intense feeling of sorrow and regret that a majority of the brethren present should have placed Grand Lodge in such a position. Had I thought it possible that my motion would not have been carried by a very large majority, nothing on earth would have induced me to bring it forward. My regard for the Craft I have so long served, and my respect for our Grand Master, would alike have prevented me.

I regret that a great opportunity has been marred, and in my opinion a fatal mistake made, a mistake which I venture to think will lower us in the estimation of the world. The outside world will naturally say, These Freemasons boast of their traditions, and of their large-heartedness, but you see they are careful to confine their bounty within their own boundary, because to give a thank offering to their own charities is very like taking from one pocket to put into another. The Masonic world (at least the thoughtful amongst them) will say, giving money (except under unusual necessity) from the Fund of General Purposes to the charities is merely taking from the general funds that which ought to come from individual pockets. When we consider what has been done by our provincial brethren in the restoration of churches and cathedrals in Gloucester, in Durham and Worcester, at St. Mary Redcliffe, in Cheshire, in Warwickshire, and in other places, I cannot but feel that they have given a bright example to us, and have shown that they are far above the unworthy prejudices which seem to have guided Grand Lodge on Wednesday last.

I must notice another point, because I think that an injustice was (doubtless unwittingly) done to a worthy class of brethren. I do not know the name of the brother who urged in objection to my resolution that our Jewish brethren would complain of such a grant as that I proposed. I did not contradict this at the moment. I thought that the brother might have some grounds to go upon, but from enquiry I have since made I am strongly of opinion that our Hebrew brethren would utterly disclaim any such objection.

Yours fraternally,

JOHN HAVERS, P.G.W.

P.S.—I observe that in the daily papers I am reported to have said that we have an income for General Purposes of £6000 a year. What I did say was that after defraying all expenses our surplus amounted to nearly £6000 a year.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

There are one or two little omissions in your report of my remarks in Grand Lodge which might lead to misapprehension, and which I am sure you will allow me to supply.

I withdrew my motion in reference to the public thanksgiving at St. Paul's on the ground that there was no prospect of it being carried unanimously, and that such an act, if performed, should be the result of an undivided vote.

I have reason to believe that that part of my motion would have been carried by a large majority.

I wish to add that, as far as I was concerned, I contemplated no procession in the streets, nor even in the Cathedral, nor the wearing of Masonic clothing; and yet this was the only argument I heard raised against the proposal. I cannot but feel that we have lost a grand and legitimate opportunity of vindicating the character and asserting the dignity of Freemasonry. I was much pained to have been compelled to oppose the latter part of Bro. Havers' motion, but I sincerely trust now that the feeling of Grand Lodge has been so unmistakably expressed, he, as well as other distinguished and zealous Masons above and below the dais, may well and truly try to find some object at once useful and appropriate by which the event which has so gladdened all our hearts and called forth our thankfulness may be commemorated, and this with unanimity and concord. Your correspondent "C. S." did well to conceal his name, as he has yet to learn that "Charity that thinketh no evil," either of clergymen or laymen. I think he will now acquit me of being too "clerical" or "obsequious." Let us all try and appreciate each other's motives, and, if occasion call for it, never shrink from expressing our opinions on any public question with fearless independence, and yet with temperance and charity.

Your leading article in the "Freemason" of the week before last on the proposals before Grand Lodge was a good sample of this.

I did not agree in the conclusions you drew, but I much admired the Masonic spirit with which your argument was expressed.

I propose to lay the names of the Special Committee before Grand Lodge in September.

I am, yours fraternally,

R. J. SIMPSON.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Can any one tell me what our worthy Bro Binckes means when he says that some of the builders of churches were "irreligious persons?" What also, I would ask, had such an argument to do with the matter? I have got a sort of idea that I understand what my energetic brother was driving at in such a remarkable archaeological statement, but as I do not feel quite sure I shall be glad if any competent brother will throw light upon the matter.

Yours fraternally,

JOHN JONES, M.M.

CORRECT MASONRY.—WHAT IS IT?

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your columns of the 10th inst. appears a report of the meeting on June 2nd of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of the Province of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, at Peterborough, with an intimation that the said meeting afforded an opportunity for laying the foundation stone of the new aisle which is to be added to the church of St. Mary in that city. After the usual ritual, and applications attendant upon laying a foundation stone, it was pronounced, in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, well and truly laid. Being comparatively a young Mason, I venture to ask for light upon that portion of the ceremony, which, in a universal form, is foreign to our Order, viz., the invocation of the Trinity. I myself, apart from our Order (be it distinctly understood) acknowledge the unity in trinity, and the trinity in unity; but there are many who range under our banners who reject it altogether, but who, on account of the grand formation of our Craft, are not excluded from our Order, provided they believe in the glorious Architect of Heaven and Earth, and practise the sacred duties of morality. The idea, therefore, that arises in my mind is that nothing but what is strictly in accordance with universal Masonry, should be recognized at any Masonic ceremony, as we are taught that Masonry is the centre of union between good men and true, and the happy means of conciliating friendship amongst those who must otherwise have remained at a perpetual distance. Doubtless all those who were present at the laying of the stone could acknowledge the trinity, but from my limited knowledge I am led to suppose that all Masonic deeds should be unsectarian, and not merely carried out in behalf of those actually engaged, but for and in the name of the whole Masonic family, spread over the whole of the inhabitable globe, some of whom differ as to the existence of the Trinity, but who, one and all, believe in God, the Great Architect of the Universe.

Fraternally yours,

J.E.L., 78, 1458.

MASONIC REPORTS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have for nine years been a member of the Masonic Order, have passed one chair, and now occupy that of my mother lodge. I have often read the "Freemason," but not lately, for I deemed it full of the ritual of the Craft. I bought, however, the last number of your paper, to read the proceedings of G.L., and to my great delight I perceived an article written (I suppose by you as editor) saying that "for some time we have eschewed giving the minute of the ritualism, and that the paper will continue that course with regard to the ritual of Freemasonry." I must confess that I think your correspondents have given far more extracts of the ritual than the reporters. I am very pleased that you only mean to give general accounts of the meetings of lodges, and the speeches at the banquets. I hope you will proceed also to refuse any correspondence containing portions of the ritual which all good Masons wish to keep secret. I thank the author of this article (especially if it be yourself). It will, I am sure, increase the sale of your journal better than if it had continued the course formerly taken as to quotations from the ritual which alarmed all good Masons.

Yours truly,

WM. H. KIDSON,

GREAT PRIORY OF THE ORDER OF THE TEMPLE AND HIGH DEGREES.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I heartily agree with my good friend Bro. Fendelow that it is a great pity full reports of Great Priory, the Royal Order of Scotland, and A. and A. Rite do not appear in the "Freemason." There are numbers like myself who take a warm interest in these degrees and orders, and yet are precluded often from attending the meetings. Every good Mason, in the provinces at all events, sees the "Freemason," if he does not take it, and we think it a great mistake on the part of the powers that be when no account appears of important meetings in London, which if they occurred anywhere else would be amply reported in the provincial newspapers.

I think, except under very unusual circumstances, Masonic meetings should not appear in provincial papers; but the "Freemason" is the organ of the fraternity at large, and in it all degrees and orders connected with Masonry should be represented.

Trusting that our good friends in Chancery-lane and Golden-square will take the hint,

I am, &c.,

EMMA HOLMES.

ANCIENT AND PRIMITIVE MASONRY.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I observed that you published in the "Freemason" of a few weeks' back a communication relating to Ancient and Primitive Masonry.

Could you or any of your readers answer the following questions:—

1. Are there any lodges or other bodies now working the rite in this country?
2. Is any book of constitutions or list of members published, and if so where can they be obtained?
3. Is it forbidden to members of the A. and A. Rite to practise Ancient and Primitive Masonry?

I should be much obliged if you would insert this in your paper.

I enclose my name, but not for publication.

Yours truly and fraternally,

"PANACHE."

NEW LODGES.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Since the publication of the "Masonic Calendar" there have been about thirty-five new warrants granted for Craft Lodges. Would you kindly give a list of them in the "Freemason" for the benefit of the brethren?

Yours fraternally,

H. T. B.

CONSECRATION OF THE LEWIS CHAPTER,
NO. 1185.

A new chapter was consecrated on Saturday last at the King's Arms, Wood Green. The chapter is attached to the Lewis Lodge, No. 1185, and bears that name and number. The ceremony of consecration was performed by Comp. John Hervey, G.S.E. (who consecrated the Lewis Lodge nine years ago). He was assisted by Comp. A. A. Richards, who took the chair of H.; Comp. James Terry, who took the chair of J.; Comp. the Rev. C. J. Ridgway, of Buckhurst Hill, who acted as Chap.; Comp. Dr. Basil Ringrose, S.E.; Comp. H. G. Buss, as D.C.; and the following companions:—Arthur Leared, G. J. Row, Alfred Durrant, George Newman, J. Berrie, Samuel May, C. T. Speight, F. Binckes, Raynham W. Stewart, J. Rawes, T. Vesper, W. Worrell, W. Morgan, H. T. Thompson, H. Garrod, Seymour Smith, H. Massey ("Freemason"); Taylor, S. J. Reynolds, and Power. Comp. W. Worrell presided at the organ, and Comp. Seymour Smith led. After chapter had been opened, and Comp. Hervey had addressed the companions present on the nature of their meeting, the other portions of the ceremony were gone through up to the point where the Chaplain delivers the oration. Comp. Hervey then called on the Rev. C. J. Ridgway to perform this office, which the Rev. Companion did as follows:—

M.E.Z., Principals, and Companions. The beautiful ceremony prescribed to be used at the consecration of a new lodge or chapter includes as a prominent feature an oration on the merits of Freemasonry. We should be doing the wisdom of our ancient brethren who devised this ceremony a great injustice if we supposed that this was meant to be confined to an eulogism on the system or on those who profess it. The former is unnecessary, for the science of Freemasonry speaks for itself; neither would the latter be congenial to its spirit, for the practice of Freemasonry carries with it its own reward to those who practise it aright, and they value not the praise or flattery of men. The purpose of an oration has a higher and a nobler aim, for as every human institution is liable to be deteriorated and corrupted by the wear and tear of ages, it is intended to carry the mind back to the first principles of the Order, to trace the stream of Freemasonry through the quicksands which beset its course, to clear away the rocks and shoals which time has accumulated until we reach the clear pellucid fountain from which flow the pure and crystal waters of charity, morality, and justice. It is intended to enforce on the members of every new chapter that they are to guard its landmarks with zealous care, and to extend its principles with unflinching, self-denying zeal. Such is, I believe, the object of this prescribed oration; and I could only wish that I had power of language sufficient to enforce upon you the importance of exercising this care. I pray you to remember that on you is thrown the responsibility of evincing to the Craft at large that the confidence placed in you by the Supreme Grand Chapter has not been misplaced. I trust you will never forget that this chapter should be so conducted as to improve the quality of Freemasonry rather than to increase the numbers of professing Freemasons; above all that it may be a great centre for the diffusion of brotherly love, relief, and truth; in brotherly love, as shown in mutual forbearance and forgiveness, mutual aid and sympathy, joy in a companion's joy, and grief in a companion's grief, relief of his wants, freely and ungrudgingly given, relief not only to his bodily but to his mental wants, relief not only to himself but to those who are nearest and dearest to him, in the persons of his widow and his orphans; and above all, that the hand of a brother given to a brother Mason should be the sure pledge of brotherhood; ay, and when given to any of the outer world should be received as an obligation binding as any the law of man could devise, because given by a Mason. Above all, let charity and benevolence be your motto, words tending to the same end, but by different means; charity to give when you have the power, to every one of your fellow creatures in the hour of their need, and his handmaid, benevolence, to wish well to, and to strive well for every good cause, even when, as in the apostle's case, "silver and gold we have none" to give. Remember that the noblest instinct of man, his noblest attribute, is labour, to work through the morn, to work through the noon, to work through the evening of life, until "the night cometh when no man can work." And what man is in muscular life, he should be in the higher domain of spiritual life. The highest and most complete state of man, which his nature most longs for, and in which it fulfils its most sublime instinct, is work, bodily and intellectual, leading up to moral and religious work. For as the race began with an outward paradise which, being lost, many yet offer the type of a higher paradise to be gained, so each individual life begins with muscular life, that passing through the hard struggles of work, in which body, mind, and soul are alike engaged, it may carry its ideal with it, and emerge at last into a state of inspired liberty and spontaneous beauty. It may be a gigantic task that which has been sketched out for us by the wisdom and self-denial of our forefathers in the Order; but if any of the objects of human activity are worth living for at all—if on the whole it is not the highest wisdom to say, "Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die"—it is impossible to imagine a nobler or more stirring object of ambition, a cause for which a man could with more complete satisfaction, or in which he would be sure to meet with a fuller or purer reward, and to which he could devote all the energies of his life as a Mason, than to carry out to their limit the principles inculcated by Freemasonry. Let each in his own sphere, each according to the talents with which God has endowed him, take up his share of the work which lies at his door waiting to be done. There is work for all; and if Masons would but do the work which they should do, then would they be fulfilling indeed what they had undertaken in the First and Second Degrees to perform. Then of them it would be said, and if deserved, how sweet would it be to hear said, "When the ear heard me, then it blessed me; and when the eye saw me, then it gave witness to me; because I relieved the poor that cried, and the fatherless and him that had none to help him; the blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me, and I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy." God imposes on us serious duties; we must struggle in the interests of humanity against the strong when they abused their strength, and against the powerful when they abuse their power. From time to time the struggle is interrupted to contemplate its fruits—the oppressed delivered from the tyrant, the poverty or disease stricken man snatched from the abyss of want and sent forth with rejoicing on a new career of life; the widow encouraged, protected, and supported when she believed she was forsaken by all the world; the orphan once wan and emaciated now lighted up and rosy in the splendid dawn of its young life. Thus do we pass from indignation to tenderness, and we understand the aim of life. Then may we thank God, who, giving us the task to combat the powerful and wicked, gives us also to succour the innocent and the feeble, and who, side by side with the grave duties of life has placed the cheerful ones, the latter to uphold the former. The man who so understands and practises Freemasonry, is a better Mason and better acquainted with its symbolical teachings than he who, having taken every degree under the sun, has never carried into everyday life the principles and teachings which Freemasonry has perpetually enjoined upon him. He is a Mason who can, and he is not a Mason who cannot.

"Grasp the whole world of reason, life, and sense

In one close system of benevolence;

Happier, as feeling, in whatever degree,

The height of bliss in height of charity."

The ceremony of consecration and dedication of the Lewis Chapter was then completed, and the installation of the Principals and induction of the Officers commenced. At the installation of the Principals there were no less than 15 installed Principals present.

Comp. James Terry first installed Comps. Leared, Row, and Durrant in the J. chair; afterwards installing Comps. Leared and Row in the H. chair.

Comp. Hervey then installed Comp. Leared as Z., and the other companions were then admitted, and Comp. Dr. Basil Ringrose was appointed S.E.; Comp. George Newman, S.N.; Comp. J. Berrie, P.S.; Comp. Samuel May, P.Z., Treas.; and Comp. C. T. Speight, Janitor.

The Chapter voted thanks to Comps. Hervey, Richards, Terry, Buss, and Ridgway for consecrating and assisting in the consecration of the chapter, of which they were then elected honorary members. Comp. Samuel May informed them that they would always be welcome whenever they would honour the chapter with their presence.

Comp. Hervey, in acknowledging the compliment for himself and the other companions, said it had given them all much pleasure to attend and launch a new chapter. They wished the Principals and companions health and strength to carry out the arduous duties that were in preparation for them during the ensuing year, and at the same time they wished every success to the chapter.

The Principal Sojourner proposed Comp. Grabham as a joining member, and Comp. Treasurer proposed 24 brethren for exaltation.

Comps. H. T. Thompson and Jones, 583, were also proposed as joining members, and there being no further business on hand the chapter was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet.

The usual toasts followed.

Comp. Raynham W. Stewart, in responding for "The Grand Officers," said that he as well as several of the other companions present had the honour of attending the consecration of the Lewis Lodge by Comp. Hervey, and he wished the same success to the chapter as had been the good fortune of the lodge.

In giving the toast of "The Consecrating Officers," Comp. Leared said that Comp. Hervey was the oldest Mason in the room, but for all that he hoped they would frequently see him for many years at their meetings. He expressed the same wish with respect to the other companions who had assisted Comp. Hervey.

Comp. Hervey replied, and said that as the shades of evening were closing round them he would best consult the wishes of the companions by being brief. Comp. Leared had begun his speech rather ominously by alluding to him as the oldest companion in the chapter. Whether he meant it as a compliment or as a reproach he did not know, but he did not for one moment think he meant it as a reproach. Certainly, it was a very questionable compliment. (Laughter.) But whether he was the oldest or the youngest he was none the less grateful to the M.E.Z. and the companions for the toast. Returning thanks for himself and the older consecrating officers, he might say that if the little service they had been able to perform had been satisfactory it was ample reward for any trouble they had taken. Speaking for himself, if it had not been for the good support he had received from Comp. Terry and the other companions he did not know where he would have been. He was afraid he should have been not only the oldest man but the most incapable. However, a combination of forces had existed, and they had all contributed their mite to make the ceremony go off well. For this he thanked the companions who had assisted him, and all the companions who had taken part in the ceremony. There was now something else for him to do than to respond for the toast. He had to propose "The Health of the M.E.Z.," because there was no authorised officer at the consecration of a chapter to do it. He therefore proposed the toast, and coupled with it "Success to the New Chapter." The companions present were most anxious that the chapter should flourish, and that at the end of the M.E.Z.'s year he might find it in as flourishing a condition as would be gratifying to the M.E.Z. He (Comp. Hervey) was sure that the M.E.Z. and his officers would do their utmost to carry out the duties they had so solemnly engaged themselves to perform in a manner that would redound to their own credit and that of the chapter which had been inaugurated. He trusted, and felt satisfied that when they were assembled together, probably about that time twelvemonths, to celebrate the first anniversary of that chapter, there would be a good account to render of their proceedings for the year; that the M.E.Z. would retain the good health he now enjoyed, as well as the goodwill of the companions whom he had undertaken to govern for the year. The toast having been enthusiastically drunk, Comp. Leared said that the consecration of the Lewis Chapter had been a long talked of affair. They had long tried to get it up, and at last they had done so, as he thought, with every prospect of success. That day they had been particularly fortunate. All they had to do now was not to let it die out, and as far as he was concerned he would not let it die out if he could in any way help it.

Comp. Leared next proposed "The H. and J." As they were untried companions he could not say much about them. He must wait until that day twelvemonth. All that could be done now was to drink their health, and hope they would be good officers and do their duty.

Comp. Row responded in nearly the same terms. The H. and J. were at present untried, and did not know what they could do. They were only young in Royal Arch Masonry, but he was sure they would do their utmost to fulfil their offices to the satisfaction of the chapter, and he hoped in another year there would be at least twenty-five members of the chapter.

"The Visitors" was the next toast, and Comp. Leared, in proposing it, said that Comp. Binckes, who was one of the visitors, was the first Master of the Lewis Lodge, which had been very prosperous. The augury was a good one, and he should single him out to respond. Although it was the first time he was present, he hoped it would not be the last.

Bro. Binckes replied, and said he spoke, he was sure the sentiment of every one present when he said how pleased he was to be there that evening to witness the consecration of the Lewis Chapter at Wood Green. For himself he might say it carried him back some nine years since when Comp. Leared, their good friend Comp. Hervey, their Treasurer, Comp. May, met to give "a local habitation" at Wood Green to the Lewis Lodge, which had already had a "name." He (Comp. Binckes) felt very much the honour of being its first Master. Comp. Hervey consecrated the lodge and installed him. Naturally he (Comp. Binckes) felt a great interest in this district; and when he saw sitting on the Most Excellent's right and left, occupying the positions of H. and J., companions both of whom were initiated into Freemasonry by him (Comp. Binckes) in the Lewis Lodge, he need hardly say with what pleasure he saw his youngest "children" arrive at such high dignity. Anything in connection with Freemasonry and the lodge at Wood Green must always have his utmost support and sympathy. Whatever the occasion might be he came down and renewed those old associations and very pleasurable recollections which always hung round Freemasonry. Many had questioned the possibility of the success of the lodge. That was now an established fact; and he entertained the most extreme confidence that the same success would attend the new chapter. At all events, that it might be so was his most sincere wish, and he was sure it was the wish of every companion who had had the honour of being invited to this happy ceremony.

Bro. C. R. Jones, of South Australia, also responded, and said that when a Mason got to Australia he was sure to be well received in lodges. But there was a practice prevailing there which he should much like to see here—that of having very strict examination of a brother who presented himself for admission if he was not known. It was an extremely difficult thing for a Mason to get into a lodge, and if he could not satisfactorily go through a very searching examination he was rejected. The Freemasons there did it with the view to the best interests of the Order. There were several spurious Masons about, and the portals of the lodge were closely guarded against them. None but the true Mason could gain admission, and he would like to see the same vigilance observed in this country, as it had struck him that admission to lodges here was far too easy.

The M.E.Z. having proposed "The Officers,"

Comp. Binckes proposed "The Charities," a toast which he thought should not be forgotten on the opening night of a new chapter, although it was not to be expected that anything practical could be done then for the institutions. He should therefore ask them for nothing more than a sentimental approval, with which he should be perfectly satisfied. He spoke with gratitude of what the Lewis Lodge had done for the charities. He begged the companions, whatever they did, never to lose sight of the charities, for on them depended at once the foundation and the keystone of the Order. He coupled with the toast the names of Comps. Durrant, J., and Terry, the former of whom would represent the Lewis Lodge on the 28th inst. at the Boys' Festival.

Comp. Durrant said that as far as he was concerned he believed in charity. It summed up a great deal of Masonic history. As representing the Lewis Lodge at the Boys' Festival, he hoped to take up a list which would be no discredit to himself or that lodge.

Comp. Terry, after regretting the absence of Comp. Little, who was away on account of ill-health, and thanking the Lewis Lodge for all which it had done for the Girls' School, thanked the Lewis Lodge for what it had done for the Benevolent Institution, of which it had enrolled itself a Vice-President. There were 240 annuitants upon the fund, taking £9000 a year from it. [The Managers of the institution were desirous of extending the number. The subscribers hitherto had done nobly, and the committee, endeavoured to spend the money subscribed to the best advantage. The Craft had been very liberal in their subscriptions; but he trusted that the new members of it would come and subscribe, and not leave it to the old ones entirely. Let them remember that they never would have the "Lewis" if it were not for the old men and old women; for they must come back in everything to the primary cause. They must think of the old men and old women. The Grand Master in his wisdom had in fact told them which they ought first to support by fixing the festival of the Benevolent Institution the first in the year. Comp. Terry concluded by again thanking the companions for what they had done in their capacity as brethren, and he hoped that when all the liabilities of the Lewis Chapter had ceased to flow in the companions would subscribe with a liberal hand to the institutions. (Hear, hear.)

Comp. C. T. Speight then gave the Janitor's toast, shortly after which the companions returned to town.

Reviews.

INSPIRATION, &c. By RUSSELL LOGAN, M.D.

Our brother—who was for some time officially connected with the Hospital for Consumption—has written a very valuable treatise on Inspiration, and the effects of inhalation as an active agent in pulmonary disease. When we first took up the book the word "Inspiration" seemed to us to denote one of those grave questions which as Freemasons we have no right to discuss. But on opening the work we soon found that it was a technical medical term as opposed to respiration. We have read the book with much interest, and rejoice to think how successful the curative efforts of Bro. Logan Russell have been. For there is hardly any complaint so sad in its character, so serious in its ravages in this damp cold clime of ours, as consumption. How often does it blight the hopes of youth and quench the light of life amongst us, how very frequently does it under treacherous guise sap the living forces of opening promise, and make a sad void in the domestic circle, even among those blooming flowers of ours which add such fragrance and lend such grace to the dull stern hours and heavy battle of life. Nothing appears to us to be so sad as to watch day by day, hour by hour, waning moments, and wasting strength, to note that hectic flush which is significant of danger, to realize that weakness which alas! but steadily augments, telling its own sad tale, and leading to the mournful conviction that human skill is powerless to arrest the inroads of invidious disease. We feel, then, strongly that our brother in his efforts to ward off the first approaches of this destructive malady, to mitigate its force, and to recover its sufferers from its enclosing grasp, is like a good Freemason, a benefactor to humanity. Of him may be said, as was quoted the other day, "Se faire aimer c'est être utile aux autres." We therefore cordially commend the work to all our readers, and we believe we have the honour of claiming many medical ones among them, as we think that our brother's laudable efforts and interesting little book should be as widely known and as studiously read as possible.

DAS SYSTEM DER LOGE, "BON PASTEUR." By Bro. Dr. HERMANN BEIGEL, P.M. of the Tranquillity Lodge, London. Winter, Praterstrasse, Vienna.

One of the most interesting and cleverly written books we have for some time perused. We thank our Bro. Beigel sincerely for it, it is a most seasonable and effective contribution to Masonic archæology. We trust that this is not the last chip of Masonic ashlar which we shall have from his pen, and we hope also that he will pursue his studies in the great library at Vienna, and who knows on what Masonic MSS. and constitutions he may yet stumble? The MS. to which he calls attention is, it seems, No. 15,158, on the "Hof Bibliothek" at Vienna, hitherto unknown and unedited, and contains the account and ritual of a lodge which worked under the name of "Bon Pasteur" "Dis gute Hirte" in Poland about 1766, at Warsaw and Vienna. It seems to have been in existence in 1749, and to have been then directed by the mystic J. Thoux de Salverte. In 1788 "Graf Hulsén" was at its head, and it is said to have got from the Grand Lodge of England a deputation for a Provincial Grand Lodge, and to have called itself "Sublime Orient Polonais," or "Sublimis Oriens Poloniæ." An earlier lodge "Pythagoras," is asserted to have existed in 1726 at "Hoppan," and to have hailed from the Grand Orient of France. This is, however, impossible! The ritual, &c., belongs to a lodge, Bro. Beigel says, working under the "Bon Pasteur," though the name of the individual lodge is not given. This system had seven grades, and is apparently a purely mystical and, we must add, meaningless arrangement, drawing from alchemy and magic, forms and symbols equally useless and valueless. Indeed, this, like all other treatises on the subject, demonstrates how greatly those have erred who have allowed themselves to drift away from the simpler and truer teaching of Craft Masonry. Into what labyrinth of hopeless ineptitude, childish ceremonial and perverted symbolism have they not led their acolytes? In order to construct their pseudo-knightly and pseudo-mystical grades, they have had to make use of the inventive faculty in order to put together, what in many cases is nothing but a jargon of unmeaning rubbish. The affectation of theosophic lore and of abstruse speculations is only a makeshift for idle nonsense and a gaudy but utterly valueless covering for the "vain conceits" of the concoctors of many of the High Grades. This special system had, as we said before, seven distinct grades, all equally, in our opinion, meaningless and historically untrue. Whatever the object of mysticism or any other ism may have been, we in vain ask ourselves the question to-day, cui bono? That these grades meant something is probably true; but what that something is, if anything, has yet to be clearly pointed out. It may be said that they were in themselves harmless. Well supposing we admit that they were, that does not really affect the question, or increase their value. Au contraire, we feel strongly how greatly to be deprecated is the departure from our simpler English system. We have said this because we honestly think so, and we always object alike to a "suppressio veri, or suggestio falsi." But we quite concede to others the right of looking through different coloured spectacles, and if they like these so-called mystical grades, which to us have no mysticism about them, except "bottled moonshine," we do not venture to question their perfect liberty of thought and action, though we cannot ourselves either realize their value, or appreciate their existence. We thank Bro. Beigel for a clear and well-written statement of the facts of the case, and for a very valuable contribution to general Masonic archæology.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS.

For the Week ending Friday, June 23, 1876.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

ST. MARYLEBONE LODGE (No. 1305).—The usual bi-monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Eyre Arms, St. John's Wood, on Wednesday evening, the 15th inst., Bro. S. Draper, W.M., in the chair. After the usual routine business, Bro. R. T. Tubbs rose, and proposed that the sum of ten guineas be paid out of the lodge funds in aid of a testimonial to Bro. S. G. Foxall, P.M., A.G.P. Grand Lodge, the late Secretary, in recognition of the zealous and courteous manner in which for five years he held that office he had so efficiently performed the duties. Bro. Tubbs, in a speech of some length, placed before the lodge the efficient services rendered by Bro. Foxall, both as founder of the lodge and for five years its Secretary, and stated that the present prosperous condition of the lodge was mainly due to the energy and perseverance of Bro. Foxall. The motion having been carried, the lodge was closed according to ancient custom, and the brethren, including two officers from Grand Lodge, adjourned to the banquet.

OXFORD.—Apollo University Lodge (No. 357).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, 19th inst., when the Worshipful Master (the Rt. Worshipful Bro. H.R.H. Prince Leopold, K.G., Prov. G.M. Oxon) presided. There were several initiations and passings, and H.R.H., who undertook the whole of the work himself, showed, by the excellent way in which he discharged the duties of his office, how thoroughly the details of the Craft were appreciated by him.

CHESHUNT.—Gresham Lodge (No. 869).—The installation meeting of this lodge took place at Cheshunt Great House, Cheshunt Park, on Saturday, the 10th inst., under the presidency of Bro. A. C. Wylie, P.P.G.S.B. Herts, assisted by his officers. The lodge being opened, the ballot was taken for Messrs. J. T. Mabey and B. Mitchell, and that being unanimously in their favour they were duly initiated into the light of Freemasonry. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and Bros. Bernard and Holland passed to the degree of Craftsmen, both ceremonies being worked by the W.M. in a very impressive manner. The chair was then taken by Bro. F. D. Rees Copestick, P.P.G.S.B. Herts, as Installing Master, and Bros. Layton and Neck having proved their proficiency in the former degree were raised by him to the sublime degree of Master Mason. Bro. Wylie next presented the W.M. elect (Bro. John Grocott) for the benefit of installation, which was conferred upon him in a full Board of Installed Masters, and on the return of the brethren he proceeded to appoint the following as his officers:—Bros. W. H. Etherington, S.W.; E. G. Pottle, J.W.; Rev. C. E. Mayo, M.A., Chaplain; F. D. Rees Copestick, Treas.; W. E. Gompertz, Sec.; T. C. Chapman, S.D.; Thomas Stephens, J.D.; Thomas Perry, I.G.; C. E. Cheese, Organist; Gompertz, jun., and Dickie, Stwds. This being the whole of the business on the summons, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a recherché banquet at the Green Dragon. The W.M. having returned thanks proceeded to give the usual toasts in a manner that convinced the brethren that the right man was in the right place that day, all of which were drunk with enthusiasm. In proposing "The Health of the P.G.M." he alluded to the pleasure they all felt at the fact of the approaching Provincial Grand Lodge being held in the old and historical mansion placed at the disposal of the Gresham Lodge by the kindness and courtesy of their esteemed Chaplain, Bro. Mayo, and trusted the brethren would muster in full force to do honour to the P.G.M. on that occasion. The toast of "The Initiates" was responded to by Bro. Mabey, and that of "The Visitors" by Bro. Birdseye, who congratulated the lodge on the excellence of its working, and especially Bro. F. D. R. Copestick on the manner in which he had performed the installation ceremony. The toast of "The Past Masters" was responded to by Bros. W. E. Gompertz and J. Copestick, the former, as Senior P.M. present, expressing the great pleasure he felt in witnessing the great progress the lodge had made since he first took office therein, and assured the brethren that in the future he would, as he had done in the past, do whatever might lie in his power to promote its prosperity. In responding to the toast of the W.M., Bro. Grocott assured the brethren that he felt proud of the honour they had conferred upon him in placing him in the position in which he stood—that nothing should be wanting on his part during his year of office to support the credit and dignity of the lodge. The W.M. next proposed "The Health of the Installing Master, Bro. F. D. R. Copestick," and said there were few lodges could boast of brethren, as they could, capable of working this beautiful ceremony, and certainly very few who could perform it in the masterly way that it had been done that day. Bro. Copestick, in responding, assured the brethren that nothing afforded him more pleasure than to see the beautiful ceremonies of our Order rendered with proper effect, and strongly urged the younger brethren to attend lodges of instruction, and thus make themselves thoroughly acquainted with its ritual, at the same time not to forget that the great principles of Masonry were of even more consequence than its ceremonies, however beautifully rendered. The evening's entertainment was enlivened by some very good songs, but eventually the Tyler's toast brought it to a close, the brethren having spent a very pleasant day.

DERBY.—Hartington Lodge (No. 1085).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Gower-street, on Wednesday, 14th inst. The brethren present were:—H. T. Bobart, as W.M.; W. Heathcote, S.W.; J. H. Biggs, as J.W.; M. H. Bobart, Treas.; Geo. Pipes, Sec.; J. Heathcote, S.D.; J. O. Manton, as J.D.; W. B. Hextall, as I.G.; J. Shaw, D. of C.; T. Slinn, Tyler; Butterfield, and Russell. Visitors: Bros. R. Bennett, W.M. 731; Wright, P.M. 731; and W. Bancroft, 163. The lodge was opened at 7.45 p.m., Bro. H. T. Bobart, I.P.M., acting as W.M., in consequence of Bro. S. Pipes being unwell. After the circular convening the lodge was read, and also the minutes read and confirmed. Mr. John Lane (engineer) was duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Freemasonry in ancient and solemn form by the W.M. After other business being brought forward, the W.M. received the hearty good wishes of the visiting brethren, when the lodge was closed in perfect harmony and brotherly love, and adjourned to the first Wednesday in July.

LIVERPOOL.—Neptune Lodge (No. 1264).—The annual installation gathering of the brethren connected with the Neptune Lodge, No. 1264, which is one of the most numerous in the province of West Lancashire, was held on Monday evening, the 5th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, and complete arrangements, combined with fine brotherly feeling, contributed to make the whole of the interesting proceedings pass off most successfully. The post of honour at the opening of the lodge, which took place shortly before four o'clock, was occupied by Bro. Peter Berriman Gee, the esteemed and efficient W.M., and amongst the brethren of the Neptune present then or shortly afterwards were Bros. J. S. Dixon, P.M.; A. Davies, P.M.; H. Williams, P.M.; W. Roberts, S.W.; A. Cotter, J.W. (W.M. elect); J. Healing, P.M., Treas.; A. C. Wylie, Sec.; W. Royle, S.D.; J. Korn, J.D.; W. C. Webb, S.; W. H. Ball, Tyler; H. Huxley, W. D. Thomas, J. Kelly, J. Williams, J. Hughes, J. Schultz, R. Brandreth, T. H. Arden, J. Molyneux, J. Brown, R. Black, T. Walton, J. Beattie, B. Parkes, J. Arundell, C. H. Jones, W. Jones, C. Fothergill, T. G. Wilkin, T. Singleton, A. Fletcher, W. Gray, J. Lyon, T. Johnson, W. Tulloch, T. Ryley, G. Temple, W. Fish, J. A. Hughes, A. Gray, and S. Hessam. The numerous visitors included Bros. J. Skeaf, P.G.O. S. J. Henochsberg, S. 1502; L. Solomon, 1507; J. Lecomber, 504; H. Pearson, P.M. 249; T. Shaw, W.M. 823; R. Collings, 249; J. Holland, P.M. 823; J. E. Jackson, W.M. 667; James Winsor, W.M. 203; K. P. France, S.W. 594; H. Ashmore, W.M. 1325; M. Corless, P.M. 673; W. Healing, W.M. 1094; J. Franks, S.W. 203; J. Devaynes, P.M. 667; T. Holden, 1182; F. H. Rahn, P.P.G.D. Durham; C. Leighton, P.M. 1325; J. Woodman, S.D. 823; A. Hart, J.W. 724; W. Doyle, P.P.G.J.D.; T. Clarke, P.M. 673; T. Evans, P.M. 1356, S.W. 1570; J. T. Callow, W.M. 1505; and others. After the lodge had been duly opened and the minutes of the previous meeting confirmed, the chair was taken by Bro. J. Healing, P.M., who proceeded to instal Bro. Alexander Cotter into the chair of W.M. The ancient charge having been read very effectively by Bro. A. C. Wylie, Sec., the lodge was raised to the Third Degree, and then all below the rank of Installed Master retired. On being re-admitted, the brethren saluted the newly-chaired W.M. in the usual form, and the ceremony was concluded by Bro. P.M. Healing—the charges to the I.P.M., W.M., Wardens, and brethren being especially effective. On the motion of Bro. I.P.M. Gee, seconded by Bro. P.M. Dixon, a cordial vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Healing for the manner in which he had performed the ceremony, and this was ordered to be minuted. The following were the officers invested:—Bros. P. B. Gee, I.P.M.; W. Royle, S.W.; J. Korn, J.W.; J. Healing, P.M., Treas. (re-elected); T. Walton, Sec.; J. Hill, Org.; W. C. Webb, S.D.; A. C. Wylie, J.D.; T. H. Arden, I.G.; J. S. Dixon, P.M., D.C.; T. Grant, S.S.; W. Fish, J.S.; C. Fothergill, A.S.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. The brethren subsequently dined in the banqueting room of the hall, under the presidency of Bro. A. Cotter, the new W.M. of the lodge. There was a large representation of members and visitors. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O., responding for "Bro. the Honourable Frederick Stanley, D.P.G.M., and the Officers of the Province," "The Health of the Worshipful Master" was given by Bro. P. B. Gee, I.P.M. He was sure the toast need only be mentioned to meet with the hearty approval of every one present. Bro. Cotter, their W.M., had risen from the lowest office in the lodge, and therefore he was well known and highly appreciated by every one in the lodge. He (Bro. Gee) felt certain their W.M. would maintain the dignity of the Neptune Lodge, and keep up that reputation which had been so well upheld by many eminent brethren who had previously filled the chair. Bro. Cotter, W.M., in response, thanked the brethren for the cordiality of the reception given to the toast, and he trusted that, thus possessing the good feeling of all in the lodge, they would have a prosperous and happy year. Their lodge now numbered something like 250 members, and he promised them that he would do all in his power to give entire satisfaction throughout his year of office. On the other hand, he hoped every one would strive to make his year as comfortable and cordial as he possibly could. He had not the slightest fear as to the coming year, looking to the past, with the help of the officers and brethren generally. The W.M. then proposed "The Installing Master, Bro. J. Healing, P.M.," whom he referred to in highly eulogistic terms. Bro. Healing replied in a forcible and pointed manner. "The Immediate Past Master" was the next toast given by the W.M., and in doing so he referred to the many excellent services Bro. P. B. Gee, I.P.M., had rendered to the lodge during the two years he had filled the office of W.M. As a mark of the great esteem felt for Bro. Gee by every member of the lodge, he had great pleasure in presenting him with a very valuable and handsome diamond ring, which he trusted that he would long be spared to wear, and go out and in amongst the brethren of the Neptune Lodge. The toast was received with great enthusiasm and special honours. Bro. P. B. Gee, I.P.M., in acknowledging the presentation and compliment, said he had had so many honours showered upon him that he was at a loss to find words to sufficiently express his thanks. He had done his work to the best of his ability during the two years he had occupied the chair, and if he had secured the approbation of the brethren he was amply repaid. After a number of other toasts the pleasant proceedings were brought to a close at an early hour. Excellent harmony was contributed by Bros. A. C. Jones, A. Child, Pugmire, Hobart, and Skeaf, who presided at the piano. One of the most delightful features of the musical programme was a new song called "Dying Embers," written by Bro. Skeaf, which is quite a gem in its way, and sure to become popular with harmoniously inclined brethren.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Lodge (No. 1326).—This lodge held its regular meeting on Saturday, the 17th inst., at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. Present: Bros. H. A. Dubois, P.P.G.A.D.C. Middlesex, W.M.; W. Hammond, P.G.J.D., &c., I.P.M.; E. Gilbert, S.W.; C. W. Fox, J.W.; F. Walters, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M., Sec.; W. Mitchell, acting S.D.; J. B. Shackleton, acting J.D.; J. P. Baldwin, P.M., I.G.; H. Gloster, D.C.; H. Potter, P.M., W.S.; J. C. Woodrow, P.M.; D. Steinhauer, J. Greenwood, T. Stone, J. Howe, A. Rolington, F. Knight, J. Hernaman, C. Lucop, G. S. Streeton, W. Stanton, and others. Visitors: Bros. B. Sharp, 168, P.M.; Rev. T. W. Cane, 1309, Sec.; R. W. Martin, 201; and E. Beckwith, 1423. Messrs. W. Blackley and W. T. Trehearn were initiated into the Order. The bye-laws were read and agreed to, Bro. Gilbert, S.W., was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year, Bro. S. Wickens was re-elected Treas., and Gilbert, P.G.T., Tyler. Bros. J. C. Woodrow was nominated for office as A.S.; J. Symes, as C.S.; and G. Shott, as Steward. Bros. W. Mitchell, W. Stanton, and J. B. Shackleton were elected on the audit. Five guineas was proposed, but seven was the amount voted to be spent in purchasing a Past Master's jewel, to be presented to H. Bro. H. Dubois as a slight recognition of his services during his year of office. The lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned till the third Saturday in July. The brethren afterwards sat down to banquet, and spent a social evening, some capital songs and speeches, &c., being given by several brethren. The Tyler's toast terminated another pleasant meeting at "happy Hampton."

LEICESTER.—Albert Edward Lodge (No. 1560).—The last meeting for the season took place at Freemasons' Hall, Leicester, on Tuesday, the 13th inst., when there were present: R.W. Bro. W. Kelly, P. Prov. G.M.; Bros. G. Toller, jun., as W.M.; Rev. Canon Burfield, P.M., S.W.; C. E. Stretton, as J.W.; Rev. E. Woodcock, P.M., Chaplain; Clement Stretton, P.M., Treas.; Rev. W. Langley, P.M., Sec.; Rev. F. H. Richardson, S.D.; J. F. Rolleston, J.D.; S. S. Partridge, P.M., D. of C.; W. Sculthorpe, P.M., and Capt. Goodchild, Stwds.; A. H. Burgess, as I.G.; G. H. Hodges, P.M.; Dr. Clifton, P.M.; Rev. C. H. Wood, R. S. Toller, H. S. Gee, and several others. Visitors: Dr. Buck, P.M. 279; Rev. F. Brindley, Chaplain 37; T. A. Wykes, J.W. 523; and J. Hodges, 523. The lodge having been opened, a ballot was taken for several joining members, and for Mr. J. A. McDonald as a candidate for initiation. These having all been declared duly elected, Mr. McDonald was duly initiated into Masonry by the acting W.M., assisted by the R.W.P. Prov. G.M. The lecture on the Tracing Board was given by Bro. S. Partridge. The remainder of the business having been transacted, the lodge was closed, and the members dined together at the hall, when a very pleasant evening was spent, enhanced by the musical abilities of the Revs. F. Richardson, F. Brindley, and T. A. Wykes.

Among those present were Comps. R. Bird, M.E.Z.; F. P. Morrell, H.; H. R. Cooper Smith, B.A., J.; W. W. Harrison, M.A., Treasurer, and E.; Col. the Hon. W. F. Sackville-West, M.A., N.; R. Isherwood Williamson, Christ Church, Principal Sojourner; the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, Assistant Sojourner; the Rev. H. A. Pickard, M.A., P.Z.; A. Winkfield, P.Z., and Director of Ceremonies; and others. It need hardly be said that the ballot was successful, and all three candidates were duly exalted.

JERSEY.—Cesaree Chapter (No. 590).—The anniversary convocation of this chapter was held on Thursday, June 8th, at the Masonic Temple. In the temporary absence of Comp. G. J. Renouf, Z., Comp. R. Barrow, P.Z. 491, was requested to take the First Principal's chair, and supported by Comps. A. Schmitt, P.Z., P.G.S.E., as H.; J. O'Flaherty, J.; J. Oatley, P.Z.; A. Viel, P.Z.; Ed. Martel, H. 491, P.Z., opened the chapter. The companions were admitted. Among the visitors were Comps. Gen. T. C. Kelly, C.B., J. 491; J. O. Le Sueur, S., E. 491; E. J. Bellingham, P.Z. 244; E. Leigh Bennett, J. 244; Wm. H. Long, P.Z. 244; Capt. J. Williams, Treas. 244; and others. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, when a ballot was taken for Comp. J. Le Neveu as a candidate for joining, and for Bro. Wm. H. Campbell, regularly proposed for exaltation, which proved unanimous in favour in each case. Bro. Campbell being in attendance, was admitted to the Supreme Degree of H.R.A.M. of Jerusalem. The first part of the ceremony, as far as the Ob., was conducted by the acting Z., and the remainder by Comp. A. Schmitt, who also gave the Symbolical and Mystical Lectures. The Historical was delivered by Comp. O'Flaherty. A conclave of Installed First Principals was now formed, and presided over by Comp. A. Schmitt, who performed the ceremony of installing Comps. P. W. Binet, as Z.; Jos. O'Flaherty, as H.; and E. Martel, as J. The companions were re-admitted and saluted their new chiefs. The I.Z. then invested Comps. Wm. H. Chapman, as S.N.; A. Viel, P.Z., P.S.; and H. Du Jardin, Jan. The annual report of the Audit Committee was then presented, showing a satisfactory financial position of the chapter. There being no other business, the chapter was closed, and the companions adjourned for refreshment. When the cloth was removed, the usual loyal and Royal Arch toasts were given and duly honoured. One toast, however, deserves a special mention, referring to the absent distinguished honorary members of the chapter, Comps. Dr. H. Hopkins (Bath), and Wm. James Hughtan (Truro), which was proposed by Comp. A. Schmitt, and sympathetically received with "Hearty Good Wishes" by the companions. The Janitor's toast brought the proceedings to a close at ten o'clock.

OXFORD.—Cœur de Lion Preceptory (No. 29).—A meeting of this preceptory was held on Monday, 19th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Oxford, for the purpose of incepting Bro. H.R.H. Prince Leopold, K.G., proposed by Sir Knt. the Rev. Edward Moore, Prov. Grand Prior Oxon, and seconded by Sir Knt. R. J. Spiers, P.G. Capt., Prov. Grand Sub-Prior, Oxon; and also Comp. Capt. H. Lay, of Swerford House, Oxon, proposed by Sir Knt. R. J. Spiers, Prov. Sub-Prior and seconded by Sir Knt. Joseph Reade; Comp. Col. the Hon. W. E. Sackville-West; and Comp. J. Heber Clarke; the two latter having been balloted for and elected at the last preceptory. Among those present were Sir Knts, Sir Patrick Colquhoun, Grand Chancellor of England; Gooldeen, Grand Treasurer of England; the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, Grand Preceptor of England; the Rev. E. Moore, Prov. Prior for Oxfordshire; R. J. Spiers, Sub-Prior of Oxford, and Past Grand Captain; together with the following officers of the Cœur de Lion Preceptory:—Sir Knts. W. Thompson, E. Preceptor; A. S. Hurford, P. Preceptor; Rev. T. Cochrane, Constable; H. R. Cooper Smith, Marshal; R. J. Spiers, P.C., Treas.; C. Bishop, Registrar; J. Juggins, Chamberlain; R. Isherwood Williamson, Capt. of Guard; J. S. Lowe, Dir. of Ceremonies; E. Scudamore Lucas, Standard Bearer; J. Saunders, (Mayor of Oxford), Aide de Camp; J. Potts, First Herald; J. E. Courtenay Bodley, Second Herald; Comps. W. Stephens and G. Norward, Equerries, and Sir Knts. S. P. Spiers, Eversley, Bevers, Hurford, Hawkins, &c. The ceremony of inceptation was impressively performed by Sir Knt. W. Thompson, Eminent Preceptor, who, at its conclusion, installed Sir Knt. the Rev. Thomas Cochrane as Eminent Preceptor for the ensuing year. The latter then invested his officers as follows:—Sir Knts. Walter Thompson, P. Preceptor; H.R.H. Prince Leopold, K.G., Constable; Chas. Bishop, Marshal; W. Thompson, Treas.; the Rev. G. M. Brock-Arnold, Chaplain; Col. the Hon. W. Sackville-West, Registrar; R. Isherwood Williamson, Christ Church, Sub-Marshal; J. Juggins, Chamberlain; J. E. C. Bodley, Balliol Coll., Almoner; Fenton Hedges, Capt. of Guard; Jason Saunders (Mayor of Oxford), Director of Ceremonies; J. Potts, Standard Bearer; W. W. Harrison, M.A., P.E.C., Brasenose Coll., Org.; Joseph Reade, Aide de Camp; E. S. Lucas, First Herald; R. Usher, Second Herald; Comps. W. Stephens and G. Norward, Equerries. Previously to the meeting a luncheon took place in the banquetting room of the Masonic Hall, Alfred-street, Sir Knt. the Rev. Edward Moore, Provincial Prior for Oxfordshire, presided, and Prince Leopold was included in the company present.

Bro. T. Brassey, M.P., will lay the foundation stone of the Hastings and St. Leonard's Baths on the 28th inst.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. Mungo (No. 27).—The regular monthly meeting of this very old and prosperous lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Thursday evening, the 15th inst., Bro. Dugald Butler, W.M., presiding; Alex. Bain, P.M. 103, and P.G. B.B., acting S.W. in the absence of Bro. Dr. McInnes, S.W.; G. McComb, J.W. The attendance of members and visitors was large, among whom were Bros. Weir, Dott, Hood, Booth, Brown, Campbell, Kidd, McEwan, Paton, Albin, Morrison, Dory, and Janes. Visitors: Bros. Dr. Ballantyne, 195; R. Rae, 49; B. V. Sharpe, Lodge Loyal Welsh, Pembroke Dock, 378 (E.C.); W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); Gardner, 360; Beaton, 103; Campbell, 360; Paterson, 360, McEwan, 362; Johnstone, Rae, and Blain, of 465; and others. On the lodge being opened, Bro. Robt. Hood was raised to the Sublime Degree of M.M. by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543. Bro. Albin presiding at the harmonium. There being no further business the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the side room and sat down to refreshment, the W.M. in the chair, who proposed the following toasts in succession:—"The Queen and the Craft," "The Three Grand Lodges," "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow." Bro. Baird, P.G.B.B., replied. "The Visitors," Bros. Sharpe, 378 (E.C.) and Dr. Ballantyne replied, "The Masonic Press," Bro. Ferguson ("Freemason") replied. Other toasts followed, and a very happy hour was wound up by drinking the last toast, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again."

GLASGOW.—Lodge Star (No. 219).—The regular monthly meeting of this very flourishing lodge was held in their own Hall, 12, Trongate, on Monday evening, the 12th inst., Bro. J. Morgan, R.W.M., in the chair, supported by Bros. W. Anderson, S.M.; J. Horn, S.W.; D. Mearns, J.W.; Francis Daw, Sec., and the other office bearers, and, as usual, a very large attendance of members. Among the visitors were Bros. D. Reid, I.P.M. 465; James Duthie, Z. 67; J. Annand, Z. 144; Hugh Killin, Sec. 178; J. Stewart, 360; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); and brethren from lodges Nos. 87, 116, 117, 178, 332, 347, 408, 458, 465, 543, and 571. The lodge having been opened, the Secretary read minutes of last regular meeting, and one emergency meeting, which were approved of, and after other business of minor importance had been disposed of Mr. John Boyd was admitted and initiated into the First Degree by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543. There being no other work the lodge was closed.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Athole (No. 413).—At the monthly meeting of this lodge, which was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday evening, the 13th inst., Bros. Jas. Louttit, W.M., presiding; Daniel Leeds, S.W.; And. Holms, J.W.; J. Miller, P.M.; P. Agnew, Treas.; W. Neilson, D.M.; W. Grindlay, J.D.; W. Lockie, I.G.; and a very full attendance of members and visiting brethren. Among the latter we noticed Bros. W. Ferguson, P.M. 116; J. H. Gill, Sec. 332; P. Brownlie, J.W. 34; R. Bruce, Lodge Inhabitants, Gibraltar, No. 153 (E.C.); W. T. Waddell, Lodge Brownrigg Lodge of Unity, No. 1424, Chatham (E.C.); W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"), and members from Lodges Nos. 50, 116, 197, 73, 202, 178, 275, 321, 332, 347, 354, 427, 437, 510, 570, 571, and 581. On the lodge being opened an application was made for a gentleman to be initiated on behalf of Lodge Union, No. 332, and the same was cordially received by the office-bearers and brethren of lodge 413. The gentleman, whose name is Mr. W. Dickson, was then initiated into the First Degree by Bro. Jas. Booth, W.M., Lodge Thistle, No. 87, in a very careful manner, Bro. Miller, P.G.D. of M., presiding at the harmonium. The Sec. of Lodge Union returned thanks to the Master and members of No. 413 for their kindness in initiating the candidate on behalf of the Lodge Union, No. 332, and said should they require a similar request at any time it would be cheerfully complied with. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, when Bros. J. McFarlane and G. F. Nicol were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. J. Miller, P.M., in his usual able and impressive manner. The lodge was then reduced and closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Caledonian Railway (No. 354).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, 30, Hope-street, on Wednesday evening, the 14th inst., at 6 p.m., Bro. A. B. Ferguson, W.M., in the chair; John Harley, S.W.; C. McKenzie, J.W.; J. Harley, S.D.; and Bros. Drummond, Speirs, Patterson, Russell, Armour, and Hain. Among the visitors were Bros. J. Clark, Org., Mother Kilwinning; A. Brown, D.M. 16; A. Fletcher, 39; H. Hardy, 87; D. Reid, I.P.M. 465; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; W. Ferguson ("Freemason"); J. Fisher, 28; G. Adam, 68; A. Baillie, 117; T. Granger, 117; J. H. Fash, 332; Rae, 465; Jones, 465; and others. On the lodge being opened, Messrs. Joan MacGaw, W. Chalmers, Peebles, and John Lindsay were initiated into the E.A. Degree by Bro. W. Ferguson, W.M. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, when a brother was passed by Bro. Oliver, S.W. 360. Afterwards a brother was raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. W. Ferguson, P.M. 543. The three ceremonies were rendered in a very careful manner, Bro. Hardy presiding at the harmonium during the evening. The lodge was then closed.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Suffolk will be held at Ipswich on Monday, the 3rd of July. Lodge will be opened punctually at twelve o'clock by Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Waveney, Prov. G.M.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Joshua Nunn, Senior Vice-President, took the President's chair; Bro. James Brett, Junior Vice-President, took the Senior Vice-President's chair; and Bro. J. M. Case, G.D., that of the Junior Vice-President. The other brethren present were Bros. S. Rawson, P. Dist. G.M. China; John Emmens, P.G.P.; Rev. J. M. Vaughan, E. P. Albert, G.P.; C. F. Hogard, W. Mann, W. H. Myers, W. T. Howe, C. A. Cottebrune, P.G.P.; Griffiths Smith, P.G.S. H. Bartlett, Samuel Poynter, W. J. Murlis, Jos. Smith, P.G.P.; H. Massey ("Freemason"); H. T. Thompson, Herbert Dicketts, P.G.S.; John Boyd, P.G.P.; Marsh, J. Charkell, J. Gibson, J. Green, E. Legg, J. A. L. Barnard, J. H. Watts, C. Andrews, Emery A. Quait, J. J. West, G. J. Kain, 766; J. Pinder, W.M. 15; A. Pilbeam, C. P. Cobham, J. A. Copestick, Norman, Wm. Stephens, H. Tuson, J. Hervey, G.S.; H. G. Buss, Prov. G.T. Middlesex; A. A. Pendlebury, and C. B. Payne, G. Tyler.

The amount of £405 for grants made at last Lodge of Benevolence was confirmed. There were 16 new cases before the brethren, most of them exhibiting a large amount of sore distress. One case was dismissed, and one deferred; and £305 was voted to the remainder. With the exception of one case the applicants were most liberally dealt with, and even in the exceptional case the amount granted was named merely that the recipient might receive the money at once, instead of having to wait till December, which a large amount would have necessitated. No disadvantage can accrue to the recipient because he can petition the Board again. Two grants were made of £50 each; one was for £30; one was for £25; five were for £20; and five for £10. Lodge was then closed.

CONSECRATION OF THE HAMER CHAPTER, No. 1393.

There was an excellent assembly of companions of the R.A. Order at the Clarence Hotel, Everton Road, Liverpool, on Thursday, the 8th inst., when the Hamer Chapter, No. 1393, was consecrated at 3 o'clock in solemn form. Comp. R. Wylie, P.Z., was the consecrating officer, assisted by Comp. Dr. J. K. Smith, P.Z., as H.; Comp. J. Pemberton, P.Z., as J.; and Comp. J. McKune, P.Z., as D.C. In the course of the impressive consecration, which was admirably performed, valuable assistance was given by Comps. Sarjeant, P.Z.; J. T. Callow, P.Z.; H. Williams, P.Z.; and J. R. Goppel, P.Z. Amongst the others present were Comps. H. S. Alpass, P.G.S.E.; H. Nelson, P.Z. 673; T. Clark, P.Z. 673; H. Burrows, P.S. 673; J. Hocken, P.Z. 673 and 220; L. Bagnall, 823; J. Houlding, 823; H. Pearson, Z. 249; W. Jones, P.Z. 220; Leeson, J. Wood, Treas. 249 ("Freemason"); J. McCarthy, Hargreaves, A. C. Wylie, J. Holland, P.Z. 823, Smith, and others.

The following were the investitures:—Comps. J. Jones, Z.; R. H. Evans, H.; H. Jackson, J.; J. Price, S.E.; T. Large, S.N.; and Comp. Williamson was elected Janitor. Several joining members were proposed, and also a number of candidates for exaltation.

The musical brethren, who assisted effectively at the ceremony, were Comps. J. Skeaf, the Rev. J. R. Jenkins, C. Huswell, and T. Armstrong.

At an excellent banquet which followed, the usual toasts were given and responded to. In response to the health of the P.G. Officers, Comp. H. S. Alpass called particular attention to the reprehensible system of blackballing which prevailed in too many instances; and he also urged the desirability of subscribing for the restoration of Chester Cathedral in connection with the proposed gift from W. Lancashire. "The Health of the Chiefs" was proposed by Comp. R. Wylie, and responded to by Comp. J. Jones, Z., who in turn gave "The Consecrating and Installing Officers," which was acknowledged by Comp. R. Wylie.

During the evening special reference was made to the St. John's Chapter, No. 673, for the kindness of the chiefs and companions in granting the use of their furniture for that occasion.

Mulum in Parbo; or Masonic Notes and Queries.

St. Alban—of whom not much is known—was, in all probability, an Englishman by birth, knighted at Rome—so say the old chroniclers, and especially John Lidge, the poet, and for saving Amphibalus, or Amphibalas, of Caerleon, became the Proto-Martyr of England. As regards his connection with Freemasonry it is not so clear, though there is no à priori reason why the old guild legend should not be quite true, that he was the patron of the Roman Guild of Operative Freemasons at Verulamium, St. Alban's. Bro. Havers seems to be taken to task in talking of him as our first Grand Master; but Bro. Havers was fully justified by the official statement of the Order, and, indeed, in our opinion, by archaeological evidence. Of course Bro. Havers did not mean a Grand Lodge like ours, but he was the Grand Master, or Grand Patron, of the Annual Operative Brotherhood, and probably presided in the Operative Annual Assembly. All Masonic sentiment, and tradition, and legend, and memories point to St. Alban's Cathedral as the resting place both of Albanus and Amphibalas, and no motion could be, in my humble opinion, ever more seasonable, or more fully justified, than the motion of our distinguished Bro. John Havers.

A MASONIC STUDENT.

NEW MASONIC HALL IN SHEFFIELD. LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE.

On the 23rd ult. the foundation-stone of a new Masonic Hall, which is to be erected in Sheffield, was duly laid. The site is in Surrey-street, at the junction of that thoroughfare with Eyre-street. The hall is not intended to be a large building, but it is expected that additions will be made to it. On the ground floor will be a dining-room 52 feet long and 26 feet 6 inches wide, with a height of 15 feet. Above it will be the lodge-room, of the same length and width, but 24 feet in height. This latter apartment will be fitted with pitch pine, and will be relieved with cornices and moulded ribs, and will have a dais at the end. The style of architecture adopted is that known as classical, and the frontage of the building will be of ashlar stone. Messrs. Scargill and Clark are the architects, and Mr. James White, of Penistone-road, the contractor.

At five o'clock in the afternoon there was a large assemblage of the Freemasons of the district to witness the ceremony of laying the stone, which was undertaken by Dr. Bartolomé, P.P.G.J.W. The proceedings were opened by Bro. Alex. Hay, P.P.G.S.B., and P.Z., who said they had met on the present occasion to lay the first stone of the New Masonic Hall. He would just explain that it had been the wish of the directors to lay this stone with full Masonic honours, but various reasons had arisen why this should not be carried out. In the first place, it would have been necessary to have invited the Provincial Grand Lodge to have attended, and also the principal members of the heads of the Corporation, and other persons and rulers in the town. That was according to ancient and Masonic custom. They, however, did not think they were justified in spending large sums of the shareholders' money in obtaining the honours above referred to. Having decided so far, they next looked at the best thing to be done, and decided that one of the members in Sheffield should lay this stone. It was the unanimous wish of the officers and brethren they had spoken to on the subject that Bro. Bartolomé should be invited to lay this stone, and he must say he believed no member in Sheffield was more fully entitled to the honour. For many years the doctor had been a consistent member of the Craft, and had done much for it. They thought the best thing they could do was to ask Dr. Bartolomé to lay this stone, and he had kindly consented to fulfil the office. He had much pleasure in presenting Dr. Bartolomé with a trowel, with which he hoped the latter would properly lay the stone. The trowel, he hoped, would be handed down to the doctor's descendants for many generations, and in time to come his children's children would know how he had been respected and esteemed in Sheffield.

Dr. Bartolomé, taking the trowel, asked that in the first instance they would allow him to return them his sincere thanks for the honour they had conferred on him in asking him to lay the foundation stone of this future building. He might say without vanity that he believed if consistency and sincerity in profession could make a man entitled to an honour, he was entitled to that honour. He had looked over the minute books that day, and he had found that during the three years he was in office he was absent from a meeting but twice. The lodge thought proper on one occasion to take notice of that, and to state that he was unable to be present through indisposition. He was happy to say he could not recollect this fact, but he saw it upon the minutes. Before they proceeded to the business of the day he must call on Canon Blakeney to be kind enough to invoke the aid of the Most High in the work they were about to do. Let them not proceed another step without invoking the aid of Him who could alone prosper the undertaking.

The Rev. Canon Blakeney then offered up prayer, after which Dr. Bartolomé was presented with a mallet and trowel, the latter having engraved upon it the following words:—"Presented to Bro. Mariano Martin De Bartolomé, P.P.G.W., Provincial G.H. by the Masonic Hall Company, Limited, on the occasion of his laying the foundation stone of the New Masonic Hall, Sheffield, 23rd May, 1876." The laying of the foundation stone was then proceeded with. In a cavity beneath it was placed a bottle containing copies of the memorandum and articles of the association of the company, the "Freemason," the "Sheffield Daily Telegraph," the "Independent," the library scheme, a short history of the hall, together with coins, and a list of the Past Masters and acting Masters of the Britannia, Brunswick, and Wentworth Lodges.

Dr. Bartolomé (taking the mallet in hand, and tapping the foundation stone which had been lowered to its bed), said that in the name of the Most High Architect of the Universe he declared this stone duly laid. Might it be the beginning of a superstructure perfect in all its parts and creditable to its builder. He anticipated from the history of Freemasonry in Sheffield during the past forty years a very glorious success for the future. This was not the first time he had been instrumental in promoting this good work. About forty years ago he undertook it with less prospect of success than they had at present, and yet let them look at the results. Let them anticipate what great events had from trivial causes sprung. He hoped that this hall might be the means not only of cementing the brotherhood and diffusing the principles of the Craft, but also of showing that there was something more in Masonry than simple profession.

This concluded the proceedings, and the members of the Craft then adjourned to luncheon in the Cutlers' Hall.

Bro. R. M. Bancroft, of the Engineers' Staff, Great Northern Railway, and an occasional contributor to "Engineer," "Builder," and other scientific papers, has been elected President of the Civil and Mechanical Engineers' Society for the coming session.

CONSECRATION OF THE LIVERPOOL DRAMATIC LODGE, NO. 1609.

No more interesting event in the history of Freemasonry has taken place in Liverpool for a considerable time than that which was witnessed at the Masonic Hall in that "shipping village" on Friday, the 16th inst., when the Liverpool Dramatic Lodge, No. 1609 on the Grand Lodge registry, was consecrated with more than ordinary solemnity and impressiveness. Everything combined to make the initiatory ceremonies pass off with "eclat." Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, Dep. Grand Master, R.W.P.G.M. for West Lancashire, very warmly recommended the prayer of the petitioning brethren in applying for their warrant; and his lordship would most gladly have been present at the ceremony on this occasion if his parliamentary duties had not kept him in London. The absence of his lordship was about the only regretful circumstance in connection with the day's proceedings, although his place was very worthily filled by his P.G. Officers appointed to take part in and conduct the consecration and installation proceedings. The lodge, as will be gathered from its name, has been specially organised for the purpose of giving fitting and convenient opportunity to the numerous theatrical brethren who are either resident in Liverpool or who may visit it as "stars" from time to time of attaching themselves to some lodge where they can meet with each other within the charmed Masonic circle. The success attending that already instituted in London is well known in Masonic circles, and there is not the slightest doubt that, from the keen and earnest enthusiasm with which the Liverpool "Dramatic" has been started, and the honourable names which the leaders in the new lodge bear in the Craft, it will prove one of the most important and creditable additions to the rapidly-increasing roll of lodges ranging under the banner of the Grand Lodge of England. The promoters of the Liverpool Dramatic Lodge express their determination to make it a model lodge, and doubtless it will not only increase greatly in its members, but will also continue to maintain that calibre with which it has been started.

The brethren assembled at the Masonic Hall at two o'clock, and shortly after that hour Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec., took the chair as consecrating officer, being very ably assisted in his work by Bros. R. Wylie, P.P.S.G.D.; and the Rev. J. M. Morgan, P.G. Chaplain; and Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.G. Registrar. Important services during the most impressive proceedings were also rendered by Bros. T. Armstrong, P.G. Treas.; J. R. Goepel, P.P.G.D.C.; R. Brown, W.M. 241; and J. M. Bennett, W.M. 1350. Amongst those present, besides those above named, were Bros. Joseph Bell, W.M. 1356 (the W.M. designate of the new lodge); W. J. Chapman (S.W. designate); L. Courtenay (J.W. designate); D. Saunders; B. B. Marson, P.M. 1356; J. Pyer, H. G. Stafford, W. W. Sandbrook, J. Atkinson, A. Collinson, A. Woolrich, R. Palgrave, P.P.G. Purst. (Gloucester); J. Lunt, P.G.D.C.; J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; J. Wood, Treas. 1094; W. Doyle, P.P.J.G.D.; W. Coates, 1356; J. Capell, J.W. 1299; J. Jacobs, 724; I. de Frece, Treas. 1502; M. Hart, S.W. 1502; T. Evans, P.M. 1356; W. Hildyard, 461; Dr. A. Whittle, 823; S. Hess, P.P.G.J.W. (Cheshire); T. A. Collinson, P.G.S.; J. T. Pugmire, 241; J. Queen, 105; J. Reay, 292; J. R. Bottomley, 1356; C. P. T. Therley, 1350; H. P. Squire, 1356; E. Pierpoint, P.P.G.S.D.; J. Beldon, 1356; R. W. Younge, 79; E. C. Booth, 228; J. Carter, J. Keet, 1356; E. O. C. Rothwell, P.M. 1356; P. F. Buck, 673; C. Hasswell, 203; T. J. Hughes, 216; H. Alexander, 203; and others.

The lodge was opened in the Third Degrees by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec., the chair of S.W. being occupied by Bro. E. Pierpoint, P.P.G.S.D.; that of J.W. by Bro. W. Doyle, P.P.G.J.D.; Bro. Dr. J. R. Smith, P.G. Reg., acting as P.G. Sec.; and Bro. the Rev. J. M. Morgan, P.G.C., as the P.M. The whole of the consecration ceremony was most effectively performed by Bro. Alpass and those who assisted him on the occasion; and a special word of commendation is due to Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O., who had charge of the musical arrangements, and the musical brethren—Bros. T. J. Hughes, C. Haswell, J. T. Pugmire, and J. Queen. Very rarely has any musical service been so magnificently rendered, impressing every one by the style in which it was given. During the ceremony Bro. Morgan, Prov. G. Chaplain, delivered the following appropriate and excellent oration:—

Provincial Grand Officers, Worshipful Master elect, and Brother Masons: The safe return of our illustrious Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, to his native land is welcomed by us all with feelings of heartfelt thankfulness. His preservation from the perils of the deep, from accident, from sickness, and from all the many dangers of so long a journey in foreign lands, calls upon us, I say, to render thanks to Almighty God for His goodness and loving mercy. "O that men would therefore praise the Lord for His goodness, and declare the wonders that He doeth for the children of men." I may not stop to dwell on his reception, wherever he has bent his steps, by our brethren of the Craft. Men, dwellers in many climes, inhabitants of a vast continent, of different languages, and of various origin—one and all held forth the right hand of fellowship to our august brother and Prince—a lasting proof, were such required, of the influence of the principles of our Order on the hearts of many men, dwellers in many lands. Presiding Grand Officer, Provincial Grand Officers, Worshipful Master elect, and Brother Masons: We are met here this day on a solemn occasion. There is a deep meaning in every part of this day's high ceremonial, from the opening to the closing prayer; in each and every act we implore the aid, or, in solemn chant, sing the praise of the Supreme Being, the author of all happiness, our Preserver, our Protector, and our God! I take one portion of the consecration service (I think I do not err in calling it a service), and a very solemn one too—that of the offering of corn, and wine, and oil, and salt. In presenting corn to the presiding officer, the bearer says, I present you with corn, the sacred emblem of plenty; and then in presenting wine he says, I present you with wine, the sacred emblem of truth; and when offering oil, he declares it to be the sacred emblem of charity; and last of all he says, I present you with salt wherewith to season this lodge, as the symbol of wisdom and learning throughout the world. This is no unmeaning or frivolous ceremony, but one which must lead our thoughts to the Great Architect of the Universe, who not only has ordered all things well in heaven and earth, but who has provided so bountifully for His creature, man, that in thinking thereon we call to mind the beautiful words of the volume of the Sacred Law, "He watereth the hills from above; the earth is filled with the fruit of Thy works. He bringeth forth grass for the cattle, and green herb for the service of men. That he may bring food out of the earth, and wine that maketh glad the heart of man; and oil to make him a cheerful countenance, and bread to strengthen man's heart. Man goeth forth to his work, and to his labour; until the evening." And this reminds me that the brethren, the promoters of the lodge we are now engaged in setting apart for Masonic purposes, have had a particular object in view in thus adding one more to our number in the Province of West Lancashire. With many of our brethren, engaged in honourable but most laborious professions, the rays of the setting sun does not see the close of their day's toil. True, many of them may have gone forth to their labour in the morning; but when twilight calls most of us home, then indeed, their work in reality commences. The Acting Provincial Grand Secretary has just read the warrant from Grand Lodge. The particular object then in view in founding this lodge, called the Dramatic Lodge, No. 1609 in the register of Grand Lodge, was to enable brethren connected with the drama and the press, whose peculiar avocations precluded their attendance at lodge meetings held at the usual hour in the evening, to assemble together at a more convenient time. I know nothing more calculated to raise and elevate their conduct in the pursuit of their arduous tasks than the service of Masonry. The Drama exhibited to mankind in a proper spirit, and surrounded by certain safeguards, is a great teacher both in respect to morals and duty. When the performances, be they tragic or comic, are high in tone and convey great moral lessons, for both tragedy and comedy are capable of doing so; indeed such are their noblest duties and aims; then, I say, the world at large may reap great and lasting benefits from the genius of the writer in his closet, or the actor on the stage. "Nulle trahens varios adverso sole colores."—Virg. An. iv. 701. "Drawing a thousand colours from the light." The power of a free press, I need not tell you, brother Masons, is great; almost beyond our own conception; but can be used and is used, sometimes for evil as well as for good; but nothing is or can be perfect. Truth in the end always prevails, and honesty of purpose and rectitude in writing in the end too, bring their reward; not alone the reward of fame, and of influence, but in a pecuniary sense also. It is better even to allow some license in the Drama and in the Press, than to draw the rein too harshly. In a country like our own, men will be found ever ready to correct abuses, which, with so much liberty in writing and freedom of thought, are sure to occur from time to time. Happy that country whose laws are so wise, so just, and yet so well balanced, as to give so much of liberty as is necessary for free discussion and yet hold within themselves a controlling power. I said that no science was able to compete with or excel our own in calling on men to pursue the paths of truth and honour. To proclaim and encourage virtue in whatever form it may appear, ranks among the mightiest achievements of our race. Such has been the endeavour of Freemasonry from the earliest periods to the present day. Let us ever remember that light and truth are two of the great essentials of the Royal Craft: that light comes from God; and that truth, as it is a Divine attribute, so is it the foundation of all Masonic virtues. "O send out Thy light and Thy truth; let them lead me, let them bring me unto Thy holy hill, and to Thy tabernacle." Brother Masons, while we walk in the light, let us keep to the truth also; for it is sincerity and truthful dealing that complete the harmony of a lodge, and render us acceptable in the sight of Him, unto whom all hearts are open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid. So mote it be.

At the close of the consecration ceremonial, Bro. R. Wylie, P.P.S.G.D., took the chair in the E., and proceeded to instal Bro. Joseph Bell as the first W.M. of the Lodge. Bro. Bell was presented for the benefit of installation by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec. and Bro. J. R. Goepel, P.P.G.D.C.; the ancient charge being read by Bro. Dr. J. K. Smith, P.G. Reg. After a board of Installed Masters (numbering nearly 20) had been held, other brethren were admitted, and they saluted the highly popular newly-chaired W. Master with great cordiality. The following brethren were afterwards appointed the first staff of officers of the new Lodge;—Bros. W. J. Chapman, S.W.; Z. Courtenay, J.W.; A. Woolrich, Treas.; H. J. Loveday, Sec.; W. W. Sandbrook, J.D.; J. Atkinson, I.G.; J. Pyer, S.S.; A. Collinson, J.S.; and W. H. Ball, was unanimously elected Tyler. Before the lodge was closed there were upwards of a dozen proposed for joining and also for initiation.

The brethren were then "called off" to a recherche banquet, provided by Bro. D. Ball, P.G. Tyler, in the large banquetting room, to which upwards of 40 brethren sat down under the presidency of Bro. Bell, the W.M. After dessert had been placed on the table, the Worshipful Master said, Brother Grand Officers and Brethren, I am proud to have the honour of proposing the first toast, and in drawing your attention to the name of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, I know that the toast of her health will be welcomed with every mark of enthusiasm, which your feelings of love and of loyalty to her throne and person can prompt you to show, and in drinking Her Majesty's health, I am certain that in hoping she may long be spared to reign over this great kingdom, my tongue will only convey the wishes and desires of your hearts. Brethren I have the honour of proposing, and the privilege of calling upon you to join in drinking the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.

National Anthem, solo by Bro. J. W. Pugmire. The W.W. again rose and said, Prov. Grand Officers and Brethren, I have now the honour of proposing the health of the Most W.G. Master, Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and the pleasure of inviting you to join with me in toasting our G. Master, with true Masonic enthusiasm. We cannot but feel grateful to T.G.A.O.T.U. that He has brought our G.M. back safely from his long journey—a journey accompanied by so many perils both by land and sea. Now that H.R.H. has returned, I am sure he will be more endeared than ever to the Freemasons of this great realm, (Hear.) Brethren I assure you it is a source of real joy for me to couple with the name of the G.M. that of the Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family.

Masonic version, "God bless the Prince of Wales," sung by Bro. T. J. Hughes.

The W.M. again rose and said, P.G. Officers and Brethren, I have great pleasure in proposing the next toast, the health of the M.W. Pro Grand Master, Bro. the Right Hon the Earl of Carnarvon. We must all be proud to find that the first of the noblemen of this land are associated with our order, and to know that the offices in Grand Lodge are filled by brethren who, upon every occasion, not only discharge their duties with zeal and fidelity, but promote with voice and purse those Masonic Charities which are the greatest ornaments of English Freemasonry.

Skeaf's fine new song, "Masonry, Friendship, and Brotherly Love," was sung with fine effect by Bro. Pugmire.

The W.M. again said, Brethren, the next toast upon our list is, the health of the R.W. Deputy G. Master, and P.G.M., the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, and the Officers of Prov. Grand Lodge Past and Present. In proposing this toast I feel it my duty to mention the kind support given by his Lordship to our petition, and the great assistance I have received from his officers, in forwarding and promoting our new lodge. Brethren, I have great pleasure in proposing the health of Lord Skelmersdale and his P.G. Officers, coupling with this toast the name of our worthy and respected Prov. G. Registrar, Dr. Smith.

Song, "The Old House at Home," given with vigour by Bro. Hughes.

Bro. Dr. J. K. Smith, P.G. Reg., in response said:—W.M. it is at all times a pleasure to respond to this toast, although I wish it had fallen into more capable hands than mine. I assure you it is difficult to say sufficient in praise of Lord Skelmersdale. Your Worship has said something about his kindness in regard to your petition, but I can assure you that every brother who comes before his lordship must have met with the same courtesy and gentlemanly bearing. The P.G. Officers, no doubt, would convey to the P.G.M. the expression of the feeling of that lodge, and I am personally obliged for the manner in which you have mentioned my name. I have had some conversation with Provincial Grand Officers Past and Present, and they each and all agree with me in saying that a want has been felt for many years for a lodge like the Liverpool Dramatic, as there were many honourable men connected with the profession who could not otherwise have the privilege of attending or entering a lodge. I must express my intense delight at being here this afternoon at the ceremony of consecration, and I wish you prosperity in every possible way in your future existence.

The W.M.: Brethren we have proposed several toasts this evening with sincere pleasure, but in calling your attention to the fifth I am certain we shall all agree, that none have deserved or will obtain a heartier welcome than the health of the Consecrating and Installing Officers. (Hear, hear.) To Bros. Alpass and Wylie we are indebted for a beautiful ceremony, rendered by them with that care and efficiency which have always gained the highest praise, and for their efforts to-day we gladly offer our best acknowledgments and thanks. Brethren, I call upon you to join with me in drinking "The Health of the Consecrating and Installing Officers," coupling with the toast the names of Bro. Alpass, P.G. Sec., and Brother Wylie, P.P.G. S.D. of this Province.

The S.W. (Bro. Chapman) here recited "The Tar's Yarn," with a gusto and expressiveness which could hardly have been excelled.

Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec., after apologising for a severe cold which would prevent him from saying all he desired, proceeded—W. M. and Brethren: I have had the pleasure to-day of being consecrating officer of a lodge which has been organised to meet a great—I believe a very great—want in this town of Liverpool. Freemasonry, like every similar institution which endeavours and whose object is to suit itself to every time and every occasion, and to a certain extent to every situation in life, has, in sanctioning the warrant for the Dramatic Lodge, endeavoured to meet a pressing want which has been felt in Liverpool for some time. The time was when Freemasons' lodges always met in the evening, and I am sorry to say that in past times, too, when we had different social customs and usages, they not only met in the evening but parted in the morning—a custom which until a very recent period adhered to Freemasonry. It was supposed that to become a Freemason a man ought to go to his lodge in the evening and return home early in the morning; but that reproach ought to have been removed from us long ago. We, like every institution in the country, have adopted the customs of the day, and have got rid of many of those causes of reproach which also formerly attached to the higher classes of society. For a man to be seen drunk at any banquet would be sufficient to strike him out of our knowledge, and we certainly would not receive him with any cordiality. This Dramatic Lodge has been consecrated to suit the convenience of certain brethren. In London a certain number of the Craft who desired to meet in their own lodge there had established a Dramatic Lodge, which has been most successful, and includes amongst its members many of the highest class of intellects on the stage in every department. They appreciate Freemasonry as we do, but they are obliged to meet at such an hour in the day as will suit their professional engagements. Well, brethren, here we have to-day consecrated the Liverpool Dramatic Lodge, and there is no doubt, from the character of the members who have been proposed to-day, that it supplies a want which has long been felt by those whose engagements preclude them from attending any lodge in the evening. Freemasonry desires to suit itself to every rank and condition, and above all it must desire to attract within its circle the intellect of the country. I know of no higher intellects than those connected with the stage, and some of these this Dramatic Lodge will doubtless embrace. There is scarcely any profession in which it is so difficult to make a mark as that of the stage. Many of us have been stage-struck, no doubt—(hear, hear)—and if you look at a certain handbill in the club-room of this building you will find that the Lord Mayor of London, in a burlesque of "Richard III.," was represented by a well-known brother, and that brother was myself. (Laughter.) I hope our professional brethren will not feel aggrieved, but I may state that the Royal Amphitheatre was never so well filled as on that occasion. (Hear, hear, and renewed laughter.) If any enterprising manager were now to give me sufficient inducement I might again feel inclined to re-appear and again fill the Royal Amphitheatre. (Great laughter.) It has been to me a source of pleasure to recommend that this accommodation should be given to the dramatic profession. I am quite sure that every visitor here to-day will see in what has been done that no mistake has been made. (Hear, hear.) The names of the brethren who have been proposed for initiation will show to the Craft at large that we have supplied a great Masonic want. The lodge has started in good hands, and more than that, it will be supported by brethren who, as professional gentlemen, irrespective of Masonry, have ever shown a most anxious desire to help distressed brethren. (Hear.) Whatever their position may be, we can see from the public journals how ready they are to help every one who falls into distress—an indication that in connection with Masonry they would not forget their distressed brethren. It has been to me a source of great satisfaction to consecrate this lodge, and I wish you every success.

Bro. R. Wylie, P.P.S.G.D.: Brethren, it has also given me great satisfaction to instal the W.M. to-day. I am quite sure you could not have had a better Master than Bro. Bell. From what I have seen of him I am quite sure he will do his work in a manner at once honourable to himself and to the province of West Lancashire. Brethren, charge your glasses, and drink a bumper to the prosperity of the Dramatic Lodge, coupled with the health of Bro. Bell, Worshipful Master.

The toast was honoured with great enthusiasm, with Masonic honours. Bro. R. Young at this point gave a humorous ditty, which greatly delighted every one.

The W.M., in reply, said: Bro. Wylie, Provincial Grand Officers, and Brethren,—On rising to respond to the toast of my health, so kindly proposed and so well received by the brethren, I hardly know how to convey my thanks in words, or express how much I estimate your good wishes; but I may say, as Worshipful Master of this lodge, that I shall strive to merit your good opinion and the honour the founders of this lodge, the Liverpool Dramatic Lodge, have conferred upon me in electing me to be their first W.M. Brethren, I tender you my grateful thanks for your good wishes.

The W.M. then proposed "The Officers," and in doing so said he was quite certain he might reckon on their assistance during the coming year in promoting the harmonious and efficient working of the lodge. His aim, seconded by the co-operation of his officers, would be to make the Dramatic Lodge second to none in the province.

"Mynheer Van Dunck," was sung by Bros. Pugmire, Haswell, and Queen.

Bro. W. J. Chapman, in responding to the toast, said: If I say I am not accustomed to public speaking you will probably not believe me; but there is this distinction, that until now I have always had words found for me. Still, I can now find words to say that I sincerely thank you on behalf of the officers of the lodge. It is only two years since I became an E.A., and now I am placed in the second position in this lodge, which I hope will be eminently successful. So far as I am concerned, I can promise that everything will be done by me to promote the Craft generally and the Dramatic Lodge in particular.

Bro. L. Courtenay, J.W.: I have also to thank you very much for the great compliment paid to me as an officer of the Dramatic Lodge, and I assure you I shall do all in my power to promote the well-being of the lodge. I trust you will not find me wanting in my duty.

The W.M. next proposed "The Musical Brethren," and spoke of the great charm which had been given to the consecration ceremony by their really admirable singing.

Bro. D. Saunders here sang "The Fine Old English Gentleman" in a style which elicited the heartiest approbation of the brethren.

Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O., in returning thanks for the toast, said it had given him and the other musical brethren peculiar pleasure to be present at the consecration of the Dramatic Lodge. He advocated the greater use of musical arrangements in connection with all their Masonic ceremonies.

Bro. C. Haswell, 203, also responded to the toast.

The W.M. next gave "Our Visitors," and in doing so said he was sure there would be no lodge in West Lancashire which would prove more profitable than the Dramatic.

Song—"The Pilgrim of Love," by Bro. Pugmire.

Bro. R. Palgrave, P.P.G. Purst. (Gloucester), and Bro. R. Brown, W.M. 241, responded to the toast, the latter strongly advocating the claims of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution on the brethren of the new lodge.

The W.M. said he hoped it would be found that no lodge in that province would do more for their charitable institutions than the Dramatic Lodge.

Bro. Alpass gave some interesting details of the Masonic charities; and after Bro. R. Brown had given two of his inimitable ditties, the banquet proceedings were closed with "The Poor and Distressed" toast, given by the S.W.

Bro. Skeaf presided during the evening at the piano.

The lodge was then closed in due form, to meet next Tuesday, the 27th inst., for the transaction of business.

The presents to the lodge were numerous, valuable, and handsome, and amongst the donors were Bro. J. Bell, W.M., who gave columns and gavel; Bro. B. B. Marson, P.M. 1356, who will be acting P.M. of the new lodge, who presented a Bible; Bro. W. J. Chapman, S.W., a box of working tools; Bro. J. Atkinson, frame for the warrant; Bro. A. Woolrich, Treas., strong box; Bro. A. Collinson, J.S., Secretary's box; Bro. Beldon, 1356, silver salver and square and compasses; Bro. W. W. Sandbrook, J.D., sword, and others.

CONSECRATION OF THE LLANIDLOES LODGE, No. 1582.

The great progress of Freemasonry in each of the English provinces is a daily attested fact, and North Wales, under the Masonic rule of the R.W. Bro. Sir W. W. Wynn, Bart., M.P., as its P.G.M., has done its best to maintain its place, and successfully so, in the onward movement, and the consecration of the above-named lodge, on Thursday, the 8th June, has added another new home for Masonry in the Welch province. The ceremony took place at the Tre-wythln Arms Hotel, in Llanidloes, the presence of the R.W. Grand Master attracting a large number of officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge of North Wales, and of the adjoining provinces, among whom were the R.W. Bro. Major Phillips, P.G.M. of South Wales; Bros. T. W. J. Goldsbrough, P.P.G.S.W.; J. Peters, P.G.S.W.; W. Blakeway, P.P.G.J.W.; W. H. Spaul, P.G.S.; Alex. Walker, P.P.G.S.W.; G. H. Woodley, P.P.G.S.D.; J. B. Boucher, P.G.Org.; J. Salmon, P.G.S.B.; W. Russell, P.P.G. Dir. Cer.; W. Gurney, P.P.G.S.D.; W. T. Banks, P.G.S.B.; R. J. Sisson, P.G.S.; W. Collender, P.G.S.; D. P. Owen, P.P.G.P.; W. Britton, P.P.G.S.W. (Derbyshire). Also the following brethren:—G. Ward Verry, P.M. 554; T. R. Morris, W.M. 998; W. Withy, P.M. 998; N. Dunville, P.M. 152; Edwd. Hamer, W.M. 1072; E. B. Smith, W.M. 1432; Thomas Rutter, P.M. 998; James Britton, P.M. 850; John Corbett, W.M. 1477; Pryce Jones, 998; J. Danily, 998; J. Sides Davies, J.W. 998; Samuel Hazlett, 1432; J. Barnard, 998; W. Griffiths; Alfred Taylor, 1432; J. Maclardy, 1432; P. H. Hodges, 537; John Hughes, 1432; John Kitto, 1072; W. A. Davies, 1072; W. H. Williams, 1072; Roscoe, 268; Miller, 1357; F. Parmenter, 1369; J. Anderson, 998; R. Parry, 998; Miller, 537; and others.

The Lodge was opened in the Three Degrees by Bro. Goldsbrough, assisted by Bro. Frederick Britton, P.M., and Bro. T. R. Morris, W.M. 998. The musical accompaniments were under the able direction of Bro. Boucher, P.G. Organist, assisted by Bros. Dunville, Hazlett, Miller, and Roscoe. On the completion of the ceremony of consecration, the V.W. Bro. W. H. Spaul, F.G. Sec., presented W. Bro. W. Collender, P.M., the Master designate, to the R.W.G.M., who requested Bro. Goldsbrough to install him as W.M. The officers appointed were, Bros. W. A. Davies, S.W., and John Kitto, J.W. Bro. Edwd. Hamer was unanimously elected Treasurer; Bro. W. H. Williams, S.D.; John Hughes, J.D.; W. Russell, I.G.; Bro. Henson, Tyler. The Master invested each of his officers, delivering to each the customary charge. Bro. Goldsbrough delivered the usual addresses to the W. Master and to the brethren of the lodge, and Bro. D. P. Owen, P.M. 998, the address to the Wardens.

On the motion of the W.M., seconded by the S.Warden, and carried by acclamation, the best thanks of the lodge were voted to the R.W.G. Master for his kindness in honouring the lodge with his presence.

The R.W.P.G.M. acknowledged the compliment and said, it gave him great pleasure to be present that day, and trusted that the delay in consecrating the lodge would not in any way inconvenience the brethren. He congratulated the lodge upon having such a brother to preside over them, one whom he had not known many years, but whom he felt sure would spread the principles of Freemasonry among them.

On the motion of the W.M., seconded by the S.W., Bro. Goldsbrough, P.P.G.S.W., Bro. D. P. Owen, P.M. 998, and Bro. James Salmon, P.P.G.S., P.M. 428, were severally and unanimously elected honorary members of the lodge. Each of the brethren having acknowledged the compliment paid them by the lodge, a number of propositions were made for candidates for initiation and joining members. Hearty good wishes to the W.M. and the lodge were expressed on behalf of several lodges, and the lodge was closed in ancient form. The brethren, upwards of sixty in number, partook of an excellent banquet provided by Bro. W. Russell, at the Town Hall, the banqueting room of which was elaborately decorated with flowers, evergreens, flags, &c. The usual toasts followed. In giving "The health of the Queen," the W.M. said—At all social meetings the first toast is the Sovereign of the country, thereby acknowledging the fealty due to the head of the realm; times out of number has this toast been given and received by Her Majesty's subjects, so dear is it that it is, as it were, always fresh, but when we, as Freemasons, add to it "the Craft," it doubly shows the allegiance we hold to the Sovereign of this land, our ancient charges directing us always to pay due respect to the Sovereign of any land that may for a time become the place of our residence. How proud we must feel in thinking that our chief and greatest respect is paid to one so eminent in her station as our Queen. Brethren, long may she live enshrined in our hearts, and now that she has taken again to the discharge of the active duties of her high station, may she more and more feel that our best wishes are constantly expressed that she may be spared for many years to come to guide and govern us aright. The toast having been duly honoured,

The W.M. said—Our next allegiance is due to the Masonic Monarch of that world of Masonry comprised under the Constitution of England. When we consider the close alliance between the two Sovereigns, how much more must it enhance our loyalty and feelings of regard to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, our Most Worshipful Grand Master. Brethren, you all know better than I can tell you how for the last six months he has been working, harder than many of us would care to experience, in order that his mother's subjects in the far distant countries of India may feel, not only in name but in deed, they are part and parcel of this great Empire, as much thought of and cared for as those whose circumstances bring them day after day close to the throne. He has been spreading the benefits of Freemasonry far and wide; amongst his first acts on landing was to attend a Masonic gathering, such an one as had never before been seen in India, thereby proving the universality of our noble science. Brethren, whilst thinking, our Grand Master, let us not forget his Consort, the Princess of Wales; think of the many anxious days she had whilst separated from all that was near and dear to her—think how she stifled the feelings of the wife in never once permitting fears to outweigh what she considered the performance of a great duty, knowing as she did the unhealthy climate the Prince of Wales was going to. Now let us rejoice with her that he has safely returned once more to enliven our gatherings with his presence.

The W.M. proposed "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Master, and Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Lodge of England," dwelling upon the great services rendered by them during the absence of the M.W.G.M. in India.

The W.M.: I must now ask you to drink to "The Health of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master of North Wales and Shropshire." (Immense cheering.) The reception you have given at the bare mention of the toast will prove more to Sir Watkin than any words of mine can possibly do the deep and great feelings of love that we Masons of this Province have for our Provincial Grand Master. Whom could we have at our head that more thoroughly enters into our wishes as regards the promotion of Freemasonry in the Province than our present head—but recently arrived in England after a long absence, almost his first act was to fix days for consecrating new lodges? Here to-day, to-morrow at Newtown. Right Worshipful Sir, as this is the first lodge you have visited within the Principality since your happy return amongst us, allow me to be so presumptuous as, in the names of the Freemasons of the Principality, to most heartily congratulate you on your complete restoration to health. Brethren, when drinking the health of our Most Worshipful Grand Master, we joined thereto the health of his Consort. In drinking the health of Sir Watkin let us add to the toast a name highly honoured amongst us, that of "Lady Wynn," the partner of the joys and sorrows of our Right Worshipful Grand Master. Right Worshipful Sir, let me add, that amongst the many pleasing reminiscences of this auspicious day, the most prominent in the minds of the brethren of the Llanidloes Lodge will be that they were the first in North Wales to have the great pleasure of receiving you and congratulating you upon your return, and allow me, Right Worshipful Sir, on their behalf, to thank you for coming here to-day to honour us with your presence, and consecrating our lodge. (Cheers.)

Sir Watkin—I beg to return thanks for the kind way in which you have received my health. I told you in the lodge room I regretted that my absence from England caused the delay in my attending to the consecration of this lodge. Connected as I am with this part of the county by old ties, and by ties of property, I did not like that this lodge should be opened by deputy. Having been mixed up with this county in various ways for so many years I, selfishly, perhaps, did not wish to depute the honour to other persons, although I know Lord Harlech would have done so more to your satisfaction, as he has more power of oratory. (No, no.) I have taken that liberty, and I apologise for having done so. As soon as I returned from abroad I wished to come here, but through the death of my brother-in-law I was obliged to ask you to have it postponed. I trust you will pardon the liberty I took. I went abroad for the benefit of my health, and had an advantage which I fear many of you have not had—a charming winter. During my absence from England I scarcely saw a shower of rain or felt a cold day. I had also the archaeological and Masonic advantage of seeing the remains of that great temple which Solomon built. When you pass over the surface of the ground the remains can be little seen; but when you go down below it is curious to see the vaults, and it astonishes one to think how, before the times of steam power and derricks, such mighty stones were put into their places; it is a wonderful sight. I had the advantage of seeing the lodges of Malta, and it is a pleasure to see, even in those distant countries, how they respect the rites of Freemasonry. As to the good of Masonry, it is one of those powerful bodies which extend over nearly the whole of the world in all liberal countries (I believe in some countries it is feared it may do harm). If you look over the Book of Constitutions, its tenets are, Fear God, Honour the Queen. I beg again to thank you for the kindness you have always shown me since I have had the honour to preside over this Provincial Grand Lodge. Before I sit down I must express to you how much Lady Williams Wynn will feel when I tell her how kindly you have received her name. She passed a great deal of her early life in a country where Masonry is as much looked up to as it is in England—the country from which the Princess of Wales comes; and I believe the Prince of Wales was induced to enter Masonry because both in Sweden and in Denmark he had heard of the benefit and good of Masonry. Though, of course, it might be a regret to us that he was made a Mason in another country, it is a great pleasure to all Masons that he presides over us. I trust he will some time, though long hence, rule over this country. I regret extremely to say that during the last few days I was in London, from what I heard, the Prince of Wales is not likely to come into the Principality this year. After the exertions he has undergone in India he requires rest. He was unable to be present at the Derby, and he has now gone into the country.

The W.M. then proposed "The Health of Lord Harlech, the Deputy Prov. G. Master, and the Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge," and expressed the regret which he knew all must feel that the state of his lordship's health did not permit of his being present. He also said, with respect to the other Provincial Grand Officers, he would not trouble them with many remarks on the way in which they carried out the duties of their respective offices, but could not overlook two of the officers whose duties were more permanent than those of others. He alluded to their highly-respected and esteemed Provincial Grand Treasurer and the Provincial Grand Secretary (Bro. Spaul), and coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Spaul.

The R.W. Prov. G. Master—I am going to take up the gavel. We have arrived at the toast of the evening, and we have to return thanks to the Llanidloes Lodge for the kind reception they have given us; and we have to congratulate them on the promise of their being one of the very efficient lodges of the province; and I shall call upon you to drink to their prosperity. As to Bro. Collender, I have not known him for very many years. He is one of those Masons who have come into this country and who have worked for the good of Masonry. He is one of those who have been among the active Masons, and I beg to propose his health.

The W.M. said—Right Worshipful Grand Master, I return you sincere thanks for the very kind way in which you have proposed my health as Master of Llanidloes Lodge. I can assure you that the success of to-day is not in any way attributable to myself, but to the other founders of the lodge. When I was invited to become the first Master of the lodge I felt it was a duty incumbent on me, and one which I think is incumbent on every Mason when called upon to do so, to accept the office. Having accepted that office in which you, Right Worshipful Sir, have been pleased to place me this day, nothing shall be wanting on my part to place this lodge in that position in the province it is entitled to. As the time is getting on, and time and train wait for no man, I will only again return you my sincere thanks for proposing my health, and my brethren for so kindly responding to the toast.

The W.M. said—I have now the pleasing duty to propose to you "The Health of Bro. Goldsbrough." His name is as familiar in the province as a household word. It is now more than 12 years since he came amongst us Masonically, and that as the first Master of No. 998. Since then he has consecrated every new lodge, with one exception, in the province. How many of us must be indebted to him for assistance in placing Freemasonry at our doors. Brethren, to attempt to give you any idea of what Bro. Goldsbrough has done in Masonry is utterly beyond my powers. You have all seen in how impressive a manner he has performed the ceremony of consecration this day. Very Worshipful Sir, on behalf of the Llanidloes Lodge let me sincerely thank you for the great kindness you have done us this day by conducting the ceremonies, and to express our wish that the Great Architect of the Universe will spare you for many years to come, to enable you to repeat for the guidance and instruction of lodges yet to come the beautiful ceremonies of to-day.

Bro. Goldsbrough replied, thanking the W.M. and brethren for the honour they had done him, and congratulated the lodge upon their auspicious commencement, and wished the W.M. and brethren every prosperity.

The W.M., in proposing "The Visitors," remarked that amongst the great pleasures of Masonry is that of welcoming in our lodges and at the festive board visiting brethren. He thanked the visitors for so materially assisting in the pleasure of the day by their presence, and in aiding so greatly in launching the new ship so propitiously, and expressed the hope that the brightness of the present might be only the promise of many such visits, and assuring them that the Llanidloes Lodge would be only too glad to welcome them. The W.M. coupled with this toast the name of the R.W. Bro. Major Phillips, P.G.M. for the western division of South Wales.

R.W. Bro. Major Phillips replied, acknowledging the compliment, and expressed the great gratification he felt in having been present on the occasion, and in being introduced to the Provincial Grand Master of North Wales and Shropshire.

The W.M. proposed "The Health of the Officers of the Lodge," to which the Senior Warden, Bro. W. Daviss, and the Junior Warden, Bro. Kitto, replied.

The Tyler's toast brought to a close the proceedings of a day long to be remembered by the Craft in Llanidloes. The pleasure of the evening was greatly enhanced by the singing of Bros. Dunaille, Hazlitt, Roscoe, and Russell.

Masonic and General Tidings.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has intimated, through the Duke of Westminster, that he is unable to accept the invitation to be present at the National Welsh Eisteddfod to be held at Wrexham on Aug. 28 and three following days.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, attended by the Dowager Marchioness of Ely, Lieut.-General Biddulph, Mr. Sahl, and Mdlle. Norèle, left Balmoral on Wednesday afternoon for Windsor Castle, where the Royal train arrived at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning.

There are now in Pennsylvania fifty-five commanderies of Knights Templars and over 6000 Knights. In New York there are fifty-two commanderies and 7577 Knights. In the United States there are 539 commanderies and over 45,000 Knights.

ANTI-MASONIC PETITION.—A lengthy and extensively signed petition to the coming General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America against Freemasonry, and urging that all Freemasons be made to either leave the lodge or the church, is being "circulated in this city. It is stated, on good authority, that Deacon Atwater and others of the elders, for some reason or other, positively refused to sign it."—Grand Rapids Democrat.

STATE BALL.—The second State ball at Buckingham Palace is fixed for Tuesday, the 4th prox.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Worcester held a meeting on Tuesday, at Dudley, about 120 brethren attending. A report will appear in our next.

Tuesday was the 39th anniversary of Her Majesty's accession to the Throne.

IMPOSTOR.—A woman, representing herself as the widow of a Knight Templar, H. E. Smith, of Leeds, England, is becoming quite notorious in the western part of Pennsylvania for her impositions upon the Masonic fraternity as an applicant for charities. She secured a considerable sum in Pittsburgh and at several other places.

SPARKLING AVALON.—There is a sunny suggestion of gracefulness and beauty in the name itself, which rings on the ear like an echo of the classic chimes of ancient verse, or the picturesque word-music of mediæval romance, and which, in truth, is in harmony with its origin, history, and—shall it be said—present signification. The monkish chronicles of Glastonbury tell of the first; Tennyson's Mort d'Arthur enshrines a glowing passage, describing the charms of the Valley of Avalon (or Valley of Apples), as a contribution to the second; whilst the Devon Vintage Company's great discovery—a thorough sparkling wine (as advertised in our columns) made from the "Must," or "Most," of the apple, and therefore appositely entitled "Sparkling Avalon"—embodies the last. Nor is the phrase "great discovery" an exaggerated one, considering that it opens up a new native industry, which must in time take rank with those of the first importance—employing a large amount of indigenous labour, and economising the millions we now spend annually on foreign vinous productions. For let it be distinctly understood that the discovery of a method for perfecting the process of converting the "must" of the apple into genuine wine—a process long known and of admitted importance, but the perfecting of which had never before been accomplished, though persistently attempted in the districts of France and Germany, and also in this country—gives us, not a pleasant wine-like beverage, but a true, finished, pure, sparkling wine itself, which improves with age, and is equal in all other respects—qualities, properties, and effects—to many of the productions of Epernay—a fact demonstrated in Government Analysts' and other scientific reports, and eagerly recognised by the first wine critics of the day. As the company are now supplying the vintage of 1873, lovers of "foaming wine" are confidently recommended to test the merits of a discovery which places within their reach, at a moderate cost, a genuine English wine of merited excellence.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF OXFORD.

Stephens, Prov. G. Tyler; and Geo. Norwood, P.G.T.

Grand Lodge having been formally opened, the minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge and the Provincial Grand Lodge of Emergency of 23rd January, whereat His Royal Highness Prince Leopold was installed Provincial Grand Master, were read and confirmed.

Bro. Reginald Bird, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, then read the reports of the different lodges within his jurisdiction, and at its conclusion he thought, from what he had read, the brethren need have no fear of being injured in the province. It seemed to him that the lodges were both increasing in number and in the balance of money which they had in hand. He was very glad to see that they were not spending all their resources in banquets, but that they were reserving something for more enduring objects.

Bro. Bird afterwards read the report of the Charity Committee of the province, which showed what brethren had served the office of Stewards of the different Masonic institutions. It also showed that every candidate which the committee had taken in hand to support at the different charity elections during the year, had been elected the great benefit there was to be derived from a combination of votes. As a proof of this he read the following letter which he had received from the Albany Lodge, Newport, Isle of Wight, whose Tyler for many years the Charity Committee of Oxfordshire supported with their votes.

Albany Hall, Newport, Isle of Wight,
12th June, 1876.

To the Right Worshipful Bro. H.R.H. Prince Leopold, K.G., Provincial Grand Master; the W. Bro. Reginald Bird, M.A., Deputy Provincial Grand Master; and the Charity Committee of the Province of Oxfordshire.

We, the Worshipful Master, Past Masters, officers and brethren of the Albany Lodge, No. 151, Newport, Isle of Wight, in open lodge assembled, beg leave most fraternally to tender our heartfelt thanks for the very generous support given by the Province of Oxfordshire to the case of Henry Tarrant Dashwood, the old Tyler of the Albany Lodge, and Past Prov. G. Tyler to the late Province of the Isle of Wight, one of the newly-admitted for the benefit of annuity from the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons. The votes from the Province of Oxfordshire in conjunction with the whole of the votes of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen enabled the brother representing the case at the election (10th May) to feel sure of Bro. Dashwood being elected (so far as surety may be anticipated) had a poll taken place.

Signed on behalf of the lodge,

GEORGE WYATT, P.M. and Treas., Pro. Sec., No. 151,
E. W. WATTS, M.A., W.M., No. 151.

(Cheers.)

Bro. Bird announced that the brethren who had gained the charity jewel were Bros. Cooper Smith, Pro. G.J.W.; Beade and Williamson; and that those brethren who were entitled to wear the bar in addition to the jewel were Bros. Long, Morrell, Fox and Clarke. (Cheers.)

Bro. Morrell moved the adoption and reception of the report, and this having been seconded was put to the meeting and carried.

A brother then rose and said that after the success which had attended the labours of the Charity Committee for the year he thought that the very least this Provincial Grand Lodge could do was to return them their hearty thanks, and he begged to move that the hearty thanks of the Grand Lodge be given to the Charity Committee.

This was seconded and carried.

Bro. Thos. Randall, Prov. G. Treas., said it should be borne in mind that great ends had been accomplished by the province having secured in three or four elections, after great exertions by members of the province, and several out of it, the election of candidates. They were of course desirous at all times to reciprocate any assistance they received. From one lodge in Sussex, through the Grand Registrar, this province obtained 170 or 180 votes for one candidate, and he had much pleasure in saying that those votes were to a unit returned. From other parts they also received great favour during the past year. The fund of benevolence attached to Grand Lodge of England had given £200 to members of lodges in the province of Oxfordshire. (Hear, hear.) Under these circumstances, he thought that addressing the Prov. G. Lodge as the oldest member in the room, he was not out of place at all in appealing to the individual members of the lodges to place themselves in a position of returning these favours, by subscribing to the Masonic Charities and thereby obtaining votes. Many young members must see how much the honour of the province was involved in their being able to do a great deal for the charities; and he trusted that the satisfactory results of the Charity Committee's labours might be backed up by the individual subscriptions of the younger members of the lodge. If the Schools and the Masonic Benevolent Institution were supported by the province in a manner commensurate with the favours the province had received during the past year the brethren of this province would indeed be zealous in promoting the interests of the Craft. He strongly urged upon the brethren individually to subscribe to the charities and thereby support the province. He, however, hoped he would be pardoned for bringing the subject under the notice of the brethren (Hear, hear.)

At this point His Royal Highness, Prince Leopold, Prov. G. Master, attended by Bros. the Hon R. H. Collins, C.B., and Walter James Douglas Campbell, entered the lodge, and took his seat on the throne and was saluted in due form.

The Grand Treasurer reported that his accounts had been properly audited and found correct.

Bro. Reginald Bird proposed that Bro. Randall be re-elected Treasurer of the province. He had held the office for many years, and had performed its duties in the most satisfactory possible way to the members of the province. He had acted most faithfully in the discharge of his duties, and had been able to put a sum to the credit of the province which had been of the greatest use to it in time of need. He thought that the members of the province could not do better than re-elect Bro. Randall as the Prov. Grand Treasurer. (Applause.)

Bro. R. J. Spiers, Past Deputy Provincial Grand Master, seconded the motion. For many years he had known Bro. Randall well, and found that in his position of Prov. Grand Treasurer he had been of great service to the province.

Bro. Randall was then re-elected Grand Treasurer for the province unanimously, and amidst great applause.

The R.W. Prov. Grand Master afterwards distributed the charity jewels to Bros. Cooper Smith, Reade, and Williamson, and the extra bar to Bros. Long, Morrell, Fox, and Clarke. His Royal Highness then said: I appoint Bro. Reginald Bird to be my Deputy. (Cheers.)

Bro. Bird thanked his Royal Highness very much for the appointment, and added that he highly appreciated the honour.

The following brethren were next called up to the throne to receive investiture at the hands of His Royal Highness in their various offices:—

Bros. Jules Bue, M.A., Worshipful Master of the Alfred Lodge, 340, Provincial Grand Senior Warden; H. Offley Wakeman, B.A., Fellow of All Souls College, W.M. of the Churchill Lodge, 478, Grand Junior Warden; the Rev. R.W.M. Pope, M.A., Worcester College, Worshipful Deputy Master of the Apollo University Lodge, 357, and the Rev. J. Spittal, M.A., W.M. of the Cherwell Lodge, 599, Grand Chaplains; Alderman T. Randall, Alfred Lodge, Grand Treasurer; W. Peppercorn, Churchill Lodge, Grand Registrar; J. E. C. Bodley, Balliol College, Apollo Lodge, Grand Secretary; T. B. Brown, Marlborough Lodge, 1399, Senior Grand Deacon; J. Reade, Bowyer Lodge, 1035, Junior Grand Deacon; F. W. Ansell, Alfred Lodge, 340, Grand Supt. of Works; C. G. Paget, Christ Church, Apollo Lodge; G. Campbell, B.A., Exeter Lodge, Apollo Lodge, Grand Dir. of Ceremonies; J. Jenkin, Berrie Lodge, 1515, G. Sword Bearer; W. Tarrant, B. Mus., Magdalen College, Apollo Lodge, Grand Organist; F. Dolley, Bertie Lodge, Grand Pursuivant; J. Chapman, Alfred Lodge, Assistant Grand Pursuivant; W. J. Douglas Campbell, St. Alban Hall, Apollo Lodge; N. N. Glencross, Exeter College, Churchill Lodge; F. Hedges, B.A., Exeter College, Churchill Lodge; H. H. Parry, T. F. Plowman, Churchill Lodge; H. Harris, Bertie Lodge, Grand Stewards; and Bros. W. Stephens and G. Norwood, Grand Tylers.

On the motion of Provincial Grand Treasurer, Bro. Randall, the usual vote of ten guineas was given to the Masonic institutions; and another ten guineas to the Oxford Local Charities; three guineas of the latter to be given to the Radcliffe Infirmary.

Bro. Spiers seconded the motion, and said that the Freemasons of Oxford did not forget the local charities. Freemasons as a body, although they contributed large sums to their own special institutions, never forgot the wants of those of the outside world, but were always ready to assist them. (Cheers.)

On the motion of Prince Leopold, seconded by Bro.

Bird, a vote of congratulation to the Prince of Wales on his safe return to England was unanimously adopted.

Grand Lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to banquet at the Clarendon Hotel, where his Royal Highness presided, and proposed the toasts of the evening. The brethren did not separate till a late hour.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.
SUMMER ENTERTAINMENT TO THE AGED ANNUITANTS.

[The following appeared in our second edition last week.]

On Tuesday evening the Summer Entertainment to the aged inmates of the Asylum at Croydon was given by the friend and supporters of the Institution, several of whom took part in the performances. With the exception of a slight shower of rain the weather was very favourable, and enabled the visitors to walk about the grounds, which have been recently put in nice order, the walks being beautifully gravelled, the grass neatly trimmed, and the borders supplied with a good show of flowers and shrubs. For the latter both the inmates and friends of the Institution are indebted to the late lamented Bro. Cutbush, who during his lifetime made repeated gifts of these valuable additions to the horticultural beauty of the place. Bro. James Terry, the Secretary of the Institution, at whose suggestion periodical entertainments to the annuitants were first established, secured the services of several well-known dramatic and musical friends to produce a programme for the evening which should be acceptable to all. By the kind permission of the House Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, the brass band of the School, consisting at present of nineteen of the boys, attended with their musical instruments, and played, with very great taste and considerable ability, some good selections of modern music in a tent set up in the grounds. This was the commencement of the proceedings, and filled up the early portion of the evening before all the visitors had arrived. On the arrival of these visitors they first partook of tea, at which Mrs. Terry kindly presided. The signature-book at this time bore the following names:—A. Johnson, W. E. Newton, J. Carter, John Constable, Frederick Binckes, Richard Percy, Charles K. Killick, John G. Stevens, Theo. Distin, T. Lawler, jun., Robt. H. Halford, Mrs. Terry, Miss Terry, W. J. Crutch, Mrs. Percy, Mrs. Halford, Mrs. Morris, Edwin G. Legge, J. Newton, Geo. E. Fairchild, Richard M. Marsh, Joseph Stock, Mrs. Stock, Geo. Blizard Abbott, W. Morgan, Geo. Lee Knill, W. F. Taunton, Wm. Lane, H. Massey ("Freemason"), Mrs. Crutch, Raynham W. Stewart, and Bro. Terry.

When tea was disposed of the party paid visits to the old ladies and brethren in their homes, and were shown the different arrangements for their happiness and comfort. The performances after tea commenced about half-past six, when the annuitants were summoned by sound of bell to assemble in the pretty hall of the Institution, where seats were commodiously arranged, and all the best places reserved for the inmates of the asylum. The hall was tastefully decorated, and some choice ferns and flowers lent for the occasion by Dr. Strong, added very materially to the general ornamentation. Miss Terry opened the musical portion of the entertainment by singing to her own accompaniment on the piano, "La Pepita," and her execution of the music, as well as the superiority of her voice, was commended by the professional musical brethren who were present. Her performance was enthusiastically applauded, and, had time permitted, she would have been called on to favour the company with some further selections. But there was a programme of great length before the audience, and everything had to be concluded by ten o'clock, after which time the trains to town were but scarce. Mr. George E. Fairchild, well-known as a public reader of considerable eminence, read, "The Honourable Mrs. George Augustus Figgington Flasher," in a style which was unexceptionable, and convulsed his hearers with laughter. Mr. Fred Stevens, the son of Bro. John G. Stevens, gave some comic songs in character, which rather took the company by surprise, as they were unprepared for the appearance of a dramatic wardrobe in so quiet an abode as the Benevolent Institution. It was, however, a most acceptable novelty and was received with the strongest marks of approval. The execution of the songs was exceedingly humorous, and deserved all the hearty applause it obtained. Bro. Henry Marston, the popular actor, stirred the assembly by his powerful rendering of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," and gave a specimen of the diversified character of his talents in his comic recitation of the well-known parody of "The Death of Sir John Moore." Mr. Fairchild recited with great vigour the tragic piece "The Pipe," and Mr. Taunton took a different turn by giving some imitations of the Penny Readings, and reproducing some of those curious characters who are to be found at fairs (or rather were to be found at fairs, when such things existed), the peripatetic vendors of the most superior articles that were ever manufactured to win coin from the pockets of unwary clodhoppers.

"Tim Turpin" was given by Bro. John G. Stevens, at the special request of the brethren who have heard him recite this piece before; and on this occasion it may safely be said that he equalled any of his former powerful delineations.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.—More Precious than Gold.—Diarrhoea, Dysentery, and Cholera are, through the summer's heat, carrying off the young as the winter's cold destroyed the aged. In the most acute cases, where internal medicines cannot be retained, the greatest relief will immediately result from rubbing Holloway's soothing Ointment over the abdomen. The friction should be frequent and brisk, to insure the free penetration of the Unguent. This will calm the excited peristaltic action, and soothe the pain. Both vomiting and griping yield to it; when fruits or vegetables have originated the malady, it is proper to cleanse the bowels by a moderate dose of Holloway's Pills (before using the Ointment).—ADVT.

MASONIC SACRIFICES.

It is pleasant always to note in this unsatisfactory world of ours how practice and profession, deeds and words, go hand in hand. It is very agreeable, whether for the philosopher or the moralist, to realize calmly and clearly that the "outcome" of humanitarian assertions and of mortal strivings is something a good deal better every way than "sounding brass or tinkling cymbal." For, after all, reality is a very great thing indeed, in life and among men, and nothing is so painful as the sad awakening to the fact, oftentimes true, that after all is said and done, the taint of hollowiness and insincerity too often underlies the eloquence of the eloquent, and vitiates the efforts of the energetic, and therefore it is very refreshing to note to-day what very great sacrifices Freemasons often make for Masonic literature. Indeed, it is not too much to say that they are very striking indeed. Editors may perplex their weary brains, publishers may draw continually on their bankers' account, in order to keep Masonic literature afloat, but these are secondary considerations—the zeal of the Order and the spirit of self-sacrifice which Freemasonry enjoins and Freemasons evidence in regard to literature as well as other matters render the progress of Masonic literature, per se, plain, easy, and lucrative. No cares attend its onward progress, no doubts or fears affect the question of its success; and the satisfactory balance-sheets of contemporary enterprises in the Masonic literary world prove how incontestably Freemasons recognize the duty of supporting their own press and their own serials. Bro. Gouley, in America, could tell a sensational tale how much Masonic literature owes to the sacrifices of his brethren, and even in England there would be no difficulty, we think, in laying a case before our readers, starting alike in its simplicity and certainty, in the facts it evidences, and in the spirit it illustrates. Have our readers followed us? We are not going to-day to find fault or to complain. We do not even presume to criticize, much less to condemn. But in the interest of all Masonic literature, not ourselves alone, we do wish to point out to our many excellent brethren the absurdity of the position in which they place all who cater for the literary tastes of the Order, and, above all, in which they place themselves. We have always been above appeals "ad misericordiam," or anything else. We ask for no one's support, just as we quarrel with no one who thinks Masonic literature either a luxury or a bore. We can hold our own against all comers, and, please God, we mean to do so, relying on the friendly support and ready encouragement of a weekly increasing circle of readers and of friends. We are speaking the simple truth, in no spirit of boasting or swagger. The advertising business is not before us just now, and we are not writing for effect, but for "conscience sake." We think it very hard indeed that brethren should be so careless or so apathetic, so uninterested and so little in earnest, that it is a matter of total indifference to them how here, at home, or anywhere, in fact, Masonic literature can be supported and encouraged. Some brethren are like the idle child of old, who would not take the trouble to pick the pear, but expected it to drop into its mouth; and many of our kind friends appear to think that our publisher, like other publishers, is to provide a Masonic literature at almost cost price to them. They forget that, week by week, literature, like a great machine, requires oiling to go on; that somebody must pay editors, readers, compositors, folders, &c., &c.; and that Masonic literature has no endowments, and unless they help is not very likely to be self-supporting. Is it not provoking, though very ridiculous, not to say contemptible at the same time, for us to receive the announcement: "Discontinue, I can see the paper in the news room;" "Discontinue, I am going to join with a brother;" "Discontinue, I did not like that article;" "Discontinue, I don't approve of the insertion of this letter;" "Discontinue, I have not time to read a Masonic paper?" Such, we venture to say, is unfortunately the feeling of utter indifference by which too many are actuated everywhere at home and abroad as regards Masonic literature, and no wonder that it has to wage a very uphill battle nearly everywhere. If it is important that we should have from time to time trustworthy accounts of our Masonic progress, if the words of eloquent speakers are to be reported, and the acts of higher and humbler Masonic bodies duly chronicled, if it is a duty incumbent on Freemasons to give a generous and fraternal hand to Masonic literature, then we all of us need a reform and an amendment, alike in our views and ways on this subject. We began in a lighter tone, we have become more serious as we have gone on; but we do not wish to be misunderstood. If Bro. Potter likes to read his "Freemason" in the news room, instead of having his own independent copy—price 2d.—let him do so. If Bro. Peppercorn prefers to read his "Freemason," or any other paper, with Bro. Bloxam, pray let him do so; if good Bro. Fluffey, that eloquent old P.M., sees the "Freemason" at his lodge, "à la bonne heure" we don't complain. Only we wish to say this, that while such facts are amusing per se, as showing the value some brethren put on Masonic literature, the effect of it all is to render Masonic literature more and more independent in itself, and perhaps after all it is as well. Cliqueism, like many other wars, has done more to ruin the Masonic press than anything else, in our opinion, and we rejoice to feel and to know that despite the fluctuating interest and necessary vicissitudes of all Masonic literature, the very independence of the "Freemason" seems to be more and more acceptable to a liberal-minded Craft. With a hearty laugh thus at the idiosyncracies of some of our good correspondents and readers, we pass from this tempting subject, like the French Assembly, to the "order of the day," and hoisting manfully our old and honest flag as an independent Masonic paper, stand upon our own merits, claiming favour or subsidy, partiality or patronage, from None.

THE PRESENT TENDENCY OF FREEMASONRY.

We must not and should not shut our eyes to the fact, and a very serious one it is, that there is growing amongst us a very low state of feeling as regards the intent of Freemasonry. With many it is openly assuming the theory of a benefit Order, with others that same idea, if not publicly avowed, is privately and practically held. A great many new members join us, it is to be feared, for the material position and prospects of the Order. Not a few put down their money to-day freely enough, but with the expressed look out for a rainy day for themselves and theirs. Now this, we venture to think, is entirely wrong, and if not checked must lead to the degradation and ruin of Freemasonry. Freemasonry is in no wise a benefit Order, and cannot be; it offers no "quid pro quo," it promises no return for money invested, it says to no one, pay in so much now and you shall have so much out hereafter; it knows nothing of the position or principles of a monetary society, taking so much and repaying so much. Lord Zetland warned the Order years ago that Freemasonry had nothing in it akin to a benefit society, and his warning seems to be needed even at this hour. Many of our brethren talk as if Freemasonry was a great treasury, so to say, from which Freemasons were to draw "ad libitum," and that having paid in so much they had a right to claim its assistance, and share in its good things. Now we have always contended, and always shall contend that there is no "contract," so to speak, in the matter. All that Freemasonry gives, and does, in the way of eleemosynary help, Freemasonry gives and does on the great broad principle of true Masonic compassion and benevolence alone. For the "decayed Freemason," for the widow of a brother, for the orphan sons and daughters of deceased members of the Craft, it has always words of sympathy and deeds of love. But it is to be feared, that even in this, its generosity is abused, and its aid is sometimes unduly obtained. Many it is to be feared are placed in our schools, for instance, whom friends and relatives might well support and educate at home, and on this point the moral conscience of many persons is somewhat lax, in respect of claiming aid from a generous Order, and so saving their own pockets. But here comes in the unsound teaching. Bro. Johnson has paid seven years to his lodge, the "Amity," and when Bro. Johnson dies he leaves a widow and an infant family. The friends say "We are well to do," but as there are those charities, and as Bro. Johnson has paid for seven years let him claim the benefits of his own Order." Now it is assumed that all candidates placed on our educational charities, for instance, are fit and proper cases, that is to say, cases in which, through want of means, the family is unable to discharge the duties which would have devolved on the father had he lived, and as the poor child thus sues for our help, "in forma pauperis," and the Order steps forward "in loco parentis" to aid, to educate, and to fit, in as far as in it lies the child of our brother for the rough Broadway of life. But Freemasonry understands, as a "petitio principia," that the candidates would not apply for Masonic aid, unless such aid was indispensable, unless it was the natural condition of affairs. If, then, any to-day put forward candidates for our charities whom well-to-do relatives could take care of, they are not fulfilling their part of the implied understanding. They are in fact, trespassing on the golden generosity of the Craft, and doing injury to the claims of others actually in need of all possible assistance. We admit that there are some difficulties in the matter. We speak from careful consideration of the subject, and we will give an illustration of what we mean. Bro. Robinson dies, a young man, and a full paying member. Had he lived he would have been a prosperous man. But the Great Architect of the Universe has taken him suddenly away, and his widow, with four children, is nearly penniless. She has rich relations. One rich relation says, "I am willing to assist you, but I have children of my own, and I do not see that I am called upon to educate your children." Now though we may consider such conduct, perhaps morally, as moralists, looking beyond technicalities of the law, &c., yet the man cannot be compelled to do what he willingly will not do. And what then is the widow to do? What are Freemasons to do? Is the child to starve, or grow up like a brute beast, while we and a hard-hearted relative dispute as to the binding nature of moral obligations, or what are moral obligations in this respect? Certainly not? We must step in, and we must try to educate the orphan and aid the widow. But if we could get rid of these mistaken views, lurking in our midst about "value received," about "legitimate returns," about our claim for "material benefit" from Freemasonry, we should, we think, rise to a higher level, as to the way we look at our Masonic Charities generally. For "mutatis mutandis" the same argument applies no doubt, in a greater or less manner, as regards all our Masonic Benevolent Institutions. They simply would become charities for the suffering and needy, purely charities, not a return for subscriptions and donations, not the result of an investment of capital for a rainy day, not a righteous claim, not a benefit we demand, but the simple and bonâ fide offering of pure Masonic benevolence, to bind up the wounds of our suffering brotherhood, to pour on the wine and oil of sympathy, into pining homesteads and aching hearts. To show how all this false principle is working, let us look at the programme of the proposed new Grand Lodge of Ontario, in the "Daily Toronto Globe" of May 27th. We say nothing now of this new movement and separation. Probably on the principles of Grand Lodge formation laid down in the Canadas, it is as logical as any other formation, though we say this not knowing anything of the merits of the case, and simply on an abstract consideration of Canadian precedents. But that new programme boldly asserts the necessity of a "solatium" in case of death, a weekly payment in case of sickness or accident out of the funds of Grand Lodge or Provincial Grand Lodge, for all the members, thus boldly avowing a beneficial and "quid pro quo" principle in Freemasonry, and reducing Freemasonry—nay, we will say degrading Freemasonry—to the level of a benefit order. Whatever else the new Grand Lodge of Ontario may be, it cannot claim to be Masonic, in our opinion, and if, these, its first principles, be openly acted upon and upheld, we cannot suppose that any Grand Lodge of genuine Freemasonry will in any way recognise it, or look upon as a Masonic Order, since if a benefit order, it ceases to be a Grand Lodge or private lodge of Freemasons. Let us be on our guard then against any tendency amongst us, open or implied, to abandon our noble principles of gratuitous and generous donations, of a true charity for the secondary, and we must add, mere selfish assertion of beneficial claims. We do not deny that benefit orders are good, per se, but what we contend for is that Freemasonry is not and never can be a mere beneficial order, and that if you seek to incorporate into Freemasonry the axioms and claims of a benefit society you are paving the way for the inevitable decay and destruction of Freemasonry.

WHAT THE MASONIC PRESS MAY AND SHOULD BE.

In this our third article on the subject we wish to write as briefly as we well may, fearing that we may otherwise exhaust the patience of our readers. That a Masonic press is advisable and important, valuable and needful, to-day, we venture to think; that it may be a great aid to true Freemasonry we also hold, but then it must avoid some of the errors and quicksands which have abounded in its previous course. One great defect as regards the Masonic press has been its personality. It is lamentable to think what scurrility has sometimes found its way into Masonic columns. As the representatives of a brotherhood professing fraternal love as its keynote, it would be amusing, were it not so saddening, to observe this inconsistency of humanity. Some of the most personal, and we will add, vulgar, productions we ever read have emanated from a Masonic penman, writing, moreover, "ad fratres." Strange inconsistency, but so it is. Now in saying this do not let any suppose that we underrate the importance of the real "hitch of the matter," the actual difficulties of the case. It is no doubt sometimes hard to restrain a strongish word or epithet, when we have proof before our eyes of the ignorance of the sciolist or the audacity of the charlatan. It is not so easy always to keep within due bounds, the eager disputant, or the keen controversialist, who finds his motives impugned, his words travestied, and his opinions derided by one whom he considers in the nature of things incompetent to pass an opinion on the merits of the case. Many people rush into the pages of a Masonic or profane newspaper whose views are hazy and whose language is most insulting, and hardly a week passes but we see how true it still is that "fools enter in where angels fear to tread." And hence a little latitude must always exist for honest indignation, and critical severity, for the laudable exposure of the impostor and impertinent, for the ardent language and glowing fervour of the injured, the assailed, or the defamed. But having said this, we feel that we have made all needful allowances for the exigencies of passing controversies and excitable writers, and we are bound, it appears to us, to set our face against all press personalities. The imputation of evil motives, the covert insinuation, the open falsehood, the violence of some "feeble forcible," and the mistaken vehemence of some amateur libeller are all things "bene notanda," and "bene evitanda" in Masonic journalism. Freemasonry will rise much higher in the opinion of the outside world, when Masonic papers put on one side that embittering tone which too often mars and degrades their pages, when Masonic controversies can be conducted in a spirit of fairness and toleration, and when all of attempted bullying, or browbeating, or absurd assumption, or unreasoning dogmatism, shall have passed away from Masonic pamphleteers, and Masonic disputants, never to return. The judgment of the world, based on the evidence of the Masonic press, is too often unfavourable to Freemasonry on the ground that its practice does not square with its profession—that it says one thing and does the very contrary; and that while it openly asserts as its leading principles, the teaching of a charitable, elevated, tolerant, benevolent brotherhood, Freemasons shew themselves to be very often in the press the most intolerant, the most uncharitable, the most vulgar, and the most abusive of mankind. These are hardish words, but they are true, and, above all, they are needed, whether popular or unpopular, acceptable or unacceptable. And another point for the Masonic press to avoid is ritual publication. We have fallen into "evil courses" in this respect, and must retrace our steps. We have been publishing far too much about the "arcana" and "aporrata" of our Order, and must hold our hands. There is plenty of ground for Masonic writers to travel over and for Masonic publications to dwell upon, without loading our pages with unwise discussions upon ritual and ceremonial. Masonic archæology has plenty of hope for the student and the teacher, and except for the sake of illustration, ceremonial ought not to be dwelt upon by Masonic writers. We have latterly excluded all ritual discussions from the "Freemason," and we shall continue to do so. There is quite sufficient in the current news of the day, in the abstract principles of Freemasonry, in the onward progress of Masonic affairs at home and abroad, and, above all, in the interesting study of the annals and antiquities of our great Order, to occupy the leisure of the Masonic correspondent, to lend force to the exhortation of the Masonic teacher, to enliven the contribution of the Masonic critic, and to claim the close attention of the Masonic editor. Guided by the principles we have laid down of abstention and caution, we have no doubt ourselves but that the Masonic press has a useful and beneficial, a great and goodly future before it. In all that it seeks to proclaim and to enforce, didactically or hortatory before the Craft, its utterances ought always to be marked by distinct adherence to principle, and an elevated tone in all things. Through evil report or good report, popular or unpopular, it should never truckle to expediency, but should always display before all men that noble banner of blue, on which glitter in letters of gold the talismanic words, Honour, Justice, Loyalty, Charity, Brotherly Love, Toleration, Truth.

BRO. HAVERS'S LETTER IN OUR LAST.

We do not think it well, as the French say, "pour le moment," to anticipate or comment on the course of the discussion which our very able and distinguished Bro. John Havers, J.G.W., has paid us the compliment of commencing in the "Freemason." We do this first because Bro. Havers is a "host" in himself, and perfectly able to fight his own battle most effectively, and secondly because at present as our agreement with Bro. Havers is complete, alike in the abstract and in the concrete, it would almost seem impertinence on our part to intervene in discussion so ably commenced. It may, perhaps be our duty to say a few words before the fraternal and friendly controversy closes, but we do not affect to conceal our opinion that we, like Bro. Havers, greatly deplore the result which Grand Lodge arrived at, and of which, in our opinion, he, not unnaturally, and so forcibly points out, the untoward consequences.

OUR THANK-OFFERING.

Communiqué.

'Tis not so very long ago that our witty contemporary, "Punch," presented us with a ludicrous picture of the way in which it seems good to some men to celebrate any great event. A man finds his friend regaling himself in an eating house, and is amazed at his extravagance—"What! Real Turtle, Smith? and Verison, too, to follow? Why, whatever does this mean?"

"Oh, my dear fellow, this is our wedding day, you know, and I always make a point of commemorating such important occasions."

We confess at the time to being immensely tickled with Smith's greedy self-complacency, but we little thought that we should ever have to write ourselves this very Smith, but this is precisely our position by our Grand Lodge vote at last Quarterly Communication. We are positively going to be so liberal as to spend, as a thank offering, two thousand pounds upon—ourselves. Masonry must have entered upon an entirely new phase, or else the "Rulers of the Craft" must have been led away by some specious argument to the perpetration of one of those solecisms of which, in their calmer moments of reflection, they will be heartily ashamed. What is the state of matters

Bro. Havers, a member of the Order, upon whose bare "ipse dixit" the Craft need never have hesitated to act, pointed out to the brethren a manner in which they could show their gratitude to Almighty God for our Royal Grand Master's safe return, as fully accordant with the principles of the Craft as it was cosmopolitan in its object, inasmuch as in it was involved, in the one case the restoration of the handiwork of the Grand Master who founded our Order here, and in the other case the completion of the design of that other Grand Master who resuscitated that Order from the obscurity into which it had temporarily sunk. Surely no more worthy object could be presented as the work of the Masons of this present day. But no! Why should we step out of our way to do this work? Why spend our money on objects extraneous to the Order? Why spend anything at all? Surely we could record our thanks to the Great Architect, and let that recorded gratitude suffice. But it would hardly do for a charitable body like we are to decline to spend our money upon the embodiment of charity, and so we must find some good excuse for withholding our hand. Hence the parrot-cry of "Denominationalism."

But what is such a cry worth? How can a thing that is national be denominational? And surely, if any one thing in all this realm of ours is national it is Wren's great masterpiece—St. Paul's. If there be any monuments dear to Masons in this kingdom, surely such pre-eminently must be St. Alban's Abbey and Wren's Cathedral. "Denominationalism"—As well might we call the Duke of Bedford's gift of the Bunyan Statue denominational; as well call feeding the starving Hindoo a fostering of the Hindoo religion; as well call the relief that we sent to our French neighbours after their disastrous floods treasonable because they have in times gone by been our implacable foes. Then, what was the miserable peg on which this specious argument was hung? "Some of the Craft are Jews." We should think our Hebrew brethren will be exceedingly obliged to the brother who made this delightful discovery. One word, we should think, would sufficiently dispose of this terrible obstacle to our doing a noble and national act by restoring the House of the Lord. If the King of Tyre had listened to any twaddle about "Denominationalism" (if there were any body in his day so misguided as to give utterance to it, which we very much doubt), where would have been Solomon's temple? Or if the Persian Monarch had taken the same course, where the temple of Zerubbabel?

One such thought of the past and all its hallowed associations, and we are quite sure that there is no Hebrew member of the Craft who would sanction his being thus shown up in the light of an obstructive to the active work of Masonry to-day.

Of that vote of last week, then, we feel heartily ashamed and we are quite sure that every right-minded brother will be of the same opinion. There is, however, one way of making amends for the mistake. The committee are to apply the money to such charitable object as to them shall seem the best. Surely they cannot do better than spend it upon Charity itself. Let them, then, take the bull by the horns, and disarming a factious opposition, wipe away this reproach to the Masonry of to-day by applying the money, over which they have this discretionary power, to the noble and high-minded purpose set before them by our esteemed Bro. Havers.

THE LAST QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I deeply regret that Bro. Havers has thrown so much personal feeling into a matter which should be dealt with only on public grounds. Any brother can see at a glance, from the tone of his letter, that it does not breathe "peace" or "good will."

I must demur to either the taste or the tact which he has displayed in publishing a private note of mine without my consent, or even knowledge. I venture to think he shewed a want in the same direction, but in a much more serious case, by making the use he did of our M.W. Grand Master's name as a lever to propel his motion to a successful issue. As to my letter, I am not sorry he published it.

Even as it stands, without any explanation, I do not think it is inconsistent with any subsequent word or act of mine.

I may, however, say that it was written on May 23rd, immediately on receipt of Bro. Havers's note and copy of motion, that is, before I had had time to carefully consider the subject of it, or to consult even one of my brethren. It was written in a spirit of kindness and humility as addressed to one who was my senior in years and Masonry, and superior to me in everything save zeal for Masonry and independence of thought and action, in both of which I claim to be his equal.

I stand to every word of my letter, but I quite grant that the fortnight that elapsed between my writing it and the meeting of Grand Lodge had strongly increased my objections to Bro. Havers's motion.

But I say now as I wrote then, "I think the plan of giving to St. Paul's and St. Alban's an admirable one per se—that is, in itself and by itself—and 'from my standpoint' (as a clergyman of the Church of England) 'I like the idea very much,' but the plan by itself was one thing, and as paid for out of Grand Lodge funds another. My view as a clergyman merely was a natural one; my opinion as a Mason, and a member of Grand Lodge, was a conscientious one. In the one case I had only to follow my pleasure, in the other to do my duty—a duty from which even the rather overbearing threats held over me before I went into Grand Lodge did not deter me.

Bro. Havers says, "I heard this statement with amazement when I knew that he (Bro. Simpson) had expressed the very reverse opinion to me."

I read this with more than amazement—with sorrow. This statement is purely imaginary, as I never so expressed myself.

On Bro. Havers's lecture to Grand Lodge on selfishness and narrow-mindedness, and on his opinion expressed now as to Grand Lodge's "fatal mistake" and "lowering" policy, I make no comment. Grand Lodge is able to judge for itself—and act for itself too.

The terms in which the motion for a committee is worded leave the widest field for proposal, in fact, leave everything open except St. Paul's and St. Alban's. Let us hope that Bro. Havers will accept a place on that committee, and that he has more than "one blessing" to bestow on his brethren, and more than one idea with which to commemorate the safe return of one illustrious Grand Master whose own memorable watchwords, "loyalty" and "charity," should be the lines on which our memorial should run. And as Bro. McIntyre truly said in Grand Lodge "time does not press," in fact, it is our best friend, it will mellow our opinions, it will be an aid to reflection, it will check the hasty word, and inconsiderate act, and tend to give us a well-matured plan to which we, I trust, shall give a hearty and unanimous approval.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

R. J. SIMPSON.

P.S.—I think Bro. Havers must see on reflection that the instances of church decoration, &c., which he quotes from the Provinces, involving such limitations of area and of numbers, and regulated by local association, are by no means cases in point as precedents for Grand Lodge. Besides, I have yet to learn that these works were paid for purely, or at all, out of the Provincial Grand Lodge Fund.

While Bro. Havers has quoted my letter conveying mild and gentle hints, and written at the first blush, he has forgotten to mention my two urgent entreaties to him to withdraw the latter part of his motion, on the ground that I had reason to believe a large majority would oppose it, and that it was so desirable to have unanimity. These communications were made on the day of Grand Lodge meeting.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the two last numbers of the "Freemason" I have been looking in vain amongst your "Correspondence" for some expression of opinion respecting the result of the division on Bro. Havers's resolution at the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge. I was present on that occasion, and had to stand during the whole of the proceedings at the end of the room, in the midst of—if I were not describing a meeting of Freemasons I should justly call a rabble! The uncharitable remarks which were bandied about; the unseemly interruption of the speakers; the disorderly and thoroughly un-Masonic conduct of those by whom I was surrounded, surprised and disgusted me. Bro. Simpson said that if Bro. Havers's motion were carried it would give a blow to Freemasonry from which it would never recover. The absurdity of this statement must surely by this time have become apparent to Bro. Simpson himself. The fatal blow to Freemasonry will be the success of the principle which actuated the majority who overthrew Bro. Havers's resolution, viz., that the enrichment of our charitable institutions is the highest aim of the Order, and the true criterion of Masonic excellence. Far be it from me to say one word detrimental to the interests of the Masonic institutions. By all means, let them be supported to the fullest extent. If they want new wings to their buildings, and addition to their funds, let their wishes be fulfilled and their needs supplied. But I regret to see the idea gaining ground that "the charities" are to be all-engrossing objects, and the sole outlets of our Masonic sympathies, because the result must inevitably follow that Freemasonry will become nothing more or less than a benefit society. Charity is the distinguishing characteristic of a Freemason's heart. But that charity which has the approbation of heaven and of earth, and is like its sister, mercy, doubly blessed, that charity which, we are told on the authority of the Sacred Volume, is the greatest of all virtues, is something more than almsgiving, for a man may "give all his goods to feed the poor," and have no charity. So, too, a Mason by dint of importunity may collect, or ostentatiously subscribe enormous sums of money to our charities, and at the same time be a quarrelsome, pestilent fellow, and thoroughly un-Masonic in all his conduct towards his fellow men. Depend upon it, it is more difficult to think kindly of a man, or to act generously towards him, when opposed to us in rival claims, in religious belief, or in political opinions, than it is to supply the wants of the needy, to care for the fatherless, or provide for the widow. Freemasonry bids us do all. But foremost amongst the principles she inscribes on her banner as the glorious motto of the Order is "Brotherly Love."

I therefore deeply deplored the result of this division the other night, because it exalts a principle which twenty-five years' experience convinces me will bring about this apparently astounding paradox that our charities will be our ruin.

With regard to Bro. Haver's proposition, I do not say it was the best which could by any possibility have been devised, but it had this remarkable feature that it was both national and Masonic. It was national because St. Paul's Cathedral is a national monument. Its matchless dome, far exceeding in external beauty St. Peter's, at Rome, is the pride and delight of all Englishmen of whatever creed. It was Masonic because St. Paul's Cathedral is the crowning effort of the marvellous genius of the great H.A. of English Freemasonry, Sir Christopher Wren, prince of architects. St. Alban's Abbey too, according to our traditions, which Masons at any rate ought not to sneer at, is the place where the first G. Lodge of England was held, and therefore the proposition to give 1000 guineas to the restoration of each of these public monuments, in order to celebrate the return home of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, our beloved M.W.G.M., was peculiarly appropriate to an event which was both national and Masonic.

I am, Sir and Brother, yours faithfully and fraternally,
A PROVINCIAL GRAND OFFICER.

June 20th, 1876.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In last week's "Freemason" Bro. Simpson wrote to "supply one or two little omissions," at the same time recommending us to "try and appreciate each other's motives."

Now, there is nothing that I more desire than to appreciate Bro. Simpson's motives in this matter at their true worth, and I doubt not that he will supply one or two more little omissions which at present stand in the way of my doing so.

Firstly, I gathered that Bro. Simpson desired to reject Bro. Havers's motion because it was denominational. What would Bro. Simpson designate his own motion of a Grand Lodge thanksgiving in St. Paul's Cathedral?

Secondly, I gathered that Bro. Simpson considered the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey and the completion of Wren's cathedral—both Masonic works—as "outside purposes" with regard to our Order. What would Bro. Simpson deem his own vague something in India to be?

These questions satisfactorily answered will enable many others to properly appreciate our Bro. Simpson's motives than, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

ANCIENT AND PRIMITIVE MASONRY.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In reply to "Panache," allow me to say that this Rite has no lodges within the limits of the English language. It has chapters, senates, and councils meeting in various parts of Great Britain, Canada, United States of America, &c., and requires all members to be legitimate Master Masons. It is also generally practised in Roumania, &c. It claims to supply a want by giving all known degrees to M.M.'s, without distinction of religion or politics, and owns a number of brethren of the Hebrew and other Monotheistic faiths. The A. and A. forbid all Rites but their own; the A. and P. sanction all legitimate Rites.

Yours truly and fraternally,

GANESDA.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the issue of June 17th I see a letter signed "John Jones, M.M. X., his mark." I have not my Book of Constitutions by me at present, but as far as I can recollect they say in a foot note to the paragraph relating to the declaration before initiation that as every candidate must sign the declaration it follows that no man who cannot write can be made a Mason. This being the case John Jones' lodge had better give an account of itself for initiating, passing, and raising one who can only sign by means of a X.

Yours fraternally,

M.M. (without the assistance of a X.)

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Bro. Magnus Ohren accuses me of "asking certain questions for my own information." We live in a time that all assertions are not taken as facts, without proof.

Many a brother would be glad of the same information as myself, especially of the Grand Lodge for Surrey, had there been such a thing. I find by M.O.'s letter in the last that P.P.G.J.W. has been substituted for Past G.J.W. for Surrey. It is not fair when a brother makes a mistake, which is likely to mislead his readers, and is not willing to acknowledge it, but casting insinuations of selfishness upon the querist. Bro. M.O. finishes with, "I beg to be excused from going into personal questions, for which I have neither time nor inclination."

As Bro. M.O. of his own free will and accord came to put "Ad Rem" and myself to rights from our confounding position; but when further explanation was asked, he declines with the above quotation. I beg to draw the attention of Bro. M.O. to Bro. "Ad Rem's" kind letter, above his own in the last "Freemason," and just note paragraph "Thirdly."

Dear Bro. Editor, allow me to convey to Bro. "Ad Rem" my best thanks.

Yours fraternally,

R.W.O.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I note an announcement in your columns about the Boys' School distribution of prizes, which has rather surprised many old Masonic buffers like myself. Bro. Binckes is famous for his "tours de force," and somebody has called him "Hercules," though why I know not, except it be that his labours are very many, and though I have no doubt he has a good explanation ready, as he generally has, yet this really beats "Banagher."

The prizes are to be distributed under the "Presidency of the Council of the 33°."

I had always thought that the Chairmanship was a "personal" occupation, but it seems to be "impersonal," and instead of one chairman we are to have many. No doubt there will be exemplified the truth of the old saying, "in the multitude" of chairmen, &c.

But what I want to know is, does the whole Council preside at the distribution of the prizes? and if so, how can it do so, being an abstract body, not a concrete individuality?

Here, then, there seems to me a misuse of words.

And then I also want to know what the Council of the 33°, quâ a Council, has to do with our Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

I could quite understand some distinguished member of it, like our good Bro. Hyde Pullen, for instance, presiding, but I cannot make out why the whole Council is to preside at our Craft school, nor how it agrees, so to say, with the "eternal fitness of things."

I venture for once to think that our worthy friend and Bro. F. Binckes has made as, the Frenchman said, "Von kette Bistock."

I think many of us would have preferred the presidency of some distinct Masonic personality, instead of that hazy and mysterious agglomeration—the Council of the 33°.

When Theodore Hook was asked if he would sign the 39 Articles he said, "Forty if you please," scandalizing the orthodox Don, and nearly losing his admission to the University, and, therefore, I hesitate a little at inquiring of Bro. Binckes, what is the meaning of the 33° degree? and why it should not be 34°?

Maurice Quill, M.D., when requested to tell the Duke of Wellington why he had exchanged into the 33rd, said, "Your Grace, to be near my brother, who's in the 34th," and, so, perhaps, the only reason for 33° is that it follows numerically 32.

Excuse my ignorance and density, and forgive the intrusive curiosity of a VENERABLE CRAFTSMAN.

THE MASONIC CYCLOPÆDIA.

Dear Bro. Kenning,—

The old saying runs, "There's many a slip between the cup and the lip," and that is certainly made good as regards your Cyclopædia.

You will remember how towards the close of 1872 we talked it over, and how also, when Bro. Mackey's elaborate work appeared, a whale among the minnows, it seemed to us, "pour le moment," needless to persevere with our proposal.

About this time last year you recalled my attention to the matter, saying that you thought you saw your way to the "placing" on the Masonic literary market of a Cyclopædia, not too large, not too verbose, cheap and condensed—a neat and compendious book of reference.

The summer intervened, and about October I began my work.

But, as you will call to mind, nearly two months' delay occurred in the beginning of 1876, owing to the printing arrangements, and then another six weeks nearly, owing to necessary retractions of certain portions.

The compilation of any cyclopædia is a hard task, but that of a Masonic Cyclopædia especially so, despite my collections and preparations, for, as you know, I have the largest collection probably of collated MS. and references of any one in England. In a Masonic Cyclopædia the difficulty, always confessedly great, is augmented by the carelessness of our own writers, who give dates which are anachronisms, references which cannot be found, and quotations which cannot be verified. I have spent many a weary half hour in finding out mistakes which ought never to have been made, and rectifying inaccuracies for which there is no excuse. I may observe here that it is a very easy thing to reprint printed matter, to "print upon" what is already before the public, or even to make up copy with printed clippings; but to transcribe a book of many hundred pages of original matter, especially when one's handwriting is not of the best, is for men of ordinary calibre like myself a very uphill task. I have, I believe, every Cyclopædia that has been written, barring an Italian one, and nothing so much strikes one, how much original work and references remain to be done in order to ensure accuracy in every respect. So on June 15th I find myself thus far safely advanced: all up to the end of G is finished and in the hands of the printers, and the letter H will soon be. I give beneath a specimen of H, which I think will convince my readers of the bona-fide character of the work. I will just add this, that it would be a pity to spoil standard Masonic work of reference by any hurry or any impatience.

I am now, as you are aware, daily working hard at the book, and I have no doubt to complete my undertaking towards the end of the year.

All I can say is to-day, to our kind friends and subscribers, if any disapprove of a delay which is quite unavoidable, they can have their subscriptions returned, but I think that they will all gain by a more careful elaboration of the work, and during the remainder of the year we can receive names of subscribers until December 31, 1876. Then the list must finally close. The large number of names we have already is a hopeful sign of the awakening interest in matters archaeological, and I trust when the Cyclopædia at last appears it will neither belie the kindly patronage of my brethren, nor disappoint their just expectations. In the meantime I recommend all those who have not subscribed for a copy to send their names to George Kenning, 198, Fleet-street, London, E.C., and I am quite certain of this, that they will all get their money's worth, and indeed a good deal more.

P.S.—The subscription price is 7s. 6d.

I am, dear Bro. Kenning, yours always fraternally,
A. F. A. WOODFORD, P.G.C.

June 15, 1876.

H.—Kloss cites no less than nine contributions to Masonic literature under this letter.

HACHE, CHAPITRE DE LA.—Chapter of the Axe, the 32nd of the 90 grades of the Rite of Misraim.

HACK, Jacob W. B. E. Von.—(The name is also written "Haack.") was in 1762 member of the Lodge "Zur Enigkeit," in Frankfort, A.M., and from 1764 until 1766 its W.M. He was also a member of the Strict Observance. Kloss mentions two or three of his addresses, and especially one which he delivered December 27th, 1768, at the admission of Louis VIII., Landgrave of Hesse Darmstadt, when he appears to have been W.M. of the Lodge "Zu den drei Disteln," at Frankfort-on-the-Main.

HACQUET.—A French brother, formerly a "Notaire" at Port-au-Prince, and one of the founders of the General Grand Lodge of the "Rite Ancien et Accepté," in Paris, 1801. He was also a member of the Grand Orient in 1804 and 1810, and was President of the Royal Arch Chapter at Paris in 1814.

HADAMAR, P.H.—W.M. of the Lodge "Vereinigten Freunde," in Mayence, who delivered an address at the Winter St. John's, 1819.

HADLY, BENJAMIN.—An English brother present at the Special Lodge at the Hague, for the reception of the Duke of Tuscany and Lorraine, afterwards the Emperor Francis. Anderson and Entick and Noorthouck, in the Constitutions of 1738, 1756, 1784, mention the names of John Stanhope and John Hollendorff as the Wardens. Preston, however (Oliver's edition, 1861), states that Bro. Benjamin Hadly and a Dutch brother were the two Wardens on that occasion. Of him nothing more seems to be known.

HAGAR.—Bro. Dr. Oliver has used the difference as existing between the sons of Sarah and Hagar, as significant in the teaching of older Masonry of the necessity of freeborn candidates. We believe, however, that such teaching is entirely modern, and the question of freeborn (see "Freeborn") rests upon an entirely different ground, the need of which has long since passed away.

HAGGAI.—The Prophet, born in Babylon, and with Zerubabel and Joshua aided to restore and dedicate the temple at Jerusalem, B.C. 516. His name is given to the Third Principal in a Royal Arch Chapter. Curiously enough, Bro. H. Warren found his seal during his researches in Subterranean Jerusalem.

HAGUE.—The capital of Holland, called also La Haye, and Haag; in Dutch it is Gravenhage. Freemasonry was founded practically there, in 1731, by the special lodge which, under a dispensation from Lord Lovel, G.M., initiated the Duke of Tuscany and Lorraine. There is no trustworthy evidence, in our opinion, of the lodge Het Vredendal, or Frederick Vredendal, which is said to have been founded by an Englishman in 1637, some even say from 1519 to 1601, on an English warrant, though, as far as we know, no warrants were given until the 18th century. A French lodge seems to have been founded there in 1734. "Loge du Grand Maître des Provinces unies et du resort de la Généralité," at the Golden Lion at the Hague, by Vincent de la Chapelle mainly. A Dutch Lodge, was formed, it is said, in 1735, under the name of "Le Venerable Zele." There seems also about this time another lodge, termed L'Union, to have been formed by Von Dagrán, and this, and the Veritable Zele, and the Lodge La Royale, the third in order of consideration, led to the formation of the National Grand Lodge, December 25th, 1756.

HAIBER.—A French brother, who translated Kurtis's History of Pope Innocent III. Paris, 1838.

HALE.—More properly Hele. Means to cover, to conceal. It is clearly an A. Saxon word, and is derived, it has been often suggested, from the A. Saxon "Helan," which is pronounced halan, it is said, to cover or conceal. The word still is in use in the west of England, we are told, and a "hellar" is said to answer to the Latin "regulator." It has been, however, pointed out that as the word Hillyer or Hilliar is also used it may come more properly from "hilan," A.S., to conceal or cover, not helan. There is another meaning to it, which probably comes from the Saxon "hael," exemplified in the old form, "drinc hael," "waes hael," or from the old word heyle, hale, healthy. It is a word well known to Freemasons. "Hele," in the sense of conceal, was an expression in use among the old guild formulae, though the word heyle, health, was also written "hele," and is to be found in many of the guild ordinances. Some one has suggested that the word may be also a corruption of "halde," to hold fast or firm, but we prefer the more obvious, or A. Saxon use. This is one among many little indicia of the real antiquity of our usages and ritual.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

By command of His Grace the Duke of St. Alban's, P.G.M., the annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire was held on Tuesday, 6th inst., at the Corn Exchange, Brigg, under the banner of the Anchor Lodge, No. 1282.

Rev. Samuel E. Hodgson, of Scawby, W.M., ably assisted by Bros. W. Pigott, T. Fryer, A. Field, and others, comprising the committee of management, carried out the arrangements for the convenience of the brethren, which were all that could possibly be desired. Fine weather, combined with an important list of business on the agenda paper, attracted a large attendance of the Craft, every lodge in the province being represented.

It had been proposed by the Committee of Management for the brethren to be present at Divine service in the fine old parish church before Provincial Grand Lodge was opened, but owing to the refusal of the vicar (the Rev. W. J. Wylie) to lend the edifice for such a purpose, the idea was abandoned.

The decision of the vicar (unprecedented, we imagine, in the annals of Freemasonry) is a matter of much regret, and forms subject for much comment in the Craft, both of the town and province generally.

Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due form shortly after half-past twelve o'clock by His Grace the Duke of St. Alban's, P.G.M., supported by the following P.G. Officers:—Bros. W. H. Smyth, D.P.G.M.; Thomas Slaton, 838, P.G.S.W.; J. A. Thomas, 272,

P.G.J.W.; Rev. J. C. K. Saunders, 1286, P.G. Chap.; C. M. Nesbitt, 712, P.G. Treas.; Henry Watson, 297, P.G. Reg.; F. D. Marsden, 712, P.G. Sec.; Gerard Ford, 1286, P.G.S.D.; Alfred Parkin, 1482, Supt. of Works; T. E. Jacobson, 588, P.P.G.D. of C., as P.G.D. of C.; George Nelson, 1282, Asst. P.G.D. of C.; W. Swallow, 1447, P.G.S.B.; John Barraclough, 1386, P.G.O.; Thomas Fryer, 1282, P.G.S. (who was also Secretary of the Managing Committee); Fred Watson, 1386, P.G.S.; W. Sissons, 1447, P.G. Reg. N. and E. Yorks, P.G.S.; W. S. Bladon, 422, P.G.S.; and Benj. Box, 422, Prov. Grand Tyler.

Among the other distinguished brethren we noticed W. Bros. John Sutcliffe, P.M. 1294, P.P.G.S.W.; Jas. Fowler, P.M. 712, P.P.G.S.W.; R. J. Boyall, 362, Prov. Charity Steward; Rev. D. Acr, D.D., W.M. 1232, P.P.G. Chap.; Wm. Pigott, P.M. 1282; Rev. G. W. Lowe, 272; W. E. Howlett, P.M. 422, P.P.G. A.D. of C.; W. W. Copeland, P.M. 792, P.P.G.S.D.; Rev. T. P. Holdich, W.M. 1286; Jack Sutcliffe, W.M. 1294; Thomas Morris, P.M. 1282, P.P.G.P.; James Bellamy, P.M. 588, P.P.G.P.; Wm. Pratt, W.M. 1386; Rev. Wm. Lynes, 588, P.P.G. Reg. Stafford; P. P. Dickenson, W.M. 297; Alfred Richdale, W.M. 426, P.P.G.S.B.; Charles Smyth, W.M. 1600, P.P.G.P.; with many others too numerous to particularize.

The lodge was also honoured by the company of visiting brethren from the Britannia Lodge, 139, St. George's Lodge, 242, Alfred Lodge, 340, and Arkwright, 1495.

Letters of apology were received from Bros. W. Pooles, 838, P.G.D. of C.; Alfred Kirk, 422, P.G.P.; J. W. Palmer, 838; and W. B. Bratley, 838 Stewards.

The hymn of "Invocation" was never rendered with better effect than by the brethren assembled this day in the spacious building appropriated for the purposes of Prov. Grand Lodge, which being concluded, the roll of lodges in the province was called by the P.G. Secretary, shewing a total of 167 brethren present, every lodge in the province being represented. There are now no less than twenty lodges established in this province (just double the number which the present Provincial Grand Master found in existence on his appointment in 1863). Facilities of railway communication between the town of Brigg and the southern portions of the county being very inadequate, combined with the fact of it being market day at Alford, Spalding, Gainsborough, and Market Rasen, was no doubt the cause of a large number of brethren being absent.

The minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge held at Boston 10th June, 1875, and the minutes of a Provincial Grand Lodge of Emergency held at Grimsby on the 2nd August, 1875, for the purpose of laying the foundation stone of a new Masonic Hall in that town, having been read and confirmed, the Dep. P.G.M. stated that, in accordance with a resolution passed at the last Prov. Grand Lodge a handsomely illuminated address had been forwarded to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, congratulating him on his elevation to the dignity of M.W.G.M. of England, which had been duly acknowledged in a letter to Bro. Jas. Fowler, P.P.G.W., who had been chiefly instrumental in designing the same and carrying it into execution.

The Provincial Grand Treasurer, Bro. C. M. Nesbitt, 712, then submitted his financial statement, shewing a balance in hand of £28 14s. 6d., after paying all expenses of the current year, including a donation of twenty guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

The Provincial Grand Secretary (Bro. F. D. Marsden, 712) delivered a report of the committee of the Prov. G. Fund of Benevolence, which sat that morning, and abstract of accounts to 27th ult., showing a balance in hand of £125 10s. 5d., besides a sum of £550 invested. This fund was established in 1863, mainly through the instrumentality of the late energetic Prov. G. Secretary, Bro. C. E. Lucas, and has been the means of relieving the aged and necessitous Mason, or his widow, in the many instances which must certainly from time to time occur in a large province like Lincolnshire.

It is very important, however, that W.M.'s of lodges, and their officers, should make themselves acquainted with the rules under which this Fund of Benevolence is distributed.

Like the recipients of the Grand Lodge Fund of Benevolence, no petitioner is entitled to relief from this fund unless he (or her husband, father, or brother, as the case may be) has been for at least two years a subscribing member to a regular lodge in the province, and it was with feelings of extreme regret that the committee felt it their duty that day to throw out petitions from two lodges on behalf of their Tyler and Tyler's widow on the score of informality, one not having been a subscribing member, and the other petition not having been forwarded to the Prov. G. Secretary in time to be placed on the summons.

A petition was presented by the Pelham Pillar Lodge, 792, on behalf of Mrs. Black, whose husband was unfortunately drowned at Dieppe in November last in the execution of his duty as an engineer, leaving her with a family of four young children, all under the age of seven years, totally unprovided for. This being an extreme case, the committee felt it their duty to send a recommendation to Prov. Grand Lodge that the sum of £25 be awarded.

The committee had then proceeded to discuss the offer made to them last year by the committee and subscribers of the "Oliver Memorial Fund," and which was then left in obedience, viz.: That the sum already received for the Oliver Memorial Fund, amounting to nearly £200, should be presented to the Prov. Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire, to be vested in and become part of the Prov. Grand Lodge Benevolent Fund, on condition that Prov. Grand Lodge will endeavour to raise a further sum, say of £200 at the least, such amount to be invested on good security, and termed "The Oliver Memorial Fund," subject to certain rules and regulations to be afterwards named.

After considerable discussion, the Chairman, Bro. W. H. Smyth, D.P.G.M., suggested that the sum of £1000 would secure the right of presentation to the Boys' School once in every three years, and proposed that a recommendation be given to Prov. Grand Lodge that the offerings of the brethren of the province during the coming year should be devoted to the attainment of this object in connection with the Oliver Memorial Fund, so that there might always be an "Oliver boy" in the school, thus keeping alive the memory of that worthy and learned Mason, of whom this province has so much reason to be proud.

Bro. Chapman, W.M. 1294, proposed as an amendment that Provincial Grand Lodge be recommended to give its support during the ensuing year to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

Bro. J. Sutcliffe, P.M. 1294, P.P.G.S.W., here gave some interesting statistics respecting the voting power of the province, and the ever increasing difficulties in securing a candidate's election for either of the schools, after which the amendment was put to the meeting and lost, the proposition of the chairman being carried almost unanimously.

Bro. Chapman, W.M. 1294, then proposed, and Bro. Jas. Robinson, W.M. 792, seconded, "That the Provincial Grand Lodge be recommended to give one hundred guineas out of the Provincial Grand Lodge Benevolent Fund of Lincolnshire in aid of the charity selected this year to receive the support of the province, which was carried unanimously.

Bro. H. Watson, P.G. Reg., gave some interesting statistics relating to the fund at the disposal of this committee, shewing that since its formation in 1865 the grants to petitioners had been equal to the annual income received, independently of the interest arising from monies at first invested, and (while advocating the practice of a liberal charity as far as possible) strongly deprecated the idea of touching the invested fund.

The report of the committee having received the unanimous approval of the brethren,

The Provincial Grand Registrar, Bro. H. Watson, gave the return from the various lodges during the past years shewing a total increase of forty-two members, as against an increase of forty-one members in 1874. The tables were drawn up very carefully and accurately, shewing that Bro. Watson was quite at home in his work, and the province may be congratulated on having such an efficient officer. One additional lodge, the Hamilton, 1600, had also been constituted in March last, whose returns would not be sent in until December next.

Bro. Radley, 838, P.P.G.S.W. and Sec. to the Provincial Charity Committee, was called upon by the P.G.M. to read his annual report, but said that, owing to pressure of business that day and the late arrivals of the trains at Brigg, the committee had not yet met. He should be happy to submit his report to the committee at Boston on the 27th inst., due notice of which would be given.

Bro. R. J. Boyall, P.M. 362, Prov. Charity Steward, then presented a list of subscriptions collected by him last year from the brethren of the province in aid of the fund of the R.M.I. for Girls, amounting to £564 14s., and presented at the festival in May last. He tendered his sincere thanks to the brethren for the kind assistance they had given him in his work.

A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Bro. Boyall for his exertions as Provincial Charity Steward of 1875, on the subsequent motion of the W. Dep. G.M.

Bro. Chapman, W.M. 1294, proposed, on behalf of Bro. Jno. Sutcliffe, 1294 (who, we regret to say, had met with an accident during the course of the morning), "That the sum of one hundred guineas be given out of the P.G. Benevolent Fund to the charity selected by the province for general support during the ensuing year.

At this stage of the proceedings Bro. Sutcliffe entered the lodge, and having taken his place on the dais amidst the acclamations of the brethren, seconded the proposition, which, having been recommended by the Committee of the Fund of Benevolence, was carried nem. con.

The P.G. Secretary asked permission to print a new edition of the P.G. Bye-laws, and suggested that a copy should be presented to every officer on his appointment to P.G. Lodge, which was granted.

Bro. Weston, P.G. Treasurer, proposed, and Bro. Rev. D. Ace, D.D., W.M. 1232, and P.P.G. Chap., seconded, "That Bro. James Fowler, P.M. 712, P.P.G.S.W., be elected Provincial Grand Charity Steward for the ensuing year, and that the special object for the consideration and charity of the Province should be the "Oliver Memorial Fund."

His Grace the Duke of St. Alban's, P.G.M., said, before putting this resolution to the meeting, he thought it might be convenient if the brethren were informed of the extent and nature of the proposed "Oliver Memorial," and asked the P.G. Registrar to shadow forth, as far as might be, the purpose to which the contributions of the brethren were to be devoted. This would much strengthen the hands of the Charity Steward, as the brethren would feel more confidence in subscribing when they knew simply to what purpose the fund was to be applied.

Bro. H. Watson, 297, P.G. Reg., stated, in reply, that this fund was started immediately after the death of their revered brother, Bro. Dr. Oliver. The brethren deemed it expedient that a substantial sum should be raised, and a fitting memorial obtained, so that the name of that great and good man should be handed down to posterity, and some recognition made of his numerous works and great services on behalf of Masonry. Acting upon this suggestion, Bro. Richard Hall, P. Prov. G.S.W., and Dr. Harrison, P.P.G.J.W., who was at that time W.M. of the Witham Lodge, started a subscription, but which, after an expenditure of nearly £20 for advertisements, printing, and postage, resulted in a nett sum of £200 odd. This not being a sufficient sum to procure a fitting memorial to so revered a brother, it was decided that the fund should be increased, and assimilate itself with Prov. Grand Lodge.

Dr. Oliver being peculiarly associated with this province, it was thought desirable that the fund should be taken out of the hands of the Oliver Memorial Committee and placed under the control of Prov. Grand Lodge, so that a suitable tribute might be paid to the memory of so good a Mason. It was ultimately resolved that the £200 which had been already subscribed should be presented to Prov. Grand Lodge on condition that they endeavoured to raise a sum of at least £200 in addition. At the last meeting of Prov. Grand Lodge Benevolent Fund, and after considerable discussion, it was resolved that the Oliver Memorial Fund should be supported, and the W.D.P.G.M. shadowed forth a plan which met with the entire concurrence of all present. It was that the Provincial Grand Lodge should accept the £200 subscribed, as a nucleus, and then grant £100 in addition from the Benevolent Fund. Then if this £300 were supplemented by another £700 in the province, it would make £1000, which, if presented to the Boys' School, would entitle the province in perpetuity to present a boy annually (?) for admission into that institution. (Applause.) Such boy would be termed the "Oliver Memorial Boy." (Renewed applause.) This would show their love for one who had done so much for Masonry, not only in Lincolnshire, but throughout the whole world. When he looked at the register and found no less than 784 subscribing brethren in the province, he thought that if this matter were thoroughly taken up by the Masters and Secretaries of lodges there would be no difficulty in raising the £1000. If this were done it would be a permanent benefit to the province, and also a fitting memorial to the name of Dr. Oliver. (Applause.)

The motion having been put to the meeting was carried with applause.

Bro. Thomas Slaton, 838, P.G.S.W., proposed, and Bro. Watson, P.G. Reg., seconded "The re-election of Bro. Chas. Michell Nesbitt, 712, as P.G. Treas. for the ensuing year." This was carried unanimously, and Bros. Fowler and Griffin were again elected auditors of the Provincial Grand Lodge accounts.

The Provincial Grand Master then proceeded to invest the following officers for the ensuing year:—

*Wor. Bro. Major W. H. Smyth, Elkington Hall, D.P.G.M.; Wm. Pigott, 1282, P.P.G. Charity Steward, P.G.S.W.; Fred Watson, 1386, P.G.J.W.; Rev. G. W. Lowe, 272, P.G. Chaplain; *C. M. Nesbitt, 712, P.G. Treas.; *H. Watson, 297, P. G. Reg.; *F. D. Marsden, 712, P.G. Sec.; Jack Sutcliffe, 1294, P.G. S.D.; James Robinson, 792, P.G.J.D.; E. Chamberlain, 1232, P.G.S. of W.; George Nelson, 1282, P.G. D. of C.; Robert Nicholson, 1304, P.G. Assist. D. of C.; W. S. Bladon, 422, P.G.S.B.; W. Mason, 297, P.G.O.; J. Queenborough, 272, P.G.P.; F. Goodhand, 712, P.G. Steward; H. Sharpe, 1304, P.G. Steward; E. R. Dibben, 588, P.G. Steward; E. E. Jevons, 1286, P.G. Steward; A. Field, 1282, P.G. Steward; H. Smith, 272, P.G. Steward; *Benj. Box, 422, P.G. Tyler.

Those marked * have held the same office before.

Bro. Jas. Robinson, W.M. 792, the newly-appointed P.G.J.D., on behalf of the Pelham Pillar Lodge invited P.G. Lodge to visit Grimsby in 1878. The invitation was warmly supported by Bro. Chapman, W.M. 1294, on behalf of the St. Alban's Lodge, and met with a ready acquiescence from His Grace the R.W.P.G.M.

The D.P.G.M. also mentioned that he had received an invitation from the Hundred of Ellor Lodge at Spalding, and His Grace promised that, though no decided answer could be given now, yet the kind invitations should receive due and careful consideration.

The Dep. P.G.M. announced that the next Provincial Grand Lodge would be held under the banner of the Olive Union Lodge, 1304, at Horncastle.

Bro. Jas. Fowler, the newly-appointed Grand Steward for the Oliver Memorial Fund, rose to thank the brethren for the honour they had done him in electing him, and expressed the hope that they would assist him to the utmost, seeing that the object to be obtained, viz., a permanent presentation to the Boys' School, would be to the honour as well as the great benefit of the province. He assured them that while the smallest contributions would be thankfully received, he should not refuse the larger ones.

Bro. T. E. Jacobson, of Sleaford, suggested that, as it was inconvenient for many of the brethren at the extreme limits of the county to come so great a distance to Prov. Grand Lodges, it should be a matter for consideration whether two meetings should not be held each year, one for the northern and another for the southern divisions.

In replying, His Grace the R.W.P.G.M. said he would do his best to consult the wishes of the brethren, but could not help thinking that one of the great advantages of this meeting was that it brought together the brethren from the north and from the south, and he personally should be very sorry if there was one meeting for the south and another for the north. Before closing, he wished to say a few words in respect of the Ancholme Lodge, which was comparatively a new one. He felt that the brethren from a distance must consider that they had been most loyally and well received by the fraternity at Brigg, whose arrangements for the Prov. Grand Lodge had been simply admirable. (Applause.)

The lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet provided by Mr. Kirkham, of the Angel Hotel, and served in a magnificent marquee, obtained from Mr. Fussey, of Hull. The chair was occupied by the R.W.P.G.M., and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, the brethren separating at an early hour.

A SERMON

PREACHED IN CROYDON PARISH CHURCH BY THE REV. C. W. ARNOLD, GRAND CHAPLAIN, TO THE BRETHREN OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SURREY.

"According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise Master Builder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon. For other foundations can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ."—1 Cor. iii. 11. The Apostle St. Paul is very fond of introducing into his writings allusions taken from the various occupations of the nations to whom he wrote. Thus we find him referring to the great national games of Greece, boxing, racing, and wrestling, for which the most careful training was required, and from which the Apostle draws a moral lesson applicable to the Church to which he was writing. In the present chapter he draws his similitude from gardening and building. He commences by speaking of himself as planting; Apollon, who succeeded him, as watering the plants he had already reared. But suddenly he changes his figures with the words, "Ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building;" doubtless the latter word brought back to his mind the glorious buildings of Corinth, a city renowned throughout the world as the place where one of the most beautiful orders of architecture (the Corinthian) took its origin, and so, as usual, a single word changed the current of his thoughts, and in working out the new idea he proceeds, in the words of my text, and how beautiful, how grand is his conception of the Christian Church. God, the Great Architect, marked out the plan (formed in his mind before the creation of the world). The Apostle, as a wise master builder, and therefore selected for the most important work, laid the foundation. Other hands, not necessarily so skilful, were called on to complete the building, and so the stately fabric rose, the work, no doubt, of many hands, but one master-mind controlled them all, so that unity of design pervaded the whole edifice. This was the reason for the Apostle's advice. The unity of the Church was in danger, and he wrote to the Corinthians to rebuke them for their divisions and quarrels. And if we examine into the similitude he uses, how well does a building illustrate the unity that ought to exist in a brotherhood or church. Just as each stone in a building has its suitable place in its own course, so each member has his relative position assigned to him according to his talents; and as each stone is firmly cemented to the rest, so should each brother be united to those on either side of him (as well as those in the courses above and below) by a close bond of friendship. The courses of stones represent the different orders and ranks of men, and just as the effect of a building is spoiled by any inequality of surface, so a brother who puts himself out of his proper position mars that unanimity which ought to exist throughout the community. Again, the fact that each stone is supported by those on either side and those below, calls to our mind the words of St. Paul, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ." It inculcates the great doctrine of brotherly love, to support a brother in his laudable undertakings, to be swift of foot to preserve him from sorrow or suffering, to give him material aid in the time of distress, to remember his wants in our daily supplications, to bear him, as it were, upon our breast, and care for his interest and that of those dependent upon him, asking the Most High to provide for him even as for ourselves, to give him sound advice in time of difficulty, and to support his character in his absence as well as in his presence. And as each stone should clearly bear the impress of the chisel upon its surface, and be free from any flaw or defect, coated over or concealed by any foreign substance, so should the character of each member be stamped by sincerity and truth, and shine forth undisguised by hypocrisy or deceit of any kind. Thus should truth, brotherly love, and unanimity be the distinguishing features of every brotherhood. Notice carefully the humility of the Apostle. He calls himself, indeed, a wise Master Builder, but he takes no credit to himself; whatever he was, it was God's doing. He says, "According to the grace of God which is given me I have laid the foundation." All the glory is given to God, for St. Paul never forgot that he was once Saul the Persecutor, and that it was only by the direct interposition of God that he became Paul, the chosen Apostle. He worked entirely by God's direction; he taught entirely by God's revelation. How strongly does he urge this in the 1st chapter of his Epistle to the Galatians. The building was God's, and if he were the Master Builder, it was God's grace that made him so and gave him the ability. Here then, we can each learn a lesson. We have all got God's work to do; we are all called in some degree or other to build for God, to be God's Masons. Let us then learn the lesson of humility, not boasting for fear we should presume and fall, but giving God all the glory if He has thought fit to make us "labourers together with God," and asking him to give us grace sufficient to enable us to carry out his work so as to merit his approval, and so that it may stand the test in the day of trial, to which the Apostle alludes a few verses further on. Notice secondly the importance the Apostle gives to the foundation, "other foundations can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ." In his Sermon on the Mount our Lord points out the necessity of a solid foundation in his parable of the wise man who built upon the rock, and the foolish man who built upon the sand, and in his conversation with St. Peter it was the confession that Jesus Christ was the Son of God, which our Lord declared to be that rock on which he would build His church, for as this same Apostle stated before the Jewish Council "there is none other name given among man whereby we must be saved." This, then, was the foundation laid by the Apostle: this was the doctrine on which he founded every church he planted, viz.: Salvation in Christ crucified, through the grace of God, and justification by faith as the means, a faith proved to be genuine by its producing as its fruit good works in accordance with the will of God. But, says the Apostle, "let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon." The foundation may be good, but unless the superstructure be also sound, the building will come to ruin. The material must be sound, and the cement perfect: there must be perfect symmetry in every part of the work, and fair proportion. What, then, is the lesson the Apostle wishes to convey but this? that just as each successive workman carries out the plan of the architect, under the superintendence of the master builder, so each teacher in Christ's Church must take care that his doctrine accords with the foundation laid down by the Apostle lest he mar the work and spoil God's building. As I remarked before, each of us is called in some degree to build for God, and to aid in rearing His church on earth. Each father, each brother, each mother, each sister, by actual instruction, or by the force of example, becomes a builder—a good one or an evil one according as each carries out the will of God. Let each, then, apply this to himself, let each ask the questions, "Am I taking heed how I build thereupon? Do I, by my words and actions, beautify God's Church? Is my conduct measured by the rule of rectitude? Are my actions squared by the principles of morality? Are my words, and even my very thoughts, kept within the compass of propriety? Do I look to Christ alone as the foundation, building all my hopes on Him, and humbly trying to follow in His steps?" Put these questions to yourselves with all sincerity, and may God, in His mercy, grant that each of you may be a faithful builder. But I should not work out this subject fully without referring to the parallel passage in the Epistle to the Ephesians. At Ephesus was the most beautiful temple in existence, celebrated by heathen writers, as one of the seven wonders of the world, and dedicated to the heathen goddess. In allusion to this beautiful building, the Apostle says (Ch. II. 16 p.) "Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the Saints and of the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone, in whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord; in whom ye also are built together for an habitation of God through the Spirit." When St. Paul says, "Build on the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets," is this passage at variance with my text? Certainly not. He does not mean that the Apostles and Prophets are the foundation in themselves, but that the Ephesians are built on the Apostles' and Prophets' foundation, i.e., the foundation on which the Apostles and Prophets themselves were built, and this was none other than Christ. Thus, when analysed, one passage illustrates the other, and both teach the same doctrine. But he goes on to say that Christ is also the chief corner stone. What, then, does he mean by this? There are two interpretations, and from each we learn the same lesson. Our Lord applied to Himself the words of the Psalmist, "The stone which the builders rejected the same is become the head of the corner;" and tradition says that at the building of the Temple a particular stone was rejected again and again as unsuitable, until at last it was put in the important position of chief corner stone, which binds the whole building firmly together. Or by chief corner stone may be meant that important stone, which, carefully set with square, level, and plumb rule, stands up at the corner to guide the builders, and from which all measurements are taken. But take which ever of these interpretations you like, and the teaching is the same, viz., that Christ is to be the foundation and Christ the crowning stone to which all others must be subservient. God's Temple, i.e., His Church, is founded in Christ and perfected in Christ; each Apostle and holy Prophet is built into it as a separate stone; the building thus fitly framed groweth into an holy temple in the Lord; into this same temple each Christian is built, and the whole edifice is a habitation of God by the indwelling of His Holy Spirit. If we are to be built into this holy temple of God we must be sound and living stones, not moss-eaten and decaying ones, or else when the Architect comes to view the building he will order such bad material to be removed and thrown away as useless rubbish. "Know ye not," says the Apostle, "that you are the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the Temple of God, him will God destroy, for the Temple of God is holy, which temple ye are." Each Christian is a part of God's Temple (the Church) and so must be holy; but still further each ought to be in himself a separate Temple of God in which his spirit dwells. Here, then, we have (if possible) even a stronger inducement to personal holiness, lest we grieve His Spirit and drive Him from us. Oh let us ever cherish this precious gift of the indwelling Spirit, for "without holiness no man can see God." We are not our own. We are God's by creation; Christ's by redemption, the Spirit's by sanctification. Thus we belong to each person of the Holy Trinity for the work that they have done for us. Let us then resign ourselves entirely to their will; let us give up all sensual pleasures, all earthly lusts, and strive after holiness. Let our aim be to be counted worthy of a place in God's Temple here, that being gradually assimilated by the sanctifying influence of the Spirit into the likeness of Christ, we may hereafter be translated into His kingdom above, there to shine as precious stones in that holy temple not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. Having thus examined into the meaning of the text, I would now pass on to apply it to show that the only temple which can stand is the one founded on Christ. We read this afternoon in our first lesson (I. Kings IX.) of the acceptance by God of the beautiful building which Solomon erected, and how He promised to "put His name there for ever, and that His eyes and His heart should be there perpetually;" but at the same time He threatened that if the people forsook Him and served other Gods, He "would cast Israel out of the land which He had given them, and this house which He had hallowed for His name he would cast out of His sight." Everything in the worship of the Jews looked forward to the coming of Christ; the sacrifice was a type of Christ; the shewbread was a type of Christ; the High Priest both in dress and office was a type of Christ, in fact the whole service was typical of Christ, and the visible glory of God filled the temple. But the Jews were not careful to continue to build thereupon and fell into idolatry, and so after repeated warnings God carried his threat into execution. The temple was destroyed, and the Jews were carried away to Babylon; after a time they were restored to their land again, and a second temple rose where the first temple stood. It did not indeed like the first contain the visible glory of God, but when the fullness of time was come, and God sent his Son into the world, Jesus, the son of God, himself frequented that temple and brought to it by His presence even greater glory than the first ever enjoyed. But a second time the people seemed beyond the hope of pardon. They "rejected the Holy One and the just, and preferred a wanderer;" before Pilate they cried, "His blood be on us and on our children." God heard that cry, and as they refused to recognise and accept the Messiah, so he destroyed their temple utterly, scattered them into every part of the world, and to the present day they are a living testimony of the truth of God's word, existing as a separate people, yet utterly unable to carry out the rites of their religion. The Jewish religion, the law, was in itself perfect, a pure system of morality; but man in his fallen state could not fulfil it, and by it alone could none attain salvation; thus as St. Paul says "the law is our schoolmaster to bring us to Christ, that we might be justified by faith," and not by works. The new covenant could not be justified upon the old, the Gospel upon the law, as our Lord showed by the parable of the new wine in old bottles, and the new patch upon the old garment. Thus the law came to an end together with the temple, for when the temple was destroyed it was impossible to fulfil the law. And now, brethren, let us apply the subject more closely to ourselves as Freemasons. We are bound together to observe a pure system of morality, veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols. We are taught to look on everything by which we are surrounded in life as reminding us of some duty and conveying some moral lesson, and nothing can be more perfect in moral teaching than the charges delivered in our lodges. Above all, Masonry directs us to the Bible as the great light which will guide us into all truth, directs our steps in the paths of happiness, and teaches us the whole duty of man. What, then, is the teaching of God's Word? That no system of morality, however pure, can save a man. No temple, however stately, however beautiful, can be perfect and stand the test which God will apply to it, unless it is founded on Christ. Be careful then, I exhort you, not to trust in Masonry as if it could save you by itself, but lay Christ as your foundation, place all your hope of existence with God in the merits of his atonement, look for justification by faith in Him, and let your sincerity be proved by the holy life you lead. Look to Him for strength to help you through his holy spirit dwelling in you, and seek for the gift of that spirit by diligent prayer and participation in the sacraments. Look on Masonry only as a help to guide you on your path of Christian duty, as echoing the Apostle's advice, that denying ungodliness and worldly lusts we should live soberly, righteously, and godly in the present world," looking forward to that great day when Masonry and all other human institutions will have passed away, and we shall behold the Most High as he is in his temple not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. Our blessed Saviour whilst upon earth was constantly employed in rendering assistance to suffering man. We can scarcely turn over a single page of the Gospels without reading some miracle of healing, or some instance of love shown by words of comfort and sympathy to fellow creatures in the time of trouble and distress. The test that he ordained of being true disciples was that of love, "as I have loved you that you should love one another." If then, my brethren, you belong to the temple of God and rest on the foundations of Jesus Christ, I appeal to you today to give a tangible proof of this by your Christian love. I ask you to contribute towards the funds of the Croydon Hospital. It is a noble institution which needs no words of recommendation of mine, and one which has year by year been increasing in usefulness. Nearly 4000 cases of suffering were last year relieved, and as the population increases in these parts so rapidly, in all probability the calls upon it in the present year will be still greater. It depends wholly on charity, and has dispensed even more than its income in hope of increased support. Brethren, I need not use many words to urge you to be liberal to-day. As Christians I ask you to think of all the mercies for which you have reason to be thankful, and to express your gratitude by giving back to Him, who gave you all, some thank-offering for health and strength, some recognition of His love. As Masons you are doubly pledged to liberality, and should show the genuineness of your principles by your willingness to extend your charity to your fellow creatures in the hour of suffering and distress. You have many reasons for thankfulness which I cannot mention now, but I urge you to give to-day not a coin carelessly or hastily bestowed out of your abundance, but to consider carefully the recipient and the cause. Recollect you give not only to the blind, the lame, the sick, the suffering, but even to Christ himself; and the day is drawing near when the gift now liberally bestowed will be acknowledged by Him in the presence of His Father, and will cause one more gem to sparkle in the crown which you hope to receive in the realms of happiness above.

CONSECRATION OF THE SOUTHERN STAR LODGE, INSTRUCTION, No. 1158.

Another of those extremely useful adjuncts of Freemasonry, yelet Lodges of Instruction, has been added to the southern district of the metropolitan circle by the inauguration at the Crown Hotel, Blackfriars-road, of a lodge under the warrant of the Southern Star, 1158.

The further extension of the means of obtaining Masonic instruction is always a matter for congratulation to the Masonic world at large, and that the present instance was recognised as a boon to a large section of brethren inhabiting the neighbourhood was evinced by the numerous assemblage of brethren who met to assist in the opening of the new lodge. Situated as it is within but a few minutes' walk from the foot of Blackfriars Bridge, it is easy of access from the City, while tram-cars passing the house afford the best possible means of communication to the southern suburbs.

Within a few minutes of the time appointed Bro. Terry assumed the chair, having for his Wardens Bros. Wise and A. Wright, P.M.'s of the parent lodge; G. Macdonald, W.M. 1158, as D.C.; Burr, 1158, Org.; and Beavis, 1158, as acting Sec.; and amongst the brethren present we noticed Bros. C. J. Hogg, P.G.S., P.M. 58; G. W. F. Loftus, P.P.J.G.W. Middx, 1193; J. Wright and Towers, P.M.'s; Stewart, I.G.; Fortune, D.C.; Holland, W.S.; and Bros. Brady, Beavis, Wilks, F. H. Smith, Parker, Holloway, Austin, Wills, Freeman, Melloy, and Bullock, 1158; Ernest Smith, 1559; D. Rose, P.M. 73; Gordon, Rutter, and Taylor, 753; Vincent, P.M. 666; Leader, 1275; H. Shaw, D.C. 834; Jenkins, 1475; Catterson, 548; Goddard, 186; Kent, P.M. 879; T. Wingham, P.M. 25; Nott, J.D. 87; Fellowes, 871; W. Stewart, 141; Brown, 511; Downey, 186; and several others, in all exceeding sixty.

The lodge having been opened in the three degrees, Bro. Terry proceeded to rehearse the ceremony of consecration as followed in consecrating a regular lodge.

The lodge being duly consecrated, Bro. Terry proceeded to instal Bro. Macdonald, W.M. of the parent lodge, into the chair of K.S., who appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Walter, S.W.; Allen, J.W.; Wise, Treas.; Beavis, Sec.; S. Smith, S.D.; Heffer, J.D.; Stewart, I.G.; and Stead, Tyler. The usual addresses to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren were given in a manner that invoked the high encomiums of all present. The work of the lodge being ended, Bro. Terry was unanimously elected the first honorary member of the lodge, and the brethren present resolved nem. con. to constitute themselves the Southern Star Lodge of Instruction.

Bro. J. Walter having been elected unanimously W.M. for the ensuing Thursday, appointed his officers in rotation.

Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to a cold collation, presided over by the W.M. of the mother lodge, Bro. Govan Macdonald.

After the cloth had been cleared, the W.M. briefly introduced the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. The toast of the evening, "Prosperity to the Southern Star Lodge of Instruction," was then proposed by Bro. Wise, I.P.M. 1158, the original promoter of the lodge of instruction, who spoke at some length on the utility and importance of such institutions. Coupled with the toast were the names of the W.M. and Bro. Pulsford, the Preceptor, the former of whom, in replying, called the brethren's attention to the fact that God helps those who help themselves, and he was convinced that those who sought the instruction they needed and required in this lodge would find it at the hands of the Preceptor, Bro. P.M. Pulsford. The latter, in rising, endorsed all that the Worshipful Master had said.

The W.M. next proposed "The Health of Bro. Terry, the Consecrating Officer."

Bro. Terry, in replying, expressed his gratification at having been of some little service to the brethren of the Southern Star Lodge that evening, and in one of his forcible and characteristic addresses urged the brethren that while they were seeking a knowledge of the beautiful ceremonies of the Craft not to overlook the brightest ornament that adorned it—charity.

The toast of "The Promoter of the Lodge, Bro. Wise, I.P.M. 1158," was then given by the W.M., and duly responded to, and after "The Officers of the Evening" and "The Host," Bro. Block had been similarly honoured, the Tyler's toast brought this very successful meeting to an agreeable termination.

We had well nigh omitted to mention that the musical portion of the ceremony, under the able direction of Bro. Burr, was all that could be desired, and the members of the Southern Star Lodge of Instruction may be congratulated upon the success of their first meeting.

Reviews.

"THE ROYAL MASONIC CYCLOPEDIA." By Bro. K. R. H. Mackenzie.—Bro. J. Hogg.

In the interests of Masonic study and archaeology we welcome all efforts to elucidate Masonic terms, or to harmonize Masonic discrepancies, which are many. Bro. Mackenzie, who is proceeding with his work in monthly numbers, has put out—Bro. J. Hogg, being his publisher—another number of his work. He now has reached N. For those who interest themselves in the abstruse speculations of so called theosophic Masonry, or the Hebrew Cabala, or Kabbalah, Bro. Mackenzie offers much of information and dwells more largely on such topics than any other writer we know of. His article on "Goetia," will be also full of novelty for some.

THE VICAR OF BRIGG AND THE FREEMASONS.

The following letter was addressed to the editor of the "Hull and Lincolnshire Times":—

Sir,—You gave in your last issue an accurate report of the proceedings of the Freemasons at Brigg on the 6th inst., at the Lincolnshire provincial meeting. It is generally understood that the objects of the fraternity are the promotion of benevolence, morality—in a word, every charitable feeling and practice, and every Christian and moral virtue. On this occasion, as several clergymen belong to the Order, it was desired by some of the members, as was the case at Peterborough Cathedral the week prior to the last, and some time since at York Minster, to have a service at Brigg Church; but the vicar, the Rev. W. J. Wylie, M.A., claiming a gift of penetration beyond his clerical brethren, discovered such infidelity or expansion of religious views among Freemasons as to refuse them the privilege of the worst of sinners—pessimism—to join, as Freemasons, in his Church at Brigg (which, by-the-bye, is a National Church), in the service of prayer and praise, and declined to allow one of the Grand Chaplains of their Order, a duly ordained minister of the Church of England, as well as Mr. Wylie, and whose teaching must conform to the articles and liturgy of the Church of England, to address Freemasons on their religious and moral duties in his church, or rather the Church of England, at Brigg. Furthermore, it may be stated as authentic that one of the sidesmen of Brigg Church, an influential resident in that town, aided the vicar by his influence and purse, very recently, to place a peal of bells in the tower of Brigg Church, and this gentleman is well known to be the leading Freemason in the town of Brigg; and the Master of the Freemasons' lodge at Brigg, at the present time, is a neighbouring clergyman, Mr. Wylie's equal in ability, moral conduct, orthodoxy, and piety. Now, can there be a more wanton exhibition of the absence of brotherly love, or a more tyrannical aggression on the rights of the laity, than to exclude them from the service of common prayer, the prescribed ritual of our National Church? Such an assumption of power as to exclude, or rather excommunicate, both priest and people from the services of the Church of England is to reach the acme of petty popedom in England, and to set up a capricious clerical test as the condition of public worship. As a benefited clergyman of the Church of England, and a doctor of divinity of both English Universities, I record my protest against this audacious yet puerile aggression on the rights of conscience and the principles of civil and religious liberty. Such drivelling sentimentalism, evinced in action by tyrannical authority, only rouses the laity to personal indignation, and leads some to argue, however illogically, for the disestablishment of the Anglican Church, which, in common with others, I so strongly deprecate. Let the Pope of Rome, if his Holiness please, place Freemasonry, as he does the Church of England, under his ban. We require not, but rather protest against, any mawkish imitation of the decrees of the Vatican, with respect to Masonry or other matters, from any clergyman who eats the bread, and ministers in the church, of the British Reformation.—I am, Sir, yours obediently.

FREEMASONS AND THE DRAMA.

The Masonic body has on various occasions of late been made the medium in Devonshire for appeals in aid of charitable objects. It recently occurred to a brother or brethren that there were sufficient Masons in the neighbourhood fond of appearing on the stage to form a histrionic club, and that Masonic patronage might be counted on if the proceeds of the entertainments were given to charitable objects. Several brethren rallied promptly to the suggestion, and the formation of the club was recently announced.

This week the members make their debut at the Plymouth Theatre Royal, and have selected on the present occasion for their aid the Royal British Female Orphan Asylum at Stoke, and the Royal Masonic Boys' School in London. Last evening the first performance was given, and conspicuous among the audience was a liberal gathering of brethren in full Masonic dress, which had been requested. The performances were opened with a prologue written and spoken by Major Shanks. Its special appeal to "the brethren of the mystic tie" and its compliment.

"Ladies, I need make no appeal to you,

For in your hearts you all are Masons true," drew warm applause. The pieces for the evening were Dion Boucault's drama "The Colleen Bawn," followed by "Jeremy Diddler." In the drama the principal parts were taken by Messrs. Curteis, Hardress Cregan; J. Rendle, Kyrle Daly; W. H. Pike, Myles-na-Coppaleen; Lucas, R.M., Danny Man; and Twose, Father Tom; with the aid of lady professionals. The piece passed off smoothly and with very few hitches, and that this should be so, when given by an amateur company on the first occasion of its members playing together, was highly creditable. The racy Irish pathos and fun that have enabled that drama to be played for dozens of nights together at the same theatre with success could not be expected under the circumstances. Jeremy Diddler had the marked advantage of having Mr. J. R. Newcombe in one of his stock characters, given with his usual ability, and afforded much amusement. On Friday "The Ticket of Leave Man" and "Raising the Wind" was performed. With the advantage of further histrionic culture and acquaintance with stage business, the club will doubtless increase in attraction, especially if playing at a more popular period of the year for theatrical performers.—"Western Morning News."

A concert in aid of the benevolent funds and charities connected with the Torbay Lodge, No. 1358, and in commemoration of the safe return to his native land of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W. Grand Master of Freemasons, was given on Tuesday, June 6th, at the Royal Bijou Theatre, Paignton. The brethren of the neighbourhood mustered in large numbers, wearing Masonic clothing, a dispensation having been granted by the Provincial Grand Master, Rev. J. Huyshe. A festival cantata formed the first part of the concert, the words selected from Psalms 121 and 125, the music composed by the Organist of the lodge, Bro. T. Brooks, R.A.M. (formerly Organist of St. Alban's Abbey). The composer conducted, and the solos and recitations were very ably rendered by Miss Brooks, the Rev. W. H. Butlin, and the Rev. W. Watkins. A choir of upwards of thirty voices sang the choruses very effectively, and the whole work was received with warm approbation by a large and critical audience, the earnest feelings of all being thoroughly moved by the appropriate verses from Psalm 121, in the concluding portion, "The Lord shall preserve thy going out, and thy coming in, from this time forth, for evermore. Hallelujah!" "My help cometh from the Lord, who hath made heaven and earth. Hallelujah! Amen." The second part was a miscellaneous selection. The songs—"The Raft," Rev. W. Watkins; "Tom Bowling," Rev. W. H. Butlin; "Soft melody, thy kindly voice," and "The Mermaid," Miss Brooks—were deservedly encored, the two latter being very skilfully accompanied on the violin by Bro. A. H. Dendy, whose beautiful instrument was heard to great advantage in the cantata, and throughout the programme. The part singing by the choir was much admired, "Spring with fairy foot" being encored. The finale, "God Bless the Prince of Wales," was sung with hearty zeal, bringing this successful concert to a conclusion, and it is a pleasure to be able to state that the result of this loyal and fraternal meeting will be a considerable augmentation of the charitable funds of the lodge.

The Prince of Wales (who has recovered from his recent illness) visited the Horse Show at the Alexandra Park on Wednesday. His Royal Highness arrived at twenty minutes past one o'clock. The Prince met with an enthusiastic reception. After déjeuner his Royal Highness witnessed a leaping competition. It is expected that he will leave on Saturday for Sandown Park.

The amount of contributions to the Hospital Sunday Fund received at the Mansion House to Wednesday evening exceeded £13,000.

Bro. Sir Edward Lee has had the honour of being presented to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by His Grace the Duke of Beaufort.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

JOPPA LODGE (No. 188).—The last regular meeting of this old established lodge was held at the Albion Hotel, Aldersgate-street, on Thursday, the 8th ult., instead of the usual day of meeting, viz., the first Monday in the month, that being this year bank holiday. The lodge was opened at five o'clock in the afternoon by Bro. Alexander, P.M., acting for the W.M., who did not arrive until later in the evening, and Bros. Lazarus, S.W.; Miller, J.W.; Auerhaan, Treas.; Albert, P.M.G.P., &c., Sec.; Spiegel, S.D.; Hymans, I.G.; Van Noorden, Org.; Isaacs and Baker, Stewards; Hickman, I.P.M.; and Roberts, Levy, Abraham, Past Masters. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the acting W.M. passed Bros. Rohmann, Stransky, Collier, and Bromfield, and the W.M., Bro. A. G. Dodson, upon his arrival raised Bros. Riebold and Staley (Tranquillity). The ceremonies were well performed. Bro. A. Auerhaan, late of this lodge, having been proposed to re-join, and several minor matters having been discussed, the lodge was closed, and the brethren and the visitors, amounting together to the number of 104, sat down to an excellent banquet, which was well served under the management of that well-known caterer, Bro. Jennings, and superintended by Bro. Keeping. Among the visitors we noticed Bros. H. Pullen, P.G.S.B., and Foxhall, A.G.P. of England; Buss, P.G.T. of Middlesex; Ross, P.M. 185; Austin, P.M. 933; Senecal, P.M. 860; Stead, W.M. 1297; Woodman, W.M. 1551; T. C. Walls, S.D. 1381, &c.; Jarvis, 14; Ball, 15; McLish, 55; Fletcher and Baker, 180; Staley, 185; A. Auerhaan, 1, late 188; Solomons, 194; Lewis, 907; Williams, 933. Upon the removal of the cloth the W.M. gave the customary loyal and Craft toasts, prefaced by a few well-chosen remarks. "The National Anthem" was then rendered by Bros. Van Noorden and Benjamin, Mr. Prenton, and Mesdames Alma Tork and Dore. In proposing "The Pro G.M., the D.G.M., and the rest of the P.O.'s Past and Present," the W.M. took occasion to congratulate the lodge upon being honoured that evening by the presence of Bros. H. Pullen, P.G.S., and Foxhall, A.G.P., and coupled the last-named brother with the toast. Bro. Foxhall in reply stated that, although he held the lowest office in Grand Lodge, he felt it to be a very great honour in being selected to be one of that distinguished body, and he was also exceedingly gratified on the present occasion at having his name mentioned in connection with the toast, and in conclusion he congratulated the Joppa Lodge upon the exceptionally good working of its various officers, from the highest to the lowest grade. The W.M. then gave "The Joppa Benevolent Fund," which he remarked was in a very sound and flourishing condition, which state of things he was happy to say was the result of there having been no applications for some time past for a participation in its benefits. This fund had the advantage of being well-managed by the President, Vice-President and committee, and he, therefore, called upon them to drink the health of those worthy brethren in connection with the toast. Bro. Alexander, P.M., the President, returned thanks. Bro. Hickman, the I.P.M., who had but recently recovered from a severe accident, and the effects of which were still apparent, then rose and met with a very warm greeting. He stated that he felt exceedingly pleased at being able to meet them once again, and well enough to wield the gavel to call order for the toast of their W.M. He had seen some of Bro. Dodson's working that day in lodge, and from what he had heard from others who had had an opportunity of witnessing the manner in which the onerous duties of the chair had been discharged by the W.M. since his installation he was sure the lodge would join with him in drinking the W.M.'s health most heartily. This toast having been duly honoured, the W.M. made a very modest and brief reply, and immediately gave "The Visitors," and read the names of the numerous brethren present that evening, and observed, as the lateness of the hour would not permit all of them to reply, he should call upon that very old and esteemed P.G.O., Bro. Hyde Pullen, to respond. This toast having been received with excellent fire Bro. Pullen made a very neat reply, in which he briefly touched upon the working of the lodge, the unity which appeared to prevail among its members, and above all the prosperous state of its benevolent fund, which he hoped would be long without an application for relief, and in conclusion he thanked them for the kind reception they had accorded to him and his co-visitors. The toasts of "The Past Masters, Treasurer and Secretary, Wardens and Junior Officers" followed in quick succession, and were suitably acknowledged by the individual brethren honoured. The musical arrangements of Bro. V. Noorden and his staff of artistes were excellent, and were supplemented by the instrumental and vocal contributions of Bros. Jarvis, Walls, and others. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings, which were eminently successful, to a conclusion, and the brethren separated until the first Monday in October next.

WOOLWICH.—Union Waterloo Lodge (No. 13).—The closing meeting of this old and excellent lodge for the year 1876 took place on Wednesday, the 14th ult., at the Masonic Hall, William-street, and Bro. Carnelly, who has sat in the chair for the last 13 months owing to alterations in the bye-laws, will now retire from office in favour of Bro. F. G. Pownall, who, with more than ordinary luck, retires this month from the chair of the United Military Lodge, No. 1536, of which he was the first Master, and is now by unanimous consent W.M. elect of the lodge under notice. There was a large muster of Bro. Carnelly's friends and supporters present, and the lodge was well filled, no less than four W.M.'s elect being present at one time, viz., Bros. Vincent, of the Pattison, No. 913; Weston, of the United Military, No. 1536; Butt, of the Nelson, No. 700; and Pownall, of the Union Waterloo. The work of the lodge having been finished in the masterly manner for which Bro. Carnelly is so often praised, as we have before shown, Bro. Pownall was elected to the chair for the ensuing year. Bro. J. Henderson, P.M., Treas., and Sec. of several lodges in the district, and who has held the office of Treasurer of the lodge for the last 23 years, was once again entrusted with its finances, and Bro. B. Norman, Tyler to the Capper and Nelson Lodges, and Janitor for the Pattison Chapter, was again elected O.G., Bros. Davies Denton, and Reilly and Hosgood, were then elected on the Audit Committee, and after the petition of a poor and distressed brother had been received previous to presentation to the Grand Lodge of Benevolence, the lodge was closed, and the brethren spent a most enjoyable evening in harmony, during which the W.M. elect paid a high tribute to the zeal and energy of Bro. Syer, the Secretary, who, he declared, had worked unremittingly for the success and prosperity of the lodge. Bro. Syer eloquently replied, and the Tyler's toast concluded the proceedings.

HALIFAX.—St. John's Lodge (No. 448).—The brethren of this lodge held their regular meeting at the Masonic Hall to welcome home Bro. Frederick Whitaker on his return from his recent voyage round the world. There was a very large attendance of brethren, who heartily greeted Bro. Whitaker, whom they presented with a very unique P.M.'s jewel in gold, and which bore the following inscription:—"Presented by brethren of St. John's Lodge, No. 448, Halifax, to Bro. Frederick Whitaker, P.P.J.G.D. of W.Y., P.M. 307, in recognition of his services as W.M. for the year 1875, this 13th day of June, 1876, being the first lodge meeting after his return, 27th May, from his tour round the world." On the scroll was the Latin motto, "Palmani qui meruit ferat." After the business of the lodge was concluded all the brethren adjourned to the spacious dining-hall, and there partook of a very sumptuous repast, which was presided over by the W.M., Bro. T. Wheelhouse, Bro. C. T. Rhodes occupying the vice-chair, and Bro. Thomas Whitaker, P.M. 307, in the S. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been proposed and honoured, Bro. Wheelhouse, in very eulogistic terms, proposed "The Health of Bro. Frederick Whitaker," and spoke of the gratification it afforded them to see him once more amongst them. Bro. Whitaker, who was loudly cheered, related, in his happiest style, his experience of Freemasons and Freemasonry as practised in the various countries through which he had travelled, and how he on one occasion received the hearty grip of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The evening was spent in an exceedingly pleasant manner, the brethren departing about 12 p.m.

CROYDON.—Frederick Lodge of Unity (No. 452).—On the 20th ult. the installation meeting of this lodge was held at Bro. Budden's, the Greyhound Hotel. Bro. W. S. Masterman, W.M., presided, and was supported by his officers, Bros. J. W. Sugg, S.W. and W.M. elect; George Wright, J.W.; James Robins, P.M., Treasurer; Magnus Ohren, P.M., Sec.; A. T. Jeffery, S.D.; C. H. Edwards, J.D.; Charles Pawley, I.G.; E. H. Sugg and C. A. Manning, Stewards; H. E. Frances, P.M., D.C.; and the following brethren:—Bros. W. Locock Webb, P.M.; Dr. Henry J. Strong, P.M.; R. H. Evans, P.M.; Arthur J. Dickinson, F.C.S., P.M.; W. Sugg, C.E., P.M.; E. T. Zohrab, F. G. G. Obert, F. A. Manning, C. M. Ohren, G. E. Ohren, J. W. Gray, C.E.; F. Cassell, and George Robins. There were also the following visitors:—Bros. Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.D. of England; Thos. P. Dickinson, W.M. of the Surrey of Concord, 463; Dr. Clayton Palmer, of the Burdett Lodge, 1293; Henry Potter, Constitutional, 55; A. H. Wymouth, Great Northern, 1287; J. S. Leafe, Star, 1275; O. H. Colven, Felicity, 58; E. Spooner, Earl Spencer, 1420; H. Massey ("Freemason"). Bro. George Robins, who was initiated at the last meeting of the lodge, was passed to the Second Degree by Bro. Magnus Ohren, P.M. and Sec., who also initiated Mr. John Methven, gas engineer, of the London Gas Company. Bro. Frances, P.M., installed Bro. J. W. Sugg as W.M. of the lodge, who afterwards invested as his officers:—Bros. W. S. Masterman, I.P.M.; George Wright, S.W.; Arthur T. Jeffery, J.W.; D. J. Drakeford, Chaplain; James Robins, P.M., Treas.; Magnus Ohren, P.M., Sec.; C. H. Edwards, S.D.; Charles Pawley, J.D.; H. E. Frances, P.M., D.C.; E. H. Sugg, I.G.; F. A. Manning and E. T. Zohrab, Stewards; and C. T. Speight, Tyler. The W.M. afterwards initiated Mr. Geo. F. Cousins, stockbroker, and Mr. J. W. Rogers, solicitor, performing the work in masterly style. A P.M.'s jewel was voted to Bro. Masterman. The Special Committee's report was read and approved, as was also the agreement with Bro. Budden for holding the lodge at the Greyhound, Croydon. The Treasurer's report was also read and adopted, shewing £40 3s. 11d. in hand, and current subscriptions, £100 16s. Bro. J. A. Frinney was proposed by P.M. Jas. Robins for rejoining, and Mr. David Sugg, son of P.M. Wm. Sugg, was proposed for initiation. The brethren afterwards retired to an excellent banquet, and honoured the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. The work concluded the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Budden, and the usual Masonic toasts followed. After the toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," and "The M.W.G.M.," the W.M. gave that of "The Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, &c.," and said that as the brethren had found Masonry progress within the last few years, it was pleasing to find that those whose circumstances had placed them in the leading forces of the Craft had well performed their duties. Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.D., responded, and said he felt very much obliged to Bro. Ohren for giving him the opportunity of being present, as he had seen the new W.M. well up to his duties, and doing his work in a fluent and efficient style. The lodge must be proud that it was blessed with such good Masters, but more especially with a Master who was able on his first night to perform his work so fluently. He had listened to him with very great pleasure. He did not know that it was the privilege of Grand Officers to criticise what was going on, but he had taken the liberty to express what he felt. The lodge had furnished an example which others should not be slow to follow, and young Masons who aspired to achieve a position should take pattern by Bro. Sugg. He (Bro. Hogg) hoped to see him in the highest position the Craft had in its power to bestow. The W.M. next gave "The Provincial Grand Master of Surrey and the Prov. G. Officers, Present and Past." The Prov. G. Master, by the commission he held, and by the sheer force of his character, had endeared himself to all the Masons of the Province. The Prov. G. Officers had his "hall-mark" on them, and were an honour to the Province as well as to the lodges to which they belonged. So many brethren of this lodge wore the provincial purple that he had felt his own apron tinged with the prevailing colour. Bro. W. Locock Webb responded. He had always taken a great interest in Masonry in the Province of Surrey for many years, and though he had been absent some time he did not think it had done him any harm, because such absence had caused him to see with the greater clearness when he came back to these meetings the great progress that had been made in his absence. There were but seven lodges in the province some sixteen years ago. There were sixteen now. Very few members could be got together at a lodge in former times, but now nearly thirty regularly assembled, and on this great progress he congratulated the brethren sincerely. Bro. H. E. Frances proposed "The W.M.," and referred to the humorous speech in which he responded to the toast of "The W.M. Elect" on the last occasion. In spite of what he then said he was no doubt fully aware of his ability to take the responsible duties upon him which he had that evening placed in his hands by the Installing Master. He would not have taken the office if he had not been capable of discharging its duties. He had faithfully performed his duties in all the offices he had undertaken, and the brethren had now a Master of whom they might well be proud. Bro. Webb had been a great honour to the lodge, but Bro. Sugg was quite capable of following in his footsteps. The W.M., in reply, said he thanked the brethren very much for the honour they had done him, and for the very cordial way in which they had drunk the toast. He also thanked Bro. Francis for the kind way in which he had introduced the toast to the attention of the brethren. When he (the W.M.) became a member of this lodge seven years ago he came in with but one predetermined idea—to do his duty; and from that day to this he had endeavoured to discover in what that duty consisted, and the result of his observation was that in Masonry to do one's duty was simply to do his best, and more than that was not expected of any brother. When he looked round and saw the judicious Treasurership of Bro. Robins, and the careful Secretaryship of Bro. Ohren, he felt that he must follow in their footsteps as well as in those of the other P.M.'s of the lodge. This was the course he should endeavour to pursue, and with that feeling it was that he entered on the duties of his office. (Hear.) The W.M., in giving the toast of "The P.M.'s," said it was human nature for men to kick the ladder over when they arrived at the summit of their ambition, or to forget the ladder by which they had climbed. He, however, could not forget the steps by which he had been raised, or the good offices of Bro. Francis, who had installed him. The brethren all knew how much they were indebted to him for the assistance he at all times rendered them in the ordinary work of the lodge, and also in installing the W.M. that day. Therefore in proof of their appreciation they should drink his health. Bro. Frances replied, and the W.M. then proposed "The P.M.'s," and said that Dr. Doran had written a work on "Monarchs retired from business;" but whether public men became like Cincinnatus following the plough, or Mr. Gladstone felling timber, their work was a paradise compared with that of the P.M.'s of the lodge. They might truly say of themselves that "something attempted, something done, they had earned a night's repose." It had been said that the Duke of Wellington was never tired of looking at the field of Waterloo, but the P.M.'s of the lodge might never be tired of looking back on what they had done, and of witnessing its results. Bro. Masterman, I.P.M., responded. He had in his year tried to keep alive the old spirit of hospitality in the lodge, and had done everything with the desire of helping the lodge with his might. Bro. Webb had had the privilege of belonging to the lodge many years, and brethren like him had worked hard and well in support of the lodge. When the W.M. should come to occupy a place among the P.M.'s, he did not think he would be at all disappointed in finding it a comfortable and honourable position. He thought he would find it an elysium. "The Initiates" was the next toast, which the W.M., in giving, impressed on those brethren with the words of Napoleon, that every private soldier in the French army carried a general's baton in his knapsack. With this saying he begged to assure the initiates that it was in their power to become W.M.'s. All the initiates replied, and the W.M. next gave "The Visitors," and Bro. Dickin, W.M. East Surrey Lodge of Concord, replied. "The Press" was humorously proposed by the W.M., who selected Bro. H. Massey, "Freemason," to respond. "The Treasurer and Secretary" was replied to by Bro. James Robins, and "The Officers" by the S.W., after which the brethren returned to town. Bros. Magnus Ohren, George Robins, and the J.W. sang several excellent songs during the evening, which was most agreeably spent.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge (No. 523).—The installation meeting of this prosperous lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday, the 22nd ult., and was perhaps one of the most pleasant and enjoyable meetings in the history of this well-known and popular lodge. In addition to a large muster of officers and brethren, there were present Bros. Kelly, F.R.I.I.S., P.P. G.M.; S. S. Partridge, P.M., P.G.S.; Robert Brewin, P.M., P.P.G.S.W.; Geo. Toller, jun., P.M., P.P.S.G.W.; Thos. Sheppard, P.M.; Thos. Worthington, W.M. 50; Geo. Clifton, P.M., P.P.G.P.; A. K. Baines, W.M. 1495; Fred Grant, W.M. 1330; J. M. McAllister, W.M. 279, P.P.G. Supt. of Wks.; Rev. W. Langley, P.M. 50, P.P.S.G.W.; R. B. Smith, W.M. 1007, P.P.A.G.D.C.; Robt. Waite, P.M. 279, P.P.J.G.W.; R. A. Barber, P.M. 1391, P.P.G.P.; A. Palmer, P.M. 209, P.P.G.P.; F. J. Baines, P.M., P.D.S.C.; C. C. Woodcock, P.G. Reg.; C. Stretton, J.W. 279; C. A. Righter, of New York; C. S. Preston, S.W. 50, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; and Dr. Hunt, P.P.G.A.D.C.; E. Mason, W.M. 1391, P.G. Stwd.; and others. The lodge was opened in due form by Bro. Thorp, the retiring W.M. The minutes of the last lodge were read and confirmed, and the Treasurer's report for the past year having been read and adopted, the best thanks of the lodge were given to Bro. W. B. Smith, P.M., P.G. Treas., for his valuable services as Treasurer. Bro. W. T. Rowlett, S.W. and W.M. elect, was presented by Bro. S. S. Partridge, P.M., P.G.S., to Bro. Thorp, for installation, and having given his assent to the ancient charges and regulations, was obligated, and a board of Installed Masters having been opened, was installed in due form into the chair of K.S., and saluted with the customary honours. The ceremony of installation was most ably performed by Bro. Thorp, I.P.M., in a most impressive manner, which was remarked by every brother present as being simply perfection. At the close of the ceremony the W.M. proceeded to appoint his officers, which he did as follows:—Bros. T. A. Wykes, S.W.; R. Taylor, J.W.; W. B. Smith, P.M., Treas.; W. C. Strout, Sec.; G. Odell, S.D.; J. Young, J.D.; C. Johnson, P.M., Org.; C. C. Woodcock, I.G.; T. M. Quinn, T. R. Pickering, Stewards; C. Bembridge, and T. Dunn, Tylers. A vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Thorp, the Installing Master, for the admirable way in which he had performed the ceremony. The R.W. Bro. Kelly, P.P.G.M., then, in the name of the lodge presented him with a Past Master's jewel suitably inscribed, and complimented him in high terms on the very efficient way in which he had discharged his duties during his past year, and also bore testimony to the very perfect manner in which he had installed his successor. Bro. Thorp in acknowledging this tribute of respect thanked the brethren for their kind feeling, and assured them that he should not relax his interest in the welfare of the lodge. Heartly good wishes having been given by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed in due form. The brethren, about seventy in number, re-assembled at the banquet table, and took of a most sumptuous repast, which reflected the highest credit on the Stewards, Bros. Sargeant and Smith. After the banquet the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and were interspersed with the instrumental selections (especially arranged for the occasion by Bro. H. Nicholson), performed by Bros. H. Nicholson (flute); G. L. Vaughan (flute); W. T. Rowlett, W.M. (oboe); T. A. Wykes, S.W. (bassoon); and H. B. Ellis, 1391 (pianoforte), which called forth the enthusiastic applause of the brethren. Bro. Thorp, I.P.M., proposed the toast of the evening, "The W.M. of John of Gaunt Lodge, Bro. W. T. Rowlett, and Success to the Lodge," and in doing so congratulated the lodge in having elected so worthy a brother to preside over them. The toast was received with immense enthusiasm, and the W.M. responded in feeling and eloquent terms. Bro. Brewin, 112, and 444, an old P.M. of the Lodge, and P.P.S.G.W. of the Province, in responding to the toast of "The Visitors," paid a high compliment to the officers of the lodge for their first class working, and compared it with the time when he was W.M. in 1860. Bro. C. A. Righter, of New York, in a speech of rare ability also returned thanks on behalf of the visitors. The Tyler's toast and parting song finished one of the most successful meetings of the lodge.

PLUMSTEAD.—Pattison Lodge (No. 913).—The election of W.M. of the above lodge for the ensuing year took place at the last monthly meeting, held on the 1st ult., at Bro. Tucker's, the Lord Raglan, Plumstead, Bro. A. Penfold, W.M., in the chair, supported by the whole of his officers. After working the three degrees in the interest of several candidates who were entitled to it, and

and the voting to a distressed brother, who had some years ago been a member, of a good round sum for his present needs, Bro. W. T. Vincent, S.W., was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. A. Jessup being as loyally voted into his old position as Treasurer. Bro. R. Lister was voted Tyler by acclamation, and then, as some recognition of the valuable services rendered by Bro. Penfold to the lodge during his year of office, it was proposed, and carried unanimously, that a jewel of the value of £10 10s. should be presented to him by the lodge as a mark of esteem and gratitude for those services. After suitable replies from the blushing recipient of such, though well deserved yet high honours, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts being of course fully honoured. We had almost forgotten to mention that the W.M. elect has presented the lodge with a superb harmonium, which, under the skilful manipulation of Bro. C. Cooke, Org. 700 and of 13, contributed much to the impressiveness of the ceremonies. The installation and banquet take place early next month.

TEDDINGTON.—Felix Lodge (No. 1494).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Clarence Hotel, Teddington, on Saturday, the 17th ult. Present, Bros. F. S. Knyvett, Grand Steward, W.M.; Edward B. Graham, I.P.M.; F. B. Archer, S.W., W.M. elect; Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B., acting as J.W.; W. G. Moore, P.M., S.D.; T. S. Archer, J.D.; E. A. Woolley, I.G.; Geo. Hancock, P.M., Past Prov. G. Deacon Somerset, D.C.; and the following visitors: Bro. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B.; Bro. H. G. Buss, Provincial Grand Treasurer, Middx.; Bro. W. R. Pullen, East Medina, No. 175; J. Whitmore, M.D., P.M. Royal Athelstan, No. 19; A. R. Marten, Past Grand Steward, P.M. 58; J. Keates, Eden Lodge, Limerick; F. Knyvett, 160; H. Thorn, P.M. 165; W. W. Aldridge, P.M. 165; T. Yeol, 167; J. Brockett Sorrell, P.M. 176; J. Brockett Sorrell, jun., J.W. 176; E. H. Smithette, 180; E. G. Fox, P.M. 235; T. D. Boulton, P.G. Stwd. 259; T. Wilkinson, Sec. 271; H. T. Wrenfordsley, 442; W. Croucher, 534; T. E. Woollard, 1203; P. Dickinson, S.W.; 1208; W. F. Taunton, 1385; T. W. Ockenden, D.C. 1512. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. Several communications from brethren expressive of regret at not being present were read. Bro. Sharon Grote Turner (Lodge of Antiquity, No. 2) was elected a joining member. Bros. Getty, Hunter, Twinberron, and Youngusband were raised to the Third Degree by the W.M., after which Bro. Francis Bradley Archer was presented by Bro. Graham, P.M., Prov. Grand Steward Middx., to the W.M. for installation, the ceremony being performed by Bro. Knyvett, W.M., in a very able and impressive manner. On Bro. Archer being installed into the chair, and saluted according to ancient custom, he invested Bros. Knyvett as I.P.M.; Graham, P.M., Secretary; Berridge, Grand Steward, S.W.; W. G. Moore, P.M., J.W.; T. S. Archer, S.D.; E. A. Woolley, J.D.; J. Melville Curtis, I.G.; George Hancock, P.M., D.C. There being no further business before the lodge the brethren adjourned to banquet, presided over by Bro. Archer, W.M.. On the removal of the cloth grace was beautifully sung by Bros. Sealy, Hunter, and Taunton, and the usual loyal toasts were given and responded to. Bro. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B., in returning thanks for the Grand Officers, congratulated the W.M. upon his present position, and it was with sincere pleasure he had witnessed the prosperity of the lodge under the Masterships of Bros. Graham and Knyvett, and he had little doubt that it would continue unabated under the rule of the present W.M., who had shewn considerable ability and tact even the short time he had occupied the chair. Bro. H. G. Buss, in responding for the Prov. Grand Officers, expressed his regret that the Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Col. Francis Burdett, was not able to attend on this occasion. He was exceedingly gratified on his last visit to find the lodge in its present state of efficiency, and felt assured that it would still continue to prosper. "The Health of the W.M." was proposed in eulogistic terms by Bro. Knyvett, I.P.M., who spoke of the valuable services which Bro. Archer had rendered, and the pleasure it had afforded him to install into the chair of the Felix Lodge a brother who would continue to maintain the dignity and high position which the lodge held in the province of Middlesex. The toast was very enthusiastically received, and Bro. Archer in responding said that he would do his utmost to keep the lodge in its present state of efficiency, and thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which his health had been drank. Bro. A. R. Martin, Past Grand Steward, P.M. 58, responded for "The Visitors." The toast of "The Past Masters, Bros. Graham and Knyvett," was duly acknowledged by the latter, and that of "The Officers" by Bro. W. G. Moore, P.M., J.W. The Tyler's toast brought the meeting to a close. It is due to the musical brethren of the lodge to say their efforts to please were highly appreciated, and contributed very much to the success of the evening.

CHISLEHURST.—Chislehurst Lodge (No. 1531).—This young lodge, now just twelve months old, celebrated its first installation meeting since its foundation, on Saturday, the 24th ult., at the Bull Inn, Chislehurst, Bro. John Coutts, its first W.M., performing the ceremony of installing his successor. The choice of the brethren having fallen upon Bro. G. F. Guest, the S.W. of the past year, he was presented by Bro. Griffin, the Secretary, and having given his assent to the ancient charges laid down in the Book of Constitutions, the W.M. administered the customary obligation; and a Board of Installed Masters having been formed he was presented to them in the usual course, and formally installed into the chair of K.S. On the re-admission of the brethren he was proclaimed and saluted, and Bro. Coutts delivered the various addresses in a very impressive manner. This ceremony being concluded Bro. Guest appointed his officers for the year as follows:—Bros. W. Kipps, S.W. Gloster, J.W.; Coutts, Treas.; Griffin, Sec.; Mason, S.D.; Hardman, J.D.; Hutchings, I.G.; Fox, D.C.; Hunt, W.S.; and Grant, Tyler. Among the other brethren present were Bros. Edwd. Kipps, Thomas Skinner, L. Samuel, G. B. West, W. Goldsmid, J. Ford, W. J. Butler, H. C. F. Dana, R. J. Luck, J. W. Williams, and W. Hollis, members; while the visitors included Bros. Sadler, 25; A. J. Ireton, 1348; Chas. Andrews, 77 and 299, P.M.; John Davison, 299, W.M.; G. B. Gates, 829, W.M.; B. J. Manley, Alfred Avery, P.P. G.R. Kent; and W. Seaman, 1314; and E. C. Massey ("Freemason"). After the conclusion of the before mentioned ceremonies, there being no other business before the lodge, it was closed in perfect harmony, and the brethren adjourned to partake of an excellent banquet in the pretty public school-room near the inn, which had been secured for the occasion, a boon which on so warm an afternoon the brethren were not slow to appreciate. Beautiful Chislehurst was looking its best, and wearing its freshest greenery after the recent heavy rains; and the view of meadows, studded with magnificent elms, seen from the school windows in the afternoon sunlight, was very refreshing to the eyes of the town-worn men who had met there, and contributed another element of enjoyment to the dainty fare provided by mine host of the Bull Inn. On the removal of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed by the W.M., who in referring to the Grand Officers, Past and Present, said that it only needed a visit to Grand Lodge to prove the wisdom of the Prince of Wales in his choice of Grand Officers, for the way in which they performed their duties showed not only that they were efficient, but that they took a personal interest in the task they had undertaken. Bro. Coutts, in replying for the Grand Officers, joined in the eulogies that had been bestowed on the Earls of Carnarvon and Skelmersdale; and in thanking the W.M. for coupling his name with the toast hoped that the brethren would not think him vain for saying that it was not every brother who was a Grand Officer, but he assured them that, not withstanding his possession of that dignity, he felt more at home amongst them than he did on the dais of the Grand Lodge of England. The Chairman next proposed "The Health of Lord Holmesdale, Prov. Grand Master, and Bro. Eastes, D.P.G.M. of Kent," coupling the toast with the names of Bro. Avery, P.P. Grand Registrar; Bro. Russell, and Bro. Andrews, who replied in suitable terms. Bro. Coutts: Brethren, the W.M. has entrusted me with his gavel. You know, I am sure, the use I shall put it to. I summon you to drink "The Health of your W.M., Bro. Guest." Bro. Guest has been elected to be the Master of the Chislehurst Lodge during the ensuing year on account of his well-known ability to perform the work attaching to that office, and he has been to-day installed into the Master's chair, and I ask you to join me in wishing him a happy and prosperous year, and in drinking very good health to the W.M., Bro. Guest. The W.M., in thanking the brethren, said that he felt diffident as to the performance of his duties, following as he did the steps of so able a worker as Bro. Coutts. He trusted that his officers would perform their duties to the utmost of their ability, which was their best way of making his duties easy to perform. The W.M. then proceeded to propose "The Health of the Immediate Past Master, Bro. Coutts," than whom they could not have had an abler worker for the first ruler of the Chislehurst Lodge. While doing so he had the pleasure of presenting and investing Bro. Coutts with a Past Master's jewel, and trusted that he would live many years to wear it. He must not look at its intrinsic value. That was no index of the appreciation which the brethren had desired to mark; he must believe in their regard for him, and look upon the jewel merely as a sign to mark that regard. Bro. Coutts, in returning thanks, said that he felt very proud of their reception of the toast, and of the jewel with which they had been pleased to present him. Whenever he looked at that jewel in future it would remind him not only of his year of office as Master of the lodge, but of all the work they had had together in establishing it and bringing it up to its present prosperous condition. They had paid for all their furniture; they were free from debt; they had sent three Stewards to the Masonic Charities, and before they were nine months old had contributed something like £90 to the funds of those charities. He again thanked them for this memorial of their good will, and assured them that to the day of his death he should think of it with love, and wear it with pride. Several other toasts, including "The Visitors," "The Treasurer and Secretary," "The Masonic Charities," "The Officers of the Lodge," were given and responded to, till at length the benevolent wishes expressed in the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a conclusion, and the brethren returned to town after a pleasant evening that had not been spoiled by being protracted to a late hour.

PLUMSTEAD.—United Military Lodge (No. 1536).—The first year of this flourishing lodge was appropriately closed on Friday, the 9th ult., by the election of W.M. for the next year of its existence. There was a large attendance of both brethren and visitors, and Bro. Plaisted's fine hall was well filled by a gathering of the elite of the lodges of the district. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Bro. Pownall, the W.M., Bro. R. Croisdale, P.M. 706, and of the lodge, presided, supported by Bros. Capt. C. Phillips, P.M. 706, as P.M.; W. West, S.W.; G. Spinks, J.W.; W. Murphy, Treas.; H. G. Picken, S.D.; J. McCaffery, D.C.; R. G. Lapham, I.G.; J. Lackland, Tyler. After the work before the lodge had been eloquently done by the W.M., Bro. W. Weston was unanimously elected to the proud position of W.M. for the ensuing year, and the Treasurer and Tyler were duly re-instated in office, Bros. Weston and Lackland returning thanks in brief but well-chosen sentences. A ten guinea jewel was then voted to Bro. Pownall, to mark the lodge's appreciation of his valuable services, and Bro. Cooper was unanimously adjudged a Secretary's jewel and the thanks of the lodge for his arduous labours during the past year as Secretary of the lodge. The new harmonium purchased by subscription of the members was opened, and various selections played in a masterly manner by Bro. C. Cooke, Org. 700, and of 13. After the lodge had been closed in due form, the brethren re-assembled for refreshment, and under the experienced hand of Bro. Croisdale the toasts were both eloquent and to the point, aiding the success of a most enjoyable evening in more than ordinary style. The installation and banquet will be at Bro. Plaisted's comfortable and commodious hall, Anglesea-hill, Plumstead, early next month.

Royal Arch.

ROSE OF DENMARK CHAPTER (No. 975).—The quarterly communication of this chapter was held at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge, on Saturday, the 3rd ult. The officers present were Comps. James Terry, acting M.E.Z. (in the absence of M.E. Companion Poole, who had been suddenly called away to Wales to visit his son, who was seriously ill); John Newton, H.; Henry Martin, J.; J. P. Richards, S.N.; W. Dodd, S.E.; J. Green, P.S.; J. Walker, A.S.; H. G. Buss, P.G. Treas.; T. Price, P.Z.; also a fair muster of the companions, and the following visitors: Comps. D. W. Rain, P.S. 1293; Roberts, 771; C. G. Hill, S.N. 177. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. John Bingham, P.M. 55 and W.M. 1599; and Bro. Charles H. Goode, of No. 27, were balloted for and approved. Bro. Bingham being in attendance, was duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry in Comp. Terry's usual excellent style, after which the chapter was closed in ancient form, and the companions adjourned for refreshment. On the removal of the cloth the M.E.Z. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts from the Chair. In proposing the toast of "The Visitors," Comp. Terry, in the name of the chapter, gave them a hearty welcome, and they, in response, spoke in high terms of the excellent working they had seen, also of the true fraternal affection and unanimity of feeling that existed among the companions of the chapter. The Janitor's Toast brought to a close a very pleasant and happy evening.

BEDFORD.—Stuart Chapter (No. 540).—The quarterly meeting of this young but flourishing chapter was held on Tuesday, June 13th, when there were present Comps. Col. Stuart, M.E.Z.; Alderman Bull, H.; Cookson, J.; and the rest of the officers, with several companions. The chapter was visited by an old friend to Bedfordshire Masonry, Comp. Barfield, P.Z. Mount Sinai Chapter. The business of the evening was to exalt Sir John Montague Burgoyne, Bart., of Sutton Park, but he was unfortunately prevented from attending, to ballot for and exalt Bros. H. Harris, R. Barry Stafford, and R. H. Coombs. The ballots having been taken were found to be unanimous, and the above-named brethren were exalted in due course. After the proposal of another member to be exalted in September, hearty good wishes were tendered from Mount Sinai Chapter, and the chapter was closed, the companions afterwards spending a pleasant interval of refreshment.

LIVERPOOL.—Walton Chapter (No. 1086).—The annual gathering of the companions attached to this chapter took place on Thursday, the 22nd June, at Kirkdale, Liverpool. Comp. W. Jones was installed Z.; Comp. W. Septon, H.; J. Goodacre, J.; the Rev. J. Hyde, S.E.; Comp. W. Walker, S.N.; and Comp. Hammer, P.S. The installation ceremony was most satisfactorily performed by Comp. John Lunt, P.Z., P.G.D.C. W.L., assisted by Comp. W. Archer, P.Z. Bro. Dr. Young was exalted to the R.A. Degree in capital style. At the banquet which followed there was a large and highly influential attendance.

TYWARDREATH.—Unity Chapter (No. 1151).—At the annual meeting of this chapter, held on Tuesday, the sum of £10 was voted to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. A Board of Installed Principals, consisting of Ex-Comps. the Rev. Dr. Treffry, the Rev. Geo. Ross, W. Guy, and T. C. Stephens, then proceeded to instal Comps. Dr. A. A. Davis, as Z., and W. Tonkin, as H. Comp. W. Polkinghorne being unavoidably absent, his installation as J. was postponed until the next meeting. The First Principal then invested as officers Ex-Comps. Stephens, as P.Z.; Capt. Colville, Scribe E.; J. Wellington, Scribe N.; N. H. Lamb, Treas.; T. Walton, P.S.; H. Elliott, Janitor.

Mark Masonry.

MACDONALD LODGE (No. 104).—This lodge met for its seventh anniversary at Masons' Hall, Mulsall Avenue, Coleman-street, E.C., on Saturday, the 7th ult., and was honoured by a special visit from the Deputy Provincial Grand Mark Master for Middlesex and Surrey, the V.W. Bro. Frederick Davison, who was accompanied by the W. Bro. Sigismund Rosenhul, P.G.D.C., and the W. Bro. James Smith, P.M. 129 and P.G.S. The lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. Robert Berridge, who was supported by Bro. T. W. White, S.W., and W.M. elect; the V.W. Bro. Thomas Meggy, P.G.M.O.; the V.W. Bro. James Stevens, P.G.J.O.; and W. Bro. William Worrell, Past Masters of the lodge, and a strong muster of officers and brethren. Minutes having been confirmed, Bro. John Gilbert Edgecombe, of the Hengist Lodge, No. 195, was approved of for advancement with other candidates at a subsequent meeting, the business of the evening being too important to curtail by performing that ceremony in the full and perfect manner customary in this lodge. Bro. Meggy then read a dispensation forwarded through him to the lodge from the M.W.G.M.M., the Earl of Limerick, authorising and directing the W.M. and Past Masters to instal, as a W.M. of the Order, Bro. C. A. Heinmann a member of the lodge, and P.M. (Craft), who is about to proceed to Japan, where it is contemplated he will establish a Mark Masters' lodge, of which he will be the W.M. designate. At the request of the W.M., Bro. Meggy officiated as Installing Master, and Bro. T. W. White, the W.M. elect, and Bro. C. A. Heinmann, by selection of the M.W.G.M.M., were duly presented, and most ably installed as Worshipful Masters. They were saluted according to ancient custom, and expressions of good wishes towards both, the one in his capacity of Chief Officer of the Macdonald Lodge, and the other in regard to his contemplated journey and promotion of the interests of the Order, were freely and heartily enunciated. Bro. White then proceeded to the appointment of his officers in the following order, viz.:—Bros. Alfred Williams, S.W.; North Ritherdon, J.W.; Edward Moody, M.O.; Edgar Drewett, S.O.; W. P. Collins, J.O.; Thomas Meggy, P.M., Treas.; F. H. Cozens, P.M.; Charles Hamerton, P.M., Sec.; N. J. F. Bassett, S.D.; G. Yaxley, J.D.; G. W. Verry, I.G.; W. C. Hale, Org.; J. K. Pitt, W.S.; H. F. Partridge, C.S.; J. Close, D.C.; and W. Grant, Tyler. Bro. J. K. Pitt was unanimously nominated for Provincial Grand Officer. At the close of the business before the lodge the Deputy Provincial Grand Master called for the production of the minute book, and expressing his great satisfaction with former proceedings, and the progress of the lodge, was pleased to record therein the gratification with which he had witnessed the performing of the installation ceremony by Bro. Meggy, and the carrying out of the commands of the M.W.G.M.M. The lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to banquet, in the provision for which, at a reasonable cost, and with quality and quantity of fare and most attentive service, the new proprietors of Masons' Hall fairly earned the complimentary comments expressed by members and guests. So much satisfaction was given to the lodge, both in respect of working accommodation and at subsequent refreshment, that a suggested removal to other quarters, which at a previous meeting had been mooted, was now entirely abandoned, and the lodge will continue its meetings at the same place for, we hope, many years yet to come. After honouring the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, and spending a most enjoyable evening, the brethren separated.

Red Cross of Constantine.

THE ORIGINAL OR PREMIER CONCLAVE met 29th May at Masonic Hall, Regent-street, for the installation of officers and other routine business. The conclave was opened by the retiring M.P.S., Sir Knt. T. Burdett Yeoman, after which the voluminous minutes of the former gathering and others in connection with the business of the conclave were read and approved; at the conclusion a ballot was taken for Bro. Wm. Henry Pannel, C.C., Lodge 18. It was unanimous. The following brethren, who had already been approved, were duly invested (Bros. Druest, Thornton, and Fowler) by the Very Eminent and Illustrious Sir Knt. Angelo Lewis, who also on this occasion, in the absence of Sir Knt. R. Wentworth Little from serious illness, for whom much sympathy was expressed, enthroned the M.P.S., Sir Knt. Dubois, amid marks of general approval. He also installed the following officers, viz., the Rev. Dr. Brette, as Eusebius; Rev. J. Vaughan, Senior General; Rev. P. M. Holden, Junior General; R. W. Little, as Recorder and G.T.; Sir Knt. Moore, Prefect; and Gilbert, Sentinel. The conclave was then closed, and the Sir Knights retired to the refectory, where a sumptuous banquet was prepared and enjoyed. The routine toasts were then proposed and responded to with brevity, and pleasingly appreciated. Present at banquet: The V.E. and Illustrious G. V. Roy, Colonel Bordett; Dubois, M.P.S.; T. Burdett Yeoman, I.P.S.; Moss, P.S.; Hubbard, P.S.; Angelo Lewis, P.S.; T. Cubit, P.S.; Levander, P.S.; Sir Knight Moore, H.; and Holden, Colonel Peters, Parker, Organist. Visitor: Hyde Pullen. A cordial vote of thanks was tendered to Sir Knt. Angelo Lewis for his services, and large expressions of sorrow were spoken at the absence of the highly esteemed and beloved Sir Knt. Little. The Sir Knights separated after spending a most enjoyable evening.

LIVERPOOL.—Skelmersdale Conclave (No. 77).—The annual meeting of the above conclave was held at the Masonic Hall on Monday evening, the 5th ult., when there was a pretty fair representation of the members of the Knights of Rome and the Red Cross of Constantine. The conclave was opened by the M.P.S., Em. Sir Knt. W. Cottrell, at seven o'clock, and the muster roll showed that there were present Sir Knts. Henry Jackson, V.E.; John McCarthy, S.G.; Josh. Skeaf, J.G.; Thomas Ashmore, Treas.; W. H. Corbin, Recorder; H. Burrows, Herald; James C. McGuire, Steward; J. K. Smith, P. Sov. Dep. In. General; C. T. Callon, P. Sov.; Henry Nelson, P. Sov.; Richard Reader, T. W. Bibby, J. W. C. Cave-Brown-Cave, T. Webster, W. S. Matthews, and others. Amongst the visitors were Sir Knight Rev. Rees Jenkins, P. Sov. After the records had been confirmed in proper form, Bro. A. C. Wylie, J.D. of the Neptune Lodge, 1264, was duly exalted. Ill. Sir Knt. Dr. J. Kellett Smith, D. Int. Gen. West Lancashire, then took his place on the throne, and Sir Knt. Henry Jackson was presented by Em. Sir Knts. Ashmore and Cottrell, Past Sovs. The Knights under the rank of enthroned Sovereigns then withdrew, and Em. Sir Knt. Jackson was solemnly enthroned in the Chair of Constantine. Sir Knt. J. McCarthy was installed as the V.E. Ill. Sir Knt. the Rev. J. R. Jenkins, A. G. Marshal, assisted the enthroning Sovereign, and offered the prayers most impressively. The Sir Knights, on being readmitted, saluted the M.P.S., and the following were invested officers of the conclave:—Sir Knts. J. Skeaf, Senior General; R. H. Evans, Junior General; W. H. Cooper, H.P.; T. Ashmore, P.S., Treasurer; Garrett, Recorder; J. W. Cave-Brown-Cave, Prefect; H. Burrows, St.B.; Reader, Orator; T. W. Bibby, Herald; T. Webster, Sen. Aide; A. C. Wylie, Jun. Aide; H. Nelson, P.S., D.C.; and P. Ball, Sentinel. The conclave was then closed, and the Knights retired for refection. In the course of the evening the usual toasts were given. Em. Sir Knt. T. Ashmore, the senior Past Sov., proposed "The M.P.S.," and the latter gave "The Health of Enthroning Sov., Ill. Sir Knt. Dr. Smith." In replying for "The Visitors," Em. Sir Knt. the Rev. J. R. Jenkins expressed his great admiration for Christian Masonry, and desired the Skelmersdale Conclave the greatest success.

DALMUIR.—Lodge St. John's (No. 543).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in their hall, at Dalmeir, on Tuesday, the 13th ult., Bro. S. Leckie, W.M., in the chair; A. McNaughton, Junior, D.M.; J. Barrie, S.M.; J. F. Wilson, S.W.; J. Muirhead, J.W.; M. Watson, Treas.; J. Alexander, Sec. J. Morrison, S.D.; J. Stairs, J.D.; J. Morton, Chap.; A. Smith, I.G.; J. Adair, Tyler; and amongst those present were Bros. R. Manson, D. McDonald, J. Thomson, Barton, Malcolm, Serj.-Major Chamberlain (E.C.), and others. The lodge being constituted, minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Messrs. W. Young, A. Dobie, and W. Brown, who were previously proposed and seconded, were favourably balloted for and afterwards initiated into Freemasonry by the W.M. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, when Bros. A. Ritchie and Hillhouse were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason at the hands of Bro. Leckie, W.M., who performed the ceremony in a most efficient and faultless manner.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Plantation (No. 581).—A meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Craigiehall-street, on Monday evening, the 19th June. In the absence of the W.M., Bro. Dr. Peacock, S.W., occupied the chair; Geo. Fisher, J.W. 129, acting S.W.; and J. Henry, J.W.; W. Taylor, Treas.; R. Allan, Sec.; A. Imrie, S.D.; J. Halley, J.D.; J. Campbell, S.S.; J. Dowell, J.S.; J. Nash, acting I.G.; and Cuning, Tyler; and a large attendance of members and visitors. Amongst the latter were Bros. J. Monro, W.M. 360; Jas. Gillies, P.M. 103, P.G.T.; and others. Messrs. H. Grindlay and J. Cameron were initiated by Bro. R. Allan, Sec.; and Bros. P. Stobe, Thos. Walker, and John Hart were raised by Bro. W. Ferguson, D.M., Bro. Fisher, J.W. 129 giving the obligation. A vote of thanks was awarded to Bro. R. M. Lintock for presenting the lodge with a set of handsome water cwers, &c. The lodge was then closed.

GOVAN.—Lodge Govandale (No. 437).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held in the hall, Portland Buildings, Govan, on Tuesday, 30th ult., Br. J. Miller, W.M., in the chair; R. Muir, S.W.; A. James, J.W.; A. Blair, Treas.; J. Sutherland, Sec.; and others. Amongst the visitors were Bros. J. Tweedie, 518, E.C.; R. Allan, Sec. 581; W. Brown, 3; W. McCall, 27; W. J. Craig, 86; D. Swan, 175; R. Russell, 205; C. McIver, 413; McFarlane, 413; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); and others. Mr. W. P. Knox was initiated, and Bro. W. Findlay was raised. Both ceremonies were performed by Bro. W. Ferguson, S.M. There was no other business.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Dramatic (No. 571).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, Buchanan-street, on Wednesday, June 21st, at three o'clock p.m., Bro. William J. E. Dobson, W.M., presiding, assisted by Bros. Dugald Butler, W.M. 27; John Morrison, D.M.; Foulds, P.M. 179; Mitchell, J.D., acting S.W.; Wm. Sivewright, J.W.; G. Weir, acting Secretary; Barbour, Treasurer; and a number of visiting brethren. The W.M. then proceeded to open the lodge in the E.A. Degree, and afterwards requested the acting Secretary to read the minutes of previous meeting, and they being unanimously approved, were declared duly confirmed by the W.M. Bros. Henri Ludwig and John Cameron being in waiting for the Third Degree, the lodge was thereupon advanced to the Sublime Degree. The W.M. asked Bro. Foulds, P.M. 179, if he would work this degree, to which Bro. Foulds cordially assented. Bros. Ludwig and Cameron were accordingly admitted, and received the M.M. mysteries in a very able manner. There remained some general business, such as passing of by-laws, &c., &c., which entailed the loss of some time, but the business being at length settled, the lodge was reduced to the E.A. Degree, and no further business being to hand, the lodge was duly closed in ancient form.

It is intended to entertain General Lord Napier of Magdala at dinner on the 10th inst. at Willis's Rooms, to celebrate his return from India. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge will preside.

Bro. the Rt. Hon. Lord Suffield presented the prizes to the pupils of the Paston Grammar School on Wednesday.

Bro. Capt. Matthew Webb informs us that at the latter end of August next he will attempt to swim from the North of Scotland to Ireland, under the same conditions as he crossed the Channel.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The 78th anniversary festival of this Institution was held on Wednesday evening at the Alexandra Palace, when nearly 700 ladies and brethren sat down to an elegant dinner, which was presided over by the Right Hon. Lord Leigh, Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire. The festival was a great success, and the whole of the proceedings passed off most satisfactorily. Among the brethren who sat at the cross table with his Lordship were Bros. the Rev. W. K. Ryland Bedford, V.P. of the Board of Stewards; the Hon. R. W. Giddy, District G.M. South Africa; Colonel Burdett, Prov. G.M. of Middlesex; the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, Junior Grand Warden of England; the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Past Grand Chaplain; Dr. Jabez Hogg, Past Grand Deacon; Thomas Cubitt, Past Grand Pursuivant; R. J. Spiers, Past Deputy Prov. G.M. Oxford; Rev. Dr. Morris, Head Master; Captain Cope, Past G.S.B.; John Hervey, Grand Secretary; Geo. Plucknett, Treasurer; J. T. Collins, P.G.S.B.; W. Hall, the Medical Officer of the Institution; H. Browne, P.G.D.; R. W. Stewart, P.G.D.; James Terry, F. Adlard, Hyde Pullen, Benj. Head, P.G.D.; W. Roebuck, Capt. Wordsworth, J. G. Chancellor, Charles Cooté, S. Rosenthal, H. G. Buss, A. A. Pendlebury, W. Dodd, N. Green, George Newman, John Sutcliffe, A. H. Diaper, R. Barnes, Samuel May, E. Coste, I.P.M. 1613, P.M. 9, &c.; Bros. W. H. Perryman, Lodge 3; Joseph Clever, Lodge 12; Robert Douglas, Lodge 23; W. N. Lash, Lodge 73; Edward Hopwood, Lodge 141; N. Gluckstein, Chapter 141; Robert Secker, Lodge 435; J. G. Stevens, Lodge 933; Alfred Durrant, Lodge 1185; W. A. Tinney, Lodge 1319; W. J. Murlis, Lodge 1489; Charles Hogard, Prov. of Essex; D. M. Dewar, Prov. of Middlesex; W. Hammond, Prov. of Middlesex; H. Phythian, Prov. of Middlesex; W. Sharp, Prov. of Surrey; J. M. Kidd, Prov. of Sussex; Frederick Soars, William Manton, and Capt. Salt, Province of Warwickshire; H. Massey ("Freemason").

Dinner was served at a few minutes after five o'clock. The arrangements were well made, and although there were so many brethren and ladies present there was no confusion or any difficulty in finding places. Neither was there any overcrowding, the large dining hall affording ample accommodation for every one. When the repast had been disposed of, "Benedictus" was sung, and the toasts were then proposed.

The Chairman in proposing "The Queen," said—Ladies and brethren, I am sure that it does not need any words from me to call from you a hearty response to the first toast which I am about to propose to you; it is the "Health of our beloved Queen," and when I remind you that she has reigned over us for thirty-nine years, and that this day happens to be the anniversary of her coronation day I know that you will the more heartily respond to the toast. It is not however only as Queen of England that I ask you to drink her health in a bumper, but as patroness of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. I am delighted to see so many ladies gathered here to-day, and I am sure of this that they will heartily join with me in drinking the health of the best Sovereign that ever reigned over this kingdom. I give you "The Queen" with the greatest pleasure, "The Health of our Queen, Victoria, and long may she live over a happy and contented people."

The Chairman, in proposing "The Grand Master," said—Ladies and brethren, the next toast I have to propose is that of the "Prince of Wales, Grand Master of England." I am quite sure that all my brethren will agree with me in hoping that our illustrious brother may long continue to be our Grand Master. We must all rejoice at his return home to this country in safety after his most successful visit to our great Indian Empire, where he appears to have gained by his courtesy and his kindness the respect and attachment of all with whom he has come in contact, and I feel quite satisfied that our illustrious brother will by his visit have done a great deal to secure the happy relations that now exist between our Indian princes and chiefs and the native of India. I give you with great pleasure "The Health of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M. of Freemasons of England."

The Chairman, in proposing the next toast, said—I believe that it is universally allowed that Freemasonry has made some most prodigious strides within the last few years, and during the last five and twenty years especially. It seems extraordinary to me to see so large an assembly as this, composed, too, not only of brethren, but of that sex whom we are happy to call "sisters." I think you will allow that the success of Freemasonry must be mainly due to the excellent chiefs who govern our Craft. It is not only in the numbers, but in our great Masonic charities that we are so prosperous. Never in the history of Freemasonry has Freemasonry stood higher than it does at this moment. I think, therefore, that our best thanks are due to our chiefs, and that we cannot do less than honour the toast I am about to propose to you. I give you "The Earl of Carnarvon, the Pro Grand Master of England, Lord Skelmersdale, the Deputy Grand Master, the Prov Grand Masters, and the Present and Past Grand Officers." I have the pleasure of having on my right one of the Prov. Grand Masters, a brother who is esteemed and respected wherever he is known, and I may say that he is known throughout this country. I allude to the Rt. Worshipful Prov. Grand Master of Middlesex, my excellent brother Col. Burdett. We only hope that the great province he presides over may long continue to have such a Prov. Grand Master. I need not, in addressing an assembly that knows quite as much as, if not more than, I do of the merits of Col. Burdett, speak of him, or say any more in his praise. I will, therefore, give you the toast.

Col. Burdett, in reply, said—I assure you it is with extreme pleasure that I attempt to return thanks for the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers, a toast which has been so favourably put before you by your worthy chairman. We have all known for a considerable time that our officers have been most efficient in every possible way. We have had men of the highest grade in that position. We have had men of the greatest influence ruling over us; but I must say they have ruled over us with credit to the Order and themselves. We never had a more efficient Pro Grand Master or a more efficient Deputy G.M. than we have at the present time, and I believe also that we never had more efficient Grand Officers generally. We all feel great pride in having such men as Lord Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale as Pro Grand Master and Dep. Grand Master, on whose excellences I might dilate were you not so thoroughly acquainted with them; but I have a great deal more pleasure now than in returning you my thanks on their behalf. I have to propose to you a toast. In proposing it to you I feel perfectly confident that both by ladies and brethren it will be accepted with the greatest fervour. We have been presided over to-day by a nobleman who has most ably and efficiently filled the position which he has been called upon to occupy; and though it is not the first appearance he has made before you (for I believe he has presided at the festivals of these institutions four or five times before), he is ever ready to come forward and assist us when we require his assistance, and whenever he thinks he can do any good to or benefit our institutions in general. We are perfectly aware that the Province of Warwickshire holds its head up in the most wonderful manner, and we shall hear by-and-by what the results of its subscriptions will be towards this institution. But as long as I have been in the Order, and it is over forty years—I may say I have never seen an institution so supported as this has been, and I have never seen such a meeting as that of to-day, participated in as it is by ladies as well as brethren. I will, however, not trespass longer on your time, for I know it is very valuable; but I will propose to you at once, "The Health of our noble Chairman, Lord Leigh."

The Chairman, in responding, said—Ladies and brethren, I can assure you that I feel most deeply sensible of the very kind manner in which you have drunk my health; and I thank my kind Bro. Col. Burdett for the very kind, indeed far too flattering way, in which he has proposed the toast to you. I can assure you, brethren, however, that I feel it to be a great honour, and indeed a great pleasure, to preside this day at the 78th anniversary of one of your noble Masonic Institutions. And now, ladies and brethren—may I not say Sisters and Brethren, for I am quite satisfied of this, that the ladies who have honoured us this day with their presence at this anniversary would not have done so had they not felt a sisterly interest in our great Masonic Charities?—I have to propose to you what may be termed the toast of the evening. It is not my intention to detain you with a long speech, but I cannot propose such an important toast as that of "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys" without saying one or two words. As I have already observed, this is the 78th anniversary of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. 78 years ago, when this institution was founded, there were 6 boys; it commenced with 6 boys, who were clothed, educated, and placed out in different schools. Since then there has been upwards of 1,300 boys clothed, educated, and maintained at the expense of the Craft. To-day we have 186 boys, not placed out as they were a few years ago in different schools, but all collected together in one noble building within a short distance of this table—in one noble building which is the freehold property of the Freemasons of England. The land has been purchased, and a house built by the Freemasons of England; the debt on it has been paid off, and it is now our own property. Well, within the last year—I should observe that I have no doubt that most of those that I address here to-night, indeed I know a very large number of them, know the building, and can bear witness to its being an admirable building for the purpose—within the last year a detached house has been bought for an hospital, where sick boys can be received, and being removed from the bustle and confusion of a large establishment they would derive benefit quicker from medical treatment there than they would if confined in a sick room in a large school. The boys receive a most admirable education, and the managers of that institution will be able to tell you that most of those, indeed, almost every one of those boys who have left the institution since its formation have been known to be going on well and had made their way in the world in a satisfactory manner. With regard to the results of their education, I can assure you those that have seen the list of examinations—the satisfactory list of their examinations—will bear witness to what they have done. The results this past year have been most astounding. I am delighted to see that out of the number of prizes and honours that they have gained three boys from the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys have gained first-class honours in the Local Examinations of Cambridge; and what I am sure will delight and please my Warwickshire brethren is, that one of those lads standing at the head of the list is a Warwickshire lad, bearing the well-known Warwickshire name of Beaumont. Great credit—very great credit, I may say—is due to the excellent Head Master and his assistants. I have had the pleasure of making Dr. Morris's acquaintance, and I can bear witness from what I have seen of that gentleman that he is undoubtedly the right man in the right place. Some of my Masonic brethren—not many of them, but some of them—have recently spoken to me of the expense of the maintenance of the boys. Wishing particularly to ascertain the real facts of the case, I, in company with a good brother of mine who I wish was here present this evening, but who unfortunately has been detained at home by unforeseen circumstances—I allude to Bro. Machen, the D. Prov. G.M. for Warwickshire—went on a visit to the institution some short time ago, where I met our kind friend, Bro. Binckes, to whom this institution, let me say, owes a great deal for his admirable exertions, and we went fully into the accounts of the expense of the maintenance of the boys for the last 10 years; and I feel satisfied myself that the charges made against this institution of being extravagant cannot be sustained. I will not weary you with the accounts and statistics for the last ten years, but I will merely take the last two years, 1875 and 1874. In 1875 the maintenance of each boy was something like £40 and two or three odd shillings; but in 1874, the year previous, it was £43, some odd shillings; and on a calculation it can be shown that there has been an actual reduction in 1875, although provisions and everything else are dearer than they were—there has been an actual reduction of £3 and some 3s. or 4s. in 1875 over 1874. Now, I cannot think that with the admirable and first-class education that we give our boys, and considering the respectable but not extravagant manner in which they are clothed and fed, that £40 per boy for giving them the best education you possibly can give them is a very extravagant sum. Brethren, I believe this institution to be well deserving of your support. I believe we have one of the best schools in England, a school which the Freemasons of England may be justly proud. Your institution has received great support, and I hope it will continue to receive that support. I hope that when we presently hear the list of the contributions read out by our excellent Secretary, Bro. Binckes, you will find that a noble subscription has been raised for this School this day. I am delighted to find such a long list of Stewards. I believe they are upwards of 200. I am quite sure that we all must feel deeply indebted to those Stewards for their great exertions; and we have to thank Sir Henry Edwards—who, I wish was here to-day—for having acted as President of the Stewards; and I must say that I regard with very great pleasure and satisfaction the number of Stewards that have appeared for the province over which I have had the honour of presiding now for very nearly twenty-five years. In a very few months I shall have gained my silver wedding day; and I thank the 80 Stewards very heartily for their very great kindness in coming up to-day to attend this festival. I only hope and trust, as I say, that this institution may go on and flourish; but it should be remembered that it has no actual funded property. If it has it is not a very large one. It is not like some of the other Masonic Institutions—it has to depend very much on its subscriptions from Grand Lodge and on private subscriptions from Freemasons. It has no funded property; and if we only educate 186 boys it will take more than £7000 a year to maintain the institution. But we hope to do a great deal more than educate 186 boys: we hope to receive before long 200 boys. There are many candidates that will be very glad to be received who cannot be received on account of want of funds. A brother of mine was suggesting just before the banquet what an admirable thing it would be to have some scholarships. I wish we could have some scholarships and send our boys to Oxford and Cambridge; and I am quite certain of this, that if we did they would do credit to our Masonic Institution. I will not detain you with many more observations. I do not wish to weary you; but before proposing this important toast I hope you will excuse my alluding—but very shortly—to an article that appeared in a Masonic publication towards the end of last February. In this Masonic paper the writer, in a manner analysing the subscriptions that had been received at the last festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, when my noble Bro. and friend Lord Skelmersdale so ably presided, alluded to the noble support his lordship received from his own Province, West Lancashire, on that occasion. Had the remarks of the writer ended there I should have had not a word to say on the subject. On the contrary, I readily endorse every word the writer said, as indeed West Lancashire came forward most nobly to support the Right Worshipful Brother the Provincial Grand Master who so ably presides over West Lancashire. But the writer went on to make a comparison between the subscriptions received from West Lancashire and those received from the other provinces and London; and I must really say he rather unfairly spoke of the want of the liberality of the province over which I have so long presided, and which included, as he said, the wealthy and important town of Birmingham. Now, I am quite satisfied of this, that the writer of that article could not have been aware that at the very moment he was writing the article we had eighty Stewards in

Warwickshire doing all they possibly could to raise subscriptions for the Masonic Boys' School; and it was really almost impossible, and not to be expected, that the province could in the same year support two of our Masonic Institutions. Moreover, the writer of that article could not have been aware that some fourteen or fifteen years ago the Freemasons of Warwickshire came nobly forward to support this very institution, the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, when I had the pleasure of being President, and that for two successive years Warwickshire sent up Stewards with large subscriptions to support the three excellent Masonic Institutions successively, when I had the honour, though unworthily, of presiding over them. I will not detain you with many more observations, but simply say, and I must be excused for saying, I do think that no writer can fairly, or ought fairly, to draw comparisons between subscriptions raised in one province over another. It should be borne in mind that we usually in our Masonic charities select some Grand Officer, whether Grand Officer from London or one from the province, to preside over these charities; and as a matter of course the Masons of that particular province over which their own Grand Master presides, feel a pleasure, as they ought to do, to come forward and support him. I hope and trust that presently we may hear that Warwickshire has subscribed a tolerable sum this evening to this charity, but would it be fair to compare Warwickshire with some other province in this kingdom when their own Provincial Grand Master presides at this table. Warwickshire brethren feel, and feel deeply, I know, a pleasure, as they have always done, in assisting their Grand Master, and I am quite satisfied of this, that they will do so this evening. I hope you will excuse these observations, which are rather personal to myself and to my province; but I could not refrain from making them, inasmuch as I have received invariable kindness from the brethren of Warwickshire who I know are as liberally disposed as any Freemasons in the kingdom. On their account I could not refrain from making these few observations. I now give you with the greatest possible pleasure "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and may it continue long to flourish." I couple with the toast the name of the Treasurer, Bro. George Plucknett.

Bro. Plucknett, in responding and thanking the brethren for their liberal support of the institution hitherto, said he did not expect that the subscriptions of that evening would be at all behind any of the subscriptions of former years. He felt that the institution owed a great debt of gratitude to the Stewards, to his lordship for presiding, and to Bro. Binckes for the perseverance, the energy, and the time which he had given to the affairs of the institution. He was quite sure that to-morrow morning Bro. Binckes would begin to provide for the festival of next year, and not lose a single day.

Bro. Binckes then rose to announce the list of subscriptions, but first observed that he had 280 Stewards. He felt it due to the province of Warwickshire to say that the province had his entire sympathy in reference to the remarks which had fallen from his lordship, inasmuch as he remembered that the very first time after he (Bro. Binckes) had the honour of becoming Secretary the festival was presided over by Lord Leigh, when he was largely supported by the Province of Warwickshire, whose subscription, amounted to very nearly £800. Eighteen years had rolled by since that time, and he now had the extreme gratification of finding again in the chair the same noble lord in hale and good health. (Cheers.)

The Rev. W. K. R. Bedford proposed "The Vice-Patrons, Vice-Presidents, Trustees, and Committees," to which Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D., responded.

The Chairman, in proposing "Success to the Sister Institutions, Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution," said he felt that the Masonic body would continue to give that generous support to all the three great institutions as long as the world existed that it had given hitherto.

Bro. James Terry said—My Lord and brethren, permit me in this assembly most heartily and most sincerely to thank you, not alone for the generous accord with which you have mentioned the names of the Girls' School and the Benevolent Institution, but also as a representative of one of the institutions to thank the noble lord in the chair, and the brethren of the Province of Warwickshire, for the very kind, noble, and generous response they have given to the appeal of your lordship to-night, more especially when we consider that this time last year no less a sum than £12,700 was brought in for this institution. We cannot but congratulate the Chairman, Bro. Binckes, the Secretary, and the Committee for being enabled for a second time to announce a similar amount. Ladies and brethren, we have to thank you most heartily for the very generous support that you have given to the Girls' School and to the Benevolent Institution during the past year, and to remind you that the sum announced at our three institutions has arrived at the great result of £32,000, and, my lord, if this may be taken as an augury of our success in the future, in 1877 the amount will then be the largest ever known. Ably supported by the brethren of the provinces, we earnestly hope and trust that during the year 1877 a sum far exceeding £32,000 may be brought in for the benefit of the three institutions. On behalf of the Secretary of the Girls' School, whose absence from indisposition we all most sincerely regret, and on my own behalf in connection with the institution which I have the honour of representing, I have to assure your lordship that if the Province of Warwickshire will but bestow their favour in 1877 on behalf of the poor old men and the poor old women to the same amount as they have done to-day for the boys, our most hearty and sincere thanks will be bestowed on you, my lord, brethren, and ladies. I trust all of us may be spared to the coming year to witness even a greater result than that achieved to-night.

The Rev. W. K. R. Bedford responded for "The Stewards," which was proposed by Col. Burdett.

The Rev. Bro. Randall, P.G.C. Warwick, proposed "The Ladies," and shortly afterwards the party adjourned to the drawing room.

A selection of vocal and instrumental music was performed under the direction of Bro. Chaplin Henry.

Bro. Goodchild was toastmaster at the banquet table.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this Institution met on Thursday afternoon in the library, Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Thomas W. White took the chair. There were also present: Bros. Col. Creton, H. Browne, Henry Smith, Griffiths Smith, Major Finney, Col. Peters, F. Adlard, Benj. Head, H. A. Dubois, John Boyd, R. B. Webster, H. J. Tuson, H. Massey ("Freemason"), Thomas Massa, Peter de Lande Long, Joshua Nunn, Richard Spencer, and Bro. Hedges.

The Chairman said that the House Committee had decided to let the children in the school have their treat at the Crystal Palace on Monday next.

Seven children were put on the list for the October election, for which vacancies were declared. The list will contain 44 candidates. The tender of Messrs. Smale of South Lambeth, for building the new wing to the Girls' School, for the sum of £7017 was accepted.

Bro. Hedges read a letter from Bro. Henry Muggeridge resigning as from October next his position of Collector to this institution which he had held for twenty years. The letter stated that the cause of this was the failing health of the writer, which prevented his discharging his duties with satisfaction to themselves.

Col. Creton said that some of the brethren would be much surprised at this letter being sent. The brethren must have seen with regret for some time that Bro. Muggeridge's health was not so good as it had been. He himself had met him in different parts of the town during the last few months, and it was with great difficulty he moved about. He was sure all the brethren would regret Bro. Muggeridge's resignation, and the cause of it. But as it was necessary that a motion should be made now that this letter of resignation had been received, he (Col. Creton) begged to move "That the resignation of Bro. Muggeridge be accepted, and that it be accepted as from the 1st of October next." At the proper time he should give notice of motion for the Quarterly Court in October that Bro. Muggeridge's great services to the Institution be recognised by the grant of a substantial annuity.

Bro. Joshua Nunn seconded the motion for the acceptance of Bro. Muggeridge's resignation.

Bro. Col. Creton said he should move that the Acting Secretary in writing to Bro. Muggeridge stating that his resignation had been accepted should say that it was with very great regret that the brethren received it. From the high respect they all had for Bro. Muggeridge everything that was necessary to be done must be done in the kindest and most delicate way possible.

Major Finney seconded the motion which was adopted.

Notice of motion was given on behalf of Bro. Raynham W. Stewart for the Quarterly Court of Saturday next for the admission of ten girls not successful at last election to the school, the infirmary to be used for the purpose.

Bro. H. Browne (for Bro. Tattershall) moved an increase of £5 in the salaries of each of the Assistant Governesses, and the granting a salary of £21 to a fourth.

Bro. Browne said the subject had been carefully debated by the House Committee, who considered that the way in which the ladies discharged their duties fully entitled them to this recognition.

Bro. Col. Creton seconded the motion, which was carried.

Bro. H. Browne (for the Rev. J. Browne) moved that Miss Sheppard, the Assistant Matron be granted a salary of £30 a year. It was but a small remuneration for her services which had been very valuable especially during the illness of Miss Jarwood.

The motion, which was seconded by Bro. Griffiths Smith, was carried.

Authority to the Chairman to sign cheques was afterwards given, and the Committee adjourned.

Masonic and General Tidings.

HOLY PALESTINE PRECEPTORY.—A meeting of this preceptory will be held on the 5th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Golden-square, at 5.30 p.m. precisely.

CORONATION DAY.—Wednesday being the 38th anniversary of Her Majesty the Queen's coronation, it was observed at Windsor with the usual honours. At early morn and throughout the day merry peals were ringing from the Chapel Royal, St. George's, Windsor Castle, and St. John's Church. At noon a Royal salute was fired in the Long Walk. At all the naval ports and in the military districts the day was observed as a holiday.

Bro. James Glaisher presided at the annual meeting of the General Committee of the Palestine Exploration Fund on Tuesday last.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked in the Confidence Lodge of Instruction, Masons' Hall Tavern, Basinghall-street, on Wednesday next. Bro. Thos. Barnes will preside.

A supplement will again be given next week.

The consecration of the Sackville Lodge, No. 1619, will take place at the Crown Hotel, East Grinstead, on the 11th inst. Bro. Furner, the Deputy Prov. Grand Master of Sussex, will perform the ceremonies.

Bro. Alderman S. C. Hadley was on Saturday last elected Sheriff of London and Middlesex.

There will be no meeting of the Royal Order of Scotland at 33, Golden-square, on Tuesday next.

The Dublin Corporation have resolved to co-operate with the Royal Dublin Society to invite the British Association to Dublin in 1878.

Bro. R. F. Gould's letter in support of Bro. Havers's motion reached the editor so late, that it unfortunately stands over until next week.

A full report of the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall will appear in our next.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS. DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

Since the establishment of the present institution, never has there been collected at the Wood Green School so numerous and fashionable an assembly as honoured the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys with their presence on Monday last, the fineness of the day, doubtless, largely contributing to that result. The distribution of the prizes gained by the boys during the year always possesses a considerable degree of interest, but it appears every year rather to increase than otherwise, in consequence of the sharp competition stimulated by witnessing the awarding of prizes to others, while they have been less fortunate themselves. This produces a determination, and a fresh starting point, and every year shows that it is attended with the best results. It is the usual custom for the appointed chairman for the festival to preside on these occasions, but this year it was under the presidency of the members of the Supreme Council 33° of England, of whom there were present Bros. J. M. P. Montagu (in the chair), Grand Chancellor; Major Clerke, Grand Senior General; S. Rawson, P.D.G.M. for China; Hugh D. Sandeman, P.D.G.M. for Bengal; Hyde Pullen, Sec. 33; S. Rosenthal, and Giddy, Inspector General 33° for South Africa. Amongst the other brethren present were the Hon. H. A. Vernon, J. Grand Warden; Joshua Nunn, P.G.D.; Adlard, P.M. 11; Mander, P.M. 1201; Swallow, P.M. 382; Harty, S.W. 1201; E. M. Haig, P.M. Grand Stewards' Lodge; J. Stevens, 783; Austin, 935; J. G. Chancellor, P.M. 463, 657, P.P.G.D. Surrey; H. Thompson, 1426, and P.M. 177 and 1158 ("Freemason"); and others.

The company assembled in the large examination hall at three o'clock, and so numerous was the attendance that many were unable to obtain admission. On Bro. Montagu taking the chair, before the delivery of the prizes commenced,

Bro. Binckes, the Secretary, said he wished to offer a few observations. On that day they were met to deliver the prizes, and did not pretend by any public examination to show the abilities of their pupils, as they had been ascertained by a course of the strictest examination, first in the school, and afterwards at that of the Cambridge Middle Class, and which had been most satisfactory. At the Cambridge examination for all England the number of boys who passed averaged 55.3 per cent., while those of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys averaged 77.7 per cent., and 14 out of 18 boys sent up passed. Taking the new boys they showed an equally satisfactory result, for of the eleven who went up, nine passed. In all London twenty-one passed out of forty-four, equal to 47.7 per cent., while of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys nine out of eleven passed, or an average of 81.8 per cent. The subject of "theoretical mechanics" was taken up after Christmas. In May Bryant and Shaw presented themselves on this subject at South Kensington, and gained second-class certificates from the Science and Art Department. He also referred to a report which appeared in the "Times" of that day in reference to the distribution of the prizes gained at the last Cambridge Local Examinations, which took place in the theatre of the London University on Thursday last, and when the Dean of Manchester presided. It stated that the examination was held during the last week in December, and on that occasion the candidates numbered 121, viz., 104 juniors, and 17 seniors. Of the seniors one only took honours, H. W. C. Smith. Of the juniors three obtained a first class, W. Beaumont, R. Bryant, and H. G. Shaw, all of them educated under Dr. Morris, at the Royal Masonic Institution. (Loud cheering.) He then alluded to the fact that they had met that day under the presidency of the members of the Supreme Council of the 33rd degree, who had been most liberal supporters of all their Masonic Institutions, and he thought they should be glad to avail themselves of every eligible opportunity for the purpose of placing them in a prominent position, as a small acknowledgment for their continued and generous support. The 33rd degree was only nine in number, and at the head of this august body was the Prince of Wales, but the acting head of it was the Earl of Carnarvon, and attached to it is Colonel Vernon, a Provincial Grand Master, Lord Waverley, Provincial Grand Master for Suffolk, and Bro. Hyde Pullen, whose name was a household word in Freemasonry. All the members of the Supreme Council of the 33rd degree were Life Governors, and many had served Stewardships. No less a sum than £600 had been received from Golden-square on behalf of their institutions, and he believed that Major Clerke on Wednesday next, at the festival, would hand in his list for more than £200. Bro. Montagu was Vice-President of one of their institutions, and Bro. Rosenthal was Vice-Patron of the Boys' and Vice-President of the Girls' Schools. Such being the case, he thought they would be guilty of great neglect if they did not avail themselves of the earliest opportunity of acknowledging their eminent services.

The Chairman said after the exhaustive speech of Bro. Binckes little was left for him to say beyond thanking the Stewards and the House Committee for the honour they had done the Supreme Council in asking them to preside on that occasion. They had done their best for the support of these Charities, and that little recognition of their services would stimulate them to do more than they had done at present, and by helping those who were unable to help themselves they trusted the brethren would find that Bro. Binckes was justified in the eulogium he had passed upon them.

The distribution of prizes then commenced, the Chairman offering a few words of encouragement to each boy as he came up to receive them, but in some instances the plurality was so great that the boy returned literally loaded with honours. The following is a list of the prizes:—

FIRST CLASS.—1st Prizes:—Classics, W. Beaumont; Mathematics, R. Bryant; Modern Languages—French, W. Beaumont; German, R. Bryant; English, W. Beaumont; Scripture, W. Beaumont. 2nd Prizes:—Classics, F. E. Ladd; Mathematics, M. Bowler; English, M. Bowler.

Wood; Third Choir, E. L. Ralling.

THE PRIZES PRESENTED BY THE HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Writing, W. B. Booser, C. Healey; Dictation, Robert Bryant, W. Ramsey Parker; History, W. Beaumont, Malcolm Hawes; Geography, E. G. L. Sweet, W. Beaumont; General Attention to Studies, Robert Bryant, E. T. Sage; Mental Arithmetic, Robert Bryant, E. L. Price; Proficiency in Drill, E. G. L. Sweet, W. H. Packwood; Efficiency as Monitor, C. Lane; General Proficiency, R. Bryant, W. Beaumont.

The distribution of the principal prizes was followed by the performance of "Ici on Parle Français," and with the following characters:—Major Regulus Rattan, W. Beaumont, Victor Dubois, W. R. Jones; Mr. Spriggins, R. Bryant; Mrs. Spriggins, W. R. Parker; Angelina (their daughter), E. E. Oates; Julia (Wife of Major Rattan), E. T. Sage; Anna Maria (a Maid of "All Work"), W. S. Sparkes.

This little piece was most admirably acted throughout, and excited roars of laughter. This was followed by scenes from "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," the characters being represented as follows:—Monsieur Jourdain, C. D. Green; Le Maître de Musique, E. T. Sage; Le Maître à Danser, H. Bowler; Le Maître d'Armes, E. E. Oates; Le Maître de Philosophie, W. R. Jones; Un Laquais, W. S. Sparkes.

The "make up" of some of the characters was most admirable, and the performance elicited loud applause. The entertainments were interspersed with songs, duets, and solos on the pianoforte, and the whole proceedings gave the highest satisfaction, and at the close of them the Chairman said all he had witnessed had been most admirably got through, and said a subject had been talked about for the last six years, which was whether something could be done for the boys after they left the school. They left it with a good education, which was putting into their hands a weapon of power to fight the battle of life, but he thought that something should be done for them between the age of 16, when they left, and 20 or 21, when they would be able to use the weapons with which they had been provided. He also suggested that they should endeavour to obtain a scholarship of £60 or £80, tenable for four years, to enable those who were capable of distinguishing themselves by the good education they would get at one of their universities. If they got one scholarship—if they got in the point of the wedge—when the usefulness of it was seen others would speedily follow, and therefore he hoped that a struggle for one of £60 or £80 should be made, and then he had no fear but others would follow.

The company then retired to the dining-hall for refreshment, after which the Health of Bro. Binckes, Dr. Morris, and others was proposed and responded to, and the proceedings were brought to a close.

The brethren will learn with much regret that Bro. Henry Muggeridge, the respected collector of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, has, through the infirmities of age, felt compelled to resign the post he has now held for twenty years with satisfaction to the whole body of the Craft. His letter announcing this determination was read at the meeting of the General Committee on Thursday last, and caused a universal feeling of regret. The brethren at large, we feel sure, will share this feeling, as there is no brother more respected in the Craft or more widely known than our Bro. Muggeridge.

The valuable collection of porcelain, &c., formed by the late Bro. W. Romaine Callender, M.P., Past Deputy Provincial Grand Master Lancashire on Tuesday and Wednesday, was sold by auction at the rooms of Messrs. Christie, Manson, and Woods, King-street, St. James's. The proceeds of Tuesday's sale amounted to £1450, and among the more important items were a dessert service by Chamberlain, which realised 46 gns.; a fine openwork scroll vase sold for £75; a superbly-coloured figure of Winter knocked down at £70; and a pair of vases painted with birds and insects, which fetched 100 guineas. At Wednesday's sale a magnificent Angouleme vase fetched 155 guineas.

Obituary.

BRO. HENRY MOXON.

It is with feelings of the deepest sorrow we announce the death of Bro. Henry Moxon, which sad event took place at his residence, Ellesmere Villa, Eccles, on Tuesday, June 20th, 1876, of bronchitis, from which he has suffered for some time. He was initiated in Lodge of Faith, No. 581, Openshaw, on June 21st, 1871, served the office of J.D., 1872; S.W., 1873; and W.M., 1874. He was exalted in the Chapter of Rectitude, 1874; S.E., 1875; and J., 1876. Of a uniformly affable, courteous, and genial nature, Bro. Moxon was esteemed and beloved by all with whom he came in contact. His labours were not confined to the Lodge of Faith only, he was always willing to render assistance wherever needed. Bro. Moxon held the office of superintendent of the telegraph department of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company. He was the inventor of several electrical patents. The deceased was very highly respected. His remains were interred at Harpurhey Cemetery, Manchester, on Friday, June 23rd. It pleased the G.A. of the U. to take him from amongst us at the early age of 38 years.

BRO. THEODORE MANSEL TALBOT.

Intelligence of the death of Bro. Theodore Mansel Talbot, only son of Bro. C. R. M. Talbot, M.P., of Margam Park, was received at Swansea on Monday, and caused a widespread feeling of regret. Bro. Talbot died in London, at the residence of his father, 3, Cavendish-square. The deceased brother was born on the 7th June, 1839, and was therefore 37 years of age on the 7th of last month. He was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his M.A. degree, and was subsequently made a magistrate for this county. He was exceedingly popular, and held several public offices. He was Lieut.-Colonel of the 1st Glamorgan Administrative Battalion of Rifle Volunteers, Provincial Grand Master of South Wales (Eastern Division), and Master of the Glamorganshire fox-hounds. He had been for several years a member of the Cowbridge Farmers' Club, and took a great interest in anything connected with the improvement of agriculture. While president of the club he gave a great stimulus to the proceedings by his regular attendance at the quarterly meetings of the society, and, in company with Mr. John Garsed, of Moorlands, brought forward for discussion several subjects of great interest to the farmers of the neighbourhood. He was also a very active and valued member of the committee of the Glamorgan Agricultural Society, and gave annually several money prizes for competition in the district. Of late years he took a very lively interest in church matters, and superintended the restoration of the fine old Abbey Church at Margam. He belonged to the Ritualistic or High Church party, and was churchwarden of the parish of Margam. In political opinions he was a Liberal, and was exceedingly tolerant in all matters both political and religious. His amiable disposition endeared him to all who enjoyed the pleasure of intercourse with him, and the news of his death caused the most profound sorrow amongst old and young, rich and poor. It is believed that the funeral will take place at Margam. Deep sympathy is felt for Bro. C. R. M. Talbot throughout the county.—"Swansea and Glamorgan Herald."

BRO. MEHEMED RASHID PASHA.

H. E. Mehemed Rashid Pasha, Minister of Foreign Affairs, lately murdered at Constantinople, was a distinguished man and a Mason. At a time when to be a Mason was to incur hostility from the late Sultan, Rashid Pasha, then Governor General of the Viceregency of Smyrna sought initiation at the hands of Bro. Hyde Clarke, at that time the acting District Grand Master of Turkey. He was by the latter initiated, passed, and raised in the Homer Lodge of that city, in the French language, and received the certificate of Grand Lodge. The attachment of Rashid Pasha to Masonry remained constant, and when Governor General of Syria he gave encouragement to the Masons of that viceregency. It may be mentioned that H.H., the late Fuad Pasha, was a Mason of the Grand Lodge of England, initiated in London, and on the occasion of the visit of the late Sultan in 1867 was offered the Grand Mastership of Turkey by Bro. the Earl of Zetland through Bro. Hyde Clarke, as was that of Egypt to the Prince Halim Pasha, another English Mason and the present District Grand Master. Fuad Pasha hesitated, and was afraid, though there was a lingering hope among the Masons about the Sultan, that the latter might apply for initiation, and this hope was communicated to Lord Zetland.

Bro. John Sutcliffe, Provincial Grand Master of Lincolnshire, having been elected by the brethren of the Royal Order of Scotland for Lancashire and Cheshire their Provincial Grand Master, celebrated the event by endowing the chair with the Vice-Presidency of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, contributing 100 guineas to that institution on Wednesday last in the name of the Provincial Grand Master. His installation will take place at Manchester on Tuesday next.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.—More Precious than Gold.—Diarrhoea, Dysentery, and Cholera are, through the summer's heat, carrying off the young as the winter's cold destroyed the aged. In the most acute cases, where internal medicines cannot be retained, the greatest relief will immediately result from rubbing Holloway's soothing Ointment over the abdomen. The friction should be frequent and brisk, to insure the free penetration of the Unguent. This will calm the excited peristaltic action, and soothe the pain. Both vomiting and griping yield to it; when fruits or vegetables have originated the malady, it is proper to cleanse the bowels by a moderate dose of Holloway's Pills, before using the Ointment.—ADVERT.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

COLONIAL and FOREIGN SUBSCRIBERS are informed that acknowledgments of remittances received are published in the first number of every month.

It is very necessary for our readers to advise us of all money orders they remit, more especially those from the United States of America and India; otherwise we cannot tell where to credit them.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 1, 1876.

MASONRY TOO EXPENSIVE.

In a newspaper account of the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire (not the Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire, as some of the provincial papers like to call it) our very distinguished Bro. the Duke of St. Alban's, the P.G.M. of that zealous province, is represented as saying that he was somewhat afraid the annual appeals for our charities might end in making Freemasonry "too expensive." As we do not find that remark in the official account published in our columns last week, we fancy that His Grace's words have been misquoted or misunderstood. It is quite clear to all who have studied the subject of our charities, that so far from our annual appeals lessening, they must increase with the rapid augmentation of the numbers and the wants of the Order. Whether anything can be done to remedy a growing evil in this respect is another and a very different matter, but that our charities will require large and liberal support from the Craft for years to come, is as certain as that they themselves are a noble monument in themselves to the sacrifices and warmheartedness of Freemasons. Indeed, were Freemasonry ever to be reduced to the position of a great benefit order, or of an association, mainly distinguished by the social gathering and outward adornment, it would soon lose the support of its most earnest and intelligent members, sink in public opinion, and finally fade away from this bustling and busy scene of human life. Its use would be at an end, its value would have passed away; and amidst its idle gatherings for pleasure or for show, and on its temples still kept to tell of other days, of better work, and higher aims, the word "Ichabod" would be distinctly legible. For Freemasonry is something higher and better to us all than a mere aggregation of good fellows, a mere social club, a mere beneficial society. It comes to us all, we think, with higher claims, and asserts before us all graver responsibilities. It has a mission, and that mission is to inculcate among men a pure morality, conjoined with principles of universal toleration, liberty of conscience, and freedom of belief, and above all the practice of Masonic and general benevolence. Our Masonic charities have naturally the first claim upon us, inasmuch as they well represent the active principles of Masonic beneficence. But such charities cannot be maintained for nothing, neither would it be well for us that they should. It is an old saying, and true as old, that "nothing is worth much for which we will not make some sacrifices;" and if our Freemasonry is a real thing to us, if we believe in it, if we value it at its proper worth, it will not appeal to us in vain for the warm support and the liberal contribution. That Freemasonry may become too expensive on account of its annual donations to its own great charities we do not believe, but we think we understand what the Duke of St. Alban's means, if he used the expression, namely, that the various Masonic payments may make Freemasonry too expensive unless carefully watched over. But Freemasons have this portion of the question in their own hands. That we may reduce our lodge expenses and banquet expenses is possible and probable, but we do not see how we can, or why we should lessen our contributions to Masonic charity. And even as regards this "moot point" of lodge expenses, much may be said on both sides of the question, and we are not prepared offhand to admit that much could be gained by a reduction of the social expenses of the metropolitan and some other lodges. For the London brethren may fairly say this: "You condemn our system as too expensive, but we surely are the best judges of what suits the meridian of London, and under this very depreciated system we have made, year by year, goodly efforts for our great charities." For many years, at any rate, the main burden of supporting our charities fell upon the London brethren, as we must all fairly concede, and though a noble provincial movement, inaugurated by West Yorkshire, in support of the Metropolitan Institution set in about 1860—16 years ago, even to this hour the returns show how well the London lodges are doing their duty by the charities. We, therefore, doubt much the contention that Masonry is becoming either too expensive per se, and we greatly deprecate any such idea as regards our Metropolitan charities, and the necessary claims they have and make upon us all. Lodge expenses must be settled by the various lodges themselves, and so far from it being advisable, in any sense, to lower the cost of Freemasonry, our impression and belief are strongly that, if anything its fees of admission, &c., ought to be increased. We are giving too much, too cheaply! The Boys' School especially, for years to come, must demand large subsidies from our brethren, both in town and the provinces. It has no funded capital, and though Mr. Gladstone is not favourable to "endowments," we fancy that both the Committee and Bro. Binckes would be very glad if they could announce the replacement of the old endowment of the Boys' School, spent as we hold quite properly, in building the Boys' School of the future. When these lines meet the eyes of our readers the Boys' School Anniversary Festival for 1876 will be over, and we trust that the Committee and Bro. Binckes will be supported and cheered by an agreeable return for this most important and well conducted charity of our Order. It is no little credit to our English brotherhood that they are raising at three per cent. very nearly the interest of a million of money, generally, towards the liberal maintenance and wants of their great metropolitan and educational Benevolent Institutions.

MASONIC AMENITIES.

It is a very pleasant thing to be praised and patted on the back, and commended and encouraged to proceed in the way wherein we ought to go. It is often very welcome for the toiling and the struggling to receive the friendly word of encouragement, and the kindly assurance of sympathy. Many of us can recall tones and voices now past and hushed, which sounded very pleasantly in our ears as we began to climb the rough hill of life, and we all of us "can do," as the saying is, with as much as you like of sincere interest. But such is not always our lot. Hard words, and cold words, and scant sympathy, and unfriendly criticism are too often our lot in life, and though we have to submit to them, and outlive them, they are often at the time somewhat difficult of endurance and appreciation by us all. But this is the way of the world, and we shall not find its counterpart in Freemasonry. Shall we not? Let us see. We fear very much that Freemasonry still has within its system, like all other systems of earth, a lurking taint of unreality and insincerity. Yes, it is humiliating at times to note how the littlenesses of earth crop up, even in Freemasonry. The jealousy of success, the intolerance of superiority, the rivalry of trade, the competition of business, the animus of the self-seeking, and the pert vulgarity of the narrowminded, too often exhibit themselves amongst us in those "Masonic amenities," as we term them, which are such a stumbling-block in the way of Freemasonry, such a reflection on Freemasonry itself. And though the forms such Masonic amenities assume are various and variable, they yet are easily discernible by the watchful eye of the intelligent Freemason. We see them to-day amongst us in numberless instances of lodge life, and Masonic progress. If people wonder that it should be so, if Freemasons complain of the existence of such an anomaly in our Masonic profession, the answer is plain, "Nous sommes tous mortels" still, and Freemasons are not, and never will be, exempt here from the passions and frailties of humanity. But yet, an objector might say, "Surely Freemasonry always sets forth the duties of self restraint and forbearance, the importance of self discipline, and the great need and the greater benefit of a considerate and conciliatory spirit." "So it does, my dear sir," the respondent would reply, "but Freemasonry, like everything else, has many un-Masonic members, those whose theory may be right but whose practice is different, whose Masonic profession and Masonic actions do not square." Now, as there are one or two prevailing forms which these Masonic amenities often assume, let us note them and seek to profit by the illustration. First of all, there are those who never will see any good in anything you do, propose, plan, or suggest. In lodge and out of lodge, there are those who, like Pickpoint Pashly, of forensic memory and reputation, always find points and pegs to hang something upon. In his case he was distinguished by much personal acumen and legal skill; in their case they are the magpies and the marplots of our lodges. They will always object, they will always find fault, they will never be convinced, they will never be satisfied. How many weary hours have we seen consumed in lodge meeting by the hopeless pertinacity of some brother, obstinate or impracticable, in a glorious minority of one, but yet resolute and unconvinced, even to the last? Such brethren are full of "pros and cons," and "quips" and "quiddities," and very tiresome they are, often very little deferential, to the W.M. or brethren—great nuisances, greater bores. Then there are those who always "smell a rat" in everything—the would-be sagacious and discerning. In vain you plead the common humdrum, matter-of-fact, business way of proceeding of the lodge; hopelessly you assure them that there is nothing in their supposition, they know better than you do yourself, and feel quite sure that there's more than meets the eye in some simple matter, plain as A B C. These knowing and mysterious brethren often give most needless trouble, as they will unravel a mystery where there is none, they will get to the bottom of things, where probably the thing has, so to say, no bottom at all. Very angry they are when opposed, angrier still when laughed at, as they richly deserve. There is a large class in our Order, always abounding in personalities. Personal they are, and personal they always will be, and, of course, in their hands everything becomes personal, and the lodge itself assumes the appearance of a clique or a cabal, and everything is permeated in it and outside of it by the hateful animus of unmeaning likes and dislikes, the too often dangerous and degrading influences of vulgar personality. And lastly, we have the Masonic writer who affects to criticize the articles of a confere. As a general rule, no thoroughly true Masonic writer ever condescends to allude in an unfriendly spirit, to the writing of a brother Mason, unless in the distinct interests of truth or right, to correct an error, to put right a misstatement. If allusions are made, (it is far better, in our opinion, not to allude to contemporary writers at all), they should be made in a spirit of true criticism and Masonic forbearance. Nothing like offensive recriminations, personal animosity, vulgar coarseness, or uncourteous expressions, should ever be permitted in Masonic journalism. Some young writer, indeed, may be excused, through ignorance or ineptitude, but the old hack should be ashamed of himself, whoever he be, who prostitutes his pages in order to gratify personal vanity, or manifest very "bad form." When such writers offend against every canon of propriety, every axiom of Masonic teaching, the innermost dictates of good feeling and decency, and express themselves in language which may be English or High Dutch, or anything you like, what can you do? You simply pass them by with a sigh of pity, with a smile of contempt, as feeling assured, that they will never take up their Freedom in the great Guild of writers, honest and true, and you leave them to that sound public opinion, which always, sooner or later, decides critically and truly between the ignorant and the intelligent, the impostor and the true, the man without brains and the man with brains, the man whose words are the merest platitudes, and the man whose words are worth reading. Potts and Slark still exist in the literary world, but let us hope and trust that Masonic journalism may be long and safely preserved from their "amenities," from all that can sully and defame the free course of Masonic literature, and the forbearing and courteous character of Masonic writers. We on our part utterly condemn and despise all Masonic personalities.

MASONIC IMPOSITION.

We are not going to indulge to-day in a long tirade against that simulation of distress and suffering which very often imposes on our kind-hearted brethren. We are not intending to dilate now on that standing nuisance in some parts of the country very abounding, the travelling impostor, though much might well and seasonably be said on both topics. The real live Masonic impostor when we come across him, we think the best thing to do with him is to hand him over to the nearest policeman, and relegate him to a limited diet and temporary seclusion from society. Our remarks to-day, take as it were a wider range, and perhaps may have a more direct interest for us. We live in an age of much pretention and noisy utterance. Shallowness and self-sufficiency mark a good deal of our professions, both of sympathies and of open teaching, and we are inundated just now, as it seems to us, with a bevy of noisy talkers but not of thinkers. Ours is a great epoch of secondhand information, and most sure it is, that we like our "thoughts like clothes all ready-made." Hence we have to listen to idle themes and crude suggestions, to the reveries of the unpractical, the theories of the hazy, the hopeless chimeras of an overwrought fancy, or the unhealthy lucubration of some unreasoning sciolist. Nothing is more painful, nay humiliating than to have to wade through the turgid nonsense of some aspiring rhapsodist, or the indigested indigestible bathos of the so-called profound thinker. In nine cases out of ten such writers are impostors, amiable impostors perhaps, who have no claim to originality of any kind, and who have no pretence to careful study of the subjects they so glibly write about. Whether they have evoked their own self-conscience, as some are fond of saying just now, or no, matters nothing at all, they are blind leaders of the blind, and as they have studied nothing truly, they have nothing to communicate really. They are and will always remain "literary duffers," full of froth and noise, and oftentimes vulgar personality and pretentious pomposity, but as teachers valueless, as leaders helpless, as guides hopeless. And those of us who are conversant with the literature of the hour, must at times feel deeply moved at the spectacle before our eyes, of this hurrying and confused crowd of teachers and writers without any definite aim or distinctness of utterance. That there is a brighter side to the picture we do not deny, but we have but too faithfully, we fear, endeavoured to describe the "epidemic" which is affecting and deteriorating our current literary efforts. Of course we are well aware that much may be fairly advanced in favour and support of a free course for literature, liberty of discussion, expansion of thought, development of the conscious intellect, &c., &c., but still to our mind the "outcome" so far is not pleasant or promising, but, on the contrary, suggests very many serious considerations. And this state of things exists in Freemasonry. It has been our wont often to talk of the charlatans of the past, like Cagliostro and Fiach, and many more; but we must not shut our eyes to the fact that just now we have before us very many evidences that much that has been put forward in respect of Freemasonry is based on no accurate knowledge of the subject, has been formed with no proper "measuring rod" of the dimensions of the Masonic building, that in short our "Naometria" is neither very accurate nor very scientific. Many of us form systems, and then invent theories; many of us propound certain notions of our own, and then give them the name of the wisdom of the past. And hence practically our public teaching becomes an imposition, and we impostors Masonically. That is to say, we ventilate opinions whose bearings we have not ourselves realized; We assert conclusions of our own, which we submit as "dogmata," and without regard to abstract truth per se; we make the subjective sentiment of the moment, a bone of contention or a test of orthodoxy. We shall recur to this subject in another issue, as it is a very important one in itself, and has a good deal to do, more than we perhaps think, with the future progress and prosperity of Freemasonry.

BOYS' SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL FOR 1876.

The Boys' School Anniversary Festival took place at the Alexandra Palace, on Wednesday, June 28th, under the Presidency of our distinguished Bro. Lord Leigh, when upwards of £12,000 was announced by the Secretary, with twenty-one lists to come. We shall recur to the subject in our next. We beg emphatically to congratulate the House Committee and Bro. Biackes.

Original Correspondence.

THE LAST QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION. To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Bro. Simpson, in his letter published in your impression of Saturday last, rebukes me seriously for "the use" which he says "I made of the Grand Master's name, as a lever to propel my motion to success." Bro. Simpson is right in the fact, though not in the somewhat coarse explanation he gives to it. I thought I had referred sufficiently to this subject in my last letter, but holding, as I do, that when a man commits an error the only proper way is frankly to admit it, I do admit that I made a grave mistake, and I am exceedingly sorry for it. Believing, as I did, that my motion would be carried, I thought that it would add an additional zest to the satisfaction with which it would be carried to know that the Grand Master approved of it. I judged by myself and by the opinions of the many distinguished brethren upon whose judgment I place great reliance, and whom I had consulted upon it. I alone, however, am responsible for it. I alone bear the blame. I learned for the first time that a Grand Master must not express an opinion. I have served under four different Grand Masters, and although I may have once heard an expression of opinion by one of them received in silence, I never before heard the opinion of the Grand Master received with cries of "No, no." When I heard those cries, then for the first time I saw the formidable nature of the opposition to my resolutions. I unwittingly exposed our Royal Chief to this discourtesy, and I am deeply sorry for it.

I now proceed to Bro. Simpson's letter generally. He complains that I published a private letter of his without his consent. I utterly deny this. I claim that I had a perfect right to make any use I thought proper of his letter. It was in no way a private letter; it was written to me on public business, and on matters which were to be publicly discussed in the course of a few days. I am not surprised that he does not like, as he evidently does not, that the opinions he expressed to me should be known to vary so immensely from those which he expressed in Grand Lodge; but that is his concern, not mine. I claim, then, my perfect right to use his letter, and I am about to exercise that right again.

Before doing so I must premise that I do not understand Bro. Simpson, perhaps he does not understand himself. "Methinks he does protest too much"—of that, however, others will judge. On Wednesday last, by the last post, I received from Bro. Simpson a letter, in which he asks me to serve on a committee to be nominated in September next, and then goes on to say, "I confess I feel very sore at one or two of your expressions in reference to me before Grand Lodge meeting and in your recent letter, but I feel bound, both as a clergyman and a brother Mason, to sink any personal feeling I may have, in order that charity and brotherly love may abound amongst us."

At or about the very time that he wrote these words (for I believe that you do not receive communications for publication after Wednesday) he must have written the letter which appears in the "Freemason" of Saturday last. Why did he write that letter to me? and why did he so write, if he had already written, or contemplated writing, his letter to you? How singularly charity and brotherly love abound in it; how singularly practice follows profession!

Bro. Simpson labours hard to prove that the opinions he expressed in his letter to me and those declared by him in Grand Lodge are reconcilable. The artifice is too transparent, the effort is a failure. He writes, "I say now, as I said then, I think the plan of giving to St. Paul's and St. Alban's an admirable one per se—that is, by itself and in itself, and from my standpoint (as a clergyman of the Church of England), I like the idea very much." But the plan by itself is one thing and as paid for out of Grand Lodge funds another. Now, this latter part is exactly what he did not say. Was there one word in his objections to me as to Grand Lodge funds? No, but there was a reason given, and a very different one, why my plan, being admirable per se, was not perfect, and that reason Bro. Simpson gave, "because it wants that personal and living element which he thought such an occasion should possess." His present argument is an after-thought, and will not hold water. He says in the one case he had to follow his pleasure and in the other to do his duty. Some people might have thought that pleasure as a clergyman and duty as a Mason might have been together in such a case. How did our reverend brother's pleasure and duty feel in reference to his own proposition for a public service of Masons at St. Paul's, and a grant of £1,000 from Grand Lodge funds to a charity in India?

In reference to the passage in my last letter, where I said "I heard Bro. Simpson's statement in Grand Lodge with amazement, when I knew that he had expressed" very reverse opinion to me," Bro. Simpson now writes, "I read this with more than amazement—with sorrow. This statement is purely imaginary, as I never so expressed myself." This is hardly courteous, but I presume is an instance of abounding charity. He never so expressed himself! Why, let any man of ordinary intelligence read Bro. Simpson's letter to me (as quoted in your impression of June 17) and say if it does not contain the very reverse of the opinions he expressed in Grand Lodge; all the special pleading in the world cannot alter the fact.

Bro. Simpson next charitably, and in a spirit of brotherly love, takes me to task for the lecture which he says I gave to Grand Lodge on "narrow-mindedness" and "selfishness." The former word I never used. It does not belong to me, and if it is in want of an owner I make Bro. Simpson a present of it. The word "selfishness" I did use, but I did not use it either in the way or with the intention which he seeks to attribute to me. The words I used were to this effect, "If you give this money to one of our own charities, will you not be thought by the world to be acting in a selfish manner?" If I gave offence by saying this, I am sorry for it, but I thought it, I still think it, and I am generally in the habit of saying what I think.

Bro. Simpson says, and here I am glad to be able to agree with him, that "he has yet to learn" that the works of restoration of churches in the provinces were paid for purely, or at all, out of Provincial Grand Lodge funds. He will learn if he enquires of any of the Provincial Grand Secretaries of the provinces. I have named that grants were made from each of the Provincial Grand Lodge funds. He may enquire further if he pleases, and with a similar result, as to the building and restoration of churches at Leamington and Nuneaton, and even in my own county, Herts. He says I must see that these are not precedents for Grand Lodge. I beg to say I do not see it. They are to my mind good and generous examples, which I think Grand Lodge might have followed with honour and advantage.

In the concluding paragraph of his postscript Bro. Simpson refers to my having forgotten the two urgent communications made by him to me to withdraw my resolution, and which communications were made on the day of Grand Lodge meeting. I received a letter from him on that day asking me to give him five minutes' conversation previous to G. Lodge. I did so, and at that meeting Bro. Simpson asked me if I would withdraw all the latter part of my resolution, offering in such case to withdraw his own. I naturally declined to do so, stating that to comply would be to deprive my resolution of its whole spirit. He urged no objection to it, but from something in his manner just before we separated I put this question to him, "Do you mean to oppose my motion on the ground that it is a grant for a denominational purpose?" He hesitated, and then replied that he should not pledge himself. That I used any overbearing threats to him I utterly deny. There were two well known Grand Officers present, and if I used any sort of threat they must have heard it.

I give Bro. Simpson every credit he deserves for the ability, the secrecy, and the subtlety with which he conducted the attack on my resolution. I had made no preparation for it, and I fully believed, until led to doubt by his hesitation in answering my last question, that he meant to run his motion fairly against mine, and I had no doubt as to the result in such case.

He says that he quite grants that the fortnight which elapsed since he wrote his letter had strongly increased his objections to my resolution. This is an unfortunate admission, because objections which had never been raised could not be increased. The only objection he had raised was that my resolution wanted the living and personal element, whatever that may be, and that he liked his own best.

Why, let me ask, did Bro. Simpson not come to me and say, "My opinions have undergone a very considerable change, I find that there are very strong objections to my resolution on what are called denominational grounds; there are equally strong objections to yours. I invite you to withdraw yours, and I will withdraw mine; if you do not I shall feel it to be my duty to drop my own motion, and to oppose yours on denominational grounds." However extraordinary this might have appeared as coming from a clergyman, it would at least have been a manly and straightforward course, and how different might have been the result.

I am sorry that I have been prolix, but I thought it right to say so much. I have now done with Bro. Simpson as far as personal matters are concerned. Any interchange of personalities between him and myself will do no good, will not alter the condition of affairs, or make us to retrieve the steps which I think we have wrongly taken. I am ready to give my help in any way that may be thought desirable, but at present I confess that I do not see my way out of the difficulty.

I proposed my resolution because it had a national as well as a Masonic object; if any one will propose a better I will willingly support it, at the same time I quite agree with your witty correspondent of last week, that to give a large sum of money to one of our own charities will not be the best way of exhibiting our generosity.

Your fraternally,
June 26th, 1876.

JOHN HAVERS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

A "Provincial Grand Officer," whose modesty compels him to be nameless, considers a statement I made in Grand Lodge "an absurdity." I dare say if we knew his name it would add still greater weight to his opinion, and give me a heavier blow.

My statement was to the effect that the passing of a resolution in Grand Lodge to grant two donations out of Grand Lodge funds to assist in restoring and adorning two churches of the Church of England would have been a blow to Freemasonry.

Now, Sir, I am dull enough to be of the same opinion still, and have the consolation of feeling that the brethren of Grand Lodge in the proportion of twenty to one are equally obtuse. Perhaps it may be that the fine air of the provinces gives a man clearer moral and intellectual conceptions than can be expected from our London fogs.

But, Sir, jesting apart, I do hope that when the mist raised by this controversy has passed away, we shall see plainly that we have escaped a great danger, however veiled in archæology and illustrated by fiction.

No amount of eloquence or historical research could in the eyes of plain Englishmen alter these facts, (1) that it was proposed to grant a sum of £2000 to two churches belonging to a particular religious body, and (2) that such a proposition was never made in Grand Lodge before. Had we passed this vote where were we to stop? Why on some similar occasion should not St. Clement Danes' Church, built by Sir Christopher Wren, and one of these national monuments come in for a grant, but in this case with still stronger claims, inasmuch as there are no wealthy authorities within, and no chance of much support from without.

I quite agree with our "P.G. Officer" in his broad definition of "Charity," but do not agree with him in the opinion that because we raise a memorial on this occasion in some measure connected with one of our institutions, our "charities will be our ruin."

If he means that it would be desirable as you yourself, Sir, seem to imply, to purge our charities of the evils attendant on our present unfair and hap-hazard, system of election, I should be inclined to fall in with his gloomy forebodings, but to aid the orphan, the widow, and the aged, after most thorough investigation and according to their just claims, or to raise a memorial having some direct or indirect reference to those charities will never "ruin us." Nay, it would build us up and would lead us to erect a superstructure more perfect in its parts, and more worthy of the Great Master Builder than any "temple made with hands," which is but "a shadow of the true."

As to the queries of your correspondent, "W.T." (who also writes from some shady and anonymous spot), I would say:—

1.—I have already indicated pretty plainly why I moved a rejection of the latter part of Bro. Havers's motion. My own motion as to a thanksgiving service (not of Grand Lodge only, but of Freemasons) stood on very different grounds, as I stated in a former letter, which perhaps I cannot better illustrate than by asking "W.T." this question: Of the many men of various creeds who assembled to pay their last tribute to Sir Thomas Henry at the Roman Catholic Chapel of Kensington, how many does he think would have voted a grant from some charitable fund, of which they were trustees, for the purpose of enlarging the chapel, perhaps known to have been built by a man of well known benevolence, and who was also connected with an institution of which some of those gentlemen were members? To assemble for a moral and religious purpose in any building is one thing, to vote money for its restoration or decoration is another, and that out of funds raised for a wholly different object, and which were never before even applied for on behalf of such an object.

That we have gone out of what Bro. Havers calls "the beaten track" of Masonry in our grants the records of Grand Lodge amply, and I will add happily, testify. The fire at Chicago, the Indian Famine, the Famine in Persia, the Palestine Exploration, all bear witness that Grand Lodge is not "narrow" in its principles nor "selfish" in its beneficence, but any man with half a head can clearly see the broad line that separates these objects from that for which Bro. Havers claimed our Masonic support.

As to my Indian idea, all I can say is, that I believed, and still believe, that a general object of a charitable kind, or even of a purely Masonic kind, could have been found in India which would have appropriately linked this occasion with our M.W. Grand Master's visit, and would certainly have been more cognate to Masonry and charity and our Grand Master than St. Alban's Abbey, even though justly entitled to the Masonic antecedents which Bro. Havers claimed for it.

I have touched on these points raised by "W.T." I trust they may point to my "motives," and that if any doubt remains "W.T." as a good Mason may adopt the definition of "charity" advocated so well by our "Prov. G. Officer," and pronounce them "good motives."

I am, dear Sir and Brother, fraternally yours,
June 26th, 1876.

R. J. SIMPSON.

[We beg to disclaim distinctly any such opinion as Bro. Simpson credits us with in respect of the elections of our charities. We do not consider our present system unfair or "haphazard," and we cannot understand to what opinion of ours Bro. Simpson alludes, or why he should quote us at all. With all deference to him such a question has not been so far raised.—Ed.]

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I was present at the last meeting of Grand Lodge, and was pained to see many things occur which can hardly be mentioned without a blush of shame rising to the faces of all who assisted by their presence. For the first time I heard hisses in Grand Lodge, yet no caution or reminder came from the chair that it was an offence specially guarded against in the Book of Constitutions. I heard a paid officer of one of the charities protest against a vote of money in which his institution was not to share. I heard, or fancied I heard, a clergyman of the Church of England object to a proposed vote as denominational, while a notice stood in his name proposing that we should all attend a cathedral service, and I heard and saw on all sides displays of temper which were most unseemly. I think it was clear to many present that the worthy and amiable Provincial Grand Master who occupied the chair was not strong enough to control the assembly. He was not sure of his position, and in putting one of the amendments proposed he made an awkward mistake. The rule of seniority when our M.W. Grand Master, his Pro and Deputy Grand Masters, are all absent is a mistaken one, and one that has before now been productive of considerable mischief. I need not now point out how it might be amended, simply that it ought to be, and that too without delay. As for the outcome of the whole matter, I hope the committee will never be appointed. I hope our M.W. Grand Master will himself recommend how the thank-offering should be applied, and if he were to say that he thought it might be given to an hospital for incurables, the money would be applied to aid a charity lamentably inadequate to the needs of the community, and sadly neglected by most persons in favour of general and special hospitals of all kinds. I believe such a proposal would be accepted by an overwhelming majority. It could not hurt the sensibilities of a single member of Grand Lodge, and, while adopting and confirming the proceedings of the last Quarterly Communication, it would remove the stigma of selfishness so painful to the true Freemason.

Yours fraternally,

A PAST GRAND OFFICER.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have read with deep interest the correspondence between Bros. Havers and Simpson, and the letters of other brethren who have written on the subject of the discussion at the last Quarterly Communication.

I voted against Bro. Havers's motion, and should do so again; I should have voted against the motion of which Bro. Simpson had given notice, and which he afterwards withdrew. If Bro. Havers's motion had been lost, and the original motion of Bro. Simpson's had been proposed, I should have been bound to move, as an amendment, a resolution which had been already written out and approved by many of the brethren.

Whilst I admit that great respect is due to Bro. Havers, I cannot, without a sense of humiliation, read or hear the suggestion that we should bow before his authority in a matter on which any properly constituted mind can at least form an independent opinion. His eloquence, which no one can admire more than I do, was dogmatic in its tone, and on some points questionable in taste, for whilst he had most improperly consulted H.R.H. the Grand Master on his motion, he made the impropriety of his act the more pointed by quoting the Grand Master's opinion upon a matter delicately relating to himself. The imputation that the brethren had come there with a foregone conclusion was in equally questionable taste, as it implied that no one but himself had a right to form any opinion beforehand. His "foregone conclusion" was a mistake; but it was scarcely fair or courteous to insinuate that the brethren in Grand Lodge were not open to argument and reason.

Bro. Havers questions whether the remark was apropos—that the contributions from which the vote was to be taken were derived from persons of various opinions, and that we could not expect Jews and others to regard his motion favourably. I can positively state that the brother who alluded to the Jews was immediately afterwards congratulated and thanked by Jews who were present in Grand Lodge; he has since received other expressions of approval.

I am, as many members of the Order in the north of England are, a Unitarian; and the use of Masonic money to restore and perpetuate architectural emblems derived (as I believe) from the ancient Thallus-worship would be offensive and disgusting to me and many others. I could not suffer such a thing to be done without a respectful and earnest protest. If sectarianism or denominationalism has been introduced the fault lies with the original motion.

Bro. Havers plausibly argues that the vote is asked for these buildings (St. Paul's and St. Alban's) because they are Masonic monuments, and not because they are churches belonging to a denomination. My reply is that we should bestow our votive offering upon a Masonic purpose free from the objection which applies to these two churches. If, however, Bro. Havers argues in favour of the churches not because they are places of Christian worship, but because they are Masonic monuments, how can he consistently argue against those who wish the memorial to be essentially within Masonic boundaries? If the insinuation of narrow-mindedness applies to those who think that the money should be devoted to purposes connected with the Masonic charities, does it not equally apply to those who argue that it should be devoted to enlarge or restore a Masonic architectural monument?

I am bound to say on behalf of many liberal Jewish brethren who are intimate personal friends that their modest habit of tolerance, which challenges no man's religious views, would probably have allowed the occasion to pass with only a silent negative vote or abstention from any part in the discussion, but this courteous respect for the opinions of others is not to be mistaken for approval or even indifference; and I am assured, and firmly believe that Jewish Masons generally approve of the protest made by one of the speakers on their behalf.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

J. BAXTER LANGLEY.

50, Lincoln's-inn-fields, W.C.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I write to ask a question, and to suggest practical action.

We who were present at the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge know well what Bro. Havers's motion was. We know that Bro. Simpson's amendment "to refer the whole matter to a committee" was carried, and that, therefore, Bro. Havers's motion was not put.

When the committee is appointed and approved of by

Grand Lodge, will any brother who has Parliamentary experience tell me why the committee is debarred from recommending either £1000 to "the vague something in India," or (as Bro. Simpson seems to imagine) £1000 to St. Paul's, or £1000 to St. Alban's, or £1000 to each or all of these objects?

In any case I appeal to those who, like myself, agree in every word that Bro. Havers said, and to those who, not agreeing in all he said, would still support the resolution he proposed, and I ask them to come forward and out of their own pockets give a thank-offering for the return of our beloved Grand Master from his perilous journey. I propose to give £20 provided that 100 brethren will give or collect the same before the Grand Lodge to be held in September next, the sum collected to be divided into two equal parts for St. Paul's and St. Alban's.

Let those who agree with Bro. Simpson do the same if they please.

And let those who object to spend anything on objects extraneous to the Order make any appeal they please for purely Masonic purposes. But let us do something at once.

Yours fraternally,

I.P.M.

OF PROPOSING (JOINING) MEMBERS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have just received the "Freemason" for the 1st April, and wish to draw attention to one point in the letter therein of "S.P." in reply to "A Secretary." From the evident ability of the writer, and his position in the Craft, no doubt his construction of the law will generally be taken ex cathedra, and therefore the more necessary, I think, that attention should be drawn to any point in his letter to which exception may fairly be taken. Long before this will reach you some other brother may probably have already performed the same duty, and so spared you the trouble of publishing this letter. If not, I would say that the only point in which I differ from Bro. "S.P.'s" propounding of the law is with respect to his proposing of joining members. "S.P." says casually that a joining member can only be proposed at a regular meeting, in contradistinction to a candidate for initiation who may be proposed at a lodge of emergency, or as otherwise provided "in writing." I venture to italicise Bro. "S.P.'s" words:—"The rule is that a candidate shall be proposed at a lodge meeting, not, mark, as in the case of a joining member, necessarily at a regular meeting—at any lodge meeting, even a lodge of emergency." Now, referring to the Constitutions, I do not see that this distinction as marked in italics exists. The wording of the law is, "No brother shall be admitted a member of a lodge without a regular proposition in open lodge," and "No person shall be made a Mason without a regular proposition at one lodge." Where is the distinction? What is done at a lodge of emergency is as much done in open lodge as if at a regular meeting, and it appears to me that the word "open" in the passage relating to the proposing of joining members is not in opposition to the first clause in the corresponding passage relating to the proposing of initiates, but rather to the proviso for cases of emergency made in the second clause of the same passage, that in fact, propositions of members, whether for joining or initiation, can be regularly made at any lodge, whether regular or emergent, and that, further, under certain conditions provided and so carefully explained in "S.P.'s" letter, candidates for initiation can be proposed "in writing"—an exception that does not apply to joining members.

Yours fraternally,

CORRECT MASONRY—WHAT IS IT?

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your columns of the 17th ult. appears a letter bearing on the meeting, held on June 2nd, of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of the Province of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, at Peterborough, which afforded the said meeting an opportunity for laying the foundation-stone of the new aisle which is to be added to the Church of St. Mary, of that city. After the usual form and applications necessary on such an occasion the stone was fixed, and pronounced, in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, well and truly laid. Whether the Holy Trinity used in the sense referred to is in accordance with the Constitutions of England I am unable to say, never having seen a copy myself. However, in Scotland the Constitution is plain and clear on the subject, which is as follows:—"The stone is placed on the bed according to the rules of Masonry, the closing ceremony is finished by the Grand Master or other presiding brother giving the stone three k—s saying, 'May the Almighty Architect of the Universe look down with benignity upon our present undertaking, and crown the edifice, of which we have now laid the foundation, with every success.'"

Freemasonry is truth, and all truth must be identical, but the origin of each is different, their histories are unlike. The principles of Freemasonry preceded the advent of Christianity; its symbols and its marvellous tales were derived from the "Solomonic Temple." Why, I ask, this christianization of our ancient Order? If I understand Freemasonry aright it is a high standard of morality, and if we as Masons attain to the above platform we do well; if the aspirations of a brother go higher his mind is actuated by Divine truth and not human wisdom—it is mere human wisdom Freemasonry presumes to inculcate. I think it would be well for those of our brethren who occupy high places in the Craft to study well the ceremonies they are about to be engaged in before an outer world, who know nothing of our internal workings. This would be a means, in my opinion, to obviate much unpleasantness and discussion as in the present instance (the innovation of the Trinity). This, from a Masonic standpoint, is an error which materially affects the cosmopolitan character of our institution. The universality of Freemasonry is its boast; then as a brotherhood let us hold fast to a universal method, so that citizens of every nation may conscientiously partake of its illuminations, and converse in its language. At its altars men of all religions could kneel, to its creed disciples of every faith may subscribe. "Correct Masonry—what is it?" In short, it is just this—"Doing all the good in your power to others, expecting nothing to flow back to yourself." Such is the spirit of Freemasonry. As a Mason I have no right to advance a religious sentiment, well knowing it would wound the feelings of a brother or brothers. Our Order is world-spread, we therefore cannot allow in our public ceremonies what we do not teach in subordinate lodges. All Masonic deeds are unsectarian, with the exception of belief. In this we must be all of one mind, viz., believing in the glorious Architect of Heaven and Earth, and practice the sacred duties of morality. These are the only qualifications St. John's Masonry demands.

Yours fraternally,
Lennoxton, June 19th, 1876.

P. ROBERTSON.

MASONIC LAW.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I was told 40 years ago, by the then W.M. of our lodge, that Masonry possesses many great and invaluable privileges, but in order to secure those privileges to worthy men, and we trust, to worthy men alone, vows of fidelity were required. I made those vows, that I might be entitled to those privileges, and I always thought that those who did not make them would not be entitled. Judge my surprise when I see that lodges are constantly in the habit of voting large sums of money out of their funds for the benefit of the profane world, who are not Masons. This, I believe, is contrary to our Book of Constitutions. If I am wrong I shall be glad if you or some other brother will refer me to the paragraph and page of that book that gives lodges that power. I have been a P.M. for 35 years, and I have looked it over and over again and can find no such power.

Yours very fraternally,

AN OLD P.M., ONE, &c.

HONORARY MEMBERS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

No one seems inclined to reply to the question as to the status of honorary members, and so I will do so, the subject being certainly well worthy and susceptible of an authoritative answer.

The Board of General Purposes, and the Colonial Board, reported to the Grand Lodge on the 7th December, 1864, as follows, which report was carried:—

"The Board having consulted the Grand Registrar in the matter, beg to state that they coincide with him in the opinion that the Book of Constitutions does not in any wise recognise honorary members of private lodges. When that book speaks of members it means only those brethren who are regularly contributing members to the funds of the lodge to which they may belong. Such brethren only ought to be returned to Grand Lodge as members of private lodges. The status of an honorary member must be strictly confined to the lodge which so elects him, and can in no way give him any position in the Craft outside the door of his lodge. He cannot, therefore, hold any office in the lodge, or vote upon any subject which might even remotely affect the Craft at large; in short, that his status and privileges as an honorary member entitle him to attend the meetings of the lodge, and partake of its refreshments, without the necessity of being introduced by a subscribing member. Honorary members have no other rights or privileges whatever."

It will be seen that honorary members have simply the privilege of nominal membership of lodges, such as the receipt of the circulars and other business communications, and, as noted in the foregoing, in addition to the rights they already possess by subscribing to lodges, and in the event of such brethren ceasing to subscribe annually to a lodge they are debarred from visiting even the lodges of which they have been elected honorary members, excepting in accordance with Clause 3 "Of Visitors" (Book of Constitutions, p. 89, edit. 1875).

Reviews.

CUI BONO MASONRY? By the late FRANCIS MASON, M.A., D.D. Edited by E. G. MAN, Barrister-at-Law.—Cassell, Petter, and Galpin.

We have read this work with much interest. Bro. Mason was a missionary of the Baptist Society, in Burmah, among the Karens. He was a man of great energy and linguistic acquirements, and has left behind him a goodly amount of work in the shape of portions of the Bible and New Testament manuals, and many other useful works, in the Karen and other dialects. He laboured in his honourable vocation in Burmah for forty-four years, and died at Rangoon in 1873, having just previous to his death been appointed professor of Pali, at the Government High School of Burmah. The list of his various valuable educational and religious translations fills over two pages, and we cannot but express our warm feelings of admiration at so useful and hardworking and elevated a career. We regret deeply to hear, as too often happens to be the case that his widow is not in affluent circumstances, and this fact has induced Bro. E. G. Man, D.G. Registrar of British Burmah, to edit this posthumous work of his. Bro. Mason, who was originally made a Freemason, it appears, in Missouri, U.S., and received his degrees from Judge Bates, then W.M. of his mother lodge, the name of which is not given, was made G. Deacon of the G

Lodge in Missouri about 1813. In fact, at the time of his death Bro. Mason had been fifty years a Freemason. That he saw its intense reality, and means of good, that amid his civilizing and religious labours, he could put on paper his high estimate of the undoubted value of Freemasonry, is the best answer, in our opinion, to many a violent anathema, and many a vulgar malediction. We rejoice greatly in having the lifelong testimony of such a good worker, and true-hearted and enlightened man, in favour of our most calumniated fraternity. The book, as it is, is the development of lectures delivered in Lodge Greenlaw, 1875, Toungoo Burmah, January, 1871, and no doubt, had the writer lived, would have received those touches, and that final arrangement of the argument which the hand and mind of the author alone could give to it. As it is, it is a very emphatic commendation of Freemasonry per se, and deserves the attention of all Masonic book collectors, and all Masonic students. We earnestly commend it to the notice of all our reading brethren, and to all lodge libraries, and we hope that it will be ordered for our own Grand Lodge Library.

LINKS IN THE CHAIN OF EVIDENCE, CONNECTING ISRAEL AND ENGLAND. By Bro. J. LEYLAND FEILDEN.—London: W. H. Guest.

This is too abstruse a book for our limited pages, inasmuch as it would demand too much space. Those who wish to see a review of it must be so good as to obtain the "Masonic Magazine" for August. W.F.A.

CONSECRATION OF THE CRIPPLEGATE LODGE (No. 1613).

A new Lodge for the Ward of Cripplegate was consecrated on Saturday last at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, by Bro. Terry. At the opening of the lodge its formation was Bro. James Terry, W.M.; H. G. Buss, Prov. G. Treasurer Middlesex, S.W.; H. Howard Hodges, P. Prov. G.S.W. Berks and Bucks, J.W.; Robert Abbott, Secretary; John Constable, I.G.; and Bro. W. J. Crutch, D.C. Bro. Fred. H. Cozens was Organist, and was assisted in his duties by Bros. T. J. W. Simons, G. T. Carter, and Chaplin Henry. The other brethren of the lodge present were: W. R. Baker, E. R. Bright, Fred. King, John Curle, S. Cohen, W. Medwin. The visitors were A. Treadwell, W.M. 177; Ephraim Davey, 1566; W. T. Scott, S.W. 9; W. G. Durrant, S.D. 1056; J. Bingemann, P.M. 55, W.M. 1599; E. Legg, W.M. 861; J. L. Cogan, S.W. 1365; A. Robbins, P.M. 1056; W. J. Bishop, 180; T. A. Hussey, 180; H. J. Felton, 1056; A. Calk, 1056; J. Harris, 657; L. Boulton, 1056; F. Herold, 1056; D. Posener, J.W. 183, S.W. 1227; C. Gammon, P.M. 195; W. S. Nichols, I.G. 209; H. Massey, P.M. 619 ("Freemason"); U. Knell, J.D. 862, 1471; G. F. Wilson, 569; N. D. Partridge, W.S. 1449; G. Abbott, P.M. 192; J. P. Allen, 933; A. A. Pendlebury, P.M. 1056; G. W. W. Wilson, 1009; T. T. Moon, 1424; C. S. Pearce, 65; G. B. Payne, P.M. 27; Levy, P.M. 188; N. Reed, I.G. 765, J.D. 1572, S.D. 1601; C. Archer, 1426; J. Morton, P.M. 1056; G. Wilson, P.M. 178; F. Jackson, 1475; E. Matthews, W.S. 65; J. B. Lemaire, P.M. 12; C. Spangler, 12; and E. Harfeld, P.M. 185.

The ceremonies of consecration and installation were most ably performed, the whole of the proceedings passing off without the slightest hitch or hesitation of any sort, and the vocal portions being rendered with professional accuracy. Bro. J. R. Foulger, Citizen and Spectacle-maker, P.M. 177, was installed W.M., who invested Bros. E. Coste, P.M. 9, I.P.M.; G. M. Felton, Citizen and Loriner, S.W. 1056, S.W.; Bro. C. J. Benson, Citizen and Spectacle-maker, 192, J.W.; Bro. J. C. Corke, Treasurer; Bro. Robert Abbott, Secretary; F. M. McCarthy, S.D.; Bro. Groner, J.D.; Bro. Seares, I.G.; Bro. Stephenson, D.C.; Bro. Clark, W.S.; and Bro. W. Steedman, Tyler.

Three propositions for initiation and two for joining were made, and the J.W. afterwards proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Terry and the other consecrating officers for performing the ceremony. This was seconded by Bro. Coste, and carried unanimously, the W.M. remarking that he had never heard the ceremony so ably rendered as he had that day.

Brother Terry acknowledged the compliment on behalf of himself and the other brethren who had assisted. It had afforded him infinite pleasure to see Bro. Foulger again installed as the W.M. of a lodge, as he was sure the choice of the brethren had fallen on a most worthy brother. That he and the brethren who formed the lodge might have every prosperity in the lodge was the earnest desire of him (Bro. Terry) and the other brethren who had assisted, and they hoped they might have the pleasure of frequently coming to the lodge and witnessing its prosperity.

The S.W. and Bro. Coste moved and seconded honorary membership to the consecrating brethren, which was unanimously adopted; and Bros. Buss, Hodges, Constable, and Crutch replied, after which the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a choice banquet provided in the large hall by Bro. Jennings.

This having been partaken of, grace was sung by the professional brethren, and the usual toasts were proposed.

The W.M. in giving the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," said it was a pleasure to all Masons to drink the health of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, not only from their feelings of loyalty and because she was patroness of the Order, but because members of her family did "aprons put on, to make themselves one, with a Free and Accepted Mason." In giving "The M.W.G.M.," the W.M. said that all Masons were delighted at the Prince of Wales's return from his long and tedious journey; but they were also greatly pleased to find that he had been so well received, and that wherever a body of Freemasons was to be found in the course of his travels they gave him a hearty welcome. To those who were Masons on distant shores the Freemasons of England returned their most sincere thanks for the reception they accorded the M.W.G.M. The Prince of Wales was always ready, willing, and anxious to support Freemasons in everything they brought forward in a just and righteous cause. He was also looked upon as the right hand of Freemasons and as a G.M. who did credit to the order. No matter whether in India or in England we found he was well and heartily received, and Masons considered that such a reception he heartily deserved. The toast of "the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon," the W.M. said, was one equally interesting to Freemasons. He was a brother who they found working hard in the Imperial Parliament for the welfare of his fellow-men in distant climes, and also among our legislators for the welfare of England in defending and directing our laws. He was always to be found at hand in giving a helping hand to Freemasonry whenever required; in fact he was a most industrious worker in the Craft, whose welfare he had at heart. "The Deputy Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers," which was the next toast, all of whom were most anxious and willing to do all they could for the brethren, introduced the subject of Grand Secretary's absence from this consecration, and the W.M. said that Bro. Herve had sent him a letter to say it was with extreme regret he was compelled to be elsewhere. The President of the Board of General Purposes, Bro. Monckton, had also expressed his regret that he was not able to be with the brethren that evening, but he wished every success to the Cripple Gate Lodge. Bro. E. Coste, I.P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M." The W.M. had placed him that evening in the position of the P.M. for the ensuing year, and he had to thank the brethren for recognising him in that position. It was with great pleasure he proposed "The Health of the W.M.," and it was with all sincerity he proposed it, for he had known Bro. Foulger for many years, and he was quite sure there was not a brother who did not hold him in the highest esteem. Every brother in the lodge was proud to think that he had been designated as the W.M. of the Cripple Gate Lodge. They could not find a better brother to preside over them, and they all hoped he would have a most successful year. He trusted that all the other officers of the lodge would do their utmost to make it so.

The W.M. said in reply: I rise on this occasion with the greatest diffidence. I know scarcely what to say. I have to thank you for the very kind manner in which you have received the toast and drunk my health. I think you have received it and drunk it heartily, cordially, and with all that brotherly feeling which should always exist among Freemasons. It is true that I have been in Cripple Gate Ward for many years, and I feel proud of being selected as the first W.M. of this lodge. I feel proud that the brethren have had sufficient confidence in me to place me in the superior position to preside over them for the forthcoming year. I certainly was alarmed at the first onset when the movement was started in the ward, and the brethren of the ward rallied round each other and decided that application should be made for a warrant to be granted for this lodge, and that I should be their Master. I feel that the distinguished honour conferred on me is really an honour that I did not deserve, because I think there might have been found a more distinguished brother. Be that as it may, it was decided that I should be the man, and I will endeavour to do all in my power to prevent you regretting your choice. I hope the Cripple Gate Lodge will be what we intend it to be, a lodge of true and faithful brethren, true to each other and faithful to the Craft; to do all that is honourable in Masonry—that Masonry shall be proud of having such men in the field; that we shall do what is necessary, and all we can, in our charities, which really are the groundwork of Masonry. Although charity may begin at home, I hope we will begin in such a manner that it will be felt at Grand Lodge that Cripple Gate was the proper locality to start a meeting place for Freemasons, where honour should be done to the Craft. I hope it will be; I feel it will be. Of course we are a young lodge at present. We cannot talk of the services of this lodge, but I feel that charity is the first step that we can take to make Masonry truthfully known to the outer world; at any rate, although the outer world are not acquainted with our mysteries and our secrets, they are acquainted with this fact, that we have most noble institutions, schools for the education of our brethren's children, and an asylum for the old men and old women. This the outer world does know, and I often hear them say they think there is something in Freemasonry more than they really know of it, or such large sums would not appear in the newspapers as they see subscribed to the Benevolent Institution and the Schools. This is the something the outside world are really inquisitive about. They must come among us to learn it, and I hope they will find that there is really something in the Cripple Gate Lodge. We do not mean in the common acceptance of the term that we are all cripples in this ward, although I believe in 1010 Edmund the Martyr, the first King of the East Angles, as he was called, who died in the country, was borne through this parish, and, as was the custom then, the cripples assembled at Cripple Gate, believing that there was some peculiar charm in it to heal their infirmities, and it is said that as the body passed the cripples all danced and sang. I do not know if that is true or not, as I was not there to see; it may be only a matter of history; but from history I have other information with regard to Cripple Gate. In Cripple Gate lie the ashes of some of the celebrated dead of this country. Milton, our great poet, Foxe, the great writer of the "Book of Martyrs," are both buried in Cripple Gate Church. We have records to shew that Whittington resided in Cripple Gate, and that in 1244 Cripple Gate was rebuilt by the brewers of London, and in those days the cripples used to assemble round that gate to gather the alms. But we find that masonry is not altogether unknown in Cripple Gate; for we hear of a lodge called the Bedford Lodge in 1739 being held at the Mitre in Union-street, Cripple Gate. We have still a Union-street, Cripple Gate, but not a "Mitre" there. We have the Five Bells, and that is probably the same house. I merely mention that by the way; but it is a fact that we have Masonry in Cripple Gate from 1739. In 1776 it conformed to the rules of Grand Lodge of England under Lord Blaney, Grand Master, and the number of the lodge was No. 364. The initiation fee was then a guinea; the visitor's fee 1s. 6d. (Laughter.) The quarterly subscription 2s. 6d.; and the supper charge was 6d. (great laughter), not the same price as the Albion certainly. (Laughter.) In 1791, according to Masonic history, which I have been reading carefully, I find that this particular lodge was honoured by the preference given to it by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, then the Grand Master of England, who commanded that the gentlemen of his household should be initiated in that lodge, and they were so initiated. So that I wish it to be understood that Masonry is not altogether new in the ward of Cripple Gate. We are very pleased to find that Masonry was sustained here many years before we ever thought of Masonry, or before we were born, and when Masonry belonged to very few. I feel proud of the ward of Cripple Gate, which has something to do with my history. The very first ground I planted my boot on in London—for I was country-born—was in the ward of Cripple Gate. The first residence that I had in London was in the ward of Cripple Gate; all my success in life has been in the ward of Cripple Gate; I married in the ward of Cripple Gate; my children were born in the ward of Cripple Gate, they were baptised at Cripple Gate Church, everything connected with me has been in the ward of Cripple Gate; I am a freeman of the ward of Cripple Gate; I took up my livery in the ward of Cripple Gate, and as we say in all our ward dinners, "May the ward flourish root and branch!" It is not for the root to grow and the branches to wither, but for both to flourish, and I believe we shall flourish and that the good ship will, with good pilots on board and careful steersmen, sail with safety through all the dangers that may beset us. So much for Cripple Gate. But having said so much for the ward let me speak of the Cripple Gate Lodge. Let it be known to the world and known to ourselves that we have started in earnest to do what is right in the history of Freemasonry. Let us all believe in brotherly love, relief, and truth. Let us do as much as within us lies; let us do all that is not detrimental to ourselves and connections to promote the interests of Freemasonry at large. That is what we really intend to do, what is right, what may be considered necessary for the interest of the Craft and the welfare of Freemasonry. Of course we are yet but young Freemasons; we cannot talk about our traditions; we can only hope we shall be able to put ourselves in a position second to none in the Craft so far as the Cripple Gate Lodge is concerned. With that, I beg to thank you for the kind manner in which you have placed me at the top of the tree in this lodge, and I hope we shall go on through the ensuing year most prosperously, and that future years may be as successful as we will endeavour to make the present. (Cheers.)

The W.M. afterwards proposed the toast of "The Consecrating Officers," which he said, from the known ability of these brethren, relieved him of the necessity of making many remarks. The lodge owed a deep debt of gratitude to the consecrating officers for their services in launching the lodge into working order. Bro. Terry, in thanking the brethren for the toast on the part of himself and his brother officers, said they all highly appreciated the compliment which had been paid them. Referring to some of the historical circumstances mentioned by the W.M. he said it was a fortunate thing that the W.M. was not present at Cripple Gate in 1010 when the ashes of Edmund, King and Martyr, went through the gate, as he might have put rather a rough hand upon some of the cripples and taken them before the Lord Mayor. Men must be made for the time; and it was also a circumstance for congratulation that the poor cripples did not live in 1876, although he had, as far as he could, provided against casualties, and, to give a tone to the Cripple Gate Lodge, had come prepared, thinking that the cripples could not have a better support than a crutch, he had brought his friend Bro. Crutch that evening to help them. (Laughter.) He had also brought with him a Constable, who, he thought, would be a fit assistant for the W.M. (Renewed laughter.) And they must also remember that these indefatigable brethren had yet a further officer to assist them in keeping order, for the prison "Buss" was by his side. (Renewed laughter.) They were all so interlocked one way and the other that they could not move without being of mutual assistance; and he was pleased to think that he had been able to bring such able help that evening. For himself he hoped he was not too "Terry"—ble to be looked at. (Laughter.) He and the other consecrating officers were very proud at being elected honorary members of the Cripplegate Lodge, a lodge which was connected with so renowned a locality as had been referred to by the W.M. From the narrative of the connection of the Ward of Cripplegate with the illustrious dead which they had heard it was clear that the W.M. had reason to be proud of his connection with it. He had said that he was married in it, and that his children were born and brought up in it. The lodge might congratulate the ward that though it was the ward of Cripplegate it had not turned out cripples. There certainly was not one in that room. He had expected to see some other eminent Freemasons there that evening, and he thought that they would deeply regret their absence when they came to learn the splendid reception which had been accorded to those who had taken part in the establishment of the lodge. Brother Terry concluded by again thanking the W.M. and brethren of the lodge for the toast, and wishing the greatest prosperity to the lodge.

The W.M. next proposed "The Visitors" of the names of whom there were three or four columns on the signature book. The lodge was very proud to have them in their midst, and he hoped they would go away with a good report of what they had witnessed.

Bro. Abbott, P.M. 192, who was one of the respondents, said he felt great interest in the welfare of the Cripplegate Lodge, because many of its members were members of his own lodge. The brethren of that lodge were first afraid that they would lose many of their own members by the establishment of the Cripplegate Lodge. That fear, however, has passed away, and the lodge recommended the prayer of the petition for a warrant. Some of the brethren of 192 were chosen as officers of the Cripplegate, and three of them he might claim as his own children.

Bro. Scott, S.W. 91, also replied, and expressed his pleasure at the performance he had witnessed. Referring to the working of the W.M., he could not help expecting that the Cripplegate Lodge would have great success. In the W.M. and his officers it had brethren who would conduct it safely through any troubles and difficulties that might arise. Many brethren of his own lodge (No. 91) were members of this lodge, and this enabled him to speak with much confidence, for he knew what they were. His own lodge was of course always uppermost in his mind, and with respect to it he could not help saying—

"Where'er I go, whatever realms I see,
My heart, untrammelled, still returns to thee."

Bro. Wilson also replied, speaking in the same high terms of the W.M., officers, and brethren.

The W.M. next gave "The Recommending Lodge," for which Bro. A. Treadwell, W.M. 177, returned thanks. Bro. Foulger was initiated in that lodge and passed through all its offices; had been a member of that lodge twenty-one years, and was highly respected there.

The W.M. next proposed "The Masonic Charities," and said that he felt the Cripplegate Lodge would prosper, and as it prospered it would remember the Masonic Charities. He begged to thank Bro. Terry, the Secretary of the Benevolent Institution, and the lodge would show its appreciation of its services that evening by assisting his institution. He would suggest that the Benevolent Institution should be first remembered by the Cripplegate Lodge.

Bro. James Terry replied: 285 brethren had enrolled themselves as Stewards for the Boys' Festival, when a still larger subscription than that of last year was expected. He hoped that would be the forerunner of still larger success in 1877 for the other two institutions. Whether in London or in the provinces the most generous support had been accorded to all three institutions. Some brethren had, perhaps, a fancy for one institution above another; but, taken altogether, the various Committees might congratulate themselves that the support was most liberally extended. £9380 was subscribed at the last Festival of the Benevolent Institution, and it certainly could not be said that the Craft failed in its duty on that occasion. £8200, notwithstanding the illness of the Secretary to the Girls' School, was subscribed in May to that institution, and at least £14,000 was expected for the Boys on the 28th inst. This would make some £32,000; but let not the brethren run away with the idea that because this was a large sum the institution could not spend it all; neither let them think that because there was no election for the old men last time they could do without an election in future; nor because they took on twenty-one widows out of thirty-one they had so much money they did not know what to do with it. For this institution there was but one election in the year, and the Committee were desirous to put on all they could, so that the poor people might not have to wait another year. The Committee had agreed to pay each annuitant an increase of £4 a year, which, although it might appear a small sum, was a very large increase for a poor old man or woman. There were three poor old women who were not successful at last election, but each of them being 80 years of age and upwards, the Committee, as they had the power, took them on the fund without election. The Girls' School Committee were going to lay out a large sum of money on a new wing to the school, and no one who had been down there could help coming away with the determination to do all he could for that institution. With regard to the Boys' School, they had heard from its energetic Secretary, their Hercules, a man of most gigantic stature, of tremendous mind, and of irresistible force when he was determined to carry a point, that he was determined to beat the other two Secretaries. He (Bro. Terry) hoped he would not be disappointed, but that the Craft would support him. All three had but one object in view, to go on and prosper to the utmost extent. The W.M.'s suggestion that the lodge should first support the Benevolent Institution was a very kind one, and he should feel that his attendance to consecrate the lodge had not been without effect. He saw many brethren round the table who had nobly supported him in the past, and he saw no reason to doubt that they would do so again. He hoped that each brother as he was initiated would think that upon his own shoulders, on his own efforts, would depend the success of each institution, and if they could only get the young members coming in to take the same interest as the old ones, there was a bright future opening before them. There would go forth to the world, not with a view of bringing them into the Order, an account of the large subscriptions to the institutions; and there would be brought into the Order good, true, and faithful men, who would not be speculative Masons, but Masons in heart and fact, who would contribute largely to the support of the Masonic Institutions. (Cheers.)

Bro. Corke, Treasurer, proposed that a list should be at once commenced, and offered to give ten or fifteen guineas towards it. The lodge would thus show practically the gratitude it felt to Bro. Terry and those brethren who had assisted him in the consecration of the lodge. It would be the pride of his heart if before Bro. Terry left that evening he (Bro. Corke) could place in his hands a cheque for £50 to make the Cripplegate Lodge Vice-President of the Benevolent Institution. Bro. Abbot, the Secretary, his partner, would also put £15. The brethren had met in social intercourse to do good and to be charitable, and he hoped they would support them. If they would promise to do so, he (Bro. Corke) would at once give Bro. Terry a cheque for £50. (Great cheering.)

The S.W., the J.W., the I.P.M. each added £5 5s. to the list, and in a few minutes Bro. Corke informed Bro. Terry that the list amounted to £60.

Bro. Terry then rose to thank the brethren. He said that of the sixty-one lodges he had consecrated the Cripplegate was the first that had paid him such a compliment. He hoped the other sixty would bestir themselves to emulate the Cripplegate. He trusted that much good would result from it. Long might the Grand Master be spared to grant warrants for such lodges as this.

The W.M. said that as the lodge intended to become Vice-President of all the institutions, a cheque for £50 would be given to Bro. Terry, and the other £10 would go towards the list for one of the other institutions.

"The Officers" was the next toast, to which there was a hearty response by the Treasurer (who thanked the visitors very much for assisting) The Secretary, the Wardens and Deacons.

Bro. H. Massey replied for the "Freemason" to the toast of "The Masonic Press," and the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. There was some excellent singing during the evening by Bros. Fred. H. Cozens, T. W. Simons, G. T. Carter and Chaplin Henry.

VOLUME 8 OF THE "FREEMASON" from January to December, 1875, bound in cloth, with richly embossed device on cover. Price 15 shillings. This volume forms a first class reference and chronology of the leading events in Masonry during the past year. It may be had through any bookseller, or at the office, 108, Fleet-st., London.

TO W.M.'S OF LODGES.

ZUCCATO'S PAPHYROGRAPHIC PRINTING PROCESS.—The most Important Invention of the Age for Office, Counting House, and Library Use. By this process, 500 fac-simile Circulars, Drawings, Reports, Notices, Music, &c., can be printed in one hour, in an ordinary copying press, upon any kind of dry paper or cardboard. A proof may be obtained in five minutes. Used in the Admiralty, Horse Guards, the Foreign, Indian, Stationery, and Meteorological Offices, Board of Trade, &c., 15 Railways, 15 Insurance Offices, 20 Banks, 10 School Boards, 20 Boards of Guardians, 500 Schools, the P. and O. Steam Navigation, and Cunard S.S. Co.'s, Society of Arts, &c. Pricelist, testimonials, and specimens from—HENRY and Co., Papyrographic Depot, 92, Strand.

FOR BUSINESS AND PRIVATE USE.

AMBERG'S SELF INDEXING FILE, momentarily filing Letters, Invoices, &c., in alphabetical order. The arrangement obviates the operations of endorsing, folding, or parting, permits papers to be withdrawn at pleasure, facilitates reference, economises space and labour, and so systematises work that hundreds of papers can, by a simple contrivance (furnished with each set), be permanently filed in the form of a book.—Price list, &c., of HENRY and Co., 92, Strand, London.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH.—First-class Dentistry only, embracing all the most recent improvements, at a very trifling cost beyond that paid for inferior, which often proves utterly useless. A great reduction made to servants attending after two. Nitrous oxide gas administered daily. Consultations free.

Mr. PARTRIDGE, Surgical and Mechanical Dentist,
4, Sussex-terrace, near South Kensington Station.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE, the Original and Only Genuine, immediately Relieves and Cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pain. It acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep. (Numerous testimonials accompany each bottle.)

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish, and Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24, 1873. Bottles 1s. 10d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 20s. Sold by all chemists.

The following testimonial is one out of many:—
From G. F. SMITH, Esq., Manager Licensed Actuaries' Pure Tea Company.

9, Curtain-road, London, E.C., Sept. 21, 1875.
Sir,—I have taken your invaluable "Chlorodyne" (especially in the winter time) for some years. When I was advised first to use Chlorodyne I procured some of Collis Brown's. It did me no good whatsoever, I then bought some of your preparation. I firmly believe (under God) that it has been the means of prolonging my life. I am affected (or rather was affected) with severe "Winter Cough," but now, when supplied with your incomparable specific, I defy my old enemy, and drive him out of the system. I know nothing personally of you, Sir, nor, for that matter, of Mr. Collis Brown; but I know, that his preparation of Chlorodyne does me no good whatsoever, and it is with deep gratitude to you that I now pass my winters free from cough, and in comfort.

To Mr. RICHARD FREEMAN.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

CHAUCER LODGE (No. 1540).—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark, on Wednesday, 28th ult. Bro. T. J. Sabine, W.M., P.P.G.S.B. Midx., P.M. 73, &c., presided. There were present Bros. J. C. Mason, S.W.; E. S. Stidolph, J.W.; W. Hudson, P.P.G.D. Sussex, P.M., Treas.; F. Walters, P.P.G.P. Midx., P.M., Sec.; W. J. Kemp, J.D.; H. Faija, I.G.; Hawks, D.C.; A. P. Steadman, W.S.; T. J. H. Wilkins, P.M.; Wright, P.M.; and many others. Amongst the visitors we noticed Bros. H. Keeble, P.M. 1275, &c.; A. Pulley, P.M. 169; Sandiman, P.M. 315; T. Walls, 141; R. Buck, 1559; and others. The work, done in an admirable manner, was raising Bros. Harrison, Blackwell, Hooper, Diack, and R. Buck, and passing Bro. H. Levy. The J.D., Bro. Hudson, was absent in consequence of his representing the lodge as its Steward at the Boys' Festival. The members subscribed ten guineas to make the W.M. in perpetuity a life subscriber to the Boys' School, the W.M. for the time being possessing life subscriberships of both Girls' and Boys', both subscribed for voluntarily by the members of this lodge. Some important notices of motion having been given, candidates proposed for initiation, and joining members proposed, the lodge was closed. Banquet and dessert followed.

MIDDLETON—Imperial George Lodge (No. 78).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Assheton Arms, on Tuesday, June 22. The W.M., Bro. David Reid, took the post of honour at 6 p.m., and his officers being in their respective places, he proceeded to open the lodge. The Secretary having read the minutes of the last meeting, they were in due course confirmed. The ballot was then taken for a candidate, proposed by Bro. H. Wilson, Mr. William Valentine, of Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester, it being satisfactory he was initiated by the W.M., after which the lodge was passed to the Second Degree, and the working tools of a F.C. presented to Bros. Berresford and Brunt, which ceremony was omitted at the last meeting in consequence of other important business. These brethren having retired the lodge was raised to the Third Degree, and the Tracing Board explained to Bros. Tatton and Dodd. The lodge was then reduced to the First Degree and the whole of the brethren summoned to labour, after which the W.M. moved on behalf of Bro. H. Heywood, P.M. and Treasurer, who was unable to attend, "That a donation of Fifty guineas be given from the Charity Fund to the East Lancashire Systematic and Benevolent Institution." The W.M. having informed the brethren that this new institution was working well and wisely, and therefore worthy of the support of the Imperial George Lodge, then appealed to Bro. Wood, P.M., D.C., to give further information with regard to the institution, he being the representative of the lodge at its meetings. Bro. Ward, on rising, seconded the motion, and pointed out in an explicit manner, the great boon such an institution would be to a province of such magnitude as that of East Lancashire. He also informed the brethren that its benefits would doubtless be experienced by many not connected with the province, by many not attached to the Masonic Constitution of England; his remarks here applying to brethren in distress, who were wending their way to their native homes, or in search of occupation. To dispense this charity, which with a little licence we might term "migrating Charity." Bro. Wood, P.M., D.C., informed the brethren that an Almshouse had been appointed, who resided in Manchester, and to whom a distressed brother could apply for assistance, and if found worthy he would at once receive it. It is with regret we have read and heard much of late of designing Masons, and Masonic impostors; we feel that this fact was uppermost in the mind of Bro. Wood, when he advised the brethren to refer all cases of distress to the proper officer at the Masonic Hall, in Cooper-street, Manchester, there their case should be fully investigated, and as a consequence worthy men and worthy men alone would be relieved. Those who could not present themselves at that hall, would be regarded as Masons without mind or without brief. At the conclusion of Bro. Wood's remarks the resolution was ably supported by Bros. Ridley, Cheetham, and Fothergill. The W.M. then put it to the meeting, viz., "That a donation of fifty guineas be given from the charity fund to the E.L.S. and B.I.," and it was unanimously carried. Bro. S. H. Cheetham, P.M., proposed, and Bro. Riley seconded, a candidate for initiation, and the candidate was entered accordingly on good report. Bro. Wood, P.M., D.C., proposed, and Bro. Bradbury, S.W., seconded, "That the lodge be adjourned until September;" this also received general support. Two lodges were represented at this meeting, Bro. G. Sayles giving the customary salutations for Caledonian, 204, and Bro. R. Abrahams, P.M. for Walton, 1086. Before closing our report we must mention that Bro. S. H. Cheetham, P.M., kindly undertook the post of Tyler in order to allow Bro. John Kent, O.G., to be present at the working inside the lodge. He is an able officer in preparing rude matter to be placed in due form, and owing to this duty he is seldom within the door of the lodge; but the closing of the lodge for the season was certainly witnessed by one admired by all—our Bro. John Kent. The banquet having been disposed of, the usual toasts were proceeded with. Time would not permit "the power of song" to be much indulged in. Bro. S. H. Cheetham, P.M., enlivened the evening with his favourite melody, "The Anchor's Weighed." To their respective toasts "The Initiate" and "The Visitors" replied, that of "The Tyler" concluding and closing Imperial George Lodge doings until Thursday, Sept. 28th. May 78 resume labour, in the way in which it usually terminates it, in accordance with that old motto, "Cor unum, via una." ("One heart, one way.")

ROCHFORD.—Lodge of True Friendship (No. 160).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, the 24th ult., at the Old Ship Inn, when Bro. Rev. H. J. Hatch, P. Prov. G. Chaplain Essex, was installed as the W.M. by the V.W. Bro. Rev. S. R. Wigram, Grand Chaplain, the beautiful ritual being rendered with the excellent effect for which our worthy brother is celebrated. Bro. A. Lucking, P.M. 160 and 1000, Prov. A.G.D.C., assisted as Director of Ceremonies. The W.M. invested the following as his officers:—Bros. J. Reeve, I.P.M.; F. V. Jillings, S.W.; W. Allen, jun., J.W.; H. Wood, P.M., P. Prov. G.O., Treas.; G. Burgess, P.M., P. Prov. G.D., Sec.; T. W. Gower, S.D.; G. Goodman, J.D.; G. Josling, I.G.; A. Lucking, D.C.; W. V. Wilson and H. Harper, Stewards; J. Allen, Tyler. There were also present Bros. W. T. Allen, P.M., P. Prov. A.G.D.C.; J. A. Wardell, P.M. 160 and 1000, P. Prov. G.D.; Dr. E. E. Phillips, W.M. 1000, Prov. G.D.; G. F. Browning, P.M., P. Prov. G.W.; D. B. Grout, P.M., P. Prov. G.D.; Dr. King, Dr. G. F. Jones, Z. Pettitt, J. Harrington, J. C. Underwood, W. Frost, and A. Harrington. Amongst the numerous visitors were Bros. Major Birch, P. District G. Sec. of Bengal, P.M. and P.Z.; F. G. Green, P.M. 1024, P. Prov. S.G.W.; F. Wood, P.M. 1000, P. Prov. S.G.W.; W. F. Francis, W.M. 1024; W. C. Bell, 1024; F. Canton, 1000; W. H. Norman, 1000. On the motion of the newly-installed W.M., seconded by Bro. H. Wood, P.M., a most cordial vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. S. R. Wigram for the able and impressive manner in which he had performed the ceremony of installation, which was ordered to be entered on the minutes. The lodge having been closed, the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet. On the withdrawal of the cloth the usual loyal toasts were given, all of which were drunk with enthusiasm. The W.M. gave "The R.W. Prov. G.M.," whom he regretted, was unable to be present through continued ill health, and next gave "The R.W. Dep. Prov. G.M. and the rest of Prov. Grand Officers, Present and Past," which was acknowledged by Bros. A. Lucking and Dr. E. E. Phillips. Bro. J. Reeve, I.P.M., then rose, and said it was exceedingly gratifying to him to have the privilege of proposing "The Health of the W.M.," who was in every respect qualified for the position to which the lodge had elected him. The toast having been cordially received the W.M. made an able response. Bros. Major Birch, Green, Wood, and F. Canton returned thanks to the toast of "The Visitors." The former said he had visited lodges in many parts of the globe, and was very pleased at the cordial welcome he always received, and wished the W.M. every prosperity during his year of office. The W.M. then gave the remaining toasts, viz., "The P.M.'s," "The Treasurer," "The Secretary," and "The Officers," which were suitably acknowledged. Some excellent vocal and instrumental music was rendered between the speeches under the direction of Bro. T. Lawler, assisted by Bros. Hodges and J. Thornton, and was highly appreciated by the assembled brethren. The Tyler's toast brought the day's proceedings to a close, which were of a highly successful and satisfactory character.

LIVERPOOL.—Merchants' Lodge (241).—The members of this celebrated lodge, which has long been recognised as the premier lodge in the Province of West Lancashire for its deeds of charity and excellence of its working, met at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool on Tuesday afternoon, the 27th of June, for the purpose of assisting at the annual installation ceremony and giving a hearty character to the greeting received by the W.M. after his year's admirable services. The Merchants' Lodge has now enjoyed an existence which stretches over the best part of a century, and during the whole of that time its chair has been filled by many worthy men and Masons—not the least distinguished and valued of these being Bro. Richard Brown, Hon. Sec. to the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, who gave up the reins of government as the W.M. of 241 on this occasion. Bro. R. Brown, as W.M., opened the lodge in due form, and with him in the opening portion of the proceedings were a numerous and influential gathering of the fraternity. The chair was subsequently taken by Bro. Robert Wilson, P.M. 241 P.P.G.S.D., who proceeded in a masterly style to instal Bro. G. Hutchin as the W.M. in the E. The following were invested officers for the coming year:—Bros. R. Brown I.P.M.; Councillor G. Peet, S.W.; James Winsor, J.W.; Dr. McGeorge, P.M.; Treasurer (re-elected); T. H. Sheen, Secretary; G. Broadbridge, P.M., P.P.G.D.C., D.C.; T. Salter, S.D.; W. Williams, J.D.; S. Jacobs, I.G.; and Peter Ball, Tyler. At the conclusion of this portion of the business the W.M. said he had great pleasure in presenting Bro. Brown, I.P.M., with a P.M.'s jewel, which had been voted from the funds of the lodge. Nothing which he (the W.M.) could say could add to its value in any way, and as there would be a future opportunity of saying something more, he would then rest content by merely presenting the jewel to Bro. Brown. In acknowledging the gift Bro. Brown said he need hardly tell the brethren that he thanked them heartily for the distinction conferred upon him. He hoped to wear the jewel as long as he lived, and remember with pride and pleasure the twelve months he had filled the chair in that lodge. At the close of the business proceedings the brethren took train for Birkdale, near Southport, where a sumptuous banquet was served at the Palace Hotel. Bro. G. Hutchin, W.M., presided, and amongst nearly 100 guests were Bros. H. S. Alpess, P.G. Sec.; R. Wilson, P.P.S.G.D.; G. Broadbridge, P.P.G.D.C.; J. Skeaf, P.G.Org.; R. Brown, I.P.M.; R. Robinson, P.M.; W. M. Chudley, P.M.; Dr. S. J. McGeorge, P.M.; J. Cobham, P.M.; J. I. Knight, P.M.; all the officers who had been invested, and Bros. W. Coates, 1356; W. Savage, G. Hulse, W. Johnson, J. Latta, B. Levy, I. de Frece, Treas. 1502; A. Woolrich, Ewart, &c. When dessert had been placed on the table, the W.M. proposed "The Queen," "The M.W.G.M. Bro. H.R.H., the Prince of Wales," and "The M.W. Pro Grand Master, Bro. the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon;" and Bro. P.M. Chudley gave the toast of "The R.W. the D.G.M. and Prov. G.M. of West Lancashire, Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale," and "The Grand Officers, Past and Present." The toast of "The W.D.P.G.M., Bro. the Hon. F. A. Stanley, and the Officers of the Prov. G. Lodge, Past and Present," given by the W.M., was responded to by Bro. H. S. Alpess, P.G. Sec. In doing so he said it always afforded him great pleasure to visit the Merchants' Lodge, which he remembered longer than, perhaps, any brother in that room. It had always been a lodge which was well worked, and whose members were greatly respected throughout the length and breadth of the province. His memory extended over a quarter of a century of the lodge's history, and during that time it had always been foremost in works of charity. Bro. Alpess then made an eloquent appeal to the brethren on behalf of the proposition to contribute a sedilia to the restoration of Chester Cathedral by the brethren of West Lancashire, which would cost about £450. Of this £170 had already been subscribed, and he appealed to the brethren to show the same large heartedness which had been shown in other provinces in connection with similar work. The W.M. then proposed "The Masonic Charitable Institutions," Bro. Broadbridge responding on behalf of the Hamer Benevolent Fund and the London charities, and Bro. Brown on behalf of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, incidentally stating that that Institution was progressing in every possible way, and that there was now nearly the sum of £13,000 invested in connection with the charity. This was in face of the fact that during the past two years the amount paid for education had nearly doubled, and the number of children had also nearly doubled. Bro. W. Williams, J.D., rose at this stage of the proceedings, and said he rose on that occasion with a great deal of pride and considerable diffidence to discharge a duty which had been committed to his care by a number of the brethren of 241—with pride, because it was always a source of gratification to recognise the merits of any member of the lodge, and especially one who had gained the confidence of the brethren; and with diffidence, because he knew there were many members who were older in years, with a larger amount of Masonic experience, with greater ability, and some possessing a more intimate acquaintance with the brother in whose honour he had been asked to express the feelings of the lodge. He now desired on behalf of the brethren to express the sentiments and high regard for Bro. Richard Brown felt for him in the lodge, and any poverty of words on his (Bro. Williams's) part would be forgotten in that fact. A number of the brethren of the Merchants' Lodge had been for a considerable time anxious to testify their appreciation of the signal merits of Bro. Brown, not alone in connection with the faithful discharge of the various Masonic duties he had performed, but of his general character, and the many excellent qualities which distinguished him in his social relations. They had all seen how faithfully and well he had fulfilled the duties of the chair during the past twelve months, but it would be presumptuous to speak in the presence of so many brethren who knew Bro. Brown better. To endeavour to dilate on the many excellences he had shown in every position would be to scent the rose, and paint the lily. They saw centred in Bro. Brown all that they should seek to imitate. (Hear, hear.) The brethren had therefore deputed him (Bro. Williams) to request his acceptance of a testimonial, as marking of the appreciation felt for him in connection with the able discharge of all the duties appertaining to his official position and personal connection with the members in different relations of life. Knowing the large amount of time which Bro. Brown bestowed on his Masonic duties it was felt that this could not be done without the co-operation of his wife; and it was therefore felt that she too ought to be recognised in connection with the presentation. He would now present a jewel for Mrs. Brown, typical of the artist's profession she so much honoured, and in which he hoped she would achieve still greater honours; for he (Bro. Williams) looked upon Bro. Brown as the representative of art amongst them. A brother of the lodge, anxious to testify individually to Bro. Brown's excellent qualities, asked his acceptance of a handsome gold watch, and nearly the whole of the brethren further desired to present him with a gold chain, to mark their high sense of his many excellent qualities. This magnificent Albert chain, of chaste design, is perhaps one of the most unique extant. In the centre of the chain are inserted, between gold bezels set with flat crystals, three gold Aurei of the Roman Empire, pronounced by distinguished numismatists to be rare specimens, and in a splendid state of preservation. Two of the coins are of the reign of the Emperor Domitian, 12th Cæsar, date A.D. 81 to 96, and the third of the Emperor Trajan, A.D. 98 to 117. The coins were purchased at Sotheby's in 1875, and formed part of the collection of Augustus Langdon, Esq., LL.B., F.Z.S., Trinity College, Cambridge, and Lincoln's Inn. Each of the bezels is set so as to rotate on pivots, in order to show reverse and obverse sides. The chain is of the pattern known as the fetter link, coupled with a small circular link, and to the drop links at the end is suspended a medallion beautifully engraved and bearing a suitable inscription, with the monogram "R.B." on the other side. The chaste and elegant brooch presented to Mrs. Brown was also a gem in its way, and thoroughly unique in design. By an ingenious contrivance it can also be worn as a pendant or negligé. The brooch is also apropos in its construction, representing an artist's pallet in gold, with brushes, maul stick, and pigments. The tips of the brushes are enamelled in colours, and the pigments on the pallet are depicted by gems, set transparently, viz., opal, aqua marine, amethyst, turquoise, and almadine, whilst the head of the maul stick is surmounted by a pearl. There is an appropriate inscription on the back of the brooch. Bro. Brown, in acknowledging the gifts, said he was sure the brethren would excuse him from making a speech on that occasion. He felt all heart and no words. When, twelve months since, it was prophesied that he would satisfy the brethren, he little dreamed that any feeble effort on his part would be recognised in this manner. It could not be from anything in him, but from their love for the Merchants' Lodge. He must thank the brethren again and again, and hoped the G.A.O.T.U. would mete out to them the grace and goodness they had always shown to him. Bro. Brown then proposed "The Worshipful Master," who responded in happy terms. "The Visitors," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by Bro. J. E. Jackson, W.M. 667, and Bro. I. de Frece, Treas. 1502. Bro. J. Cobham, P.M., gave "The Installing Master," acknowledged by Bro. R. Wilson, P.M. "The Worshipful P.M.'s," given by the W.M., was responded to by Bros. Robinson, Cobham, McGeorge, Chudley, and Brown; and "The Officers" by Bro. Councilor Peet, S.W. An excellent musical programme was furnished by Bros. T. Foulkes, Pugmire, Hobart, and Skeaf, the last-named presiding at the piano.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 281).—On Wednesday evening, the 28th June, the Festival of St. John the Baptist was celebrated by the members of the Lodge of Fortitude dining together at the house of Bro. R. Hartley, the North Western Hotel, Morecambe. Between forty and fifty members of the Craft (including a few visitors who attended by invitation) assembled, the W.M., Bro. T. Atkinson, presiding, supported on the right by Bros. Dr. Moore, Count Pandolfini, W. C. Edmonds, H. Longman, W.M. 1051; and on the left by Bros. John Hatch, Sec.; James Hatch, Treas.; E. Simpson, W. King R. Bond, G. Kelland, and others. The Dessert having been placed on the table, the Chairman, on rising to propose the first toast, said that owing to the fineness of the weather, he hoped short speeches would be the order of the evening, an injunction which was obeyed to the letter, the speeches being short, pithy, and to the point. He then proposed "The Health of the Queen," and also that of "The Prince of Wales, the M.W.G.M. of England," both of which were received in the usual loyal manner, and with musical honours. The Chairman next proposed "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro G.M., Lord Skelmersdale, D.G.M., the Grand Officers of England, and the Provincial Grand Officers, Past and Present," coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Dr. Moore. Bro. Dr. Moore, in responding, alluded to the skill and ability displayed by both the noble lords in the discharge of their duties to the Craft, and to each of whom he was indebted, the former having honoured him by investing him with the badge and collar of an officer of the Grand Lodge of England, and the latter had, as most of them knew, installed him within the last twelve months into the Master's chair of the Morecambe Lodge on its consecration. With regard to the G. Lodge officers, and those of the Provincial Grand Lodge, all who had dealings with them, either by letter or in person, would bear him out when he said that their proceedings were marked with the greatest efficiency and courtesy. Bro. Simpson next proposed "The Health of the Chairman, their Worshipful Master," which was received with hearty demonstration and musical honours. The Chairman, in acknowledging the compliment, expressed the pleasure it had been to him to occupy the post of Worshipful Master of the Lodge of Fortitude. He thought the duties would have been more arduous, but he had been so well supported by his respective officers—than whom he did not think there were better in the North of England—that the duties had been a positive pleasure to him. Bro. J. Hatch then proposed "Success to the Lancaster Lodges," coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Longman, who acknowledged the compliment, and reciprocated most heartily the good wishes expressed by Bro. Hatch towards the Lancaster Lodges, and hoped the good fellowship which now existed between them would go on to the end of the chapter.

Bro. James Hatch proposed "The Health of the Wardens," which was responded to by Bros. Taylor and Jowitt, with whose names the toast was coupled. Bro. Fenton, in complimentary terms, proposed "The Health of the Treasurer and Secretary," both of whom acknowledged the toast, the former remarking that the funds of the lodge were in a very prosperous state; they were not anxious to obtain many new members, but would rather see the young lodges go on till they got nearer the prosperity and the number of members enjoyed by the mother lodge. Bro. Kelland next proposed "The Visitors." The toast was acknowledged by Bro. Count Pandolfini, who expressed his pleasure at being present, and the hearty welcome which had been extended to him, and hoped the Masonic lodges in the district would go on and prosper. Bro. W. King proposed "The Junior Officers," which was responded to by Bro. McRaith. Bro. W. Hall proposed "The Masonic Press," which was responded to by Bro. J. Atkinson ("Freemason"), with whose name the toast was coupled. Bro. Bingham also responded. Bro. Dr. Moore gave the Tyler's toast, "To all poor and distressed Masons," which brought the after dinner proceedings to a close.

LIVERPOOL.—Downshire Lodge (No. 594).—The members of this old lodge had a grand "field day" on Thursday, the 22nd June, when installation and picnic were fixed. The lodge was summoned for initiation and installation ceremonies at half past nine o'clock in the morning, and shortly after that hour Bro. T. Dilcock, W.M., took the chair, supported by Bros. H. Hunt, I.P.M.; S. E. Ibbs, P.P.G.S.B., P.M., D.C.; W. J. Rowse, P.M.; P. M. Larsen, P.M.; R. P. France, S.W.; J. Lecomber, J.W.; R. Ing, P.M., Treas.; J. L. Houghton, Sec.; J. H. Martin, S.D.; T. Boswell, J.D.; G. Maxwell, S.; W. G. Veale, Org.; J. Benneke, W. H. Menzies, W. Leatham, J. Phelau, J. Hine, C. Bond, P. Halme, D. Quayle, A. Rankin, J. Gabriel, J. Milnes, R. Maddox, J. Prince, Williams, J. McCormack, A. Morrison, J.W. 1570; J. G. Hartley, W. H. Booth, S. B. Goodman, R. J. Wilkinson, J. McCall, A. R. Watt, and J. H. Burch. The visitors included Bros. T. Evans, P.M. 1356, S.W. 1570; W. Cotterell, P.M. 123; T. Shaw, W.M. 823; J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; T. Roberts, S.W. 673; W. Shorts, P.M. 724; H. Henochsberg, W.M. 1503; E. Kyle, P.M. 973; J. Healing, P.M. and Treas. 1264; W. Vaughan, W.M. 724; J. Rea, 1182; J. B. Myers, W.M. 1182; J. A. Edginton, P.M. 1182; D. Jackson, S.D. 673; and others. After Bro. Dilcock, W.M., had initiated two candidates, he immediately proceeded with the installation of Bro. R. P. France as his successor in the chair of W.M., a ceremony which he performed most satisfactorily and impressively. The officers who were subsequently invested were Bros. T. Dilcock, I.P.M.; J. Lecomber, S.W.; J. L. Houghton, J.W.; R. Ing, P.M., Treas.; T. Boswell, Sec.; W. Leatham, S.D.; J. P. Pederson, J.D. (by proxy); G. Maxwell, I.O.; S. E. Ibbs, P.M., D.C.; W. G. Veale, Org.; J. Collas, S.S.; J. H. Burch, J.S.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. On the motion of Bro. H. Hunt, P.M., seconded by Bro. Larsen, P.M., a cordial vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Dilcock for the very able manner in which he had performed the ceremony of installation. After some slight refreshments at the close of business, the brethren, along with their wives, sisters, and sweethearts, started by special omnibuses for the pretty village of Hale, which, after a lovely ride of about two hours, was reached in safety. Upwards of 100 were present, and the whole afternoon was of the most enjoyable kind. A substantial dinner was provided by "mine host" of the Child of Hale in a large tent, and toast, sentiment, and presentation followed the repast. The W.M., in fitting terms, proposed "The Queen," "The M.W.G.M., &c.," "The D.G.M., P.G.M. West Lancashire, and Officers of the Province," responded to by Bro. Skeaf, P.G.O. "The Health of the W.M." was proposed and received with great cordiality. In giving "The Installing Master," the W.M. took the opportunity of presenting Bro. Dilcock, I.P.M., with a very handsome Past Master's jewel as a token of the respect and esteem of the brethren. A similar compliment, it should be stated, was paid to Bro. Veale at the meeting in the morning, when he received a valuable jewel in recognition of his services as Organist. The toast of "The Visitors" was acknowledged by Bros. Cottrell, P.M. 223; and J. Healing, P.M., Treas. 1264. "The Ladies," responded to by Bro. T. Evans, P.M. 1356, brought the toast list to a close, and the happy party adjourned to the green, where dancing was kept up with spirit to the strains of Martin's band. The weather was fine during the afternoon, although rain began to fall before the "pick-nickers" reached Liverpool in the evening.

WOOLWICH.—Florence Nightingale Lodge (No. 706).—The installation of Bro. G. M. Tapp, W.M. elect, in the chair of the above lodge, took place on Tuesday, the 27th June last, at the Masonic Hall, William-street, Bro. R. Croisdale, P.M., &c., being the Installing Officer, and most admirably did he perform the important and impressive ceremony. Among the visitors present were Bros. C. Coupland, P.G.S. Kent, and P.M. 913; Pidcock, P.M., &c., 30; T. Ward, W.M. 700; T. W. Whitmarsh, 1150; W. T. Vincent, W.M. elect 913; W. Weston, W.M. elect 1536; G. Spinks, J.W. 1536; G. W. Reed, J.W. 13; T. S. Hellier, 1536; Virgo, 700; and C. Jolly, 913. After the new W.M. had been duly saluted by the brethren in order, by his wish, Bro. Croisdale invested the following brethren with the badges of their office:—W. T. Gamble, S.W.; F. J. Sales, J.W.; S. Mutch, S.D.; J. J. Donolly, J.D.; E. Sweeny, I.G.; Sydney Clarke, P.M., Treas.; E. Denton, P.M., Sec.; and H. E. Eves, Tyler. A very cordial vote of thanks was then moved to Bro. Croisdale for so well and ably performing the installation ceremony, which was ordered to be inscribed in the minutes of the lodge, and then the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer. The banquet, which was a most superb one, took place at Bro. De Grey's house, the Freemasons' Tavern, opposite the Dockyard Station, Bro. Moulder having charge of the service, which was as usual simply perfection. Upon the removal of the cloth, the W.M., in choice terms, proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, which we need hardly say were loyally responded to. P.M. Croisdale then rose to propose "The Health of the W.M." He said their esteemed Bro. Tapp had most ably filled the various offices of the lodge, and he felt sure that they all had great regard for him, and that under his efficient guidance the prosperity and happiness of the lodge would be secured. Bro. Tapp, in reply, said that until that evening he had held but a subordinate position in the lodge, but now that he had been placed in the position of W.M. he hardly knew how sufficiently to thank them. He felt it to be a position that called upon him to uphold the dignity of the Craft, as well as the inviolability of its mysteries, and they might depend upon his best efforts to that end. The principles of Freemasonry had been beautifully described by a great American Freemason, who said "Although the origin of our fraternity is shrouded in darkness, and its history is to some extent obscure, yet we can confidently say it is the oldest society in the world, and we are equally sure its principles are based on pure morality; its ethics are the ethics of Christianity; its doctrines the doctrines of patriotism and brotherly love; its sentiments the sentiments of exalted benevolence. Upon these points there can be no doubt; whatever is good, and kind, and Christianable, it encourages, and whatever is vicious, cruel, and oppressive it reprobates." These he held to be the true principles of their Order, and as long as it was in his power he should endeavour to so carry them out that they would never regret placing him in the proud position as W.M. of the Florence Nightingale Lodge. In proposing "The Health of the Past Masters of and belonging to the Lodge," the W.M. said they were the patriarchs of it; they formed a cyclopædia for the benefit of the lodge, for they not only told them what to do but how to do it. Bro. Sidney Clarke, in reply, said it was a source of great regret that Bro. Santi, the now I.P.M., was not present to reply to the toast, but as the first duty of all was to obey the call to duty he could not be present, and he felt sure they were sorry at his enforced absence. So far as the Past Masters were concerned they always had the greatest pleasure in assisting an aspiring brother to the chair so worthily filled that day by Bro. Tapp. He had every confidence that their W.M. would do his duty in such a manner as to reflect honour upon the lodge, and that the Past Masters would do theirs by assisting both him and the brethren generally in any difficulty that might occur to them. The toast of "The Visitors" was then honoured, and in putting it the W.M. expressed the pleasure it gave him and the lodge to see visitors. He felt proud to have by his side one who had initiated him into Freemasonry, and who was an honour to the Craft; he alluded to their distinguished Bro. P.M. Coupland. He asked them to do honour to it, and coupled it with Bro. Coupland's name, who, in reply, expressed the gratification he felt at seeing his initiate in the chair, but would have liked to have heard Bro. Pidcock respond to the toast, because he was better known among them than he was. Although circumstances had compelled him (the speaker) to leave the lodge, yet he assured them he was not an idle Mason; he now stood Steward for the Boys' School, and was happy to tell them that he should, next day, have the pleasure of taking to the Alexandra Park the nice little sum of £123 for that Institution. Bro. Pidcock as well briefly replied. The last toast was that of "The Officers," to which Bros. Gamble, Sales, Sweeny, and Mutch severally replied, and then "God save the Queen" concluded a most enjoyable affair.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Harbour of Refuge Lodge (No. 764).—The annual installation of officers in connection with this lodge, took place on Tuesday, the 13th ult. Bro. W. T. Tate was installed the W.M. for the ensuing year, the ceremony being most impressively performed, in the presence of a full lodge, by Bro. Coxon, P.M. The other officers were Bros. Casebourne, I.P.M.; Eisher, S.W.; Tweedy, J.W.; Harpley, Treas.; Cowper, Sec.; Lane, S.D.; Merryweather, J.D.; Young, Org.; Garry, I.G.; Atkinson, Tyler; and Tweddell and Bamlett, Stewards. The banquet, which was of a sumptuous description, was held at the Royal Hotel, Bro. Gallon's, several influential brethren of the province and neighbouring lodges being amongst the guests.

CARDIFF.—Bute Lodge (No. 960).—The installation of Bro. T. G. Glass, P.P.G.P., as W.M. for the ensuing year, took place on the 26th ult., as St. John the Baptist's Day fell this year upon Saturday. A cloud of gloom was cast over this usual interesting ceremony by the death of the beloved brother, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Theodore Mansel Talbot, of Margam Park. Consequently, all observances of a festive nature were entirely set aside, and nothing but the urgent and formal business of the lodge was entered into. Lodge was open in due form by the Worshipful Master, Bro. S. Weichert, Past Provincial G.S.D., at four o'clock, and the minutes having been read and confirmed, lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, when two worthy brethren were passed, after which the ceremony of installation commenced. Bro. Glass was led to the chair by Past Master Bro. Thomas, and having sworn to obey the ancient charges, was duly obligated, after which the lodge was raised to the Third or Sublime Degree. A Board of Installed Masters having been formed, the new W.M. was formally advanced to the chair. All Master Masons were now readmitted, and Bro. Glass was, for the first time, declared W.M. for the ensuing year. Lodge was then lowered to the Second Degree, and finally to the First, and Bro. Glass, for the second and third time, declared W.M. The Worshipful Master then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers, which were as follows: Bros. S.

Weichert, I.P.M.; Dominic Watson, S.W.; Southern, J.W.; Calder was appointed Treas.; J. Williams, Sec.; H. Dyer, S.D.; S. Williams, J.D.; D. L. Thomas, I.G.; Hill, D.C.; Fisher, Org.; Bros. T. J. Morgan and P. M. Martin, Stewards; W. Davies, Tyler. A vote of condolence was then passed, and will be forwarded to Mr. C. R. Mansel Talbot, for the loss of his son, the late lamented Provincial Grand Master. Several brethren spoke in eulogistic and touching terms of the amiable and kind manner, as well as the sterling ability, of their late brother. It was also resolved that the lodge go into mourning for the space of three months. Bros. Past Masters Thomas and Martin were elected to serve on the Grand Lodge Committee. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Weichert for the able manner in which he had performed the duties of Installing Master, and Bro. Weichert suitably replied. A vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Henry Saunders for the efficient manner with which he had discharged the duties of Secretary during the past year. The lodge was then closed, and adjourned until next regular lodge night.

LIVERPOOL.—Stanley Lodge (No. 1325).—The annual festival gathering of the members connected with this lodge took place on Tuesday, 20th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, when and where there was a very large and influential gathering of the brethren. The Stanley has passed through some trying vicissitudes, but now a brighter day has dawned, and the lodge may fairly challenge comparison with any other in the province with respect to financial prosperity and excellent working. The lodge was opened by Bro. H. Ashmore, W.M., and amongst the others present were Bros. C. Leighton, I.P.M.; F. Knight, S.W.; James W. Burgess, J.W.; C. Heyden, Sec. and Treas.; J. H. Bradshaw, J.D.; J. P. Bryan, Organist; R. B. Burgess, N. Robertson, R. Upton, T. Wisman, J. Peakman, T. Foulkes, W. H. Quayle, J. Twiss, C. Marshall, and C. Winskill. The list of visitors included the names of Bros. the Rev. H. G. Vernon, P.P.G. Chaplain; J. W. Turley, P.P.J.G.D.; J. T. Callow, W.M. 1505; R. R. Forshaw, Sec. 1035; T. Fozzard, P.M. 1025; J. Houlding, J.W. 813; J. Ellis, W.M. 1086; W. Archer, P.M. 1083; T. Shaw, W.M. 813; E. Jones, 1290; W. Forrester, S.S. 1035; J. Hayes, P.M. 249; and W. Crane, P.M. 1299. The balance-sheet for the year disclosed a most satisfactory state of things, alike creditable to officers and private members. While there was only a nominal balance from last year to begin with, the affairs had been so well managed that at the close an exceedingly handsome balance now remained at the bank to the credit of the lodge. Bro. Francis Knight was presented for the benefit of installation as W.M. to Bro. H. Ashmore, I.P.M., who performed the whole of the ceremony most effectually and impressively. The subjoined brethren were invested officers of the lodge for the ensuing year:—Bros. H. Ashmore, I.P.M.; James W. Burgess, S.W.; J. H. Bradshaw, J.W.; C. Winskill, Sec.; Charles Heden, Treas.; T. Foulkes, S.D.; J. Twiss, J.D.; R. B. Burgess, I.G.; N. Robertson, S.S.; J. Thomas, J.S.; S. Hill, A.S.; J. P. Bryan, Hon. Organist; C. Leighton, P.M., D.C.; and M. Williamson, Tyler. The lodge was afterwards closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was held in the hall, and provided in good style by Bro. Casey. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, that of "The Provincial Grand Officers" being very cordially and suitably replied to by Bro. the Rev. H. G. Vernon, P.P.G. Chaplain, W.L., who congratulated the lodge on the prosperous condition of its affairs. "The Health of the W.M." was proposed by Bro. Ashmore, I.P.M., and enthusiastically drunk. In replying, Bro. Knight, W.M., said he was glad to state that he hoped the lodge would shortly take a position second to none in the province, and he was determined to follow up the excellent example of the late Worshipful Master, Bro. Ashmore. The toasts of "The Past Master," "The Installing Master," "Officers of the Lodge," &c., were also given. After a most enjoyable evening the brethren separated. The meeting was enlivened by a capital selection of music, performed by Bros. Foulkes, Twiss, Quayle, and Forrester, under the direction of Bro. J. P. Bryan. One of the most interesting features of the proceedings was the presentation of a handsome Past Master's jewel to Bro. Ashmore, I.P.M., on behalf of the lodge, by the W.M.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Lodge (No. 1507).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Room, Atheneum, on Wednesday evening, the 12th ult. The chair of K.S. was occupied by Bro. H. Longman, the W.M., and there was a good attendance of members and visiting brethren. The lodge was opened in the First Degree with solemn prayer, and subsequently raised to the Second and Third Degrees, when Bro. John Hudspeth, having shewn proficiency as a Fellow Craftsman was raised to the Sublime Degree of a Master Mason. The lodge having been closed down, Mr. John Thomas Jackson, and Mr. William Bell, having been unanimously elected at the previous lodge meeting, were afterwards initiated into the mysteries of the Craft, the working tools of an Entered Apprentice being presented by the J.W. The lodge was subsequently closed with the usual formalities.

LIVERPOOL.—Liverpool Dramatic Lodge (No. 1609).—The first regular business meeting of this lodge, which had been consecrated a few days previously, was held at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, on Tuesday, the 27th ult., and the fine spirit and enthusiasm displayed by the brethren in connection with the first of their work augurs well for the prosperous future of the lodge. Bro. Joseph Bell was in his place as W.M., supported by Bros. B. B. Marson, P.M.; W. J. Chapman, S.W.; Lindo Courtenay, J.W.; A. Woolrich, Treas.; H. J. Loveday, Sec.; W. W. Sandbrook, J.D.; J. Atkinson, I.G.;

C. Pyer, S.; A. Collinson, S.; W. H. Ball, Tyler; R. Williams, W. Hildyard, W. Stafford, J. Reay, &c. Amongst others present were Bros. H. P. Squire, 1356; I. de Frece, Treas. 1503; Dr. A. Whittle, W. H. Shakespeare, 356; A. Hart, J.W. 724; Dr. A. W. Pierce, 673; J. Clegg, P.M. 1299; J. B. Bottomley, 1356; H. Lobb, J. W. Ashe, J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; J. Keet, 1356; W. Coates, P.L. Buck, 673; W. E. Tyrer, 203; J. R. Bramham, 1209; J. Busfield, 216; Dr. J. K. Smith, P.P. Reg.; Gilbert Maxwell, I.G. 504; T. W. Long, 1299; H. Stafford, 1356; A. Bucknall, 667, and others. There were six candidates for initiation, and 17 brethren proposed for joining; and after the ballot had been taken they were all declared unanimously elected. Bro. Loveday (unavoidably absent from the previous meeting) was now invested Secretary; and Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O., was invested the Organist of the new lodge. Messrs. Frederick Wilkinson, E. Cotton, W. Mears, and R. J. Cotton were impressively initiated by the W.M., the ancient charge being very effectively given by the S.W. The brethren at the close of the business, after a number of propositions for initiation and joining, adjourned to the banqueting room, where they partook of refreshments, and a genial and pleasant evening was spent, the brethren separating about seven o'clock.

Mark Masonry.

BOMBAY.—Lodge Holmesdale in the East (No. 72).—At a regular meeting of this lodge on April 15th there were present Bros. C. E. Mitchell, W.M.; A. McKenzie, I.P.M. and Treas.; W. C. Rowe, S.W.; B. Robinson, as J.W.; C. Tudball, M.O.; O. Tomlinson, S.O.; J. Luke, as J.O.; W. G. Davie, Sec.; W. Burton, I.G.; and J. Seager, Tyler. The lodge was opened in due form at 6.50 p.m. The summons convening the meeting having been read, the minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed. The minutes of the last Permanent Committee were read and adopted. The I.G. having informed the W.M. that the Provincial Grand Master and his Provincial Grand Officers were without the door of the lodge, they were admitted in due form, and the Provincial Grand Master saluted with the honours due to his rank. The P.G.M. then took charge of the lodge for a short time, and said as this was his official visit he now asked if the brethren had any complaints to make against the W.M. or any of the officers, and receiving no reply, congratulated the lodge on the efficient state and harmonious way the members were working together, and then handed over the charge to the W.M. The W.M. then informed the brethren that the first duty of the evening was to install the W.M. elect, Wor. Bro. W. C. Rowe, as W.M. for the ensuing year. The Secretary was then requested to read the ancient charges to Bro. W. C. Rowe, having agreed to which, he was duly obligated in the usual form. All brethren below the rank of Installed Mark Masters were then requested to retire. The brethren were again in a short time admitted, and Wor. Bro. W. C. Rowe was then proclaimed W.M. of Lodge Holmesdale in the East, No. 72, E.C., for the ensuing year, and saluted accordingly. The W.M. then proceeded to invest the following officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. C. Tudball, S.W.; B. Robinson, J.W.; O. Tomlinson, M.O.; W. G. Davie, S.O.; C. Parker, J.O.; J. E. Tyers, Sec.; J. B. Lyon, S.D.; J. Luke, J.D.; E. Fuelling, I.G.; J. Luke, Steward. The W.M. then thanked the brethren for electing him their W.M., adding that he would do his best during the ensuing year to work up the lodge creditably, and he trusted the officers he had chosen would do their best to assist him—and he had every reason to think they would. He was very sorry to say he would lose Bro. O. Tomlinson very soon, who, he understood, was going to England next month for a short time, but he was sure he would assist them heartily in the working when he returned, wishing him every prosperity, a safe voyage, and God speed. Bro. C. Tudball then proposed and the W.M. seconded Bro. T. Connell as a joining member. The W.M. proposed and Bro. C. Tudball seconded Bro. J. Thomas as a re-joining member. The W.M. proposed and W. Bro. A. McKenzie seconded Bro. T. Branson, of Lodge Truth, No. 944, E.C., as a candidate for advancement. Bro. Tudball proposed and the W.M. seconded Bro. R. W. Burton as a re-joining member. The W.M. then thanked the Provincial Grand Master for his visit to the lodge in suitable terms, and said that he hoped the next official visit he paid he would find they had increased in numbers and working in an effective manner. The Provincial Grand Master then rose, and returned thanks for himself and Provincial Grand Officers, and said he had not the slightest doubt of the lodge doing well in the present year under the able management of their newly-installed Master. The W.M. then proposed and R.W. Bro. E. T. Leith seconded that a list be circulated amongst the members of the lodge for the purpose of subscribing towards a P.M.'s jewel for Wor. Bro. C. E. Mitchell, for his services to Lodge Holmesdale during the past year, which was carried. Wor. Bro. C. E. Mitchell then rose, and returned thanks in suitable terms for the honour they had done him, and said that the jewel would be highly prized by him. There being no further business before the lodge, it was closed with prayer at 8.45 p.m.

MARYPORT.—Whitwell Lodge (No. 151).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday evening, the 18th ult., at the Freemasons' Hall, Maryport. Bro. P. de E. Collin, W.M.M., and P.G. Reg. of M., presided, assisted by his officers. There was also a fair attendance of the brethren of the lodge. Bro. G. G. Haywood, P.M.M. 60, P.G.M.I.G. England, acted as Installing Master, and performed his duties most creditably. Bro. James Gardiner having been installed and duly honoured, invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Q. Moore, S.W.; P. Mandle, J.W.; J. R. Banks, M.O.; G. M. Tickle, S.O.; J. H. Banks, J.O.; J. Nicholson, P.M.M., P.G. Treas., Treas.; P. Dodgson, Sec.; Rev. W. Beeby, Chaplain; T. Moore, Reg. of M.; J. Smith, Org.; D. Bell, S.D.; J. W. Robinson, J.D.; G. E. Mitchell, I.G.; J. Quay, Tyler pro tem. The installation over, all present were invited to a substantial collation, which was well served by the Messrs. Abbott. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly honoured, and a most agreeable evening was spent by the brethren.

Knights Templar.

PRESCOT.—William de la More Preceptory.—The usual periodical convocation of the Knights attached to this Preceptory was held at the New Masonic Hall, Prescott, near Liverpool, on Thursday, the 15th ult. Sir Knight Reginald Young, E.P., was in his place; and amongst others present were Sir Knights Dr. J. K. Smith, P.E.P.; Thos. Ashmore, 1st C.; W. Tyrer, Prelate; H. Nelson, and C.; J. Wood, Treas. ("Freemason"); W. J. Thomson, Expert; Ballard, Almoner; R. Brown, Registrar; W. S. Matthews Boulton, Comp. C. Munroe, of the Everton Chapter, and Comp. Coward were duly installed, and the preceptory was subsequently closed in peace.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Union and Crown (No. 103).—This lodge held its monthly meeting in the Masonic Hall, 30, Hope-street, on Monday evening, the 26th ult. Bro. A. M. Wright, I.P.M., in the chair; Bros. W. Thomas, S.W.; W. Forsyth, J.W.; R. Munro, D.M.; Neil Cameron, Treas.; J. Gillies, P.M., Sec.; A. Bain, P.M.; P. McCay, P.M.; P. Cullen, B.B.; Arch. Gray, J.D.; Jas. Gray, I.G.; and a very large attendance of members. Among the visitors were Bros. J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; D. L. Henderson, 111; J. Boyd, 175; Higgins, 275; Robertson, 219; Capt. J. Gray, 362; W. Ferguson, P.M. ("Freemason"); and others. Bro. Gillies, P.M., Sec., before reading the minutes said he was sorry to inform the brethren that their respected W.M., Bro. D. Murray, was unable to attend through an accident received a few days ago. Messrs. G. Solomon and Henry Boum were initiated on behalf of Lodge Thistle, No. 87, by Bro. A. M. Wright, I.P.M. Bros. J. Paterson, J. Taylor, Solomon, and Boum were then passed by Bro. J. M. Oliver, S.W., Lodge Commercial, 360. The lodge was then resumed on the E.A. Degree when Bros. J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360, and G. W. Wheeler, Chaplain, Lodge Thistle and Rose, 73, were obligated honorary members of the Lodge Union and Crown, 130, by Bro. Gillies, P.M., Sec. Bros. Oliver and Wheeler replied in suitable terms for the honour conferred. The lodge was then closed.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Clyde (No. 408).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, Buchanan-st., on Monday evening, 26th ult. Bro. W. Harper, W.M., occupied the chair; W. Bilsland, S.W.; J. McInnes, S.M., acting J.W., and a good attendance of members and visiting brethren. On the lodge being opened, Mr. John Beaton was initiated into the E.A. Degree by Bro. W. J. E. Dobson, W.M. Dramatic Lodge, No. 571. On account of the above-named gentleman having to leave the country in a few days he was then passed to the F.C. Degree by Bro. J. Campbell, I.P.M. St. John's Lodge, Shettleston, No. 128. Bros. D. Mc Bain and J. Beaton were afterwards raised to the Sublime Degree of M.M. by Bro. W. Harper, W.M. The three degrees were wrought in a most careful and impressive manner.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Scotia (No. 178).—The funeral of the late Bro. Joseph Singleton, W. Master of this lodge, took place on Wednesday afternoon, the 28th ult. The brethren of the Craft who request to follow the remains of their deceased brother to the grave assembled in the hall of Lodge Clydesdale, at No. 106, Rose-street (S.S.), and numbered 150 in all, including representatives from no fewer than twenty lodges, as follows:—Nos. 34, 27, 73, 75, 103, 116, 128, 153, 178, 219, 237, 275, 360, 362, 419, 437, 441, 556, 570, and 571. In the hall an appropriate religious service was conducted by Bro. Rev. J. C. Stewart, L.L.D., of St. Bernard's, Cumberland-street; after which the brethren, who were in full Masonic costume, formed in procession outside, and proceeded to the house of the deceased in Crown-street, where they again formed in front of the hearse with the body, which was there in waiting. The relatives and friends of the deceased and other non-Masonic mourners who followed the hearse numbered about fifty; and the cortege created quite a stir along the line of route to the eastern division of the Southern Necropolis, where the remains were deposited without further special ceremony.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Clydesdale (No. 556).—A meeting of this lodge was held in their own Masonic Hall, 106, Rose-street, S.S., on Tuesday evening, the 27th ult., Bro. W. Phillips, W.M., presiding; J. McNaughton, S.W.; T. Phillips, J.W.; J. Boyle, S.M.; J. Mc Kechnie, Treas.; G. B. Yuill, Sec.; and others. We noticed among the visiting brethren J. Campbell, P.M. 128; G. C. H. McNaught, P.M. 275; D. Ronald, W.M. 275; W. Findlay, S.W. 275; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; W. Ferguson, P.M. ("Freemason"); H. Killin, Sec. 178; M. Stark, 553; Stevens, 553; and others. Mr. M. McLaren was initiated into the First Degree by Bro. Campbell, P.M. 128. Bros. P. Lloyd, J. Downie, S. Johnston, G. Solomon, R. H. Simpson, R. McMillan, H. Baum, and R. Mabin were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. W. Phillips,

W.M., in his usual able and perfect style. The annual picnic of this lodge took place on Thursday, the 29th ult. Starting at eight a.m. from Main-street Station, the excursionists caught the Iona at Prince's Pier, Greenock, and were by her landed on Rothesay Quay at eleven a.m. From the town of Rothesay they proceeded by special omnibus to Mountstuart, into the magnificent grounds of which they were freely admitted. A suitable spot having been selected, the good things necessary for creature comfort were spread forth on the grass, and there and then the party pic-nicked. Bro. W. Phillips, W.M., presided, but the proceedings exhibited that agreeable freedom from stiffness and conventionality which such a fresco gathering, with the presence of lovely women, of course, are calculated to induce. Returning, as they had come, to Rothesay, the party got on board the steamer Sultan, which took them back to Prince's Pier again. Thence the train in waiting landed all safe in Glasgow by 8.15 p.m. The weather throughout was simply superb, and no other element of success being wanting, it was pronounced that the pic-nic could hardly have been a pleasanter one.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The July General Committee meeting of subscribers to this Institution was held on Saturday last in the Board-room, Freemasons' Hall. The brethren present were Capt. J. Wordsworth (Chairman), Henry Browne, Jesse Turner, John Symonds, S. Rosenthal, W. F. C. Moutrie, Henry Smith, W. Hyde Pullen, C. F. Matier, Robert B. Webster, H. C. Levander, J. G. Chancellor, F. Adlard, H. Massey ("Freemason"), and F. Binckes (Secretary).

Twelve boys were placed on the list for the October election. That list was settled, when there appeared upon it 60 candidates; and twelve vacancies in the school were declared to be open for filling up at that election. The salary of the Organist at the school was raised to £20 a year. This being the day for giving notices of motion for the Quarterly Court of Monday next, the announcement of that fact was made by the Secretary, but no notice was given. Bro. Binckes announced that the subscriptions at the late festival amounted to £12,178, and lists were coming in daily which were swelling the amount, and he had no doubt that the total would amount to £12,500. (Cheers.)

The Chairman then rose and said he should propose a vote of thanks to the Right Hon. Bro. Lord Leigh, Prov. G. Master for Warwickshire, for presiding at the festival, and to the Stewards and brethren from that province for their assistance, not only on that but on past occasions. The amount which was announced at the festival greatly exceeded the anticipations of the brethren who had the management of the affairs of the institution. More especially was the amount raised a noble sum because we heard everywhere of the bad condition of trade, and this being a fact was very much to the disadvantage of the Institution. Another thing which might be said to have been to the disadvantage of the festival was the numerous attacks which had been made lately by certain brethren upon the general management of the Institution. All the world had read them or heard of them, but still this had not deterred brethren from supporting the Boys' School most liberally. He was not, however, surprised at this, because he felt sure that whatever attacks were made on the Institution there would be plenty of brethren who would come boldly to the front and do all they could to advance the interests of the School. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. C. F. Matier seconded the motion, and thought it was due to Lord Leigh and the Stewards and brethren from Warwickshire that such a resolution should be come to.

The motion was carried unanimously, and

Bro. J. Symonds said he thought they must all congratulate Bro. Binckes (Secretary) on the result which had been achieved. (Hear, hear.)

An outfit was then granted to one of the pupils who had obtained a situation in the Post Office, and was giving great satisfaction, and the Committee adjourned after passing the usual compliment to the Chairman.

The Southport Town Council have accepted the offer of W. Atkinson, Esq., of Manchester, to provide a free library and fine art gallery for that town, to cost £8000.

ROYAL ALBERT ORPHAN ASYLUM.—The offices of this institution are now at 18, Newgate-street. Bro. Werrell, Secretary.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WORCESTERSHIRE.

A Provincial Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of this county was held in the Public Hall, Dudley, on Tuesday morning, 27th ult. In the absence, through indisposition, of the R.W. Bro. Albert Hudson Royds, Provincial Grand Master, the Worshipful Bro. William Masefield, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, presided. There was a large muster of Provincial Grand Officers and Master Masons of the province, and the adjoining Provinces of Warwickshire and Staffordshire, the following being amongst the brethren present:—Bros. Gwynn, 1204.

The Harmonic Lodge having been opened in the third degree by the W.M. Bro. W. Smith, assisted by Bros. W. Gittos and C. L. Lester,

The Worshipful Bro. W. Masefield, D.P.G.M., and Provincial Grand Officers, entered the lodge, and were received with the customary honours. The Provincial Grand Lodge was then opened in due form, and the muster roll of the lodges in the province was called.

Bro. Bristow, P.G.S., said before they proceeded with the business of Grand Lodge he thought some expression of regret should emanate from the lodge at the absence of the R.W.P.G.M., Bro. Albert Hudson Royds, through indisposition, and of sympathy with his family under the circumstances. He would move that as a proposition.

The W.D.P.G.M. seconded the proposition, and it was carried unanimously.

Bro. Bristow then read the minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge, which were unanimously confirmed.

The Provincial Grand Treasurer's statement of accounts having been read, they were unanimously adopted. They showed a balance of £30 6s. 5d. in hand, compared with £1 7s. 3d. last year.

Bro. Albert Brown, P.S.G.W., called attention to the non-compliance with previous suggestions of Provincial Grand Lodge, requiring a statement of the progress of Masonry in the province; and after some discussion,

Bro. Griffiths, P.G. Treasurer, read a statement, from which it appeared that the Harmonic Lodge (252) had 36 members in 1874 and 38 in 1875; Worcester (280), 58 in 1874 and 60 in 1875; Hope and Charity (377), 46 in 1874 and 49 in 1875; Royal Standard (498), 20 in 1874 and 25 in 1875; Semper Fidelis (529), 48 in 1874 and 49 in 1875; Vernon (560), 33 in 1874 and 37 in 1875; Stability (564), 36 in 1874 and 32 in 1875; St. Michael's (1097), 13 in 1874 and 20 in 1875; Royds (1204), 41 in 1874 and 32 in 1875. During the year there had been forty initiations and twenty-four resignations and deaths in the province, leaving a total increase of sixteen.

Further discussion followed, a general opinion being expressed that it was desirable that Worshipful Masters should supply returns of their respective lodges prior to the meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge.

Bro. Bristow, Prov. G. Secretary, promised that the returns required by Bro. Brown should be presented at future meetings of the Prov. Grand Lodge.

Bro. C. C. W. Griffiths, P.M. 280, Prov. G. Treasurer, and Bro. W. Bristow, P.M. 252, Prov. G. Secretary, were unanimously re-elected, and the following officers were appointed and invested for the ensuing year by the Deputy W. Prov. G. Master:—Bros. S. Smith, P.M. 252, S.W.; H. Cross, P.M. 1204, J.W.; W. R. Cosens, D.D. 252, Chaplain; G. W. Grosvenor, 377, Registrar; A. F. Godson, P.M. 1097 S.D.; J. Bourne, W.M. 529, J.D.; J. Blundell, P.M. 560, Supt. of Works; D. Bradley, P.M. 498, D.C.; R. L. Campbell, P.M. 564, A.D.C.; W. Stallard, W.M. 280, Sword Bearer; T. Troman, P.M. 573, Organist; W. Smith, W.M. 252, Pursuivant; W. Waring, C. L. Lester, F. G. Thompson, W. Gittos, J. Dawes, and G. K. Patten, Stewards, and J. Stanley, 529, Tyler.

Upon the invitation of Bro. A. F. Godson, The Deputy Prov. Grand Master appointed Tenbury as the place at which the next Provincial Grand Lodge should be held.

On the motion of Bro. T. Brettell, seconded by Bro. J. S. Hoppett, and supported by Bros. the Rev. Dr. Cosens and J. Stokes, it was decided that half the offertory should be given to St. Thomas's Day Schools and the other half to the Dudley Dispensary.

On the motion of Bro. F. A. Godson, seconded by the W.D.P.G.M., a vote of congratulation, similar to that adopted by the Grand Lodge of England, was ordered to be sent to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., upon his safe return from India.

As this concluded the business of the Provincial Grand Lodge, it was closed in due form; after which Bro. W. Smith, W.M. Harmonic Lodge, closed his lodge, and the brethren walked in procession to St. Thomas's Church, where Divine service was held.

During the time the brethren were walking from the hall to the church the bells rang out right merrily, and the streets were thronged with people. Great praise is due to Bro. H. Burton, chief superintendent of police, for the admirable way in which the police arrangements were carried out, there being no delay whatever in the course of the procession.

The service was full choral, Mr. Walter Spinney presiding at the organ during the first part of the service, and Bro. Troman, P.G.O., during the time the alms were being collected, and played the concluding voluntary. The prayers were intoned by the Rev. S. J. Marriott. The proper psalms were the 1st, 15th, 122nd, and 133rd. The Rev. C. Wyncoll read the 1st lesson, Ecclesiastes xxxv., and the Rev. A. L. Greaves the 2nd, 1st Peter ii, to verse 18. The hymn before the service was the 188th, and the Anthem was the collect for the fifth Sunday after Trinity, "Grant, O Lord," and set to music by Mozart; it was sung with excellent effect by the choir. The hymn before the sermon was the 243rd.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. D. V. Cosens, P.G.C.

At the close of the sermon a collection was made, the 370th hymn being sung in the meantime. The sum collected amounted to £12 7s., which was subsequently increased to £15 from the funds of the Harmonic Lodge.

After the benediction had been pronounced by the Rev. Bro. Dr. Cosens the brethren reformed in procession and walked to the Dudley Arms Hotel, where a banquet was served.

At the conclusion of the dinner several brethren made a complaint that they had not been properly attended upon.

About ninety of the brethren sat down, the W.D.P.G.M., Bro. W. Masfield, presiding, and after "The Health of the 'Queen and the Craft'" had been duly honoured,

The Rev. Bro. Dr. Cosens delivered a very feeling and appropriate address to the four Lewises (sons of Masons) who had carried the Bible in the procession to and from the church. He earnestly exhorted them to make the Bible their rule of life, and if they did that it would be a comfort to them in the hour of their death. He hoped they would remember that day in their after lives as being a happy day well spent. He then presented each of the lads with a beautiful reference Bible, containing on the fly-leaf an inscription in reference to the occasion.

"The Health of the Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family" having been acknowledged,

The D.P.G.M. proposed "The Health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master of England," and remarked that he was sure no man could have the interests of the Craft more at heart than had His Royal Highness. He was the right man in the right place, and had given a great deal of time and attention to the order, and greatly honoured the Craft. (Loud applause.)

The toast was drunk with much enthusiasm, and was followed by the air "God bless the Prince of Wales," Bro. Troman accompanying on the pianoforte.

Bro. J. Stokes, P.M. 252, P.P.G. Reg., next proposed "The Health of Bro. the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, R.W. Pro. Grand Master; Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy G. Master, and the Officers of Grand Lodge, Present and Past." Bro. Stokes remarked that it was one of the great benefits of Masonry, and one of those circumstances which helped to support the Craft in the eyes of the outside world, that great personages paid so much attention to Freemasonry. They had the greatest and highest in the land joining the Craft—(hear, hear)—and it was not merely wealth that they brought with them—because that did not count for much when the grand principle of the Craft was involved; but they had also the highest intellects of the day joining them in carrying out the principles of Freemasonry; and by that alone the outside world must know there was something good in the Order. (Hear, hear.) That Lord Carnarvon belonged to those of mighty intellect was sufficiently proved by the fact that his lordship was one of those who possessed the confidence of her Majesty and assisted in ruling the nation. (Hear, hear.) That position of itself showed that his lordship was one of those who shed a lustre upon the Craft to which he belonged. (Applause.) He had therefore great pleasure in proposing "The Health of the Pro Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, and the Officers of the Grand Lodge." (Applause.)

The toast was drunk with Masonic fire.

The D.P.G.M., in proposing "The Health of the Right Worshipful Bro. Albert Hudson Royds, P.G.M. of Worcestershire," said he should have liked to have seen him there that day. The P.G.M. was always ready to give them any assistance, and he hoped he would be long spared to preside over them. (Applause.)

The toast was drunk with much enthusiasm.

Bro. W. Bristow, P.G.S., proposed "The Health of the Worshipful Bro. William Masfield, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Worcestershire." (Applause.) He said it was not necessary for him to say anything to recommend the toast, for he was sure they were all pleased to see Bro. Masfield in that position, though they all deeply regretted the cause. (Hear, hear, and applause.)

The Deputy Provincial Grand Master briefly acknowledged the compliment, and he afterwards proposed "The Health of the Provincial Grand Officers of Warwickshire and Staffordshire, coupled with the name of Bro. the Rev. Wm. Randall."

Bro. the Rev. W. Randall, in responding to the toast, said he could not himself endorse complaints which some brethren had made of the catering, for never at a meeting of Grand Lodge had he, as a visitor, been better treated or better served than he had been on that occasion. (Applause.) It was always exceedingly interesting to him to go to any Masonic meeting, but it was especially interesting to him to go that day out of his own province to meet the brethren of Worcestershire, and one of the strongest motives he had in attending was to renew his intercourse with the Worshipful Deputy Grand Master. (Applause.) He was sure it did not need the artistic genius whose efforts he saw so well displayed before him (referring to an excellent portrait of Bro. Masfield by Mr. H. T. Munns) to commemorate or render immortal among Masons the memory of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master; for not only in his own province of Worcestershire, but as he (the rev. brother) could bear testimony, out of his province also, he stood amongst the highest of Masons. (Applause.) Having been seated opposite that noble portrait, he could not help saying, as a Mason, that it was a great gratification to think that when the time came—which they hoped might be far distant—when it might please the Great Architect of the Universe to remove Bro. Masfield to the Grand Lodge above, they would still have that portrait left as a memento to all Masons in the province as an encouragement to follow the example of one who had led them so well in Masonry. He could not help further saying that it had been peculiarly gratifying to him to come there and to listen, as he had had the pleasure and the opportunity for the first time of listening, to the Provincial Grand Chaplain. It did not come, perhaps, so appropriately from him to say so as from other Masons, but he claimed, in common with all thinking men, to appreciate the words which had been spoken to them in the House of God, as the Prov. Grand Chaplain had spoken to them that day. (Applause.) He must express his high appreciation of the truly eloquent sermon which had been delivered to them that day. (Applause.) It gave him the very greatest pleasure to hear such sentiments, so much in accord with his own feelings. (Applause.) He felt sure that that intercourse of province with province, lodge with lodge, and brother Mason with brother Mason, was both interesting and beneficial, and greatly calculated to promote the advancement of the Craft. But perhaps the most interesting event of the day was the scene which he had just witnessed for the first time in his Masonic experience of now thirty-three years—the presentation of the volumes of the Sacred Law to those little embryo Masons, as they might be called—the rising generation of Masons, who would fill the place of the present brethren when they were called away. (Applause.) He was sure it was worth travelling any distance to witness such a scene. (Applause.) He again thanked the brethren for the opportunity they had given him of spending what he might truly call one of the most increasing Masonic days he had ever passed.

Bro. the Rev. S. T. Tozer also responded.

Bro. J. Stokes next proposed "The Health of the Prov. G. Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. Dr. Cosens," which was heartily drunk, and appropriately acknowledged by the rev. brother.

The D.P.G.M. proposed "The Officers of Provincial Grand Lodge, Past and Present."

Bros. S. Smith and M. Dennison returned thanks.

The D.P.G.M. proposed "The Worshipful Masters of the Lodges in the Province," and coupled with it the name of Bro. W. Smith, the W.M. of the Harmonic Lodge.

The toast was drunk with musical honours.

Bro. W. Smith briefly returned thanks, and said it afforded him considerable pleasure in being called upon to respond on behalf of his brother W.M.'s in the province. During the ten years he had been in Masonry he did not believe he had omitted attending his lodge more than three times, and he had done all he could to further the interests of the Craft. He could not endorse the complaints which had been made as to the catering, and considered they were an after thought when attention was drawn to the fact that dessert had been commenced before the health of "The Queen" had been drunk. (Hear, hear.)

The healths of "The Visitors," "The Provincial Grand Stewards," and the "Tyler's toast" were afterwards duly honoured.

At intervals during the evening some capital songs were sung by several of the brethren, Bro. T. Troman, P.G.O., presiding at the pianoforte in his accustomed masterly style.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS—VISIT TO THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The annual visit of the Masonic Girls' School to the Crystal Palace was made on Monday last. The day's treat is provided by the Board of Stewards of the annual festival, who hand over the balance which remains after all the expenses of the festival have been discharged, for affording to the pupils of the school, in which they take such great interest, a pleasure beyond the walls of the Institution. The Crystal Palace is constantly chosen for these little outings, as it combines three very desirable elements—information in a wide field of practical subjects, many sources of entertainment, and a splendid expanse of country. With all of these before them the little girls find plenty to engage their attention, and look forward with great anxiety to the recurrence of the visit. On Monday they left Clapham Junction by train at 10.9 in the morning, accompanied by Miss Davis, and all the governesses and teachers, Bro. Faulkner (one of the Stewards of the late festival) and Bro. Hedges, in place of Bro. Little (Secretary), who had not returned from his sojourn in the country, where he has been recruiting his health. The whole of the morning after the arrival at the Palace was spent in viewing the Palace and grounds, which after the occasional showers of the preceding week were looking their best. At one o'clock a cold collation of the very best description was provided by Bro. Sawyer, and presided over by Bro. Thomas W. White, Chairman of the House Committee for the month; and when this had been disposed of the party visited the performances at Myers' magnificent Hippodrome, which must be acknowledged to have been the crowning amusement of the day. An excellent tea followed at five o'clock; and afterwards the Palace and grounds were again rambled over. At a quarter-past eight the company again took train, and arrived at the Institution at Battersea Rise half an hour later, after having spent a most charming day. Among the ladies and brethren who took part in the day's diversions were Mrs. Thomas W. White, Bro. Colonel J. Peters and party, Bro. Faulkner, Bro. Mason, Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Pemberton, Bro. and Mrs. Muggeridge, Bros. R. W. Hedges, Phillips, Phillips, jun., Capt. J. Wordsworth, and Bro. Kirby. Bros. Thomas W. White, Faulkner, and R. W. Hedges accompanied the party home.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.—Bro. Raynham W. Stewart intends bringing the following motion forward this day (Saturday): "That considering the satisfactory condition of the funds of the School; 10 of the successful candidates at the last election highest of the Poll, be admitted without further election, at the same time as those already elected, and that arrangements are made for their reception in the Infirmary until the alterations now in progress at the School are completed."

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SUFFOLK.

The annual provincial grand meeting of the several lodges comprising the Province of Suffolk was held on Monday, at Ipswich. By the kindness of the Mayor, the Grand Lodge was opened in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall, which capitolly set off the various emblems of the Order, and the banners of the lodges which assembled.

The Lodge had been fixed to be opened at "High Noon," but it was close upon one o'clock before the Provincial Grand Officers were marshalled into the lodge-room.

The chair was taken by the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Lord Waveney, supported by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. the Rev. E. I. Lockwood, and the respective officers of the province, and about 200 other brethren.

The lodge having been opened in due and ancient form, the minutes of the last meeting were confirmed.

The representatives of lodges then stated the condition of the lodges, which were generally in a flourishing state.

The minutes of the Board of Finance were read. They reported that a meeting was held on the 26th ult. The accounts having been audited, a surplus of over £70 existed, and it was proposed that the sum of £5 be voted to the widow of the late Rev. J. J. Farnham, which the P.G.M. decided to do; £10 was voted to the Institution for Aged Freemasons, £10 10s. to the Girls' School, and £10 10s. to the Boys' School.

The appointment and investiture of officers was next proceeded with, as follows:—P.P.J. W., Bros. S. H. Wright, P.M. 516; P.G. Registrar, A. D. George, P.M. 114; P.G.D. of Ceremonies, W. Clarke, P.M. 959; P.G.A. C., W. D. Payne, I.G. 959; P.G. Stewards, W. Daking, A. Read, and G. J. Paine; and P.G. Organist, Lindley Nunn.

Bro. Boby proposed, and Bro. Mills seconded, the re-election of Bro. Huddleston as P.G. Treasurer. Carried unanimously.

Bro. Syer was re-elected Tyler, on the proposition of Bro. Luff, seconded by Bro. Westgate.

After the conclusion, the brethren were marshalled by Bro. Clarke, Director of Ceremonies, and marched to the Tower Church.

As the brethren entered the church, Bro. Lindley Nunn, Provincial Grand Organist, played as a voluntary a movement from Spohr. The service was full choral. The first part was intoned by the Rev J. R. Turncock, and the second by the Rev. C. A. Raymond. The lessons were read by the Rev. R. N. Sanderson. The hymns before the sermon were, "O Lord how joyful 'tis to see" and "O praise our God to day," 181 and 232 A. and M. Bro. the Rev. J. B. Tweed Provincial Grand Chaplain, preached the sermon, taking as his text Matthew xxiii. 8.—"All ye are brethren." He congratulated the brethren upon the privilege of meeting within those consecrated walls to join in that solemn part of the ceremonies of the day, and he took it as a great privilege to be called upon to address to them a few words of counsel. Their assembly was not a mere matter of form, but was voluntary, and resulted from the mutual feeling of brethren to give expression to their gratitude to God for the blessing both temporal and spiritual which he had showered upon them during the past year, and to invoke his blessing during the year which was now before them. They met not as strangers whose names were isolated and as men indifferent to each others' welfare, but as brethren whose hearts and interests were linked together in a common band to acknowledge God, to express their dependence upon Him, and to pray for His help and direction. The design of Christ in coming into the world was the unity of mankind in a bond of universal brotherhood, and this association was formed for the like purpose, and was in harmony with that great and beneficent design. Without professing to be distinctly Christian in character, its design was to serve the purposes of Christianity. Its working for the reformation men into a brotherhood was sublime, and it would grow in proportion as civilization and education extended. In their brotherhood there was no restriction as to creed, and any interference with a brother's religious feelings was a violation of the rules of the Order. Without any intention of detracting from Christianity, he must say that the Masonic Order went further back than even the advent of our Lord, and formed its law of union and brotherhood upon the original constitution of man's nature, and the belief of a common parentage was its foundation. There should always be unity of heart amongst them, as unity was their strength, and they must seek to avoid all that would tend to divide them. The great aim of the brotherhood was to help one another in adversity, and to that end they must be united in prosperity. Their object was to assist one another and hold out a helping hand to him who needed it. No Mason was a worthy brother who neglected his obligations in that respect. Whenever a Mason met a Mason at home or abroad he was sure of meeting one who was prepared to greet him with the kindly offices of a brother. He urged upon his hearers to endeavour to put an end to all those things which terminated in a division among men and contribute each his quota towards gaining a universal brotherhood.

After the service the brethren returned to Grand Lodge, and after the transaction of other business it was closed in the usual manner.

On returning to Prov. G. Lodge, Bro. Emra Holmes proposed a vote of thanks to his worship the Mayor for the use of the Council Chamber and the Town Hall, which was cordially seconded by Bro. Newson Garrett, who regretted very much that the Mayor, Mr. Mason, was only so by name.

The banquet was held in the Assembly Room, Northgate-street. A very recherche repast was supplied by Mr. Ashford, of the Running Buck Inn.

Grace before meat was sung by a choir consisting of Bros. Abbott, Steele, and Graystone, with Bro. C. J. Cooke at the piano.

Grace after meat having been said by Bro. J. B. Tweed,

The Worshipful Prov. Grand Master, in proposing the first toast of the evening, spoke of the Queen as the first lady in the land, who, besides her other distinctions, had made herself distinguished as one of the Craft, being the mother of the head of the Craft.

The toast was drunk with three cheers, the National Anthem being also sung by the choir.

The P.G.M. proposed "The Grand Master of England, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," and referred to the visit of His Royal Highness to India, and to the great affection shown towards him on his return.

Song: "God bless the Prince of Wales," by the choir.

The P.G.M. proposed "The Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers," and coupled with it the name of Bro. Head, who responded, and expressed his pleasure at all times of visiting the Grand Lodge.

The P.G.M. next gave the toast of the "Representatives of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Norfolk," wished them all success in the province, and was sure the whole of the brethren would sympathise with them in their bereavement—the death of the P.G.M., the Hon. F. Walpole.

D.P.G.M. Morgan replied, and said it was a most pleasant but a most onerous task for him to reply to the toast. He thanked the Province of Suffolk cordially for their sympathy expressed at their recent bereavement. He little thought on a day in November last that the sun of their prosperity was so soon to set, but as the sun set so it must rise, and he trusted such would be the case in October or November next, when they expected His Royal Highness the G. Master would be able to visit Norfolk to instal their new Master. He was certain that if any of the Suffolk brethren would visit his province on that occasion they would be received with Masonic cordiality. Norfolk and Suffolk were geographically situated, that he considered it a geographical mistake that they were not one county, and that a thorough Masonic feeling ought to exist between them. He knew that an imperial Masonic feeling existed, but he thought a higher feeling, if such could be.

The D.P.G.M. proposed "The Health of the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Waveney," and in eulogistic terms referred to the interest the noble lord took in the welfare of the Craft in the province, and to his readiness at all times to turn away from his great duties as a peer of the realm to devote his time to the Craft.

The P.G.M., in responding, said he felt they had received him with a welcome far more warm than he deserved, but it was a pleasure to be comforted and supported with the evidence they had given of the manner in which they appreciated his efforts, as expressed by his worshipful friend on his right. They had every day something to learn, and if he had to sit at the feet of a teacher, as the saying was, he should be a Suffolk man if possible, he should be one well acquainted with the peculiarities of Craft knowledge, and he should be such a one as their brother Head, who, in pointing out some mistakes in the programme, did it with the authority of age, but without its severity. (Hear, hear.) The way to reap advantage from another's knowledge was to follow his precepts, and he (the R.W.P.G.M.) attributed the success they had credited to him in a great measure to what he had learned from him. He had learned one lesson in particular, "Once engaged as a Suffolk Craftsman engaged for all time." (Applause.) He (the R.W.P.G.M.) was not amongst them as much as he could wish, but when he did come they received him as well as if he had been with them every week, giving them counsels, which, if they had been worth anything, he felt would have been effective from the effective way in which they would have been carried out. (Hear, hear.) He was proud of being in such a field with such colleagues as he had. He thanked them every man for their hearty welcome, which compensated for many a doubt, many an anxiety, many an uncertainty, assuring him as it did of the confidence that it was his strong desire to do that which was right and just in his position. (Applause.) The P.G.M. then proposed the health of a brother who, he said, was the working Head of their organization, who was always amongst them, and had grown old in their service. He was indebted to him for faithful and true counsel at all times, and he wished honour to be given to whom honour was due. (Applause.)

The Chairman proposed "The Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. the Rev. E. I. Lockwood," who, in responding, said he had been spoken of in too high terms. He considered his duties to be a labour of love, and if the brethren would bear with him in his growing age, so long would he be associated with the province.

"The Provincial Grand Chaplain and the Clergy of the Province" was given and responded to by Bro. J. B. Tweed, the P.G.C.

The P.G.M. proposed "The Wardens and Officers of the Grand Lodge of Suffolk, Past and Present." He coupled with the toast the names of Bro. E. Dorling, P.P.G. Secretary, who responded for the Past Officers, and the P.G.S. W. on behalf of the present officers.

"The Visiting Brethren" was responded to by Bro. G. Gard Pye on behalf of the Province of Essex, and by Bro. the Rev. T. L. Kyffin from Wales.

The noble Chairman gave the "Provincial Grand Secretary," and referred to his great interest in the province, and said he was the proved man of the Craft.

Bro. Lucia responded.

"The Charities" was proposed by the Provincial Grand Master, who in doing so stated that the sum collected in church that day amounted to £6 15s. 4½d.

Bro. Head and Bro. Body responded.

"The Masters of Lodges in the Provinces" was responded to by Bro. W.T. Westgate, W.M.

"The Ladies" and the Tyler's toast brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.—More Precious than Gold.—Diarrhoea, Dysentery, and Cholera are, through the summer's heat, carrying off the young as the winter's cold destroyed the aged. In the most acute cases, where internal medicines cannot be retained, the greatest relief will immediately result from rubbing Holloway's soothing Ointment over the abdomen. The friction should be frequent and brisk, to insure the free penetration of the Uguent. This will calm the excited peristaltic action, and soothe the pain. Both vomiting and griping yield to it; when fruits or vegetables have originated the malady, it is proper to cleanse the bowels by a moderate dose of Holloway's Pills before using the Ointment.—ADVT.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CORNWALL.

The Freemasons of Falmouth, on Thursday, 22nd ult., gave a right hearty welcome to their brethren of the province on the occasion of the annual Provincial Grand Lodge meeting of Cornwall being held in that town. The principal streets were, from end to end, profusely decorated with the flags of all nations; the Town Hall, in which the Provincial Grand Lodge was held, was most tastefully arranged with flags, evergreens, and other ornamentation, the work of the Mayoress (Mrs. Webber) and her daughters, and the same skill and taste were shown in the decoration of the Polytechnic Hall, where the annual banquet was held.

The attendance of brethren from all parts of the province was so large—every lodge was represented—that many of them were unable to obtain admission into the Town Hall.

Bro. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, Prov. G.M., presided, and amongst those present were Bros. R. Rogers, 331, P.P.G. Sec., and P.D.P.G.M.; T. Chirgwin, 131, P.G. S.W.; H. G. Colvill, 330, P.P.G.S.W.; F. W. Dabb, 589, P.P.G.J.W.; W. C. Borlase, 121, P.P.G.S.W.; F. J. Hext, 330, P.P.G.S.W.; J. W. Peard, 977, P.P.G. S.W.; R. John, 131, P.P.G.D.C.; E. T. Carlyon, 331, P.G. Courtney, 510, P.P.G.D.C.; F. Dennis, 75, P.G.P.; P. Giles, 496, P.P.G. Steward; E. G. Dyke, 496, P.P. G.O.; J. Grigg, 491, P.G.S.; E. Commis, 330, P.P.G.R.; H. Cochran, 1136, P.G.J.D.; S. Moyle, 699, P.G.S.; J. Boaden, 366, P.G.C.; J. Hill, 970, P.G.S.; J. Cardew, 1164, P.P.G. Steward; W. N. Abbott, 977, P.P.G. Steward; G. W. Trener, 965, P.P.G.S.B.; J. Dennis, 330, P.P.G. Steward; B. Brokenshar, 856, P.P.G.S.D.; W. Lean, 699, P.P.G.T.; W. Rooks, P.G.P.; R. Penwarden, P.G. Tyler; A. T. Grant, 318, P.G. Steward; and numerous Past Masters, Wardens, officers, and brethren of the various lodges in the province.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened in due form, the minutes of the last meeting were read by Bro. Richard John, and confirmed.

Before the regular business was proceeded with,

The Prov. G.M. addressed a few observations to the brethren, in the course of which he said:—You will be glad to know that during the past year there have been three new lodges formed in the province, which I have had the pleasure of consecrating, viz., the Fort Lodge, Newquay, the Duke of Cornwall Lodge, at St. Columb, and the Mount Edgcumbe Lodge, at Camborne—(hear, hear)—and, so far as I can ascertain, I believe they are progressing very favourably in their infancy. At Newquay, indeed, the Fort Lodge seems to have gone beyond its infancy, the members having already increased from 25 to 40. It is also a very satisfactory thing to see that the lodges throughout the province are gradually having buildings of their own instead of holding their meetings at inns. (Hear, hear.) The foundation-stone of three new Masonic halls have been laid this year, one at Redruth, the other at Launceston, and a third at Callington, and out of the twenty-seven lodges now existing in the province twenty of them have provided rooms or halls of their own. (Applause.) Of the remaining seven, two are new lodges that have only recently been formed, and therefore it could hardly be expected that they would as yet have established a building of their own. I look upon this as exceedingly satisfactory, because I believe it is of great importance that lodges should have rooms of their own instead of having to meet at public houses. (Hear, hear, and applause.) I am glad to be able to say that there has been a marked improvement in the manner in which the returns have been sent in this year. Last time I expressed a hope that they would be sent in more regularly than formerly, and now I am informed that there has been no default whatever, all the lodges having sent in their returns within the time required. That has enabled Bro. Hughman to bring out his Directory with much greater ease and punctuality, and has also materially facilitated the work of the Secretary. The returns show that Masonry is making very satisfactory progress throughout the province, as during the year the numbers have increased from 1240 to 1433, and during the time I have had the honour of holding the position of Prov. Grand Master there has been an increase of between four and five hundred brethren. (Applause.) At the same time I believe it is the general observation of those with whom I have consulted on the matter that the tone and status of the brethren who are admitted has not deteriorated, but has rather been raised. (Hear, hear.) You will see presently from the Treasurer's account that we have a larger balance this year than last—£58 6s. 10d. against £46 4s. 11d., and this notwithstanding the fact that £80 of our funds have been distinctly expended in charity, and probably with such a balance as we have now in hand we shall be well able to contribute again, as heretofore, to the great Masonic charities of the country. I think it is only due that Cornwall should contribute to those charities because, owing mainly to the indefatigable zeal of Bro. Hughman, we have received a great deal of advantage from them. We have been remarkably successful with our candidates, and it is due to those charities that we should subscribe to them as a province. (Hear, hear.) I know that for many years the efforts of Bro. Hughman have occasioned him a great deal of trouble and expense, and we really owe him a debt of gratitude for all that he has done. (Applause.) His lordship mentioned, in conclusion, that he had received four applications from lodges desiring to have the next year's meeting held in their towns, and he intimated that he should hold it in the eastern part of the province.

Bro. R. John then read the report of the Prov. Grand Secretary, which stated that the number of initiations in 1875 was 167, as against 177 in the previous year. The joining members were 64 last year as compared with 54 in 1874, and the total number of members at the present time is 1433, giving an increase of 193 over the year preceding. During the last year the Prov. Grand Master has consecrated three new lodges, at Newbury, St. Columb, and Camborne. The returns for the past year have come in much more punctually than heretofore, and this has enabled Bro. Hughman to complete and issue his Directory in a reasonable and convenient time.

The Prov. Grand Treasurer's report showed that the expenditure for the year had amounted to £179 9s. 4d., and the receipts to £232 16s. 2d., leaving a balance in hand of £58 6s. 10d. Last year the credit balance was £46 4s. 11d.

Bro. Chirgwin, Secretary of the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund, read the report of the committee, which stated that the amount received from the various lodges in the province during the year amounted to £158 16s. 6d., as compared with £142 10s. in the previous year, showing an increase of £16 6s. 6d. (Applause.) The capital of the fund now amounts to £2493 5s. 4d., an increase over last year of £232 14s. 10d. Suggestions having been made for an alteration of the rules, the committee thought it desirable that a small committee should be appointed to consider the matter, and to report at the next Prov. Grand Lodge meeting. The Secretary's duties having during the last few years considerably increased, the committee recommended that an assistant Secretary should be appointed at an annual salary of £10. They also recommended that a sum not exceeding £100 be voted for grants to be dealt with by the subscribers at the next annual Provincial Grand Lodge meeting, and that a vacancy be declared in the Annuity Fund, in consequence of the death of one of the annuitants.

The report was unanimously adopted; and the following brethren were appointed as a Committee to revise the rules,—"The Prov. Grand Master, and Bros. T. Carlyon, T. Webber, W. Tweedy, W. J. Hughman, G. L. Church, E. D. Anderton, T. Chirgwin, and R. Rogers.

The report of the Committee of Relief having been passed,

Bro. Chirgwin read the report of Bro. Hughman, P.P.G. Secretary (prevented through illness from attending), respecting his management of the votes for the London Masonic Charities on behalf of the province. They had, he said, been successful in securing the election of a deceased brother's widow as an annuitant of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and she would receive £32 per annum for life. As they had but 122 votes for widows in the province, and polled 654, it would readily be seen that without exchanging their votes for the other Masonic Institutions success would have been impossible. (Hear, hear.) By reason of having no candidate this time for the Girls' or Boys' Institution they were able to assist the Province of Devon in obtaining the election of its candidates. Devon and Cornwall should always be united in such a good work. (Applause.) The consolidation of the votes and good working organization in other provinces rendered it imperatively necessary for the Province of Cornwall to unite most completely and combine together as lodges for the management of their votes for the great Masonic Charities. Individual action meant a loss to the community, and unless the subscribers and the contributing lodges were willing to send their votes to an agreed centre, for the use of the Province generally, it would be as well to give up hopes of ever carrying their candidates. Combined action in the past had secured about £2500 in value for the Province of Cornwall in ten years. (Applause.) As Steward for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys he hoped to send up on the 28th June at least 400 guineas—(applause)—and he only wished the amount could have been trebled, for as Masons they failed in their duty if they neglected the claims of the fatherless and widows in their affliction. (Hear, hear.)

The report was adopted, and a cordial vote of thanks was given to Bro. Hughman for his past valuable services in the province in connection with the Masonic charities.

Bro. Tweedy next proposed that a sum of money should be voted to Bro. Hughman in order to reimburse him his personal expenses during the many years that he had laboured in connection with the charities. (Hear, hear.) While Bro. Hughman had succeeded in every election, and had placed a large number of their poorer brethren and their relations on the funds of the great Masonic charities, he had never been paid a single penny for his expenses, which must have been very considerable, because he had to travel about from place to place in order to obtain the votes that were needed, this being the only way by which prompt success could be obtained. Bro. Hughman had refused to take any money for himself, but would be proud to have his name associated as a donor with one of the Masonic Institutions. He (Bro. Tweedy) therefore moved, "That in consideration of the great trouble Bro. Hughman has taken, as well as the amount he has been out of pocket for postage and other expenses in carrying out the canvass for and election of candidates for the great Masonic charities, a sum of twenty guineas be paid in his name to one of the great charities, and that in future all out-of-pocket expenses be repaid to him. (Applause.)

The motion was seconded by Bro. T. Webber, and cordially supported by Bro. Colvill, and before putting it to the meeting the P.G.M. said there could be but one opinion as to the advantage of the work in which Bro. Hughman had been so long engaged, nor, he thought, could there be a second opinion as to the desirability of adopting his proposal to put all the votes of the different lodges together, in preference to attempting individual action. (Applause.)

The resolution was then carried with acclamation.

The following sums were voted:—£25 to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund; £10 10s. to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; £10 10s. to the Institution for Girls; and £10 10s. to the Institution for aged Freemasons.

The Secretary and Treasurer of the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund were re-elected for the year ensuing, and Bros. Trener and S. Jacobs were appointed as Auditors.

The election of an annuitant to this fund fell through, as the ballot did not prove favourable to the candidate who applied for it.

An application was made by the widow of a deceased brother for a grant on behalf of her youngest child to assist in his education, and it was resolved to give the sum of £15 a year for three years.

The Committee of Relief were re-elected.

The Prov. G. Master invested the following brethren as his officers for the year ensuing:—

R. Rogers	D. Prov. G.M.
The Rev. G. L. Church, 699	Prov. G.S.W.
E. D. Anderton, 331	Prov. G.J.W.
The Rev. J. K. Lethbridge, 789	Prov. G.S.C.
The Rev. J. B. Jones, 1272	Prov. G.J.C.
W. Tweedy	Prov. G. Treas.
E. T. Carlyon	Prov. G. Sec.
W. Jenkins, 967	Prov. G. Reg.
J. Cardew, 1164	Prov. G.S.D.
J. H. Filmer, 893	Prov. G.J.D.
T. White, 510	Prov. G.S. Wks.
J. Chegwidan, 510	Prov. G.D.C.
T. Gill, 967	Prov. G.A.D.C.
J. Vivian, 75	Prov. G.S.B.
Carter, 75	Prov. G. Organist
A. T. Grant, 318	Prov. G. Purst.
W. Rooks	Prov. G.A. Purst.
Rusden	Prov. G. Tyler.

The following brethren were invested as Stewards:—T. Webber, 75; C. Archer, 789; G. Barnes, 1164; T. C. Polglase, 75; J. Burgess, 1006; Tonkin, 977; T. C. Stevens, 1151; S. Serpell, 331.

Bro. R. John was re-appointed as P.G. Asst. Sec., and Bro. Crewes received the appointment of Assistant Secretary to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund.

Bros. Hughman and Penrose were elected as Auditors for the coming year.

This concluded the routine business, but before the Provincial Grand Lodge closed a resolution was unanimously passed expressing gratitude to the Great Architect of the Universe on the safe return of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Grand Master of England, from his Indian tour.

At mid-day the brethren marched in procession to the parish church, where an excellent sermon was preached by Bro. the Rev. G. L. Church, from the words, "But I trust that ye shall know that we are not reprobates. Now, I pray to God that ye do no evil, not that we should appear approved but that ye should do that which is honest, though we be as reprobates." The rev. gentleman said it would be rather late in this year of light, 5876, if he were even to attempt to defend Freemasonry from the sometimes absurd and sometimes false charges that were brought against it. Not long since it was denounced from the Vatican and classed with such secret societies as the Inquisition, the Illuminate, and other similar institutions, and no doubt it was so denounced because they were known as "Free and Accepted Masons," and the Church of Rome did not allow liberty of conscience or freedom of thought to any, but every man's will must be subject to that of one who called his decrees infallible. That Freemasonry had its secrets they did not for a moment deny, and further than that it was their proud boast, as it was their bounden duty, that they should not reveal them to any one but a brother. But those secrets affected not their religious or political opinions. They were condemned by the outer world for keeping the essentials of their institution from the knowledge of those who were not members of it, and it was said that this must sufficiently prove them to be of a bad nature and tendency. If, however, secrecy be a virtue—and who could deny it—could that be brought against them as a crime which had been considered an excellence in all ages. He contended that the institution of Freemasonry was one highly to be approved of both on account of the principles which it inculcated, and the great good which it accomplished in the community.

A collection was made at the close of the service, and realized £15 8s. 4d., with one exception, the largest ever made. Of this sum two-fifths will go to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund; two-fifths to the Falmouth Dispensary, and the remaining one fifth to the clergyman of the parish.

In the afternoon a large number of brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, provided at the Polytechnic Hall by Bro. Carter, of the Royal Hotel. The P.G.M. presided, and the usual Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 8, 1876.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

We congratulate the House Committee and Bro. Binckes on their last most successful gathering. The return of £12,000 is a noble return, and in itself a sufficient and satisfactory reply to foolish charges and perverse incriminations. The confidence of the Craft is thus openly expressed in the executive of the Boys' School, and is a good set off against puerile personalities and a childish agitation. But we pass to a pleasanter topic. The success of the Boys' School gathering for two years fully justifies the "coup de Binckes" to which we alluded last year, which some thought hazardous, some shook their heads at, but concerning which the result has completely justified the words and views of our energetic brother. The hearty support accorded to the School evinces the continued and lively interest of our great Order in that institution, and we trust that 1877 may even witness increased sympathies and larger returns. We sincerely congratulate the managers of the institution, the Stewards, and not the least Bro. Binckes, on the success which has justly attended their united efforts, and on the good feeling manifested by that remarkable gathering at the Alexandra Palace, in response to the many, persevering, and meritorious efforts of the Secretary of the Boys' School. Another point is also, we think, a subject for deep satisfaction, and gratulatory notice, namely, the state of the school, as evinced by the examination, reflecting all credit on Dr. Morris, the able and zealous head master. As Bro. Binckes pointed out in his able address at the distribution of prizes, at the Cambridge examination for all England the average of "passes" was 55.3 per cent., while that of the Masonic Boys' School was 77.7, nearly 77.8—14 out of 18 boys sent up passed. These were the old boys. Of the new boys, whereas out of all London 21 passed out of 44, equal to 47.8 per cent.; of the Masonic schools 9 out of 11 passed, or an average of 81.8 per cent. The candidates at this examination were 121, 104 juniors, 17 seniors. Of the seniors only 1 obtained honours, while of the juniors 3 obtained a first class, and those three, W. Beaumont, R. Bryant, and H. G. Shaw, all of them educated under Dr. Morris, at the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. This fact surely will be appreciated by all who value the Boys' School, both for what it is and for what it may be, both for what it is doing and yet will do; and we congratulate Bro. Dr. Morris on this very pleasant commentary on his zealous labours of twelve months. The institution seems to be in most admirable working order, and we doubt not but that it will continue to receive, as it deserves, the warm and unwavering support of our educated, and loyal, and discerning Craft.

RESULTS OF THE DENOMINATIONAL CRY AT LAST GRAND LODGE.

Already all sincere Freemasons must deplore the "ugly rush" of the controversial "animus" which the most unwise appeal to denominational feelings at the last Quarterly Communication has already paved the way for and led up to. We cannot look on the tone and temper evolving, so to say, from this Masonic "self-consciousness" of ours without mingled feelings of alarm and shame! And this is the end of all our profession and flowery words? We cannot too much deplore, we feel bound to say, the opposition to Bro. Havers's motion, on the pitiful, and we will add debasing, ground of denominational differences. Such a discussion is forbidden by our own regulations, such a state of things is utterly alien from Freemasonry and absolutely discreditable to Freemasons. Bro. Baxter Langley, for instance, must see that his reference to architectural emblems in Anglican churches is utterly indefensible, especially on Masonic grounds. We fail to conceive, much less to understand, how he, a Freemason professedly could have deliberately penned such a paragraph, which recalls to one's memory the worst phasis and "animus" of the old deistical controversy and violence, and is hurtful to the feelings of thousands of his brethren, as it is one of the most ridiculous theories ever propounded by the hostile and unbelieving spirit, of the scorner and the infidel. Such a statement, however absurd on the face of it, and utterly unfit for our pages, or that of any decent publication, must be a subject of deep pain to all conscientious members of the Church of England, and brother Freemasons. There is no possible good in introducing such a ridiculous assertion architectonically, such an unjustifiable remark from a Masonic writer, and we cannot allow such a passage again, or any discussion on it, direct or indirect, to sully our respectable pages. But this is one proof among many of the intensity of that bitterness on such a subject which is a disgrace to our common humanity. But to find Freemasons not considering the feelings of others in the heat of their denominational "furore" is indeed a "leetle too much," and a bitter burlesque on our undenominational teaching. We have always lamented the line of argument employed in opposition to Bro. Havers's motion, as savouring to us alike of intolerance and bigotry, and an utter un-Masonic appreciation of the proposition of our very distinguished brother. For Bro. Havers's proposition never was intended as a denominational one, and no more unfortunate issue for the peace of Freemasonry ever was raised than this pseudo-denominational cry, on whomsoever the blame may really lie. While, then, we always welcome free discussion, we are not bound to allow on Masonic principles of toleration or consideration, that the religious feelings of any of our brethren should be trampled under foot, and if Bro. Baxter Langley wishes to pursue his peculiar line of discussion, or to express opinions which not only architecturally thousands of his brethren utterly scout and laugh at, though they feel them none the less as coming from a brother Freemason, he must find some more accommodating periodical than the "Freemason," in which to dilate upon this refined and ennobling topic. As a matter of history and fact we treat any such theory as a most puerile and perverse chimera, but as a matter of fraternal feeling it is, in our opinion, both indefensible and un-Masonic thus to throw down a gauntlet to the honest convictions of myriads of certainly not the least intelligent of our Order. It is altogether "an unclean thing," and as Freemasons we will have "none of it," and no more to do with it; and we must express our regret to our many readers that in our wish to be fair to all, we ever allowed such a passage to appear in the pages of the "Freemason."

ANALYSIS OF THE RETURNS OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

When we come to deal with the large return announced by Bro. Binckes of £12,000, and look into its component figures, we are necessarily struck with one or two points—1st, the large provincial returns, and 2nd, the large metropolitan returns, evincing all alike a widespread interest in the Order, and unabated confidence in the executive of the School. This is as it should be, but we have thought it well just to dwell a little in detail on the returns themselves, as they certainly "both point the moral and adorn the tale." Warwickshire, in support of its P.G.M., the distinguished President for the year, heads the list with the large amount of £2000 2s. 6d. Kent follows with £659 19s. 6d. and is succeeded by Cornwall, under our very worthy Bro. W. J. Hughan, with £432 12s. Then appears West Yorkshire with £339 3s.; and Northumberland with £303 9s. Staffordshire sends up £295 1s., while Gloucestershire and Durham transmit, the former £276 14s., the latter £275. Lincolnshire, through our energetic Bro. Sutcliffe, always ready for Masonic good works, contributes £245 14s., and Surrey and South Wales, (East Division) each gives in £210, and Hants and the Isle of Wight come up with £176 8s., and Devonshire with £173; while Cheshire forwards £155 10s. 6d., and Berks and Bucks £152 15s. Cumberland and Westmoreland next appear with £147, and Essex produces £144 18s. Derbyshire offers £129 15s. 6d., and Middlesex furnishes £121 5s. 6d. West Lancashire has remitted £105, Oxfordshire £93 11s., and Greece, through Bro. Matier, £92 8s. East Lancashire has remitted £88; Somersetshire £72 9s., North Wales and Salop £74 8s., Wiltshire £65 2s., and Nottinghamshire £63. Norfolk sends £45 3s., and Suffolk £32 1s.; while Leicestershire and Rutland forward £12 10s., and the Punjab £10. As the Metropolitan lodges have collected in round numbers £4700, the balance of £7500 in round numbers (exclusive of small amounts from other bodies, as London chapters and the Mark Degree), has been collected by the Provincial Stewards and lodges and brethren. Such a fact speaks clearer than words as to the zeal and interest of our entire fraternity in the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. And great and commendable as the "totality" is, and gratifying as the result must be to Bro. Binckes, after his many anxieties and arduous labours, there yet remains a goodly margin of duty to be done and efforts to be made by individual brethren and lodges. As a fact, it is a very striking one per se, as Bro. Terry well put it, that we have received this year £32,000 for our great Metropolitan Charities, but there are yet new fields to be worked out by our indefatigable Bro. Secretaries, and new "lodes," as it were, to be "struck" by zealous "Stewards" and good workers in the sacred cause and recurring duty of Masonic charity. And we shall not be surprised if Bro. Terry's prophecy turns out to be true, that 1877 will witness still larger returns and welcome contributions to the support and extension of our noble Charities.

THE LAST QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the "Freemason" of last Saturday I notice a letter from Bro. J. Baxter Langley, upon which I ask your permission to say a few words. He writes "that he cannot, without a sense of immolation, read or hear the suggestion that the Craft should bow before my authority in a matter on which any properly constituted mind can at least form an independent opinion."

I do not know about every body reducing himself to a sense of humiliation on reading such a statement, but I should think that everybody who did read it, saw its absurdity. Surely Bro. Langley cannot imagine that I ever made such a claim, or that the writing of so thoughtless and so unwarrantable a remark was more than the work of some too zealous friend. Who that friend was I do not know.

I will not follow Bro. Langley into personalities, or complain of the liberal criticism he has bestowed on my tone, taste, &c. I can only say I am sorry I do not please him, but when he writes that my reference to a "foregone conclusion" was a mistake, and that it was scarcely fair or courteous to insinuate that the brethren in Grand Lodge were not open to argument or reason, I have something to say.

If it was not fair and courteous, I can only say that it was true; and may I ask (as fairness and courtesy should not be all on one side) was it fair and courteous, or was it not opposed to all our usual practice in Grand Lodge to interrupt a speaker while he was in the act of reading his resolution, and before he had adduced a single argument in support of it? All who were present in Grand Lodge must have observed that there were a large number of brethren congregated at the lower end of the hall who offered the chief interruption, and who did not suffer even the resolution to be read without interrupting by loud cries, who, to use Bro. Langley's own words, "were not open to argument and reason," but who came there (according to my words) with a "foregone conclusion."

It may not be fair, it may not be courteous in Bro. Langley's opinion, but I repeat my solemn conviction (increased tenfold by what I have since heard of the remarks made at that end of the hall) that a large number of brethren did come there with a "foregone conclusion."

Nay, I will go further, and for the honour of our Institution I state my deliberate opinion that the decision come to by the majority of Grand Lodge on that occasion will not be received with approbation by the great body of the Craft at large. I have far too high an opinion of the large-heartedness of Masons generally and of their chivalrous and high-minded dignity and intelligence to believe that they will allow prejudice to stand in the way and mar the progress of all the higher and more enlightened feelings of our nature.

I do not refer to other parts of Bro. Langley's letter, because I have already given the reasons which he now asks for, why we should in a thankoffering send some object which should be national as well as Masonic, but, Sir, there is a paragraph in that letter which I cannot pass over in silence. It commences "I am . . . a Unitarian." I will not quote the remainder of the words (which should never have been written or spoken in Masonic society), because I cannot forget that one of the first charges impressed upon us at our very entrance into Freemasonry is, "that we shall avoid every topic of religious discussion." In my opinion the paragraph I refer to is in direct violation of our Masonic law; the belief expressed in it is as unwarranted as it is indecent, and as uncalled for as it is offensive, and insulting to the whole Christian community.

Let me ask you to give me space further to thank "T.P.M." for his kindly letter, and to say how willingly I will subscribe £20 towards carrying out the scheme he proposes, and which I only hope may be successful.

Yours fraternally,

JOHN HAVERS.

July 3rd, 1876.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I hail with much pleasure the frank admissions and regrets which Bro. Havers conveys in his last letter, and also his intention of being "done with Bro. Simpson as far as personal matters are concerned."

I must, however, on public grounds correct one or two grave inaccuracies into which our brother has fallen.

He says, alluding to his speech in Grand Lodge, "I never before heard of the opinion of the Grand Master received with cries of 'No, no.' When I heard those cries then for the first time I saw the formidable nature of the oppositions to my resolutions."

If Bro. Havers will check his memory by the recollection of almost any other brother present, or by your own excellent report of his speech, he will find this statement of his the very reverse of the fact. The "No, no's" were uttered at a very early stage of his speech, as well as on subsequent occasions, and had reference solely to his St. Paul's and St. Alban's proposal. His introduction of the Grand Master's name was not made till almost the concluding passage of his speech, and after Grand Lodge had during the preceding ten minutes given unmistakable proof of its adverse opinion.

I should have thought that under such circumstances Bro. Havers would, on his own present showing, have abstained from the course he now so candidly deprecates.

I take it for granted that none of us feel that our "Grand Master must not express an opinion," but most of us do think that to quote that opinion may be lawful, but not at all times expedient, especially when a strong opposition has clearly shown itself in regard to a proposal for which the Grand Master's approval had been doubtless sought and gained, but probably amidst a thousand other public matters crowding on his attention.

I shall not trouble you about my private letters to Bro. Havers. I am sure he will not affirm that a man cannot write a private note on public business. If he does not affirm this, his defence for quoting my notes in public without my leave, falls to the ground, as I certainly considered them private communications, and not intended for the public press. But as I said before, I am glad, as far as I am concerned, that they were published.

I wish to assure Bro. Havers that in proposing my amendment I did not act with "secrecy" or "subtlety." I can give him my word that I had not made up my mind to withdraw my motion up to the moment when I entered Grand Lodge, and that I only rough-drafted my amendment after Bro. Havers began his speech.

I like to conclude with something pleasant in prospect after this "winter of our discontent." It is Bro. Havers' words in the last paragraph but one, "I am ready to give my help in any way that may be thought desirable."

This is so happy a contrast to the statement contained in his private reply to me, that I take it for granted he will serve on the committee, and help to bring about that consummation so devoutly to be wished for—a unanimous decision.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

R. J. SIMPSON.

P.S.—I have read your foot note to my last letter with interest, and if you will allow me, I propose to say a few words in your next number on the subject alluded to, as suggested by your forcible article on "The Present Tendency of Freemasonry," in your impression of June 24th.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

If I could feel the deprivation, it would doubtless be a matter of poignant regret that I do not share in that obtuseness which is a matter of consolation to Bro. Simpson, and his "twenty-to-one" of Grand Lodge, but I do not feel the loss; neither is it a matter of ambition to me that I should be so preternaturally acute as to espy "denominationalism" in a glorious impulse; it is quite enough for me to be only so far blessed with corners as to be rectangular, and so to act "on the square," and view the generous impulse of an open-hearted brother in the same straightforward light in which he conceived it.

One further remark (which I trust Bro. Simpson will regard as personal only so far as it is a reply to that which he himself wrote, and which had no origin with me) and I, too, will cast banter aside and address myself once more to the matter under discussion. I cannot, for the life of me, see the necessity of the unmerited sneer directed at a Prov. G. Officer by one who has probably risen to his present position by the same step of the very same ladder of promotion—at all events, if he has not, he would have had no cause for shame if he had. I, too, have been a Prov. G.O., and I am proud of the distinction; but more than this, if it should ever be my good fortune to be promoted to Grand rank in Grand Lodge I shall still always cherish the jewel of my Provincial rank, as I shall, too, regard with the deepest affection my Mother Province. If, however, this slighting mention of my brother's correspondent be taken as merely a "jest," then, indeed, has Bro. Simpson spoken the "true word in jest" for the "fine air of the provinces" has given the brethren there "clearer intellectual conceptions" to perceive the right-mindedness of Bro. Havers's proposal, as well as "clearer moral conceptions," by which they have in so many instances carried out exactly similar work (as that brother has so pointedly shown), than have the "fogs" to the brethren resident in "London." I will dismiss this part of the subject by assuring you, Sir, that we Provincials are very happy in filling the more humble places allotted to us, for we feel that so long as a solid structure is required it would not be well for Masonry, that all of us should be cope-stones like Bro. Simpson.

Now, Sir, with regard to the two questions that I put to Bro. Simpson, I find that he has given me no answer at all. I can, however, glean this much, that attendance at a service in St. Paul's is not more "denominational" than following to the last rites the remains of the late chief magistrate. Just so, for both are decidedly denominational, although pardonably so from the very cause which they would be designed to serve. This does not advance us much in trying to understand Bro. Simpson's "motives," but what follows is probably more to the purpose, for in it we find what constitutes the sting of this terrible "denominationalism," the wherefore of its having to be so sedulously avoided. It is when it comes to putting your hand in your pocket that an action becomes denominationalism. Exactly so!

Next Bro. Simpson tries to show that the votes of money proposed by Bro. Havers would be alienating the funds of Grand Lodge from their only lawful destination, i.e., charity. Has Bro. Simpson ever read his "Constitutions?" if so, he must surely know that there is such a thing as a "Fund of Benevolence," which "shall be solely devoted to charity;" thus clearly leaving the "Fund of General Purposes" entirely at the disposal of Grand Lodge, which may apply it at its good will and pleasure to any object either within or without the Craft. This last remark leads me to ask Bro. Simpson yet another question in addition to my previous ones. How comes he to decry Bro. Havers's proposals as being outside our Order, and yet, in his letter of June 26th says, "That we have gone out of what Bro. Havers calls the beaten track of Masonry in our grants the records of Grand Lodge amply, and I will add happily, testify?" (The italics are mine.)

Yet one other question—If Bro. Simpson withdrew his motion because he knew that it would not be passed unanimously, which he felt that such a motion ought to be, why ever did he press his amendments when he saw that there was not a ghost of a chance of their leading to anything else than a division? Oh! for consistency!

One other word and the "W.T. (who also writes from some shady and anonymous spot)" will have done. How "shady?" "Also," does "also" refer to "Prov. G.O." in the "light of the provinces?" or to "Bro. Simpson" in the "London fog?" To the former I trust, for I do not at all wish to be considered under the influence of the latter, the description of which seems wonderfully well adapted (self-chosen, too!) to describe one side of this controversy. "Anonymous," how can this "spot" be "anonymous?" I have written anonymously, it is true, but what object would be served by putting to my queries the name of merely a Provincial Grand Officer? You, Sir, were satisfied of my identity as a member of Grand Lodge, and, therefore, of my being entitled to a voice. However, if Bro. Simpson really desires to discover my personality, he may recognize me as one of those brethren (non-obtuse," thanks to Bro. Simpson!) whose right hands were held up to protest against the hollow insincerity of giving to God a vote of thanks "which cost us nothing;" and more than this, he may recognize me again, if Grand Lodge should ever again suffer itself to be betrayed into the unmasonic condition of "appearing before the Lord empty," by mine being the only right hand held up, if need should be, against such a mockery and a sham.

I remain, dear Sir and Brother, faithfully and fraternally.

W. T.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

There were reasons, dictated neither by modesty nor fear, which induced me to write anonymously to you a fortnight ago. In advocating or denouncing principles an anonymous signature is permissible, and often preferable, if the writer avoids personalities. I attacked no one in my letter, and my name would not have made Bro. Simpson's statement, to which I alluded, more or less absurd than it actually was. I do not know whether "London fogs," or the want of "clearer moral or intellectual conceptions," make Bro. Simpson so dull of comprehension, nor do I know by what computation he arrives at the consolatory feeling "that the brethren of Grand Lodge in the proportion of twenty to one are equally obtuse" (I beg pardon of the brethren. I am using not my own, but Bro. Simpson's words), but judging from the division at the last Quarterly Communication I should put his majority at three to two. Bro. Simpson appears to have forgotten the old maxim "practice is better than precept," for whilst he intersperses his sentences with pious utterances and fervent hopes that "peace may abound, &c.," he indulges in jests, sneers, and misrepresentations which are not likely to bring about the realization of this desirable end. Bro. Simpson is plausible but not profound. I give two instances from his last letter. He says, "I quite agree with our 'P.G. Officer' in his broad definition of 'charity,' but I do not agree with him in the opinion that because we raise a memorial on this occasion in some measure connected with one of our institutions our charities will be our ruin." Am I to regard this statement with "amazement" or "sorrow?" I never expressed or implied such an opinion, nor did I say that "to aid the orphan, the widow, and the aged," will ruin us. What I did say was, briefly, this, "If our institutions want new wings to their buildings let them be built; if they want additions to their funds let them be supplied. But if our charities are to become the all-engrossing objects, and the sole outlets of our Masonic sympathies,—if the enrichment of these charities is to be considered the highest aim of the Order, and the sole criterion of Masonic excellence, then Freemasonry must inevitably become a benefit society, and thus "our charities will be our ruin." I say nothing in disparagement or in disrespect of benefit societies. They are admirable institutions, but Freemasonry is in no sense akin to them. Besides which, to care for the needy, the sick, and the aged, to provide for the fatherless and the widow, is not exclusively a Masonic attribute. It is a natural instinct, common to all who are not debased and degraded. Whereas the dignity and high value of Freemasonry is to promote brotherly love and spread a true Masonic spirit throughout our dealings with each other.

The other instance of Bro. Simpson's plausibility is as follows:—"No amount of eloquence or historical research could in the eyes of plain Englishmen alter these facts (1), that it was proposed to grant a sum of £2000 to two churches belonging to a particular religious body, &c." This is true as far as words go, but "plain Englishmen" love fair dealing, and it is utterly false as far as the intention of the grant was concerned, and consequently it is a very unfair statement. Call the Church of England "a particular religious body!" Why, it is the national church! I suppose the Rev. Bro. Simpson will not deny that, and therefore the proposal of Bro. Havers was to give £2000, not "to two churches belonging to a particular religious body," but to that which was national as well as Masonic. It is this national element which removes from the grant its denominational aspect, to quote Bro. Havers's own words, in the eloquent speech in which he proposed his resolution, as far as I can remember.

"As well might Grand Lodge be called denominational because our Grand Chaplains are always clergymen of the Church of England. As well might the whole Craft be called denominational because the children in our schools are educated in the principles of the Church of England, and because whenever we did attend a religious service, which in the provinces was a constant practice, we always attended the parish church."

Of course, in one sense of the word, the Church of England is denominational, but only in the sense in which it would be used by the sectarian, the illiterate, and the unpatriotic. Those who would deny that the Church of England is the national church might as well deny that Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria is Queen of England because amongst her subjects there are those who would prefer a Republic to a Monarchy.

As Masons we are cosmopolitan and unsectarian, but we do not cease to be the subjects of the country in which we were born, and one of the duties most strongly urged upon every brother on his admission to the Order is "never to forget the allegiance which is due to the Sovereign of his native land; and the sacred and indissoluble attachment which binds him to the country from whence he derived his birth."

The return of the M.W.G.M. was an event both national and Masonic. A memorial to celebrate that event should have that double feature, and I know not how better that object could have been attained than by carrying out Bro. Havers's resolution.

Whatever rejoinder this communication may elicit, I shall not again address you on this subject. I thank you for your courtesy in inserting my letters, and trust Bro. Simpson will forgive me if I again subscribe myself,

Yours fraternally,
July 3rd, 1876.

A PROVINCIAL GRAND OFFICER.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

"The winner takes his bite, and the loser gets his bark." I trust, therefore, that the opponents of Bro. Havers's motion, whilst enjoying their victory, will not think out of place a few parting lamentations, over that, which from the minority's point of view, seems to have become a lost opportunity.

We sought to do, as in other countries, we believe would have been done, under precisely similar circumstances, by brethren of all creeds, had the restoration or embellishment of such representative edifices as Notre Dame, St. Peter's, the Mosque of St. Sophia, or the Taj Mahal been suggested by them, as presenting the happiest embodiment of the loyal, patriotic, Masonic, and withal religious sentiments, which combined to render a thank-offering desirable.

The chief argument used against us, was the superior claim of the charities upon the bounty of Grand Lodge, and as to this, some extracts from the speech of our late Grand Master, Lord Ripon, on March 11th, 1874, when presiding at the Boys' School festival, are a good deal in point:—

"But you must remember that we Freemasons have a habit, especially when we assemble together upon public occasions, of boasting exceedingly of our charitable institutions, and of telling those who are not Masons that in those institutions may be found the proof of what are the principles and the result of the Craft. Well, in one sense that is true; but there is another sense in which it is far less true than I should desire. I have become increasingly impressed with the conviction that the burden of their support falls much too much year after year upon the same shoulders. I have heard an estimate made that after all there is not above one-sixth of the members of the Craft who are subscribers to these institutions. What I want to impress upon you to-night is this, that it is far better that these institutions should be supported by small subscriptions from large numbers, than that they should be supported by large subscriptions from a few. You who can subscribe and do not, have no right to say that the Boys' School is a credit to Freemasonry; it is a credit to its subscribers; it is no credit, but a discredit, to those who do not subscribe. A great many small subscriptions will in the end come, as you well know, to a great deal more than a few large ones, and what you want is, that these institutions should rest upon the widest possible basis, that they should be truly representatives of the spirit of this ancient fraternity, that what we say after dinner we may say deliberately at all times without fear of contradiction, that the spirit of the Craft is to be judged by the fruits which it bears in institutions like this, because these institutions do not rest upon the generosity of the few, but because they are founded upon the broad and staple basis of the general support of the Craft."

"Sectarian prejudice" was an expression freely used by the majority, and several speakers were quite apologetic, for opposing the restoration of national monuments, connected with the faith which they individually professed. Now it seemed to the minority, that, resting the claims of "St. Paul's" and "St. Alban's" entirely upon their Masonic and national character, the accident of their being connected with the religion of the state, so far (in our judgment) from rendering less appropriate the proposed tribute of respect to the future head of Church and State, produced in the minds of those of us who were members of the Established Church, a deep feeling of satisfaction, that by a happy coincidence, the monumental restoration our project comprised, would give pleasure to our co-religionists without the pale of the Order, thus, within these limits, blending, as it were, the rejoicings of the Craft with those of the nation, whilst an additional grace, we conceived would adorn the form of our thank-offering, from its meeting with the hearty approval of him who (though differing as to details) we one and all were delighted to honour.

The Churchmen amongst us saw, therefore, no reason to apologize for constituting, as (in that capacity) we believed we did, the majority of Grand Lodge. We entertained, and still entertain, a very earnest conviction, that our Jewish brethren, instead of disapproving the motion, as was contended, would have considered the employment of Grand Lodge funds in the restoration of two celebrated English Churches to have been dictated by equally high-minded and beneficent motives, with those which have prompted the devotion of moneys, contributed otherwise than by members of the Hebrew faith, towards recent excavations at Jerusalem, and the better exploration of the Holy Land.

RUBBISH.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

How can you admit such "rubbish" as Bro. B. Langley has thought fit to send to you about the emblems, &c., in Church Architecture?

Were it not all so essentially absurd, and so utterly beneath notice critically, archaeologically, and Masonically, I would protest, as a member of the tolerant Church of England, against such unseemly remarks, and such needless outrage on the feelings of thousands of good men and honest members of the Order, poor Christians though they be. If this is the "outcome" of modern intellectual studies, God help us all!

It only shews how extremes meet, and how Ultramontanes and ultra-liberal in religious speculations (I say nothing of politics) are equally intolerant.

But that is nothing new.

I wonder that it did not occur to Bro. B. Langley that when he brings in this childish illustration he was transgressing the Masonic canon, which forbids allusion to the religious tenets or sympathies of others.

Were the assertion not a proof in itself of the ignorance of the writer on the subject he affects so complacently to handle. I would say a good deal more, but "mole ruit sub," it is self-destructive, either of his capacity to throw new light on the matter, or even of his having realized the true teaching of Freemasonry, in any respect. Anything more sad than this outbreak of denominational venom I have never seen, and it really makes an old Mason blush for shame to think of the inconsistency of those, who for years have gibed of brotherly love and unsectarian kindness. But I will not trespass on your pages, over crowded as they are, but I hope you will never again allow such a passage as that to which I have adverted to pass your editorial censorship.

Yours fraternally,

A FREEMASON AND A MEMBER OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

[We entirely agree with our correspondent. We always wish to be "fair." We have erred in allowing such a paragraph to appear. It will not occur again, nor any discussion upon it. It is indeed a sad commentary on Masonic profession.—ED.]

CORRECT MASONRY—WHAT IS IT?

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

A letter appears in the columns of July 1st, signed P. Robertson, Lennoxtown, in reply to mine of June 17th, where I draw attention to a report appearing in the "Freemason" of the 10th ult., informing your readers that the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of the Province of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire on June 2nd, laid the foundation stone of the new aisle which is to be added to the Church of St. Mary at Peterborough, and that His Grace the Duke of Manchester (the I.P.M.) pronounced the stone well and duly laid, in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Having an idea that the invocation of the Trinity was foreign to our Order, and thinking that information on the subject would be acceptable to many brethren as well as myself, I sought it through your world wide columns, and am informed by Bro. P. Robertson, that the Scottish Constitution is silent and clear on the subject, that the stone is laid according to the rules of Masonry, and that the Almighty Architect of the Universe is implored to look down with benignity upon the undertaking. Scottish procedure is therefore explicit. Will some brother or brethren now give information with respect to the English form of laying a foundation stone? Should English and Scottish Masonry, in this point, be alike? In order to make the subject a universal one, may I again ask—Correct Masonry—What is it? Is it the introduction of distinctive doctrines or dogmas, some of which would sear the feelings of many of our brethren? I think not. It is the propagation of that broad and radiant light, the belief in God the Glorious Architect of Heaven and Earth. In the latter brethren of all creeds and nationalities can take part, in the former some feel it their duty to hold aloof. Therefore, if the Trinity is not connected with our Order, many of our readers would like to know why an innovation at a public Masonic ceremony, an innovation which as Bro. Robertson remarks, is from a Masonic standpoint an error, which materially affects the cosmopolitan character of our institution.

Yours fraternally,
Manchester, July 3rd, 1876.

AN EDITORIAL SLIP.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Surely a little passage in Bro. B. Langley's last letter escaped your editorial supervision? It is singularly offensive even to us poor benighted members of the Church of England, Freemasons though we be.

I had expected better things of you.
Yours very fraternally,

A CLERICAL BROTHER.

[We plead "guilty, and throw ourselves on the mercy" of our readers. We ought not to have allowed the passage to appear, but in our wish to be fair we have unintentionally offended the conscientious convictions of others. It only shows how very perverse has been the "denominational cry," and how un-Masonic.—ED.]

MASONIC JEWELS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you kindly inform me whether the Mark Master's jewel may be worn in a Craft Lodge? In the Book of Constitutions, under the head "Private Lodges," § 22, it is forbidden to wear any jewel except such "as shall be consistent with those degrees recognised by the Grand Lodges as part of ancient Freemasonry," and it is declared by the Act of Union of 1813, that "pure ancient Masonry consists of three degrees and no more, viz., those of the E.A., the F.C., and the M.M., including the Supreme Order of the Holy Royal Arch." Taking these extracts together, I have been surprised to hear the ruling of a P.M. of my lodge, that any brother is at liberty to wear either the Mark or any other jewel. I should be glad to know what is the practice elsewhere, as well as the law on the subject.

Another matter is the wearing of the Craft apron in a Mark Lodge. Is not this contrary to the "Mark" Constitutions? For though I conclude that a candidate for advancement, being as is necessary a M.M., may wear his Craft apron, a brother advanced is bound to wear the Mark apron. I shall be glad to be put right on these matters.

I am, yours fraternally,

M.M. and M.M.M.

[In our decided opinion a Mark jewel cannot be worn in a Craft lodge, neither can a Craft apron be worn in a Mark lodge. The P.M. who gives such a "dictum" as our correspondent mentions, must be utterly ignorant of the Book of Constitutions.—ED.]

A STATEMENT.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you kindly peruse the following statement, and if convenient let me hear your opinion and advice.

I am a M.M., Royal Arch Mason, and Knight Templar, and belong to Thos. J. Turner, Lodge 409, Washington Chapter 43, and Chicago Commandery 19, all of the City of Chicago, U.S. of North America. I was in the employ of an American firm, when I came to this country for the purpose of buying goods for their account in England, France, and Germany. However, on my arrival, or shortly after the house failed, and the house in Hamburg, upon whom I was to draw for travelling funds, refused to accept my drafts, consequently I was left high and dry in a foreign country without money or friends. I started out at once to find employment but was unsuccessful for a time, and while looking about for a situation, I thought I should visit a lodge, hoping to meet with some brother who might possibly be able to assist me in finding employment. Accordingly I went one evening to the Masonic Hall, and gave my name, lodge, &c., to the Tyler, who, however, informed me that unless I had "papers" I could not be admitted. I stated my case to him and asked to be examined, but all to no purpose. On my return home I ransacked my papers, and found, I may say, accidentally, a document from my commandery, which I have had occasion to use in the States in order to obtain admission into a commandery when travelling. The reason I took this paper some time ago was that I had just taken the higher degree, but having no competent brother to properly teach me I could not work my way into a commandery when I had no one to vouch for me, besides it saves the sometimes extremely tedious examinations in the States. On desiring to visit a lodge or chapter I have always been duly examined and been found entitled to admission.

I again went to the hall on the following evening and presented this document to the Secretary, stating that it would be impossible to get this paper unless I had taken all the preceding degrees, but the Secretary happened to be of a different opinion, and the consequence was I had to return home without shaking hands with some of those whom I consider friends and brothers.

Now if this style of treating Masonic brethren in foreign countries is the proper one, I think it but just that every brother upon being raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M. should at all times be informed by the W.M., besides the customary lecture, that it is necessary, when abroad, to carry a bundle of "papers," to prove him to be a Mason, in good standing and clear on the books. Although it is perhaps not appreciated by many Masons I shall mention here that at a time when I happened to be S.D. of our lodge a stranger called at our place of meeting, who upon being found a M.M., said he came from this country and was on his way from New York to San Francisco. On his arrival in Chicago he found he had lost his money, and only had his railway ticket. He was compelled to ask somebody for assistance, and very properly, as I then thought, came to a Masonic Lodge. Travelling in an emigrant train it takes nearly six days to get to San Francisco, and we did not think it right he should be compelled to travel that long distance without food and arriving at the coast without a cent. I made a motion to assist him at once to the best of our ability without referring him to the Relief Committee. After requesting the stranger to retire the brethren made a collection, and he received a handful of greenbacks amounting to about 78 dollars. The brother went West the same night.

I do not wish to have the above meant for bragadocio on my part, or Thos. J. Turner lodge, but merely state it as an incident in Masonry. To resume my statement I will say, that in order to obtain the papers which are necessary to obtain permission here, I must write to the Secretary of my lodge and chapter, and also to the Grand Lodge and Chapter, and it would take at least six weeks before I could expect to get them. But I am not inclined to do so, for I am of the opinion that a person who is actually in want of assistance is not supposed to come already prepared with a roll of "papers."

I have, and I am proud of it, not asked for any pecuniary help, but merely wished to be introduced to some respectable persons.

I hold a seven years' character from my last employers, and I should think that if I could have made the acquaintance of a respectable merchant he might have helped me in getting a respectable position. As it is I have been compelled to engage myself as labourer in the docks at 3s. 6d. a day, which is certainly no dishonour, but I sometimes think rather rough.

I am capable of corresponding in French, German, and English, and have a fair knowledge of Spanish and Dutch, and don't you think my services would be worth a little more than 3s. 6d. a day to some merchant.

I beg your pardon for taking up so much of your valuable time, but as you frequently kindly take notice of correspondents I venture to ask if I am entitled to the treatment I received.

I am, fraternally yours,
7, Regent Road, Liverpool, J. HENRICHS.

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
I see that Bro. Binckes gives a partial answer to my letter of enquiry in his interesting speech at the distribution of prizes at the Boys' School, on Monday, the 25th. His reason for the "Presidency" of the Council of the 33rd was as a recognition of its continued support of, and interest in the school. That no doubt is a valid reason, and as it is a question of gratitude for past favours, we are bound to think and believe that Bro. Binckes, who will be as customary "looking onwards," sees in it an earnest too of favours yet to come. But still, with all deference, I think, the announcement of a personal President as in years gone by, would have been better, and whether it was our worthy Bro. Montague or Rosenthal, or Hyde Pullen, each would be equally and personally acceptable to all present. At any rate Bro. Binckes may plead, as he generally does, a very good answer in the word "success." I congratulate the House Committee and himself for the "couleur de Rose" of everything, and wish all possible success to the Boys' School.

I am,
AN ANCIENT CRAFTSMAN, AND SUPPORTER OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
Will you kindly answer the following questions: Whether St. John's Day (24th June), if the annual festival of a lodge, is a regular lodge, and at such meeting propose, ballot for, and give degrees to candidates? Supposing such to be the rule, whether the next regular lodge in July (often nine or ten days apart) is sufficient notification in terms of Sec. 2, "Proposing Members," p. 84, Book of Constitutions of being the "next regular" lodge; or whether it must be a lodge of emergency for that particular work begun on St. John's Day, in terms of Sec. 7, page 86?

Again, sec. 3, "Visitors," page 89, Book of Constitutions, says "A brother who is not a subscribing member to a lodge shall not be permitted to visit any lodge in the town or place where he resides more than once during his secession from the Craft."

A very prevalent opinion exists in practice that the "once" does not mean once pur et simple, but only once a year. Is this the right interpretation? or is the plain reading of the Book of Constitutions to mean once, and once only, in the town or place in which he resides?

Yours fraternally, A Sxc.

BRO. ALLCOTT.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Bro. G. A. Allcott, of the Zetland Lodge, Hong-Kong, and Companion Industry Chapter, 186 (also P.M. Lodge of Harmony, Texas, A.C.), has, owing to want of time before his departure, desired me to express through the medium of your columns his hearty and fraternal good wishes to all those who during his sojourn in this country offered him the heart of truth and the right hand of brotherhood. To many Bro. Allcott was able to bid a personal farewell, but to some, owing to the shortness of time and suddenness of his recall to his duties by the Chinese Government, he can now only bid farewell by your kindly inserting this letter.

A little more than a year ago Bro. Allcott came to this country a perfect stranger, yet before his departure for China so highly and generally was he appreciated by the Craft that he was entertained at a banquet by a large number of brethren, and presented with a testimonial of their fraternal esteem and regard.

Apologising to you for so far trespassing on your valuable space,

I remain, dear Sir and brother, yours fraternally,
M. KEITH FRITH, Lodge 1426.

Middle Temple, July 4th, 1876.

A CORRECTION.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your report of the distribution of prizes at the R.M. Boys' School you make Bro. Binckes state that I am a "Vice-President of one of these Institutions." What Bro. Binckes stated was that "Bro. Montagu was a Vice-Patron of the Boys' School, and Miss Montagu also, and that Bro. Montagu and all his children were governors of all the other Masonic charities."

I am, dear Sir and brother, yours faithfully and fraternally,
I.M.P. MONTAGU, 33,
D.P.G.M. Dorset.

NORTH WALES AND SHROPSHIRE MASONIC CHARITABLE ASSOCIATION.

The members and supporters of this most valuable Masonic institution held a half-yearly meeting on Tuesday, June 20, and celebrated the event by a picnic at Glandlyn, the seat of Bro. Sir Watkin W. Wynn, Bart., M.P., on Bala Lake. With his usual kindness and generosity Sir Watkin had thrown open his house and grounds for the inspection of the visitors, and under the influence of one of the loveliest summer days that has visited us this season, the magnificent scenery of the locality was seen to the best advantage, the place, in fact, being one of the most lovely spots for a picnic that could well be desired. The main body of the party, which numbered about seventy, reached Sir Watkin's private station at Glandlyn about one o'clock, whence they were conveyed in a steam launch and in pleasure boats across the lake to the house. A sumptuous luncheon had been provided in some adjacent building by Miss Davies, of the Plasoch Hotel, Bala, to which the company sat down, the chair being taken by Sir W. W. Wynn, President of the Association. Amongst the guests were Bros. Bodenham, Newport; Spaul, Oswestry; Captain Williams, Bala; Horatio Jones, Shrewsbury; R. King, Shrewsbury; Dr. Brookes, Wellington; W. Boucher, Shrewsbury; Vaughan Williams; Evan Morris, Wrexham; Owen, Wrexham; Salmon, Chester; Parmer, Bala; Jones, J.P.; Capt. Anwyl; Dr. Jones, Bala; the Rev. David Evans, rector of Bala; Captain Jones; Woodcock; Anwyl, Bala; Passingham, Bala; Attwell, Llangollen; Lloyd, Bala; T. Williams and W. Williams, Bala; Owen, Bala; and others. A hearty attack was made upon the provisions that had been most bountifully provided, and at the conclusion of the luncheon it was announced that no formal toasts would be proposed.

The half-yearly meeting for business was then held, Sir W. W. Wynn presiding, and, amongst other business, a life subscribership to one of the London charities was voted to Mr. Spaul, of Oswestry, in recognition of his exertions in promoting the interests of the association. Life subscriberships to one of the London charities were also awarded by ballot to the following gentlemen:—Bros. Roff King, Lodge 601; John Barber, 601; Attwell, 1369; E. Bunney, 117; Evan Morris, 1336; J. Craston, 117; R. Waters, 117.

A sum not exceeding ten guineas was voted towards the education of a boy named Head, the son of a Mason, during the current year, and it was unanimously resolved that the next half-yearly meeting should be held in Shrewsbury in December next.

Votes of thanks were then passed to the sub-committee for carrying out the arrangements for the picnic, and to Bro. Bodenham for acting as Treasurer, after which the proceedings closed with a cordial vote of thanks to Sir W. W. Wynn for his kindness in presiding, and for throwing open his house and grounds to the visitors. The band of the Bala militia was present during the afternoon, and enlivened the scene with a variety of dance music, which also found amusement for the lovers of dancing, who mustered somewhat numerous. Sir Watkin's steam launch, and several pleasure boats, were placed at the disposal of the guests, and were extensively used. The whole party were conveyed across the lake in boats to meet the 7.15 train at Glandlyn Station, and thus the picnic, which had been very delightful throughout, was brought to a close.—"Oswestry Advertiser."

CONSECRATION OF THE CYDEWAEN LODGE, No. 1594.

The day following that of the consecration of the Llanidloes Lodge (an account of which appeared in the "Freemason" of the 24th ult.) the R.W. Bro. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, P.G.M., held another special Grand Lodge in the public rooms at Newtown, to formally constitute the above-named lodge.

The visit of Sir Watkin to this town was taken advantage of by the inhabitants generally to testify their regard to him, and to prove that they heartily participated with the rest of the principality of North Wales in the feelings of joy and gladness on his return to England in restored health.

On his entrance into Newtown the preceding evening he was greeted with the cheers of assembled crowds; the church bells were rung, and his progress through the streets was beneath several triumphal arches, decorated with evergreens and flags, and streamers bearing words of welcome, the most conspicuous among the latter being "A hearty welcome to Sir Watkin, the Prince in Wales;" "Long live the Prince in Wales;" with the Welsh mottoes, "Eryr Eryrod Eryri," "Heb Ddu heb ddm, Duw a digon." From every house, from the lofty buildings of Bro. Pryce Jones and others in the principal streets, to the lowly cottages in the bye-streets, were displayed, more or less pretentious tokens of the general feelings of joy and of welcome towards this popular nobleman, whose honoured name has ever been sufficient to call forth from the warm hearts of the Welsh feelings of enthusiasm and veneration.

A large number of brethren, many of whom had come from the extreme points of this widely-spread province, assembled in the public rooms in Newtown at one o'clock. Bro. Goldsbrough, P. Prov. G.S.W., appointed Bro. Wm. Cottender, P.M. 998, and W.M. of 1582, and Bro. E. T. Morris, W.M. 998, as Wardens pro tem.; and Bros. George Owen, P.M. 1124, P.P.G. Dir. of Cer., and James Salmon, P.M. of the Sir Watkin Lodge, P.P.G.S.B. of Cheshire, to assist as Past Masters. The musical arrangements were most ably and effectively carried out by W. Bro. J. Boucher, of Shrewsbury, Prov. G. Org., assisted by Bros. Dunville, P.M. 152; Hazlitt, W.M. 1432; Rascoe, 268; and Miller, 268.

The R.W. Provincial Grand Master, with the Provincial Grand Lodge, entered the lodge-room in procession, amidst the loud plaudits of the assembled brethren, Bro. Boucher playing a grand march during the procession, and until Sir Watkin had taken his place on the throne.

The R.W.P.G.M. opened a P.G. Lodge, the business of which being concluded was closed in due form.

The ceremony of consecration was then proceeded with, and at the conclusion the V.W. Bro. Frederick Britton, P.M. 850, P.P.G.J.W. of Derbyshire, was presented by the V.W. Bro. W. H. Spaul, Prov. G. Sec., as the Master designate of the lodge, and was duly installed W.M. by Bro. Goldsbrough.

The W.M. then invested Bro. Goldsbrough as Past Master, and closed the Board of Installed Masters.

On the re-admission of the brethren, Bro. Frederick Britton was proclaimed with the customary honours in the respective degrees. He then invested the following brethren as the officers for the year:—Bros. Danily, S.W.; Gilbank, J.W.; Pryce Jones (unanimously elected), Treasurer; E. R. Morris, Secretary; C. Morgan, S.D.; A. Ikin, J.D.; R. Parry, I.G.; J. Barnard, Tyler.

The W.M. addressed the R.W. Prov. Grand Master, thanking him on behalf of the members for the honour he had conferred upon them by his personal attendance at the consecration of the Cydewaeln Lodge, and congratulated him upon his return to England in renewed health.

The R.W.P.G. Master thanked Bro. Britton and the brethren of the lodge for their kind feeling towards him, and expressed his regret that he had not been able to consecrate the lodge sooner.

The W.M. proposed a vote of thanks of the lodge to Bro. Goldsbrough for the very able and effective way in which he had conducted the ceremonies of consecration and installation, and proposed that Bro. Goldsbrough be elected an honorary member of the lodge.

The proposition was seconded by Bro. Danily, Senior Warden, and carried unanimously.

Bro. Goldsbrough having thanked the W.M. and brethren for the honour they had conferred upon him, Several propositions for candidates for initiation and as joining members were made.

"Hearty good wishes" were expressed on behalf of the lodges represented by the brethren present, and the lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned.

The brethren were then formed into a procession by Bros. J. Salmon and G. Owen, and they proceeded through the main streets of the town to St. David's Church, where Divine service was performed by the Rev. J. Williams, Rector of Newtown, and the Rev. Wynne Jones, Vicar of Llanllwchaearn.

On the entrance of the procession into the church Bro. Boucher played a solemn and grand march, composed by him for the occasion, and dedicated, by permission, to the Provincial Grand Master. A collection was made on behalf of the local charities. On the close of the service the brethren returned in procession to the Elephant Hotel, where they partook of an excellent banquet, provided under the direction of Bro. and Mrs. Turner, the proprietors of the hotel. The W.M. occupied the chair, supported on his right by the R.W. Bro. Sir W. W. Wynn, the P.G. Master, and on his left by V.W. Bro. T. W. Goldsbrough, P.P.G.S.W., also by the undermentioned brethren, to the number of sixty:—V.W. Bros. J. B. Hooper, P.P.G.W.; W. H. Spaul, Prov. G. Sec.; J. Peters, P.G.S.W.; W. Blakeway, P.G.J.W.; W. Bros. Alex. Walker, P.G.S.D.; G. W. Woodley, P.P.G.S.D.; Jas. Salmon, P.G.S.B. Cheshire, W. T. Banks, P.G.S.B.; George Owen, P.P.G. Dir. of Cer.; J. B. Boucher, P.G. Org.; D. P. Owen, P.P.G.P.; W. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the W.M., and heartily responded to by the brethren.

In proposing "The Health of Sir Watkin Williams Wynn," Brother Britton remarked that the R.W. Grand Master had not been absent from the consecration of any one of the new lodges formed in his Province since he had presided over it (now nearly a quarter of a century), and the brethren of the "Cydeuaen" Lodge rejoiced to see him on the present occasion, restored to health. The W.M. said that with the toast he would also join that of "Lady Williams Wynn." The toast was received with the utmost enthusiasm and duly honoured by the brethren.

Sir Watkin, in reply, said, "I mentioned to you in the lodge-room, and I re-iterate it now, that I am extremely sorry I could not attend to consecrate your lodge sooner, and I tell you again to-day, as I told you at Llanidloes yesterday, that I do not like opening a lodge by deputy, in a rising and prosperous district, and in a town where I first came to command your Yeomanry and where I have spent so many happy days. I must take this occasion to thank the brethren for the very kind reception they have given me to-day. I have more lodges to open in the Province, and I trust many of you whom I see here will assist me in doing so. In the name of Lady Williams Wynn, I return you her thanks. She lived many of her early days in those northern countries where Masonry is as much looked up to and carried out as it is in this, our happy island. I may take this opportunity to express my regret that the Prince of Wales will not be able to come amongst us in July. After his journey to India and his late illness his doctors recommend him not to fatigue himself more than he can help. I beg again to thank you for your kindness in looking over my shortcomings. As time is short, will you now allow me to give you the toast of the evening, 'Prosperity to this Lodge,' the foundation of which, with the assistance of Dr. Goldsbrough, we have laid to-day. I trust the foundation will prove to be a solid one, and that it may continue to be one of the prosperous lodges in this Province. You have got, what I am very glad to see coming amongst us, many Masons from other Provinces to preside over you. Your Worshipful Master comes from a town where they tried to teach me Latin and Greek, and I am very glad to look on him as a neighbour, here. I give you 'The Health of the Worshipful Master of the Cydeuaen Lodge, and Prosperity to him.'"

The W.M., in reply, said he felt deeply grateful to the Provincial Grand Master for the honour he had done him in proposing his health and prosperity to the Cydeuaen Lodge. All felt the deep interest that Sir Watkin took in Freemasonry, a proof of which was in his not allowing a new lodge in his province to be consecrated by deputy, but had himself attended on every occasion; that he (the W.M.) greatly rejoiced, and felt sure he was only expressing the feelings of all the brethren present, at the return of the Provincial Grand Master to England in renewed health, and that it gave the members of the lodge great pleasure to have him with them on so auspicious an occasion. He felt it to be a great honour to have been selected by his brethren as the first Master of the lodge, and trusted he might be found equal to the task, and he would do his best to promote the best interests of Masonry in the district.

The W.M. proposed "The Health of the Visiting Brethren," for which Bro. Gurney, P.P.G.S.D. of Herefordshire returned thanks.

The next toast proposed by the W.M. was "The Health of the Consecrating Officer, Bro. Goldsbrough," expressing in highly complimentary terms the way in which the ceremonies of the day had been carried out by him, and again thanking him for the services he had rendered to the Cydeuaen Lodge.

Bro. Goldsbrough acknowledged the compliment paid him by the W.M. and the brethren present, and assured them he highly appreciated their great kindness.

The W.M. proposed "The Health of the Officers of the Lodge," to which Bro. Danily, S.W., and Bro. Gilbank, J.W., respectively replied.

Several other toasts were proposed during the evening, among which was "The Health of Bro. Pryce Jones (of Dolern), Treasurer of the Lodge," and the W.M. observed that the best thanks of the brethren of the lodge were due to their esteemed Bro. Treasurer for the hospitality he had shown to the R.W. Provincial Grand Master.

Bro. Pryce Jones said he felt only too glad to do anything in the interests of Freemasonry, and of Newtown generally, and as he had the honour of entertaining the Prince in Wales at Newtown, he hoped to see the day when the Prince of Wales would come amongst them.

The W.M. said that the thanks of the brethren were justly due to Bro. and Mrs. Turner for the very excellent dinner they had provided for the brethren.

The final toast was given, and the brethren separated at an early hour after an evening spent in a truly fraternal and enjoyable manner.

MASONIC CEREMONY AT WOOLWICH.

The monument erected by the brethren of the Province of Kent, more particularly those of Woolwich and Plumstead, to the memory of the late Bro. J. Graden, who, after many years good work for Masonry, died in harness, was unveiled on Saturday last at the Woolwich Cemetery in Wickham-lane, Kent, in the presence of a large and influential gathering of the Craft, many ladies being present. The monument stands just within the gates, and is in the form of a high and ornate Maltese cross, designed by one of the most eminent architects of the day, whose name we have been requested to omit, but who may well be proud of such a noble work of art. The front tablet of the plinth bears the following inscription:—"John William Graden, P.M., P.Z., P.P.G.D., and P.P.G.S. Kent, who died on the 9th March, 1875, at Woolwich, aged 57 years, erected in commemoration of long and eminent services to the Craft by the Union Waterloo, Nelson, Florence Nightingale, and Pattison Lodges, the Union Waterloo and Pattison Chapters, and numerous brethren."

Among the brethren present were Bros. Coupland, P.M. 913, and P.G.S. Kent; Tongue, P.M. 913, and P.P. G.W. Kent; Henderson, P.M. 13, &c.; Dawson, P.M. 700; Clersdale, P.M. 706; Davies, P.M. 13; McDougall, P.M. 913; C. Hobson, P.M. 700; Bickerstaff, P.M. 700; Carnelly, W.M. 13; Pownall, W.M. 1536, and W.M. elect 13; T. Vincent, W.M. elect 913; W. Weston, W.M. elect 1535; Hastings, S.W. 829; Spinks, J.W. 1536; Day, 1076; Jessup, Treas. 913; Butler, J.W. 913; Hayes, S.D. 913; Chapman, I.G. 913; Syer, Sec. 13; D. Davies, 913; Upperton, 913; Jarvis, 913; Day, 913; Bonnett, 913; Mabbett, 913; Widgery, 913; Palmer, 913; Bignall, 2; Ruddock, 1201; Jacobs, 13; Cleal, 13; Sturgeon, 13; Harris, 13; Osgood, 13; McCollough, 700; McCaffery, 700 and 1536; Fisher, 700; Buckland, 700; Beaver, 700; Sweeting, 700; Triptree, 1326; Richards, 1326; Taylor, 1526; Smith, 1536; Farr, 1546; Wedding, 1536; Thompson, 1546; Tappenden, 700; Norman, 13; Green, 1076; C. Jolly, 913.

The banquet at which the committee and several friends were present was a superb and recherche affair reflecting undivided credit upon both the taste and resources of Bro. B. Plaisted, in whose fine hall it was partaken of. Bro. Coupland presided, supported on either side by Bro. Bignall, 2, the architect, and Bro. Ruddock, 1201, the sculptor of the memorial, Bro. J. Henderson in the vice-chair. Upon the cloth being removed,

The Chairman said although this was was not strictly a Masonic meeting they must never forget to pay honour to "The Queen and the Craft," nor was the toast un-honoured. "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, G.M. of England," was most loyally and enthusiastically toasted, and then the chairman gave the toast of the occasion, namely, "The Designer of the Memorial," coupled with the name of their esteemed Bro. Bignall, the architect, who upon every occasion had shown them the greatest kindness and given them every assistance that laid in his power. As to the designer, whose lofty position in the artistic world they might have thought would have utterly precluded him from being able to attend to their wishes, he, the chairman, and he felt sure they would never forget his kindness. The memorial was a noble one, and would not only perpetuate the good work in life of him who had gone before, but would for ever stand an evidence of the talent and genius of its exalted designer. (Loud cheers.)

Bro. Bignall, in reply, thanked them for their kind and flattering mention of the designer, as well as for the reception he had that day received from the brethren. He assured them that not only the designing, but the carving, the form of the letters, even down to the utmost minute, had the earnest attention and supervision of the designer. As for himself, he had been deeply impressed by the beautiful service and touching oration delivered by the Rev. G. Chaplain, and he ventured to say it was one that would never be forgotten by him or them. In conclusion, he thanked them for their kind recognition of both the designer and himself. (Loud cheers.)

The next toast was that of "The Sculptor of the memorial, Bro. Ruddock," who, in reply to a well-earned eulogium from the chair, and hearty reception from the brethren, expressed his warmest thanks, but disclaimed any honour, the whole of which he gave to Bro. Bignall, who he declared would not have passed a single line that was wrong or a letter the least out of place. (Applause.)

The Chairman then gave "The Health of Bro. Hill, P.G.C.," who had come all the way from Faversham to be present and carry out the ceremony of the day, and thought nothing could better show their appreciation for Bro. Hill's services than to carry out in some way the beautiful aspiration uttered by him to-day over the memorial of Bro. Graden, "That out of this might come some good thing." (Applause.) He trusted that desire might be carried out, it could only be done by the united action of the whole of the lodges and chapters in the district, and he left it for their earnest consideration it would be a pleasure to their good Bro. Hill and an honour to themselves. (Cheers.)

Bro. Henderson then in glowing terms proposed "The Health of the Chairman," who, in reply, assured them that as their chairman he felt it to be an honour any one might be proud of. (Cheers.) He felt sure that from what they had seen to-day the subscribers to the memorial would acknowledge that their money had been well and worthily spent. (Hear hear.) They had all been to a deal of trouble and anxiety to see the work fully accomplished, and now that it was so he felt they had left a work that would be a credit not only to themselves, but to their brethren of the future. (Cheers.) They had done honour to the memory of a most distinguished Mason, and left for all an example that from W.M. down to the youngest Mason, it would be well for them to emulate or at least endeavour to do so. (Applause.)

Bro. Reilly then proposed the health of Bro. Pownall, the Hon. Sec. to the Committee, and in so doing did justice to that brother's zeal and assiduity in the cause, without which he declared the great success would not have been achieved. He felt that the committee would take some ulterior steps to show their appreciation of his arduous and onerous duties, but now he would ask them to do him honour by drinking his health. (Loud cheers.)

Bro. Pownall briefly replied by saying he felt sure the Lodge, Chapter, and Subscribers would never have cause to regret doing honour to one who in his life had done so much for Masonry in the district. (Applause.)

Bro. Rignall and Ruddock now retired and left the hall amid continued cheering and clapping of hands by the brethren. Bro. Ruddock kindly leaving two guineas to the fund. Bro. Pownall then proposed the health of the Committee, coupled with the name of Bro. Dawson, who honestly believed the committee had done their best in bringing their work to a satisfactory issue. Bro. M'Dougall's health and services as clerk of works was then acknowledged and responded to. Bro. Henderson, the vice-chairman, in response to his health, spoke of the great increase in Masonry during the last twenty-six years. Bro. Tongue responded for the warm reception of his and Bro. Shorn's name, and assured them that it was a labour of love on both their parts, and a lively acknowledgment of the Press, especially the "Freemason," coupled with the name of Bro. C. Jolly, concluded the business of the day.

MASONIC DEMONSTRATION AT ROSSIE PRIORY.

A few months ago the Provincial Grand Lodge of Perthshire (East) was resuscitated under the auspices of the Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, K.T., who is Provincial Grand Master. His lordship has always taken a great interest in Masonry, and at considerable trouble and inconvenience has shown his desire to meet the wishes of the brethren, and to restore to good working order the various lodges in the province. As an acknowledgment of his lordship's labours in this respect the brethren of Perthshire (East) resolved to pay their Right Worshipful Grand Master a complimentary visit at his palatial residence of Rossie Priory, on Saturday, being the festival of St. John the Baptist. A good number of the brethren, with their wives, families, and sweethearts, left for Inchture at noon.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due and ancient form in the Inchture Hotel by the Right Worshipful Substitute Grand Master, Bro. Dr. William Cowan; after which the brethren were marshalled by the Director of Ceremonies, Bro. Adam M'Kenzie, and headed by the Fechny Industrial School band, they marched two by two to Rossie Priory, a distance of two miles. The acting officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge were William Cowan, Substitute Provincial Grand Master; J. Hutchison, Grand Chaplain; John Chalmers, Acting Senior Warden; George Hutton, Acting Junior Warden; A. P. Kelt, Sec.; Dow, Senior Deacon; Robert Lees, Junior Deacon; Hugh Thomson, Architect; John Baird, Jeweller; Thomas M'Gregor, Bible Bearer; W. M'Lennan, Treasurer; Adam M'Kenzie, Director of Ceremonies; Wm. Fletcher, Swordbearer; W. Bryson, Director of Music; John Stephen, Standard Bearer; G. Ramage, Steward; John Stewart, Inner Guard; and David Cochrane, Tyler.

Although the turn-out was not so large as might have been expected on such an occasion, this was satisfactorily accounted for,—the battalion drill on the South Inch, among other things, preventing many of the brethren from attending to do honour to the Worshipful Provincial Grand Master.

On arriving at the main entrance of Rossie Priory the brethren formed in line, and Bro. Dr. Cowan ascended the steps and read the following address:—

"To the Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, K.T., Past Grand Master Mason of Scotland, and Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Perthshire (East): Right Worshipful Sir and Brother,—We, the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Perthshire (East), accompanied by the members and brethren of the lodges in the province, take the opportunity this day (the Festival of St. John the Baptist)—a day always highly esteemed, and held as a holiday, among Freemasons—to assemble and unite together at your residence to pay you a complimentary visit, as a mark of our respect and esteem for you as our Provincial Grand Master. You, Right Worshipful and respected Sir and Brother, have been long held in high esteem among men and Masons for your private virtues and public worth. Early in your life, and now somewhat over forty years ago, you were selected by the Craft Masons of Scotland to fill the very high and important trust of M.W. Grand Master Mason—the highest post which it is in the power of the brethren of Scotland to bestow on a worthy brother. You filled that office with dignity and effect, and with satisfaction to all, for some years prior to the election of our late lamented brother, His Grace the Duke of Athole. Since that time you have been commissioned by the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and have held for many years the office of Grand Master of the Craft in this province, which, though less extensive in its sphere of operations, is no less important to the proper and satisfactory working of the Craft as a whole than the Grand Lodge of Scotland itself. This office you have also filled to the satisfaction of the brethren, the numbers present on this occasion bearing ample testimony to the fact. In the discharge of the duties of your high office you have ever been held in the highest esteem and respect for your uniform courtesy and kindness to one and all with whom you came in contact, and you have always shown the most anxious desire to carry out the wishes of the brethren, to promote the interests of the Craft, and to raise Masonry to that dignity and importance which it deserves, as being a social and moral institution of the highest value in the world, tending to bind men of all nations and creeds in one common and sacred band—a society of friends and brothers. It is unnecessary here to do more than briefly allude to your high position as Lord-Lieutenant of this large and prosperous county, and to the various useful offices you fill in other capacities, and which you have honourably, usefully, and efficiently held during very many years of a long life—or to your position as a landlord in one of the most beautiful and fertile tracts of country in our native land, and in which your benevolence and kindness, your private worth and excellence of character, as a man and a Christian, and your zeal, energy, and perseverance in originating, improving, and extending in everything that tends to improve the physical condition and elevate the intellectual capacity of man, have been so many years conspicuous. We need only point to those beautiful farms, and happy homes, and smiling faces, we see around your princely dwelling, to show that you are at once a nobleman in the true sense of the word, a Christian, and a Mason. Yours has been a life well spent in the daily performance of good and useful works. In conclusion, we now wish Lady Kinnaird (whose Christian graces are so well known) and yourself a long continuance of life, health, and happiness, to enable you for years to come to carry on your good works. In the name and on behalf of the Provincial Grand Lodge and the lodge in the Province of Perthshire (East), we subscribe ourselves,—J. B. Brown-Morrison, Depute Provincial Grand Master; Wm. Cowan, Substitute Provincial Grand Master; William MacLeish, W. Senior Grand Warden; John Chalmers, R.W.M. Scoun and Perth, No. 3; John Young, R.W.M. St. Andrews, No. 74; George Hutton, R.W.M. Royal Arch, No. 122. Dated at Rossie Priory, Inchture, this 24th day of June, 1876. William Cowan, Officiating Grand Sec."

Bro. Lord Kinnaird then said—It is with very great gratification, as you may imagine, that I receive this visit from the Right Worshipful Substitute Master, officers, and brethren of the lodges connected with that part of the country over which I have the honour to preside—of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Perthshire (East). I take it as a very great compliment paid to me in the capacity of Provincial Grand Master, and I learn that you are all ready, shoulder-to-shoulder, to help me, as long as I have the honour to fill that office, in promoting the best interests of the Craft. This address, I cannot but say, I receive with heartfelt thanks. At the same time, I cannot but say that I wish the concluding part had been couched in less glowing terms. I am afraid it is the too partial feeling of the brethren towards me that has caused some of the expressions there to be, however gratifying, somewhat painful. You have alluded to the long time which I have been permitted by Providence to live, and, looking back over these long years, I cannot but feel that there are many, many things which I could have wished undone, and many things which I could have wished had been better done; but this I can truly say, that ever since it has pleased the Divine Architect of the Universe, in his Providence, to bless me with such a helpmate as you see here—(Hear, hear, and applause)—as counsellor and guide, I have endeavoured, with her assistance, to do my duty in that state in which it has pleased the Great Architect of the Universe to place me. (Applause.) That helpmate has, indeed, taught me to look to higher things,—to hope and remember that I may some day be an inmate of that temple not made with hands,—that temple of which the one our great founder established on earth is merely the symbol. I do, therefore, feel peculiarly gratified at this visit of the Masonic lodges connected with this province, and I do earnestly hope that, as long as I may be spared, I may be encouraged to do my duty not only towards those lodges and that Craft with which I have been so long connected, and in whose well-being I have always taken the greatest interest. I look upon this day as one that will not be soon forgotten, either by myself or her ladyship, who has been alluded to, and who has shared with me so many of the trials and sorrows, and at the same time the blessings, of this life. In her name, and in my own name, I most earnestly thank you for your visit, and I also thank the Great Architect of the Universe for smiling upon us in such a beautiful day; and I trust you will all enjoy yourselves, and as long as we are spared may we meet as brethren of the Craft to which we belong. (Applause.) It is true [that, owing to that secret which cannot be divulged even to those nearest and dearest to us (a laugh), we are looked upon with some suspicion (laughter), but there is one thing, we are united in love, that great Christian principle of love, and we, as Masons, are bound, in whatever circumstances we are placed, to assist each other with true Christian benevolence. (Applause.)

Three cheers were then given for Lord Kinnaird, and three for Lady Kinnaird; after which the company were shown over the magnificent apartments in Rossie Priory, his lordship rendering this privilege all the more enjoyable by his interesting descriptions of the various objects of interest.

In the course of the afternoon lunch was served to the brethren and their lady friends in a large marquee erected in one of the parks. The Right Worshipful Grand Master, Lord Kinnaird, presided, and Bro. Chalmers, R.W.M. Scoun and Perth, discharged the duties of Croupier.

The Chairman proposed "The Queen," and "The Three Grand Lodges of Scotland, England, and Ireland," which were heartily responded to.

The Croupier proposed "The Worshipful Grand Master, Bro. Lord Kinnaird." He considered himself highly honoured indeed in having the privilege of proposing this toast. He was exceedingly sorry that the brethren did not appear to be so enthusiastic as they ought to have been; but, as had been explained to his lordship, circumstances were against them, but he hoped the next time they came to Rossie Priory there would be a far larger turn out. (Applause.)

The toast was enthusiastically responded to.

Bro. Lord Kinnaird, in reply, said he assured them that it was not a mere form of speech when he said how sincerely he felt the kindness which they had shown to him in coming to visit him. It had been explained to him that circumstances had prevented many who they knew intended to come—(hear, hear)—but when they considered that this was the first attempt of the kind, as it became known it would be more largely patronised. He hoped, when it was reported that they had spent such a fine day, if he were spared to hold the office in Perthshire (East) which he was so proud to hold, he would see many more of the brethren visiting Rossie Priory. (Hear, hear, and applause.) He was sure they would say he had given them as hearty welcome as any Mason or neighbour could give (hear, hear), and he could only trust that next year he would see a very large and influential gathering of the Craft. (Applause.) They saw on his left one of the most enthusiastic of Masons (Bro. Dr. Cowan), and he hoped Bro. Cowan would continue his good work, so that Masonry would soon assume that position it formerly had in Perthshire, and that they would next year have a larger gathering at Rossie Priory. (Applause.)

Bro. George Hutton proposed "Prosperity to the Lodges in the Province." He was sorry that on this occasion there were none of the country lodges represented, and that on one of the very best of summer days. As there was no country Master present, he coupled the toast with Bro. Chalmers.

Bro. Chalmers said he had no doubt when the brethren read in the papers the account of this visit they would be very sorry that they had not been present, and he had no doubt that in future years there would be a large turn out.

Bro. Thomson, Past Master of the Royal Arch, Perth, proposed "Prosperity to the Lodge St. Andrew (No. 74). He was sorry that the Right Worshipful Master (Bro. John Young) was unavoidably prevented from being present, as he had been one of the most enthusiastic for this visit. They all knew that the Lodge St. Andrew had been admirably conducted, and had been looked up by some of the most eminent men in the country. (Applause.)

Bro. Adam M'Kenzie returned thanks for the kind manner in which they had drunk prosperity to Lodge 74. He was exceedingly proud of having been present on the occasion of their visit to Bro. Lord Kinnaird, and the entertainment they had received from his lordship was worthy of a brother and a friend. (Hear, hear.) When he returned to his mother lodge, he would not fail to tell them of the kindness he had received. (Applause.)

Bro. Lees proposed "The Royal Arch Lodge" (No. 122), to which Bro. Hutton replied.

The Chairman then proposed "The Wives, Sisters, and Sweethearts of Masons," on whose behalf Bro. Quartermaster-Sergeant Scott suitably replied.

As the weather was most tempting for a walk over the extensive policies, the brethren then rose, and, after singing "Auld Lang Syne," proceeded to visit the gardens and grounds, and to enjoy themselves in the spacious parks.

At seven o'clock the company again met in front of the Priory, and, after giving repeated cheers for Lord and Lady Kinnaird, resumed the journey home, highly delighted with the excursion and the cordial welcome they had received from the noble lord.

RESUSCITATION OF LODGE ST. JOHN (No. 174) AT DUNNING.

In connection with the above demonstration, and to show the good work which has been commenced in the Province of Perthshire (East), it may be mentioned that, by permission of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, a deputation from the brethren went to Dunning on Saturday, the 17th ult., in order to assist the Right Worshipful Master of that lodge, Bro. Henry Menzies, and his officers and Wardens, in restoring that ancient lodge to good working order. The deputation consisted of the following brethren:—Bros. Dr. Cowan, Substitute Provincial Grand Master; John Chalmers, W.M. Scoun and Perth (No. 3), who officiated as Provincial Grand Warden; George Hutton, W.M. Royal Arch (No. 122), who officiated as Junior Provincial Grand Warden; Robert Lees, Junior Grand Deacon; John Robertson, Grand Inner Guard; and David Cochrane, Grand Tyler. Bro. William Jones, Past Master of St. John's (174), officiated as Grand Senior Deacon. The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due and ancient form at four o'clock by the Right Worshipful Bro. Cowan, after which, by the request of the Right Worshipful Master of St. John's (174), that lodge was duly opened, and six new members were initiated into the First Degree of Masonry by Bro. Cowan, who performed the ceremony in a most impressive manner. Bro. Stewart (of the Kirkstyle Inn) and Bro. Howie were also affiliated to the lodge. The lodge was duly closed at six o'clock; after which the brethren enjoyed two hours in pleasant social intercourse. The brethren who visited from Perth are in hopes of revisiting Dunning soon, to assist the Right Worshipful Master in giving the remaining degrees to the new members. They also hope that, under the present rule, this ancient lodge, which at one time numbered 90 members, will soon be restored to its former prosperity. Bro. Menzies is very popular in Dunning, and he takes a great interest in the Craft; and there is no doubt that, with the material he has now to work with—men of intelligence, worth, and respectability—this will speedily be accomplished.

STAFFORDSHIRE MASONIC CHARITABLE ASSOCIATION.

The eleventh half-yearly meeting of this association was held on the 13th ult., at Alton Towers, which, by the kind permission of Bro. the Earl of Shrewsbury, Pro G.M., was visited by a Masonic party of gentlemen, accompanied by many ladies. From a report just issued by the association we learn that the Masonic charities pertaining to the province are ably managed, and the support given to the three Royal Masonic Institutions for Girls, Boys, and Aged Freemasons is of the most encouraging character. Life subscriptions to each of the above-named institutions are obtained for Staffordshire brethren by means of the Charitable Association, and the voting strength of the province is thereby considerably increased in favour of the Staffordshire candidates requiring aid. Twenty-nine of these life subscriptions were balloted for at this meeting, as follows:—Bros. Frederick Brandon, 418; Edwin Peake, 637; Frederick Arkinstall, 662, Senior Warden of 1520; Edwin Hodson, 624; James Alcock, 98; T. G. Fellow, 1520; Arthur Barnes, 1032; K. Macrae, 624; W. G. Bagnall, 662; James F. Wileman, 546; James Miller, jun., 460; George Bennion, 546; Wm. Wykes, 482; David Griffith, 460; Wm. Bentley, 98; Alfred Caddick, 662; C. Marsh, 460; Arden Hardwick, 546; Robert Plant, 456; W. R. Blair, 546; J. Clarke, M.D., 1839; J. V. Barber, 482; Charles Trigg, 1039; J. Norris, 451; Silas Gibson, 966; Edward Corn, 451; T. C. Graham, 624; T. M. Humphries, 539. The two last-named brethren served as Stewards at the festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. A pleasing feature indicative of the growth of this association is found in the fact that more than one-third of the Freemasons in the province are supporters of the Masonic Charities through the medium of this organization. Much permanent good is likely to accrue from the efforts of its promoters, whose most sanguine expectations have been hitherto fully realized. The local education of the children of deceased brethren is undertaken by the Committee of Management, in addition to the assistance rendered to the London institutions.

Masonic and General Tidings.

Monday, by command of Her Majesty the Queen, the day for holding the annual meeting of the Prince Consort's Association was altered from July 12th to Monday, the 10th inst., when H.R.H. Prince Leopold, P.G.M. Oxford, will distribute the prizes and certificates in the Home Park, Windsor.

Bro. the Rt. Hon. Lord Balfour of Burleigh, P.S.G.W., lays the foundation stone this day of the new tenement block of buildings for the Workmen's Dwellings Improvement Company (Limited), about to be erected in Disney-street, Mint-street, Borough, S.E.

A Lodge of Instruction has been formed in connection with the Derby Lodge, No. 724, Liverpool, meeting on the second and fourth Mondays in each month at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Bro. J. W. Ballard, P.M. 724, as Preceptor.

A Provincial Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of the Province of Middlesex and Surrey will be held at the Greyhound Hotel, Richmond, on Saturday, the 22nd inst. Lodge will be opened at five o'clock.

Bro. Captain R. Rankin Hutchinson has been appointed Vice-Consul of Spain and Nicaragua. Our brother is a Chevalier of the Order of Santa Rosa, and is a décoré under the German Convention.

NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—At the forthcoming meeting at Wimbledon the proprietors of the popular "Spécialité Sherry" (Messrs. Felton and Sons, of Albermarle-street) again give a purse value £20.

We are asked to announce that the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of the model dwellings in the Borough is unavoidably postponed.

Bro. Lieutenant E. J. V. Watteville has been appointed Flag-Lieutenant to the newly-appointed Commander-in-Chief on the Irish Station, Rear-Admiral Hillyar.

THE COLONIAL BOARD.—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., has appointed Bro. Griffiths Smith, Past Grand Steward, Vice-President of the Colonial Board.

A Special Court of Governors of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution will be held on Friday next at the Masonic Hall, 22, Hope-street, Liverpool, at half-past five.

A meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Monmouthshire will be held at the Town Hall, Pontypool, on Thursday next.

We understand a warrant has been applied for, for a new lodge to be named "The Middle Temple," and to meet at Freemasons' Hall. The Masonic relevancy of the title will at once occur to each member of the Craft. Among the eminent brethren on the Bench of the Honourable Society which gives its name to the proposed lodge, who have expressed their approval of the enterprise are the Treasurer for the year, Bro. J. J. Powell, Q.C., our esteemed Bros. the V.W., the G.R., E.J., Mr. Intyre, Q.C., and Francis Roxburghe, G.C., P.G.R., F. A. Philbrick, Q.C., P.G.J.D., a member of the Inner Temple, and several other distinguished legal brethren have signified their hearty good wishes for the success of the application. Our worthy brother Samuel Poynter, P.M. 902, 1491, &c., Barrister at Law, and a member of the Honourable Society of the Middle Temple of many years' standing, is the W.M. designate.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

GRANITE LODGE (No. 1328).—To paint a scene is one thing, but to fit it for the due performance of the actors, is another business altogether. It would not do to make your actors speak their speeches from the spire of St. Paul's to the groundlings beneath, nor would it do to hire a balloon for a sea voyage. And so likewise, if you are going to air your pent-up lungs you would not select as a promenade the pristine purlieus of Paddington. No, your nose would instinctively turn in the direction of the balmy breezes of Brighton, and your inner man would plaintively appeal to you to "give him air." We have heard of ingenious men who weigh the earth, and watch the stars, and can tell to an ounce what old mother earth weighs, and judge to a nicety the sublimity influence of stars; but no one, we venture to wager, has ever yet calculated the amount of physic and pills swallowed by the living multitude of towns in order to keep body and soul together; indeed, it is doubtful whether such details could ever be forthcoming. People gasp for breath often enough in London; the atmosphere is sometimes as thick as a Dutch cheese, and quite as nasty. You may plunge your proboscis in the best "Rimmell," but the pleasure is too transient; it is soon gone, and the perfume scattered to the four (though one is often quite enough) winds of Heaven. What wonder, then, if the merry men of the Granite seek in the bosom of old mother earth at Virginia Water that consolation which they cannot find at home? Bro. J. Lewis Thomas, the pioneer of pleasure, with the faithful band of brothers, gave abundant proof of the possession of judgment when they selected this charming spot for a summer banquet. How soothing to the active mind of man is the rippling of the waters; to hear the translucent stream playing and dashing about under a sun of 110° is a sensation which makes a lasting impression. How delightful to sit in the cool shade of the flowery dell, basking not in, but out of the sunshine. For this is what you can do at the "Wheat-sheaf," Virginia Water; and what the members of the Granite did on Wednesday, the 29th ult. It is one of the brightest jewels that old England can boast of. Let it be stated that on that auspicious day they all assembled at the Waterloo Station of the London and South-Western Railway, where a train of saloon carriages was in waiting to convey them to this verdant spot, this ideal Lake of Como, which after a short time they reached in safety, at least they were about one mile distant from the Wheat-sheaf. At the Virginia Water Station they were not destined to land without a greeting, for no sooner had they reached terra firma proper than Bro. Crossland put in an appearance and conducted them over the "Holloway Sanatorium" for mental diseases built in the Tudor style, and which was presented to the nation by the eminent pill and ointment manufacturer, it having cost him £170,000, and on which an additional £100,000 will be expended ere it is thoroughly completed. The brethren very much enjoyed the inspection, which occupied about an hour. To keep to the business of the day (for you cannot perform the parts of the programme without business), after they had investigated all the details of the building the brethren speedily found their way to the Wheat-sheaf, where in the full bounty of nature they revelled for some time until the signal came that drags were in readiness to convey them to Windsor Castle. Eager for the fray, the brethren speedily mounted their vehicles, and in a twinkling were fast on the road making towards the Long Walk, which some very fine animals enabled them to reach in little or no time, and here all was loveliness. You could not shed a ray of your eye without its being filled with the exquisite forms of nature. To see the tall trees growing in such luxuriance on either side of you, then to behold in the far distance that gorgeous old castle, were sights that would vie with anything continental. Her Majesty being within the castle, the brethren had to remain without, and they accordingly "hung their banners on the outer wall," that is to say, they rested, and were thankful. Time, the ancient enemy, soon made giant strides, and bade them return to the Wheat-sheaf, "which they did." Here awaited them the feast of reason. A most excellent banquet was prepared and served up in a marquee tent, erected in the gardens. The menu designed from the (it would not be right to say gastronomic head) let us say the culinary imagination of Bro. Thomas, was replete with the choicest of dainties. It would be cruel to the hungry to describe the several dishes, let it suffice that they gave abundant satisfaction, and added a large laurel to the renown of the Wheat-sheaf. After the cloth was drawn Bro. John Oliver, P.M. (who occupied the chair in the absence of Bro. Muggeridge, W.M., from indisposition) gave the usual Masonic toasts, which were jovially responded to, after which Bro. Thomas proposed "The Health of the Visitors," which was briefly acknowledged. Then Bro. Oliver asked them to drink to Bro. Thomas for the able way in which he had conducted the management of the banquet, which they did in a hearty manner. The speeches were very few and very short, and Bro. Oliver may henceforth claim for his motto, "Brevity is the soul of wit." To have long speeches after a good dinner is like taking pills after sugar. It often happens that the tongue abuses the privilege of speech; on this occasion the merry men of the Granite were free from such a charge; and, as a consequence, the whole party were able to reach London by the eleven o'clock train. The members present were Bros. John Oliver, P.M., in the chair; Jas. L. Thomas, P.M. and Secretary; G. De Maid, P.M.; John Bosworth, P.M.; Dr. J. W. Oswald, P.M.; Fredk. West, S.W.; C. A. Cottebrune, P.M.; James Crossland, Richd. Coad, G. Chapman, J. B. Lee, P. F. Giles, Benj. Turner, J.D.; D. W. Pearce, P.M.; Wm. Holliday, Frank Kirk, A. J. Taylor, W. Wood, E. Matheson, Thos. W. Aldwinckle, J. H. Outhwaite, Frank Harger, E. G. Wyatt, J. Oswald Gardner, W.S. The visitors were Bros. Wm. Dyott Burnaby, W.M. 141; Major Shadwell Clarke, 33; Rev. P. M. Holden, S.W. City of Westminster; Martin, J. E. Poole, Jos. Randall, Dr. Palmer, Sir M. W. Williams, Aug. Woodcock, Col. Grant, Rev. C. Grant, W. S. Plimsoll, H. Webb, Clayton Palmer, jun., Jno. May, E. Crickmay, Thompson, ("Freemason"), and Messrs. F. Pollett, and Tom Hitchens.

SURREY MASONIC HALL LODGE (No. 1539).—The first anniversary and installation meeting of this successful lodge was held on Thursday, July 6, at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road. Bro. Mark Samuel Larham, W.M., presided, and the officers present were Bros. Ramsey, S.W., and W.M. elect; Green, J.W.; Ritherdon, S.D. Ross, I.G.; Oliver, Sec.; and Harvey, D.C. The following visitors were present—C. A. Cottebrune, P.G. Purs; J. Wright, Commemoration Lodge; H. Thompson, 1426, and P.M. 177 and 1158 ("Freemason"); J. Dann, P.M. 72; Morgan, Gladsmuir, 1385; Clarke, 1385; W. Harris, 766; A. C. Shelley, 1328; J. H. Vockins, P.M. 1329; J. L. Thomas, 142, and others. Lodge having been opened and advanced to the Third Degree, Bro. Cannon was very impressively raised by the W.M. Master to the degree of a M.M. The lodge was then lowered to the Second Degree, and Bros. Walden and Timms were passed to the degree of F.C. The next business was to install Bro. Ramsey, the W.M. elect, into the chair, and that duty was most ably performed by Bro. Larham, the retiring Master, a Board of Installed Masters having been formed for that purpose. On the re-admission of the excluded brethren below the chair the new W.M. Master was saluted in the customary manner in the different degrees, and he then appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. Green, S.W.; Ritherdon, J.W.; Larham, Treasurer; Murray, Secretary; Ross, S.D.; Harvey, J.D.; Allen, I.G.; Larham, D.C.; and A. Martin, D.C. Bro. Larham, P.M., proposed that a jewel should be presented to Bro. Oliver, the late Secretary, which was put and unanimously carried. Bro. Oliver thanked the brethren for the honour conferred upon him, and he must say that not the slightest notice had been given him of any intention to do so. The report of the audit committee was presented, which showed that the funds of the lodge were in a satisfactory state, and after some other business had been transacted the lodge was closed in due form and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was most bountifully served. On the withdrawal of the cloth the W.M. said it devolved upon him to propose the first toast, which was "The Queen and the Craft," and as her reign had been a peaceful one they had much reason to be thankful for it. Drank with cordiality, followed by the National Anthem. The W.M. Master, in giving "The Health of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Prince of Wales," said that he had passed through a voyage of discovery unparalleled in the history of this or any other country, and they ought to congratulate him on his return home in health and strength, and he shewed that he was as good a man at the end as he was at the beginning. (Cheers.) The W.M. Master next gave "The Pro. Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers," coupling with the toasts the name of Bro. Cottebrune, P.G. Purs. The toast was cordially responded to. Bro. Cottebrune, returned thanks. Bro. Larham, P.M., said that the brethren must be aware of the toast he had to propose when they saw that for a brief period he was entrusted with the W.M.'s gavel. That was the first time he had the opportunity of proposing the health of the W.M. He (Bro. Larham) felt proud to be installed as the Master of the lodge, and having known Bro. Ramsey for some time, he felt sure that he would carry out the duties of the chair to the satisfaction of the brethren. He asked the brethren to rise and drink "The Health of Bro. Ramsey, their W.M." The W.M. Master said as their fire was sharp, so sharp must be his response, and he could assure them that he would endeavour to discharge his duties as a Mason in general and to that lodge in particular. He said it then devolved upon him to perform an exceptional and very pleasing office, and in doing so he should be the mouth-piece of the brethren. Bro. Larham had been a most able and painstaking Master of the lodge, and he (the W.M.) knew that he left no stone unturned to make all his officers equal to his own merits. He had pleasure to be his Senior Warden, and he was now Master of the lodge. In Bro. Larham they always found a ready instructor, and when he was called upon to rule the lodge he felt that he was the right man in the right place. He perfectly well knew his duties, and he carried them out both as a man and a Mason. If he was to talk until tomorrow he could not say more of him, or of the manner in which he performed his duties, and it afforded him (the W.M. Master) the greatest pleasure in placing on Bro. Larham's breast a memento of the good will of the lodge. (He placed the jewel on his breast which bore the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. M. S. Larham as a mark of esteem for his eminent services as W. Master. 1876.") Bro. Larham, I.P.M., said he thanked the W.M. Master very sincerely for the kind words he had been pleased to express to him for what he had done, as he had only done his duty, and thanked all the brethren present for placing him in such a proud position. He thanked them sincerely for voting him such a handsome and valuable jewel, and he could assure them that in the future as well as in the past he would endeavour to carry out his duties, and would never cease to maintain the interest of the lodge. The W.M. next gave "The Visitors," for which Bro. Clarke responded. "The Officers" was next given, and was responded to by Bro. Green, S.W. The W.M. Master said the next toast he had to propose was one not on their list, and it was "The Press," and with this he coupled the names of Bro. Thompson, Bro. Seale, and Bro. Shelley. Bro. H. Thompson ("Freemason"), in returning thanks, referred to the large sums of money received for the Masonic Institutions during the year, and the very encouraging results which had been derived from the education given in the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, several of them taking honours at the recent Cambridge examination. Bro. Seale also returned thanks. The Tyler's toast was then given, and a very happy and harmonious meeting was brought to a close.

LIVERPOOL.—Mariners' Lodge (No. 249).—The members of the Mariners', perhaps the most numerous and one of the most influential in the Province of West Lancashire, assembled in great force at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, on Thursday, the 9th inst., for the purpose of the installation of the W.M. for the coming year. The lodge was duly opened by Bro. H. P. Price, W.M.; and he was supported by Bros. J. Hayes, P.M.; W. Crane, P.M.; J. J. Rose, P.M.; W. Jones, P.M.; H. Pearson, P.M.; the Rev. P. Pennington, P.M.; J. Lloyd, S.W.; the Rev. P. Hains, J.W.; Dr. J. K. Smith, P.G. Reg., P.M., Treas.; R. Collings, Sec.; J. C. Robinson, S.D.; W. Garlick, I.G.; F. Barnett, S.; W. P. Jennings, S.; J. Whalley, S.; W. H. Ball, Tyler; J. Croxton, J. Crebbin, R. J. Filder, H. W. Parry, W. Corbett, J. M. Ellison, C. J. Jones, W. H. Vernon, J. Wilson, W. Mooney, T. Roberts, J. Wood, Treas. 1094 ("Freemason"); T. Williams, W. Wilson, J. O. Jones, J. Stevens, W. Procter, T. Grayson, W. Williams, J. Nicholas, J. Cook, A. Anderson, H. Hall, A. Barnard, J. Chambers, C. White, R. Weale, C. Warner, F. Cooper, E. Ramson, J. Williams, and others. Amongst the visitors were Bros. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.P.G.C.; G. Morgan, P.M. 1035; Major Turner, P.M. 823; A. J. Henochsberg, W.M. 1508; C. Leedham, P.M. 220; H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec.; J. Pemberton, P.G.S.; H. Scott, P.M. 86; J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; W. Doyle, P.G.J.D.; J. R. Goepel, P.P.G.D.C.; S. Schönstadt, S.D. 1572, and others. The chair of Installing Master was taken by Bro. Dr. J. K. Smith, P.G. Reg., who impressively and efficiently placed Bro. John Lloyd in the chair of W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Lloyd, W.M., after being saluted in the usual manner with great cordiality, appointed the following brethren as his efficient staff of officers:—Bros. H. P. Price, I.P.M.; the Rev. Philip Hains, S.W.; J. C. Robinson, J.W.; Dr. J. K. Smith, P.G. Reg., Treas. (re-elected); R. Collings, Sec. (re-appointed); J. Hayes, P.M., D.C.; W. Garlick, S.D.; W. P. Jennings, J.D.; F. Barnett, I.G.; W. Corbett and J. Whalley, Stewards; W. G. Veale, Org.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. At the conclusion of the installation ceremony, Bro. J. Lloyd, W.M., inaugurated his year's labour by initiating Mr. George Cox Beecham in a style which promises well for his year of office. The brethren were then called off to banquet, which was provided by Bro. W. Vines, P.M. 220, in the large dining room of the hall. The menu embraced all the delicacies of the season, and the wines were both varied and excellent. Bro. J. Lloyd, W.M., who presided, gave the toasts of "The Queen," and "Bro. H.R.H. Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," which were very cordially responded to. Bro. Dr. Smith gave "The Earl of Carnarvon," and "Lord Skelmersdale," the latter being responded to by Bro. J. R. Goepel, P.P.G.D.C., who said it was now little more than twenty years since he had his Second Degree in the Mariners' Lodge, and it was never in a better position than at present. He was quite sure that Bro. Lloyd would emulate the example of those who had gone before him, and maintain the excellent reputation of the lodge in the Province of West Lancashire. Bro. J. Hayes, P.M., gave "Bro. the Hon. F. Stanley, M.P., D. Prov. G.M., and P.G. Officers, Past and Present," which was responded to by Bro. Dr. Smith, P.G. Reg. Bro. H. P. Price, I.P.M., then gave "The Health of the Worshipful Master," and in doing so said the way in which he had commenced his year of office was very gratifying to the lodge. The position of the lodge was everything which could be desired—there was not a discordant voice in it, and its prosperity was very great. The toast was received with immense enthusiasm and Masonic honours. Bro. J. Lloyd, W.M., in response, said: I thank you very much indeed for the great honour which you have been pleased to confer upon me this day by placing me in the chair of the Mariners' Lodge. I assure you, brethren, I will endeavour to maintain the dignity of that chair during the coming year, and that I will assiduously strive to perform the duties which devolve upon me to your entire satisfaction. Brethren, I thank you very much for the manner in which my health has been proposed and responded to. "The P.M.'s of the Lodge," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by Bro. H. P. Price, I.P.M. The W.M. then proposed "The Installing Master," which was received with great cordiality. Bro. Dr. Smith, in response, said it had afforded him a great amount of pleasure—more than he had ever felt before—to perform the installation ceremony that day. The gathering on that occasion spoke as to the prosperous condition of the Mariners' Lodge. He believed he was right in saying that that lodge contributed more than any other to the old Masonic Hall, and the Mariners' stood second on the list in the contributions for the new building, having given from its funds and by its private members no less than £450. This had slightly inconvenienced the funds, but he felt sure that in all works of charity they would occupy their proper position. Indeed, he was sure that that lodge would stand second to none in that or any other province in respect to its charity, and this was a fact of which they might justly be proud. They looked after the poor and distressed, and that was one of the principles which afforded them greater pleasure than any other in connection with Masonry. From the year so well inaugurated that day, and the quality of the brethren appointed to the different offices, they had every reason to expect that, to use a little vulgarism, they would go on "swimmingly." Several other toasts followed, and the lodge was closed at a seasonable hour. The vocal harmony contributed by Bros. White, Child, T. Foulkes, and Hobart was much above the average, and Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O., once more delighted every one by his brilliant pianoforte rendering of "The Bells of Aberdovey."

LIVERPOOL.—St. John's Lodge (No. 673).—The annual installation meeting and picnic of the members of this lodge were held on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 4th and 5th inst. The installation of the W.M. took place at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, on Tuesday evening, when there was a large gathering of members and visitors. Bro. J. K. Digges, W.M., was in his place at the opening, and amongst others present were Bros. M. Corless, P.M.; T. Clark, P.M.; E. Kyle, P.M.; H. Nelson, P.M.; J. Thornton, P.M.; W. T. May, P.M.; J. F. Callow, P.M.; T. Roberts, S.W.; H. Burrows, J.W.; R. Pearson, P.M., Treas.; S. Johnson, P.M., P.G.A.D.C., Sec.; D. Jackson, S.D.; W. Brackenbury, J.D.; J. Hocken, P.M., D.C.; L. Herman, I.G.; J. Seddon, S.; R. Hulme, Org.; W. H. Ball, Tyler; D. Paterson, S. Lambert, I. Nichols, H. Squire, R. Whitehead, J. Sampson, F. Falshaw, T. Drysdale, T. Little, A. Trimble, J. Harford, M. N. Meccrate, T. Alvarez, and others. The list of visitors included Bros. R. P. France, W.M. 594; H. Ashmore, I.P.M. 1325; W. Doyle, P.P.J.G.D.; J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; J. Pemberton, P.M. 1264; E. O. C. Rothwell, P.M. 1356; B. B. Marson, P.M. 1356; Joseph Bell, W.M. of 1356 and 1609; Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.G. Reg.; I. Levy, 667; B. Myers, W.M. 1182; J. A. Edginton, P.M. 1182; J. E. Jackson, W.M. 667; E. Masker, S.D. 1182; P. M. Larsen, P.M. 594; and others. After the lodge had been duly opened the chair was taken by Bro. T. Clark, P.M., who proceeded to install Bro. Thomas Roberts as the W.M. for the ensuing year, the manner in which the important ceremony was performed eliciting a hearty vote of thanks, which was ordered to be recorded on the minutes of the lodge. The officers invested were as follows:—Bros. J. K. Digges, I.P.M.; H. Burrows, S.W.; D. Jackson, J.W.; T. Clark, P.M., Treas.; W. T. May, P.M., Sec.; W. Brackenbury, S.D.; L. Herman, J.D.; J. Thornton, P.M., M.C.; J. Seddon, I.G.; T. Falshaw, S.S.; T. Smith, J.S.; R. Whitehead, Organist; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. At the conclusion of the installation ceremony Messrs. Hughes, Cantly, Caine, Garrick, O. Jones, and J. Maiden were initiated into the Order by the new W.M. in a most effective manner. Before the lodge was closed it was resolved to vote ten guineas from the funds of the lodge for the purpose of creating Bro. Pearson, P.M. (who had acted as Treasurer for ten years), a life governor of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, and also to purchase an appropriate jewel. The brethren then adjourned to supper, and during the after proceedings a very handsome P.M.'s jewel was presented to Bro. J. K. Digges, I.P.M., in recognition of his valuable services in the chair. On Wednesday morning about 200 brethren and ladies started from Lime-street Station to Overton Hills for picnic purposes, where a most enjoyable day was spent. The morning looked threatening, but fortunately the weather brightened and became everything which could be desired as the day advanced. Almost every variety of amusement was provided for the large company, and the catering of Mr. Rigby gave, as usual, universal satisfaction. After spending one of the pleasantest "outs" ever held in connection with St. John's Lodge, the party returned to Liverpool at a seasonable hour.

WOOLWICH.—Nelson Lodge (No. 700).—On Thursday, the 29th June, Bro. T. Butt, the W.M. elect of the above lodge, was installed W.M. for the ensuing year by Bro. T. Ward. The place of meeting was the Freemasons' Hall in William-st., and when, after Bro. Ward had initiated two candidates, Messrs. Rance and Claydon, and Bros. Past Masters Graham and Bowles had taken the Wardens' chairs, he proceeded with the ceremony, the coup d'oeil presented by the lodge was most striking and effective. Among the visitors were Bros. C. Coupland, P.G.S. Kent, and P.M. of No. 706 and 913; W. Tongue, P.P.G.W. Kent, and P.M. 913; T. Smith, P.P.G.P. Kent, and P.M. 829, 913, &c.; A. Penfold, W.M. 913; F. G. Pownall, W.M. 1336, and W.M. elect 13, J. M'Dougall, P.M. 13; G. Davies, P.M. 13; J. J. Cattle, W.M. 1441; A. Le Feaux, W.M. 30; T. C. Day, W.M. 1076; J. Ives, W.M. 1472; T. Vincent, S.W. and W.M. elect 913; W. Weston, S.W. and W.M. elect 1536; T. Hastings, S.W. and W.M. elect 829; W. Steele, S.W. 1472; W. Gamble, S.W. 706; J. Dorton, S.W. 1076; G. Spinks, J.W. 1536; T. D. Hayes, S.D. 913; J. Silver, J.W. 1472; A. Jessup, Treas. 913; F. Brien, S.D. 1076; R. Stone, 615; G. Wood, 615; B. Goodale, 1327; Huntly, 87; E. Varing, 180; G. A. Pillin, 91; B. Howlett, 1472; W. A. R. Harris, 871; J. Plume, D.C. 1472; Thorne, 913; W. A. Watkins, 1536; R. Pinney, 177; C. Jolly, 913; and others. The following Past Masters of the lodge were Present: Bros. W. Ritchie, C. Hobson, F. Dawson, Treas.; J. Henderson, Sec.; as well as those in the Wardens' chairs. A board of sixteen Past Masters having been formed, Bro. Butt was placed in the chair of K.S., and duly saluted. He then proceeded to install his officers as follows:—Bros. S. Waters, S.W.; A. C. Woody, J.W.; F. J. Dawson, Treas.; J. Henderson, Sec.; J. Warren, S.D.; J. Wilkins, J.D.; E. B. Hobson, I.G.; W. McCoy, D.C.; B. Norman, Tyler; and C. Cooke, Organist. A jewel was presented to Bro. Ward for his great and successful efforts for the benefit of the lodge during his year of office, as well as a most cordial vote of thanks for the excellent way in which he had officiated as Installing Master that day, for which Bro. Ward feelingly and eloquently returned thanks. A most gratifying incident then occurred in the presentation to Bro. P.M. Dawson of a Treasurer's jewel, and we must say Bro. Dawson thoroughly deserved every word of the warm eulogy passed upon him by the W.M., and the hearty reception he met with from the brethren when he was called up to receive the gift. Bro. Dawson having briefly returned thanks, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren and visitors sped away by train to Gravesend, where, at Bro. Lockett's famous hostelry, the New Falcon, a splendid banquet awaited them, which having been fully discussed, and the door properly tyled, Bro. Butt, the W.M., proceeded with the toasts, loyal and Masonic, usual upon such occasions, and which, we need hardly say were most loyally responded to. Bro. Ward, I.P.M., then took the gavel by consent of the W.M., and proceeded in handsome terms to propose "The Health of the W. Master," in so doing he said they were all well aware how nobly Bro. Butt had for many years worked through the minor offices of the lodge; they all knew the excellence of his private character and life, and they had heard and seen the manner in which the visitors to the lodge had eulogised his unvaried geniality and good work, both in and out of the lodge. This would at least show them that the Nelson Lodge had not made a mistake in electing him to the high position he now filled. Bro. Butt had spared no pains to make himself worthy of the prestige of the lodge, and he (the speaker) felt sure that in his hands the interests of the lodge and the comfort and welfare of the brethren would meet with that attention and zeal that had always been characteristic of those who had, however humbly, filled the proud position of W.M. After a few pleasant remarks about Bro. Butt's "perch" on Shooter's Hill, and a word of advice to the subordinate officers to look well to their duty, Bro. Ward concluded an able address by assuring them that he, the W.M., was one with whom it was a pleasure to be acquainted, and one whom they might look up to both as a Master and a Mason. Bro. Butt, in reply, apologised as a "bashful man," who felt as if oil had been poured down his back. However, he would endeavour to do his duty in such a manner as would not cause them to regret their choice, and give them some return by increasing tenfold, if possible, the prosperity of the lodge for the honour they had done him. In replying for "The Visitors," Bro. Vincent, W.M. elect of the Pattison Lodge, with whose name the toast was especially coupled, after expressing his inadequacy for the task of responding, said he might safely congratulate the W.M. on having his name enrolled among a long list of W.M.'s who had made the name of the Nelson Lodge famous among those of the district for its work and hospitality. He, like the W.M., had his troubles to come, and trusted they might both do their duty in such a manner as would redound to the credit of Freemasonry both in and out of the district. He trusted to have, as he, the W.M. had, the best wishes of every one for the continued prosperity and happiness of both lodges. Bro. Coupland briefly thanked the W.M. and the lodge for the ten guineas they had kindly placed to his list as Steward of the Boys' School Fund. Bros. Hayes, Wood, Huntly, Pownall and Gamble as well returned thanks. "The Past Masters" were enthusiastically toasted, and after Bro. Waters had returned thanks for "The Officers," "God save the Queen" finished the business of the day. We take this opportunity, our earliest, to tender our thanks to Bro. Ward for many acts of courtesy and kindness to us during his year of office, to Bro. Butt for his cordial invitations for the future, and to all the officers and brethren of the Nelson Lodge for their assistance in making the "Freemason" a sine qua non among the literary food requisite for them, both at home and in the lodges, as well as equally as instructive.

EASTBOURNE.—Tyrian Lodge (No. 1110).—On Monday, 26th ult., the anniversary of the Tyrian Lodge, 1110, of Freemasons, took place at the Gildredge Hotel, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. Tomkinson. The minutes of the previous lodge having been confirmed, and other business transacted, the W.M. then briefly addressed the members, thanking them and the P.M.'s, especially, for the kind assistance which they had rendered him during his year of office, and concluded by vacating the chair, and introducing the W.M. elect (Bro. Thomas Morris). The installation ceremony was then proceeded with, the Installing Master being Bro. E. W. Adamson, P.M., who was assisted by the I.P.M., Bro. Tomkinson, Bro. Matthews, P.M., the latter giving the charges in a most impressive manner. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the Worshipful Master appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. J. Head, S.W.; A. Taylor J.W.; Chas. Crisp, S.D.; Geo. Perry, J.D.; C. Warwick Tomes, I.G.; C. Tomes, P.M., Treasurer; Headland, P.M., Secretary; E. W. Adamson, P.M., D.C.; Hood and H. Sutton, Stewards; Goldring, Tyler. The authority of the newly-installed Master having been recognised according to ancient custom, the Masonic lodge was duly closed. At the conclusion of the repeat the toast list was opened, the usual loyal toasts being given by the W.M. "The Health of the R.W. the D.P.G.M. of England, and the Officers, Past and Present," was acknowledged by Bro. Wood, a past officer of the Grand Lodge, in an eloquent and appropriate speech. Bro. Adamson followed with the toast of "The R.W. the P.G.M. of Sussex, Lord Pelham," in giving which he expressed the regret felt by the brethren at his lordship's continued ill-health, and his inability to perform the duties of his high office. It was a fact, of which they however might well be proud, that the V.W. the D.P.G.M., Bro. Furner—upon whom now devolved Bro. Lord Pelham's duties—had selected for his deputy, one of the officers of that (the Tyrian) Lodge, Bro. Cunningham. The toast of "The V.W. the D.P.G.M. and the Officers Past and Present," was then given from the chair, and replied to by Bro. Dr. Cunningham. "The Visitors" was given by Bro. C. Tomes in a humorous speech, in the course of which the speaker noticed that they had visiting brethren representing lodges in the metropolis of England, the metropolis of the United States of America, Canterbury, Woolwich, Battle, Lewes, Frome, Brighton, and Gloucestershire. (Applause.) Each visitor acknowledged the compliment paid him in a fitting speech. The speech of Bro. C. B. Potter, from St. Patrick's Lodge, No. 4, U.S. America, was especially well received, and afforded abundant proof of his being a thorough Mason, although raised in the new world. After expressing the pleasure he felt in being present on the occasion, he observed that as far as he had been taught to understand Freemasonry, its leading doctrines and fundamental principles were the same all over the world, although he found there was some slight difference in the manner of communicating and instructing between England and America, but this did not alter the fact that in whatever country or clime the brethren were bound together by the same bonds of brotherly love and good fellowship. As regards Freemasonry in America, he stated that it had a splendid history, and at the present day could boast of a success and prosperity, which, if equalled, was certainly not excelled in any other country on the face of the globe. According to his views there was nothing derogatory to the character or dignity of any man, be he Bishop, President or Prince, to place himself on a level with the Craft. On the contrary, it exalted and dignified him. In his opinion no institution was ever raised on better principles nor upon a more solid foundation, nor were ever more excellent rules and maxims laid down for the guidance of man universally than those inculcated in our different lectures. Of two things he felt proud, and boasted wherever he went, first, that he was an "Englishman," second, that he was a "Free and Accepted Mason." He concluded by assuring the brethren of his heartiest good wishes for the prosperity of Tyrian Lodge, and giving them, one and all, a hearty invitation to visit his own lodge in America. (Applause.) "The Health of the W.M., Bro. Morris," was next submitted by I.P.M. Bro. Tomkinson, who said the lodge had made an admirable choice in Bro. Morris, than whom no Mason was better fitted to preside over a lodge. His kind, hearty, and genial manner, would make him a popular Master, and secure the cordial assistance of all the members of the lodge, by whom he was held in the highest possible esteem. (Applause.) The W.M. replied in a few well chosen terms, expressive of his willingness to do the duties required of him to the best of his ability, and at all times to assist in promoting the welfare of the lodge. Before resuming his seat Bro. Morris, in proposing the toast of "The Past Masters," presented to Bro. Tomkinson, I.P.M., amidst applause, a handsome Past-Master's jewel, voted by the lodge in recognition of the valuable services rendered by him to the Tyrian Lodge, during the year of office which had just terminated. Bro. Tomkinson, in a feeling speech acknowledged the gift, and expressed his gratitude for the manner in which the toast had been offered and received. After the toast of "The Officers," and one or two minor toasts having been duly honoured, the brethren dispersed. Some excellent vocalisation was contributed during the post-prandial proceedings, by Bros. G. Warwick Tomes, A. Taylor, G. Adamson, and other brethren.

SHERBORNE.—Lodge of Benevolence (No. 1168).—The members of this lodge assembled at a Court of Emergency held at high noon, on Tuesday, the 4th inst., at the Town Hall, for the purpose of installing Bro. George F. Stokes, as W.M. for the year ensuing. The ceremony was admirably and impressively performed by the Immediate Past Master, Bro. T. D. Davis. The W.M. then proceeded to appoint the following brethren as his officers:—Bros. T. D. Davis, I.P.M.; J. Trevor Davies, S.W.; G. H. Masters, J.W.; W. S. Gillard, P.M., Treas.; A. Bradford, Sec.; P. S. H. Colmer, S.D.; G. S. Smith, J.D.; the Rev. R. H. W. Digby, Chaplain; C. J. Regan, Org.; R. G. Long, P.M., D.C.; J. W. Sherwood, I.G.; E. Pragnell and H. Searle, Stewards; J. Himbury, Tyler. Amongst the members and brethren present were the following:—Bros. the Rev. G. Thompson, Master of the lodge two years in succession, P.P.G.C.; John Chaffin, P.P.J.D. Somerset; William Milborne, P.P.J.D. Somerset; J. Ryal, P.P.S.D. Somerset; T. Sharland, A. E. Price, G. Summers, L. H. Rnegg, P.M.; W. H. Sawtell, N. E. Davies, J. Himbury, and L. Elgar. The lodge having been duly closed according to ancient ceremonies, the above brethren and visitors from labour proceeded for refreshment to the Digby Hotel, where a splendid banquet awaited them; it comprised all the delicacies of the season and was placed on the table in a manner which well sustained the repute Mr. and Mrs. Binnie Clarke have gained for this noted hostelry, the head quarters of the B.V.H. The dessert was of a recherche character, and the wines of a first class vintage. Ample justice having been done to all the good things, and the cloth having been cleared, the W.M. presided in his usual courteous and urbane manner, and gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts in a manner which, while it did justice to the themes he dilated upon, did not bore his hearers. The proceedings were diversified by some excellent singing, accompanied by Bro. A. R. Price (Yeovil), and the Tyler's toast brought a very enjoyable afternoon to a close. The lodge has been established about nine years, and we are glad to say is in a flourishing condition, and we doubt not, from the well known interest the present W.M. takes in it, that it will continue to prosper.

LIVERPOOL.—Hamer Lodge (No. 1393).—The annual installation meeting of this lodge took place on Tuesday, the 27th ult. The brethren assembled in the lodge-room, Clarence Hotel, at two o'clock p.m., and the chair was taken by the W.M., Bro. H. Jackson. After the usual routine business the W.M., Bro. H. Jackson, at once proceeded to the business of the day, which was the installation of the W.M. elect, Bro. J. McCarthy, S.W., who was duly presented by Bro. Wylie, P.P.G.S.D., and Bro. Armstrong, Prov. G. Treas. Bro. McCarthy appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. Sammons, S.W.; T. Large, J.W.; C. Tyrer, Treas.; R. Leason, Sec.; J. Price, S.D.; Dr. B. Price, J.D.; W. Erwin, I.G.; R. H. Evans, P.M., M.C.; C. Pilling, Steward; M. Williamson, Tyler. Bro. McCarthy then proceeded to initiate Mr. Gallagher. Nearly one hundred brethren then adjourned to the Masonic Hall, and sat down to a recherche banquet, under the presidency of Bro. McCarthy, supported by Bros. the Rev. H. G. Vernon, P.P.G. Chaplain; the Rev. J. Rees Jenkins, H. Jackson, R. H. Evans, P.M.; Robt. Wylie, P.P.G.S.D.; J. R. Goepel, P.P.G.D.C.; and T. Armstrong, P.G. Treas. The W.M. gave "The Health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," and expressed his opinion that none rejoiced more at the safe return of His Royal Highness from India than the brethren over whom he presided as M.W.G.M., and expressed a hope that the Craft would have an opportunity before long of showing in his presence their devotion to their Grand Master and their joy at "his safe return." The W.M. next gave "The Earl of Carnarvon, M.W. Pro G.M., and the Officers of Grand Lodge." Bro. H. Jackson, in giving "Lord Skelmersdale, W.D.G.M., and Prov. G.M. West Lancashire, and the Officers of Provincial Grand Lodge, said: Worshipful Sir and brethren,—I am sure that you require very few words from me to induce you to drink this toast with all the enthusiasm you can muster. Lord Skelmersdale is deservedly popular in this province, and has by his urbane and courteous demeanour, and by his evident kindness of disposition, won the hearts of all who have had an opportunity of coming in contact with him, and his devotion to Masonry is such, I should imagine, that there are very few of the brethren present who have not had an opportunity of seeing his lordship in either lodge, chapter, or other Masonic gatherings, and I am sure that all whom I am now addressing will join with me in wishing him long life and happiness. We are also very glad to see with us to-day so many members of Prov. Grand Lodge, and I am sure I express the sentiments of every member of the Hamer Lodge, when I say that I believe that the Prov. G. Officers of this province thoroughly deserve all the respect and regard that we can show them. I couple this toast with the names of Bros. Wylie, P.P.G.S.D.; Goepel, P.P.G.D.C.; Armstrong, Prov. G. Treas.; and Rev. H. G. Vernon. P.P.G. Chap. Bro. Robt. Wylie, in responding, said that the members of Prov. G. Lodge were always happy to lend their countenances and support to the lodges in the province, and that in the present instance, as far as he was concerned, he was very glad to have had another opportunity of visiting the Hamer Lodge, and seeing the excellent working which characterised it, especially the installation ceremony, which had been performed by Bro. Jackson in a manner that could hardly be surpassed, and which was creditable not only to himself, but to the lodge with which he was connected. Bro. R. H. Evans gave "The West Lancashire Charitable Institutions." He (Bro. R. H. Evans) then proceeded to claim the support of the brethren to the West Lancashire Educational Institute, and to the Hamer Fund, for the assistance of aged Freemasons. Bro. T. Armstrong, Prov. G. Treas., responded. "The Health of the W.M." was proposed by Bro. H. Jackson, I.P.M., who said: Brethren, I rise to propose what I think you will all admit to be the toast of the evening, "The Health of the Newly-installed W.M., Bro. J. McCarthy. I am sure, brethren, it is unnecessary for me to praise him, as his abilities and good qualities are well known to you all, and I am satisfied that it is seldom that a W.M. is placed in the chair of K.S. who more thoroughly possesses the confidence and esteem of his brethren. Bro. McCarthy has been closely connected with the Hamer Lodge from its commencement, and whether in a subordinate or prominent office, he has always endeavoured, and not only endeavoured, but has succeeded in discharging any duty that he had to fulfil in a manner that could hardly be excelled. I am satisfied that the interests of the Hamer Lodge are safe in his hands, and that the reputation which the Hamer Lodge has obtained for excellent working will be maintained. The good ship Hamer starts to-day on another twelve months' voyage, and I am sure that the captain here at my right may confidently anticipate a pleasant and successful one. The first and second mates, Bros. Sammons and Large, will, I am sure, do all in their power to assist him, and I am satisfied that the cordial feeling which exists between officers and crew will make this fourth voyage equal if not superior to any that have gone before. Bro. McCarthy, in responding, said:

Brethren, I thank you first of all most heartily for the great honour you have done me in unanimously electing me to the proud position of W.M. of this lodge, and I thank you most heartily for the very cordial reception you have given to this toast. I can assure you, brethren, that it will be my earnest desire to carry out the duties of the office to your entire satisfaction. I find it impossible for me to express my deep sense of the honour you have conferred upon me in placing me in this proud position. I cannot find words to express myself as I could wish, but if you could read my heart you would find thereon, engraved in letters of gold, the one word gratitude. The W.M. then gave "The Health of the Installing Master, Bro. H. Jackson, I.P.M." In conclusion, he said—Bro. Jackson, on behalf of the Hamer Lodge, I have the pleasure of presenting you with this jewel as a token of the high regard in which you are held by this lodge. I have also the pleasure of presenting you, on behalf of some of the members of the lodge who have desired still further to evince their appreciation of your good qualities, both as a man and as a Mason, with this watch, as a slight token of their regard for you personally. I hope you may be long spared to wear them. Bro. Jackson who was greeted with great cheering, which prevented him speaking for some minutes, said: W.M. and brethren—Never until to-night did I feel so utterly incompetent to shape my thoughts into words, or to express myself towards you as I could wish; but I can assure you it is the depth of my gratitude that chains my tongue, and the fulness of my heart that impedes my utterance. I feel quite unworthy of the magnificent gifts with which you have presented me, but I can assure you that I shall prize them as my most valued possessions, and shall prize them even more for their associations than for their intrinsic value. I have endeavoured to discharge my duties to the best of my ability, and to promote the interests of this lodge in every way in my power, yet I feel that your recognition of my efforts is beyond what I deserve. For your cordial reception of the toast of my health, and the very enthusiastic way you have received it, and for your many kindnesses to me on all accounts, I thank you from the bottom of my heart. The W.M. then proposed "The P.M.'s," responded to by Bros. R. H. Evans and W. S. May. Other toasts followed, songs being contributed by Bros. Hague, Richardson, Heywood, Magee, Armstrong, Evans, Robert, Merrilees, and others. Bro. Asher gave two recitations, Bro. Jackson gave "The Charge of the Light Brigade," and Bro. Walker recited a piece from Longfellow.

WOODSTOCK.—The Marlborough Lodge (No. 1399).—The fourth annual meeting was held on the 27th ult. The agenda comprised (in addition to the installation of the W.M.) the passing of two brethren and the raising of one candidate to the Third Degree. The following is a list of brethren present:—V. W. Bros. John Galpin, W.M. of the Bertie Lodge, P.P.G.S.W.; T. W. Goldsbrough, P.P.G.S.W. North Wales and Salop; W. Bros. T. B. Brown, P.P.G. Sup. of W. North Wales, Prov. G.S.D. Oxon; Alderman Eagleston, P.P.G.S.B.; Bros. Heller, Richards, Calcutt, Acock, Robbins, and Codd, of Alfred Lodge, No. 340; Coles, Chipping Norton Lodge; H. Williams, Prov. G. Purst.; H. H. Parry, Prov. G. Std. B.; Falkener, Tibbetts, Salter, Brooks, Butler, Haines, Brushour, Halliwell, Meadley, Westland, Crane, Reynolds, J.W.; Long, S.D.; Seeley, J.D., P.P.G. Pt.; Prescott, I.G.; Crane, Palmer, Boon, Lowells, and Bayliss. In the absence of the I.P.M., Bro. Goldsbrough opened the lodge, and passed Bros. Brooks and Butler to the Second Degree. Bro. T. B. Brown, Senior P.M., then took the duties of the chair, and raised Bro. Salter to the degree of a M.M., after which he installed W. Bro. H. Williams Master elect. The ceremonies were performed in a faultless and impressive manner, and called forth from the brethren a marked testimony of their high appreciation of the Masonic talent of Bro. Brown. The W.M. appointed the following officers:—Bros. Reynolds, S.W.; Long, J.W.; Seeley, S.D.; Prescott, J.D.; Crane, I.G.; Palmer, Org.; Boon and Lowells, Dir. of Cer.; Bayliss, re-elected Tyler. Letters from the R.W. Bros. Reginald Bird, D.P.G.M., and R. J. Spiers, P.D.P. G.M., also from Bros. Hobbs, P.P.G. Sec., and Potts, W.M. of the Cherwell Lodge, were read, expressing their regret at being unable to attend. "Hearty good wishes" were expressed to the W.M. on behalf of the several lodges represented by the visiting brethren. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a well served banquet provided by Bro. Haines, the W.M. presiding. The customary toasts were given and honoured with due loyalty and warm Masonic feeling. "The Health of the R.W. Bro. Reginald Bird, the Dep. Prov. G. Master," was proposed by the W.M., with that of "The Officers of the Prov. Grand Lodge," and coupled with the names of Bro. John Galpin, W.M. of the Bertie Lodge, P.P. G.S.W., and Bro. H. H. Parry, Prov. Grand Steward. Bro. Galpin, in reply, said: "Worshipful Master, officers, and brethren, I am somewhat sorry it has fallen to my lot to be the first speaker to this toast, as it is difficult to make discordant sounds at all accord with the beautiful harmony we have all listened to with so much pleasure from the singers, and it places me at a considerable disadvantage. It is some time since I had the honour to attend this lodge. Many of the brethren think I was initiated in this lodge, but such is not the case; I associated myself with it as I do with all the young lodges in the province. I can assure you it is with much pleasure and delight that I have observed the progress made in Freemasonry by some of the young blood I was instrumental in introducing into the lodge, and especially the brother who occupies the distinguished position of Worshipful Master on the present occasion, and I cannot help expressing the contrast between the time when I looked on him as the trembling initiate, and now that he occupies the chair of W.M. of the lodge which gave him birth into Freemasonry, and the pleasure is enhanced by my seeing also the next office in rank to the W.M., and whom I was chiefly instrumental in introducing into the lodge, in the second position in the lodge, it speaks somewhat in his favour. Still dwelling on contrasts as affected by the facts and positions of others, as a member of this lodge I was only a Master Mason. My Masonic greatness has much increased, having been invested with the Mastership of my lodge, and this has brought me before you at so early a period of the evening. The more I see of the Craft the better I like Freemasonry, and the greater progress I make the greater is my fondness for it. I can assure my brethren it will amply repay them to acquire those positions, and when they have gone through them, as I have done, they will be as well satisfied as I have been. Ending my subject of contrasts, with respect to my old friend, Bro. Goldsbrough, on my right, there is no change; he is always the same, ever ready to assist us with his great Masonic knowledge and goodness. All I can say is "Long may he live, and may we all live to meet him for many years to come." Bro. T. B. Brown, Prov. G.S.D. "proposed The Health of the W.M.," and said—Bro. Galpin has expressed how great is the pleasure he feels that the brother whom he was the means of bringing into the Lodge had aspired to and reached the office of Master, I need not say how great a pleasure it is to me to reflect that I initiated him in this lodge not more than three years ago. To become the Master of a lodge in so short a time is a comparatively rare circumstance, and can only occur in the case of young lodges. It is usually many years before a new member of a lodge gets to the chair of W.M. I do not think any brother will regret having elected Bro. Williams as the Master of this Lodge; he will do honour to himself and to the lodge." The W.M.: "I thank Bro. Brown very much for the way in which he has proposed to you my health, and you, brethren, for the warmth of your reception of the toast. I will do all I can for the welfare of Freemasonry, and for this lodge in particular, and I trust that at the expiration of my year of office you will not have any cause to find fault with me. I have to thank my brother Brown for the excellent and impressive manner in which he has performed the ceremony of my installation, which must have been a great treat to you all; and as he was the means of introducing me to the light of Freemasonry I trust that he will give me the benefit of his able support during my year of office, and enable me to carry out the duties of the lodge to your satisfaction. He is one of the founders, and is the father of the lodge, and without him we could not carry on. I hope to have his assistance during my year of office. I again return you my sincere thanks. Bro. Goldsbrough: I need no word of eulogy to commend to you the toast I have to propose. It is "The Health of the Founder and Father of the Lodge, Bro. Brown, G. Senior Deacon of this Province." It has been my privilege to know Bro. Brown for many years past, and to have installed him as my successor in the chair of a lodge (of which he was one of the most energetic of its founders) in the widely spread Province of North Wales and Shropshire, where the R.W. Provincial Grand Master appointed him Grand Superintendent of Works. As many of you are aware, I had also the pleasure of installing Bro. Brown as the first Master of this lodge, and he has well earned the high distinction conferred upon him by His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, the Right Worshipful Grand Master of this province. Long may he live to enjoy the honour, and continue to render his valuable services to his brethren in this province. Bro. Brown, P.G.S.D., acknowledged the compliment paid him by Bro. Goldsbrough, and responded to by the brethren, and said that so far as the lodge was concerned, he was anxious to keep up what he considered the proper working, and if he succeeded in that, he should be satisfied, and that he was always pleased to assist the brethren in the work of any of the offices of the lodges in the province when he was called upon to do so. The W.M.:—In no lodge are visitors more welcome than they are in the "Marlborough," and we are always pleased to see them with us, and to show them what we can do. To-day we are honoured with the presence of Bros. Codd, Weller, Acock, Cotes, and Robbins, and I am happy to say that three of those brethren, seeing what we are doing in the Marlborough Lodge, have expressed their desire to become joining members of it, and I am quite sure we shall only be too pleased to have them with us. I shall couple with this toast the name of Bro. Codd. Bro. Codd said—I could wish that the Worshipful Master had chosen some one else to respond to the toast, but I can assure him that we all feel grateful for the kindness and hospitality we have experienced at the Marlborough Lodge, and we have all been greatly pleased at the way in which the ceremonies have been performed this evening, everything so thoroughly well conducted. The Worshipful Master may well feel proud to show such perfect order and good working as we have witnessed to-day. The W.M. Proposed "The Health of Bro. Goldsbrough," and said,—This is a toast which ought to have been brought before you earlier in the evening. Bro. Goldsbrough is a distinguished member of this lodge, and we hope to have the pleasure of seeing him here for many years to come. We have to thank him to-day, especially, for the excellent and impressive manner in which he conducted the duties of the Second Degree. Bro. Goldsbrough having replied, the W.M. proposed "The Health of the Officers of the Lodge," and said he had been fortunate in being able to select brethren whom he was sure would attend regularly, and coupled with the toast Bro. Reynolds, the Senior Warden, and Bro. Long, the Junior Warden. Bro. Reynolds: I beg to thank the Worshipful Master for his kindness in proposing the health of the officers, and to assure him that I will endeavour to carry him through his year of office, and will assist him in every way in my power in the duties of the lodge.

It is not quite four years since Bro. Dr. Goldsbrough initiated me in this lodge, and I have now the honour to occupy the chair of Senior Warden. Bro. Long, J.W., said he had been a member of the lodge for four years, but had been a member of the Craft for twenty-seven years, and he had only taken office that he might do his duty to the Craft. The Tyler's toast closed the proceedings. We cannot close this notice without acknowledging the services of Bros. Halliwell, Meadley, Westland, and Crane, whose delightful harmony greatly contributed to the pleasure of the evening.

INSTRUCTION.

UNITED PILGRIMS' LODGE (No. 507).—The brethren of this flourishing lodge met on Friday evening, the 30th June, at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell-new-road, when the Fifteen Sections were worked: Bros. T. Poore, Asst. Preceptor, W.M.; Mark S. Larham, Preceptor, S.W.; James Stevens, J.W.; Francis, Sec.; J. W. Watts, S.D.; Sevain, J.D.; Cass, I.G.; and Geider, Tyler. There were also present Bros. Forster, Shilton, Thurston, Ashford, Harvey, Wallis, Cox, Taylor, Noke, McMurray, Cackett, Bean, Clark, Drysdale, Ward, Barry, Webb, Sims, and Bye; and visiting Bros. Wiltshire, 720; Dann, 72; Hampton, 192; Rasell, 488 (New York); and Colley, 401. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. The Fifteen Sections were then worked in the following order, viz.:—

First Lecture ...	First Section	Bro. Thurston.
"	Second "	" Stevens.
"	Third "	" Ashford.
"	Fourth "	" Watts.
"	Fifth "	" Poore.
"	Sixth "	" Harvey.
"	Seventh "	" Geider.
Second Lecture...	First Section	Bro. Wallis.
"	Second "	" Coe.
"	Third "	" Cass.
"	Fourth "	" Francis.
"	Fifth "	" Taylor.
Third Lecture ...	First Section	Bro. Larham.
"	Second "	" Noke.
"	Third "	" Watts.

The lodge was then closed down to the First Degree, and on the usual enquiries being made a vote of thanks was carried with acclamation to Bro. Poore for the very able manner in which he had performed the duties of W.M. This was replied to by Bro. Poore, who expressed a high eulogy on Bro. Larham as Preceptor of the lodge, and also on the brethren who had so admirably assisted him to work the sections. A vote of thanks was then recorded to the brethren who had assisted in working the sections, which was replied to by Bro. Watts. Bro. Larham was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and the lodge was then closed and adjourned. It is gratifying to find that so many brethren are supporting this Lodge of Instruction, as it is evidence of the strong feeling entertained at the present day in favour of those lodges which are held at halls devoted to Masonic purposes in preference to taverns.

Mark Masonry.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF HAMPSHIRE.

The Provincial Grand Mark Lodge of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight met at Freemason's Hall, Southampton, on Thursday, the 6th inst., under the presidency of the Most W. and Rev. Bro. G. R. Portal, the Provincial Grand Mark Master.

There were present the V.W. Bro. W. Hickman, D.P.G.M.M.; Bros. Thos. Best, 63, P.P.S.G.W.; M. E. Frost, 17, P.P.S.G.W.; R. L. Loveland, 63, P.G.J.W.; Col. Hooper, 63, P.P.J.G.W.; E. Sheppard, 54, P.P.J.G.W.; H. R. Trigg, 62, P.P.G.M.O.; H. Cawte, 2, P.G.S.O.; A. Cudlipp, 17, P.P.G.J.O.; T. Gules, 140, P.G.M.O.; T. W. Faulkner, 140, P.P.G.J.O.; W. C. Redward, 2, P.G. Treas.; J. E. Le Feuvre, 37, P.G. Sec.; G. F. Lancaster, 2, P.G. Insp. Wks.; J. C. Stroud, 63, P.G. St.Br. S. S. Pearce, 63, P.P.S.G.D.; J. Harrison, 62, P.G.J.D.; J. Lillywhite, 2; R. H. C. Ubsdell, 17, P.G.A.D.C.; Michael Emanuel, 63, Past G.S.; P. Warren, 63, P.G.S.; R. Osborne, 17, P.G.O.; Rev. E. Y. Nepean, 63; Rev. F. W. Thoyts, 37; J. D. Legg, 63; B. Watson, 63; H. T. Bath, 63; Geo. Rake, 17; A. G. Rider, 63; W. Payne, 2; K. G. Westley, 63; J. Maltley, 17; G. A. Green, 2; C. A. Dyer, 63; J. Winship, 63; G. A. Tilling, 63; J. L. Symon, 63; E. W. Wyatt, 140, P.G.I.G.; H. R. Fox, 140; W. H. Holmes, 140; J. H. Smith, P.P.G.D.C.; J. Watson, 17; J. H. Biggs, 63; H. Horton, 63; G. R. Johnson, 17; E. M. Wells, 7; J. R. Weston, P.M. 63; M. Aley, 63.

The minutes of the last P.G.M. Lodge having been confirmed, the Treasurer read a statement of the accounts, which were adopted unanimously. Bro. Hooper then proposed the re-election of Bro. W. C. Redward as Treasurer, which, being seconded by Bro. Frost, was carried unanimously.

The M.W. the P.G.M. Master having been in office three years, it now became the duty of the P.G. Master to recommend some brother to the Grand M. Lodge to fill the chair of P.G.M. Master. The V.W. Bro. Hickman, D.P.G.M.M., in a few appropriate remarks proposed, and Bro. Frost, P.S.G.W., seconded, the re-nomination of the present excellent P.G.M. Master, Bro. G. M. Portal, whose anxiety to promote the interests of the Order could not be surpassed. It need scarcely be said that the proposition was carried by acclamation.

The Prov. G.M. Lodge then proceeded to elect a brother to serve the office of Grand Steward for the ensuing year, and Bro. S. S. Pearce, P.P.S.G.D., W.M. 63, was, on the motion of Bro. Hickman, seconded by Bro. H.

Cawte, P.G.S.O., unanimously elected to that office. Bros. R. H. C. Ubsdell, P.G.A.D.C., and R. Osborne, P.G.O., were then elected auditors.

The D.P.G.M.M. proposed, and Bro. J. U. Hillman P.P.G.M.O., seconded, a vote of condolence to the widow of Bro. S. Forbes, P.P.S.G.W., who had, during the past year, been suddenly cut off, after an illness of but a few days, from a career of much usefulness in Masonry, and this was heartily responded to.

The P.G.M. Sec., Bro. Le Feuvre, W.M. 37, read a report, showing the progress of Mark Masonry in the province, which was satisfactory, as showing that the number of advancements into the Order in the province had been maintained during the past year as compared with the two preceding ones. An especial cause for congratulation was noted in the revival of the Aldershot Military Lodge, 54, which after some years of suspended animation had resumed work under the able rule of Bro. F. Binckes, the Grand Secretary of the Order, who, having been elected W.M. of that lodge, had a few weeks since been installed into the chair by the Deputy P.G.M. Master, Bro. Hickman, assisted by Bro. Le Feuvre, the P.G.M. Secretary.

The P.G.M. Master then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—V.W. Bro. W. Hickman, 63, D.G.P.M.M.; Bros. J. Lamb, 37, P.G.S.W.; G. G. Rake, 17, P.G.J.W.; J. R. Weston, 63, P.M.O.; F. Court, 2, P.G.S.O.; E. M. Wells, 17, P.G.J.O.; the Rev. E. Y. Nepean, 63, and the Rev. F. W. Thoyts, 37, P.G. Chaplains; W. C. Redward, 2, P.G. Treasurer; J. Lillywhite, 21, P.G. Reg. Marks; J. E. Le Feuvre, 37, P.G. Secretary; O. A. Dyer, 63, P.S.G.D.; W. H. Holmes, 140, P.J.G.D.; G. F. Lancaster, 2, P.G. Insp. Works; E. W. Rebbeck, 125, P.G.D.C.; J. L. Symon, 63, P.G.A.D.C.; G. Cross, 63, P.G.S.B.; G. R. Johnson, 17, P.G.St.B.; R. Osborne, 2, P.G.O.; G. Tilling, 63, P.G.I.G.; G. A. Green, 2, H. R. Fox, 140, and W. Payne, 2, P.G. Stewards; Watson, 17, P.G. Tyler. At the close of the business the brethren sat down to a banquet.

LANDPORT.—Naval and Military Conclave (No. 35).—The ordinary meeting of this conclave was held at Smith's Hotel, on Tuesday, 27th ult. The Int. Gen. of Hants, Sir Knt. Chs. Knott, M.D., was supported and assisted by his Deputy, Sir Knt. J. Clark, and the following officers and members:—C. Groom, Vy. Eas.; J. Harrison, S.G.; B. Simister, J.G.; George A. Green, H.P.; J. Clay, P.S., Treas.; A. R. Robinson, P.S. Rec.; W. Tuck, S.B.; R. J. Rastwick, as P.; Cor. G. Adames, as Herald; J. Collins, and others. The conclave was opened in due form at 7.30, and minutes of conclave held May 23rd adopted. The ballot proving unanimously in favour of the proposed candidates, Bros. J. W. D. Pillow, J. F. Bacigalupo, and G. Rose Johnson, they were separately obligated and installed by the Int. Gen. The Historical Oration was exceedingly well delivered by the acting H.P. Sir Knts. Collins and Adames having signed, were presented with their Grand Conclave certificates. Various propositions for the welfare of the conclave having been disposed of, and two brethren duly proposed and seconded for installation, the conclave was solemnly closed at 9.45.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. John (No. 34).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in their own hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday evening, the 4th inst., Bro. D. M. Nelson, W.M., in the chair, supported by Bros. T. Fletcher, P.M., acting S.W.; P. Brownlie, J.W.; W. Bell, I.P.M.; J. McMillan, P.M.; J. D. Young, D.M.; T. B. Bell, S.M.; John Dick, Sec.; A. Cameron, S.D.; A. Carrick, Dir. of Music; and A. Peddie, I.G. Visitors: John Monro, W.M. Lodge Commercial 360; J. Davidson, P.M. 360; D. Reid, I.P.M. 465; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); and others. On the lodge being opened the Secretary read the minutes of last meeting, which were adopted. Bro. G. Baillie, of Lodge Clyde, No. 408, was elected a joining member and obligated by the W.M. Bros. Paterson, Wingate, A. Malcolm, and Isaac De Casseres were passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. T. B. Bell, S.M., and thereafter the above named brethren on account of having to leave the country in a few days were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. by Bro. Monro, W.M. 360. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the commodious side hall, where refreshments were served, Bro. Nelson, W.M., in the chair. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. "The Health of the newly-raised Brethren" was replied to by Bros. Wingate and De Casseres. "The W.M.," proposed by Bro. Fletcher, P.M., who replied. A number of other toasts followed. The brethren then separated, after spending an hour in harmony.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Union (No. 331).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, Buchanan-street, on Monday evening, the 3rd inst., Bro. D. McKirdy, W.M., in the chair; J. B. Macnair, I.P.M.; J. McInnes, S.W.; J. McInnes, S.M. 408, acting J.W.; John Laird, Treas.; J. H. Gill, Sec.; and others, and a very large attendance of members and visitors. Bro. G. Dickson was passed to the F.C. Degree, and Bros. Jardine (of Lodge Royal Arch, Pollockshaws, No. 153) and Dickson were then raised to the sublime degree of M.M., both ceremonies being ably gone through by Bro. McKirdy, W.M.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Caledonian Railway (No. 354).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, 30, Hope-street, on Wednesday evening, the 5th inst., Bro. A. B. Ferguson, W.M., occupied the chair, supported by Bros. John Harley, S.W.; Colin McKenzie, J.W.; D. Leitch, S.D.; and James Harley, J.D.; the meeting was particularly well attended by members and visiting brethren. Among the latter we noticed Bros. Julius Brodie, P.M. 360, and I.P.M. 541; W. Phillips, W.M. 556; W. J. E. Dobson, W.M. 571; Jasper Martin, D.M. 219; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; J. Brownlie, J.W. 34; T. Graham, J.W. 360; D. Reid, I.P.M. 465, and P.G.I.G.; W. Ferguson ("Freemason"); Michael F. Noel, Hiram Lodge No. 1, Connecticut U.S. of America; J. De Casseres, 34; N. Thomson, 581; W. Mabon, 581; and others. The lodge having been opened the W.M. proposed that Bro. W. Ferguson, P.M. 543, and Bro. H. Hardy, of Lodge Thistle, 87, be affiliated honorary members of the lodge for valuable services rendered by them, the same having met the unanimous consent of the brethren, they were then obligated by the W.M., and severally replied in suitable terms for the honour conferred. Bros. W. Chalmers, Peebles, J. McMillan, and A. Cruikshank were passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. Phillips, W.M. 556, in a very careful manner. The business being over the lodge was closed and the brethren adjourned to refreshment. The W.M. proposed "The Queen and the Craft," "The Three Grand Lodges of Glasgow," which were heartily drunk with all the accustomed honours. The S.W., Bro. Harley, proposed a special toast, to "The Health of their American Brother (Bro. Noel) which was enthusiastically responded to. Bro. Noel replied in a very feeling manner for the kind and welcome reception he received from the Scottish brethren, this being his first visit to a Scotch lodge. The J.W., Bro. McKenzie, proposed "The Visitors." Bro. De Casseres, 34, replied at some length. "The Health of the W.M." was proposed in capital style by Bro. Noel. Bro. Ferguson replied in suitable terms. The evenings' enjoyment was much enlivened by Bro. Hardy singing some excellent songs, and also gave some fine selections of music on the harmonium. After the last toast the brethren separated.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Commercial (No. 360).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in their hall 30, Hope-street, on Friday evening, the 7th inst. Bro. J. Monro, W.M., occupied the chair, supported by Bros. J. Brodie, P.M.; D. Lamb, D.M.; W. Findlay, S.M.; J. M. Oliver, S.W.; T. Graham, J.W.; G. Scott, Treas.; J. Smith, Sec.; W. Keiller, J.D.; R. Brodie, Dir. of Music; and J. Minnoch, Tyler. Among the visitors were Bros. W. J. E. Dobson, W.M. 571; D. Peacock, S.W. 581; J. Henry, J.W. 581; T. Harrison, 34; M. Barclay, 321; J. Allan, 399; John Smith, 94 (E.C.), and 1257 (E.C.); W. Ferguson, P.M. ("Freemason"); and a very full attendance of members. The lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting read and approved of. Mr. John McKechnie was initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry by Bro. D. Lamb, D.M. A brother was passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. J. M. Oliver, S.W. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, and a brother was raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason, Bro. Brodie, P.M., administering the obligation, and the W.M., Bro. Monro, performing the remainder of the ceremony in a most accurate and impressive manner. The lodge was then resumed on the E. A. Degree and closed.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Dramatic (No. 571).—A very largely attended meeting of this lodge took place on Wednesday, the 5th inst., at 3 p.m., in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, the W.M., Bro. W. J. E. Dobson, in the chair; H. W. Jackman, S.W., and W. Sivewright, J.W., with Bros. W. Barbour, Treas.; G. Weir, acting Sec.; R. S. Smyth, S.D.; Law Mitchell, J.D.; and J. Robertson, I.G. The W.M. was supported on the dais by Bros. Robt. Jack, W.M. St. John's, No. 128; J. Annand, Z. 144; and J. Findlay, S.M. 333. The lodge was opened in usual form, and the minutes of last regular meeting read and confirmed. The bye-laws, as drawn up by the committee appointed for that purpose, were then read clause after clause, and passed for the first time. Bro. Adam Gibb was then raised to the sublime degree of M.M. by Bro. W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"). The lodge was then closed.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF HERTFORD.

The meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Hertford, the Right Worshipful Bro. T. F. Halsey, M.P., presiding, was held at Cheshunt Great House, Cheshunt Park, on Saturday, the 8th inst., when a large number of brethren of the Gresham and King Harold Lodges (which jointly received Prov. Grand Lodge on this occasion) and from other lodges in the provinces, besides many visitors from other parts were assembled. We have before referred to that interesting relic of past ages—Cheshunt Great House—which by the kindness of Bro. the Rev. C. May is the home of the two lodges above-mentioned, so that we need not again describe it. On the occasion of our first visit the Gresham had only just become domiciled there, and we must confess that they, and we presume the sister lodge also—have done much to improve it as a comfortable habitation.

On the present occasion the Lodge business was transacted in a large upper apartment of the building, the lower room or banquetting hall being reserved for its more legitimate uses.

Among the brethren present we observed the following: No. 869—Bros. Gompertz, Copestick, Wylie, Penrice, Hughes, Cheese, Rignall, Etherington, Eugene Renard, E. Power, &c. No. 1327—Bros. Sheldon, Tydemann, Roper, Crockett, T. Reilly, Wyatt, Malcolm, Lacy, Gilbert Cox, F. Robinson, J. Knight, W. Bradstock, &c. No. 1580—Bros. J. D. Massey, J. L. Mathews, J. Hillier, C. K. Killick, Bauser H. Cox, &c. No. 504—Bros. E. Baxter, J. Winder, H. Lambert, W. Hendry, &c. No. 404—Bros. W. F. Green, Dawson, E. J. Foord; also Bros. Legg, 851; Bros. Boodts, 506; J. Taylor, 409; J. C. Cussans, 443; Pattison, 1385; H. C. Hearn, 403; S. Smith, 741; C. Henry, 201; E. C. Massey, 1267 ("Freemason"), and last though not least, our esteemed P.G. Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. W. Simpson.

The Prov. G. Sec. Bro. F. H. Wilson has having read the minutes of the last P. Grand Lodge, the Report of the Finance Board, upon the accounts, which had been printed and circulated, was ordered to be taken as read.

The P.G.S. having reported that the jewel of the P.G.P. was still missing, and that all endeavours to trace it had proved ineffectual.

Bro. Terry, P.G.D.C., proposed and the P.G.J.W. seconded a motion that a new jewel be provided which was carried.

The P.G. Secretary reported that the Bishops Stortford Lodge, of the removal of which Prov. G. Lodge had had notice, had intimated that the removal of the lodge had been duly reported to Grand Lodge.

Bro. Lowthier, P.G.S.W., P.M. 1385 and 1479:—Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, in accordance with the notice that I gave at the last meeting I have now to propose that the sum of twenty guineas be given to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. I am sure I need not add any remarks of my own to this proposition because you all know so well how useful that Institution is.

The motion was seconded by the P.G.J.W.

Bro. Lambert: Right Worshipful P.G.M., if mine be the only voice against it, I shall object to the proposed vote. Have the brethren considered the vast amount of funded property the Institution possesses? I understand they want to increase the size of the buildings and increase the number of girls received, and when they have got them they will not be able to spend their income. The speaker concluded by proposing that the money should not be voted, which was seconded by Bro. Ponsonwait.

Bro. Wylie supported the original motion as he thought that endeavours should be continued to extend the benefits of the Institutions.

Another Brother suggested that the donation should not be made till it was required. They knew that the Institution did not require it.

Bro. Iles, P.G. Secretary: I wish to ask a question, which perhaps Bro. Terry can answer. Is it not intended very much to enlarge the Institution?

Bro. Terry, P.P.D.C.: The project is to expend a very large sum of money, and to take another ninety-four children. At the next election in October there are some forty applicants, and they will only be able to take in eight or nine.

Bro. Lambert inquired whether it would take £42,000 to provide for the reception of ninety-four children.

Bro. Terry: I understand that is the contract price for the arrangements for building and furnishing.

The P.G.M. then put the motion, which was carried.

Bro. Carter moved, and P.G.S.W. seconded that the sum of twenty guineas be added to Bro. Campkin's list, which was agreed to.

Bro. Carter: I rise with very great pleasure to propose a vote of £10 to the Gresham and King Harold Lodges, towards the expenses of receiving Provincial Grand Lodge, but I think that they should have afforded a little light refreshment before the assembling of Provincial Grand Lodge, as many brethren have come from thirty to forty miles to attend.

The motion was seconded by P.G. Secretary and carried unanimously.

Bro. Gompertz: Now that the motion is disposed of, I beg to explain that the lodges referred to had laboured under considerable disadvantages. They had only been in possession of this place a few months, and had had a great deal to do in cleaning and decorating, and making it as comfortable as possible. They had been at considerable expense of labour, time and money, the old hall was some hundreds of years old, and required a good deal of work to make it presentable. They had, as he had said, had a great deal to do, and he trusted that P.G. Lodge would, with true Masonic Charity, bear with them and forgive the oversight to which Bro. Carter had referred.

Bro. Lambert: The next proposition has been entrusted to me by Bro. Wilson, P.P.G.J.W. It is, that this Provincial Grand Lodge do consider the desirability of publishing a Masonic Calendar for the province. The speaker went on to say that people must have some amusement in the country, and he did not know anything more agreeable for Masons than visiting at each others' lodges; and for this purpose it was very desirable that they should have fuller information than they now possessed of the dates and places of meeting of all the lodges in the province. There were also places of interest in the province that it would be very delightful to have further information about. For instance, there was this magnificent house in which they were assembled, which belonged to almost the E. period, and would probably take us back as far as Henry II., and forward again to James II., about which would be very interesting if they had special information, and if such could be embodied in the calendar of the province, he thought the brethren would agree with him that it would be highly desirable.

The motion was seconded by Bro. Young.

Bro. Taylor: No doubt many brethren will say that this is a good notion, while others will argue that we should avoid putting too much in print with regard to Masonry. Publicity is necessary as regards the charities, because we want to know the times of the various meetings and so forth, and I think this Calendar will do good in that respect. As members of the Craft we believe and hope that all men are willing and able to do what they can for themselves, but as these calendars after a time will be very widely dispersed, I think that unscrupulous men will use them, and ride about the province taking each individual lodge in succession, canvassing them for their own purposes. The Calendar would no doubt be useful, but I fear that difficulties will arise in years to come when it may be used in a manner we do not now contemplate. I think it is a matter that requires consideration before we adopt it.

Bro. Carter: I shall propose that a committee be formed during the forthcoming year to consider the desirability of publishing a Masonic Calendar for the province.

The Prov. Grand Master: Before I put this question I should like to say a few words myself, because it is a question I have considered, but I am bound to say that I wish the brethren to do exactly as they please, without their chairman making a speech much on one side or the other. But at the same I will say this, I cannot see the great objection to a Calendar that is under proper control as to the matter that is published in it. I think the province is getting so large now, and lodges are so scattered, that Masons in one part have but little opportunity of knowing what is doing in other parts of the province. A Calendar, which would contain all the detailed information is therefore very desirable. We are told that we can obtain this from the official Calendar of the Grand Lodge.

This is not quite correct; it is right as regards London lodges, but not as to provincial lodges. For instance, if we look at No. 869, we find that it meets on the first Wednesday or first Thursday, but not the months in which the meetings are held. Then as regards the publication of the names, it would be, I think, a great convenience to see at a glance who the officers and leading brethren of a lodge are, although of course one is supposed to know it; and it will become more difficult as lodges increase in number. We can of course find any information out of the books, but by having it in a Calendar we have it in a condensed form. When a matter is brought before me I can refer to my Calendar and see who the officers are without applying to the Secretary to send me a list. I cannot see that the question of improper applications for charity applies. I do not think it would be necessary to publish all the names of brethren in the province, and it seems to me that an unprincipled person seeking to make an improper use of the Calendar would find that it would entail more trouble than he would care to undertake. I do not see why the information should not be confined to the ordinary list of officers of the lodges, but I would point out in the case of any names no addresses are printed, and therefore I apprehend that the Masonic beggar would be unable to make out a programme. If he came to Waltham Cross he would find when he got there that a great many of those brethren lived in London; therefore, I think the risk is infinitesimal, and the question is the expense. Bro. Carter has published in a very public spirited manner, a calendar, but of course the question would be whether a sufficient number of brethren would support it to make it worth his while, if the brethren approve of the principle of this Calendar in the province.

[The conclusion of this report will be given next week.]

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of this Institution was held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Benjamin Head in the chair, Bros. C. A. Cottebrune, Levy, J. Newton, Stephens, John G. Stevens, J. A. Farnfield, Charles Lacey, Hyde Pullen, L. Stean, Thos. W. White, Lane, H. Massey ("Freemason").

James Terry (Secretary) was also present.

After the reading and confirmation of the minutes the Secretary announced the deaths of two annuitants.

The Warden's report was also read, and in it was contained the information that Dr. Strong had presented the institution with 200 bedding out plants, which his gardener had planted. A vote of thanks was then unanimously passed to Dr. Strong for the gift.

The Financial Committee's report was as follows:—

Bro. Terry stated that out of the £9174 subscribed at last festival, all had been collected except £216. He also informed the Committee that he had received a letter from one of the old ladies whom the Committee had taken on to the fund without election, thanking them for what they had done. He further read a letter of thanks from Miss Norris for being elected Matron of the Asylum.

In answer to a question Bro. Terry said that the Cripplegate Lodge, which he consecrated three weeks ago, subscribed on the right of consecration £50 to the Benevolent Institution.

The proceedings terminated with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

Masonic and General Tidings.

St. John's Gate has changed hands, and belongs again to the very Order of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem who formerly possessed it. Bro. Sir Edmund Lechmere, M.P., has purchased the building. One of the upper rooms is in course of restoration for the purpose of serving as a chapel.

Bro. Alderman Hadley has met with a slight accident, which has rendered him lame, but not so as to prevent his attendance to his official duties.—"City Press."

The sum received at the Mansion House on behalf of the Metropolitan Hospital Sunday Fund amounts to about £26,500.

The Prince and Princess of Wales have signified their intention of visiting the Crystal Palace on Wednesday next, when they will be accompanied by the King and Queen of Greece. It being the first visit of the Prince to the Crystal Palace since his return from India, the occasion promises to be one of special interest.

Apartments are being prepared at Piershill Barracks, Edinburgh, for Bro. H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, who will arrive there with his regiment on the 29th inst.

The members of the Navy Club gave their annual dinner to Bro. the Right Hon. George Ward Hunt at the First Lord of the Admiralty, on Wednesday evening at Willis's Rooms.

The consecration of the West Middlesex Lodge, No. 1612, will take place this (Saturday) afternoon, at 3.30, at the Ealing Institute, Ealing. The ceremony will be worked by the Grand Secretary. A full report of the proceedings will appear in our next.

The ceremony of consecration and installation will be worked on Wednesday next, at 7 o'clock, by Bro. Terry, at the Finsbury Park Lodge of Instruction, No. 1288, held at the Finsbury Park Tavern, Seven Sisters Road, Holloway. Bro. P. Dickinson, Preceptor. The brethren to assemble in full Masonic costume.

Bro. S. Pollitzer, P.M., 1077, P.Z. 188, 538, has been honoured by His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria with the "golden cross of merit with the crown" for his great services rendered at the International Exhibition.

The appointment of Lord Suffield as Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., as announced in the "Freemason" of May 6th has been officially confirmed. The installation will take place in October.

An evening costume recital, comprising dramatic, vocal, and instrumental selections, will take place on Monday next at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, for the benefit of Bro. Edgar Anderson.

The City of London Flower Show, originally fixed to take place on Tuesday, 11th inst., was postponed until Thursday, 13th inst., to meet the wishes of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Teck.

Bro. Sir E. Lechmere was introduced to the House of Parliament on Monday last, and after the usual oaths, took his seat as member for West Worcestershire.

The Chapter of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in England have voted the silver medal to Constant Van Hoydonck, the steward, and the bronze medal to the youth, Henry Trousselott, with velleum certificates, for their intrepid conduct on board the Lennie. The medals have been sent for the recipients to the Netherlands and Belgian Ministers.

The Rev. Dr. I. Strauss, Jewish minister of Bradford, has been appointed Chaplain of the Lodge of Harmony (600), Bradford. The greater number of the members of the lodge (including the Master) are Christians, and the appointment is therefore all the more gratifying. We can only regret there are still a few countries where the ruling principles of Freemasonry are disregarded by Masons, and Jews excluded by reason only of their faith. We question whether the time has not arrived for English Jewish Masons (an enormous number) to take a more spirited action in this matter. The act of the late Mr. Faudell in the Grand Lodge of England about a quarter of a century ago in raising an objection to the admission of the Crown Prince of Prussia (the present Emperor) on the ground of the exclusion of Jews from German lodges, is still remembered, and its significance should not be lost upon young and active Jewish Masons of the present day.—"Jewish Chronicle."

A report of the proceedings at the Summer Festival of the William Preston Lodge will appear in our next.

The fête of the National Temperance League at the Crystal Palace on Tuesday was very successful. The total number of visitors was 33,980. Towards the close of the day a banquet was held in the Grand Saloon, when about 400 persons took their seats, and listened to an able address from Mr. Richardson, M.D., F.R.S.

DAYLIGHT reflected in dark rooms. Gas superfluous in day time. Health, comfort, and economy promoted by adopting Chappuis' Patent Daylight Refracting Manufactory, 69, Fleet-street, London.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Safe, yet Effective.—No other Medicine combines the same purifying, alternative, and tonic properties, which have raised these Pills so highly in the estimation of the public. In diseases arising from unhealthy situations, close apartments, and sedentary occupations, no means so potent for cooling, cleansing, and regulating the human body can be found. Holloway's Pills wonderfully improve a weak digestion by augmenting the gastric secretion and moderately rousing the function of the liver, hence their well-known power of removing tainted breath, and remedying every other dyspeptic unpleasantness. They entirely overcome the lethargic symptoms attending bad digestion, and have for years been esteemed the best and safest family aperient. They are particularly suitable for young females and children.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 15, 1876.

THE PROGRESS OF THE CONTROVERSY.

The readers of the "Freemason" will be aware that an animated controversy is going on in its weekly columns with reference to the last meeting of Grand Lodge and the vote it came to on the proposition of our distinguished Bro. P.G. Warden, John Havers. So far, the contest seems rather one-sided, to speak the truth, both as to argument and opinion, as with the exception of Bro. Baxter Langley, a somewhat dangerous ally, our good brother P.G.C., R. J. Simpson seems to stand alone, whatever he may have done in Grand Lodge. Indeed, we have reason to believe that a widespread feeling of regret exists in the Craft in respect of the hasty decision of Grand Lodge. The argument of Bro. Havers is, we believe, as we have always said, unanswerable, logically and Masonically, and we feel bound to reiterate our honest conviction, that no more hollow, unreal, mistaken cry ever was heard than the denominational one by which many were induced to give a vote "in haste," which, we believe, they have already repented of "at leisure." When we look at the whole question as now before us many considerations must arise before the mind of the thinking Mason. The result, so far, is a "deadlock;" as even supposing that a committee be appointed in September nothing can be done until the Grand Lodge meeting in January, and by that time all immediate interest in the proposal itself as a present act of grateful recognition must have died away. Those who so voted for the postponement of Bro. Havers's motion forget the old adage, ever true, "Bis dat qui dat cito." Another point clearly before us is this, that any proposed appropriation to the Charities will be met by a strenuous and earnest opposition on the part of a very large number of brethren who detest selfishness and dislike unreality. The only possible proposal would be the creation of one or more scholarships, and even that proposal is attended with serious difficulties, as it is, Grand Lodge funds we are proposing to deal with, not the voluntary offerings of brethren of the Craft. After the response made to the appeals of our Charities in this year of Light and Grace, 1876, by our generous brotherhood, it would be worse than idle, indeed, it would be too absurd to ask Grand Lodge to make a specific grant to any of our great institutions. We are among those who have the gravest doubts as to the constitutional propriety of Bro. R. J. Simpson's amendment. We apprehend that really and truly no motion and no distinct amendment involving special action can come before Grand Lodge which has not been previously submitted to the Board of Masters. The Book of Constitutions, page 20, distinctly states that "any member of the Grand Lodge intending to make motion therein, or to submit any matter to its consideration, shall at a such general committee state in writing the nature of his intended motion or business that the same may be read. No motion or other matter shall be brought into discussion in the Grand Lodge unless it shall have been previously communicated to this general committee." And the Book of Constitutions gives the following simple yet good reason for this wholesome enactment in the same section, at the same page. "It being essential to the interests of the Craft that all matters of business to be brought under the consideration of the Grand Lodge should be previously known to the Grand Officers and Masters of lodges, that through them all the representatives of lodges may be apprised of such business, and be prepared to decide thereon without being taken by surprise." Brother F.G.C. Simpson gave notice constitutionally to the Board of Masters of a specific motion which he withdrew in Grand Lodge, but the amendment which he proposed was entirely distinct alike in meaning and scope, and ought, we feel certain, to have been submitted to the Board of Masters, in order to make it a valid motion. We are well aware that the law of amendment is a very wide one in public bodies and in general meetings, but as a Grand Lodge we are governed by certain regulations, which are to us as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and properly so, for the welfare and safety of us all alike. Bro. Simpson had clearly a right to meet Bro. Havers's motion with a direct negative, but having withdrawn his own original motion submitted to the Board of Masters, he was bound, in our humble opinion, also to submit his amendment, which became practically a new motion, to the Board of Masters. Our brethren will see, we think, the important question involved in the subject under discussion, and so strongly do we feel on the point, that had we been present in Grand Lodge we should certainly have raised the question on this point of order. But another doubt comes in. Must not Bro. R. J. Simpson's amendment, if it is constitutional per se, be confirmed? We think so for the following reasons:—Though not verbally a "motion for a grant of money," see page 27, sec. 8, Book of Constitutions, it is essentially and practically so, as being preparatory to such a motion, and therefore requires confirmation. Remembering, for instance, the practice of the House of Lords, how jealously the privileges of the House of Commons are guarded, in respect of a money vote, or any resolution approaching to implying a money vote, we feel that such a motion as that of Bro. Simpson's, which is but the first step to a vote of money by Grand Lodge, requires confirmation. Had Bro. Havers's motion been carried, it must have been confirmed, and we apprehend that Bro. Simpson's motion requires confirmation also, because it is by implication a motion practically to bring about a "grant of money." Whether or no, the constitutionality of the amendment per se can be substantiated, must be left to the proper authorities, and next meeting of Grand Lodge, and we only express our humble but careful opinion on the subject "quantum valet." A suggestion has been made in our columns, that the £2000 should be raised by subscriptions amongst our brotherhood. We heartily approve of such a proposal, and shall be happy to further it in any way in our power, which may appear desirable to its zealous promoters. If any of our readers wish to express their opinion on the matter, we shall be willing, within due bounds, to give them space in our columns, though just now, and for some months to come, the "Freemason" will be kept down to its normal issue of 16 pages.

PEACE OR WAR.

Let us hope that the good Angel of Peace may yet interfere and arrest the progress of a civil war in the East, and the ruin and destruction of a harmless population. Some of the accounts of the atrocities in Bulgaria, committed by the Bashi Bazuks and Redifs, are too awful to credit, and we hope a prompt denial will be given to them, especially the sale of Bulgarian girls, the torture of Bulgarian men, and the dishonour of Bulgarian women. If these accounts be in any manner verified the fact must take away all sympathy on the part of Englishmen and Freemasons for any Government, Turkish or other, which permits such detestable horrors. In the meanwhile we may console ourselves with the reflection that so far the telegraphic news on both sides is equally unreliable, consisting apparently for the most part of defeats which have never taken place and of battles which have never been fought.

NOTICE TO CONTRIBUTORS AND CORRESPONDENTS.

Some complaints having been made of the length of our "lodge reports, &c.," as until our Masonic Lodge life begins again the "Supplement" from time to time will be discontinued, we think it well to say that during the summer months, as we deem not unseasonable or unreasonable, we shall use our editorial privilege very freely of condensing and abbreviating the sometimes too elaborate effusions of our many kind contributors and valued correspondents. Publisher and Editor beg alike, warmly to thank many sincere and zealous friends for favours past and present, an earnest, they hope, of many similar favours yet to come.

ANOTHER PAMPHLET.

"The cry is still they come."—Shakespeare.

As another pamphlet is circulating in the good Province of West Yorkshire, and so far, not like its memorable predecessor, "suppressed," I have thought it right to take upon myself the responsibility of treating it as a public, and certainly a most personal document, and publishing it in the columns of the "Freemason" for the information of all whom it may concern. My first impression was to write a letter to Bro. Kenning on the subject with "extracts," but had I done so, I felt persuaded that I should have at once been met by the asseveration that I had only given "garbled extracts." I have, therefore, thought it better to publish the pamphlet in "extenso," so that all may peruse its "ipsissima verba," harmless as they really are in themselves, recalling the old line at once, "willing to wound, but yet afraid to strike." I think, too, that those of my brethren who read this "last pamphlet," as well as those who are assailed by it, will probably laugh at it as heartily as I have done, though, with myself, they will feel great pity for the brother Freemason, who could pen, much less print and circulate, so un-Masonic a pamphlet. How far such a "production" is within or without our own Masonic laws, is a matter for serious consideration, but for obvious reasons, public and personal, I feel sure that it is for the best, that the entire Craft should have the opportunity of appreciating such a remarkable specimen of classic English and brotherly good taste. When the suppressed pamphlet appeared, (clearly libellous and actionable), it ought also to have been printed for the animadversion and condemnation of the entire Craft, but that was not done on purely Masonic grounds, and the higher feelings of Masonic consideration. But the repetition of this odious system of pamphleteering attacks, in my opinion leaves no alternative to those who like myself, despise libellous and slanderous attacks, whether those of the surreptitious or the open defamer. I do not think it well to allude to any of the personal attacks on myself, as they are beneath notice, and I can well afford to leave them to the fraternal consideration of numerous friends and brethren up and down the country, at home and abroad, who will give me credit, I know for, habitual courtesy and gentlemanly behaviour, and Masonic good feeling on all occasions. Indeed, my motto all through my life generally and Masonically has been, "Honour all men." Neither do I think it befitting in me to allude to the insult offered to the Quarterly Court in calling it a "packed meeting," or by implication to our distinguished Bro. J. Clabon, who so well presided over that numerous assembly of brethren from all parts of England. Let it be remembered that only some half-dozen, or thereabout, hands were held up, positively against the overwhelming majority of nearly 200 who voted for the needful motion of confidence generally in the executive. Neither do I dwell upon the attack on Bro. Col. Ridgway, well able gallantly to defend himself. He was not the only brother who had to complain of unseemly interruption. Neither do I comment on the attack on the House Committees, both of the Boys' and the Girls' School, nor the modest proposal, having just before praised the economical government of the Girls' School, to change its House Committee, as well as the Boys'. In all truth, the best answer to all these foolish statements and suggestions is to be found, in the determination of all other provinces in England to support the Executive authorities of the School, and to condemn that hateful personal feeling which has been introduced into this unseemly controversy. But I must ask attention to three passages in the pamphlet. When Bro. Tew compares the Investigation Committee as he calls it, with the Charity Committee of the Province over which I had the honour to preside in 1869, he makes use of an illustration almost too puerile to notice. The one was the Constitutional Committee of the Province, acting in aid of the Boys' School, under the special approval of the P.G.M., and raising money towards that very expenditure openly which has now been condemned as extravagant. The other is a committee, in my opinion, unconstitutionally appointed originally, and illegal, according to the minutes of the Provincial Grand Lodge itself. But let that pass. Indeed, I for one look upon the Report as nothing but a censure cast upon the Charity Committee, and the Provincial Grand Lodge in 1869, which unanimously voted £500 towards the very building expenses which are now called in question. The statement at page 2, that Bro. Tew's "previous pamphlets" were "replies," in part, to Bro. Henry Watson's lucid and peaceful pamphlet in 1873 (the first pamphlet in this trumpety business having been published in 1875), is one of the most astounding that I have ever read in my whole life. The naive admission also, at page 2, that "without the private pamphlets acting as a preliminary to prepare the way, the Investigation Committee could not have so soon come to their conclusion," must be felt to be extremely flattering by the "Investigation Committee," and I recommend such a passage to the notice especially of Bro. Gill, who knows as well as any one the legal value of "ex parte" informations. With this little preface I leave the "last Pamphlet" to tell its own tale, in its "unadorned eloquence" and literal truthfulness. It is, indeed, a sad commentary alike on Masonic professions and Masonic brotherhood!

July 10th, 1876.

A.F.A.W.

I cannot omit one little amusing instance of the "animus" of the writer. In the first issue of the pamphlet, which is the copy here printed from, the D.P.G.M. of West Yorkshire, had stated that I was "late of the Fidelity Lodge." I never had the honour of belonging to the Fidelity Lodge in my life, being a member of the Philanthropic, 304, a fact which must and ought to have been known to the D.P.G.M. of a province, who has all the lodge returns before him, and, indeed, was well known to him. In another issue of the pamphlet these words are marked through with ink, without any acknowledgment of a private letter on the subject, or any expression of regret at so very peculiar a mistake.

THE GRANGE, CARLETON,
PONTEFRAC, 30th May, 1876.

To the Secretary of the Philanthropic Lodge, No. 304, Leeds.
Dear Sir and Brother,

I beg you will convey to the W.M. and brethren of your lodge my gratitude for their resolution received this day, which is the more peculiarly welcome on account of the circumstances attending the Rev. F. A. Woodford's resolution of the 10th of April before the Quarterly Court, in Freemasons' Hall.

I rejoice to think the lodges of West Yorkshire are beginning to understand the gravity of that resolution, and that the reception the representatives of the West Yorkshire Investigation Committee, and the other West Yorkshire brethren, met with at the hands of that reverend gentleman, and the members of the Quarterly Court, was of the rudest and most ungracious description. But it is for the lodges of West Yorkshire to say whether they will quietly sit down under the stigma cast upon the province by that resolution, or whether, and in what manner, they will stand by the report of their own investigation into the R.M.I. for Boys at Wood Green.

I, for my part, have done my duty, without fear or favour, in analysing the official reports for the information of the Craft; and feel that I never can again advocate the claims of the Masonic Boys' School upon the brethren of West Yorkshire unless a great reformation is accomplished in the financial, educational, and internal arrangements of that Charity.

My convictions I shall not abate, but I give this testimony that in all I have written or said, I have been influenced by the most ardent desire to promote the reformations, and the ultimate welfare of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, for which I feel sure that those who know me best will give me credit.

I assure the brethren of your lodge that I have anxiously investigated every statement and account presented in the published authorised official reports of the school for the last six years, and in the pamphlets I have issued thereon. The various statements contained in them have never yet been disproved, and I am convinced that those brethren who have the leisure and the will to study the past history of the Boys' School, and investigate the accounts set forth in the official reports, will not fail to arrive at the conclusion of the Investigation Committee, that the management of the Boys' School, on moral, educational, and financial grounds, calls for a thorough remodelling.

I defend the circulation of the pamphlets and Investigation Report for the reason that it would have been utterly hopeless to appeal to those, who through the indifference of Life Governors and other subscribers, have so long been responsible for the past and present state of affairs at the School. Those pamphlets were replies to those of Bro. Henry Watson, S.W., No. 1386, published 1873; to the letter of the Boys' School Secretary, 19th

June, 1875, his Festival Circular, 7th July, 1875, and to the pamphlet of June, 1875, already openly characterized as weak, offensive, and evasive.

I found out a year ago that had any one ventured to question such venerable senators as the Executive of the House Committee on their management, or want of management, of the institution, he would have been voted out of order and laughed at for his enquiry, for the object of the House Committee seems to be to stifle all legitimate enquiry.

The Investigation Report was a report founded on all the statements in the Official Reports, while, without the private pamphlets acting as a preliminary to prepare the way, the Investigation Committee could not have so soon come to their conclusions; and although Mr. Woodford made a great point of what he professed to consider the unconstitutional and unprecedented appointment of the West Yorkshire Committee, you cannot have failed to notice that almost in the same breath he appealed to the labours of a previous committee of the same province, in which he himself took a prominent part. With the resolutions come to by that committee I do not in any way quarrel, they may have been perfectly justified; but our report covers the ground subsequent to that occupied by Mr. Woodford. His investigations terminate with 1869, when we take up the examination, with, however, a diametrically opposite result, showing a subsequent extravagance almost unparalleled in the history of such institutions.

A greater insult and slight were never cast upon a generous province than was done by the resolution of the Rev. A. F. Woodford, on the 10th April. Thirty brethren or more from the most influential lodges in this province hastily went up to London on the invitation of this resolution, a copy of which had been received from Mr. Binckes by the D.P.G.M. of West Yorkshire only four days before the meeting in Freemasons' Hall, one of those days being a Sunday. Was it not unfair thus to give West Yorkshire no time to organise supporters to face the Quarterly Court, which was on that occasion a packed committee on purpose to out-vote West Yorkshire, and which was determined not to hear one word the representatives of your Investigation Committee had to say?—Bro. Moss, the clerk of the Sheffield School Board, the member of the Investigation Committee, well qualified to speak on any educational question, being rudely and violently refused a hearing, and West Yorkshire being consequently degraded in the eyes of the Craft.

Our province has now £10,049 15s. invested in these Boys' Schools, and is in the possession of 2145 votes. Nearly one-seventh of the whole £75,145 18s. 3d. paid by the voluntary subscriptions of the Craft for the schools and the maintenance of boys, as per the Official Reports, has been contributed by West Yorkshire, leaving to all the other provinces of Grand Lodge six-sevenths divisible amongst them. Was then the conduct of the Quarterly Court to Bro. Moss, candid or just to the representatives of such a generous province? Was the Rev. A. F. Woodford, the former chairman of the West Yorkshire Charity Committee, justified in forcing his resolution upon a packed meeting? From his sacred calling, and being P. Prov. C. of West Yorkshire, he ought to have been the first to advocate that West Yorkshire brethren should have been listened to with respect; and had this been the case, the important information in possession of West Yorkshire would have been brought before the court, and probably the vote upon his resolution suspended. But the London Executive were afraid of truth, and West Yorkshire was treated with the grossest disrespect. The brethren have, however, a great, a noble, and a just cause in hand, the reformation of the management of these schools, and West Yorkshire will, I doubt not, take up the matter and work out the solution in its own earnest and ready manner.

Contrast the reception which the Governors gave to the West Yorkshire brethren with that accorded to Bro. Ridgway, who, when a mild "No" was occasionally interposed in the course of his oration, as an indication that he was outstepping the bounds of truth, and as a warning that a full contradiction was forthcoming, with a lion-like roar asserted his determination not to be "put down by clamour," and then refer to the list of subscriptions and donations to the Boys' School, and ascertain how much he and his province do for the institution in which he professes so loud an interest. Compare for instance the £37 16s. contributed by Devonshire, with its 41 lodges and 14 chapters, in the year 1874 (the last published account), in 15 donations, with the £662 11s. contributed during the same time by West Yorkshire, with its 59 lodges and 19 chapters, in 68 donations, and then say which province has shown its practical interest in the institution—which has most stones in the building.

Bro. Ridgway was the chairman of the sham Investigation Committee which sat in Freemasons' Hall last November, and the mention of his name will remind you of the document to which he then put his name, and which was intended to have the effect of endorsing the acts of the Boys' School Committee. Why was not Bro. Winn's sensible suggestion to have a professional accountant adopted?

The antecedent facts were: Under the head of "Gratuities to (with grants and outfits for) boys on leaving the institution," a sum amounting to £124 5s. is not accounted for, and cannot be found in any of the authorised published Official Reports of the Boys' School, and no subsequent act of the committee can now place it there, although they may perhaps give some explanation of its absence. The money is not accounted for in the manner in which it should have been accounted for; of that there can be no doubt in the mind of any one who will examine the reports, and the Select Committee must at once have discovered that fact. In this strait what did they do? They went to some pigeon-hole in the Secretarial Office, and obtained certain receipts which they carefully packeted, and labelled as A, B, or C, these being the receipts whose existence was ignored in the Official Reports, but which should have modified the statements therein published. With these receipts in hand, the Committee announce that the £124 5s. is duly "accounted for;" a matter none of us ever disputed, our stand-point being that it was not accounted for in the Official Reports, which were therefore fallacious and misleading. The wish that all might seem right begat doubtless the happy finding of that November Committee which was to silence all further enquiries.

Let me now instance a comparison in reference to cost or capital expenditure. Bro. R. W. Little, the Secretary of the Girls' School, has informed me that when the present alterations at St. John's Hill are completed, over 200 girls will be domiciled at that Masonic institution. The total capital outlay, including these alterations, will be between £29,000 or £30,000; but Wood Green, with beds for 181 boys (and only 177 said to be in the school) has cost £56,926 9s. 6d. For the cost of Girls' School, maintenance of fabric, and the clothing and education of these 200 girls or more, Mr. Little asks from the Craft as annual expenditure, only £8479; whilst in 1874 the same costs for 177 boys in Wood Green amounted to £10,075, according to the Investigation Report, and on the 10th of April, the Quarterly Court, without the Governors and subscribers being allowed to express an opinion, "authorised the payment of £2000 purchase money for the freehold of Kent House, with land required as a sanatorium."

This being so, let us enquire what this property is, and why it should be purchased at so large an expenditure of charitable funds. The house was itself till some nine or ten months ago in the possession of a case maker in Gray's Inn-road, who held the remainder of the lease, some 17 years out of 88. The property was offered for sale some 18 months previously to being taken as a sanatorium, and the only land belonging to it is a small strip of garden ground. Its rooms are small, and no doubt another two or three hundred pounds will have to be spent to adapt them for the purposes of dormitories, &c. It is about 50 yards away from the institution, on the opposite side of the roadway, has the appearance of being damp, and has been considered, by a brother competent to value, not to be worth more than £800 or £1000. If it is necessary to build an infirmary, with dormitories for fever patients and general ailments, could not one have been erected at considerably less cost than Kent House and site on a portion of the orchard at the back of the farm buildings belonging to the school? I point to this Kent House matter as an instance of how the voluntary subscriptions of the brethren are to be appropriated.

Your West Yorkshire Charity report, 25th March, 1876, says, "The institution has only £2000 funded property, and is greatly in need of subscriptions and donations." Let me add to this statement that the £2000 was invested by the London Executive, 6th November, 1875, at the time the West Yorkshire Committee was sitting at Leeds enquiring into how £2257 10s. for West Yorkshire presentations in 1870 and 1872 have been expended, and may fairly be considered as the mere capitalization of those West Yorkshire presentations.

The last Official Report says, "Important changes have taken place in the Instruction Department." These changes of Masters must be detrimental to the educational efficiency of the school. There were two new Masters in 1874, eleven in 1875; and, again, there are six new Masters, April, 1876, who it is said decline to comply with the terms for service sought to be "imposed" upon them.

Take the examinations of Christmas 1875. The Cambridge lists show that of 18 boys sent up for examination only 14 passed. Both the seniors failed. Of 174 boys "in" the school, seven of the boys out of the 14 who passed last Christmas, were boys who passed the same examination in December 1874. So that only seven new boys succeeded at Christmas 1875. Yet these educational failures have cost on an average the sum of £54 10s. 3d. each boy. On the other hand, the boys from the London Orphan Asylum at Watford, who were submitted to a similar intellectual trial, as candidates at the Oxford Local Examination, all passed, one boy as a Senior, with the title of Associate in Arts; five boys being Juniors, with a certificate.

But there are even greater allegations against the management of this most costly institution. Two boys have recently died at the school, one being a West Yorkshire boy. What were the circumstances attending the deaths of these boys? Other boys, it would appear, are likewise not treated with that motherly care in this institution which the Governors and subscribers to the schools, as the guardians of the orphan Boys, have a right to expect. I hope for the "honour" of the Craft that there will be spirit enough to enquire both how the boys when poorly are treated, and what has been the position of the Assistant Masters at Wood Green.

Lastly, look at the composition of the House Committee. You will find Messrs. Browne, Chancellor, Dubois, Head, and Paas were certainly nominated in 1869, if not considerably before this date. You will also find that Bros. Henry Browne, Henry Dubois, Benjamin Head, William Paas, and Raynham Stewart are on the list of members of the House Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. These Charities are managed by a clique. Are not some of them domiciled foreigners? How can foreigners understand about the management of English charitable institutions? The gentlemen of 1869 might very well retire in favour of other brethren. A large mixture of Yorkshire independence and energy might influence the rest of the Committee to inquire into the matters complained of in the West Yorkshire Investigation Report, and lead to a thorough remodelling of the schools.

On the other side is a copy of the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford's resolution, late of Fidelity Lodge, No. 289.

Again thanking your lodge for the resolution of confidence, I remain, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,
THOMAS WILLIAM TREW.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

Quarterly General Court, Freemasons' Hall, Monday, April 10, 1876. Twelve o'clock at noon.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

At the Court to be held as above, the following notice of motion will be submitted:—

By V.W. Bro. Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G. Chaplain, and P. Prov. G.W. West Yorkshire.—That, having in view recent imputations cast on the administration of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, this Court deems it to be its duty to express its unabated confidence in the House and Audit Committees and executive.

Your attendance at half-past twelve, if not inconvenient to you, will be esteemed a favour by, dear Sir and Brother,
Yours faithfully and fraternally,

F. BINCKES.

Original Correspondence.

THE M.W.G.M. AND GRAND LODGE.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother.—

I have perused with a very considerable amount of interest the correspondence and the articles that have from time to time appeared in your journal upon the matter that was brought before Grand Lodge at the last Quarterly Communication to commemorate Masonically H.R.H. the M.W.G.M.'s safe return from India, and I must confess that I as a Mason am exceedingly surprised that the subject in question, which should have been decided unanimously, has led to the public ventilation of many very unseemly party and sectarian opinions. The "unenlightened" are led to believe that we are a "band of brothers," but what must they now think when they read in the columns of the press that there is not only a divided opinion upon the proposed Grand Lodge Commemoration, but that religious and almost anti-religious observations and denominational personalities are freely indulged in by those who have all voluntarily enlisted in that noble cause, whose glorious "semper eadem" should be "loyalty, unity, and charity." There is no doubt that our M.W.G.M. is deeply touched by the reception he has received from all classes of the community upon his safe arrival home, after undergoing great fatigue and no little danger whilst performing that which was—whatever may be said to the contrary—a national necessity, but I most respectfully beg to express an opinion that it cannot but be distasteful to H.R.H. to know that many of the Masonic brotherhood have thought fit to make the proposed Craft memorial of his return not only a vexed question, but that they have also taken advantage of the opportunity to plunge into a sea of polemical discussion. Although I quite agree with many of your readers that a certain portion of one of your correspondent's letters had better have been left unwritten, yet the fact must not be lost sight of that notwithstanding Freemasonry owns no particular sect, among its numerous members are many men of high social and moral culture whose ideas upon certain topics are exceedingly broad and outré. My object in troubling you with this letter is to respectfully suggest to those prominent members of the Grand Lodge and others interested that in dealing with this question they will endeavour to bring such a scheme forward as will meet with the unqualified approval of the entire Craft, and thereby happily prevent a repetition of those heated and unfriendly arguments and oratorical displays—"pro and con"—which were indulged in at the last Quarterly Communication, otherwise the outer world will have good occasion to believe that our loyalty, unity, and charity exists but in our imagination. In "days of yore," when the Craft was in rather a precarious position, Masonic intelligence was very meagre and but rarely sought after, but as the cause has prospered most wonderfully within the last—comparatively—few years, and as every religious, political, and professional community has its public organ devoted to the promulgation of its ideas and doings, it was only right that Freemasons should have—what they have fortunately now got—a representative press. Public attention being for obvious reasons greatly drawn to the Craft, and as the publication "in extenso" of its proceedings is at the present time general, it should always be borne in mind that discussions and correspondence upon any Masonic mooted question should be conducted with a perfect freedom from denominational and other objectionable personalities, otherwise the very groundwork of our great Masonic profession, "brotherly love," will be regarded by the uninitiated as possessing merely a theoretical instead of a practical foundation.

In concluding this letter I think that one of our Rev. Bro. Simpson's suggestions, that a wing should be added to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution to Masonically commemorate the Prince of Wales's Indian visit and safe return, would meet with cosmopolitan approval.

The Boys' and Girls' Schools are, of course, objects of great interest to us, but their occupants are young, and, as a body, strong and healthy, and when discharged from those institutions are fit to enter, both morally and physically, for the "race of life;" but the benevolent objects of the other establishment are "in the sere and yellow leaf," and require every attention to render their declining years enjoyable.

It may, and very justly, be urged that there are more applications for admission into the schools than can be accommodated; but the majority of these applicants have the blessings of health and strength on their side, which the numerous petitioners for a participation of the benefits of the Benevolent Institution have not.

In common with many other members of the Craft, I sincerely hope that if anything is done to perpetuate our M.W.G.M.'s brilliant and successful tour to and from the sunny land of India, that the cause of those who when in the heyday of youth and prosperity courted and received "Masonic light," doubtless, little thinking that the time would arrive when penury and its attendant evils would necessarily compel them in the "sunset of life," to solicit its philanthropy, namely, the "poor and distressed Masons" will not be forgotten.

Yours truly and fraternally,

OF PROPOSING (JOINING) MEMBERS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The courtesy of my assumed corrector, "W. S. L.," demands from me some recognition of his letter in your last impression but one, as well as a brief explanation of the position taken up in the epistle which called it forth.

Prima facie, and unaided by any other light drawn from the Book of Constitutions than that which is derived from the clause he quotes (Rule 1, page 83), "W. S. L.'s" construction would appear to be unimpeachable; nevertheless, I think my view is the correct one after all, at all events, I have reason to know that the authorities at Grand Lodge hold that a brother cannot even be proposed as a joining member in open lodge, much less admitted or elected, unless the lodge be not only open but regular i.e., a regular meeting of the lodge according to its by-laws.

A gloss on the words "open lodge" would read, "Open lodge in this sense has always been construed as 'regular' lodge meeting." Why? Well, it is after all only by inference, deduction, and construction with another part of the Constitutions that we get at the reason.

At page 64, by Rule 9, it is enacted that "the business to be transacted at . . . (a) lodge of emergency shall be expressed in the summons, recorded on the minutes, and no other business shall be entered upon."

The authoritative jurists of the Craft rule that a proposition, when it can be legally made, is business, and no business (as we have seen) can be entered upon at a lodge of emergency that is not expressed in the summons.

As this explication to my mind did not dispose of every difficulty, I ventured to enquire further of one well skilled in the application of the law of the Craft, and thoroughly acquainted with the reading at head-quarters, what would be the effect, supposing that the summons for a lodge of emergency brought an intended proposition within the business expressed, and complied with the law by specifying after or among the other business for which the lodge of emergency was called "To propose for election at the next regular meeting of the lodge brother so and so, of such a lodge, &c.?" Nay, I contend, I can go farther than that. It is conceivable that a lodge of emergency could be called for the sole purpose of receiving the proposition of a brother as a joining member. Assume a case. A., a member of "Blue Apron" Lodge has a pressing desire to become also a member of Red Apron Lodge. Now, Red Apron Lodge adjourns from March to October. "No matter," says A. "plenty of time." In October my friend B. will propose me at the regular lodge meeting, and in November, at the next regular lodge meeting, I shall no doubt be duly elected." But behold, during the summer, events occur, which render it unavoidable, that between the October and the November meetings B. shall leave the country for, say eight or nine months. The reasons why B. might wish to expedite his admission to Red Apron Lodge will occur to most brethren; reasons sufficiently potent in his mind, we will assume, to induce him to offer personally to incur the entire expense of a lodge of emergency to be called in September for the sole purpose of proposing him in open lodge, that being the express and only business specified in the summons, in order that he may be duly admitted in regular open lodge meeting in October. Would that be legal? It seems difficult to say from the Book of Constitutions that it would not. I cannot find where the law in such an instance would have been left uncompleted with. I did not put the case to my friend with the detail I have used here, but supposed such a proceeding generally as an illustrative test. His reply was that according to inviolable and traditional construction a proposition of a joining member is not business that can be legally entered upon at a lodge of emergency. This seems to me to amount to a reliance upon the saving qualification expressed but unwritten, "when it can be legally made," which I cited some lines above, and to my mind partakes of that form of ratiocination which logicians describe as arguing in a circle, or as a lady might put it, "It isn't legal because it isn't." My esteemed and able friend, however, from whom I got the ruling, is of course not responsible for a construction that involves reading the second line of the rule as if the word "regular" were interpolated between the words "open" and "lodge," and the corollary, which, however, didn't strike me during the conversation, but, which I shall, by-and-bye, proceed to show is inevitable, that the word "meeting" must be implied as following the word "lodge."

My friend added that at all events such a case as I had assumed had never yet arisen, and I am inclined to think it is not at all likely to arise at any very early date, so that, to use a common saying, "We may take up that load when we come to it." Such an exceptional circumstance as the necessity to give notice in a circular convening a lodge of emergency of an intention at that meeting to propose a joining member to be balloted for (as he only could be balloted for) at the next regular lodge meeting is not so imminent that we need wait until it arises for an exposition of the general law in its practical application to cases constantly recurring.

Should such a course be taken, however, I am far from saying (and I am sure "W.S.L." will agree with me) that its legality would be absolutely unarguable, notwithstanding the eminent authority that has according to common report, put a gloss upon the constitution which seems to go beyond the foundation afforded by the text.

But I have promised to show that, to support what I may call head-quarters' reading, the text not only requires the interpolation of the word "regular," but the addition of the word "meeting." I proceed to do so.

In one sense it might be maintained perhaps that even an emergency meeting was a regular meeting. It is certainly a regular lodge, for our traditional law teaches us that it cannot be duly held without a certain strictly defined formality being observed, compliance with which we are taught alone renders the lodge regular, but the correctness of the contention of the authoritative expositors involves that a proposition for joining can only be made in open lodge at a regular lodge meeting, which is an implied extension of the term lodge, for a lodge is made regular by the presence of that which must absolutely be materially and actually in the room at the time. Now this presence obviously cannot convert an emergency meeting into a regular lodge meeting, however essential it may be to render any lodge, ordinary or emergent, regular. A regular lodge includes both regular and emergency meetings. A regular lodge meeting (with one exception, to which I will presently refer) must thus be ruled to be restricted to a meeting held on a day specified in the text of the warrant or charter of incorporation.

The exception is a consecration, which is commonly held on a day not specified in the charter, and would therefore, prima facie, seem to be a meeting coming within the category of emergency, however it is well known (I take it as concealed on all sides) that propositions both for members joining and initiating candidates are legally receivable at a consecration meeting; but here the distinction is said to be that at a consecration the presence of the M.W. the G.M., either in person or by duly constituted deputy, renders the meeting regular. Still, I own myself not quite satisfied on such a point as this, purely started as an illustration ex hypothesi, would such an attendance on another occasion than a consecration, convert what had been convened as an emergency meeting into a regular meeting, so as to legalize the receipt of propositions?

I hope I shall not be considered as writing dogmatically. I only profess to give the results of the information I have taken some pains to acquire. I would not for a moment pretend to speak ex cathedra. The lex scripta and lex non scripta, alike bristle with difficulties; and I am sure I for one most sincerely feel that all our thanks are due to W.S.L. for re-directing attention to this most interesting part of Masonic jurisprudence. It is, I think, much to be regretted that our Book of Constitutions is not examined and revised, so as to bring it more into accord with the present circumstances of the Craft, and in directness and simplicity more immediately available for the guidance of all its members. Good easy men, comparatively few in numbers, and less exposed, therefore, to complication of interests and clashing of objects, might, in the old times, have found no inconvenience in living under laws interpreted by inference, deduction, suggestion, and construction of one section by another divided from it by a score or two of pages; but, in the present day, when our brotherhood is numbered by hundreds of thousands—when men of high education, of tact, shrewdness, and business ability, are constantly under the necessity of referring for direction to its lex scripta, it is in the last degree desirable that the sources of their knowledge should appear in grammatical, exact, and unambiguous phraseology, and, if necessary and convenient for men personally able to construe language, how much more desirable is such clearness for our less highly-gifted brethren, who look to direct authority as a protection from bitter, profitless, and tedious textual disputes?

A law that is hazy and equivocal, that can only be interpreted by conjectures as to its meaning, by cross references, tradition often inaccurately handed down, suggestion, inference, deduction, and, worst of all, the weak argument in justification of ambiguity ab inconvenienti, is a law that, failing any enforceable sanction and depending for its exposition on varying individual opinion, ceases to be useful as a rule of conduct, and as often mischievously misleads as properly directs.

The point under discussion is not the only one that gives rise to varying interpretations of our code, as any member of the two boards will bear me witness. It seems very plausible to say "Oh, our laws were never intended to be scanned by microscopic eyes—brethren, men of honour, men of the world, would know well enough what it means; we don't want any legal technicalities, no petty-fogging hair splitting," but the more honourable men are the more likely are they not to come to a conclusion without good reasons well thought out, and the less likely they are to abandon a construction so conscientiously arrived at; and, where phraseology is capable of two constructions, it must be looked for that, however honourable men may be, they will sometimes differ as to which is correct. It is a cheap and easy indulgence to sneer at a lawyer's anxiety for clearness of definition and simplicity and accuracy of expression, and perhaps professionally that anxiety is not unnaturally kept within sufficient control, for if the man who makes his own will is the lawyer's best friend, by analogy, the statute which is a compound of the tinkering of non-professional men thinking of one subject and learned gentlemen desiderating another, should stand very high in the affections of the lawyer, who has attained the proverbial third stage in the legal career—a period when, to put it euphuistically, an augmentation of professional income is an object not wholly indifferent to the practitioner.

But to rule and govern the Craft by "it has always been understood," or "it is implied," or "we construe it thus or thus," is a system which it can be no one's interest to maintain. It reminds me of the old theory of the administration of equity. Two hundred years ago equity was derisively said to be as the size of the Chancellor's foot. Some Chancellor shall have a wide foot, some a narrow, some a long foot, some a short, some a high instep, some a flat sole. According to the size and shape of my lord's shoe so shall the Chancery suitor get his relief dealt unto him."

It is, however, no use discussing an evil without suggesting a remedy. Let Grand Lodge elect a committee from among the highly educated men who adorn it as members, and instruct this body to make a thorough and careful revision of the whole code, suggesting corrections or even alterations where necessary, and not shrinking from expanding by explanations or definitions. When finished let the proof-sheets of the suggested new edition of the Book of Constitutions be sent to every lodge under the English constitution, inviting suggestions and commentaries. These received, let them be considered by the committee, and their conclusions, in the shape of a report embodying the re-edited work, be laid before Grand Lodge to be dealt with according to its wisdom. Such an enterprise would take years to complete, but they would be years well employed. It would cost money, but it would be money well spent, and the boon to the Craft at large would be invaluable.

However, revenons à nos moutons, I think that with the kind assistance of "W. S. L." we have at last got a true and plain reading of the exact law on the point we have had under discussion, which may be thus summarised:—

A brother as a joining member must be visé voce proposed at one regular open lodge meeting and balloted for at the next regular lodge meeting.

To this rule there is no exception.

A candidate for initiation must be visé voce proposed at one regular lodge meeting, or at an emergency meeting, if the intention to propose him has been announced in the circular convening the emergency meeting, and balloted for at the next regular lodge meeting, or at an emergency meeting, if the intention to ballot for him has with all necessary particulars, been expressed in the circular convening such regular or emergency meeting.

To this rule there is the exception that under circumstances of emergency, of the stringency of which the W.M. is the sole judge, and certain well-known conditions being complied with, the nomination may be by writing out of lodge, instead of visé voce in open lodge, and initiation, on a successful ballot, may take place at the next regular or emergency meeting of the lodge.

Yours fraternally,

S.P., P.M., &c., &c.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The Quarterly Court of the supporters of this Institution was held last Saturday in the Board-room, Freemasons' Hall. Bro. J. M. Clabon, P.G. Deacon, presided over the meeting, which was composed of, among others, Bros. H. Hacker, C. F. Matier, Raynham W. Stewart, Pierce Egan, F. B. Davage, F. Adlard, R. Kenyon, Griffiths Smith, A. H. Fothershall, H. A. Dubois, C. A. Cottebrune, Hyde Pullen, Capt. Philips, H. Moore, L. Ruf, G. Bolton, J. Roper, J. F. Peacock, G. M. E. Snow, S. G. Foxall, D. Beare, E. Harris, H. M. Smith, Dr. Hogg, R. W. Wheeler, W. Roebuck, T. Meggy, H. Massey, ("Freemason"), W. Hedges, and R. W. Little, Secretary.

After the reading of the minutes of the meetings of the committees, the particulars of which have appeared in the "Freemason,"

Bro. G. M. E. Snow rose to move "That commission be allowed to the collector upon such sums only as he collects and gives receipts for, and not upon donations or subscriptions paid to the Secretary." He said that at a late Quarterly Court, having a large cheque to hand in to the Institution, he asked the Chairman of the meeting whether if he paid it there and then to the Secretary the collector would receive his commission on it, and he was told that he would. This appeared to him a great abuse, as well as an incentive to laziness, for instead of going out to collect subscriptions he might sit at home. Every man was worthy of his hire; but he should be paid for what he did, and not for what he did not. Other institutions of a similar character to the Masonic Girls' School had no such thing connected with them. In the Merchant Seamen's Orphan Asylum, which only admitted children of merchant seamen, there was no commission paid to the Secretary except on subscriptions which he was solely instrumental in obtaining, and then it was only a small percentage, till it reached the sum of five shillings, and however large the subscription might be, the commission never exceeded the total sum of five shillings. At the Masonic Boys' School no commission was allowed to the collector if the subscription was paid at the office. Why, after a Steward had taken the trouble to go round to his friends and obtain donations for the Institution, which he paid in at the Secretary's office, should commission be paid to the collector when he did not even know who sent the money? It was wrong in principle, and he therefore brought forward his motion. If any brother suggested that a committee be appointed to enquire into the subject of the collector's duties and remuneration, he would be pleased to support that if it was brought forward as a motion, and withdraw his own.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart said he should be happy to second the motion of Bro. Snow, but he might say that as Bro. Muggeridge, the collector, had resigned, as they had just heard from the minutes, he thought a committee should be appointed to consider the question of the collector's duties and pay, and whether it was necessary to have a collector at all. If Bro. Snow withdrew his original motion he, Bro. Stewart, would move in accordance with this view.

Bro. Thomas W. White referred to the printed rules of the Institution, which provided that on the occurrence of a vacancy the General Committee might cause enquiries to be made into the office.

The Chairman said he was unable to come to a conclusion that day on the subject, and he would suggest that there should be a general enquiry first.

Bro. Snow would say that when he gave notice of his motion he did not know that Bro. Muggeridge was going to resign. He should be happy to withdraw his motion.

Bro. Snow's motion was then withdrawn.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart moved "That considering the satisfactory condition of the funds of this school, ten of the unsuccessful candidates at the last election highest on the poll be admitted without further election at the same time as those already elected, and that arrangements be made for their reception in the infirmary until the alterations now in progress at the school be completed." In bringing the motion forward, he said he felt that the managers of the institution were bound to perform an act of justice to the subscribers, and spend the money subscribed towards supporting more of the children of Freemasons in the Girls' School than they did at present. It was not their duty to accumulate the subscriptions. The Girls' School had now £39,000 invested. It was not doing their duty to allow this sum to realise three per cent.; it ought to be spent on the children. It had been said that £10,000 was about to be spent in alterations and enlargements at the school, and that this would reduce the invested sum to £29,000. But let them at once take in more girls, and not wait for the completion of the alterations. He was only going to ask them to take in ten more girls. There were now 152 girls in the school. He wanted them to make it 162; and he was quite certain that by so doing they would be conferring a benefit on the Craft, the institution, the widows who were left with the children, and on the children themselves by fitting them for the performance of the duties of life. The thing so commended itself to the reason and feelings of the brethren, and to their favourable consideration, that he would not waste time by saying more upon the subject.

Bro. Robert Kenyon seconded the motion. He thought it recommended itself to the good heart of every Governor of this institution, and he was quite sure it recommended itself to their intelligence.

Bro. Thomas W. White, a member of the House Committee, and its chairman for the month, thought it was a great pity that Bro. Stewart had not given the House Committee some inkling of his intention to bring this motion forward, that they might have been able to discuss it at their last meeting. They were now building at considerable expense large additional buildings. The contract was signed, and the building was to be completed by the 1st of May. There was the usual strike clause in the contract, so that if a strike occurred the work might be delayed a few months longer. There would be a junction with one of the dormitories which held 19 children, and when the wall of that dormitory was broken through the 19 children would be removed into the infirmary. Already there were five children there, and this would increase the number to 24. It would hold 49, half in the infectious and half in the non-infectious ward. The two were cut off from each other; and as it would not be desirable to place the children in the infectious ward, 24 would fill the non-infectious. He did not therefore see how they could make room for another ten, and he hoped the brethren would pause before passing this resolution.

Bro. Pierce Egan could not see that this was a question for the House Committee at all, but for the Governors. There were great appliances at the institution which ought to be utilised. He had been a Mason thirty years, and had watched with great interest the progress of the schools. The Boys' School owing to the great enterprise of Bro. Binckes, and thanks to the brethren who supported him, they were able to increase the number of boys in the school to 181, and every year the subscriptions which came in were something startling. He remembered the time when it was considered a most gratifying result of a festival if they give £3500. The Boys' School festival of this year had just produced £12,500; and the three institutions altogether had received £32,000 this year. With such a fact before them he thought the brethren need have no fear of the future, which would probably give them the power to have 200 children in the school. There were only small difficulties about not having room. There was always a way across a stream, even if there was not a bridge; but this difficulty about not having room was only a puddle which might be stepped over. His feelings were very strong against a large sum such as the Girls' School had, being shut up.

Bro. Meggy hoped that the admission of the proposed ten girls would not lessen the number of those who were to be elected in October.

The Chairman: No!

Bro. C. F. Matier thought the admission of the extra number of girls would be satisfactory to the brethren throughout the country.

The Chairman said that he found instead of the Institution having £39,000, it had £42,000. The resolution need not be negative on the ground of want of funds. The only question was the accommodation in the infirmary. He gathered that there was room for forty-nine girls there. He thought that the ten might be accommodated somehow, a partition being put between the infectious wards and the non-infectious. There was one thing he regretted. He thought it a pity that Bro. Stewart did not first go to the House Committee before bringing on his motion, and lay the matter before them. However, this was no reason for negating the resolution, the discussion on which appeared to have been all one way.

The motion was put, and carried with but few dissentients.

The Chairman hoped the House Committee would not take any offence at Bro. Stewart's action in coming to the Quarterly Court without consulting them. He (the Chairman) did not know the names of the House Committee; but he knew the high character of the Masons who usually served on that committee, and he was quite sure that they would set themselves to work to carry out the resolution.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart asked that the Secretary might be instructed to write to the friends of the ten children to be admitted and inform them of the fact.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman closed the proceedings.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The Quarterly Court of Subscribers and Governors of this Institution was held in the Board-room, Freemasons' Hall, on Monday at noon. Bro. J. M. Clabon, P.G.D., presided. Bro. John Symonds, F. Adlard, H. Massey ("Freemason"), R. B. Webster, S. Rosenthal, E. Taylor, Richard Spencer, and F. Binckes (Secretary) also attended. Beyond the reading and confirmation of the minutes of last Quarterly Court and the subsequent meetings of the various committees there was nothing else to do. Bro. Binckes announced that although the subscriptions at the late festival were about £12,500 he expected to receive further amounts on behalf of the institution before the close of the year. Fifty-eight candidates were announced for the next election, and vacancies for eleven candidates were declared.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman was unanimously accorded, and Bro. Clabon in acknowledging it said that there was nothing but pleasure in presiding over a meeting of Freemasons.

Obituary.

BRO. A. J. CODNER.

Our obituary column recently contained the announcement of the death of Bro. A. J. Codner, of Bulstrode-street, Cavendish-square. He was an enthusiastic Mason, possessed a fund of shrewd native intelligence, and if a little demonstrative in his tone and manner at times, was large-hearted and kind. His Masonic charitable impulses were only limited by the length of his purse. He did not, however, confine his gifts to the Craft, as many who have partaken of his generosity could well testify. He died at the comparatively early age of 46, but lived long enough to make his name worthy of remembrance for the good he intended and the good he wrought. He was one of the chief promoters of the Marylebone Lodge, No. 1305, held at the Eyre Arms, St. John's Wood, and with Bro. S. Foxall (now a Grand Officer) and others helped to make it one of the most flourishing lodges in the west of London.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

WILLIAM PRESTON LODGE (No. 766).—

The summer festival of this lodge was held at the Pier Hotel, Rosherville, on Thursday, the 6th inst., and was numerously attended by the members of the lodge and their friends. At the banquet the chair was taken by the W.M., Bro. John Pringle, and the two vice-chairs by Bro. Capt. G. J. Kain, P.M. and Treas., and William Worrell, P.M. and Secretary. The dinner was excellently served under the superintendence of the Bros. Roberts, the worthy proprietors of the hotel. Grace having been said, the first two toasts, viz., "The Queen" and "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," were proposed by the W.M., and were most cordially and loyally received. The next toast was proposed by Bro. W. Worrell, P.M. and Sec., viz., "Success to the William Preston Lodge," coupling with it the name of the W.M. Bro. Worrell, in the course of his speech, gave an outline of the history and events of the lodge, and with great emphasis congratulated the members upon its present prosperity. The next toast being that of "The Visitors," was most ably proposed by Bro. Capt. Kain, P.M., and was eloquently responded to by a most worthy brother (whose name escaped us) on behalf of the Freemasons, and a gentleman, a member of the Irish Bar, with great vigour and amid much cheering, returned thanks for "The non-Freemasons." The last and most popular toast was that of "The Ladies," which was proposed by Bro. J. R. Williams, and responded to by Bro. Robert Lyon, and amongst all the members of the lodge no two more respected brethren could have been found to have championed so worthy a toast. Dessert having ended, the brethren and ladies then adjourned to the ball-room, where the dancing was kept up with great vigour, and was interspersed with some excellent music. Amongst the ladies present was Miss Marie Duval, of the Royal Academy of Music, whose charming singing was greeted with immense applause. Miss Williams, Mrs. Reissmann, Mr. Conder, Mr. Reynolds, and other friends largely contributed to the musical arrangements. Ten o'clock having arrived, was the signal to prepare for the last train, and thus ended one of the most enjoyable days ever spent in connection with the William Preston Lodge. Besides the brethren already mentioned there were present Bros. Dr. Cutmore, Dr. Atwood, P. C. Steinmann, H. Reissmann, B. Abbott, P.M.; R. Sutcliffe, A. Le Grand, R. Leaman, W. Johnston, G. Smithers, A. Ransby, H. F. Partridge, and others.

OLDHAM.—Friendship Lodge (No. 277).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Union-street, on Wednesday, the 5th inst., under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. H. Thomas. Two candidates for initiation into the mysteries of our Order were balloted for and approved. The ceremony of initiating Mr. Wm. Lees, of Hollinwood, was ably performed by P.M. Bro. H. L. Hollingworth, and that of initiating Mr. John Buckley, of Oldham, by the W.M. The last named ceremony was performed with musical accompaniment, Bro. Dr. Sparkes' beautiful music being used. The vocalists were Bros. Damville and Lister, of Manchester. Mark Stafford, Hyde; and several members of the lodge, viz.: Bros. Clifton, Page, Midgeley, Braddeek, Bailey, and others, the result being highly satisfactory. The lodge voted an annual subscription of £10 towards the funds of the East Lancashire Systematic Educational and Benevolent Institution. A vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Dr. Prestwich for his handsome present of music to the lodge. After the supper which followed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, interspersed with several beautiful glees, which were rendered by the musical brethren named above in a most effective manner.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 281).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 12th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Atheneum, Lancaster. The W.M., Bro. T. Atkinson, occupied the chair of K.S. The lodge was opened with solemn prayer in the First Degree, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. There was only routine business to transact, and this having been gone through, the lodge was closed in peace and harmony.

STOCKPORT.—Lodge of Unanimity (No. 287).—This lodge held its St. John's festival at the Dog and Partridge Inn, Stockport, on Wednesday, the 12th inst., when Bro. William Shepherd was installed Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The ceremony was performed by Bro. John Clarke Chetham, P.M., P.P.G.S.B. Cheshire, in the most beautiful and impressive manner and the same brother afterwards invested the following officers—viz., Bros. John Turner, S.W.; Thomas Newton, J.W.; Charles Booth, S.D.; John Leigh, J.D.; H. F. Smith, Sec.; James Huline, I.G.; Chas. J. Rix, jun., Organist; Blakehurst and James Hitchin, Steward. Several provincial officers, members of this lodge, were present—viz., Bros. George Turner, P.P.G.P.; Charles Marsland, P.M., P.P.G.S.D.; William Greateore, P.M., P.P.G.P. Cheshire; and the Installing Master also had the kind support of Bro. Beresford, P.M., P.P.G. J.D. Cheshire. Amongst the other visiting brethren present we noticed Bros. John Bledon, P.M. Affability Lodge, No. 317; John Stock, P.M. Lodge of Concord, No. 323; Josiah Hill, W.M. 323; W. Pritchard, J.W. 323; J. Williamson, Lodge of Peace, 322; and E. Lord, S.W. Egerton Lodge, No. 1030. The brethren afterwards sat down to an excellent banquet, admirably served by Bro. Ross, the host, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly given and responded to.

SOUTH MOLTON.—Loyal Lodge of Industry (No. 421).—A meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 11th inst., at the Masonic Hall. Present: Bros. F. Day, W.M.; Huxtable, S.W.; Hitchcock, J.W.; J. Kingdon, S.D.; Paige, J.D.; A. Kingdon, Treas.; Mountjoy, Sec.; J. T. Shapland, J. Galliford, Wm. Oram, Wm. Cole, Wm. Manning, B. Furse, and Thos. Saunders, P.M.'s; together with a large number of other members of the lodge. Mr. H. Mountjoy was initiated, and Bro. Chant passed. It was announced by the W.M. that a Provincial Grand Lodge would be held at South Molton in the month of August next, the last held in this town being now some forty years since.

SIDCUP.—Sidney Lodge (No. 829).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 11th inst., at the Black Horse, when Bro. P.M. T. Smith, P.I.G.P., installed Bro. T. Hastings, W.M., whose first duty was to present his I.P.M., Bro. G. B. Gates, with a handsome gold jewel, which was feelingly acknowledged by the retiring officer. At the banquet the I.P.M. presented a silver goblet, emblazoned with Masonic emblems, and the names of the subscribers engraved thereon, to their esteemed late Treasurer, Bro. G. M. E. Snow, P.P.G. S.W., on his retirement from office, which was duly filled and received in appropriate terms. The officers appointed for the ensuing year are Bros. Hetheridge, S.W.; P. Gore, J.W.; W. T. Birt, Treas.; J. Henderson, Sec.; Dr. Sparrell, S.D.; W. Moulder, J.D.; J. Pudney, I.G.; J. T. Ward, D.C.; T. Smith, W.S.; S. Potts, Tyler.

PLUMSTEAD.—Pattison Lodge (No. 913).—The installation meeting of this, one of the largest and most influential of the lodges in the Province of Kent, took place on Thursday, 6th inst., at the Lord Raglan, Bro. A. Penfold performing the ceremony, and inducting his successor, Bro. W. T. Vincent, into the chair. Bro. J. Franklin was passed to the Second Degree, and then the I.P.M., Bro. J. McDougall, presented Bro. Vincent to the Installing Officer, the Board of Past Masters numbering some two-and-twenty. Bro. Vincent invested his officers as follows:—H. Butter, S.W.; T. W. Hayes, J.W.; E. Denton, P.M., Sec.; A. Jessup, Treas.; W. B. Lloyd, S.D.; J. Chapman, J.D.; R. J. Cook, I.G.; H. Mason, D.C.; J. Randal, W.S.; B. Lester, Tyler; and C. Cooke, Organist. A vote of thanks and a splendid Past Master's jewel were then presented to Bro. Penfold, and never has that decoration been more nobly and worthily won than by our good brother, who returned thanks eloquently and well for the enthusiasm and spontaneity with which the crowded lodge hailed him as the new W.M. attached the jewel to his breast. The brethren then had a beautiful ride through some of the most picturesque parts of Kent to Dartford, where at Bro. Bray's a superb banquet awaited them. The following were among the visitors present:—Bros. the Rev. W. A. Hill, P.G. Chaplain of Kent; W. Mann, P.M. 187; J. Ives, W.M. 1472; S. Goddard, P.M. 700; F. G. Pownall, W.M. 1536, and W.M. elect 13; G. Davies, P.M. 13; W. Graham, P.M. 700; C. Andrews, P.M. 77, 299, 615, &c.; F. J. Dawson, P.M. 700; G. D. Crawford, 700; Sydney Clark, P.M. 706; J. Rowland, P.M. 700; J. W. Tapp, W.M. 706; J. J. Dawson, W.M. 299; W. Weston, W.M. elect 1536; W. Gamble, S.W. 706; S. Waters, S.W. 700; — Wills, S.W. 299; P. G. Sales, J.W. 706; McCaffery, D.C. 1536 and 700; J. Donnelly, J.D. 706 and 1536; H. Shaw, J.D. 1536; G. Mitchell, 700; E. D. Williams, 1056; A. J. Mitchell, 700; A. Roddech, 1201; W. A. Watkins, 1536; C. S. Boardman, 299; T. Hastings, W.M. elect 899; S. W. Gibson, 341; H. Ough, 1150; C. Cooke, Org. 700 and 913; J. Fletcher, 615; A. Woody, J.W. 700; J. Dovey, 861; E. W. Robins, 77 and 483; G. Spinks, S.W. 1536; G. Causton, 829; F. J. Tame, 700; J. Reilly, 13; G. Churchly, 615; J. Boydon, 615, and others. The following P.M.'s of the lodge were present:—Bros. Knight, P.P.D.C. Kent; C. Coupland, Prov.G. J. Warden Kent; W. Tongue, P.P.J.W. Kent; T. Smith, P.P.G.P. Kent; E. Denoon, P.P.G.J.D. Kent; C. Ellis, Henderson, McDougall, S. Paine, and others. The first toast was that of "The Queen and the Craft," followed by that of "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, G.M. of England;" "The Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the rest of the Grand Officers;" "Lord Holmesdale, the P.G.M. for Kent; Bro. Eastes, D.G.M., and the rest of the Past Grand Officers," the last being coupled with the name of our esteemed Bro. Hill, P.G. Chaplain, whose name, the W.M. said, would always be affectionately remembered among them for his kindness in connection with their deceased Bro. Graydon's monument. Bro. Hill replied. Bro. Penfold proposed "The Health of the W.M." He said he had great pleasure in proposing the toast, for Bro. Vincent has shown himself worthy to fill the position, and it was one that required filling in every sense to carry out the wishes of the members of the lodge. Well, Bro. Vincent had that day shown them that he could tread out of the beaten path if necessary, and the splendid ride and banquet given by him showed that he had not only the interest of the lodge at heart, but nerve and ability to carry out its success to a successful issue. He felt certain their W.M. would worthily sustain the reputation of the lodge, and do all in his power for its interest and well being. He therefore called upon them to drink his health heartily. Bro. Vincent, in reply, said he felt that he had a great task set before him for the next twelve months in following so perfect a Master, but he trusted that by imitating the example before him, and by a careful study to discharge his trust for the good of the lodge and the Craft in general, to gain at the end of his year their genuine satisfaction. "The Past Masters of and belonging to the Lodge" were duly honoured, and Bro. Ellis replied. In reply to the toast of "The Visitors," Bros. Pownall, Sales, and others expressed their thanks for the great treat afforded them both in the lodge and at the banquet, and cordially wished every prosperity both to the lodge and its Master. The toast of "The Officers of the Lodge" was responded to by Bro. Butler and Hayes.

REDCAR.—Marwood Lodge (No. 1244).—The annual festival of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 4th inst., when there was a good attendance of the brethren of that and other lodges in the neighbourhood. The lodge was opened in due form shortly after three p.m., when the Installing Master, Bro. Marwood, of Bushby Hall, Northallerton, after whom the lodge has been named having taken the chair, in the most solemn and impressive manner installed Bro. James Wade Bennett as the W.M. for the ensuing year. The new officers were then appointed: viz., Bros. R. B. Atkinson, S.W.; J. L. Potts, J.W.; J. Hogg, Sec.; J. Dysan, S.D.; W. Anderson, J.D.; J. Dobbs, I.G. The other business having been transacted, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Coatham Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet had been provided. The chair was occupied by the new W.M., Bro. J. W. Bennett; the vice-chair being filled by Bro. R. B. Atkinson, and Bro. J. G. Thompson acting as Director of Ceremonies. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been duly honoured, "The Health of the W.M." was proposed by Bro. Marwood, who commented upon the unprecedented fact that within four years he had installed both father and son in that lodge. The next toast was that of "The Late Master, Bro. Waller," which was proposed by Dr. Bennett; and the W.M. then presented to Bro. Waller, I.P.M., in the name of the officers of the lodge, a costly and beautiful jewel in gold, bearing the inscription:—"Marwood Lodge, No. 1244. Presented by the officers to Bro. Waller, I.P.M., 4th July, 1876." The jewel is in the form of a square, with the usual pendant suspended by a sky blue ribbon with three gold clasps, the whole being most richly chased and elaborately finished. The feast and presentation having been suitably responded to, other toasts followed, and a very pleasant evening was passed, enlivened by the musical brethren present, and the brethren separated hoping to meet again at the Provincial Lodge which is to be held at Redcar on the 2nd August, under the presidency of the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Zeland, P.G.M.

LIVERPOOL.—De Grey and Ripon Lodge (No. 1356).—After one of the most prosperous years of its existence, the brethren of this lodge celebrated their annual summer festival on Wednesday and Thursday, the 12th and 13th inst. The lodge was called for half-past four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at 80, North Hill-street, for the special purpose of installing a successor to Bro. J. Bell in the chair of K.S., than whom no more efficient and hard-working Master has ever occupied that proud position. The lodge was opened by Bro. J. Bell, W.M., shortly after the stated time. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been duly read and confirmed, one candidate was initiated by Bro. Bell, W.M. At the close of this ceremony Bro. Bell right worthily brought his year's labours in the chair to a close by installing Bro. T. Horne as his successor in the chair of W.M. The W.M. then invested the following as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. J. Bell, I.P.M.; T. Nickson, S.W.; J. W. Williams, J.W.; J. Ireland, Treas. (re-elected); A. Woolrich, Sec.; Jos. Jones, S.D.; C. Arden, J.D.; J. Keet, I.G.; E. George, S.S.; W. Evans, J.S.; J. H. Hunter, Org.; and P.M. Larsen, Tyler. It was unanimously agreed to vote the sum of five guineas from the funds of the lodge so as to constitute Bro. B. B. Marson, P.M., a Life Governor of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, in recognition of the many valuable services he had rendered to the lodge. The brethren sat down to an excellent supper under the presidency of the W.M., who proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Bell, I.P.M., gave "The Health of the W.M." Bro. Horne, W.M., responded. The W.M. next proposed "The Health of Bro. Bell, I.P.M.," upon whom he passed a high eulogium for the manner in which he had performed the duties of the chair during the year and the ceremony of installation that afternoon. Bro. Bell replied in suitable terms, adding that it had been a source of great satisfaction to be able to instal his successor. He looked upon this as part of his duty, and he felt amply repaid by the approbation of the brethren. On the following (Thursday) morning about 200 brethren and ladies left the Central Station, Liverpool, at a quarter past 9 o'clock, for the purpose of proceeding to Hassop on route to Chatsworth House, the seat of the Duke of Devonshire. After a pleasant railway journey through some of the most magnificent scenery of Derbyshire, the large party arrived at Hassop, where a number of waggons, drawn by 36 splendid grey horses, supplied by Mr. Thompson, of Sheffield, took the pic-nickers on to Baslow, where they partook of a sumptuous banquet. After the banquet the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to with great enthusiasm. A pleasant part of the proceedings was the proposition of "The Health of Bro. Joseph Bell, I.P.M.," and the W.M., in giving the toast, took occasion to present him with an exceedingly handsome Past Master's jewel. The company then proceeded to Chatsworth House, and afterwards returned to Baslow, where a substantial tea was provided. The wagnettes and "greys" were again brought into requisition, and conveyed the company through Edinsor, across the new park, and through Beoley to Rowsley Station, whence the special train had proceeded. After one of the jolliest "outs" ever held in connection with the lodge, the party left at 8 p.m., and arrived at Liverpool shortly after ten o'clock.

HAMPTON COURT.—Era Lodge (No. 1423).—An emergency meeting of this well-established lodge was held at the King's Arms Hotel, Hampton Court, on Saturday, July 8th. Bro. J. Baxter Langley, W.M., opened the lodge. He, in an impressive manner, initiated Lieut. Walter Cole, the celebrated ventriloquist. By the kindness of the W.M., the veteran Secretary, Bro. F. Walters, I.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M. 73, &c., was allowed to pass his friend, Bro. J. B. Riley. The J.W., Bro. T. J. Saline, P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex, P.M. 73, and W.M. 1540, having expressed his wish to do the raisings, the W.M., with his usual courtesy, allowed him to do so. Bros. E. I. Henman, G.S. Wingate, and Dr. J. W. Gillespie (late of the 42nd Highlanders), were raised by Bro. T. J. Sabine, after which the W.M. resumed the chair. All business being ended, the lodge was closed. It was arranged to hold an emergency meeting on Wednesday, 19th inst., to suit the convenience of some gentlemen already balloted for, who wished to be initiated. There were present besides those named Bros. Col. F. Burdett, R.W.P.G.M. Middlesex, P.M.; J. W. Baldwin, P.M.; S. Wolff, J.D.; J. Moon, Rumbelow, J. Faulkner, and several others. Visitor: Bro. Ockendeu, D.C. 1512. Refreshment followed labour.

SANDGATE.—Sandgate Lodge (No. 1436).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Sandgate, on the 10th inst., for the purpose of initiating Mr. J. J. B. Caudell into the mysteries of the Craft, and for installing the W.M. elect, Bro. R. H. Pledge, J.W., as W.M. for the ensuing year. Present: Bros. Fynmore, W.M.; Gosby, I.P.M.; Pledge, J.W.; A. Keeler, S.D.; Dickson, I.G.; Butcher, Field, Tyler; Bull, Hamilton, Simmonds, and A. Keeler. Visitors: Bros. H. Stock, P.M. 558; Kent, P.M. 558, P.G.O. Kent; Kleberg, 1604. The lodge was opened in due form at three o'clock, and after Mr. Caudell had been initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry, the W.M. elect, Bro. R. H. Pledge, was presented for the benefit of installation at the hands of I.P.M. Gosby, Bro. P.M. Stock acting as S.W., and Bro. P.M. Kennett, as J.W. After the usual obligations had been made, all below the rank of Installed Masters retired, when Bro. Pledge was inducted in the chair of King Solomon in the usual manner. The Master Masons were then admitted, when Bro. R. H. Pledge was for the first time in the East declared W.M. of Lodge 1436 for the ensuing year, and saluted in accordance with ancient custom. The lodge was then resumed to the Second and First Degree, and the F.C.'s and E.A.'s were respectively admitted, when the W.M. was for the second and third time declared and saluted. The following brethren were then invested as officers: Bros. F. H. Field, S.W.; A. Keeler, J.W.; Gosby, P.M., Sec.; Jenner, P.M., Treas.; Dickson, S.D.; Simmonds, J.D.; Hamilton, I.G.; Butcher, Tyler. After the customary addresses had been given, the lodge was closed with solemn prayer about 5.30 p.m. The brethren then adjourned to the Royal Kent Hotel (Bro. A. Keeler's) where a very recherche banquet awaited them. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were then given and dilated on at some length, after which a vote of thanks was returned to Bro. P. M. Gosby for the able manner in which he had performed the duties of Installing Master. "The Health of the W.M., I.P.M., Officers, Visitors, and Host" having been given and severally responded to, the Tyler's toast brought a very enjoyable evening to a close about ten p.m.

BIRMINGHAM.—Lodge of Israel (No. 1474).—This lodge held its usual monthly meeting on the 10th inst. The W.M., Bro. S. Lyon, was supported by Bros. M. Davis, I.P.M.; J. Pursall, P.P.G.S.W.; J. Silverstone, S.W.; B. Lazarus, J.W.; J. Myers, W.M. of the Lodge of Emulation, Treas.; D. Lavenstein, Sec.; W. Harris, S.D.; Paul Roberts, J.D.; H. Woad, I.G. The Secretary having read the minutes of the last meeting, they were confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Messrs. H. Myers, Hurwitz and Mendlesohn, and was found satisfactory. Bro. D. Abrahams was raised by the W.M. Bro. Powell, Cohen, and Gumpleson were passed to the Degree of Fellow Craft. Messrs. H. Myers, H. Hurwitz, and Mr. J. Mendlesohn were initiated. This lodge, although only two years and four months established, has over sixty-six members, and possesses a benevolent fund. Three guineas were voted to assist a poor American Mason. The W.M. read a letter he had received from the P.G.M., Lord Leigh, thanking him and the brethren for their liberal support at the Festival of the Boys' School, over which he had the pleasure of presiding. The brethren retired to their banqueting room, the W.M. presided, and gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, and song, excellent music and singing brought the evening to a very successful issue.

EPWORTH.—Isle of Axholme Lodge (No. 1482) held their installation meeting on the 6th inst. Bro. G. J. Bell was the W.M. elect. The ceremony of installation was very ably performed by Bro. F. D. Walker, of St. George's Lodge, 243, Doncaster. At the close of this ceremony Bro. Bell appointed the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Alfred Parkin (who was the founder of the lodge, and has filled the chair for two years by the unanimous wish of the brethren), I.P.M.

John Campbell, S.W. and Treas.; Alfred Taylor, J.W. and Sec.; Jas. Benson, S.D.; H. Campbell, J.D.; M. Belton, I.G.; and Geo. Naylor, Tyler. The banquet was afterwards held at the Red Lion Hotel, and was of the most recherche character. The newly-installed W.M. ably presided. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and a most harmonious and pleasant evening was spent.

TEDDINGTON.—The Felix Lodge (No. 1494).—The regular monthly meeting of the above lodge took place on Saturday, 15th inst., at the Clarence Hotel, Bro. F. B. Archer, W.M. in the chair; F. Summer Knyvett, Grand Steward, I.P.M.; Edward B. Grabham, P.M., Prov. Grand Steward Middlesex, Sec.; R. Berridge, P.M., Grand Steward, S.W.; W. G. Moore, P.M., J.W.; T. G. Archer, S.D.; E. A. Wooly, J.D.; Belward, I.G. pro tem. Visitors: the R.W. Prov. Grand Master for Middlesex, Lieut.-Col. Francis Burdett, P.S.G.W.; the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, Grand Junior Warden; H. Thorn, P.M. 165; and others. The work before the lodge was the balloting for Mr. H. E. Taylor, who was afterwards initiated into the Order, the passing of Bros. Sealy, Weston, and Cooper, and raising of Bros. Hanson and Williams, the whole of the work being done in a very perfect and impressive manner. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, presided over by the W.M. On the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal toasts were given and responded to. Bro. the Hon. W. Warren Vernon, Grand Junior Warden, replied to the toast of "The Grand Officers," and in the course of his remarks congratulated the lodge upon having a brother to preside over them who was in every way worthy of their highest esteem, a brother whom he had known and respected for some years, and who had entered on his year of office with such brilliant prospects of success. "The Health of the Prov. Grand Master for Middlesex" was then given, and responded to by the brethren in a very hearty manner. Bro. Col. Burdett, in replying to the toast, spoke of the excellent working he had witnessed, and gave the brethren some exceedingly practical suggestions as to the future comfort and well-being of the lodge. Bro. Grabham, Prov. Grand Steward Middlesex, responded to the toast of "The Prov. Grand Officers," and took the opportunity of acknowledging the favourable recognition which the labours of Bro. Knyvett, I.P.M., and himself had received at the hands of the Provincial Grand Master. "The Health of the W.M." was then proposed by Bro. Knyvett in eulogistic terms, and received by the brethren with much enthusiasm. Bro. Archer, in responding, expressed the pleasure it afforded him to preside over a lodge which had already taken so high a position in the province. During his year of office he would do all in his power to make the Felix Lodge worthy of the position to which it had attained, and looked for the support of the brethren; he willingly gave them his best services. "The Health of the Initiate, Bro. Taylor," was then given and responded to. The W.M. proposed "The Health of the Past Masters," to which Bro. Knyvett replied. Bro. Berridge, P.M. Grand Steward, S.W., responded for "The Officers," who were complimented by the W.M. for their thoroughly good working. The Tyler's toast brought the meeting to a close, and after the enjoyment of a pleasant evening, rendered more so by the excellent singing of Bros. Sealy and Hunter, the brethren returned to town.

BARNSELEY.—Lodge Friendly (No. 1513).—The brethren of this young and thriving lodge were engaged in a somewhat pleasing and peculiar duty on Thursday, the 6th inst., being called upon to assist their highly honoured Past Master, Bro. Richard Carter, P.M. Nos. 61 and 1513, P.P.G.W. of W. Yorks (Mayor of Barnsley), in laying the corner-stone of St. Paul's Church, Monk Bretton, near Barnsley, agreeably with a faculty granted for that purpose by the W.P.G.M. to the W.M. and brethren of the above lodge. The date fixed upon for the ceremony was that on which the regular lodge meeting should be held, the time for opening lodge having been altered to 1 p.m., when a goodly number of brethren were in attendance. The lodge having been opened in the three degrees, the brethren were conveyed in open carriages to the residence of Bro. Jackson, at Monk Bretton, and were received by him with the most fraternal and generous hospitality. Here they were marshalled by Bro. Bustard, D.C., and proceeded to the site in the usual order. When the head of the procession had arrived at the entrance of the ground the brethren divided to the right and left. W. Bro. Carter, followed by the W.M. of Lodge Friendly, Bro. Wm. Smith, the officers, and brethren in reverse order, took their respective positions on the ground. Bro. Carter having taken his seat, the vessels of corn, wine, and oil were deposited on a pedestal placed for their reception. The Rev. A. Lambert, Vicar of Monk Bretton, requested Bro. Carter to lay the stone, and presented to him on behalf of the building committee a trowel for that purpose. The inscription upon the trowel, read by Bro. Shepherd, Sec., was as follows:—"July 6th, 1876. Presented to the Worshipful Richard Carter, Esq., Mayor of Barnsley, P.P.G.W. of West Yorks, and P.M. Nos. 61 and 1513, on his laying the corner-stone of Saint Paul's Church, Monk Bretton." Bro. Bustard, D.C., here raised the upper stone and adjusted the lower one, during which the 100th Psalm was sung. Bro. the Rev. H. J. Day, Chaplain, then read a short lesson, from the V. of S.L., Gen. 28, v. 16 to 22, after which he said: "Brethren,—Let us invoke the blessing of the G.A.O.T.U. on the work we have thus begun in His name. O Lord God, whom the Heaven of Heavens cannot contain, and who yet vouchsafest to have a house here upon earth, wherein Thy name may be constantly invoked; look down, we beseech Thee, with benign countenance on us Thy humble servants; vouchsafe to bless, make sure and establish this stone now to be placed in Thy name. Be Thou, O Lord, the beginning, the increase, and the ending of the work which we have thus undertaken to Thy praise and honour; through Him who is the chief corner stone, and the true foundation, and who liveth and reigneth with Thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. So mote it be." Bro. Watson then placed in a cavity in the stone a bottle containing the inscription removed from the old church, specimens of the current coin of the realm, and a document with the following inscription:—"St. Paul's Church, Monk Bretton. The corner stone of this church was re-laid on the 6th of July, 1876, with full Masonic ceremonial, by Richard Carter, Esq., P.P.G.W., and P.M., Mayor of Barnsley; Alfred Lambert, M.A., Vicar, in his 71st year and 34th of incumbency. Building committee: Alfred Lambert, Vicar; Thomas Marsden and George Henry Jackson, Churchwardens. William Dodgson, Arthur R. Kell, and Benjamin Smith. Architect: Luigi Solaini, Liverpool. Builders: Messrs. Chadwick and Co., Rotherham. The late fabric was so damaged by a storm of wind in December, 1873, as to render it necessary to re-build the whole, from its foundations. The corner-stone itself bore the inscription:—"St. Paul's Church. This memorial stone was laid July 6th, 1876, with Masonic honours, by Richard Carter, P.P.G.W., and P.M., Mayor of Barnsley. Building committee: Alfred Lambert, Vicar; T. Marsden, W. Dodgson, G. H. Jackson, A. R. Kell, B. Smith, Luigi and Hari Solaini, architects." Bro. Carter then advanced to the front of the raised platform and said: W.M., P.M.'s, and brethren of the Ancient Order of Free and Accepted Masons, Mr. Lambert and your clerical friends, ladies and gentlemen, my neighbours in this place and district,—We are assembled to-day to engage in a ceremony which I am sure you all feel to be one of considerable importance. It is usual in connection with an enterprise of any magnitude in all classes of society to recognise in some formal manner the commencement of that enterprise. But there is something which makes it more especially becoming and appropriate in the occasion which has brought us together to-day. We are here to lay a corner stone, and so far to inaugurate a work which is for all time to redound to the honour and glory of the M.H. the A. and S.R. of the U. I accepted the duty with my brethren of engaging in this ceremony, at the request of our dear friend the venerable vicar of this parish, and we feel that in such acceptance the duty is more appropriately performed than if it had become the work of any other body. I shall not for many reasons detain you by attempting to prove the assertion which I have just made—it is more especially addressed to a fraternity whose history may be traced back to the earliest period of the history of the human race—a fraternity to whom duties of this kind have been in all ages of mankind willingly and especially confided. We accepted this work, important in the highest sense of the term, with a becoming degree of propriety which I hope we all know how to appreciate. And while we acknowledge our own personal humility and dependence, we come at the same time as Freemasons. Although we may have these opportunities of inculcating principles which in a certain manner we are forbidden from divulging to the outer world, there is nevertheless that which does commend itself to the highest of all classes, and I am proud to think that Freemasonry never flourished in this country or any other in a more distinguished manner than it does among Englishmen at the present time. I shall, without detaining this numerous assembly, place myself in the hands of the Director of Ceremonies and ask him now to proceed in the further work to be done. Thanking you, Mr. Lambert, and the building committee for the kindness and courtesy with which you have permitted us to be present on this occasion, and congratulating you on your numerous assemblage of friends and parishioners, and availing myself of this opportunity of saying that as to the work in which we are engaged, may you live to see it completed, that it may be a source of happiness, enjoyment, and comfort for many years to come. Worshipful Bro. Carter then adjusted the lower stone, after which the upper stone was slowly lowered with three distinct stops, during which the anthem, "O Lord of Hosts," was sung. Worshipful Bro. Carter then proved the just position and form of the stone by the plum rule, level, and square, which were successively delivered to him by the Junior Warden, Senior Warden, and Worshipful Master of Lodge Friendly. Being satisfied in these particulars he gave the stone three knocks with the mallet, which was delivered to him, laying the stone in the name of the most High, the Father, Son, and the Holy Ghost, the Creator of the Universe. The cornucopia, containing the corn, and the ewers, with the wine and the oil, were next handed to Bro. Carter, who strewed the corn and poured the wine over the stone, saying: In these emblems, we recognise the symbols of plenty. Nay, the bounteous giver of all good, the author of all temporal and spiritual blessing, please to bless this place of worship for all future time with abundance and plenty, of all gifts that can render material and spiritual happiness. The Chaplain then offered up the following prayer, saying: "Brethren,—Let us now supplicate Almighty God, of His infinite mercy, to bless, sanctify, and consecrate the house which is to be built in this place. O Almighty and everliving God, who in every place of Thy dominion art wholly present, wholly operating, and who yet dost hallow the places dedicated to Thy name, pour forth Thy grace upon the house of prayer here to be built, that it may be raised up a temple to Thy honour, and remain for ever inviolable. And as Thou art the founder of this house, be Thou also its protector. Here let no malice of the enemy prevail, no perverse desires divide those whom one fold contains and one shepherd guides. Here let brotherly love, relief, and truth flourish, and through the powerful aid of Thy blessed Spirit mayest Thou always be worshipped in this place in faith and charity, in purity and true devotion; and grant that all who shall here seek Thee may ever find the light of Thy countenance, and be filled with abundance of Thy Heavenly grace, through Jesus Christ our Lord." The National Anthem was then sung, and during the singing a collection was made in aid of the building fund, resulting in the receipt of a considerable sum. The clergy, the Freemasons, the building committee, and over one hundred friends, afterwards lunched together in the National School-room, the vicar presiding. "The Queen" having been duly honoured, the Mayor of Barnsley proposed "A Welcome Back to England of our Grand Master," and he added to the toast "The Rest of the Royal Family." He passed a high eulogy on His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales for his genial warmheartedness and the many other qualities with which he graced the high position in Freemasonry, and said he believed the Order had never been more highly honoured than when His Royal Highness was installed. Alderman C. Newman gave "Prosperity to St. Paul's, Monk Bretton, and the Vicar of the Parish." He said he hoped the new church would continue very much longer than the last one, and that the worthy vicar, whose reception there showed that he was respected, would be cheered by much kindly help. He trusted that for a long time the inhabitants would heartily and harmoniously worship, guided by the loving care of so faithful a clergyman. The Vicar, who was heartily received, commented upon the odd fact that though a church had been built in the parish since he came, another was needed. He was afraid that his tenancy of the living could not last much longer, but he hoped to be spared to see the top stone put on, and a true-hearted congregation within the walls of the new church. He had ever met with kind sympathy from his parishioners, and was sorry that many of them were prevented from attending the old church, as it was impossible to hear in it. The new church, however, would be a very great improvement, and certainly the tower and spire would possess great interest. Having observed that this effort was one more evidence that the Church of England was the church of the people, the rev. gentleman concluded with a few humorous hints as to gifts of church fittings, organ, windows, bells, &c. "The Mayor of Barnsley," was proposed by the Rev. J. A. Metcalfe, and that gentleman having responded, gave "The Architect and Builders," which was acknowledged by Mr. Abson, who proposed "The Ancient and Modern Freemasons," which was responded to by several Masonic officials. "The Visitors" and "The Ladies" concluded the list. The following is a description of the new church, for which we are indebted to the kindness of the architect. The church, which is being built from the designs and under the superintendence of Messrs Luigi and H. Solaini, architects, Liverpool, will consist of nave, 59'6 by 21'0; side aisles, 59'6 by 9'0; chancel, 27'3 by 11'6, with semi-octagonal apse-vestry and organ chamber, each opening into chancel and aisle by archways, to be filled in with ornamental wood screens; tower and porch. The clerestory walls, which are to be only of sufficient height to admit small windows, will be built on five moulded red brick arches each side, supported by circular stone shafts, with moulded caps. The nave ceiling, 35 feet in height, is to be constructed in the form of half a twelve-sided polygon, boarded and divided into bays by semi-circular arched ribs, cusped and moulded and springing from stone corbels, each bay to be sub-divided into square panels by mouldings. It is intended for the boarding in panels to be of a lighter colour than the ribs, mouldings, and cornices, which will have a novel and pleasing effect. The tower, through which is the principal entrance, will occupy a central position in front of the west gable, and inclusive of spire and finial will have a total elevation of 118 feet. Owing to the favourable locality of the site the tower and spire will be visible from a considerable distance, and form an imposing feature in the surrounding landscape. The masonry throughout is to be of local sandstone. The building will partake somewhat of the "Early Decorated" in style and will contain upwards of 400 sittings. The contractors are Messrs. G. Chadwick and Co., of Rotherham.

LIVERPOOL.—Liverpool Lodge (No. 1547).—The annual installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Hope-st., Liverpool, on Wednesday, the 12th inst., when Bro. Councillor J. A. Forrest was installed as the W.M. by Bro. S. Haynes, P.M. The visitors included Bros. Dr. Taylor, P.M. 823; C. R. Copeman, 786; and R. Bennett, W.M. 1399. The officers invested were Bros. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.P.G.C., I.P.M.; W. J. Lunt, P.M.; D.C.; J. Marshall, S.W.; J. H. Parker, J.W.; W. C. Browne-Cave, Sec.; R. Warrier, Treas.; J. Duncan, jun., S.D.; W. Ladyman, J.D.; J. C. McGuire, I.G.; C. J. Caddock, S.S.; E. Walker, J.S.; W. Croft, Org.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. At the conclusion of the installation proceedings the W.M., on behalf of the members of the lodge, presented Bro. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, I.P.M., with a handsome silver salver, as a mark of the high esteem in which he is held, and as a recognition of his services to the Liverpool and the Order generally. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given during the evening.

MORECAMBE.—Morecambe Lodge (1561).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Room, Morecambe-street, on the 7th inst. Bro. Capt. Garnet, W.M., presided, and Bro. Dr. Moore, P.G.S.B. Eng., occupied the chair of I.P.M. The lodge having been opened with solemn prayer in the First Degree, the minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed, after which Bros. John L. Bradshaw, P.M. 1051, and F. G. Dale, S.W. 1353, were unanimously admitted as joining members. The lodge having been opened in the Second and also in the Third Degrees, Bro. Hutton was raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M., the working of the first portion being efficiently performed by the W.M., and that in the latter by the I.P.M., who also presented the working tools. Bro. Gregson was passed to the degree of F.C., and Mr. Thomas Wilkinson was initiated. It being considered expedient that the members should have a more commodious lodge room, a committee consisting of the W.M., I.P.M., Wardens, and Secretary, was appointed for the purpose of arranging for the erection of a Masonic Hall. This they have happily succeeded in accomplishing; so that in a short time we may hope to see this growing and prosperous lodge located in its own premises. The usual proclamations were made, and hearty good wishes having been tendered by the visiting brethren (of whom there were several), the lodge was closed in peace, love, and harmony, with the formalities of the Craft.

STAINES.—Musgrave Lodge (No. 1597).—This young lodge held its first meeting since its consecration at the Angel and Crown Hotel, Staines, on Saturday, the 15th inst. In the absence of the W.M., Bro. Levick (who is at present in Africa) the chair was occupied by the S.W., Bro. F. Keily, P.M., Prov. G. Steward, supported by Bros. Wilson, P.M.; C. Arkell; H. Phythian, P.M.; Prov. G. Sec.; E. Cobbett, R. Sindall, J. G. Dunn, E. Fairlie, and many other brethren. The lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last meeting were duly confirmed. After which a ballot was taken for Mr. H. F. Bing as a candidate for initiation, and the result being favourable, he was regularly admitted into Freemasonry, the ceremony being excellently rendered by the acting W.M. After further Masonic business, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren sat down to a substantial repast under the presidency of Bro. F. Keily, who gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts with due honours.

Ark Masonry.

SHEFFIELD.—Wentworth Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners, attached to the Britannia Lodge of Mark Master Masons (No. 53).—The first annual meeting was held on Wednesday, June 21st, 1876, when that ark, under the command of V.W. Bro. Henry Matthews, G.J.O. for England, &c., and with her full complement of officers and crew, weighed anchor at 6 bells. When fairly under weigh, all hands were called aft, the watches were set, and all were told off to their various duties. The Commander then gave the course to be steered, and ordered a sharp look out to be kept for any craft in distress, or any shipwrecked crew. Scarcely had these ordinary duties been completed when signals of distress were observed on the port bow. Orders were immediately given to alter the course, and bear down upon the strange craft. She was soon overhauled and brought alongside, and two poor castaways were taken on board. They were carefully examined, and proving to be Mark Master Masons, were regularly elevated, and placed upon the articles as Royal Ark Mariners according to ancient custom. All hands were then mustered, and V.G. Certificates were presented to four able-bodied Mariners. Bro. H. Matthews having been re-elected W.C.N., was saluted with a salvo of 4 on his re-appointment. He then appointed and invested his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. H. J. Garnett, as S.W., or J.; G. E. Bennett, as J.W., or S.; S. B. Ellis, Treas. (re-elected), and Scribe; A. Scargill, S.D.; J. B. Wostinholm, J.D.; W. White, D. of C.; J. Clark, A.D. of C.; W. Truelove, Org.; J. E. Reaney, Steward; Dr. Griffiths, Guardian; G. Wilkinson, Warder (elected). The Ark then proceeded on her passage home, and having arrived safely in harbour, and let go her anchor all hands obtained permission to leave, and take a cruise on shore. Once off duty they proceeded to partake of refreshment, which consisted exclusively of fish; the worthy Skipper presided. Grog was served and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were then characteristically given and honoured. The nature, variety and peculiarity of the supper formed an agreeable surprise. In this branch of the Service the carrying of "deck-loads" has been prevented by the peculiar shape of the Craft, and such prohibition is also symbolized by its members, for shortly after ten o'clock saw all these worthy mariners homeward bound. A most enjoyable evening was spent. We must congratulate the lodge on its flourishing condition, for although this particular Ark was but built and launched twelve months ago, it has been fortunate in affording refuge to no less than thirteen castaways, who have received in that haven of rest such a hearty and fraternal welcome as to constitute such reception a memorable event in the salt-junk-and-lime-juice existence of everyday life.

Red Cross of Constantine.

LANCASTER.—Red Cross Conclave (No. 12).—The regular meeting of this conclave was held at the Masonic Room, Athenæum, on Monday, the 10th inst. The M.P.S., Sir Knt. Bagnall, presided, being supported by Sir Knt. Dean, V.E.; Illustrious Sir Knt. Dr. Moore, and other officers. After the formal business had been transacted, Bro. J. J. Crookell, of the Lodge of Fortitude, 281, was duly installed as a Knight of the Order, and entrusted with all its privileges. The conclave was afterwards closed in due form.

SHEFFIELD.—White Rose of York Conclave (No. 120).—The first annual festival of this young and really prosperous conclave was held on Friday, June 16th, 1876. It was indeed a "happy thought" when Bro. the Rev. A. W. Hamilton, M.A., Mus. Bac, P.P.G.C. for West Yorkshire, W.M. Britannia Lodge, No. 139, Sheffield, invited the conclave to hold its meeting at his house, Rowtor Hall, Stanton-in-Peak, near Bakewell, Derbyshire (he having recently left Sheffield on his appointment as Vicar of Stanton) and taking into consideration the fact that the old Freemasons' Hall, Sheffield, has been pulled down, and (as we reported in our issue of the 24th ult.) a spacious building is now in course of erection, the lodges, &c., in the meantime having to meet in small rooms adjoining, it is easily understood how such an invitation was hailed with delight. These facts on being represented at head quarters, by means of a formal application, the Grand Imperial Council were pleased to issue a special dispensation authorising and empowering the Sir Knights to hold their meeting of June 16th, 1876, away from Sheffield, as desired, which dispensation proved a real boon, for the day was one of unalloyed pleasure, and has forged another strong link of attachment of the Red Cross Order to the hearts of the Sheffield Masons. When we chronicled (July 3rd, 1875) the consecration of the White Rose of York Conclave, we were deeply impressed with a sense of the Red Cross having achieved a great success, that the inauguration of the White Rose of York Conclave of this historical Order in the very historical county of York, was a day ever to be remembered, and it is now with stronger feelings of duty and pleasure we record what we are inclined to believe to be one of the greatest successes a Red Cross Conclave has ever attained; indeed, we would call, and urge, upon older and other conclaves to look to their laurels. En passant Constantine (the founder of the Red Cross Order) is said to have been born at, or near, York. Also that St. Helena, his mother, (the founder of the Order of K.H.S.) was a native of Yorkshire. The conclave being styled the "White Rose of York" was a happy selection, and equally apropos is that of the Sanctuary of K.H.S., &c., which is called "St. Helena." Old local traditions are always interesting, and we congratulate the Orders on their having renewed their association with these, and the grand old name of York. But revenons à nos moutons. Armed with the dispensation, arrangements were soon completed as follows:—Thursday, June 15th, the conclave was opened at 5 p.m., at the Freemasons' Hall, Sheffield, Ill. Sir Knt. W. H. Brittain, Int. Gen. for West Yorkshire, on the throne. A college of Viceroy was then opened, when Em. Sir Knt. W. Roddewig, V.E., M.P.S.-elect, having retired, a Senate of Sovereigns was opened, Em. Sir Knt. Roddewig was admitted, and presented by Em. Sir Knt. S. B. Ellis, P.S., to Ill. Sir Knt. Brittain for enthronement, which was duly performed. Em. Sir Knt. Roddewig having been placed on the throne of Constantine, was saluted according to ancient custom. The senate was then closed, and the college resumed, when Sir Knt. the Rev. E. Boteler Chalmers, M.A., P.P.G.C. for W. Yks., P.M. 139, S.G. V.E. elect, was admitted and duly consecrated, and saluted as the Viceroy Eusebius of the conclave. The college was then closed and the conclave resumed, when the M.P.S. declared it adjourned until the following day. The desirability of holding the senate and college on the evening previous to the conclave was because only those Sir Knights who had attained the rank of M.P.S. or V.E. respectively could be present at such meetings. On Friday, June 16th, the Sir Knights assembled at 9 a.m. at Mr. Haigh's establishment, Glossop-road, where four landaus and pairs were provided to convey the party, which—consisting of 23—at once started on their day's excursion, the route taken being via Baslow, where a capital luncheon had been provided, and after justice had been done thereto, the journey was resumed, via Chatsworth Park and Rowsley, just obtaining a glimpse of Haddon Hall. Having arrived at Rowtor Hall a hearty welcome awaited the Sir Knights at the hands of Bro. Hamilton. After a little rest and necessary ablutions the business of the day was proceeded with. The conclave being resumed (adjourned from preceding day), the special dispensation from the Grand Imperial Council, authorizing the conclave to meet on that day, away from Sheffield, was read, and ordered to be entered on the minutes, the formal business having been disposed of, Bros. the Rev. A. W. Hamilton, M.A., Mus. Bac., Vicar of Stanton, P.P.G.C. for W. Yks., W.M. 139; the Rev. R. C. Roy, M.A., Vicar of Youlgreave, P.P.G.C. for Worcestershire, 88; J. Spencer, 139; F. Trickett, 139; Dr. Wade, 306; and J. E. Darling, 1239, were then admitted, and duly installed and proclaimed Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine, &c. Ill. Sir Knt. Brittain then read a letter he had received from the Most Ill. G. Sov., Sir Frederick M. Williams, Bart., M.P., &c., &c., which he said gave him unfeigned pleasure to read, as he was sure it would give the Sir Knights to listen to. The following is a copy:—"17, Great James-street, Bedford Row, London, 13th June, 1876, To the Ill. Sir Knt. W. H. Brittain, 31, Intendant General for West Yorkshire, Dear Sir Knight, In compliance with your recommendation, and having regard to the services rendered to the Order in West Yorkshire by E. Sir Knt. Samuel B. Ellis (P. Sov.), Treasurer of the White Rose of York Conclave, No. 120, Sheffield, I have decided to confer upon that eminent Sir Knight the rank of an Intendant General, unattached, and to direct that his commission as such be issued as speedily as possible. I take this opportunity of congratulating you personally upon the success of your efforts to promote the welfare of the Order in your Division, and I trust you will ever have the hearty co-operation and assistance of the Knights under your rule. I remain, dear Sir Knight, Yours in faith and fraternity. (Signed) Frederick M. Williams, Grand Sovereign and Grand Commander of St. John." Em. Sir Knt. Roddewig was then inducted as M.P.S., and Em. Sir Knt. the Rev. E. Boteler Chalmers, as V.E., the officers for the ensuing year having been appointed and invested, letters of apology regretting inability to be present were read from M. Em. Sir Knt. Col. Francis Burdett, Grand Viceroy. V. I. Sir Knt. R. Wentworth Little, Grand Treasurer, &c., and several other Sir Knights, also from two brethren, candidates for the degree, who were prevented by illness from attending. Sir Knt. Moss, S.G., in a few appropriate remarks called upon the M.P.S. to present a silver snuff box, with a suitable address engraved thereon, to Ill. Sir Knt. W. H. Brittain, Int. Gen., P.S., &c., &c. This, Em. Sir Knt. Roddewig neatly performed in a few well-chosen remarks, setting forth that the box had been subscribed for, and was presented, by the members of the conclave as a small token of the fraternal regard they entertained towards Ill

Sir Knt. Britain, also as a souvenir of their thanks to him as the first M.P.S. and Founder of the White Rose of York Conclave, and of his happy and prosperous reign. III. Sir Knt. Britain in reply, stated that the presentation was an unexpected and agreeable surprise to him, his services in the introduction of the Red Cross Order into Yorkshire had afforded him much pleasure in performing, but that the practical shape in which the Sir Knights had been pleased to thank him was a new pleasure to him indeed, it would serve to him as a memento of some of the happiest hours he had ever spent in his life. He begged to tender to the M.P.S. and all the other members of the conclave his most sincere thanks. Grand Imperial Council certificates were presented to several Sir Knights. The conclave was closed. The St. Helena Sanctuary of K.H.S. and Commandery of St. John the Evangelist was opened, when eight candidates were admitted and installed knights of these ineffable grades. Em. Sir Knt. Roddewig, M.P.S., took his seat as M.E.C. Patriarchal Council Certificates were presented to a number of Sir Knights. The sanctuary was closed. Close to Rowtor Hall are some rocks, known as Rowtor Rocks, they are most romantically situated, the ascent, somewhat precipitous, is by means of a narrow winding path. It is stated (and on reliable authority), that amongst these rocks the Ancient Druids met to celebrate their rites and mysteries, there are evidences of man's handiwork, one huge stone having three seats, with arms thereto, carved in it. In this ancient mystic temple, encircled with beautiful trees in full leaf, with the verdant turf for carpet, and the blue canopy overhead, making a charming and marvellous coup d'oeil, the Sir Knights formed themselves into a picturesque group of which a photograph was taken. Returning to Rowtor Hall, another group was formed and photographed. Dinner was announced, when the twenty-five prompt responses to the muster roll evinced a striking and gratifying example, not only of military discipline and esprit de corps, but also a very unmistakable testimony to the appetizing influence of the bracing Derbyshire air. All was propitious a handsome repast was provided, and to which ample justice was done, the worthy host had a surprise for his visitors, for he had engaged the village brass band, which discoursed harmony during the dinner. "The Queen," "The Worthy Host," "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Derbyshire," "The M.I.G. Sov. Sir Frederick M. Williams, Bart, M.P., &c.," "The M.E.G. Viceroy, Colonel Francis Burdett," "The V.I.G. Treas. Sir Kt. G. Wentworth Little," and "The Officers and Past Officers of Grand Council and Senate," and other appropriate toasts were then eloquently given. Sir Kt. J. Binney, H.P., was entrusted with that of "The Healths of the Intendants General—III Sir Kt. W. H. Britain, Past Sov., &c.; and III. Sir Kt. S. B. Ellis, Past Sov., Treas., &c.; Sir Kt. Binney stated how proud the Conclave was in having two of its members in such high positions, and he testified how III Sir Knights Britain and Ellis had worked as one for the prosperity of the conclave, and on its behalf he congratulated the latter on his recent appointment. This met with a hearty reception. III. Sir Knt. Ellis, in responding, thanked Sir Knight Binney, for his kind congratulations on his recent appointment as Int. Gen. Unat., and he thanked the other Sir Knights for their warm concurrence in those remarks. What he had done for the Conclave he hoped to continue to do, there was yet a lot of work to be done, and they might claim his best efforts, he little expected so high and distinguished an appointment as he had just received at the hands of the M.I.G. Sov. Sir Frederick M. Williams, Bart., but he should always endeavour to prove worthy of it. In conclusion he felt he must again thank his fraters for their hearty congratulations, which were to him certainly second only to the appointment itself. III. Sir Kt. Britain also returned thanks for the kind remarks of Sir Kt. Binney, and their cordial reception at the hands of the Sir Knights, his work had been a labour of love to him, and whilst the conclave continued to be animated with such unanimity he felt confident in its permanent success, in promoting which he hoped to aid for many years to come. Em. Sir Knt. the Rev. E. Boteler Chalmers, V.E., then proposed "The Health of the M.P.S." saying that in Em. Sir Kt. Roddewig, the Conclave had secured one to rule over them who was second to none in zeal for Masonry, and one who was esteemed by all who knew him, the Conclave might fairly congratulate itself on its good fortune. This health was drunk most heartily, and Em. Sir Kt. Roddewig replied in suitable terms. Other toasts followed quickly, viz., "The Past Sovereigns, III. Sir Kts. Britain and Ellis," "the V.E. Em. Sir Kt. the Rev. E. Boteler Chalmers," "the Officers," "The newly-Installed Companions in Arms," for which the whole of the six replied. Carriages were announced, of which the Sir Knights at once took possession, the signal to start was given, when the band struck up "God Save the Queen." The return journey was made via Chatsworth Park, and, by special permission, close to the House, having arrived at Baslow, coffee, &c., was served; the journey was resumed and the party arrived back in Sheffield about 11 p.m., after having spent a most enjoyable day; for such was the unanimous verdict. Thus the first anniversary of the White Rose of York Conclave came to an end. The placing of a plant in new ground is attended with more difficulties than the careless looker-on imagines; granted that the plant is from good stock, and that the ground has been carefully selected—it must be watched with lyncean eyes, for it must also be protected against storms and frosts, and even from too much sun. All this has been bestowed on the "White Rose of York," since the day it was planted it has been sheltered from the storm of idle and curious assemblages, from the frosts and nipping airs of the hypercritical, nor has it been permitted to bask unreservedly in the sunshine of indiscriminate popularity. That its roots have struck deep into the hearts of the Yorkshire brethren we are convinced—may its branches extend far and wide, but may it never "waste its sweetness on the desert air." The success of the first annual festival of this conclave was no less than that of its consecration, the fine weather, the glorious drive through beautiful scenery, the agreeable surprises in the presentation to III. Sir Knt. Britain, and the distinguished appointment of III. Sir Knt. Ellis, the photographic group, the Druidical rocks, and last, though not least, the fraternal reception, the exchange of knightly greeting, and the princely hospitality received whilst under the aegis of Sir Knt. the Rev. A. W. Hamilton, made up such an eventful epoch as to suggest to us that with the Yorkshire brethren a "Red Cross Day" and a "Red Letter Day" must have become established synonyma.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Scotia (No. 178).—A meeting of this lodge was held in the Star Masonic Hall, 12, Trongate, on Wednesday evening, the 12th inst., Bro. J. Millar, P.M., in the chair; Higgins, D.M.; Logan, S.M.; Hepburn, S.W.; Mercer, J.W.; King, Treas.; Killin, Sec.; McDonald, S.D.; Hart, J.D.; Matheson, P.M., Chaplain; with a large attendance of members. Visitors: G. McDonald, W.M. 73; J. Morgan, W.M. 219; J. Booth, W.M. 87; G. Muir, L.D.M. 103; Ferguson, P.M. ("Freemason"); and others. On the minutes of last meeting being read and confirmed, Bro. W. Hart was elected W.M. for the remainder of the ensuing year in room of the late Bro. Singleton, deceased. A gentleman was then initiated into the First Degree by Bro. R. Allan, Sec. 581, on behalf of the Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73. After disposing of other minor business the lodge was closed.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Star (No. 210).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in their hall, 12, Trongate, on Monday evening, the 10th inst., Bro. J. Morgan, W.M., in the chair; J. Martin, D.M.; J. Horn, S.W.; T. Graham, J.W. 360, acting J.W.; P. Smart, Treas.; Francis Dow, Sec.; J. Brown, S.D.; J. Lawrence, B.B.; J. Park, S.S.; and W. J. Elliot, I.G. The meeting, as usual, was well attended, and among the visitors were Bros. John Fraser, P.M. 87; R. Jack, W.M. 128; D. Reid, I.P.M. 465; J. M. Oliver, S.W. 360; J. Duthie, 2. 67; Ferguson, P.M. ("Freemason"); J. Fyfe, No. 0; Jas. Love, 87; R. Butcher, 87; W. Hart, 178; F. Easton, 354; W. Campbell, 360; W. Gardner, 360; and J. Campbell, 128. On the minutes being read and confirmed, applications were read from Messrs. H. Stewart, J. Hunter, Christie, and W. Henderson for admission into the Order, and the same being favourably balloted for, they received the E.A. Degree at the hands of Bro. Morgan, W.M. Bro. John Boyd was afterwards passed to the F.C. Degree by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543. There being no further business, the lodge was closed.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. Andrew (No. 465).—A meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Gargad-road, on Thursday evening, the 6th inst., the W.M., Bro. D. Gilchrist, in the chair, supported by Bros. David Reid, I.P.M.; J. McLeish, S.M.; G. B. Davidson, S.W.; W. Chalmers, J.W.; W. Campbell, Sec., and the other office-bearers, and a good attendance of brethren. On the lodge being opened, the Secretary read the minutes of last meeting, which were approved of. Mr. W. Arbuckle was initiated into Freemasonry by the W.M., and Bro. J. Paton was passed to the Fellow Craft Degree by Bro. McLeish, S.M. The lodge was then closed.

THORNIEBANK.—Lodge Thorniebank (No. 512).—A large and influential meeting of this young but prosperous lodge was held in their lodge room at Thorniebank on Tuesday evening, the 11th inst. The chair was occupied by the W.M., Bro. Robert Scobie, ably supported by Bros. L. McKellar, D.M.; Robt. Fletcher, S.W.; Robt. McEwan, J.W.; W. Jardine, Treas.; Edward Schindler, Sec.; F. Waters, J.D.; R. Bently, I.G.; and J. Clugston, Tyler. The meetings of this lodge are generally well attended, and on Tuesday a number of brethren were present from Glasgow. The lodge was opened in due form on the E.A. Degree, and the minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, when Bros. Robt. Nisbet, D. McArthur, Jas. Hunter, George Kennedy, Robt. Law, Chas. Brown, and John Andrew were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. W. Ferguson, P.M. St. John's, Dalmuir, No. 543 ("Freemason"). The lodge was then resumed in the First Degree, when Bros. Greig, Shand, and Nisbet presented the lodge with suitable emblems for the Third Degree, which were used in the working of that degree for the first time. The R.W.M., Bro. Scobie, accepted the presentation on behalf of the lodge, and awarded a hearty vote of thanks to those brethren, the same to be recorded in the minutes of the lodge. The lodge was then closed, and afterwards put under the care of the J.W., Bro. McEwan. Bro. Scobie, W.M., in the chair. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and drank with the accustomed honours. "The Newly-raised M.M." was replied to by Bro. Nisbet in a very neat speech. "The Visiting Brethren," was replied to by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543. A number of other toasts followed. During the evening Bros. Greig, Smith, Shand, Burns, and Crow sang some excellent songs. Bro. Neilson sang "Our own Thorniebank," composed by himself, which elicited great applause. After spending a most enjoyable evening the lodge was called back to labour and closed, the Glasgow brethren returning by the last conveyance at 11 p.m.

We regret to state that the only son of Bro. J. M. Clabon, President of the Board of Benevolence, was killed in a railway accident on Saturday last at Gravesend.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

On Wednesday the quarterly meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire Freemasons was held in the Masonic Hall, South Parade, Huddersfield, under the banner of the Lodge of Harmony, 275. The officers of that lodge opened the preliminary lodge in the various degrees, after which Provincial Grand Lodge entered, and was presided over by Lt.-Col. Sir H. Edwards, Bart., Prov. G. Master of West Yorkshire, and assisted by the Prov. Grand Officers. About 200 brethren from the province attended.

In acknowledging the reception by the brethren, Bro. Lt.-Col. Sir H. Edwards said he felt gratified that the brethren of West Yorkshire, and those of the Harmony Lodge (275) had accorded him so kind and enthusiastic a reception. After eulogizing the Lodge of Harmony for their amiability, affability, and generosity, and instancing their large contributions to the various Masonic charities, referred to the recent anniversary for the Girls' School, over which he had the distinguished honour to preside, in the absence of our noble brother the Prov. Grand Master of Oxfordshire, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, who was unavoidably prevented attending. During the course of his remarks he referred to the safe return of the Prince of Wales to this country, and trusted that some fitting Masonic memorial might be established of his return, which would be an honour through all time to the Freemasons of this country. The Prov. Grand Master urged W.M.'s to possess and post themselves thoroughly in the Book of Constitutions and Prov. Grand Lodge bye-laws.

Referring to the presence of Bro. Bentley Shaw, P.P.D. G.M., the Prov. Grand Master said he had never realised the work, the ability, and the kindness of Bro. Bentley Shaw, till he (Col. Edwards) had been installed in his chair, and he trusted, as the whole lodge trusted, he would be long spared to assist the lodge with his knowledge and judgement. In concluding he trusted that peace, concord, harmony, and good fellowship would long distinguish them as Masons as good men.

Bro. Bentley Shaw having been cordially honoured in ancient style, thanked the brethren from the bottom of his heart for their reception, and hoped they would long work cordially together.

The roll of lodges, and other routine business having been gone through.

The Provincial Grand Master rose, and said it gave great pleasure to propose the next motion on the agenda paper, which was as follows:—

"The Right Worshipful Prov. G. Master moved "That this Provincial Grand Lodge desire to record its humble and hearty thanks to the Great Architect of the Universe for the safe return to his native land of our beloved Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G., from his recent tour in our own Indian Empire." He said we were all of one opinion that it was one of the greatest blessings to this country that H.R. Highness the Prince of Wales had been permitted to return to his native land in health and strength, after long travelling and voyaging in foreign climes. He was glad to say that his recent suffering had passed away, and that the malady was not in any way increased by his recent journey. He hoped that in course of time, when it pleased God to remove our gracious and beloved sovereign (and he hoped the time was long distant, (hear, hear,) our beloved Grand Master would reign over this country with the same urbanity that his royal mother did. (Applause.)

Bro. Bentley Shaw seconded the resolution in the course of some very pleasing remarks. His visit to India, he said, had in it results of an immense amount of good to us as Englishmen, and to the Indian Empire. This was a glorious country, of which every Englishman ought to be proud, and they ought also to be proud of the illustrious Prince who is to reign over us. (Applause.)

Bro. Tew, D.P.G.M., supported the motion, which was carried unanimously and enthusiastically.

Bro. J. Booth, Prov. Grand Junior Warden, then proceeded to make a statement with respect to the last Quarterly Court of the Masonic Boys' School, at Woodgreen, when Bro. Wordsworth submitted that the proceeding was irregular.

Bro. Joseph Bately, of Huddersfield, also raised an objection to Bro. Booth proceeding on the ground of no notice of resolution having been given, and in support of his objection, quoted the 42nd bye-law of Provincial Grand Lodge.

The Prov. Grand Master, unwilling to take the responsibility upon himself, appealed to the Registrar, as the legal authority.

Bro. Booth said he had transmitted to the Prov. Grand Secretary a communication in the language of the agenda paper, but not the precise language of the motion he intended to submit. He claimed the right to explain the peculiar grounds he had taken. He appealed first to the practice of the Prov. G. Lodge; and secondly because when notice was given it was expected to have from the Charity Committee their report. That report had not been forthcoming, and he had consequently been placed at a disadvantage in submitting his resolution. Bro. Booth urged Prov. Grand Lodge to suspend the standing orders, in order to move his resolution; but if out of order he would give notice that at the next meeting he would move a resolution on the subject.

Bro. Bentley Shaw urged that the continuance of this motion would tend to destroy the good feeling of this Prov. Grand Lodge, and after referring to rulings of Prov. Grand Lodge in times past, said the setting aside of the bye-laws in this case would tend to stultify the action of the Prov. Grand Master, and set a bad precedent for future meetings.

After other speakers, Bro. W. H. Gill, Mayor of Wakefield, Prov. Grand Senior Warden, said he had listened with much pain to the bickerings at these meetings on this Boys' School subject. He had been to London in compliance with Prov. Grand Lodge, and was willing to go a dozen times if good could come, but his belief was that such would not be the case. The legal way, if any brother had any complaint, was to attend the quarterly court. From our contributions we have shown our interest in this school, but by our action we are losing our force and influence. Bro. Gill appealed to Bro. Booth to withdraw the resolution he had given notice of, and let what has passed be passed. If any wrong exists in the internal arrangements of the school, let complaint be made in regular order, in all the friendliness of Masonic feeling, and so put an end to all this crimination and recrimination. (Applause.)

Bro. Bentley Shaw endorsed everything said by Bro. Gill. West Yorkshire had long been known for its harmony, good feeling, and generosity, and he appealed that the province should not pull the good fabric of our charities, which has flourished long and well, down about our ears, to be a lasting discredit upon us.

The Prov. Grand Master also appealed to Bro. Booth to withdraw his motion, and so secure the co-operation of good workers, both of which he feared would be sacrificed by persevering in it.

Bro. Booth, who disclaimed all personal feeling in the matter, after the appeals which had been made, and with the approval of Prov. Grand Lodge, withdrew his motion. (Applause.)

After an amicable termination to a disagreeable subject, the Provincial Grand Lodge was closed in due form.

An excellent banquet was afterwards served in the dining-hall of the lodge, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly proposed and responded to, the proceedings being presided over by Sir H. Edwards, Bart.

FESTIVAL OF THE MARK BENEVOLENT FUND.

The annual festival in aid of the Benevolent Fund attached to the Grand Lodge of the Mark Degree of Freemasons of England, was held on Wednesday evening at the Alexandra Palace. The President of the day was Bro. Lieut.-General Brownrigg, Grand Senior Warden of the year. The banquet on these occasions is always graced by the presence of ladies, and the practice of admitting the sisterhood has been found so successful that it meets with the unqualified approval of all the brethren who join this very agreeable annual meeting. The company is never a large one, but it is probably the more enjoyable on the account as everybody knows everybody else, and meets on the same footing as a private family gathering. This has been the case ever since the first establishment of the fund in 1859, when the banquet was given at Hampton Court, but where the space afforded to the party was not sufficient for the comfortable enjoyment of the recreation. The successive gatherings have been held at various other localities, and last year Bro. Binckes, Grand Secretary, and Past Grand Junior Warden, selected the Alexandra Palace, and the accommodation afforded was so ample, the facilities of the journey to and from it so great, and the surroundings of the Palace so agreeable that a repetition of the selection was ventured upon this year. The commodious banqueting room chosen for the occasion was elegantly laid out by Bros. Bertram and Roberts, and the dinner table was arranged in horse shoe form. There was an attractive display of flowers and fruit on the table, whereas the places were occupied by ladies and brethren alternately. The two extremities were occupied by Bro. Binckes, as Senior Warden, and Bro. Berridge as Junior Warden. The company comprised R.W. Bro. Lieut.-Gen. J. S. Brownrigg, C.B., Chairman; V.W. Bros. C. F. Matier, P.G.J.W.; H. C. Levander, G. Reg.; Frederic Davison, G. Treas.; Fredk. Binckes, G. Sec.; W. Bros. S. Rosenthal, P.G.D.C.; Hy. Massey, P.G. Steward ("Freemason"); H. W. Binckes, P.M., Asst. G. Sec.; Bros. Jno. Waldram, Thistle, No. 8; Robt. Berridge, P.M. Macdonald, 104, Prov. G.S.W. Middx.; W. Robt. Marsh, Temple, 173; D. M. Dewar, P.M. Old Kent Lodge; S. C. Dibdin, P.G.O.; Frank Elmore, Hy. Nicholson, George Buckland, Countess Bismarck, Mrs. C. F. Matier, Mrs. Binckes, Mrs. Davison, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Berridge, Mrs. Waldram, Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Rosenthal, Miss Binckes, Miss F. A. Binckes, Madame Thaddeus Wells, and Madame Poole.

At the conclusion of the repeat the toasts were proposed, at an early hour, however, as the chairman had to leave in order to secure a train on the South Western, which is difficult to arrive at from the northern side of London.

After proposing the toast of "The Queen," the Chairman gave "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," and remarked that Prince Leopold was the W.M. elect of a Mark lodge. In proposing "The Provincial Grand Masters and Officers," the Chairman said he was somewhat outraged in doing so because he was really drinking his own health. However, as it was customary that this toast should be proposed, and he was happy to say that there was an excellent and worthy brother present who would take upon himself the responsibility of returning thanks for it. The claims of the Grand Officers (always excepting himself) upon the attention and notice of the Order was well known, and it was their zeal as Masons which obtained for them the recognition of the Grand Master. He then went on to observe that he himself was the oldest Mark Mason in the room.

Bro. F. Davison, G.T., replied, and said he was happy to inform the brethren that Mark Masonry was progressing to the Grand Officers' hearts' content, and that it was due to Mark Masonry that ladies were now admitted to festival banquets. This was the first degree which invited ladies, and the new practice had been very successful. The Benevolent Fund had also been successful, which was in part due no doubt to the presence of the ladies. It had progressed steadily, and had been able to distribute considerable sums among poor brethren. He trusted that it would progress in the same proportion as it had done hitherto.

Bro. Binckes, P.G.J.W., proposed "The Health of the Chairman," and said that that brother was obliged to leave early, and the toasts were necessarily somewhat short and hurried. All the brethren felt very much complimented and highly honoured by his consenting to preside that evening. There was great difficulty in obtaining Chairmen for any festivals; more particularly was it so in Mark Masonry, because the number of Mark Masons was limited: nevertheless, Gen. Brownrigg consented when he was asked. There was not perhaps what might be called a great amount of eclat or prestige in the proceedings at these festivals; but they were most pleasant reunions, and every one was animated by the feeling that they were engaged in the great good work of Masonic charity. That would always commend itself to bodies of Masons, whether large or small, and it was on this account Gen. Brownrigg felt a large amount of pleasure and satisfaction in presiding over this assemblage. Bro. Binckes then referred to the subject of the presence of ladies at the festive board, a subject which had engaged the attention of several boards of Stewards. The example set by Mark Grand Lodge had been imitated in a much larger body with which he was connected, and it might now be said to have received the imprimatur of the authorities, and no doubt it would be largely followed.

The Chairman, in reply, said: Ladies—and I must especially address myself to you—I am inured by long custom to receiving the kind acknowledgments of my brethren; but it is the first time in my life on which those compliments and courtesies have been coupled with your kind and gracious presence; and I cannot tell you how very, very deeply I feel it, and how inadequate I am to return thanks for the honour you have done me. I do hope that the inauguration of this system of asking ladies to assist in our Masonic banquets may be widely spread. It may do good; it cannot possibly do harm; and what more can we want? I beg to return you my grateful thanks for the honour you have done me in drinking my health. My excellent brother Binckes has said infinitely more than I deserve, but still I feel it a great compliment and I feel much honoured in being asked to preside over this gathering. It is the least I can do after the unexpected honour the Grand Master, Lord Limerick, has done me in appointing me to the high office I have the pleasure of holding in Grand Lodge. I will now ask you to drink the toast of the evening, "Success to the Benevolent Fund." I am sorry to say my experience has been so very small; but thanks to our Bro. Binckes I have some information about the fund. I find it was established in 1867 by vote of Grand Lodge with a certain small nucleus to begin with. There are no compulsory payments towards it by capitation grants; it is supported entirely by voluntary contributions. The object of it is to provide a fund for the relief of Mark Master Masons; and if we can form a fund, however small, for the relief of urgent cases I think it is our bounden duty to do so, and I am glad in my feeble way to assist it. I find that the claims on the fund are not numerous; but the investigation of those claims is conducted with great discrimination, which will prevent any unworthy objects from receiving assistance. I now ask you to drink "Prosperity and Success to the Benevolent Fund," and I couple with it the name of Bro. Berridge, Macdonald Lodge, No. 104.

Bro. Binckes read the following list of subscriptions:—

Bro. Berridge, 104, replied, and said that though it involved a great deal of hard work to collect the money, the Stewards did it with pleasure, and hoped that next year even greater success might attend their efforts.

The Chairman proposed "The Ladies." It was the last toast on his list, and he would have been sorry, indeed, if he had been obliged to leave before proposing it. Great advantage had been derived from having ladies at these banquets, and when the brethren thought what they would be without the ladies, they would appreciate the warm feeling with which he asked them to drink the toast. From the hour of a man's birth to the hour of his death, the presence of female hands and female hearts was felt. He (the chairman) had been in a profession which had caused him to knock about the world a good deal, and he had been in a position to see circumstances when no female nurses were to be had. In such circumstances nothing could be kinder, nothing could be more charming than the good feeling which was exhibited by one soldier to another in the military hospital and field hospitals. He had seen many touching scenes of this description, where a great rough-fisted soldier helped a sick man. But, however, tender, they were clumsy and awkward compared with women, whose tenderness in a sick room could not be equalled.

The toast having been honoured, and Bro. Dibdin having replied, the Chairman bade the company good night, and left, having previously deputed Bro. C. F. Matier to occupy his place.

"The Stewards' Health" was then proposed, and Bro. Dewar responded, informing the brethren that he had been a Mark Mason 33 years.

Bro. Binckes announced that the Benevolent Fund now reached £600, which was invested, and another £100 would be added to it after this festival. He hoped the brethren and ladies might long be spared to take part in these happy meetings.

A vote of thanks was awarded to Bro. S. Rosenthal: together with "His Health," proposed in a speech by Bro. Matier.

Bro. Rosenthal responded.

"The Masonic Press" was proposed, Bro. Matier calling on Bro. Massey ("Freemason") to reply.

Shortly afterwards the company separated.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Madame Thaddeus Wells, assisted by Madame Poole, Bros. Frank Elmore and George Buckland. Solo Flute: Bro. Henry Nicholson; Pianoforte: Madame Wells and Bro. George Buckland.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting of the lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall. Bros. Joshua Nunn, James Brette, and E. P. Albert occupied the three chairs. There were also present Bros. S. Rawson, Jas. Smith, C. A. Cotebrune, J. Coutts, W. Ough, John Hervey, H. G. Buss, A. A. Pendlebury, H. Garrod, W. T. Howe, Pownall, W.M. 13; Shackell, P.M. 193; T. Knight, 862; West, W.M. 890; W. Hammond, W.M. 1310; J. Bingemann, W.M. 1599; T. Whitmarsh, 1015; W. J. Murlis, 1489; J. A. Smith, 1178; John Green, 27; J. A. Hudson, W.M. 879; J. J. Michael, W.M. 1567; A. H. Tattershall, P.M. 140; and H. Massey ("Freemason").

It was announced that the only son of Bro. J. M. Clabon, President of the Board, was killed in a railway accident at Gravesend on Saturday night. A letter of condolence was then ordered to be written by Grand Secretary to Bro. Clabon.

The Board then proceeded with the cases before them, and granted £290, composed of three of £40, one of £30, three of £20, two of £15, and five of £10 each.

The Board then adjourned.

Obituary.

BRO. THE REV. FRANK W. C. SIMMONS.

The "Nelson Daily Times" announces the sudden death of Bro. the Rev. Frank W. Churchill Simmons, the Head Master of the Nelson College, who was found dead in his bed at Foxhill. For some weeks past this gentleman had been suffering acutely from rheumatic fever. Last week, however, he felt better, and on Saturday left Nelson for Foxhill in company with Mrs. Simmons. On Sunday evening Bro. Simmons appeared well and in good spirits. He retired to rest early, but was unable to sleep, and in consequence took a dose of chloral, which proving inefficacious, at a later hour he took a second dose of the drug, with, it is supposed, fatal effect. Bro. the Rev. Frank W. Churchill Simmons was educated at Rugby and Lincoln College, Oxford, where he graduated in 1852. He was appointed Head Master of the Danedin High School in 1865, in succession to the Rev. Mr. Campbell, who was drowned in Danedin harbor just after his arrival in the colony. Bro. the Rev. Simmons continued to discharge the duties of the office to which he was appointed with conspicuous ability, and speedily won for himself a scholastic reputation, and for the school over which he presided the first position in the colony. Then came the episode of his humorous letter to his old friend the late Bishop of Brechin, who having in a rash moment put the epistle into print, caused a commotion among the "unco guid" in Danedin, who straightway, with all the ferocity of narrow minds, fell upon the writer, and by imputing evil where none existed, succeeded in making Bro. Simmons's position a very uncomfortable one. So successful were his detractors, that he was glad at the end of 1867 to embrace the chance of changing his place of residence by accepting the head mastership of Nelson College. Of his work here it is impossible in a short obituary notice to speak in adequate terms. It may be all summed up in this, that Nelson College is in the first rank of the educational establishments of the colony, and this is chiefly due to the remarkable power possessed by the deceased gentleman to impart the knowledge, of which he possessed an extraordinary store. So much for his public career. Those who knew him privately—as friends knew each other—can tell how thorough and true a gentleman he was. Never prone to resent, and ever ready to forgive an affront; quick to apologise if even inadvertently he had, as he thought, hurt anyone's feelings; liberal with his purse in any charitable direction; full of true sympathy with real distress of every kind; genial and hospitable, with weaknesses like the rest of us, such was the late Bro. Simmons. Deceased was a member of the Southern Star Lodge, 734, E.C., Nelson, and a companion of the Trafalgar Royal Arch Chapter of Nelson, 157, S.C., and his companions and brethren sincerely and deeply mourn for him as a worthy brother called by the Great Master from labour to rest.

BRO. E. RANSFORD.

The death of Bro. E. Ransford, the well-known vocalist and music publisher, took place at his residence, 59, Welbeck-street, on Tuesday. He had suffered a long and severe illness. He was 71 years of age.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 22, 1876.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

This distinguished province held its quarterly meeting at Huddersfield on Wednesday, the 19th inst., under the banner of the good Lodge of Harmony of that town. It came to a "most healing" termination of a very unhappy controversy, and we shall allude to it a little more fully next week, in the interests of peace and conciliation. We are among those who have never doubted for one moment the practical good sense and true Masonic spirit of our West Yorkshire brethren.

OUR NEXT MERRY MEETING.

When the Duke of Buckingham used to dismiss his boisterous "symposium" in former days, it was, we are told, with some such formula as this, "To our next merry meeting, unless any of us are hanged in the interim." Such a "dismissio" might suit that eccentric nobleman, but by no means accords with the gravity or respectability of Freemasons. Just now Freemasons are already closing in London their active lodge life for a short recess, for the "long vacation," and practically the Masonic spring and summer season, in the metropolis at any rate, is over. Lodges are meeting and closing, and brethren are assembling, and positively for the last time as a lodge for some months to come, and some of us are separating now, perhaps not to meet till November, when the good Secretary summons the faithful children of "Alma Mater" to rally under her old banner once again. It is this which always lends, it seems to us, such a "touching" sentiment, alike to the meetings and the separations of Freemasonry. Those of us who have gathered together the longest round some old Masonic centre of light, and life, and truth, and trust, know well how uncertain are the conditions of earthly existence, how many the mutations of lodge membership. Many here to-day, in full health and strength, are missing to-morrow; our roll-call is gradually lessening, and pleasant faces and kind voices are hushed in the mist of years, and wanting in the full strong tide of life, though present ever to the kindly memory, and never forgotten by the true Masonic heart. But we began in a lighter strain, and we will recur to it, though it is impossible, we think, when touching upon such a subject, not to speak seriously. Nor is it good or true to put from us those more moving associations, which always accompany Masonic membership here. What a metamorphosis has come over the active life of the good Lodge 1800, affecting the Lodge of Friendship. Its members are many and genial, its officers are painstaking and well posted up. You nowhere see a better system or meet a heartier reception. Its work and its welcome, its charity, and its cuisine, its "morale," and its menu, are all equally irreproachable. It mixes the "utile" with the "dulce," labour with refreshment, sound teaching and cheery gathering with all alike of artistic skill, and of Masonic sympathy. Indeed, we know no better representative of a good working, charitable, social, friendly, fraternal lodge, than the one we have just named, but just now, practically "non est." At its last meeting the worthy W.M. informed an admiring circle that the lodge would close for the recess, and this announcement was repeated at the Summer St. John's, later on in the day, in his usual cheery and effective way. No more for a time for us the summons of the most zealous of Secretaries, or the toast of the most smiling of Tylers. Its members are wending their way, some here, some there, preparing to wing their flight from the heat, and glare, and close streets of the "little village," to the country and the sea side, to the yacht and the German Bad, for a trip to Norway, or some shady limes in some happy rural home, as soon, that is, as business permits them to get away, immediately they can, as they say, "decently do so." And when we all meet again what changes may have taken place. Who can say? Bro. Jones, who sings so well his favourite strain, Bro. Potter, always ready with his well known "few humble words," Bro. Jones, who is always sentimental, and Bro. Johnson, who is always transcendental; Judkins, who has a grievance, and Stipkins, who has been "improperly passed over," will still, no doubt, be to the fore, to enlighten or to bore, to fidget or to edify, the courteous W.M. and their patient brethren. But shall we all meet again to tell of what we have seen and done in the interim? The chances are against it. We may probably see that stately W.M. of ours, and that bold array of intrepid P.M.'s, the Secretary at his desk, the Treasurer with his book, Wardens and Deacons, and Master of Ceremonies, to say nothing of Stewards, and Inner Guard, and Organist. And let us hope we shall. It would be sad if the inexorable fates had cut in twain that thread of cheerful life which binds so many a true hearted frater to his old lodge. We should miss much if that were so, the kind smile, and the warm hand, the zealous will, and the sobered mind; we should look in vain for the grey hairs of Past Master White, and the halcyon locks of Bro. Jinkinson; we should sadly note old Bro. Higgin's vacant chair, and speak in bated breath of poor dear Bro. Backhouse. But so it is, and say what we will, we are ever in a circle as it were, and we feel as we write to-day, how true it ever is, that we little know here what a day may bring forth. We have tried to write cheerfully, but we have failed, and for the best of all reasons, that we are not so young as we were, and that each birthday only whispers to us the warning lesson of Freemasonry, "Gnothi seauton." Weakness and decay, and change and severance are the lot of us all, men and Masons, and none of us can be insensible to those changes and choppings of the world which often leave us like sea weed on the shore of time, which the receding waves have cast up in all their life and vigour. We wish, however, to-day, to all our scattering and scattered brethren, health and happiness, comfort and enjoyment, wherever they may be sojourning for a season. Some who have their domestic angels to bless them and look after them, will have, as we know, their pleasure doubled and their happiness increased by all those "agremens" which woman's kind heart and gentle presence always ensure to ungrateful man. And our bachelor brethren, let us hope that they will see the "evil of their ways," and find some dear confiding creature in their pleasant outing to "bless or bore them" during the after hours of their sub-lunary career. May November see them in the good old lodge again, radiant and rejoicing, full of health and appetite, a good digestion and cheerful spirits, the married brethren prouder than ever of the wives of their bosom, the youthful Benedicts "hugging their chains" duly and properly, and all ready for work, and not unfriendly to refreshment.

THE DEMANDS ON OUR CHARITIES.

It must be quite clear to the most careless readers of our Masonic intelligence that our great charities are increasing in their demands on the zeal and liberality of our Order, and will continue to do so. Take the Boys' School for instance. It has 58 candidates for the October election, and only 11 vacancies. It is quite evident to us that unless something is done to lessen this "dead weight" of unsuccessful applicants at the next April election we shall be perfectly overpowered, and many, far too many, will be left out in the cold. We therefore would press upon the General Committee and Bro. Binckes the advisability of at once determining to raise the number of admissions to 200. Such an announcement would be received with enthusiasm by the Craft as a fitting response to its recent goodly efforts on behalf of this most important and valuable institution. Bro. Binckes states that £12,500 represents the return of the festival of 1876, and that before the close of the year he has the promise of other amounts. Never, then, was there a better opportunity for, or a more reasonable and seasonable act than the permanent increase of the Boys' School to 200. And in saying this we do not shut our eyes to the probable further necessary increase of the School. Indeed, we feel persuaded that before long the School will have to be raised to 300 to represent the growing demands of our increasing and prosperous fraternity. And do not let us carp at the fact, or grudge the increased expenditure. Freemasonry is never so much in its own element as when its members can point in honest exultation and becoming pride to its noble works of charity and beneficence, of educational labours, of humanitarian zeal. Still, as of old, its one unfailing motto is, its best answer to gainsayer and libeller, "Si queris, circumspecte."

CRICKET.

Though some of us are old, and lame, and gouty and gray-headed now, we have not altogether forgotten the days of our youth. The fine weather which prevailed last week drew together that wonderful assembly at "Lord's Cricket Ground," to witness the annual contest between Eton and Harrow. In our Masonic Order we have not only many old "Public School boys," but also a large number of "athletes," who rejoice to take part in that thoroughly English and manly game. Even under the broiling sun of Friday and Saturday the two elevens shewed no lack of that bodily activity and that zealous endurance which are such distinguishing characteristics of our English youth. And so should it be. It will be a very bad day for us all when our youth throw off that love of active habits, outdoor pursuits, that intense appreciation of the skilful, the trying, and the hazardous which serves so much to strengthen and develop the finer traits of the English character. How many a pleasant English lad fresh from Eton, or Harrow, or Winchester, and other of our great scholastic centres, has led up the dangerous breach, or nobly headed the "forlorn hope." Many a good college oar (ask the Bishop of Lichfield) has developed into the earnest missionary, and the benefactor of humanity and civilization. From anything like the mere idle "dilettante," the indifferent "swell," the uninterested "flaneur" about town, the selfish and heartless sybarite, let us hope and trust that a good Providence will long preserve our young men. With some faults, they are after all, very difficult to beat; and in all that requires calm courage or gallant endeavour, the impulse of a hero, or the ready resource of the intelligent and devoted, we still will proudly back them against all comers. We say this in no spirit of boasting, but we believe what we say. Once put on their "mettle," once thrown on their own resources, once compelled to give up the idleness of the "faineant," and the Epicureanism of "swelldom," the affectation of fashion, they still are, and prove themselves to be, "chips of the old block," of that good sound breed which has given to our country its prestige, and to England its high name among the nations of the world. Now we are among those who regret much that Winchester, Harrow, and Eton cannot meet for a week's cricket in the metropolis, and form an agreeable gathering for past and present schoolboys, as well as the cricketering world. The withdrawal of Winchester has told badly on its cricketering powers and fame, and nothing can well be more painful to all old Wykehamists, some who recall other days of victory, and famous batsmen and famous bowlers. Indeed, we never could well see why Winchester boys were not likely to behave themselves as well as other boys, or why they of all others were to be placed under such a "ban." Surely it might be pleaded "defendit numerus?" surely, if the consent of parents could be obtained, the authorities have practically really but little to do with the matter. We are aware that Winchester boys do not always come from the most affluent classes, but that is a matter surely for the College Cricket Club, and many old Wykehamists would gladly, for the love of the old "Domus Dei," contribute to the needful expenses, and many a Wykehamist in London would offer a "Dulce domum" for the week to those who would maintain the reputation of their famous school. We heartily sympathize with all "cricketers," and wish them all a good innings and admiring circle of friendly critics, male and female.

PEACE OR WAR.

Since we last wrote the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has made a most important statement as to "non-interference" on the part of England. He has also stated that Sir Henry Elliot does not altogether credit that fearful detail of horrors which has been given in both of our contemporaries, the "Times" and the "Daily News." That war, and especially a civil war, entails "horrors" we know; that cruelties and terrible trials are its inevitable accompaniments we also are fully aware. But let us hope for the sake of humanity, in the interests and progress of a common civilization, that these fearful outrages on Bulgarian women especially are the "mirage," so to say, of some excited correspondent. Lord Derby fears that it is hopeless to try to arrest the "dogs of war" in their uncontrollable fury, but promises non-interference in and localization of, the struggle. Is there no solution possible which would put a close at once to this internecine strife and restore security to the homestead and safety to an innocent population—offer peace, instead of bloodshed, rapine, and brutality to these suffering lands?

THE LAST QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Pray let me assure "W.T." that by my little innocent "provincial" jest I did not mean for a moment to "sneer" at the provincial element of the Craft. I plead guilty to a poor joke, but not to a bad spirit.

I must still adhere to my view, that to meet in a building or to vote money to that building may, and does in this case, involve questions not of mere expediency, but of principle.

I am also still of opinion that the records of Grand Lodge "happily testify that we have at times gone out of the beaten track" in making our grants. But this, like every other digression, must have a reasonable limitation, and this I humbly but fairly consider, Bro. Havers passed.

To withdraw my motion and yet to press my amendment I hold to be perfectly consistent. The former was a definite proposal, and one which, from its peculiar nature, should have been unanimously carried; the latter was indefinite, and was quite of a kind to be decided by a majority. The little flourish of religious zeal and indignation at the close of "W.T.'s" letter is rather too vague to be replied to, particularly as I hope we may be able to prove we make no "empty" boast of doing that which "costs us nothing."

I am afraid all the ingenious special pleading of the "Prov. Grand Officer" will not convince many of us that the "national" character of the Church of England so entirely extrudes the idea of its being a "particular religious body" as to justify a grant by the Grand Lodge of England for the reconstruction and adornment of two of its churches.

Our being good subjects and patriots is quite another thing, and these, I hope, we may be without unnecessarily raising a cry, neither frivolous nor vexatious, and justly calculated to raise a prejudice against the "particular religious body" so often alluded to, and to deviate from those broad and distinct lines of Freemasonry, which are at once one of its characteristic features and its only pathway of safety amongst our many "unhappy divisions."

I am, dear Sir and brother, yours fraternally,

R. J. SIMPSON.

P.S.—As to your remark in the leading article of last week, that I seem to "stand alone," I would say with Hamlet, "I mind not seems." I am content to know I have whole lodges with me. It is, however, very natural on every ground that your correspondence should mainly come from members of the minority in the late division in Grand Lodge.

[A note of caution is needed. Our good brother is going a little beyond our Masonic limits in bringing in the Church of England at all. As Freemasons we have nothing to do with her "unhappy divisions," and know nothing about them. Bro. Havers' argument rested more upon the fact of these Churches being connected with Freemasonry than quā Churches, or even churches of the Church of England.—Ed.]

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The vindication of myself is a matter of so little importance, that I would not ask you again to inscribe my name upon your pages in reference to the controversy with Bro. Havers, did I not consider that the principles involved in the discussion are far more important than my own feelings. Meantime I can calmly let imputations of "ignorance," "absurdity," and the like pass by, for I have learned enough to know how little can be known, and in this sense am painfully conscious of my own ignorance.

You strongly condemn the denominational character of the discussion on Bro. Havers' motion. I can quite appreciate your condemnation of it, for it was the weak point of the motion itself, and it was mainly objectionable on that ground. It is, however, remarkable that orthodox denominationalists consider that they may enunciate anything without violating any one's liberties or hurting any one's feelings, whereas the heterodox denominationalist is "ignorant," "indecent," and monstrous if he ventures to question anything. The pride of infallibility is not confined to one sect.

With regard to the letter of Bro. Havers, let me point out that he had given notice of his motion, and carefully considered his arguments before he came into Grand Lodge, and, therefore, he came there certainly with a "foregone conclusion." The brethren listened to his arguments very fairly, and he had advanced a long way in his speech before cries of "No, no," were raised to dispel his "foregone conclusion." In the sense of prejudging him the brethren did not decide without hearing him.

I conclude by advising Bro. Havers, as he advises me, "to avoid every topic of religious discussion" in connection with Masonry. His motion raised a denominational issue, and he, himself, in his speech stated and anticipated the denominational objection; let him understand that the assertion of his orthodoxy may be the violation of a brother's heterodoxy, and that my religious liberty is as precious to me as his to himself.

I accepted Masonry as a peculiar system of morality veiled in allegory, and illustrated by symbols; if it is to be made the vehicle of a creed it must cease to be acceptable as a universal brotherhood.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,
J. BAXTER LANGLEY.

"ANOTHER PAMPHLET."

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I notice in this week's "Freemason" another pamphlet from the pen of Bro. Tew, and, without entering into any of the disputes that have so long prevailed between our brother and the executive of the Boys' School, I feel constrained, although reluctantly, to introduce myself into the controversy, as my name has been mentioned by him without any justification. I am classed by him amongst a clique who at present manage our institutions, and I must say with a very offensive reference, all such insinuations being entirely outside the truth—I do not say wilfully, but if Bro. Tew has trusted to others to supply him with the particulars I refer to, so may he have founded his whole complaints upon similar untrustworthy information, and which should have made him hesitate before subscribing his name to a document affecting the honour of some of his brethren without first satisfying himself as to the facts. In the first place, it was not in 1869, or at any other time, that I was nominated to serve on the House Committee of the Boys' School. I have the pleasure of being a life governor of that excellent charity, and beyond which my ambition does not at present lead me, as I should personally object to serve on the committee of both institutions. Again, Bro. Tew infers that at a similar if not earlier period I was also nominated to serve on the House Committee of the Girls' School. The first time I was nominated to the latter institution was in 1874, and, being unsuccessful, was again put in nomination in 1875, and elected. With regard to the inference that there are some domiciled foreigners on our committee, this must apply to me only, as mine is the only foreign name amongst those quoted by Bro. Tew in his pamphlet; but I may inform our Bro. Tew that, although bearing a French name, my ancestors, so far as can be traced for many generations, are true English in blood, and for myself, having been brought up in the Blue Coat School (a public charitable institution), I claim to possess some practical knowledge of the working of "English charitable institutions."

I am, dear Sir, fraternally yours,
H. A. DUBOIS,

A MASONIC CLUB.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have noticed in the daily papers lately advertisements relative to a "Masonic Club," about to be opened in Queen Victoria-street with a banquet at the latter end of this month. I do not see the advertisement or any other allusion to the club in your columns, at which I am somewhat surprised.

Is all right and on the square, and would you recommend it?

Yours fraternally,

A.P.M. AND H.K.T.

[We cannot explain the fact, except on the principle that Freemasons like to advertise anywhere but in the "Freemason."—Ed.]

THE VICAR OF BRIGG AND THE FREEMASONS.

By particular request we copy the following from the "Hull and Lincolnshire Times," June 24th, 1876:—

TO THE EDITOR.

DEAR SIR,—The Rev. Mr. Wylie, of Brigg, thought fit to prevent the Freemasons of Lincolnshire assembling for Divine worship in the Anglican Church in that town. He considered that, whether right or wrong in their peculiar views, it was undesirable for frail, erring men, as all necessarily must be, to seek the help and guidance of that Great Being whose special servant Mr. Wylie professes to be. Dr. Ace, a beneficed clergyman of the church, has clearly and forcibly expressed his opinion on the subject. Will you kindly allow me, as a layman, to express my regret at the course taken by Mr. Wylie? Knowing something of Mr. Wylie, I am certain he acted conscientiously, and to the best of his ability. The misfortune was that he foolishly came to a hasty decision, studiously avoided any discussion on the subject, and then mistook obstinacy for firmness. As a churchman, I deeply deplore his unfortunate mistake. It is errors like this and the Owston Ferry case that are doing the Established Church of this country so much harm in the minds of all classes. "The story of my life from year to year" brings me into close homely contact with rich and poor, and it is with the deepest concern that I see the ill effects that arise from these attempts to dogmatise over everybody else on the part of well-meaning but weak-minded members of the priesthood. It is much to be regretted that the power of the beneficed clergyman is so absolute, and that there is no prompt practical appeal to a higher authority.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

AN ANGLICAN CHURCHMAN BY BIRTH AND CHOICE.

TO THE EDITOR.

SIR,—Dr. Ace has published a letter in the "Hull Times," accusing the Vicar of Brigg of assuming "power to exclude, or rather excommunicate, both priests and people from the Church of England, and set up a capricious clerical test as a condition of public worship." This is a serious charge to bring against a clergyman, especially when brought by another clergyman, "and a Doctor of Divinity of both English universities." "I would therefore record my protest against this audacious aggression on the rights of conscience and the principles of civil and religious liberty" on the part of Dr. Ace; for your readers should know that the Vicar of Brigg simply exercised the discretion vested in every incumbent as to who should officiate, and what service should be performed in the church entrusted to his care, and in this discretion, and according to his conscience, he declined to allow the Chaplain of a secret society to officiate on Whit Tuesday. But Mr. Wylie and his curate officiated at 11 o'clock on that day, when the Freemasons were assembling. The church was not closed against anybody, and some of the Freemasons were present at the service. I presume it is no great breach of civil and religious liberty if some persons disapprove of Freemasonry, and if a clergyman does so, or even is not a Freemason, he may very well decline to lend his church to be used for some service, or for the delivery of some address, or the entrance of some procession which he might possibly disapprove of, as it would be by your HUMBLE SERVANT.

TO THE EDITOR.

SIR,—The letter in your last issue, headed as above, should not be read by the uninitiated as expressing the sentiments of a Freemason who desires to carry out the objects of the fraternity, which are truly stated to be "charitable feeling and Christian virtue;" but rather of one who evidences his zeal and attachment to the Order by contention, strife, and bitterness, instead of in virtue and brotherly love. The contemplation of all the vast and wonderful works of the Great Architect of the Universe shows us that their mutual dependence upon each other is necessary to establish the perfection of the whole; and thus we derive the lesson, which it is the duty of all Freemasons to practise, namely, to breathe the purest spirit of love and harmony. Our Order has always excited the ridicule of some, and offended the religious opinions of others, and whatever may be the vicar's objection to Freemasons using the house of their God, let us not forget that we can only attain the summit of our profession by the means of charity in its most ample sense; and to be a Freemason is to be in charity with all men.

I am, yours obediently,

P.M. 1882.

Brigg, 12nd June, 1876.

[We do not think any good can be accomplished by a protracted correspondence on this subject, and in thus closing it would merely add that since clergymen and ministers invariably extol the practice of Odd Fellows, Foresters, and other friendly societies commencing their festivities by attending Divine service, it would have been but a graceful action on the part of the Vicar of Brigg had he acceded to the request of the much more influential body of Masons who attended the late Provincial Grand Lodge.—Ed.]

We quite agree with our contemporary.

CONSECRATION OF THE WEST MIDDLESEX LODGE, No. 1612.

This new lodge for the Province of Middlesex was consecrated last Saturday, at the Institute, Ealing. The assemblage of the brethren to witness the ceremony was both large and important, numbering as they did some of the principal members of the neighbouring lodges. Among those were Bros. B. Sidney Wilmot, William Hilton, J. Greer, A. Muskett Yettis, W. F. Savage, W. Savage, C. B. Payne, J. B. Lancaster, F. Lawrence, W. Kershaw, C. J. Taylor, C. F. Fogarty, Gardiner, W.M. 780; Walter Goss, E. H. Taylor, J. Large, R. E. Harris, P. Cocher, W. W. Morgan, and H. Massey ("Freemason").

The ceremony of consecration was performed by Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, who was assisted by Bro. Thomas Fenn, P.G.D., and P.A.G.D.C., as S.W.; Bro. James Weaver, P. Prov. G. Organist Middlesex, as J.W.; Bro. the Rev. O. G. P. Perrott, as Chaplain; Bro. H. G. Buss, as D.C.; and Bro. W. J. Murlis, as I.G. Bro. Hervey having opened the lodge, delivered a powerful address to the brethren, in which he pointed out the growing necessity there was for caution in the introduction of new members to the Craft, and advised the brethren of the West Middlesex Lodge to observe that caution in their dealings with the propositions for initiation. He afterwards reiterated the observations he made as to the use of the black ball when he consecrated the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, which were duly reported in the "Freemason" of the 6th of May last.

The Rev. O. G. D. Perrott delivered the oration.

Worshipful Sir and Brethren,—

Having already assisted at one consecration to-day, that of a neighbouring church, and melting, like several I see around me, under the present more than tropical heat, I feel that this is not an occasion for making a long speech, and I shall therefore not weary you by indulging in those usual commonplaces, not unfrequently perhaps insincere, about inability, &c., but proceed direct to the task assigned me, viz., an oration, if I may venture to call such the few remarks I have to make respecting the nature and principles of Freemasonry. In an age like the present, when every institution, whatever its antiquity and usefulness, has suffered more or less from the inroads of the sceptical and levelling tendencies of the day, it is not to be wondered at that our Craft has been from time to time assailed, ridiculed, and even anathematised, and if this is more especially true of its present history it is not less true of the past, and notwithstanding all that has been said against it, I make bold to say that never has the Craft stood on a firmer basis than at present, rearing its head aloft at the grandest ceremony ever witnessed in the Albert Hall, and having for its chief H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The uninitiated may well wonder what this system can be which exhibits such vitality, and has survived the many attacks that have been made against it. And, Worshipful Sir and brethren, without committing myself, of pledging you to an acceptance of those traditions which would point to Adam as the first Freemason, and would identify as brethren of the Craft the sons of Lamech, who are said to have engraved our secrets on certain stone pillars which should outlive the Deluge, it seems pretty certain that Freemasonry can boast not only of considerable antiquity, extending back perhaps into the sphere of immemorial tradition, but also of many persons of illustrious rank, and of men of genius and talent, whose works survive as monuments of their greatness, and who have held the proud position of Grand Masters of our Order. I need mention only the names of Sir Christopher Wren, whose magnificent structure is at once the pride and ornament of our metropolis, of Inigo Jones, and of Cardinal Wolsey, who, amid all his ambitious projects, is said never to have neglected his duties as Grand Master. And what is it, brethren, which has given such stability to our Order? Is it not from the fact of its being based on the grand principles of "brotherly love, relief, and truth?" Yes, we may point with pride to our charities, which testify to the benevolence of past and present members of our Order, no less a sum than £32,000 having been raised this year; and here I would remark, quoting words which fell from the lips of our late revered Grand Master, that these charities ought not to be dependent on the generosity of the same few, who always give liberally, but that every brother should give his quota, remembering the old adage "Many a mickle makes a muckle." I need not plead with Freemasons about the duty of giving, for it is a practical expression of our belief in brotherly love, and besides giving, to quote the words of another distinguished brother, it becomes our duty to take an interest in the working of our charities, and I feel sure that by occasionally visiting them, and watching and aiding in their management, great good would result to the charities. Let those who cannot make themselves at once life subscribers or life governors sink the pride they may feel in seeing their names recorded in print, and give according to their means towards endowing the different chairs in the lodge; in this way, as is done in some of the provinces, greater power in the management of the charities is acquired by the lodge, and the success of one's candidates at elections is assured. Another principle on which our Craft is based is truth; we are required to rule our every action by that volume of unerring truth which lies open in every lodge, and which reveals to us the Word of God. I fear that much of the ridicule to which we are exposed is owing to the licence and excess which some few brethren indulge in, and which the laws of the land do not tolerate even in places of public resort. It was only the other day, when mentioning to a friend our ceremony of to-day, he observed "It is all moonshine, you are no better than Antediluvian Buffaloes; it is all knife and fork business with you Masons—only a question of eating and drinking." Now, it can hardly be questioned that this is the prevalent opinion amongst the uninitiated, and however true it may be with respect to some few amongst us, I venture to say that the great majority of our brethren do act up to the principles they profess, that though they may, just as any other mortals, have their differences, still they do forget and forgive with that brotherly love which they profess, and reflect in the general tenour of their lives the grand principles of the Craft; and, brethren, may it please the Great Architect of the Universe to grant that all the members of this lodge may be bright members of the Order, and may become living stones in that Grand Lodge above, where all secrets shall be revealed.

The ceremony of consecration was afterwards completed, the assistance of Bros. Wrighton, Delevanti, Lawler, Carter, and Baxter being given for the musical portions.

When the ceremony was completed, Bro. A. Beasley, of the managerial department of the Great Western Railway, and P.M. of No. 780, was installed W.M., and the following brethren were invested with their collars of office:—Bros. Brown, I.P.M.; T. Kingston, S.W.; H. Kasner, J.W.; Brown, P.M., Treas.; J. Chambers Roe, Sec.; Bird, S.D.; Greene, J.D.; Compton, I.G.; the Rev. O. G. D. Perrott, Chaplain; F. Delevanti, Organist; Leonard, M.C.; and Harrison, Tyler.

The charges were delivered by Bro. T. Fenn, and propositions were given in for initiation and joining.

The W.M., in proposing a vote of thanks to the consecrating officers, said he had no doubt that those distinguished brethren were honorary members of a good many lodges, but they would none the less value honorary membership of the West Middlesex Lodge on that account. All the brethren knew how much they were indebted to the Grand Secretary for coming there that day, and personally he (the W.M.) felt he could not thank him sufficiently for attending on such a hot day such a long distance from London. They were also exceedingly indebted to the Rev. O. G. D. Perrott for attending and delivering the oration. He therefore proposed, along with the thanks of the brethren, honorary membership of the lodge to the consecrating brethren, Bros. Hervey, Fenn, Weaver, Perrott, and Buss.

Bro. Brown, I.P.M., seconded the motion, which was then put and carried.

Bro. Hervey acknowledged the compliment on behalf of himself and the other consecrating brethren, who, he said, appreciated the compliment as highly as he himself did. They all felt that the little service they had rendered was acceptable to the members of the lodge, which they trusted and felt would be a credit to the Order. They hoped to see it persevere in a path of usefulness. In respectability it could not increase; but while it increased in usefulness so long would it secure esteem, and so long would the consecrating officers feel proud to think that part of the lodge's usefulness was owing to themselves.

After this the bye-laws were passed, and a suggestion was made that a photograph should be taken of the brethren who had participated in the consecration. This suggestion was not, however, adopted, the W.M. stating that the brethren, who were certainly ornamental, had not yet gone through a year of office to shew they were useful, and until that end had been arrived at it might not be much encouragement to other brethren if they did see the portraits. He, however, thought that if a Master did go through his year of office well the suspension of his likeness in the lodge-room would have a beneficial effect on his successors.

Bro. Hervey said that he thought it would be a good rule to adopt that the brethren who were photographed should themselves pay for the work of art.

Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to Bro. Brown's Railway Hotel, where an elegant banquet was provided. After this had been disposed of, the toasts were given, and those of "The Queen and the Craft" and "The M.W.G.M." were first duly honoured.

Bro. T. Fenn, P.G.D., responded to the toast of "The Pro Grand Master, the D.G.M., and Grand Officers," and in doing so said he had been a member of that body for about a dozen years, and he could safely say that he believed the Grand Officers were willing and desirous on all occasions to perform any duty or service which might devolve upon them in the Craft. They were always desirous to advance the interests of Masonry, and it was on that account that they had been brought to the notice of the Grand Master and honoured with the purple. It was a great pleasure to see brethren so honoured, and he must draw to their particular attention the observations which had been made in lodge by Grand Secretary that afternoon, which would give them a good idea of what their duties as Freemasons were. He believed with the Grand Secretary that it was the selection of its members which lay at the foundation of a young lodge's prosperity.

The W.M. next proposed "The Health of Bro. Hervey, Consecrating Officer." He informed the brethren of the great assistance which he had received from Bro. Hervey in the establishment of this lodge, and of the kind advice he had given him whenever he went to consult him on the subject. His knowledge of the Book of Constitutions had been brought to bear on the advice he had given, and this had been of great service in directing the brethren. So that it was not only for coming on that very hot day to consecrate the lodge that the brethren had to thank Bro. Hervey, but for that useful and important advice which he had furnished beforehand.

Bro. Hervey, replying, said that on the occasion of consecrating a lodge, consecrating officers not unfrequently unbosomed themselves, and sometimes made themselves agreeable and sometimes disagreeable by what they said, agreeable by saying flattering things, and disagreeable by telling unpleasant truths. He was afraid he might be considered as doing the latter that evening. Still it was not for him to say only smooth things. He must tell them those things which he thought profitable for them. Lodges were being consecrated now to a large number, and the ceremonies were being very ably done. He was pleased that the ceremony that evening had given satisfaction to the brethren; but it was not to him that praise alone was to be given, as the ceremony would have been poor but for the assistance he received from Bros. Fenn, Weaver, Perrott, and Buss. (Hear hear.) Enough of himself and of those who had acted with him. He now came to a more pleasant theme "The Health of the W.M., and Success and Prosperity to the West Middlesex Lodge." Under the present W.M. he had no doubt that at no distant date the lodge would attain to great eminence. He knew it would be well handled and well conducted. As he had ventured to advise them to take care that good men only were initiated, men well known and well vouched for, he could not suppose for one moment that his advice would not be acted upon, and consequently that the lodge would not prosper.

The W.M. in the course of his response to the toast, which was most cordially received, said that all the brethren knew that what he had done for the lodge had been done with the most hearty good will, and with a sincere desire to benefit not only the Craft in general but this lodge "very much in particular." He remembered having been told two or three years ago that it was in contemplation to establish a lodge in Ealing. He said on that occasion that he should be very glad indeed to join it, well knowing that it would be composed in most part of his personal friends. The movement did not, however, arrive at maturity, but was revived by a meeting being held which he was asked to attend. He did so, not knowing what the intention of the brethren was, and he was much surprised when he was asked whether he would accept the office of W.M. His answer was "Certainly not, if any other brother could be found willing to take it, but if not he would." He was taken at his word, and from that moment to this he had felt it a great compliment, and the brethren must allow him to express his obligations to them. The arrangement, control, and management of everything in connection with the lodge had been in his hands. He said this, however, with a qualification, because the lodge would not have been so completely equipped with everything had it not been for the able assistance he had received from Bro. Roe, the Secretary, and he was quite happy in his mind to think that during his year of office he should have such a Secretary as no lodge ever had before. He would not disguise from the brethren that a great deal of trouble had to be gone through in arranging all the preliminaries for the lodge; in fact, if he had known what an amount of trouble was involved in it he might perhaps have declined altogether when he was asked to take the chair. Bro. Hervey had lightened his labours by giving him all the assistance in his power. All the trouble he had taken was now compensated for; it had culminated in the successful establishment of the lodge, and if he had health and strength during his year of office the bright promise of that day would be in no way dimmed by the actions and performances of the future. It would be his study to set a lead to his successors, and an example and standard from which they would not do well to vary. The W.M. then proposed "The Royal Alfred Lodge, 780, the recommending lodge," with which he coupled the names of Bro. Gardiner, W.M., and Bro. W. Hilton, I.P.M. Both these brethren responded, and expressed the pleasure they experienced in finding a P.M. of their lodge occupying the distinguished position of first W.M. of the West Middlesex Lodge, especially one who had proved his efficiency for the post of W.M. in the former. "The Health of the Chaplain, and the other Assistant Consecrating Officers," was the next toast, and the W.M. took the opportunity of thanking them individually for the readiness with which they lent their aid in the performance of the ceremonies. Bro. the Rev. O. G. D. Perrott, who was the first to reply, said that what the brethren had been pleased to dignify with the title of an oration was merely a short address on the principles of Freemasonry, which he had felt much pleasure in delivering. In that address he had ventured to refer to the charities, and to recommend that those brethren who could not or did not feel disposed to give their five or ten guineas to constitute themselves life-governors of the different institutions should assist in endowing one or other of the chairs of the lodge. He should be very happy to assist in such an object, and he would propose to begin with the Girls' School. Bros. Buss and Weaver also responded. Bros. Brown and Roe replied to "The Treasurer and Secretary," and the other customary toasts having been given and acknowledged, "The Masonic Press" was submitted to the brethren by the W.M., and replied to by Bros. H. Massey ("Freemason") and W. W. Morgan. The Tyler's toast concluded the proceedings, which had been interspersed with some excellent ballads and other choice morceaux by the musical brethren named above.

CONSECRATION OF ST. THOMAS LODGE, 576, AT GIBRALTAR.

On Friday, 23rd ult., the important ceremony of consecrating St. Thomas Lodge, No. 576, took place, under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, by P.M. Thomas J. Haynes, assisted by Bros. Richard B. Hepper, W.M. Lodge Friendship, 278, acting W.S.W.; A. Gimenez, W.M. Lodge St. John, 115, acting W.J.W.; Past Masters J. R. Morgan, F. Ashton, and J. H. Haynes, P.M.'s Beal, Francher, and Holliday; Bros. J. W. Eryenth, J. Cunningham, G. Bassadone, B. White, B. G. Haynes, J. Conroy, S. Buckle, E. Bado, E. Valarino, and T. Trenerry, and about 40 more visiting brethren. After the solemn ceremony of consecration was performed the St. Thomas Lodge was declared open, and Bro. Crewell D. Haynes was presented by Bro. P.M. Morgan and duly installed as the first W.M. of the lodge, the ceremony being performed by Bro. T. Haynes in a very impressive manner, after which the following brethren were installed as the first officers of the lodge:—Bros. T. J. Haynes, D.M.; J. J. R. Morgan, S.W.; N. Clavoresso, W.S.W.; F. Ashton, W.J.W.; J. J. R. Morgan, Treas.; J. H. Haynes, Sec.; J. Rennie, S.D.; T. Haynes, I.G.; G. Llamas, Tyler.

P.M. Beal, in the name of St. John's Lodge, No. 325, I.C.; W.M. A. Gimenez, on behalf of St. John's Lodge, No. 115, E.C.; J. Cunningham, S.W., on behalf of Inhabitants Lodge, 153, E.C.; and W.M. R. B. Hepper, on behalf of Friendship Lodge, No. 278, E.C., wished prosperity and success to St. Thomas Lodge in the names of their respective lodges.

After the names of candidates and joining members had been submitted, the lodge was closed in due form.

The brethren then adjourned to the installation banquet, when the following toasts were proposed and responded to:—"The Queen and the Craft," "The Three Grand Masters, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Duke of Abercorn, and Sir M. S. Stewart, Bart." "The Visitors" was next given, and heartily responded to.

Bro. Morgan proposed the health of a very aged Mason, although not present, being in Cadiz, "Bro. Haynes, the respected Father of the Bros. Haynes present," and requested all the brethren to assist him in giving this toast, which was done enthusiastically with Masonic honours.

Bro. B. G. Haynes, in the name of his father, and in a few appropriate words, returned thanks.

The W.M. mentioned that the St. Thomas Lodge came to fill a void long wanted in Gibraltar; that being a colony where so many Scotchmen resided it had long been their wish to have a lodge under the Scotch Constitution, as there are already lodges under the English and Irish Constitutions, and that there was plenty of room for the St. Thomas Lodge, and hoped that the whole of the lodges would work fraternally together.

"The Health of the Venerable P.M. Beal" was then given, and responded to by all present with the greatest enthusiasm.

The Tyler's toast being given brought to conclusion a most happy and long to be remembered meeting.

The P.G.M. then concluded by saying that there was something of the sort in the province of Oxfordshire in which he was initiated, and that certain lodges in London, whose members had connexions at the university, helped to support it, and a copy of the Calendar was sent to each contributing lodge. The desirability of publishing it would be considered by a committee if they decided to appoint one, and if it appeared right to the lodge to authorize it, he (the P.G.M.) thought that prepared under proper supervision it might be of great use on some occasions.

It was thereupon agreed to appoint the following brethren to form a committee to consider the desirability of publishing a Masonic Calendar for the province, and to report, viz., W. Bro. H. C. Finch, P.G. Reg.; W. Wilson, P.P.G.J.W.; J. S. Carter, P.P.G.S.D.; J. Terry, P.G.D.C.; E. A. Simson, P.M. 403; F. H. Wilson, P.G. Sec.; J. C. Cussans, 443; B. Taylor; and it was further agreed on the proposition of Bro. Terry that the publication of the calendar may take place prior to the next meeting of Prov. Grand Lodge upon receiving the sanction of the Right Worshipful the Prov. Grand Master.

Bro. Carter, proposed, and Bro. Lambert seconded, the election of Bro. A. F. Copland to be the Prov. G. Treasurer, which was carried unanimously.

The officers for the ensuing year were then appointed, and invested as follows:—

Sedgwick, P.M. 104	D. Prov.G.M.
Grocott, 869	Prov. G.S.W.
Gilbert, 1327	Prov. G.J.W.
Rev. Burchell Herne and Rev. C. Mayo	Prov. G. Chaplains.
A. J. Copland, 404	Prov. G. Treas.
H. C. Finch, 404	Prov. G. Reg.
H. Wilson, P.M. 404	Prov. G. Sec.
H. Campkin, 403	Prov. G.S.D.
F. R. Webster, 1479	Prov. G.J.D.
W. H. Fellows, 404	Prov. G.S.W.
James Terry	Prov. G.D.C.
Cutbush, 1385	Prov. G.A.D.C.
E. G. Pottle, 869	Prov. G.S.B.
W. W. Pritchett, 1327	Prov. G. Org.
T. Reilly,	Prov. G. Purst.
J. E. Dawson, 404	Prov. G.A.P.
Chapman, 869; A. Malcolm, 1327; J. D. Massey, 1580; Venables, Green, 404; P. W. Taylor	Prov. P.G. Stwds.
T. Thomas, 404; and T. Wright, 403	Prov. G. Tylers.

The P.G. Sec. informed the brethren while the Tylers were in the room that this was the twenty-fifth anniversary of Bro. Taylors's being re-appointed Tyler of this Provincial Grand Lodge.

The P.G. Sec. read a letter from Bro. Wilson, P.P.G.J.W. expressing his regret at his inability to attend P. Grand Lodge, and thanking the lodge for the jewel voted to him last year and for the letter of regards that accompanied it. He further reported that a new lodge, the Cranbourne, 1580, had been duly constituted and consecrated by the Grand Secretary on behalf of the M.W. the Grand Master, on the 29th March, 1876.

Prov. G. Lodge was then closed with solemn prayer.

After the closing of the lodge the brethren assembled in the great hall, where a banquet worthy of the place and the occasion awaited them. The banqueting arrangements had been placed in the hands of Bro. T. H. Prestage of 571, Hackney-rd., who fulfilled the trust admirably, although labouring under considerable difficulties; for he not only had to get the dinner cooked where possibly a dinner had not been cooked for a century, but he had to get a cooking stove built before he could do it. The whole, however, was successfully performed and an elegant and enjoyable banquet was the result.

On the removal of the cloth the customary loyal and Masonic toasts were given from the chair and received and responded to with true Masonic cordiality.

The Toast of "The Queen and the Craft," and that of "The M.W.G.M. the Prince of Wales," were followed by the National Anthem, and "God Bless the Prince of Wales." We may here say that the musical arrangements, under the direction of Bro. G. T. Carter, P.M. 382, were excellent indeed. We do not know that we ever heard the grace "For this and all Thy mercies given," which was sung at the conclusion of the banquet, so well rendered. The singers were Bros. James Lord, Montem Smith, Seymour Smith and Chaplin Henry, who were accompanied on the pianoforte by the P.G. Organist.

In proposing "The Health of the Pro G.M., Deputy G.M. and the Rest of the Officers, past and present," the P.G.M. spoke in high terms of praise of Lord Carnarvon, both as a public man and a Mason, and also of Lord Skelmersdale, for the admirable manner in which he had justified the Prince of Wales's appointment of him, and coupled the toast with the name of Bro. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain.

Bro. Simpson, in thanking the P.G.M. and brethren for the compliment paid to the Pro Grand Master, Deputy Grand Master, and past and present officers of Grand Lodge, said that so long as the true principles of Freemasonry were held by the great body of Masons they might expect to see at their head men of high position and, what was far more important, men of personal worth. He felt grateful to the Right Worshipful P.G.M. for giving him the privilege of being present on this occasion and at the working of the Prov. G. Lodge, and concluded by remarking that though they might all on some occasions express opinions in which others did not concur, he trusted that they would be charitably credited with honesty of intention and for having the great fundamental principle of Freemasonry at heart, as well as the earnest desire to promote the good of the Craft.

The P.G.S.W.: It is with great pleasure that I propose the toast of "The Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master." It is quite impossible for me to find words sufficient to express the appreciation in which he is held throughout the province, and I must therefore content myself with proposing his very good health.

The Prov. Grand Master, who on rising, was greeted with tremendous cheers, said, Bro. S. G. W. and Brethren, I have to thank you for the very kind manner in which you have proposed and received the toast of my health. I think that the reception you have given me is undeserved, because during the short time I have as yet presided over the Craft here, I have hardly had time to get such a knowledge of the Craft in the Province as I should have. I have to thank the Gresham and King Harold lodges for the magnificent reception they have given us to-day in this grand old hall. I can only say that I seldom remember to have seen a more suitable or impressive place for your meetings, for which I understand you are indebted to our Worshipful Provincial Grand Chaplain. I think the brethren of these two lodges must be most proud of the Provincial Grand Lodge on this account, that during the short time that I have been with you we have added another lodge to our number; and if we can do this every year or every two years we shall soon become one of the most important provinces on this side the kingdom. I feel sure that as long as there is such a cordial feeling throughout this province it will always be a pleasure and a pride to me to be at the head of such a flourishing division of the Craft. As time is short I will add no more on this head but will proceed to propose "The Health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master and the rest of the Prov. Grand Officers, past and present." A Prov. Grand Master cannot do everything and must look to his officers and those in authority under him for assistance and support in carrying out his work. I am supported by such an excellent and efficient body of Masons, and of none can I speak more highly than Bro. Sedgwick. The inconvenience of communication between this and the part where he resides has compelled him to leave already, so that he will not be able to respond to this toast, however, I will name the Provincial Grand Secretary instead. I never can forget my debt of gratitude to Bro. Iles for the assistance he has at all times so readily afforded me, though I am aware his work in Freemasonry is ever a labour of love. I hope, brethren, that you will give this toast such a reception as it deserves.

Bro. Iles having responded, the P.G.M. proposed "The Success of the Masonic Charities" coupling it with the name of Bro. Terry, and remarking on the success which attended Bro. Terry as the representative of one of them.

Bro. Terry, in his reply, attributed his success to his wearing the collar of a P.G. officer; he was understood to say that when he wore the pale blue no one believed in Bro. Terry; but Bro. Terry, one of the Provincial Grand Officers of that province was a person of increased importance, and therefore he had to thank Prov. Grand Lodge for a great measure of his success. He then proceeded to review shortly the useful course taken by the Masonic institutions, in whose behalf he thanked the Prov. Grand Lodge for the toast and for the contribution they had sent up year after year to the funds of each.

"The Health of the Visitors" and "Success to the Lodges of the Province" were also proposed and responded to very cordially, and after an extremely pleasant evening the brethren separated at an early hour.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WORCESTER-SHIRE.

ADDRESS TO THE M.W.G.M.

To His Royal Highness Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, K.G., K.V., &c., &c., &c., Most Worshipful G. Master of the Freemasons of England:

May it please your Royal Highness,—

We, the brethren of the Province of Worcester, in Provincial Grand Lodge assembled at Dudley, in the said province, this Tuesday, the 20th day of June, A.L. 5876, A.D. 1876, respectfully desire to tender our congratulations on your Royal Highness's happy and safe return to your native land from your Royal Highness's visit to and sojourn in India, which visit we sincerely hope and believe will, under the blessing of Divine Providence, tend to cement the loyalty of our fellow subjects in that important part of the British Empire to Her Most Gracious Majesty's beneficent rule, and confirm them in their affection towards our mother country.

In offering these, our loyal congratulations, we would at the same time wish to render to the Most High our humble and heartfelt thanks for His merciful preservation of your Royal Highness under all the fatigues and dangers incident to such a journey, and we pray most fervently that He will grant to your Royal Highness, and to Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, long life, and to Her Most Gracious Majesty a continued, long, and happy reign.

Signed, on behalf of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Worcestershire,

W. BRISTOW, P.G. Sec.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Prevention of Weakness. —Whenever circumstances produce impure blood, lessen the force or in any way disarrange the balance of circulation, stagnation takes place in the lungs, and consumption, or any other formidable symptoms, discover themselves. Let Holloway's remedies be tried on the first feelings of debility or the first annoyance of a dry, hacking cough. After the chest, both before and behind, has been formed with warm brine and the skin has been dried with a towel, the ointment should be rubbed twice a day upon the chest and between the shoulders, and the Pills should be taken in alternative doses to purify the blood and cleanse the system without weakening it or rousing or aggravating the nervous irritation.—ADVT.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CORNWALL.

The local papers, from which we gleaned the account of the last meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Cornwall, unwittingly ascribed the excellence of the arrangements to the wrong parties, and as we believe in "honour to whom honour is due," it affords us pleasure to set the matter right by reproducing the following from the "Falmouth Packet":—

FREEMASONRY IN FALMOUTH.—The first regular lodge of Love and Honour after the assembling of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall, on June 22nd, was held on Monday last, when votes of thanks were unanimously passed to those who had kindly assisted the brethren in making the meeting one of the most successful ever held in this province. The decoration of the Town Hall as a lodge on that occasion was entrusted to Bro. T. Polglase, who, assisted by Bro. Francis, carried out the work admirably, and many of our readers, although not Masons, must have admired its beautiful appearance, whilst our Masonic friends felt pride at old reminiscences—being surrounded by portraits of many old Past Masters, also the quaint and Masonically decorated chairs and pedestals—made from mahogany presented by Bro. Macnamara, in 1753, to Love and Honour Lodge, the oldest lodge in the province, dating and continuously working from June 12th, 1751. The amount of £6 3s. 4d., being two-fifths of the collection at church, was duly forwarded to the Secretaries of Falmouth Public Dispensary.

TO THE LIFE GOVERNORS OF THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS IN THE PROVINCE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

"Audi Alteram Partem."

Brethren,—

I have been living in the vain hope that the strife and uncharitableness which a short time ago was stirred up in our province would have subsided, but I am sorry to see a notice on the agenda for our next Prov. Grand Lodge re-opening and renewing that ill-feeling.

It appears most strange to me that in that once happy and proud province there is not one resident brother who will take up the subject and endeavour to bring about an end to this unpleasantness.

I received Prov. G.L. summons on the 12th inst., and yesterday morning a brother voluntarily kindly sent me copy of a pamphlet, printed by Bro. Tew, ready to be sent to any lodge within the province who considers it worth while to pass upon him a vote of thanks for the prominent part he has recently taken. The receipt of these has aroused in me a desire to say something on the subject, having outside the province taken some little interest in the movements of West Yorkshire. If time permitted I could say much and give you a considerable amount of information on the un-Masonic proceedings of our D.P.G.M. He complains of the short notice Bro. (Mr.) Binckes gave him of the Quarterly Court on the 10th April. I do not know it was the duty of Bro. Binckes to give him this notice at all, but I may tell you that our D.P.G.M. knew of Bro. Woodford's notice on the 3rd April, when he was at Hull. The notice of the motion was only given to the committee in London on the 1st, so that Bro. Tew had as much time to organize his forces as any man in England, and all was done that possibly could to arouse the province by a strong appeal in Prov. G. Lodge at Wakefield on the 6th by the S.W. and J.W. What say you for the candour of your D.P.G.M. in wishing it to be inferred that he did not know of Bro. Woodford's motion until four days before the meeting of the Court? It was advertised in the daily papers in the usual way. Bro. Tew knows (or ought to know) the four fixed days on which Quarterly Court is held—shame on him wishing to make it appear he knew nothing about it until four days before. In the same paragraph he talks about a packed meeting. How ridiculous to talk about a packed meeting in the heart of London at mid-day! That large meeting assembled to shew their indignation of the un-Masonic conduct of our D.P.G.M., some of which I will expose to you before our next P.G. Lodge in October. Talking about a packed meeting comes with the most wretched grace from him! He and two of his satellites "stumping" the country, got together a meeting at Hull on the 3rd April, and when told that I had been invited to attend, wrote by return of post to Hull objecting to my being present. Why, forsooth? "Because" John Sutcliffe of Grimsby is opposed to our movement." What do you think of that from our D.P.G.M.? But I was there notwithstanding his attempt to have a packed meeting, and in my next will tell you how he and his satellites conducted themselves. I will tell you some things which I think will arouse that old spirit of Freemasonry and fair play, which I feel certain still exists in W.Y. Defer your decision on the proposal of the "ex parte" statement of Bro. Booth on the 12th, until you hear some further communication in answer to the report of our Investigation Committee.

At the close of the pamphlet before me he refers to the formation of the House Committee. Does Bro. Tew want to get on that committee? If so, he knows (or ought to know) how to proceed to get elected, and until he or some of his party have been refused admission, I say it is most un-Masonic and ungentlemanly to attack the private characters of that body. It has been said of many agitators that they rail against some supposed grievance, but never take any real action and have no desire to remove it. Is this the case with Bro. Tew? His grievance would be gone if he (or any of his friends) got on the committee. See also his inconsistency, praising the Girls, censuring the Boys' House Committee, although several of the same brethren are on both.

In writing this I hope it has some effect in arousing the dormant spirit of W.Y. I know there are many good men in the province who disapprove altogether the late proceedings. How is it therefore, they quietly sit to be led by the D.P.G.M. and his clique? I have heard it said that one high in rank, none more beloved in all the province, "blushes" for it, and I have before me a note from another brother who stands high, also who would grace the D.P.G.M.'s chair, and would rule in peace, love, and harmony, and not in constant strife, envy, and hatred, and who writing to a friend since the last Boys' School Festival, says: "I am quite delighted at the very marked success of the festival, and the damper, I may say the severe rebuke, it has given to our D.P.G.M., who has done his best to set the province by the ears. Surely it will read him a lesson."

Surely—surely there are many, many more, holding the same good honest opinions. Why don't they speak out and do away with the strife and ill-feeling engendering in our once proud and happy province.

Yours fraternally,
Great Grimsby July 14.

JOHN SUTCLIFFE.

[We have thought it right to publish this circular, but after the result of the meeting the P.G.L. of West Yorkshire, on Wednesday last, at Huddersfield, as Bro. Prov. S. G. Warden Gill says, all that has "passed should be passed." All should be forgotten and forgiven.]

FREEMASONRY IN NEW ZEALAND.

A new lodge was opened on Monday, the 15th May, in Tauranga, at the lodge-room, the Strand, under the authority of Bro. G. P. Pierce, P.G.M., acting under the constitution of the Grand Lodge of Ireland. The lodge was duly constituted and consecrated by Bro. Thomas Jenkins, P.M., of the Ara Lodge, Auckland, and P.G.D.C. of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Auckland, acting as P.O. under warrant from the Provincial Grand Master, assisted by Bros. Capt. Forster, as S.W.; Joseph Vercoe, as J.W.; the Rev. W. E. Mulgan, as Chaplain; and A. Asher, as D.C. The interesting opening ceremony was carried out by these brethren in a highly satisfactory and efficient manner, after which Bro. Henry C. Hoyte was duly installed Worshipful Master of the lodge, Bros. T. D. Wrigley, S.W.; Capt. Turner, J.W.; Joseph Vercoe, Treas.; the Rev. W. E. Mulgan, Chaplain; D. Asher, Sec.; R. C. Jordan, S.D.; W. M. Commons, J.D.; W. Watson, I.G.; Stewart, Tyler. Lodge business was then proceeded with, and a number of gentlemen proposed as candidates. After the lodge closed the brethren adjourned for refreshment to the Masonic Hotel.

Masonic and General Tidings.

The Welsh National Eisteddfod concluded on Friday, 14th inst., at Llanwrst, Lord Aveland and Bro. Sir Watkin Wynn, Bart., M.P., P.G.M. N. Wales and Shropshire, acting as presidents. The latter, in his inaugural address, strongly commended the gathering as an antidote to the prevalence of drunkenness. Lady Llanover's prize for Welsh pedal harp playing, and the championship of Wales, was carried off by Mr. Hugh Hughes, Bethesda, a quarrymen's choir from the same place reaping the chief honours for choral competitions.

The old windows round the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral are being gradually removed, and new ones of a much improved style substituted for them.

The Licensed Victuallers' Asylum Grand Fête day at the Alexandra Palace will take place on Monday, the 24th inst.

The Queen has ordered £100 to be transmitted at once to the Admiral commanding at Portsmouth, for the immediate relief of the widows and families of the sufferers by the explosion on board the Thunderer.

His Majesty the King of the Hellenes received a deputation of four gentlemen representing the Greek community in London, who presented an address. The deputation was composed of Messrs. Eustratis Ralli, Xenophon Ralli, Michel Rodocanachi, and Parragi Sclavo.

METROPOLITAN POLICE.—Colonel Henderson, Commissioner of Police for the Metropolis, has sanctioned a subscription among the officers of his force for ex-Police-Constable Goodchild, who had to resign in consequence of the part which he took in the recent agitation among the Metropolitan Police for a rearrangement of the hours of duty and other advantages, which have since been conceded by the authorities.

A marriage is arranged between Bro. Lord Balfour of Burleigh and Lady Katharine Gordon, sister of the Earl of Aberdeen.

We are delighted to learn that Bro. James Madison Porter, Deputy Grand Master of Masons of Pennsylvania, has arrived in London, much improved in health.

SUNSTROKE.—We are glad to hear that there is no truth in the story which has been circulated to the effect that Mr. Evelyn Perrott, of Sergeants'-inn, Chancery Lane, died from the effects of sunstroke on Monday morning. He is, we learn, in perfect health.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF SURGEONS.—Sir James Paget, Bart., F.R.S., D.C.L., has been appointed the representative of this college in the General Medical Council, in the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Richard Quain, F.R.S.

Mr. Alexandra Russell, editor and proprietor of the "Scotsman" newspaper, died at Edinburgh on Tuesday.

A new Jewish synagogue is about to be erected at Notting-hill, London, at a cost of £18,000, to accommodate 500 persons.

THE GUILDHALL LIBRARY.—The experiment of opening the Guildhall Library in the evening appears to be successful, especially considering what time of year it has been begun in. The average number of readers is 100 in the evening, and the boon appears to be greatly appreciated.

DEATH OF THE QUEEN'S PROCTOR.—We regret to announce that Mr. Francis Hart Dyke, Her Majesty's Procurator-General, was thrown from his horse on Saturday, at Egham, and died on Monday from the injuries sustained. The deceased gentleman for over a quarter of a century filled the office of Queen's Proctor. He was at Westminster, attending to his official duties, the latter part of last week. Dr. Pollock was summoned to attend him on his meeting with the accident.

WOOLWICH.—Union Waterloo Lodge (No. 13).—The installation meeting of this old lodge took place on Wednesday, the 12th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, William-street, Bro. Pownall, late W.M. of the United Military Lodge, being placed in the chair as W.M. for the ensuing twelve months. Bro. G. Davies, P.M., worked the ceremony, which was witnessed by a number of the brethren of the neighbouring lodges, in rare style. The following officers were invested:—Bros. G. W. Reed, S.W.; J. Moore, J.W.; H. C. Syer, Sec.; J. Henderson, P.M., Treas.; J. Hutton, S.D.; N. Brown, J.D.; J. J. Reilly, I.G.; and B. Norman, Tyler. After the presentation of a P.M.'s jewel to Bro. Carnelly, the retiring W.M., the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to Bro. Lockett's Hotel, the New Falcon, at Gravesend, where a superb banquet awaited them. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been duly honoured, the rest of the evening was enjoyed in harmony, Bro. W. Sallenger having charge of a quadrille party, who, with the assistance of Mrs. Sallenger, sang a charming and varied selection of the most popular music of the day. We wish this distinguished lodge, whose century is nearly if not quite accomplished, every success and prosperity.

LEICESTER.—St. John's Lodge (No. 279).—An emergency meeting of the old mother lodge of this province was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 5th inst., under the presidency of Bro. J. Malcolm McAllister, W.M., P.P.G.S.D., supported by Bros. Clement Stretton, P.M., P.P.G.W.; A. Palmer, P.M., P.P.G.P.; G. Statham, S.W.; Clement Edwin Stretton, J.W., P.P.G.P.; Samuel Cleaver, Sec., Prov. G. Steward; C. Gudden, Treas.; G. Manton, J. Road-knight, T. Colman, W. M. Randall, and others. The members may congratulate themselves on the success of the lodge during the present year, a success that will doubtless be marked by the same results with which it is always attended where the true principles of Freemasonry are studied and reduced to practice. The sister lodges on this as on former occasions were strongly represented, and evidenced by their numbers a determination to maintain that intercourse of sociality and brotherly love which is admitted to be the foundation, and keystone, the glory, and cement of this ancient and honourable institution, and a distinguishing characteristic of Leicester Masons. The visitors present included Bros. W. T. Rowlett, W.M. 523; E. Mason, W.M. 1391; T. Worthington, W.M. 50; J. T. Thorp, P.M.; F. J. Baines, P.M.; Dr. Clifton, P.M.; R. A. Barber, P.M.; J. S. Clarke, P.M.; J. Harran, P.M.; Dr. Meadows, J.D.; E. Watson, Steward 1391; J. Young, J.D.; Rev. C. H. Wood, and McDonald, 1560; J. Ewing and T. R. Pickering, Stewards 523. Bro. William Mollard Randall, a townsman, and a distinguished officer in the American navy, was passed to the Degree of Fellow Craft, and Mr. Henry Hardy Peach was duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. The ceremonies were ably performed by the W.M., and Bro. Rowlett, W.M. 523, kindly presided at the organ. After the lodge was closed the usual loyal toasts were duly honoured. Bro. Harran responded for "The Visitors," and, although bordering upon eighty years of age, his venerable and stalwart form was a conspicuous figure in the lodge. Regular and precise in saluting during the ceremonies, memory revived to him many past scenes since he was initiated in 1825. The proceedings were enlivened by some excellent songs, and the brethren separated after an evening spent with the utmost good feeling, cemented by mutual endeavours to promote each other's happiness.

LIVERPOOL.—Everton Lodge (No. 823).—The annual summer celebration of the members of this lodge took place on Wednesday and Thursday, the 19th and 20th inst. The lodge was called for installation purposes at 5 o'clock on Wednesday evening at the Masonic Hall, when and where the chair was taken by Bro. Shaw, the W.M., who was supported by Bros. W. Cottrell, P.M.; J. Holland, P.M.; W. Boulton, P.M.; J. R. Goppel, P.M., P.P.G.D.C.; W. Wilson, S.W. (the W.M. elect); J. Houlding, J.W.; W. J. Lunt, P.M., Treas.; H. Ashmore, Sec.; J. Goodman, S.D.; J. S. Cuthbert, J.D.; P. W. Oglesby, I.G.; T. Webster, S.S.; G. King, J. Boyle, J. Marsh, J. Brooks, W. Altherton, S. Campbell, W. Gaskell, J. Naughton, G. Lunt, W. Kent, T. H. Carefull, R. W.

Gow, J. Holden, J. Cavenah, J. W. Worrall, J. Cave-Browne-Cave, T. Cunningham, W. Davies, T. Ashmore, P.M.; R. A. Webster, C. P. Raymond, J. R. Broadbent, C. Smallwood, R. Leason, E. Morgan, J. Bishop, J. Bunter, J. Smith, L. Bagnall, T. Churton, G. Graham, R. Evans, W. Lowe, E. Thompson, J. E. Hollis, J. Beesley, and J. Hunter. The list of visitors included Bros. T. Chesworth, W.M. 1576; J. Marshall, S.W. 1547; R. H. Evans, W.M. 292; J. J. Rose, P.M. 249; J. Davison, P.M. 724; J. W. Burgess, S.W. 1325; C. Leedham, P.M. 220; J. Jacobs, 724; J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; W. T. May, P.M. 673; H. Pearson, P.M. 349; J. T. Callow, W.M. 1505; J. Wood, Treas. 1094 ("Freemason"); H. Jackson, P.M. 1393; P. B. Gee, P.M. 1264; J. Pemberton, P.G.S.; W. Vaughan, W.M. 724; and the Rev. G. H. Vernon, P.P.G.C. Bro. T. Shaw, the retiring W.M., concluded his year of office by placing Bro. W. Wilson in the chair of W.M. in a most impressive and efficient manner. A special vote of thanks was subsequently ordered to be recorded on the minutes, recognising the able manner in which Bro. T. Shaw had performed the installation ceremony. The following officers were invested for the current year:—Bros. T. Shaw, I.P.M.; J. Houlding, S.W.; H. Ashmore, J.W.; W. J. Lunt, P.M., Treas.; J. S. Cuthbert, Sec.; P. W. Oglesby, S.D.; T. Webster, J.D.; J. I. Boyle, I.G.; T. H. Carefull, S.S.; J. Beesley, J.S.; J. Hunter, A.S.; J. Holland, P.M., D.C.; A. J. Fishlock (by proxy), Organist; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. A jewel was presented to Bro. Shaw, I.P.M. A handsome banner was given to the lodge by the W.M. (Bro. W. Wilson), the gift being presented in the W.M.'s name by Bro. J. R. Goppel, P.M., P.P.G.D.C. On the motion of Bro. P.M. Cottrell, seconded by Bro. P.M. Holland, it was unanimously resolved that the thanks of the lodge to Bro. W. Wilson should be recorded on the minutes. It was also resolved that a sum not exceeding fifteen guineas, which will probably be supplemented by the private subscriptions of the brethren, be voted from the funds of the lodge to purchase some suitable testimonial for presentation to Bro. W. J. Lunt, P.M. as a recognition of the efficient manner in which he has fulfilled the duties of Treasurer for several years. At the conclusion of business the brethren sat down to a supper, and during the evening the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. On Thursday morning about 300 ladies and brethren proceeded by train from Lime-street to the neighbourhood of the Overton Hills, Frodsham, where a most enjoyable picnic was held. The arrangements were of the most satisfactory kind, and every officer connected with the lodge—from the W.M. to the youngest Steward—exerted himself to contribute to the general enjoyment. The creature comforts were abundant; the means of recreation varied and ample; and the weather was everything which could be desired. After one of the most enjoyable picnics, the party returned to Liverpool shortly after ten o'clock.

THE ST. MARK'S LODGE (No. 857).—The usual meeting of the above lodge was held on Tuesday, July 18th, at the Masonic Hall, Camberwell. There were present Bros. Crouch, W.M.; Adams, S.W.; Goolen, J.W.; Wynn Williams, M.D., S.D.; Green, J.D.; Newton, I.G.; Hanson, P.M., Treas.; Frances, P.M., P.G.S.D. Surrey, Sec.; Shuck, Bragg, and King, P.M.'s; Raven, Mellick, Hamilton, Russell, Loyd, Levington, Harris. Visitors: Bros. Sands, P.M. 1401, Japan; W. Martine, Price of Berum. The business of the evening was to initiate Mr. J. S. Raven into Freemasonry, to pass Bros. Raven and Loyd, and to raise Bros. Harris, Russell and Fryer. The ceremonies were admirably performed by the W.M. and his officers, this being the first time for some years when all the ceremonies had been attempted in this lodge by the W.M. Bro. Crouch's performance of the duties elicited much praise from the brethren and visitors, and not only shows the good fruit of the lodge of instruction formed in connection with St. Mark's Lodge, but reflects great credit upon its Preceptor, Bro. Francis. The brethren afterwards partook of an excellent banquet, where the musical talent of the brethren contributed to the enjoyment of the evening.

DERBY.—Hartington Lodge (No. 1085).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Gower-street, on Wednesday evening, June 5th, at 7.30 p.m. The brethren present were Bros. S. Pipes, W.M.; T. Iliffe, P.M.; W. Heathcote, S.W.; T. Gadsby, J.W.; M. H. Robert, Treas.; G. Pipes, Sec.; M. H. Bobart, as S.D.; J. H. Biggs, as J.D.; W. B. Hextall, I.G.; T. Slinn, Tyler, Butterfield, Pakemaid, Rippon, Hepworth, Manton, Steele, Whales. Visitors: Bros. Cabon, 731; Berry, P.M. 325, Salford, Manchester. The lodge was opened in the First Degree. The ballot was taken for Bro. Percy Wallis, St. Oswald Lodge, 850, as a joining member, who was duly elected. Bros. Johnson and Lane were passed to the Second or Fellow Craft Degree by the W.M. The working tools were presented to Bros. Johnson and Lane by Bro. J. Iliffe, P.M. The lodge was afterwards resumed in the First Degree. After other little business had been brought forward, the lodge was closed in perfect harmony, and adjourned to the first Wednesday in August. Many of the brethren afterwards partook of supper, after which the evening was enlivened with songs and toasts, which were thoroughly enjoyed by those who remained. The Tyler's toast being given shortly after eleven, the evening was brought to a close.

LIVERPOOL.—Temple Lodge (No. 1044).—The annual summer picnic in connection with this lodge took place on Thursday, the 20th inst., when about forty ladies and brethren started from Lime-street Station, Liverpool, for Lymm, where a most pleasant day was spent. The party started by special saloon carriage about ten o'clock, and arrived at Lymm shortly after eleven o'clock, where accommodation of the most complete kind was found at the hotel immediately adjoining the station.

Amongst those who were present, and contributed greatly to the success of the out-of-door festival, were Bros. W. Healing, W.M.; Dr. E. M. Sheldon, P.M.; D. W. Winstanley, P.M.; A. Jarvis, S.W.; T. W. Winstanley, J.W.; J. Wood, Treas. ("Freemason"); A. Birch, S.D.; and others. The expenses of the picnic were defrayed by those present, without encroaching at all on the lodge funds, and the W.M. generously provided the implements for the various numerous games, and any money won at any of these games was placed in the charity box of the lodge. A very sumptuous dinner and substantial tea were served, and the greatest pleasure was realised during the long pleasant summer run into the country. The W.M., after dinner, gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Dr. Sheldon proposed "The Health of Bro. W. Healing, W.M." and Bro. the Rev. Dr. Lowe responded to the toast of "The Ladies." After a most delightful day the party returned to Liverpool about ten o'clock.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Lodge (No. 1326).—This prosperous and flourishing lodge held its regular meeting on Saturday, July 15th, at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. Bro. H. A. Dubois, P.P.A.G.D. Middlesex, and P.G.S.D. Middlesex, designate, W.M., opened the lodge. The minutes of the previous lodge meeting were read and confirmed, and signed by the W.M. The ballots were declared to be unanimous in favour of the admission of Bro. B. Sharp, P.M. of several lodges, as a joining member, and Mr. David Smith as a candidate for initiation into Freemasonry. Bro. Frederick Walters, P.P.G. P. Middlesex, P.M., the veteran Secretary, took the chair, and in an able manner installed Bro. Edwin Gilbert, W.M., who appointed as his officers Bros. H. A. Dubois, I.P.M.; C. W. Fox, S.W.; R. W. Williams, J.W.; S. Wickens, P.M., Treas. (re-invested for fifth time); F. Walters, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M., Sec. (re-invested for seventh time); John Hammond, P.M., S.D.; J. B. Shackleton, J.D.; W. Mitchell, Org.; J. W. Baldwin, P.M., I.G.; J. C. Woodrow, P.M. and Sec.; G. Shott, D.C.; H. Potter, P.M., W.S.; J. Symes, C.S.; B. Meyer, Steward; and T. W. Stone, Steward; J. Gilbert, P.G. Tyler Middlesex, Tyler. The W.M., Bro. E. Gilbert, proved his proficiency by the admirable style he initiated Mr. David Smith into the Order. A vote of thanks was given (and recorded on the minutes) to Bro. F. Walters, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, for doing the ceremony of installation. Some candidates were proposed for initiation, and other business done. The lodge was closed and adjourned until August. Banquet and dessert followed. During the evening the handsome P.M.'s jewel, value seven guineas, voted from the lodge funds, was presented to Bro. H. A. Dubois, who in a suitable speech acknowledged the gift. Some good songs and excellent recitations were given during the evening. The dinner and dessert was served under a tent, which added to the comfort of all concerned. There were present, in addition to those already named, Bros. W. Hammond, P.G.J.D. Middlesex, P.M.; B. Sharp, P.M.; Jesse Smith, H. Gloster, and many others. The visitors were Bros. M. Levy, 188; J. W. Wyr, S.W. 1314; G. Regan, 55; H. Hopwood, P.M. 141; J. B. Langley, W.M. 1423; S. Hill, P.M. 141; T. W. Ockenden, D.C. 1412; C. Pawley, Jun., 33; W. Alder, 901; J. W. Gill, 1701 and others.

HAMPTON COURT.—Era Lodge (No. 1423).—An emergency meeting of this prosperous lodge was held on Wednesday, 19th July, at the King's Arms Hotel, Hampton Court. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. J. Baxter Langley, W.M., the lodge was opened by Bro. Frederick Walters, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M., Sec. Bro. H. A. Dubois, P.P.G.A.D.C. Middlesex, P.M., took the chair. Soon after the W.M., Bro. John Baxter Langley, arrived (he having missed a train, which caused his being late), who at once occupied the Solomonic chair, and presided over the lodge for the remainder of the meeting. He in his usual able manner, initiated first Mr. Wm. Swindlehurst, then Mr. Frederick Frampton Beard, doing the ceremony completely twice over, thereby fulfilling the wishes of the R.W.P.G.M., Col. Burdett, who objects in his province in any lodge to have more than one candidate for initiation admitted at once. This completing the business for which the emergency was called, the lodge was closed. There were present also Bros. Benj. Wright, Assist. Sec.; E. W. Devereux, S.D.; H. Falja, C.E., acting as J.D.; A. F. Loos, I.G.; W. Hammond, P.G.J.D. Middlesex, P.M.; Dr. Gillespie, E. Beckwith, and others. The large list of visitors (for an off meeting) were Bros. B. Sharp, P.M. 84; E. Hopwood, P.M. 141, &c.; E. Gilbert, W.M. 1326; J. B. Shackleton, J.D. 1326; T. Butt, 907; and others. It was announced in the lodge that Bro. H. A. Dubois, P.P.G.A.D.C. Middlesex, on the recommendation of the Lebanon Lodge, 1326, had been nominated as P.G.S.D. Middlesex, and F. Walters, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M., Sec., on the recommendation of Acacia Lodge, 1309, had been nominated P.G.J.D. Middlesex. Both brothers were warmly congratulated on their good fortune, and the appointments gave great satisfaction, as both brethren are well-known hard workers in the Order. A cold collation followed labour. The members left early to return to the metropolis.

HAMPTON.—Hemming Lodge (No. 1512).—An emergency meeting of this flourishing provincial lodge was convened on the 8th at the Lion Hotel. Among those present were Bros. E. Hopwood, W.M.; S. Hill, P.M. and S.W.; Bond, W.M. (Deble), acting J.W.; W. Hammond, P.M., P.J.G.D. of Middlesex, I.P.M. and acting Secretary; Walls, acting S.D.; Ockenden, D.C., acting J.D.; Jessott, I.G. The visitors were Bros. Walters, P.M., P.P.G.P. of Middlesex, &c.; Gatten, P.M. and Treas. (141); B. Sharp, P.M. The W.M., with the assistance of his officers, initiated Bro. Charles Hamer Hill, the son of the esteemed and veteran Master, Bro. S. Hill, P.M., &c., S.W., into the mysteries of the Craft. Bro. C. V. J. De Bernex and E. Andrews were passed 44 F.C.'s, and Bros. W. Knowles,

J. Read, and J. Smythe raised to the degree of M.M. A proposition "That lodge gauntlets be provided for the Master, Wardens, and I.P.M., and added to the furniture of the lodge," having been discussed, was ultimately unanimously passed. Bro. T. Ockenden, whose services as Steward to the lodge at the last festival of the R.M.B.I. had been highly appreciated, was unanimously appointed to act in a similar capacity at the festival in 1877 for the Girls' School. Some minor business having been transacted, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to an excellently well served collation. Upon the removal of the cloth the W.M. gave "The Queen and Craft." In proposing "The Health of the W.M.," Bro. Hammond, I.P.M., congratulated Bro. Hopwood upon the assiduity and zeal he had displayed in the discharge of the onerous and multifarious duties appertaining to his position. This toast having been duly honoured, the W.M. replied, "The Health of the Visitors" was briefly proposed by the W.M., who alluded to the presence amongst them that evening of Bro. Walters, P.P.G.P., the indefatigable Secretary of many Middlesex lodges, and also to Bro. Carter, the Treasurer of his mother lodge, the "Faith," and a P.M. of nearly thirty years' standing. This toast having been received with excellent fire was duly acknowledged. Bro. Hill, P.M., the S.W., with the permission of the W.M., then said that although he was aware that Masonic usage would not allow of an initiate being toasted at an emergency meeting, yet he wished to state on behalf of his son, who held that interesting position in the Hemming Lodge that evening, but whose professional duties had prevented him from staying to the collation, that he was exceedingly impressed with the ceremony of his introduction into Freemasonry. He had intended to ask the W.M. for permission to have initiated his son himself, but at the last moment he did not feel physically up to it, and in conclusion he hoped that his boy, who had already distinguished himself highly in his honourable profession, would also very soon earn for himself an equally good name in the Masonic world. Between the toasts and replies Bros. Ockenden, De Fernex, Hill, W. Hammond, Read, Walls, and Knowles entertained the brethren. The Tyler's toast at eleven o'clock terminated the proceedings.

PLUMSTEAD.—United Military Lodge (No. 1536).—The installation meeting of this lodge, the last of a cluster of five that has been celebrated within the last fortnight, took place on Friday, the 14th inst., at Bro. Plaisted's fine hall on Anglesea Hill, when Bro. W. Weston, late S.W. of the lodge, was installed W.M. for the ensuing year, a position that he has earned by earnest and good work done both in and out of the lodge since its consecration twelve months ago. Bro. Croisdale, P.M. 706, was the installing officer, and worthily sustained the reputation of the district by his splendid working. Among the visitors present were Bros. C. Coupland, P.G.W. for Kent, and P.M. 913; A. Penfold, P.M. 913; T. Ward, P.M. 700; J. A. Bates, P.M. 1424; J. McDougall, P.M. 913; E. Denton, P.P.G.D. Kent, and P.M. 13, 706, 913, and Sec. 706 and 913; R. Croisdale, P.M. 706 and 1536; Captain C. Phillips, P.M. 13, 706, and 1536; T. W. Vincent, W.M. 913; T. Hastings, W.M. 829; T. Butt, W.M. 700; G. D. Roe, W.M. 1424; H. Butler, S.W. 913; W. Gamble, S.W. 706; A. Waters, S.W. 700; J. Fowler, S.W. 1424; J. Walker, Treas. 1424; S. Crane, S.D. 1424; A. Woodley, J.W. 700; J. Hutton, J.D. 13; C. Cooke, 13, and Organist 700 and 913; J. Wilkins, J.D. 700; T. H. Hayes, S.D. 913; J. Warren, S.D. 700; H. Pryce, 913; W. McCoy, D.C. 700; D. Capon, 913; C. Morris, 1331; J. Richards, 1326; and C. Jolly, 913. Bro. Weston having been placed in the chair of K.S., and duly saluted, proceeded to invest his officers as follows: G. Spinks, S.W.; J. Picken, J.W.; T. Cooper, Sec.; W. Murphy, Treas.; H. Shaw, S.D.; J. McCaffery, J.D.; Lieut. J. Ritchie, I.G.; D. Deeves, D.C.; W. H. Wright and Weldy, Stewards; H. Hardy, Org.; and J. Lackland, Tyler. After the conclusion of the ceremony, Bro. Croisdale presented Bro. Pownall with the jewel of his office in the name of the lodge, for which the worthy recipient returned thanks. A handsome testimonial was then presented to Bro. Cooper, the indefatigable and courteous Secretary of the lodge, for the great good done by him for its success during the last twelve months, which was as feelingly received as it was heartily given. A vote of thanks was then passed to Bro. Cooke for his services as Organist during that time, and then it was proposed by Bro. Wright, and seconded by the I.P.M., "that a vote of thanks be tendered to Bro. C. Jolly, for the accurate and excellent reports of their lodge meetings, that have appeared in the 'Freemason' since and including the consecration of the lodge, twelve months ago up to the present date, and that the same be inscribed upon the minutes of the lodge." The votes were carried unanimously, and with much applause. Bro. Cooke replied at once, and Bro. Jolly subsequently, both expressing the pleasure it had afforded them to attend the meeting of the lodge, and see the wonderful progress it had made since it first saw the "light," Bro. Jolly specially advocating the claims of the "Freemason" as the organ of the Craft. The banquet was served in the hall by Bro. Plaisted, and this we must honestly say was a great improvement upon the too frequent system of going from home, as is practised in this district, to partake of it at some road or river side hotel, and was a great and unequivocal success, the menu being both choice and liberal, and was served à la Russe under the skilful direction of Bro. W. Moulder, who was especially engaged for this service. The wines were acknowledged to be of the finest brands, and perfect satisfaction was the result of Bro. Plaisted's efforts, on which we heartily congratulate him. The toasts were the usual loyal and Masonic ones of "The Queen and the Craft," "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Grand Master of England, &c., &c.," Bro. Buckland singing a verse of the National Anthem and Brinley Richards's hymn after either toast. That of "Lord Holmersdale, P.G.M. for Kent," was warmly responded to, and Bro. Coupland received an ovation on his name being coupled with that of Bro. Eastes, and the rest of the Pro. G. Officers, he having just received the purple at the last Provincial Grand Lodge meeting, held on the 12th inst., at Deal. He, in reply, said he felt proud of the position to which he had been promoted among the Pro. G. Officers of Kent, not so much personally, as because it was a honour to the district, and more particularly to the Pattison Lodge; it was a position that he trusted he should always support the dignity of, as well as carry out its great and important duties, by being a medium between them and the Pro. G. Lodge, so that their interests should receive that attention necessary for their perfect support and representation. He then told them of the pleasure he had experienced at Deal at the meeting of Pro. G. Lodge, and said that after they had done duty they went to church, and heard Bro. Hill, their esteemed Pro. G. Chaplain, preach a splendid sermon, in which he was pleased to allude to the service he had lately conducted over the memorial stone erected by this district, to their late Bro. Grayden. He should have been pleased to see some of the members of the United Military Lodge present, in whose welfare he could assure them Pro. G. Lodge took great interest, trusting to see them well represented next year. He concluded by thanking them for their toast. Bro. Pownall then proceeded to propose "The Health of the W.M.," and in so doing asked them to carry back their thoughts to twelve months ago, when the lodge was consecrated under the most happy and favourable auspices, and there they would find that the one who had been almost, he might say, the prime promoter of it, now occupied the proud position of its W.M. that day. He (their W.M.) had done his duty honourably and well as a Warden of the lodge, and he felt sure that as W.M. nothing would ever move him from doing his best for the honour and welfare of the lodge. He felt that there was one hearty and spontaneous desire on their part for his prosperity and happiness, and he called upon them to drink his health and success as W.M. of the United Military Lodge. Bro. Weston, in reply, tendered them his sincere thanks. It was a proud position to fulfil, and he was fully aware of the responsibilities entailed upon it; but he should endeavour, with their assistance, so to promote the welfare and harmony of the lodge that at the end of his year of office he should, like his esteemed predecessor, leave the position knowing that what he had done had been for the honour and credit of the lodge. In reply to a very flattering toast from the chair of "The Visitors," Bro. Butt, W.M., replied for the Nelson Lodge, Bro. Vincent, W.M., for the Pattison Lodge, Bro. Croisdale, P.M., for the Florence Nightingale, and Bro. Bates, P.M., for the Brownrigg Lodge. The toast of "The Past Masters" was replied to by Bro. Pownall, that of "The Officers" by Bro. Spinks, and that of "The Press" by Bro. C. Jolly. Bro. Plaisted received a high eulogy at the hands of the W.M. for his splendid catering at the banquet, as well as for his universal kindness and courtesy to the brethren upon all occasions; and last, though not least, thanks were accorded to the musical brethren, Bros. G. Smith, R.A.B., C. Buckland, R.A.B., H. Harding, R.A.B., and Taylor, R.A.B., for their magnificent rendering of a choice selection of music during the evening, and so closed the last installation meeting of one of the many flourishing lodges in the Woolwich and Plumstead district for the year 1876, in peace and harmony with all men.

GREAT STANMORE.—Abercorn Lodge (No. 1549).—The first installation meeting of this lodge since the consecration was held at the Abercorn Hotel on Tuesday, the 4th inst., and the great success of this meeting, combined with the steady progress of the lodge since its commencement, must have been highly gratifying to the Founders, as also to its present members. The respected W.M., Bro. R. Helsdon, acquitted himself in his usual efficient manner, ably assisted by his officers, the only absentee being the worthy brother Joshua Nunn, J.W., through indisposition, and Bro. Patterson, I.G., unavoidably. The members present were Bros. Vincent, Best, Eversden, H. T. Swatton, Roy, E. G. Swatton, Felton, C. Long, Peach, and Lloyd. The visitors were numerous and distinguished, at the head of whom we beheld for the first time with great satisfaction the Prov. G. Master of the province, Bro. Col. Burdett, also Bro. Elsam, P.M., 889, P.P.G.D.C. Surrey; and J. Gorrod, 889; Bros. Smith, Thompson, J. Long, and Ascott, P.M. Westbourne, 733; Woodstock, P.M. Belgrave, 740; Briggs, P.M. Salisbury, 435; Mellard and Lee, Watford, 404; Dr. Scoffern, and Judd, Mount Moriah, 34; W. G. Wells, Dublin, 25. The lodge business being heavy, the brethren assembled partook of refreshment, and commenced business without delay at 2.10. The minutes of last meeting were confirmed. Bro. T. Peach was passed to the Second Degree. Bro. E. G. Swatton was raised to the Sublime Degree of M.M., with the full traditional history. The ballot proving then in favour of Messrs. Fradelle, Clark, and Meek, in the unavoidable absence of the former, the two latter, with, also, Mr. W. R. Marshall, who was elected last meeting, were duly enlightened, and Bro. P.M. Veal, Hon. Sec., P.P.G.S.D. Surrey, presented Bro. J. W. Garrod, S.W., for the benefit of installation, the W.M. adding this ceremony to his previous heavy labours. The new W.M. then appointed his officers, viz., Bros. Vincent, S.W.; Tidcombe, J.W.; Rogers, Treas.; C. Veal Hon. Sec.; Winter, Org.; Patterson, S.D.; Ebbs, J.D.; Eversden, I.G.; Middleton, Tyler. The first Past Master's jewel, amidst much applause, was then presented to the I.P.M., great praise being given for the beauty of design and execution. Bro. Helsdon also further took office as M.C. for the coming year. Bro. J. Nunn, on his retirement from J.W., which he took to assist in forming the new lodge, was unanimously elected an honorary member, and the brethren also recommended that the I.P.M. be proposed to the Provincial Grand Master, when a vacancy for provincial honours should occur, for his kind consideration, and we are happy to hear such is likely to be bestowed at the forthcoming festival for Middlesex. The brethren adjourned at 6.30 to the new banquet room, where an elegant repast was served in a similar recherche manner as last year's consecration, and which evidently gave entire satisfaction. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were all happily given and heartily responded to, that of "The Prov. G.M." bringing, in reply from himself the most hearty congratulations upon the success of the young lodge, even exceeding his expectations, as he specially observed amongst the members not only quantity, but the required quality to make it thrive as a good working lodge. He strongly approved of the strictness of admission rendered so imperative by the bye-laws, and saw in the future every prospect of success, with credit to his Province of Middlesex. The musical contributions of Bros. Winter, Faulkner, and Garrod were highly appreciated, and the evening concluded with every appearance of prosperity for the coming year. A letter of regret was received from the P.G. Sec., Bro. R. Wentworth Little, who was through illness compelled to be absent. The beauty of the country hereabouts, its lovely floral productions, and the magnificent weather, combined with the journey from London by the Watford coach (of which many brethren availed themselves), and which on that day, thanks to F. G. Hopson, Esq., was supplemented by a second coach, driven by Captain Ramsey, all contributed to make the day one that will long be remembered. The next regular meeting will be on Tuesday, the 1st August, when three new members are announced for initiation.

INSTRUCTION.

LEWIS LODGE (No. 1185).—A lodge of instruction, called the Lewis Lodge of Instruction, under the sanction of the Lewis Lodge, No. 1185, has been formed at Wood Green, and the first meeting was held on Wednesday evening, the 5th inst., at the King's Arms Hotel, when bye-laws were submitted to the meeting and approved, and the following brethren elected officers for the ensuing year, namely:—Bros. Vesper, P.M., Preceptor; Alfred Durrant, W.M. 1185, Treas.; and T. H. Turner, J.W. 1185, Sec. Bro. George Newman kindly presented the lodge with the first books. The lodge will be held at the above hotel every Wednesday evening, at seven o'clock, and it is hoped that the brethren residing in the neighbourhood will lend assistance by their presence.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Chapter (No. 1326).—On Saturday last, at the Lion Hotel, Hampton, the election and installation meeting of this well-established chapter was held. Comp. F. Walters, P.G. 1st A.S., Middlesex, P.Z., S.E., opened the chapter, assisted by other Principals. After election, Comp. W. Smeed, P.G. J. Middlesex, P.Z. (who was elected an honorary member), installed W. Hammond, Z.; H. A. Dubois, H.; the J., E. Hopwood, was absent; S. Wickens, P.Z., Treas.; F. Walters, P.Z., S.E. (re-invested third time); E. Gilbert, S.N.; J. Hammond, P.S.; Rev. P. M. Holden, 1st A.S.; W. Mitchell, and A.S.; J. B. Shackleton, D.C.; H. Potter, P.Z., W.S.; J. Gilbert, Janitor. A ten guinea P.Z.'s jewel was presented to Comp. S. Wickens, I.P.Z., for his services. Comp. Moss, (father of the chapter) had a ten-guinea silver goblet presented him. A ten guinea testimonial was given to Comp. F. Walters, P.Z., S.E., for services rendered as a Founder, and Scribe E. Comp. B. Sharp, P.Z. 84, was elected a member, also some candidates proposed for exaltation, and a companion for joining. The chapter closed and adjourned to Thursday, August 10th. Banquet and dessert followed. Some good songs and recitations were given. The regular toasts were given and received.

Ancient and Primitive Masonry.

MANCHESTER.—Sovereign Sanctuary.—A meeting of the Sovereign Sanctuary of the Ancient and Primitive Rite of Masonry, 33rd and last degree, in and for Great Britain and Ireland, was duly held at Manchester on the 1st inst. The places of the three Principal Officers were filled by illustrious Bros. John Yarker, G.M.G.; Charles Scott, J.P., G.A.G.; Beccy Bowman Labrey, G.K.G. of G.B. Apologies were announced from three brethren who were absent and unable to attend, either from the great distance or prior engagements. The minutes of the last convocation were read and confirmed, as well as the proceedings since—firstly, as to the Order of Miztriam; that a fee of ten shillings should be charged to cover cost of certificate and manual, and a joining fee of 31s. 6d. to members of foreign jurisdictions for the same; secondly, as to the publication of the statutes, constitutions, and history. Satisfactory evidence of the progress of the Rite was adduced under M. Ill. Bro. Alex. B. Mott, M.D., of New York, and V. Ill. Bro. Geo. Canning Longley, of Maitland, Canada, as also in this country. The decoration of the Grand Star of Sirius (conferred every five years) was awarded to Right Ill. Bro. S. P. Leather, of Burnley, Treasurer General, for the zeal and ability he had shown in the propagation of the Rite, the next year's award of the Aldeide to be made by the Grand Chancery, as also to any deserving cases for the bronze order of merit. The past dignitary officers were confirmed in the rank they now hold, but Ill. Bro. B. B. Labrey was appointed Deputy to the Grand Chancellor General. It was directed that two parts—Section v. (Areopagus) and Section vii. (Council) of the Ritual—should be placed in the printer's hands, as the funds of the Sovereign Sanctuary would allow. A ritual of the 30° was submitted, and highly eulogised as the most beautiful ceremony in any known system of Masonry. The proceedings were closed with enthusiastic wishes for the progress of the Rite.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. Mungo (No. 27).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall on Thursday, the 20th inst., the W.M., Bro. D. Butler, presiding, supported, in the unavoidable absence of his Wardens, by Bros. A. Bain, P.M. 103, P.G.B.B., acting S.W.; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"), acting J.W. The meeting was well attended, and among those present were Bros. McEwan, jun., Dory, S.S.; Taylor, Archt.; Albin, Dir. of Music; Booth, and Sharpe. Visitors: Bros. J. Louttit, W.M. Athole, No. 413; Thomson, 413; T. Brownlie, 413; W. Brownlie, 413; W. Christie, Lodge Acacia, No. 61, Hamilton, Canada; J. Beaton, 103; Coutts, 354; Alexander, 275; W. Perritt, 441; J. A. Campbell, 581; and others. Two gentlemen were initiated by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543. Their names are Messrs. A. Mason Adam and R. Maitland. The lodge was called to refreshment, when Bro. Butler, W.M., proposed the following toasts, viz., "The Queen and Craft," "The Three Grand Lodges," "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow"—Bro. Bain, P.G.B.B., ably replied on behalf of "The P.G.L.," "The Newly-laid Stones"—Bro. Maitland replied. "The Visiting Brethren" was proposed in Bro. Bain's usual able style, and replied to by Bro. Louttit, W.M. 413. The W.M. proposed "The Health of Bro. McDonald," a veteran member of the lodge, which was heartily responded to. Bro. McDonald replied, and thanked the W.M. and the members of the lodge for their kindly notice, and said he was glad to be present in St. Mungo Lodge once more, and concluded, with the sanction of the W.M., in proposing "The Health of Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543," and complimented him on the manner he performed the First Degree. During the evening Bro. Coutts gave some selections of music on the harmonium, which were highly applauded, and Bros. McDonald, Sharpe, Perritt, and Adam ably contributed to the evening's enjoyment by singing some excellent songs. Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543, was unanimously elected an honorary member of St. Mungo Lodge, No. 27. Bro. Ferguson returned thanks for the honour conferred.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Clyde (No. 408).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, on Friday, the 21st inst., at 7 p.m. Bro. W. Harper, W.M., being absent on account of important business, the chair was occupied by Bro. John McInnes, S.M., supported by the other office-bearers. Visitors: Bros. G. McDonald, W.M. Thistle and Rose, 73; J. Louttit, W.M. Athole, 413; J. M. Oliver, S.W. Commercial, 360; and W. Ferguson, P.M. St. John's, 543. The lodge having been opened in due form, Messrs. Robert Irvine and Thomas Chivas were initiated into the E.A. Degree by Bro. McDonald, W.M. 73. Mr. J. Baillie was also initiated by Bro. Oliver, S.W. 360. Four brethren were then passed by Bro. Louttit, W.M. 413; and afterwards three brethren were raised by Bros. Oliver and Louttit.

FREEMASONRY IN MOURNING.

On the evening of Thursday, the 29th of June, a solemn and impressive ceremonial took place in the Lodge St. John, Falkirk, No. 16. The beautiful little Gothic hall was filled to the full, and as the brethren appeared in deep mourning costume, with their brightest badges and grandest jewellery craped for the occasion, there was an air of unusual solemnity took possession of the assembled brotherhood. They had met to do honour to the memory of Bro. Alex. Shields, Past Master of the Lodge; and if aught can be inferred from the numbers who were present, including representative deputations from a distance, or from the high choral and responsive service, or from the manifold repetition of the Grand Honours, not to speak of the Grand Oration pronounced in honour of the departed, he must have been a man and a brother of surpassing excellence, the range of whose influence, while it irradiated the Masonic circle that had been doing honour to his memory, must have stretched out far beyond it, and encircled a wider humanity by far than even Masonry, with its far-reaching sympathies, can embrace.

Bro. Beeby, R.W.M., conducted the proceedings with masterly effect. Bro. Falconer, by the voice of the lodge, was called upon, as Chaplain, to pronounce the oration in memory of the departed; and Bro. Maxwell Müller, Grand Director of Music for the Grand Lodge of Scotland, presided at the harmonium, and by the sweetness, the grace, and the grandeur of his performances, lent a grave and solemn enthusiasm to the brethren all. After the lodge was opened amid solemn, and indeed awful, silence, he made "The Dead March in Saul" thrill through the brethren; and after the raising of the lodge and the sublime prayer of the Chaplain, he threw his soul into a "Sacred Voluntary," which itself seemed like an oration—which in its cadences fell and rose, between the gloom of the grave and the glory of the goal—till it was lost in the mysterious splendours of the unseen. In the whole ceremonial, however, nothing was more imposing than the spirit of prayerfulness and of praise which presided over the mystic scene. You could have almost heard the proverbial pin fall throughout the whole proceedings; but strangest of all, the many voices of the brethren, whether in psalmody or in recitative response, left upon the mind the impression of awful silence and solitariness—the solitariness and the silence of the grave. And yet neither was the psalmody nor the responsive service more grave than befitted the occasion. Indeed, the ceremonial could hardly be haloed with sweeter hopefulness. For though in one part of the service of song there was sung—

"Frail man, how like the meteor's blaze—

How evanescent are thy days!"

Yet in another part of the same sacred service the song was changed from the grave to the glorious, and the brethren sang

"Waft him, angels, through the skies, Far above yon azure plain."

So may we report of the service with responses. At the opening of the lodge it is—"Naked we came into the world," &c.; but at its close it is transformed into the nobler voice—"Glory to God on High, on earth peace and good will toward men."

In the midst of this august ceremonial Bro. Falconer, who appeared robed, clothed, and jewelled for the occasion, was called upon by Bro. Beeby, R.W.M., to pronounce a death oration over the departed brother and Master, when he, as Chaplain, rose and spoke somewhat as follows:—"Right Worshipful Master, Senior and Junior Wardens, and brethren all,—It has ere now fallen to my lot, as one of Her Majesty's Chaplains for her forces in Scotland, to pronounce a funeral oration over a departed hero. A case so sad, so solemnizing, I keep within view at this most impressive moment. It was that of a brother of the mystic tie. He had gone to the Crimea to fight the battles of his country, but, wounded and enfeebled, he was sent home to die. Well, I recollect one dark day, when seated by his death-bed in the hospital, I asked him how his blood could ever surge into the tumultuous swellings of fierce and bloody war? when the dying soldier, swinging himself round upon his arm, replied—"By God, sir, when your brother's brains bespatter your breast you will understand how quenchless is the thirst for blood." Well do I recollect that when pronouncing his funeral oration there was not a dry eye as I quoted his dying words:—"It is not in an hospital the soldier would like to die; no, sir, but it is upon the battlefield, with his back upon the cold ground and his face to the bright blue sky." Right Worshipful Master, it is not a brother's brains that bespatter our breasts to-night; no, but it is the radiant glow of a brother's life that gilds our bosoms with more than the effulgence of a warrior's breastplate to defend us from the fierce and fiery darts of the Evil One, alone opposed to our Order, as the scions of the cedar, the sons of the temple, and the servants of the temple's god. Like Him whom we delight to honour, our voice is not for war. We choose the trowel, not the sword; the compass, not the arrow; while we pass on to glory, not through the battlements that bristle with the mortal weapons of the foe above the embrasures, scarce less wide than the cannon's mouth with its diagon's breath; but we march on to our triumphant aims through the pillared monuments of the Jachin of Beauty and the Braz of Strength, over-arched by the span of a presiding Providence, until we reach, after we have trodden the tessellated pavement of truth, that inner shrine where the awful Shekinah enfolds, as with the wings of the dove, the spirit of the departed brother. Right Worshipful Master,—Kings and potentates have delighted to do honour to our most ancient and Royal Order. And proud am I to call to remembrance at this hour the honour done to our august and loyal brotherhood, when the heir apparent to the proudest throne on earth was preparing for his brave journey to Britannia's realms in the rising sun, His Royal Highness did not forget to deposit in his princely wardrobe the clothing of a Master of our Order, from the star that adorns the breast to the gauntlet that shields the hand, and the lambskin that preserves, unsullied, the loins. Nor should I even forget at this moment the auspicious occasion in my field of labour in which this lodge took so conspicuous a part; and most pleasing is it to record that the nobleman who at that august ceremonial presided as representative of the Grand Lodge in Scotland—I mean Bro. Lord Balfour, of Burleigh—extended his noble hand, sinewed by the strength and quickened by the blood of a Royal ancestry, to grip the grim and begrimed hand of the miner, whom, as a Mason, he hailed as a brother. Yes; it is this humanity that makes Masonry truly great. Recognising all that promotes the honour, the harmony, and the faith of our ancient and Royal Order, she delights to promulgate her creed, that there is nothing human that is not divine. Our departed brother, with a rich and rare combination of all the gems that go to form the jewellery of our guild, so viewed humanity; and his sacred memory commands our homage in that he recognised the divinity that stirs within the breast of the meekest, the most fallen of the sons of men. With a spirit steeped in the empyrean of our Order, he traced and quarried out, and chiselled, and deposited in our mystic temple material, raw indeed and incapable, to less discerning eye. He was a Mason; out and out a Mason; every inch of him, from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot. Proud of his ritual, which I recollect he once characterised as more sublime and comprehensive than that of any Church on earth; proud of its symbolism, which he regarded as more affluent in its mystic meaning than aught that has passed under review of man since the inaugural day when King Solomon, our Royal and inspired founder, erected on Mount Moriah the temple of our divinity, he imported into the conduct of this lodge a gravity and a dignity, a repose and a devotion, which so becomes an Order whose past is almost hid behind the veil of prehistoric time, but whose present is ever flushed with the glow of perennial vigour. Keenly did his clear eye and clearer intelligence discern the mission Masonry is destined to fulfill. Pass in thought over the realms of Christendom; command nation after nation to marshal themselves beneath your piercing eye, and your sad deliverance must be, that the seamless garment of the Prince of Peace is torn into fragments, and the veil of His temple rent in twain from top to bottom. Is it so with Masonry? No; and a thousand times no. It is not. All the wide world over it is One—One only—and an undivided and indivisible One. And it is One and indivisible because it possesses a loyalty, a subordination, and a fraternity elsewhere forgotten or ignored. Our departed brother made it his supreme duty to convey from his guild to the world this comprehensive, this all-embracing spirit; and he was simply a good Mason because he had a heart broad enough to embrace, like the Great Master Builder, all castes and classes, ranks and denominations amongst mankind. Right Worshipful Master, it is sometimes our privilege, as it is our undoubted province, to lay the foundation stone of architectural structures, destined to beautify the scenery or enrich the civilisation of our land. Oh! how may I call the present such a hallowed occasion? To-night we lay a foundation stone that shall support for ever this lodge. Aye! Bro. Alexander Shields lies now before you as a foundation stone. Descending, in solemn music, he has been deposited in his place of honour and repose. The jewellery of the Order has been applied; nothing has been found wanting; and it only remains that over that foundation stone we shall erect a temple to his everlasting honour. "So mote it be." You who have seen, as all of you have seen, a brother elevated to the Sublime and lofty Degree of a Master Mason, must have discerned in the act a recognition of the awe-inspiring doctrine of a resurrection to come; and it is your creed that the brother who has been true has passed from this vestibule to the inner shrine, upborne on seraphic wings; that he reposes in everlasting peace, enshrouded by the glory that illumines the Holy of Holies; that he has whispered into the Eternal Ear the awful word of a Master Mason, and received in return the sound of that name which no true Mason dares to breathe on earth. We part with our departed brother, then, in the blessed hope of a resurrection to come. So farewell, beloved brother, farewell! Farewell, Right Worshipful Master, farewell! No more shall thy clear eye bewail this august assembly. No more shall thy clearer intelligence direct its councils. No more shall, clearest of all, thy life, which embodied the strength of our faith, the glow of our love, and the halo of our hope, be apparent to the eye. My brother beloved, farewell! Thou shalt still live in our hearts, whilst the hand of the Master Mason shall build thee a monument to perpetuate thy memory from age to age. We shall meet again in the lodge which on the great day of account shall be opened, never, never more to be closed. Till then, beloved brother, and Right Worshipful Master, farewell!

After this death eulogium there was that sort of emotion one sometimes, though not often, perceives. At the close of an eloquent and impressive discourse; but one might have as well expected demonstrations of feeling in the house of God as looked for plaudits on so solemnising an occasion.

After exhausting the funeral programme, the R.W.M. addressed the brethren, briefly, though cordially and most fraternally, acknowledging the kindness of the deputations present; the offices of the Chaplain and the Grand Director of Music; and at the same time thanking the lodge for the solemn and most becoming tone which they had imparted to their grateful meeting.

After prayer from the Chaplain, the lodge was duly closed, every member satisfied that Masonry was loftier, sublimer, and holier than he had ever dreamt of or conceived.

Mulum in Parbo; or Masonic Notes and Queries.

AN ANCIENT JEWEL.

The following is the description of an ancient jewel kindly forwarded to us for inspection by Bro. R. H. Armit:—

On one side there are three arches, a man setting the keystone of the centre one, with a crowbar on the centre one. Within the centre arch are a volume of the sacred book open, with square and compasses on it, and the five pointed star; in front are two pedestals, with the square and compasses on one and the square on the other; to the right of the arches are the sun and plumb line, and to the left the moon and level; to the right of the pedestals are grouped a maul, square, hammer, and chisel, and on the left a pair of compasses, chisel, and block of stone with the letter G on it. The groundwork of the whole is a tessellated pavement. Motto round the bottom: "Sit Lux et lux fuit." On the other side is a temple; two men are on the roof, another is going up a ladder placed against the wall, and the fourth is guiding a stone with a rope which is being raised to the roof; on a raised piece of ground to the right is a carpenter's bench, a man with an apron on standing in front of it holding a square in his hand, whilst another is pointing to the roof of the temple with a stick; under them are grouped a maul, a trowel, a pickaxe, and a crowbar. Motto round bottom: "Amor honor justitia."

The jewel was presented to my father, the late John Lees Armit, of Dublin, while in Naples in 1832, by Prince Syracuse, the King of Naples' brother—at least, that is the history received from my mother. It was considered ancient.—R.H.A.

SWITZERLAND.

We learn from the "Monde Maçonnique" that the Grand Lodge Alpina and the Supreme Council of the 33° for Switzerland have made a concordat, by which all the symbolical lodges pass under the jurisdiction of the former and all the High Grade bodies under the jurisdiction of the latter.

Obituary.

BRO. R. J. STANSFELD.

On the 23rd of April passed away in the most sudden manner, from disease of the heart, a true and worthy brother and a gallant soldier, Bro. Robert Johnston Stansfeld, of Firby Hall, near York, late captain 38th and 12th Regiments, a magistrate for the West Riding of the county of York, and a subscribing member of the Lodge of Probity, No. 61, Halifax. The deceased was made, passed, and raised in the Dalhousie Lodge, Mussoorie, Bengal, No. 639, and was a consistent subscribing member of Probity, No. 61, to his death. He was much beloved and respected, and died to the great regret of all who knew him, by the members of his lodge, and by the brothers in arms with whom he had served in the army. His remains were carried to their last earthly resting place by old servants of the family, and Sir George Larpent, Bart., Col. Lowry, C.B., and Bro. Capt. Owen and Capt. Bowen attended in full uniform as pall-bearers. The gallant deceased had seen most distinguished services in the Crimea, and in India during the mutiny, and was at Lucknow. His services are thus recorded in Hart's "Army List": "Capt. Stansfeld served with the 38th Regt. in the Crimean campaign from 1st June, 1855, including the siege and fall of Sebastopol, and attack and occupation of the cemetery on 18th June (medal with clasp, and Turkish medal). Also in the Indian Mutiny campaign from Nov., 1857, including the capture of Meerangunge, siege and capture of Lucknow, and affairs of Barree and Nugger (medal with clasp)." Votes of condolence to his bereaved widow were sent by his lodge and by the bench of magistrates with which he was connected. The deceased was a member of one of the oldest families in the kingdom—the Stansfelds came over with the Conqueror, Wyons Maryons being the first of the family. It has several distinguished members, of whom one is the Rt. Hon. James Stansfeld, M.P., late one of the Lords of the Treasury. Capt. Stansfeld was elder son of Col. Stansfeld, of Field House, near Halifax, and married Agnes, younger daughter of Joseph Harrison, Esq., of Galligraives Hall, and Sainlesbury, Lancashire, D.L. and J.P. for that county.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this Institution was held on Thursday at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Thomas W. White presided. There were also present Bros. George Kenning, F. G. Baker, Wm. Stephens, Thomas Massa, Wm. F. C. Moutrie, H. Massey ("Freemason"), John Boyd, Thos. Kingston, F. Binckes, Major Finney, and R. W. Little (Secretary).

Three candidates were placed on the list for election. One case was deferred for reading.

Bro. Little, the Secretary, read a letter from Bro. H. Muggeridge in which he stated his willingness to remain collector to the Institution till 31 Dec. next.

Bro. Little said it would be very inconvenient if Bro. Muggeridge's resignation occurred in October, and another collector should be appointed for the remainder of the year, and he wished Bro. Muggeridge to remain in office till the latter date.

The committee thereupon agreed that Bro. Muggeridge should continue in office till 31st Dec.

The appointment of a committee to consider the office of Collector was deferred till next meeting of the General Committee.

An additional vacancy in the Institution was declared, and authority was given to the chairman to sign certain cheques.

Bro. F. Binckes, before the committee broke up, said that although it was not the usual practice of this committee he thought it might go out of its way to record its feelings of regret at the loss of Bro. Richard Spencer by death, which occurred on the 21st inst. It was done in the case of Bro. Udall, that being considered an exceptional case. Bro. Spencer's he also thought an exceptional case. He had been so closely connected not only with all the institutions, whose meetings he regularly attended, but also with the working of Masonry, that it really took him out of the ordinary category of cases. He was, moreover, 76 years of age, and he had worked up to the very latest period of his life. He thought a record of the regret of the brethren at the announcement of the sad event which had happened would not be inconsistent with the feelings of the brethren. He would therefore move "That this committee having heard of the death of Bro. Richard Spencer, one of its members, desires to record its sense of extreme regret at the announcement, and request the Secretary to write to the widow of Bro. Spencer expressing their condolence with her, and informing her of the resolution of the committee."

Bro. George Kenning concurred most heartily in the motion, and begged to second it.

The committee then adjourned.

Bro. the Rt. Hon. Lord Leigh, Prov. Grand Master for Warwickshire and Lord Lieutenant of the county, distributed the prizes at Leamington College on Wednesday, when there was a large and fashionable audience.

THE SHRIEVALTY.—Bro. Alderman and Sheriff elect Hadley has appointed the Rev. Dr. Morley Punshon to be his chaplain during his year of office. As already stated, Mr. F. W. Lewis Farrar will be his under sheriff.

This evening "Our Boys" will have reached its 50th consecutive representation at Bros. James and Thorne's pretty theatre, the Vaudeville.

THE LONDON MASONIC CLUB.

On Wednesday evening this new club for Freemasons, which is situated at 101, Queen Victoria-street, City, was opened by an "inaugural banquet." The premises had been opened for the use of members, and for all the purposes of a club, a week before, and were even then in thorough working order. The club, as will have been seen from our advertising columns, has been established for the purpose of bringing together the brethren of the metropolis, and of the provinces, and as a means of communication between them when the brethren of the provinces come to London on business. More particularly has it been established to give the latter a home, wherein they may be especially welcome, and may have every comfort at such a time. All the members who have been at present admitted have been admitted without having to pay an entrance fee, and these members now amount to about 1000 in number. It is not the intention of the committee of management, at all events for some time, to place an entrance fee upon joining members if it can possibly be avoided, hence they rely upon the support of the Masonic brethren in general to assist them in carrying on the club on this principle, and they rely with confidence on the cordial co-operation of the brethren in their endeavours so to act. It has not been without some slight pressure in the opposite direction that they have persevered in the course so laid down, but as they desire that all members of the Craft should participate in the advantages of a central club they have persisted in their design of acting on what they consider strictly Masonic principles. The building consists of a spacious hall and a large coffee-room on the ground floor for members and their friends. In the basement there is an excellent billiard room, fitted up with two of Burroughes and Watts' tables. To this room are attached lavatories and other conveniences. The cellarage department is all arranged in perfect order. On the first floor are a large reading room and a banqueting room. On the second floor are Masonic rooms to be devoted entirely to Masonry, and with these are connected clothing rooms and lavatories entirely shut off from the other portion of the building. On the third floor are other large dining and clothing rooms. The kitchen department is at the top of the house, and has been admirably arranged under the supervision and direction of that well-known caterer Bro. George States, who has been for so many years engaged as an hotel manager. The engineering and hot-water apparatus have been entrusted to Messrs. Thorne's, of Upper Thames-street, and the execution of the work has left nothing to be desired. The club buildings have been erected from the designs and under the superintendence of Messrs. Driver and Haywood, architects to the club. Since the club has been established several lodges have removed to it, and among others is the Puritan, a German lodge of some 70 members, who enjoy at their new premises facilities not hitherto obtained by continental Masons in London. The whole of the members of this lodge have joined the club, where they will have the advantage of entertaining their foreign brethren when they sojourn in London.

Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, and Provincial Grand Master of West Lancashire, presided at the inaugural banquet, and amongst the other brethren who were present were Bros. J. B. Monckton, Captain Philips, Hyde Pullen, Boor, Hyde Clarke, Langton, Klenck, F. Binckes, Dr. Stirling, R. W. Little, Percival, James Teny, Driver, Burton, Cooke, W. A. Colls, Thomas, E. R. Steel, Lane, F. Flint, J. E. Middleton, B. Fountain, Thomas Bishop, C. H. Mevill, Aylmer, Rev. W. Bloxome, Charrington, Colonel Drage, Leipert, J. P. White, Levin, Samuel White, H. D. Stead, A. K. Stead, James Matthews, J. Waldron, Ger. Perren, T. G. Smith, Fountain Meen, Saxon Hooper, Hatton Wells, Chr. Hawkesley, Henry Upstone, Loewenstark, E. Collins, Roberts, E. Fox, Langton Jones, J. Langton Jones, jun., M. Jacobs, Connot, G. Payne, W. H. Trego, T. F. Smith, W. Watson, Hollington, Stapleton, Morell, C. B. Cooke, Walter Spencer, and H. Massey ("Freemason").

The banquet, which was admirably put on the table by Bro. George States, the manager, contained every delicacy of the season. It was all prepared in the house, and was a proof of the perfection of the club appliances. When the banquet was concluded grace was sung by Bros. George Porren, George Fox, E. Collins, H. Upstone, W. Wells, J. Matthews, and Fountain Meen, and the toasts, which were very few in number, were then proposed.

Lord Skelmersdale, in proposing "The Queen," said that although Her Majesty was not a Freemason in fact, she was one at heart, because she carried out to the fullest extent the Masonic principle of charity. He thought that if Englishmen looked back at the whole period during which Her Majesty had been on the throne they could not but be proud that they had such a Sovereign, and they must feel that the longer she reigned over us the happier we should be as a nation and people.

In proposing "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M.," his lordship said that so much had been observed of late about the success of H.R.H.'s visit to the East, and his happy return, that it was unnecessary to add any remarks to those already made. Although he had not been out in Masonry much this year Masons hoped to see him a great deal among them the next season taking part in Masonic proceedings.

The toast of "The Pro. Grand Master" &c., followed, Lord Skelmersdale drawing to the attention of the brethren the fact that Lord Carnarvon worked very hard in Masonry, of which circumstance he (Lord Skelmersdale) became fully aware during the absence of the Prince of Wales, when the strain upon the Pro Grand Master was very great.

Bro. Hyde Pullen responded.

Bro. Boor proposed "The Health of Lord Skelmersdale," to which, when it had been most heartily received, Lord Skelmersdale replied. His Masonic duties were sometimes very heavy, and consequently rather difficult to perform, and if he had had two bodies there would have been plenty of work for both while the Prince of Wales was away in India. He then proposed "Success to the London Masonic Club." At the time he became a member of this club he thought the establishment of such a place was a capital idea, though he had some doubts as to its being ever carried out. He was, however, happy to find that it had been, and he thought that great thanks were due to the managers, directors, and committee for the admirable way in which they had done their work. He had the honour and pleasure of going over the club from cellar to garret that afternoon, and having had some experience of building, he congratulated the architect most cordially on the way in which he had carried out his plans. It had been his (Lord Skelmersdale's) wish and desire for many years that Masonry should not be carried on at taverns, and in his own Province of Lancashire he had tried to inculcate that idea, and by degrees he hoped it would be fully carried out. Lodges should be held at private rooms and halls, and not in taverns. Nothing would more conduce to this desirable end than the establishment of clubs like the London Masonic Club. There was ample accommodation for 20 or 30 lodges without interfering with each other. There was one suggestion which had been carried out with great success in his own province in the Masonic Hall of Liverpool—every lodge that met there had its own private cellar; and this, though apparently a small thing, had been the means of bringing to the hall a number of lodges. The reason was that Masons preferred to have their own good wine to that which they ran the risk of having at taverns. Still, Masonry did not consist of eating and drinking, though he fancied there was too much of this carried on in Masonry; and if it was cut down somewhat there would be more money to give to the charities of the Order. After some more remarks of this tendency his lordship concluded by formally proposing the toast, and called upon Bro. A. K. Stead to reply.

Bro. Stead having replied, and thanked his lordship for inaugurating the business of the club by his presence that evening, said that the great support which the club had already received led the committee to indulge in the firm conviction that the whole affair would be most successful.

Bro. Langton announced that he had letters of regret for absence from the Earl of Limerick, Sir F. Perkins, Sir F. Truscott, Bro. Hervey, Bro. S. D. Waddy, Q.C., the late Lord Mayor Stone, ex-Sheriff Hutton, Alderman Notrage, Alderman Hadley, and Darla Sewell.

Lord Skelmersdale then proposed "The City of London," the grandest corporation in the world.

Bro. J. B. Monckton responded, and drew attention to the circumstance that a very large proportion of members of the corporation of the City of London were Freemasons. The late Lord Mayor was one; the next Lord Mayor that in all probability would be chosen (Sir Thos. White) was one; and, looking at the list of expectant Lord Mayors, there was every chance of the chief magistrate of the City of London for some years being a member of the fraternity.

Some other toasts were afterwards proposed, and the company separated at an early hour, having witnessed a most successful inauguration of the new club.

OUR BRETHREN, THE ROYAL HAND-BELL RINGERS, Poland Street, (Bro. Duncan S. Miller, Conductor), had the honour of attending the garden party at Chiswick, given on Tuesday by their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales. Their Majesties The King and Queen of the Hellenes, T.R.H. The Prince and Princess Christian, H.R.H. The Princess Louise, and The Marquis of Lorne, H.R.H. The Duke of Cambridge, T.R.H. The Duke and Duchess of Teck, His Excellency Sir Salar Jung, His Grace The Archbishop of Canterbury, The Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli, and many other distinguished personages were present. The manipulation of the bells evoked much interest. This is the sixth occasion on which this band of Campanologists have been honoured by Royal patronage and command.

Masonic and General Tidings.

The warrant is granted for the West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623, Bro. Joseph Smith, P.G.P., P.M. 177, &c., W.M. designate; T. W. Adams, 765, S.W. designate; G. S. Elliott, 743, J.W. designate; F. Walters, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M. 73, Secretary pro tem. The lodge will be held at the New Market Hotel, West Smithfield, City.

Bro. Colonel Peters, P.G.S.D., P.M., will be P.G.S.W.; H. G. Buss, P.M., P.G.T., P.G.J.W.; H. A. Dubois, P.M., P.P.A.D.C., P.G.S.D.; and F. Walters, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M., P.G.J.D. of Middlesex, at the ensuing Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex. The selection of such well known and popular brethren as those four named will be sure to give great satisfaction in the province.

There are a number of Masonic lodges now at work in Valparaiso, Chili—two of them working under the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, one under the Grand Lodge of England, and one under that of Scotland. All meet in the same building, and the most fraternal relations exist between them.

The Grand Lodge of Mississippi is about to found an asylum for the widows and orphans of Freemasons, as well as an industrial school.

The last number of the "Monde Maçonique" contains several interesting papers, especially from a French point of view. We in England must be content with the simple and more humdrum work of charity and beneficence. Social and political questions are beyond our cognizance and scope.

At the last Annual Commemoration of the District Grand Lodge of New South Wales, the Right Worshipful the District Grand Master was pleased to appoint and invest as Deputy District Grand Master of New South Wales, Very Worshipful Bro. Ernest O. Smith, Past Senior Grand Deacon of England.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex will be held this (Saturday), afternoon at the Greyhound, Hampton Court, at half-past two. A full report will appear in our next.

At the last meeting of the Liverpool Town Council, Bro. Dr. J. S. Taylor, P.M. 823, was appointed Assistant Medical Officer for the borough, at a salary of £800. At the same meeting Bro. Councillor E. Samuelson was unanimously elected an Alderman in the room of Bro. Taylor, who resigned to accept the above named office.

It is stated that the Duke of Marlborough is to succeed His Grace the Duke of Abercorn, (M.W.G.M.), as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

There was a large gathering of people on Tuesday last in Highclere Park, the beautiful seat of the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, M.W. Pro G.M., on the occasion of a united festival of the local branches of the National Deposit Friendly Society, of which Lord Carnarvon is president.

Brazil contains two rival Grand Lodges, both of which declare the other to be clandestine.

The first Master Mason's Lodge in America, is said to be "The Hoop, Water-street," Philadelphia, chartered in 1730 by Provincial Grand Master Bro. Daniel Coxe, and No. 79 on the English Grand Lodge Register.

EXTRAORDINARY ROBBERY.—On Sunday, 4th ult., during the absence of Bro. Robert Ramsay and his family from his home (Orillia, Canada), the premises were entered by some person or persons unknown, and a number of Masonic works and valuable Masonic letters and manuscripts carried off. Bro. Ramsay has offered a liberal reward, but no clue has been found to the perpetrators of this extraordinary theft. What renders the circumstances more peculiar is that works of an ordinary character were not molested, fortunately, however, the robbers did not enter an adjoining room in which there were four hundred volumes of Grand Lodge Proceedings and other books relating to the Mystic Art.

There are ninety-six English and twenty Scotch lodges now at work in British India.

By a singular coincidence the anti-Masons have secured space at the Centennial Exhibition, and placed an array of their publications directly opposite to the display of the Masonic Publishing Company of New York. There is Masonry and its foe face to face.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE, North Island of New Zealand.—The clothing and jewels for the above new District Grand Lodge are now on view at the Masonic Show Rooms, Little Britain.

HOSPITAL SATURDAY.—This year's Hospital Saturday collection has been fixed for the 2nd of September.

THE LONDON TAVERN.—This well-known building is in course of demolition, prior to the erection of a bank upon the site.

PALESTINE.—Colonel Gawler, Tower of London, has received a letter, dated June 27, 1876, from the heads of the Jewish community in the district of Haifa, in the Holy Land, stating that they are sending a deputy to England "to stir up the princes and nobles of the land, that they may hasten to help us in the establishment of a system for the cultivation of the soil," as was projected some two years ago, and asking his good offices. Colonel Gawler invites suggestions.

Private letters from Philadelphia state that the intense heat has paralysed business and greatly interfered with the Centennial Exhibition. Seventeen deaths from sunstroke were recorded in one day.

STRAND THEATRE.—Bro. Edward Terry announces his farewell benefit and last appearance at this theatre this (Saturday) morning, when an attractive performance will be given.

GRAND CENTENNIAL REUNION OF KNIGHTS TEMPLARS IN PHILADELPHIA.

We take this from the "New York Herald": The reunion of Knights Templar, under the auspices of the R. E. Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of American independence, of which this city has been the scene for two days past, culminated in the most imposing demonstration ever made by the Order in this country.

Last year it was determined by the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, in view of the important position Philadelphia was about to assume as the scene of the Centennial Exhibition, to celebrate the annual reunion with the most elaborate ceremonies. It was resolved to have the most imposing turn-out of the Order ever before had here, and to invite not only the commanderies of the country, but those of foreign nations as well. The idea was no sooner broached than the Grand Commandery, assisted by the subordinate commanderies of the State, began the work of arranging for the display. The Philadelphia commanderies went into the work with especial enthusiasm. The street display has fully proved the success of their endeavour, although the number of visiting Knights present, large as it was, would have been still larger had not the selfishness and greed of the railroad companies in refusing to make the anticipated and promised reductions to Centennial visitors kept away many of those from far distant sections.

For the past three days the city has been flooded with Sir Knights from other parts, and thousands of people who have accompanied the subordinate commanderies to witness the witness the ceremonies incident to the reunion. Philadelphia, with her centennial record, of which she is very proud, with her Centennial Exhibition, and with her centennial flag waving from every public institution and private residence, is eminently fitted for these Masonic events, and extending, as she does in her accustomed good grace, the hospitalities of the city to the visiting Templars, the festivities of the day will not soon be forgotten.

Since last evening the street of Philadelphia have been crowded as they never were before with moving throngs of knights in military uniform, ladies and gentlemen in civilian attire, and all the motley personage of a city crowd. Bands of music by the dozen, accompanying the visiting commanderies, paraded the street, making the air joyful with stirring strains, occasionally pausing to compliment by a serene and head-quarters of their Order or some notable knight. Brilliant with flags and decorations, bright with calcium lights, vocal with martial music, the streets of this staid city scarcely ever presented such a sight as they have witnessed last night and to-day, for the spectacle of to-day, without the calcium lights and illuminations, was a still more impressive military pageant.

As early as eight o'clock the various commanderies began to assemble and assume the places assigned them, preparatory to joining in the line. The Grand Commander of Pennsylvania, S. E. Sir Charles H. Kingston, with his mounted escort from Philadelphia Commandery, No. 2, of thirty-two men; the Grand and Past Officers of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, accredited representatives of commanderies, preceptories, &c.; Grand Officers of Grand Commanderies not otherwise represented, and members of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania assembled on Broad-street, below Chestnut, where a force of policemen kept the streets clear of the crowds, thus preventing accidents and interference. The Grand Commanderies of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, with their escort, Sutton Commandery, of New Bedford, Mass., took a position on Spruce-street, east of Broad, while the Grand Commandery of New York and subordinates occupied the same street west of Broad. Along Broad-street, on east and west sides, where the various subordinate commanderies. The Grand Commanderies of Connecticut, Ohio, Kentucky and Maine were on the east side of Broad, south of Spruce; Grand Commanderies of Indiana, Texas and Tennessee, west side of the street; Grand Commandery of New Jersey, north side of Pine, east of Broad; Grand Commanderies of Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and Kansas, south side of Pine, west of Broad; Grand Commanderies of Maryland and Washington, D.C., east side of Broad, south of Pine, with Wilmington, Del., on the west side. The carriages with knights in full templar uniform, who were unable to march, occupied Broad-street, south of Lombard.

From eight o'clock till nine there was a stream of Knights passing to and fro to take their positions, and as they passed those already assembled on the street, they were saluted, while the crowd vainly endeavoured to secure places as near the curb as possible, past which stalwart minions of the law forbade them trespassing. Then housetops, windows, verandahs and awning posts were resorted to, which soon became so crowded with men and boys that they were often in danger of falling. As the various commanderies marched and countermarched they were greeted with enthusiastic applause and waving of handkerchiefs by those who had been fortunate enough to secure elevated positions. The appearance of the Marine band, of Washington, was the signal for an outburst of applause. As they marched down the street, their gala uniforms and instruments shining resplendent in the rays of the morning sun, and followed by Washington Commandery, the scene presented was a grand one. Grafulla's Band was also greeted with applause. The Northwestern Commandery, of Meadville, had with them a band which attracted considerable attention from the beauty of their uniform. McClurg's Band had on their new uniform, and presented a fine appearance.

A grand reception and promenade concert was given at the American Academy of Music and Horticultural Hall at eight o'clock. The two buildings were connected by a bridge. At eight o'clock an address of welcome was delivered by the Most Eminent Grand Master of the United States, Hon. James Herron Hopkins, at the close of which the promenade commenced.

At half-past nine the signal to start was given, and the procession moved in the order arranged.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER.

The following is the Agenda of business for the Quarterly Convocation of Supreme Grand Chapter, on Wednesday, the 2nd prox.

The minutes of the last Quarterly Convocation to be read for confirmation.

The report of the Committee of General Purposes. To the Supreme Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of England:—

The Committee of General Purposes beg to report that they have examined the accounts from the 19th April to the 18th July, 1876, both inclusive, which they find to be as follows:—

To Balance Grand Chapter	£627 17 0
" " Unappropriated Account	149 12 11
" Subsequent Receipts	486 16 9
	£1234 6 8

By Purchase of £500 Consols at 95½ and Commission	£478 2 6
" Disbursements during the Quarter	178 14 4
" Balance	399 1 11
" " Unappropriated Account	178 7 11
	£1234 6 8

which balances are in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival, & Co., bankers of the Grand Treasurer.

The Committee have likewise to report that they have received the following petitions:—

1st. From Companions John Chalmers, as Z.; Edward John Jones, as H.; Richard M. Blaker, as J, and seven others for a chapter to be attached to the Jumna Lodge, No. 1394, Delhi, to be called the "Chalmers Chapter," and to meet at Delhi, Punjab, in the East Indies.

2nd. From Companions Edward Twizell, as Z.; George Auburn Allan, as H.; Addison Potter, as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Tyne Lodge, No. 991, Willington Quay, to be called the "Tyne Chapter," and to meet at the Masonic Hall, Willington Quay, in the county of Northumberland.

3rd. From Companions Robt. Hamilton, as Z.; Samuel Rawson, as H.; Hugh David Sandeman, as J.; and fifteen others for a chapter to be attached to the Friends-in-Council Lodge, No. 1383, London, to be called the "Friends-in-Council Chapter," and to meet at No. 33, Golden Square, London.

4th. From Companions Anthony Stewart, as Z.; Charles Alfred Gorham, as H.; Henry Studholme Browning, as J.; and eight others for a chapter to be attached to the Lodge of Charity, No. 563, Umballa, to be called the "Umballa Chapter," and to meet at Umballa, Punjab, in the East Indies.

The foregoing petitions being in all respects regular, the Committee recommend that the prayers thereof be respectively granted.

The Committee have also received a petition from the Fortescue Chapter, No. 847, Honiton, stating that the Charter having been unfortunately lost, and that although diligent search has been made there appears to be no chance of its recovery, they pray Grand Chapter to grant them a Charter of Confirmation. The Rev. John Huyshie, Grand Superintendent of Devon, supports the prayer of the petition, which the Committee recommend Grand Chapter to grant.

The Committee are sorry to have to report that on the simple ipse dixit of a brother that he had been 12 months a Master Mason, the Old Globe Chapter, No. 200, Scarborough, exalted him, contrary to Article 67, page 22, of the Royal Arch Regulations, which requires that satisfactory proof of a brother having been 12 calendar months at least a Master Mason shall be given. The Committee believe that the chapter did not wilfully err, but in order to mark their displeasure of the carelessness displayed have inflicted a fine of one guinea on the chapter, have directed the Grand Scribe E. to admonish it to be more careful in future, and not to issue the certificate without the companion has been re-obligated at its next meeting.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1876.

WEST YORKSHIRE.

We stated in our last impression that we sincerely rejoiced at the "healing result" which West Yorkshire in its last Provincial Grand Lodge meeting had arrived at, and we cannot deny ourselves the pleasure of reiterating the same expression of feeling and opinion to-day. For some time past, for the last twelve months, or thereabouts, owing to the publication of certain pamphlets which had better now be forgotten, a good deal of excitement has been occasioned, and a great amount of personality has been evoked, in that active portion of our little Masonic world. We have from time to time pointed out that the agitation thus aroused in West Yorkshire was alike factitious and unwise, but we all of us know that it is easier to raise a storm than to lay it. We may add, a good deal easier. An old and sound authority told us many years ago, though we often forget it, that the "beginning of strife is as the letting out of water," and as we ourselves often note in human life to-day, and in passing events, there are no limits, humanly speaking, to which angry feelings and aroused sensibilities may not lead us all, when once the "steam is up," and we are engaged in personal warfare or vituperative controversies. The "cacoethes scribendi" comes over us, and we rush into print with alacrity, we carry on the contest with acerbity, and we end often in developing, Freemasons though we call ourselves, both a wonderful amount of "Billingsgate," and a striking acquaintance, with choice expletives, and choicer epithets. The controversy which began about twelve months ago seemed to be moving on in the same vicious circle. A little question of internal administration of the Boys' School became magnified into a great grievance by the heated outpourings of carping criticism and indignant individuality, until the good old Province of West Yorkshire appeared literally carried away by the idea, permeated by the suspicion, that there were gross wrong doings to reform, and some unheard of expenditure to reduce in the Boys' School. Pamphlet had followed pamphlet in quick succession, (among them the famous suppressed one), until the position reached by West Yorkshire was mournful and alarming, derogatory alike to its position and its prestige. At the Quarterly Court in April of the Boys' School nearly every province in England voted with the Executive, and £12,500 have been since sent to the annual festival in proof of the general sympathy of the Craft, unaffected by these attacks, and undeterred by this agitation. The motion, then, of the Prov. J. G. Warden of West Yorkshire, Bro. Booth, was alike unwise and uncalled for, in that it served only to fan the flame of agitation, and to perpetuate a state of things which, while injurious to the Boys' School, and opposed to Masonic teaching, was a great cause of grief to a large number of West Yorkshire Masons, and unworthy of so staunch a supporter of the charities as West Yorkshire has proved itself to be. We cannot but feel that Bro. Gill's words, the Prov. S.G. Warden of West Yorkshire, endorsed as they were by the eloquent language of our esteemed and respected Bro. Bentley Shaw, well pointed out the great inadvisability of any further continuance in so hazardous and un-Masonic a cause. Bro. Booth, yielding to the evidently all but unanimous feeling of Prov. Grand Lodge, judiciously withdrew his motion, and we will now hope and trust that we have heard the last of this painful subject. We have from the first spoken out boldly, simply, decidedly, and, we will add, consistently. We have done so because we have the deepest personal feelings of regard and attachment for our good brethren in West Yorkshire. We know from long and pleasant experience their real worth, their manly honesty, their true Masonic sympathies, and their warm Masonic hearts. Even their zeal, if not tempered with as much discretion as we deemed requisite in this recent discussion, we know well, as none can better know—is sound and earnest at the bottom, and with their usual warmth of impulsiveness and yet sincerity, they were actuated by a belief (a mistaken one), that there was really some reform to make, some wrong to redress, in all they said and in all they did. We do not wish to retrace, and we will not go over the beaten track of the controversy now, nor even allude any more to unwise words, and injudicious pamphlets; but we will echo the words of Bro. Gill, and say, let by-gones be by-gones—on both sides let us, as brother Freemasons, shake hands, and forget that any differences have divided us, or that any severances have severed us for any time, in any manner, in any degree. There is no province in England which has a nobler past, a more prosperous present, or a more promising future before it than the Province of West Yorkshire. It led years ago the provincial movement in favour of the metropolitan charities, and earned for itself the admiration of the Craft and the gratitude of our London brethren. It has ever been marked by unity and order, by peace and loyalty, by high Masonic principles, and true Masonic work. It would indeed be a sad culmination of glorious efforts and Masonic labour for years, as Bro. Bentley Shaw so well put it, if anything now should tend to pull down the goodly building erected by W. Yorkshire with so much care, so much cost, and so many sacrifices in the greatest of all causes, Masonic charity. And, above all, it would indeed be most lamentable if such a province should continue to be torn in two by internal differences, by contending camps, or lowered by unworthy personalities, or agitated by angry pamphlets, if this antagonistic feeling to the Boys' School should be fostered, or extended, or tolerated, or encouraged any more. In the words of its amiable and distinguished chief, Sir H. Edwards, let all good men and Masons work together in love and harmony for the great and good cause of our Masonic charities, and, as Bro. Gill well expressed himself, if any grievances exist, if any supposed mismanagement prevails, let the life governor or life governors complaining come before the proper tribunal, and calmly and temperately, and carefully and manfully, make the complaint and avow the suspicion. From what we know of the London brethren, and above all of the Executive of the Boys' School, we can say beforehand that they are always ready to hear any such bona-fide complaints, and will readily award to all legitimate complainants the attention they crave and the hearing they require. But then our good brethren must indulge in no spirit of unworthy and groundless fault-finding, and they must avoid the evil and unmasonic habit of anything like anonymous libels or perverse denunciations. And, above all, there must be an end of personalities, of angry and vehement and ex parte arraignment of the executive, of direct or indirect imputations on the motives and the acts of others. No good cause was ever really served by personality, nothing is gained by statements "ad invidiam," except momentarily, if even then, while nothing is so injurious, even to the best of causes in the long run, on account of the inevitable reaction to false statements and unfounded allegations. And, in addition to this, as a general rule, nothing is so hurtful to the temper or the "morale" of us all, or so destructive of friendly feeling, harmony, goodwill, as personalities. And if this be true of all our human contests, how much more is it of that Masonic strife, which, despite our profession of higher views and "nobler aims," is apt to degenerate into the very lowest form of angry ebullitions, of unfair, unworthy, and unmasonic personalities? In all contests like these we are bound to allow for honest convictions, if mistaken ones, but we are also bound by every feeling of Masonic honour, and every principle of Masonic duty, to reprobate openly and decidedly, in the interest of our great and goodly Order, any departure from the unchanging principles of Freemasonry, and any relaxation of those genial and kindly sentiments which bind us so closely as a fraternity, and mark our profession, and distinguish our principles, as before men and the world. May the "entente cordiale" now happily restored by the removal of an unwise agitation long endure between West Yorkshire and the Boys' School—nay, may it increase yearly, and yield still more striking and enduring fruits of Masonic sympathy and goodwill. Having spoken as we felt it to be our bounden duty to do, honestly, manfully, fearlessly, we congratulate our very distinguished Bro. the P.G.M. of West Yorkshire, Bros. B. Shaw, Gill, Joseph Batley, Wordsworth, and others in West Yorkshire on this happy cessation of an internecine strife, as well as for this pleasant victory in the best of all causes, the interest of our orphan boys, and the noble principles of Freemasonry, conciliation, peace, harmony, kindness, forbearance, and brotherly love.

THE LODGE PHILADELPHES ET LA CONCORDE REUNIS.

Our esteemed Bro. Caubet, in the "Monde Maçonnique" for July, answers a query in respect of this lodge which had previously appeared in our columns. The question was, was this lodge a "regularly warranted lodge," and under what jurisdiction? Bro. Caubet states, "Nous ne pouvons répondre, que très imparfaitement à ces questions." The gist of his further statement is that the lodge is not warranted by the Grand Orient (as it could not be), and that he does not know whether or no it has an English warrant. We shall be glad if any brother can enlighten us on the subject, as we have a strong conviction that some time back official reference was made to a surreptitious lodge of somewhat the same name in London. We shall be, however, gladly undeceived on the point, and if we have made the slightest error in confounding two essentially distinct bodies, we shall at once be ready to make Masonically an "amende honorable" in the "Freemason." The fact is a very simple one indeed, and, as the French say, some one can "constater" it at once one way or the other. Our only interest in the matter is the interest in Freemasonry, and the interest of our brethren, as we have always set our faces against irregular Masonry everywhere. We have thought it well to address a letter to our esteemed Grand Secretary on the subject, the answer to which we hope to print next week.

FREEMASONRY EXPROBATED.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Allow me to express my warmest thanks in your columns for the communications of commendation and gratitude I have received from members of the Craft, both in the Province of Lincoln and elsewhere, for vindicating the fraternity from contumely and exprobration cast upon them recently at Brigg.

It appears that you have been particularly requested by some wily correspondent to republish certain anonymous letters published in the "Hull Times," which hitherto I have disregarded, as I consider a writer who is ashamed of his name has no claim on my attention. I have, however, been informed that one of the writers is a clergyman of extreme views, and who has as much love for the Craft as his Holiness the Pope. But,

"Non tui auxilio, nec defensoribus istis tempus eget." My letters have not as yet been answered by the party concerned. A P.M. of Brigg Lodge informs me that "he has read with pleasure my unanswerable letter, which deserves the thanks of the whole province, as it was well known that justice would be done to the Craft if the matter were placed in my hands."

My exertions have evoked a satisfactory letter from a high dignitary of the church, who regrets the sad and indefensible occurrence, now not likely to be repeated, and who would have paid "his personal respects to the ancient and honourable fraternity, lately assembled at Brigg, had he been invited to be present."

The wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable. True charity rejoiceth in the truth. Semi-apologists would do well to remember the apostolic injunction, "Let your love be without dissimulation, abhor that which is evil, and cleave to that which is good."

In conclusion, allow me to add that the privilege of Freemasons to attend the services of the Church of England is something more than an act of grace; it would have been an act of gratitude on the part of the incumbent of Brigg for receiving a peal of bells mainly through the leading Freemason of the town; but more than that, it would have been an act of generosity to ally any reputable society to the services of the Church of England, especially when that society professed the highest principles of pure morality and enlarged charity.

As I have before stated, the Church of England is a national church, not the parochial enclosure of a new sect whom our ancestors knew not half a century ago, who call themselves more Catholic, but less charitable. That party may be well assured that no insinuations of theirs, not even persecution, will ever cower or deter me from vindicating the honour and purity of the principles of Freemasonry, and the comprehensive and Protestant character of the Church of England.

I am, Sir, yours obediently,

DANIEL ACE, D.D.,
P.P.G.C. of Lincolnshire, and
W.M. of Lodge 1232.

[This correspondence must now cease. As Freemasons we know nothing of the intestine divisions of the Church of England. We think the Vicar of Brigg wrong.—Ed.]

GRAND ORIENT OF EGYPT.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Those who are interested in the prosperity of the Grand Orient of Egypt, as I am, will be glad to know that several Grand Lodges in the United States have been considering its position of late, and have been thoroughly examining into its origin, character, and proceedings, with a view to grant recognition if the analysis prove favourable. Already, we are rejoiced to know, the Grand Lodges of California, Idaho, and Georgia have extended the Masonic right hand of fellowship to the Grand Orient of Egypt, and I expect soon to hear of others doing likewise. Our brethren in the United States "do nothing by halves," and firmly refused such recognition until the matter had been fully investigated. Indeed, the Grand Lodge of Georgia resolved to "withhold any fraternal communication until fully satisfied of its legal existence," but having before them the report of the Grand Lodge of California, in which it was stated, and proof submitted, that the "Grand Orient of Egypt was established, so far as we can judge, upon a firm basis, and not only with the permission, but under the protection and active co-operation of the present ruler of that country," and therefore entitled to be acknowledged "as a just and legally constituted Masonic power," the members soon came to the determination to gracefully accept the claims of Egypt to be admitted into the circle of legitimate Grand Lodges.

Bro. J. Emmett Blackshear, Grand Secretary, was appointed representative of the Grand Orient of Egypt, near the Grand East of Georgia, and the indefatigable Bro. F. F. Oddi, Grand Secretary of Egypt, representative on behalf of the Grand Lodge of Georgia. We sympathise with the desire of the Masonic authorities in Egypt to be placed on the same footing as many other Grand Lodges in Europe and America, and whilst the M.W. Grand Master Zola, of that jurisdiction (ably supported by the Grand Secretary), is most anxious to be acknowledged by all Grand Lodges worthy of the name, we cannot but admire his manly and independent conduct since his election, nor can we find words to put on record our appreciation of the sterling Masonic principles actuating him and the members of the Grand Orient, when on finding that their support of the Rite of Memphis was viewed with disfavour by the regular Grand Lodges, they resolved at once to call in all such warrants, and to sever for ever their connection with that useless and objectionable system of 96°. The degrees now worked in Egypt under the wing of the Grand Orient are wholly and solely Craft Masonry. Those of the "hautes grades" are entirely under the Supreme Grand Council 33° of Egypt, which, though harmoniously working with the Grand Orient, just as in this country, are quite as separate and distinct as in England, Ireland, Scotland, and the United States.

This concession to the customs of British and American Freemasons will, we feel sure, be rightly esteemed both here and "across the big pond," and believing that it will be the aim of the Grand Orient of Egypt to deserve the respect and friendly co-operation of all regular Grand Lodges, we most heartily wish them the success they intend to deserve.

Its organization having been partially commenced in 1864, and only of late thoroughly completed, it was but natural that a few mistakes should be made, especially as several Grand Bodies applied to Egypt for recognition which appeared entitled thereto. Now, however, it rests to a great measure with the regular foreign Grand Lodges what Egypt does in the way of countenancing Masonry abroad, as the more these bodies exchange representatives, and forward their proceedings, the better will the Grand Orient be enabled to avoid the illegitimate, and support only regular Freemasonry throughout the world.

At all events its Craft Constitution now is thoroughly Masonic, and in accord with Great Britain and Ireland, the oldest upholders of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masonry.

Yours fraternally,

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

THE MASONIC MAGAZINE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I think your proposition of "keeping two or three pages in the Masonic Magazine, in future, purely for Masonic Archaeology," an excellent idea, and hope it will receive hearty support at the hands of the brethren. "As example is better than precept," I have much pleasure in offering as a contribution an exact copy of an Extraordinary Warrant in the possession of the Britannia Lodge, No. 139, Sheffield (constituted in 1765, and numbered 189 under the "Moderns" in 1813), which, I venture to think, is worthy of finding a place therein.

Grand Lodge to delegate to a subordinate or Provincial Grand Lodge the power to grant warrants, from lodges, &c., also the power, to such Provincial Grand Lodge, to elect (annually) its own officers or successors is, to say the least, unique.

It is extremely desirable that copies of such, or similar documents, should be published.

Primarily, because the originals run great risks from fire, or of being otherwise destroyed, or lost.

Secondly, by the incalculable advantages of such being brought prominently before all Masonic students, and,

Thirdly, it is by the un-earthing and publication of such treasures that our history may be written.

I am, fraternally yours,

S. B. ELLIS.

INFORMATION WANTED.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I should be very thankful to any Prov. Grand Officer (of England) if he would afford me the following information regarding the interior economy of a Prov. Grand Secretary's office:—

1. What books are required to be kept up, both regarding revenue and record?
2. Should not a provincial register be kept, shewing name of every subscribing member in the province, together with his lodge, age, residence, date of First, Second, and Third Degrees, if taken in the province, or date of joining, with name of mother lodge if affiliated only in the province; also shewing dates of deaths, exclusions, and resignations?
3. Should not an alphabetical index to the above-mentioned register be kept to accelerate reference?
4. Should not a list of the actual Masters and Wardens and P.M.'s who have a right to sit and vote in Provincial Grand Lodge be compiled by the Secretary immediately before every meeting of Provincial Grand Lodge, and be handed to the Provincial Grand Stewards?
5. Is it usual for a salaried Provincial Grand Secretary to have a vote on the Provincial Board of General Purposes?

I trust the answers may be as explicit as possible, and in accordance with what is the custom in the best regulated provinces of England, as the information is sought from a far off district, and much delay would occur in having to ask for explanations.

Yours fraternally,

LECTOR.

SWEDENBORGIAN RITE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you oblige me by stating that I have just received from Bro. W. J. B. MacLeod Moore, 33° A. and A., Most Worshipful Sov. G.M.; Thomas Douglas Harrington, 32° A. and A., Grand Senior Warden; Geo. Canning Longley, 33° A. and P., Grand Junior Warden, a warrant for a lodge and temple of the Swedenborgian Rite, styled EMANUEL LODGE AND TEMPLE, No 3, to confer the degrees of Enlightened, Sublime, and Perfect Phreemason upon lawful Master Masons. The lodge and temple consist at present of only four members, but if any of your readers would like to enter the Rite they can do so by sending their names and the fee of £1 to Bro. S. P. Leather, Burnley, Lancashire, the J.W. of said body. We pay the Supreme Grand Lodge and Temple of the Dominion of Canada £5 5s. for our warrant and ritual.

Truly and fraternally yours,

JOHN YARKER.

THE LAST QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Pray accept my sincere thanks for allowing me to question Bro. Simpson as to the real drift of his amendment to Bro. Havers' proposal, to which questioning, however, I have been able to get no satisfactory reply.

So far as I can summarise Bro. Simpson's statements, the matter stands thus:

1. For Grand Lodge to attend St. Paul's Cathedral, quā a church, and to take part in a service there, quā a service church, would not be a denominational proceeding. But to help to complete the design for St. Paul's of Sir Christopher Wren, quā the Masonic work of one of our most distinguished Grand Masters, would be denominational.

2. To give a sum of money to help an exploring party in Palestine is not beyond the "reasonable limitation beyond the beaten track" upon which Grand Lodge may venture to tread (being, I presume, a charitable work connected with the Order), nor would it have been outside the powers of Grand Lodge to vote money to an indefinite "something in India."

But it is quite beyond this "reasonable limitation" to devote the funds of our English Grand Lodge to a work which would benefit our country, and be a lasting tribute to the loyalty of our Order towards her.

Upon this I need make no further remark—it remaining with the brethren at large to say whether this is their notion of Masonic consistency—than to congratulate Grand Lodge upon possessing a member ready and willing to fix this "reasonable limitation," which Grand Lodge has been either unable or unwilling to define in the Book of Constitutions.

As the purpose with which I started is accomplished I shall not again trouble you upon this matter, but shall leave Bro. Simpson's lucid explanation of the purport and motives of his amendment to the consideration of the next Quarterly Communication.

Allow me, however, to pause to say one word in reply to Bro. Langley's denial of Bro. Havers' statement that certain brethren went to Grand Lodge with a "foregone conclusion." It is simply and strictly true. I was in the earlier part of the evening (like another of your correspondents) at the bottom of Grand Lodge, and heard Bro.

Havers' proposal commented upon long before it was brought forward, and I heard, to my astonishment, so much then said in disparagement of the proposal that it was quite clear that many brethren had come so prejudiced as to give vent to their disapprobation before Bro. Havers had well begun. "In the sense of prejudging him the brethren did decide without hearing him."

I remain, dear Sir and Brother, faithfully and fraternally yours,

W. T.

THE INSTALLATION ENGRAVING.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Permit me the use of your columns, to reply to my numerous subscribers and friends to state that I am making strenuous efforts to have the Installation Engraving completed and in their hands by Christmas next. The engraver is steadily and perseveringly proceeding with the work, and I can assure all my friends that not an hour is being lost in carrying out this most arduous work to a successful completion. I shall have nearly 1600 portraits in the engraving, the largest muster by nearly double that has ever yet appeared in a single work.

I am, dear Sir and brother, fraternally yours,
EDWD. J. HAR V.

Reviews.

JOAN OF ARC—A Poem not awarded the Vice-Chancellor's Prize. Kerby and Endean, 190, Oxford-street.

Whether or no the statement in the preface be historically accurate, and that we have in this poem one among the "Rejected Addresses" at Dublin University, we do not feel quite sure. As Sir Walter Scott so well puts it, some of these little figurative and poetical prefaces have served to introduce to the notice of readers many works which otherwise might have remained in obscurity and neglect. But if the statement be correct, then we confess that we should like to see the poem to which the prize was really awarded. Joan of Arc is a sterling poem, and full of after promise for the writer. There are passages in it of great beauty and much poetic power, and we feel strongly that it only needs to be read to be appreciated by many of our brethren and sisters. Unfortunately the space in the "Freemason" for Reviews is very limited, but we refer our readers to the "Masonic Magazine" for September, where a fuller review of this little work will appear, and when its poetical merit will be more perfectly analyzed and described.

HIGH PRESSURE BUSINESS LIFE.—Published by Henry Smith, M.D., 8, Burton Crescent. First Thousand.

We like this little book very much. It is simple and straightforward, practical and sound. We entirely approve of the advice it tenders and the habits it enforces, the axioms it inculcates, and the warnings it propounds, as we feel how needful they are to all classes, especially that large class to which the book appears to be specifically addressed. We predicate for it much public patronage and approval.

WE PART ON THE SQUARE; Freemason's Song by SAMUEL SMITH. Music by WILLIE F. LANCELOT.—Simpson and Co., 23, Argyll-street, Regent-street.

This is a sprightly and effective little Masonic song, which, we think, is likely to become popular amongst us. We recommend it to the notice of many of our worthy musical brethren, whose endeavours to please their audiences are most praiseworthy and persevering. Certainly, music still has "charms to soothe the Masonic breast."

A CAUTION—THE SPURIOUS GRAND LODGE.

The following letter appears in the "Canadian Craftsman":—

The thorough want of reason and knowledge of Masonic law displayed by the founders of the spurious organization of the body termed the Grand Lodge of Ontario has been so fully explained in your columns that a word of warning or advice regarding the same seems almost superfluous; still, owing to the silent manner in which we work, the profane and ignorant may at any time confound the lodges working under the so-called Grand Lodge of Ontario with those under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Canada. We should therefore use every exertion to caution those desirous of entering our mysteries to guard against becoming members of an organization that cannot and does not confer upon them a single Masonic privilege, excepting, of course, that of visiting those lodges that at present lead a half life and dead existence under the authority of their spurious body.

(1.) No regular Grand Lodge will ever recognize this body, ergo no so-called Mason hailing from its subordinates can ever enter any Masonic lodge in the world.

(2.) As it is not a regular Grand Lodge, no Grand Chapter will allow its subordinate chapters to recognize its members as Masons, and consequently they will be unable to advance in the mystic art; and, as a necessary sequence, these misguided men and their deceived followers find themselves excluded from those higher mysteries which form so grand a feature in the history and labyrinthine network of our institution.

I urge, then, the strictest caution upon younger members, and particularly upon the profane, in becoming associated or allied with a body that receives fees but grants no benefits—that pretends to confer Masonic degrees which cannot be and are not recognized by a single Grand Lodge in the world—that was founded on envy and spite—exists in a false ambition, and will die in disgrace and dishonour.

GRAND LODGE OF CANADA.

The 21st Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of A. F. and A. Masons of Canada, was held at the new By-Ward Market Hall in the city of Ottawa, on Wednesday, the 12th June, at the hour of high twelve.

The following notices of motion were given at the last Annual Communication:—

By V.W. Bro. F. E. Menet.—That Article 7, "of Fees," in the Book of Constitution, be amended by striking out all after the words "jurisdiction of 2 lodge," and inserting therefor the words "Two Dollars;" also that Article 1, "of Constituting a New Lodge," the words following:—"and in case of there being more than two lodges in the nearest jurisdiction, it shall require the recommendation of no less than one-half of the said lodges."

By Bro. W. Bro. Wm. Forbes.—That the expenses of District Deputy Grand Masters be paid by this Grand Lodge, by allowing a certain amount for each lodge.

By R.W. Bro. L. Woods.—That the clause of the Constitution relating to "Constituting a new Lodge" be amended by inserting after the words "nearest lodge," the following:—"Except in cases of an application from a village, town, or city, when the consent of all the local lodges having concurrent jurisdiction shall first be obtained."

By R.W. Bro. Rev. V. Clementi.—That Article 17, "of the Grand Lodge" be amended by striking out the words "at which the place of holding the next communication shall be decided" and inserting in place thereof the words "in the City of Toronto."

By R.W. Bro. R. P. Stephens.—That Article 10, "of the Grand Lodge" be amended by inserting the following clause between the words "before Grand Lodge" and "and no alteration," namely:—"or unless notice of motion of such amendment be given in writing to the Grand Secretary, at least one month before the Annual Communication of Grand Lodge, and such notice be inserted in the summons for such Annual Communication," also that Article 1 "of proposing members" be amended by inserting next after the words "the next stated lodge meeting" the words "and in all cases held not less than four weeks from the date of the application."

By W. Bro. Wm. Norris.—That Article 1, "of the Grand Lodge" be amended by striking out the word "Canada," and inserting in place thereof the word "Ontario," and that all verbal alterations in the Book of Constitution consequent upon the adoption of this resolution be made immediately thereafter.

By W. Bro. Joseph Hursell.—That Article 2, of "Honorary Members," be amended by adding thereto the words following: "but if an honorary member does not attend a meeting of the lodge for a space of three years, or give satisfactory reasons for his absence, he may be suspended from honorary membership by a two-thirds vote of the lodge;" also, That Article 8, "of the Grand Lodge," be amended by striking out all after the words "any communication of the Grand Lodge," and inserting in place thereof the words "and Past Master of the lodge duly returned may represent the lodge, Immediate P.M. to take precedence."

By W. Bro. J. M. Banghart, or W. Bro. Wm. Hayden.—That the Book of Constitution be so amended as to provide that all routine business in private lodges be done in the Third Degree, instead of the first as at present.

By R. W. Bro. J. G. Burns.—That the Toronto district be divided into two districts, the counties of York and Peel to constitute the Toronto district, and the counties of Simcoe and Grey to constitute a new District, to be named the Georgian district.

By R. W. Bro. J. B. Traves.—That the Toronto and Ontario districts be reconstructed, so as to make three or more out of the two districts, or otherwise to divide either or both of them.

The Board of General Purposes met at the Masonic Hall, Rideau Street, on Monday the 10th inst., at noon.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

The Grand Lodge of Indiana held its ninth annual gathering on the 23rd and the two following days of May. The Treasurer's statement shows a balance of 15,400 dols.

A curious case came up in the form of a grievance. It seems that five years ago a lodge borrowed from the widow of a Mason 4000 dols., giving her a mortgage on the property of the lodge. The widow had received the money from the benefit society on the death of her husband. The mortgage proved worthless. Five members owned the lodge, on which there was a prior mortgage, but the lodge yielded them a rental of 1800 dols. As the lodge declined either to pay or secure the widow the matter was referred to the Grand Master for the purpose of ascertaining the true facts. Bros. F. S. Devo and John M. Bramwell were elected respectively Grand Master and Grand Secretary.

The fourth annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of Nebraska took place at Omaha, on 26th April. The chief officers elected are R. C. Sir Chas. F. Catlin, Grand Commander; N. E. Sir James N. Moore, Deputy Grand Commander; E. Sir William R. Bowen, Grand Recorder.

The eighty-sixth annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island was held on May 15. Nearly two hundred members were present. On the subject of coloured Masonry, the Grand Master says:

"The Grand Lodge of the subordinate lodges of Ohio may make as many Masons out of the negro race as it pleases, and we must and will recognise those so made as Freemasons—but we deny its power to give any Masonic vitality to any other grand body; it cannot delegate its jurisdiction, nor exercise it jointly with another, but must exercise it itself and for itself. We may be permitted to hope that wise counsel may govern its action."

Among the officers elected are M. W. G. Nicholas San-Slyck, R. W. G. S. Edwin Baker.

The ninety-fifth annual communication of the Grand Lodge of New York met on the 2nd June. 755 representatives of subordinate lodges were present. The receipts for the year foot up 100,849.25 dols., but the treasury is empty. We make the following extract from the Grand Master's address:—

"Our foreign relations remain about in the same condition as last year. The Grand Orient of France has made no sign during the year, and evidently considers the friendship and correspondence of the American Grand Lodges as a matter of no consequence. This is to be regretted; but, until there is a willingness on the part of that body to recognise the right of this and other Grand Lodges to exclusive jurisdiction within their own territories there can be no change, and we shall regretfully, but none the less firmly, be obliged to treat as strangers, those whom we would gladly welcome to our Masonic homes."

"The course of the German Grand Lodges is scarcely, if at all, more satisfactory. Claiming for themselves the very right for which we contend, and proclaiming that no lodge can be formed on German territory without their consent, they have thus far shown no willingness to concede the same right to us, or withdraw the lodges located in this and other States. They propose to compromise the matter by a series of treaties, looking, however, only to their own benefit, since they propose to have us recognise the establishment in the country of subordinate lodges owing them allegiance, but saying nothing of a reciprocal privilege on our part, even were it possible that we could profit by such a concession, or our policy allow us to proceed in that direction."

"One further step has been taken by them through their Grand Lodge League, which is the declaration that the organization of coloured persons in this country, now trespassing on the various American Grand Lodge jurisdictions, is regular, and hence that their invasion of the territory of this and other Grand Lodges in the United States meet the approval of our brethren in Germany, although at latest advices they had not gone so far as to offer direct recognition and interchange of representatives. This, however, is a matter of time, and it is far from certain that the League now in session will not take this concluding step, and thus by indiscretion place its constituents in open denial of our right to govern our own affairs without foreign intervention and dictation. There can be but one ending to all this, which I refrain from indicating at the present time, in the hope that wiser councils may yet prevail, and that harmony and peace may be secured to our brotherhood wherever dispersed."

"Another question has been presented, not for immediate action, but for calm consideration, by the Grand Lodge of Ohio."

"At the annual communication of that body last October, a special committee reported favourably on a proposition to admit a number of confessedly clandestine organizations and to divide the jurisdiction of the State with such irregular bodies. The point of the whole matter is, that this is simply a proposition on the part of the committee of the Grand Lodge of Ohio to abandon the American law of sole jurisdiction, claimed by Grand Lodges on this continent, and, if adopted, to open the whole of our territory to the incursions of such organizations as may choose to invade it, and thus by destroying our authority at the same time to put an end to the peaceful and harmonious progress we have so long enjoyed."

"No action appears to be required at this time, because the Grand Lodge of Ohio has not definitely passed upon the report of its committee, and it is to be hoped than when it does it will remain in full accord with the other American Grand Lodges and with the best interests of Masonry on this continent."

Meanwhile, I repeat, it should receive your careful attention, so that, if action should be taken in Ohio adverse to the general well being, your duty may be plain and your action prompt."

[We take this from the "Craftsman."]

THE SOUTHERN SUPREME COUNCIL.

The Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States commenced its biennial session, at the city of Washington, on Monday, May 29th. The regular period for the assembling of this body was the 1st of May, but, as it had been originally organized at Charlestown, South Carolina, on May 31st, 1801, it was deemed advisable that the session should commence on the last Monday of the month, so that the members might have an opportunity of celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the establishment, not only of the Supreme Council, but of the Scottish Rite.

On Wednesday evening, May 31, the members of the Supreme Council, active and honorary, with a large number of Scottish Rite Masons, had a social gathering in the Hall of the Scottish Rite. Speeches were made, songs sung, and the seventy-fifth anniversary was appropriately observed.

The attendance of members during the session was comparatively large, and some important business was transacted.

On the first day Bro. Albert Pike, Sovereign Grand Commander, read his allocution, in which he gave an exhaustive view of the condition of the Rite throughout the world, and the relations of the Southern Supreme Council with other Councils.

This allocution was referred to appropriate committees for the consideration of the various subjects which it embraced.

Some very important questions of jurisdiction were decided during the session. Among these, and of most interest to the Scottish Rite Masons of this country, was that of territorial jurisdiction between the two Supreme Councils of the United States.

When the Northern Supreme Council was established in 1813, the New England States, with those of New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, and subsequently Delaware, with all the territory North of the Ohio and East of the Mississippi, were allotted to the Northern Council. Recently, the Northern Council has asked for a reconsideration of this allotment, and a new division, by which the line of separation may be extended to the Pacific coast. The subject was referred by the Southern Council to the Committee on Jurisprudence, whose report was adopted, declaring that the concordat ratified in 1827 was conclusive and final, and the question could not be reopened for modification, except upon the motion of the States of the Southern Jurisdiction which were West of the Mississippi.

The most important measures adopted by the Supreme Council were those in reference to the Congress of Lausanne. That body having adopted regulations that were antagonistic to the constitution of 1786, they have not been accepted by the Supreme Councils of Scotland, Ireland, Greece, and the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, between whom a defensive alliance is about to be formed. The following resolutions, submitted by the Committee on Correspondence, were unanimously adopted by the Supreme Council:

Resolved, That we hail as an auspicious omen for Freemasonry the early and emphatic rejection of the heresy sought to be engrafted upon and made a part of the proceedings of the Lausanne Congress of the Supreme Council of France.

Resolved, That the Supreme Council for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States endorse, and by this action affirm, the articles of alliance submitted by our Sovereign Grand Commander, and the Sovereign Grand Commander and the Illustrious Secretary General are authorised and requested to officially sign and seal the articles of alliance, when properly engrossed.

The "heresy" to which reference is made in the first of these resolutions, is the declaration by the Congress of Lausanne, that Freemasonry recognizes, under the title of Grand Architect of the Universe, "a creative principle," thus substituting for the old-fashioned declaration of a personal God as the belief of Freemasonry, a mere metaphysical idea admitting of any sort of interpretation. The Supreme Councils above-named have refused to sanction any such dogma, as utterly opposed to all the religious teachings of the Order.

There was another bone of contention introduced by the Congress, at the instigation of the Supreme Council of France. Some years ago, that Supreme Council established one or more subordinate lodges at Honolulu, in the Sandwich Islands. Subsequently the Supreme Council for the Southern Jurisdiction established three subordinate bodies in the same place. To this the Supreme Council of France objects, as an invasion of its territorial jurisdiction. The Congress of Lausanne has sustained the objection, and, without having given the Southern Supreme Council an opportunity to defend its acts, it has affirmed that the organization of a subordinate body by any Supreme Council, in an unoccupied territory, gives to that Supreme Council entire jurisdiction over the territory, and precludes the establishment of other subordinate bodies in it by any other Council.

This doctrine is utterly repugnant to the well established law of territorial jurisdiction, that all territory is to be considered as unoccupied and common until a Supreme Body is established in it by the subordinates there existing. It is a law always recognized and practically enforced in the United States, and, therefore, the Southern Supreme Council has rejected and repudiated the declaration of the Congress.

It is thus seen that the Congress of Lausanne has not been as successful as it had been hoped that it would be, and it may be considered settled that its authority, thus repudiated by four Supreme Councils, will not be effectual in establishing a concord between all the Supreme Councils in the world.

The special committee to whom was referred the subject of the advances made by the Supreme Council of England and Wales and the dependencies of the British crown, through one or more of its officers, to our late lamented Ill. Bro. E. H. Shaw, during his sojourn in England and last illness, and to his widow and family subsequent to his decease, which amount in the aggregate to £80 sterling, beg leave respectfully to report:

"That on behalf of this Supreme Council they tender its sincere thanks to the Supreme Council of England and Wales and the dependencies of the British Crown for the assistance rendered to our late deceased Ill. Bro. Shaw and his family while they were resident and in great need in the jurisdiction of that Supreme Council.

"It will ever be a source of pleasing recollection that through the instrumentality of that council, and the undeviating kindness and fraternal affection of its members, so much was accomplished during the protracted and painful illness of our deceased brother to smooth his pathway to the tomb.

"The Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite teaches no lessons more noble and sublime than those which inculcate toleration to humanity and its weaknesses, and charity to those who, amid the changes and fluctuations of life, are bereft of their means and accumulations.

"The committee recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the Treasurer General of this Supreme Council be instructed at the earliest opportunity to remit to the Treasurer General of the Supreme Council of England and Wales and the dependencies of the British crown the sum of £80 sterling, and to express the high appreciation of this Supreme Council for the many kindnesses exhibited toward our late Ill. Bro. E. H. Shaw and his family.

"THOS. H. CASWELL, 33°
"A. E. FRANKLAND, 33°

The other business of the Supreme Council was principally of a private and local nature. It adjourned on Friday afternoon, June 2nd. At night a Sorrow Lodge was held, in public, when Bro. Pike delivered the general eulogy of the dead who had departed since the last session of the Supreme Council.

FREEMASONRY IN SOUTH AFRICA.

The consecration of a Royal Arch Chapter in Cradock took place on Tuesday, June 6th, and passed off most successfully. The weather was unusually fine. About 11 a.m. a number of lady friends and relations of the Masons were admitted to witness the ceremony, and from them we learn that it was a most interesting and impressive one. The following is a list of the officers:—Comps. J. E. Green, M.E.Z.; W. B. Chalmers, H.; A. E. Austen, J.; A. Campbell, Scribe E.; S. T. White, Scribe N.; T. R. Smallman, Treas.; G. F. Austen, Prin. Soj.; G. Bekker, Second Soj.; A. Saunders, Third Soj.; and J. Urie, Janitor.

M.E. Comp. T. P. O. Mathew, P.Z. of St. Paul's R.A. Chapter, No. 131, Adelaide, was the Installing Principal.

After the ceremony, the Masons marched in procession to St. Peter's Church, where service was conducted by the Rev. M. Norton, the offertory being devoted to repairs to the Parsonage. After service the Masons returned in procession to the lodge.

In the evening a party was given by the Masons to their friends in the Court-room, and it was unanimously agreed that it was certainly one of the pleasantest ever given in Cradock, notwithstanding the absence of decorations, for which, it appears, there was no time. The attendance was very large and the supper most excellent; it is not to be wondered at, therefore, that the guests could not tear themselves away till after four. The Masons deserve great credit, not only for the manner in which the arrangements connected with the consecration were carried out, but for the success attending the party in the evening, and deserve some return for it.

A WORD IN SEASON. (From the "New York Dispatch.")

The present year is likely to bring to our lodge doors more visiting brethren than usual, on account of the many strangers attracted hither by the national festivities and the great Exposition as a part thereof. Naturally, Philadelphia will be the objective point in the first instance, but sooner or later the great majority will favour the metropolises with their presence, and our lodges and other organizations with a visit. It is well that we should know what our duty is in the premises, and be prepared to welcome or refuse the stranger as the case may be. It should be recollected that with us the right to visit is never absolute, our rule being that one not a member of the body which he proposes to visit can only be admitted to that privilege by unanimous consent of the actual members present, or, in other words, when a member objects for any or for no reason beyond the mere objection, it is the duty of the presiding officer to refuse admission on the general principle that no visitor can be admitted whose presence will tend to embarrass the lodge work or disturb its harmony. But suppose no objection to be made—and it is but fair to say that few instances of the exercise of the right occur—the question then is as to the regularity and good standing of the brother proposing to visit, and this we may remark in passing is a question our lodges are less qualified to pass upon than they generally suppose themselves to be. In evidence we present the following article from the pen of R. W. Bro. Frank Gouley in the "Voice of Masonry":—

Having had so many inquiries propounded to us relative to the exact standing of English Masons sojourning in this country, and their claims upon our lodges for relief, as well as to the evidence or certificate to be presented with their petitions for affiliation in American lodges, we concluded to have the whole matter settled by explanation from the home office in London, in pursuance of which we submitted a list of questions embodying the material points, and from the courteous and able Grand Secretary, R.W. Bro. John Hervey, we received a reply under date of May 22nd, from which we condense the following facts:—

1st. The Grand Lodge certificate given an English made Mason at the time of his making is evidence that he received the degrees therein specified, but not evidence that he is now a member, or in good standing. Such evidence must be obtained by subsequent inquiry.

2nd. English Masons, in affiliating with one or more lodges in England, must present the same documentary evidence of good standing, &c., as is required by American lodges generally.

3rd. An English Mason at initiation becomes ipso facto a member of the lodge, unless otherwise specified at the time.

4th. All applicants for relief must present satisfactory evidence of membership and good standing.

5th. All English Masons, being members of a lodge, are charged lodge dues, whether at home or abroad.

6th. It is the law and the custom for every visitor to present his certificate, before being examined for admission, hence no American should try to visit an English Lodge without a certificate or diploma, nor should American lodges examine a visitor from outside the United States or Canada without his Grand Lodge certificate of membership, in order to avoid impositions. In Missouri the requirement is of many years' standing.

7th. English lodges, as a rule, do not issue dimitts, but membership is severed by a formal resignation, which is entered upon the record, and certificates of that fact may be subsequently obtained.

8th. An English Mason may be a member of as many lodges as he pleases at the same time, but pays his dues in all of them, and dereliction in one is dereliction in all.

In carefully reading the English Book of Constitutions in connection with the explanations given by the Grand Secretary, we find that our American lodges, as a rule, have been very loose both in the examination of and donations of relief to foreign visitors and sojourners. It is a common thing for a foreign Mason to say that he has lost his lodge certificate, whereas it is a very easy thing for him to write and get a duplicate, if he is still in good standing, and it is almost impossible to find an English Mason, although living here for years, to be able to present a receipt of payment of his lodge dues, or any other documentary evidence of present membership. He will sojourn here for several years, and when in need will present nothing but his original certificate of receiving the degrees, which is no evidence whatever that he is not now an expelled or suspended Mason. Even if he claims to have resigned his membership, he rarely presents a certificate of that fact, which, if presented, may show that he has been ever since a non-affiliate, not having paid a cent into any lodge or charity fund.

If an English Mason applies for membership here, his present status should be written home for before a ballot is had—unless he has the evidence with him—and if he is found correct, then his Grand Lodge certificate will be equivalent to a dimitt to file with his petition, as he may be a member both here as well as in his mother lodge, and his election and payment of dues here does not release him from his dues at home, nor vice versa. In writing to Bro. Hervey for this information, we stated that we needed it not only for our local State jurisdiction alone, but for publication for the benefit of all our States, and would, therefore, suggest to other Masonic journals the propriety of copying this report for the use of lodges generally.

We are evidently doing our sister English lodges great injustice, in too many instances, by harbouring and aiding sojourners who have no legal Masonic standing at home, and of which fact we remain ignorant by our failure to compel the visitor to produce a proper certificate, and the applicant for relief proper evidence of good Masonic standing and worthiness. We refer more particularly to those who have lived in this country one or more years, and not to those making merely a temporary visit to the States, and whose certificates are generally of a recent date.

From Bro. Hervey's letter we learn that Scotland and Ireland have the same system of membership and certificates, although not so strict a system of lodge dues, except that Ireland is rapidly adopting it.

We think it is time that American lodges should be more circumspect in their intercourse with visitors, both those from home and abroad.

The remarks of Bro. Gouley in the foregoing are timely, and awaken, or at least should awaken attention to the fact that we have been altogether too liberal in our acceptance of strangers among us, and somewhat too careless in admitting as correct evidence that when tried by the rules will be found altogether incompetent. Thus Bro. Hervey tells us that the certificate of the Grand Lodge of England is evidence that the party named in it has regularly received the degrees of Masonry, but it is not evidence that the possessor is in good and regular standing if any considerable length of time has elapsed between the date of the certificate and that at which the intending visitor presents himself for examination, and hence when, as is the case in a majority of instances, the certificate is anywhere from two or twenty years old when presented, it will at once be seen that we are not warranted in giving it any special weight in the decision of the question of the present good standing of the person who presents it. Still another matter will be found of great importance in this connection, and that is to be found in the fact that Masons hailing from foreign countries rarely have a certificate of recent date nor yet any document tending to show that they have maintained their standing during the intervening years.

The Grand Lodge having "retrenched" the Boards of Relief out of existence, or at least so emasculated their treasures as to make them organizations in name rather than in fact, a large portion of their work must of necessity fall back upon the lodges, as they will discover when winter sets in. We advise that in such cases no certificate more than one year old be allowed as evidence of good standing, and additionally that care be taken to ascertain whether it issues from a Grand Body with which we are in regular communication. Among those which are not of this class we may name the Grand Lodge of Hamburg, the Grand Orients of France, Italy, Spain, Hungary, Egypt, and most of the South American jurisdictions. As things look now it is probable that the number of such Masonic powers will be more likely to increase than diminish, and, therefore, being on our guard, we may save money for the relief of true brethren and their widows and orphans by refusing it to those who have no legitimate call upon our benevolence.

For their own sakes, as well as for the benefit of the household of the faithful, we urge the brethren to look into this matter, and be prepared to act understandingly when the time for action arrives.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Prevention of Weakness. —Whenever circumstances produce impure blood, lessen the force or in any way disarrange the balance of circulation, stagnation takes place in the lungs, and consumption, or any other formidable symptoms, discover themselves. Let Holloway's remedies be tried on the first feelings of debility or the first annoyance of a dry, hacking cough. After the chest, both before and behind, has been formed with warm brine and the skin has been dried with a towel, the ointment should be rubbed twice a day upon the chest and between the shoulders, and the Pills should be taken in alternative doses to purify the blood and cleanse the system without weakening it or rousing or aggravating the nervous irritation.—ADVT.

LODGE NEW CONCORD (No. 813).—The annual festival of this prosperous Masonic Lodge was held at the Alexandra Palace on Wednesday, the 26th ult., under the presidency of Bro. J. R. Gallant, W.M., supported by Bro. Cusworth, S.W.; Stead, S.D.; George, J.D.; W. Gabb, D.C.; Shipway, I.G.; W. H. Main, P.M. and Sec.; and Sinclair, Tyler. The following Past Masters were also present: Bro. Emmens, J. J. Wilson, Bartlett, Atkins, H. J. Gabb; and amongst the visitors were Bro. Dixon, Crawford, Price, Tranter, Smith, Parker, Thomas, Smeed, and others, the entire company numbering about a hundred, including a fair proportion of ladies. The banquet was served in Messrs. Bertram and Roberts' best style, and the musical arrangements were admirably carried out by Bro. Walesby and Hubbard. Amongst the toasts, which were warmly honoured, were those of "The Queen," "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," "The Earl of Carnarvon, M.W. Pro G.M., Earl Skelmersdale, M.W. D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers," coupled with the name of Bro. Emmens, P.G.P., who, in his reply, spoke of his great pleasure at seeing so numerous and splendid a company attending the lodge of which he was the founder. "The Masonic Charities" was briefly replied to by Bro. Sinclair, the Steward at the late festival for the Boys' School, who took up with him in aid of that charity from the members of the lodge, the large amount of £200. "The Health of the W.M., and Prosperity to the New Concord Lodge," was most enthusiastically drunk. "The Visitors" was responded to by Bro. Price, and "The Past Masters" by Bro. J. J. Wilson and Main. "The Ladies" were gallantly represented by Bro. Shipway. A special toast was accorded to Bro. W. H. Main, Hon. Sec., for the trouble and care which he had displayed in carrying out the details of this most successful gathering. The company then retired to the ball-room, where dancing was kept up till the hour for closing.

IVY LODGE (No. 1441).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 25th ult., at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New-road. The lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. Josiah J. Cattle, supported by the following officers, viz., Bro. C. F. Poupard, S.W.; L. Cornelissen, J.W.; Goodman, S.D.; D. H. Ashford, J.D.; C. S. Jolly, P.M. 87; Sec.; T. F. Knight Smith, Organist; R. Forster, I.G.; and G. T. Fox, Tyler. The lodge having been opened, the summons calling the meeting was read. Bro. Edwin Phillips and Wright were raised to the Third Degree. The lodge having been resumed to the Second Degree, the presiding officer proceeded to pass Bro. Mordie to the degree of a F.C. The lodge was afterwards resumed to the First Degree, and the ballot taken for the admission into the Order of Messrs. F. M. Coldwells and J. E. Arnold. These gentlemen, who had been proposed by Bro. C. Parkin and seconded by Bro. J. Chambers, were regularly initiated into the brotherhood. This being the first meeting of the lodge since the installation of Bro. J. J. Cattle it must be admitted that he worked the ceremonies in such a manner as to deserve the favourable opinion entertained of his ability. Bro. G. Mattock, the I.P.M., being present, the W.M. addressed him upon the mournful circumstance which prevented his attendance at the installation meeting, and stated that a jewel had been voted to him by the lodge. The presiding officer, after a few other remarks, presented the jewel to Bro. Mattock, who acknowledged the gift in a few well chosen words. All Masonic work being ended, the lodge was closed in ancient form, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet hall for refreshment. After the cloth had been withdrawn the usual Masonic toasts were given. The W.M. proposed in suitable language "The Health of the Initiates." The toast was responded to in an excellent address by Bro. Coldwells. The toast of "The Officers of the Lodge" was well received. The W.M., speaking of the duties of the officers, praised each brother for the zealous and efficient manner in which he worked, as well as those who were aspiring to office and already rendering service to the lodge. Bro. T. F. Knight Smith and several other brethren greatly enlivened the proceedings by some excellent songs. Bro. Smith presiding at the piano-forte with his usual ability and taste. At last the Tyler's toast brought a most enjoyable evening to a close, and the brethren separated soon after eleven o'clock to wend their way to their respective domestic lodges. Past Masters John Noye and Charles Smith were present at the gathering.

GATESHEAD.—Lodge of Industry (No. 48).

—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in Freemasons' Hall, Gateshead-on-Tyne, on Monday, 24th July, 1876. Present: Bros. E. D. Davis, P.M., acting as W.M.; J. E. Robson, as I.P.M.; D. Sinclair, S.W.; J. G. Waddington, J.W.; M. Corbitt, Sec.; J. Cook, as S.D.; G. S. Sims, as J.D.; John Wood, I.G.; R. Ferry, Org.; E. Liddell, J.S.; J. Curry, Tyler; several visitors, and a large number of other brethren. Bro. Wm. Alexander, of Wilson Lodge, 86, Toronto, under Grand Lodge of Canada, was elected a joining member. Bro. Swan and Fairclough received the Third Degree. A committee, consisting of Bros. John E. Robson, P.M.; E. D. Davis, P.M.; David Sinclair, S.W.; and Michael Corbitt, Sec., appointed, in addition to the Trustees, Bros. A. Clapman, P.M.; R. J. Banning, P.M.; and J. H. Thompson, P.M., to make all necessary arrangements for the purchase of the Freemasons' Hall, West-street, Gateshead, and complete the same as the committee may consider desirable.

GARSTON.—Lodge of Harmony (No. 220).

—The members of this ancient lodge met for installation purposes on Wednesday afternoon, the 26th ult., at the Garston Hotel, Garston. Bro. J. Hughes, W.M., presided at the opening, and the officers and brethren present were Bros. J. W. Baker, P.M.; C. Leedham, P.M.; W. Jones, P.M.; T. B. Tellett, S.W.; S. Tickle, J.W.; W. Vines, P.M., Treas.; C. Humphries, Sec.; J. Tewksbury, S.D.; G. Price, J.D.; J. V. Worthington, P.M., D.C.; A. Sharples, S.; J. Robinson, Tyler; J. Carter, H. Hatch, J. W. Pickering, T. F. Hill, J. Crowther, J. Coates, J. Cave, W. Throughton, P. Robertson, S. Gill, W. H. Lovelady, T. Wainwright, G. Bradshaw, H. Paine, J. H. Clark, J. R. Ivey, and S. Chambers. The visitors included Bro. W. Hughes, P.M. 1013, and B. Firth, 605. The chair of Installing Master was subsequently occupied by Bro. J. W. Baker, P.M., who impressively placed Bro. C. Humphries, P.M. 1013, in the position of W.M. for the ensuing year. The following brethren were subsequently invested as officers:—Bros. J. Hughes, I.P.M.; T. B. Tellett, S.W.; S. Tickle, J.W.; W. Vines, P.M., Treas. (re-elected); G. Price, Sec.; J. Tewksbury, S.D.; T. F. Hill, J.D.; H. Hatch, I.G.; J. V. Worthington, P.M., D.C.; A. Sharples, S.S.; T. Wainwright, J.S.; and J. Robinson, Tyler. The newly-chaired W.M. at the close of the ceremony passed four brethren to the Second Degree in a masterly manner. The W.M. then said he had a very agreeable and pleasant duty to perform, and that was to present Bro. John Hughes, I.P.M., with a very handsome Past Master's jewel as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the members of the lodge, and in recognition of the value of his services during the past year, especially with reference to the financial position of the lodge. Bro. J. Hughes briefly acknowledged the gift, and the lodge was then closed. The brethren subsequently banqueted under the presidency of the W.M. The annual pic-nic in connection with the lodge was fixed to take place on Wednesday, the 2nd inst., the place of pleasure being the pretty village of Knutsford, in Cheshire.

DEPTFORD.—Royal Oak Lodge (No. 871).

—The regular meeting, was held on Thursday, 27th July, at the White Swan Hotel, 217, High-street, Deptford. Bro. Frederick Walters, P.G.J.D. Middlesex, P.M., Secretary (in the unavoidable absence of Bro. H. J. Tuson, W.M., who was out of town), opened the lodge. There were present during the evening Bros. W. Andrews, P.M., Treas.; G. Andrews, P.M., D.C.; W. Myatt, P.M., W.S.; S. A. Lewin, P.M.; J. J. Pakes, S.W.; J. Baxter Langley, W.M. 1423, J.W.; G. T. Limn, S.D.; R. Harman, J.D.; J. G. Vohmann, I.G.; C. Wood, W. Sievey, G. Jones, W. Simmons, F. H. Burr, J. Rennie, L. Lemon, W. A. R. Harris, G. Porter, C. F. Buhler, W. Elgood, W. C. Lochhead, J. Wollett, R. Mason, G. A. Leighton, A. Macers, H. Fellows, G. Eve, J. G. Thomas, W. Cockle, E. James, R. West, and others. The visitors were Bros. C. R. Bennett, W.M. 1382; Govan Macdonald, W.M. 1158; J. Lightfoot, P.M. 147; David Smith, 1326; G. Gyde, 700; E. W. Fisher, 700; T. W. Adams, 765; G. Frost, 913; and others whose names we were unable to ascertain. Bro. F. Walters, on behalf of the lodge, solicited Bro. G. Andrews to do the work. He kindly agreed to do so. The ballots were unanimous in favour of the admission of Messrs. Gustav Wildermuth, and John Büchele, as candidates for initiation into Freemasonry. The minutes of previous lodge meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. In an impressive manner, Bro. G. Andrews, P.M., raised Bros. G. Eve, W. Simmons, and G. A. Leighton to the Degree of a Master Mason. Three gentlemen were proposed for initiation. A notice of motion was carried, which completed the business of the meeting. The lodge was closed and adjourned to Thursday, August 17th. Cold collation followed, Bro. W. Andrews, the Senior P.M., presiding in an admirable manner at the festive board. The toasts were given and responded to. Songs and recitations passed away an agreeable evening.

LIVERPOOL.—Neptune Lodge (No. 1264).

—The annual pic-nic in connection with this prosperous lodge took place on Wednesday, the 26th ult., but the old fashioned saying that "the best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft a-gate" was once more verified, so far as the weather was concerned. The rain commenced to fall at early morning, and continued to fall without intermission until long after the return of the pic-nickers to Liverpool. Remembering the pleasant "out" last year, the committee of arrangement again chose Hollingworth Lake, near Rochdale, as the scene of the day's pic-nic. The party started from Tithebarn Station in the morning, and in due time arrived at Hollingworth Lake, amid a continuous downpour of rain. The excursionists made the most of the unpleasant "situation," and every effort was made to make the time pass as pleasantly as possible. Ample provision in the way of "creature comforts" was made, and a round of enjoyments—skating, dancing, music, &c.—had to be improvised, which was done with much success. Every one seemed determined to do the best and make the most of the day under the circumstances, and although every one returned to Liverpool nearly drenched there was nothing but the greatest good nature predominant.

LIVERPOOL.—Dramatic Lodge (No. 1609).

—The second regular meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 25th ult., at the Masonic Hall. Bro. J. Bell, W.M., was at his post, supported by Bros. B. B. Marson, P.M.; W. J. Chapman, S.W.; L. Courtenay, J.W.; A. Woolrich, Treas.; H. J. Loveday, Sec.; W. Sandbrook, J.D.; J. Atkinson, I.G.; J. Pye and A. Collinson, Stewards; W. H. Ball, Tyler; Dr. Whittle, Dr. Pierce, H. P. Squire, J. Keet, F. Wilkinson, E. Cotton, W. Hildyard, J. Cavell, R. Williams, I. De Frece, W. Coates, and others. Amongst the visitors were Bros. G. Loredan, 389; S. Jones, P.M. 477; J. Levy, 667; G. R. Chapman, 68; W. F. Blamphin, 667; E. George, 1356; E. Purkess, P.M. 267; J. H. Ryley, 188; H. Nelson, P.M. 1505; R. E. Mitton, 1356; W. Vetter, 815; J. Elmore, 431; J. Orford, 1356. Messrs. A. Garner, R. Brough, and G. Martin were initiated by the W.M., and Bros. F. Wilkinson, E. Cotton, and G. Meers were passed to the Second Degree. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment, several very enjoyable hours being spent.

INSTRUCTION.

FINSBURY PARK LODGE (No. 1288).—

On Wednesday evening, the 19th ult., the ceremonies of consecration and installation were rehearsed by Bro. Terry. The lodge, which is open all the year round, met at its usual trysting place, the Finsbury Park Tavern, Seven Sisters Road, Holloway, and about sixty brethren, many of whom had never been present at a consecration, assembled. Bro. Terry opened the lodge at seven o'clock, having Bro. R. V. Davies, the W.M. of the mother lodge, 1218, as S.W.; Bro. J. W. Wright, W.M. of the Royal Standard, 1298, J.W.; Bro. P. Dickinson, as D.C.; Bro. W. C. Beavan, as S.D.; Bro. J. F. O. C. Wood, as J.D.; Bro. C. Hawksley, as P.M.; Bro. Pigot, as Treasurer; and Bro. H. B. D. Dunn, as Hon. Sec. Amongst other brethren present were Bros. Biver, W. Rest, P. Pazzi, J. Eldridge, A. N. De Metz, Lane, Powell, Simson, Ely Legge, W. D. Dickson, C. Mitchell, H. Beck, Robinson, Searle, J. Walker, Fred. Brown, S.W. 1607 and 174; C. H. Webb, J.W. 1607; Robson, 1360; H. T. Bath, P.M. 319; Powell, 188; Chant, Simson, S. Owen, S. Wood, J. Pangbourne, W. Morgan, Morgan, jun., S. Buderus, F. Rothschild, S. J. Byng, and W. C. Bevan. Bro. Terry having opened the lodge in the different degrees, proceeded to give the ceremony of consecration, assisted by the officers, and Bro. Burr, as Organist, with Bro. G. Nunn leading the singing. The whole ceremony was beautifully rendered, including an oration describing what Freemasonry is, what lodges are, and the duties of all who join the Order. Hymns were then sung. The ceremony of consecration being completed, Bro. Terry proceeded with the installation, for which purpose Bro. Joseph Pigot, (the W.M. of the Prince Frederick. William Lodge, 753) was presented to him by Bro. P. Dickinson, D.C., as candidate for the chair. On the completion of the formal installation Bro. Pigot appointed the following brethren as his officers, and invested them in a most efficient way:—Bros. Davies, S.W.; Wright, J.W.; Beavan, Treas.; H. B. D. Dunn, Sec.; Chant, S.D.; Rothschild, J.D.; Goode, I.G.; Saul, Tyler. Bro. Terry afterwards gave the charges, and the undermentioned joining members were proposed: Bros. C. H. Webb, S.W. 1607; Ely Legge, 1607; C. Hawksley, 1196; Morgan, 1585; W. D. Dickinson, 29; C. Mitchell, 1201; Hy. Beck, 1201; Robinson, Powell, and Lane. It was proposed by Bro. Dickinson, and seconded by Bro. Davies, and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Bro. Terry for his kindness in working the ceremonies, also, that he be elected an honorary member of the Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Terry, in acknowledging the honour paid to him, thanked the brethren, and said it gave him great pleasure to work the ceremonies, and that he was amply repaid for his exertions by the satisfaction expressed, and by the attention which the brethren had given to him, and he trusted that the lodge might continue to prosper, and exhorted the brethren to support it as well as they had hitherto. The lodge was then closed.

RUTHERGLEN.—Lodge St. John Operative (No. 347).

—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in their elegant new hall in Cathcart-st., on Friday evening, the 28th ult., Bro. D. Smart, W.M., presiding, supported by Bros. J. Cunningham, I.P.M.; Wm. Young, S.D., acting S.W.; Thos. Alston, J.W.; A. Warnock, P.M., Secretary; A. Robertson, J.D.; A. Pearson, Chap.; Hugh Hall, S.B.; P. M. Ross, I.G.; and J. Cairns, Tyler; and a well attended meeting of members and visiting brethren. The lodge was opened, and the minutes of last regular and one emergency meeting read and confirmed. It was then unanimously agreed to have the annual trip of the lodge on Saturday, 19th of August, to the grounds of Col. A. C. Campbell, P.G.M. Renfrewshire, East, by omnibus conveyance. Mr. Robert Wilson was afterwards initiated by Bro. D. Smart, W.M.

KILBARCHAN.—Lodge St. Barchan (No. 156).

—A meeting of this lodge was held in the lodge-room, on Friday evening, 21st ult. The chair was occu-ped by the W.M., Bro. W. Lewis, M.D., supported by Bros. A. Buchanan, D.M.; R. Craig, S.W.; Cairney, acting J.W.; J. Hill, acting S.D.; J. Stevenson, J.D.; A. Grant, Sec.; and others. Mr. W. Conway, was initiated by the W.M. Three brethren were passed, the ceremony being gone through by the W.M.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

The following report of the Provincial Grand Master's address at the last quarterly meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire has been forwarded to us for publication:—

The Provincial Grand Master addressed the lodge as follows,—Brethren, members, and officers of this Prov. G. Lodge of Harmony, permit me to express my sincere acknowledgments for the cordial reception you have awarded to me, and also for the salutation you have bestowed upon the office I have the honour to occupy in West Yorkshire. We have assembled for our Midsummer meeting, under the banner of the Lodge of Harmony, No. 275 on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England. We cordially thank Major Freeman, the W.M., his officers, and brethren, for their acceptable invitation and proverbial hospitality. This magnificent lodge, which numbers upwards of 90 members, has for many years held a high position in the Craft, and has had, and I may say now has, among its ranks many brethren who have pre-eminently distinguished themselves in Freemasonry. Since the renewal of your lodge warrant in A.L. 5839, you have been remarkable as a body of Craftsmen, for the harmony which has at all times existed amongst you, and by the munificent support you have on all occasions given, and given so cheerfully, to our charitable institutions. The provincial record of subscriptions and donations in the Red Book states that this lodge commands a total of 338 votes, representing money contributions, exclusive of losses by death, to the amount of £1002. As an example for this Province, nothing could be more praiseworthy than the efforts made by the Harmony brethren at the Girls' School election last October, who, by their exertions, enabled the charity committee to carry the election of Lucy Maria Taylor, who was not a specially selected nominee of West Yorkshire. This effort on your part, brethren, was "a golden deed," and worthy of mention, again and again; you have also further shown your interest for the prosperity of our charities by your support of Lord Skelmersdale and myself, at the Annuity Fund, and Girls' School festivals, in Freemasons' Hall, the combined exertions of the brethren on these occasions resulting in a subscription list of nearly £18,000; the West Yorkshire quota being £1294, whilst last year these two items were £997 13s. 3d. Permit me to refer to the Girls' School Festival, on the 10th May, in which I, as your P.G. Master, was more directly interested. The executive of this anniversary was in hopes to have been enabled to announce that H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught would preside, but shortly before the day fixed for the festival, a strong doubt having been expressed that H.R.H. would not be in England, Bro. Little, almost at the last hour, honoured West Yorkshire by inviting me to accept the presidency for that day. I trust the cause of this institution did not suffer under the circumstances of the unavoidable absence of our Royal brother, the Duke of Connaught, for we know with what tact and ability he would have fulfilled the duties of the chair. On the Monday before the festival I had the gratification, accompanied by Lady Edwards and my son, of distributing the prizes to the pupils in the school at St. John's Hill. I can assure you that it was a most enjoyable day to us, and we hope that it may not be the last occasion upon which we may have an opportunity of seeing the admirable progress made by the girls of that institution, which is so worthy of your continued confidence and support. I must briefly allude to the return of our Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, from the East to his native land. He has been greeted by the Craft, and by millions of his countrymen, with enthusiasm. As Freemasons, we, of this province, hail his return to England with loyalty and affection. The Grand Lodge has resolved worthily to commemorate the visit of the Prince of Wales to India, and his safe return home, and has determined that a special committee be appointed to consider the best mode in which this feeling of thankfulness at the safe return from India of our Grand Master, "can be perpetuated in some charitable and practical form, and to report thereon to the next quarterly meeting." A committee therefore has been appointed to inquire as to the most appropriate manner in which such a visit shall be commemorated, the only limit to its enquiries being that the memorial shall assume some charitable and practicable form. Our assembly to-day is gladdened by the presence of our late Deputy, Bro. Bentley Shaw, J.P. D.L. I seize the opportunity of his welcome visit amongst us to express my admiration of his lofty virtues and high Masonic qualifications; and words of mine are inadequate to give a faithful description of the feelings of respect with which we look back upon his 11½ years of service as D.P. G.M. of this Province. Before that memorable 21 of April at Halifax, when I accepted at the hands of our Royal Grand Master this chair, so long occupied by the Marquis of Ripon, I had long known our distinguished brother to be a most faithful, valuable member of the Craft; but I confess I failed to fully realise the estimation in which he is everywhere held until I came to fulfil the responsible duties attached to my office. Many of us still remember the animated debates in which our late Bro. Freeman and others took part, and we acknowledge the ability and judicious discrimination of our late Deputy in so guiding those deliberations, which terminated in the present revision of our bye-laws and regulations being adopted, and confirmed by this P.G. Lodge, held at Huddersfield on the 15th of May, 1867. A previous edition of our bye-laws received the signature and sanction of th-

Earl of Zetland, 20th September, 1848. This edition is obsolete, and the Huddersfield edition, my Deputy informs me, is now out of print, and that at some of the lodges he has visited these bye-laws are wanting in the catalogue of constitutions and laws which ought always to be found on the pedestal before each W.M. in open lodge. I have often thought it should be a bye-law of this province that each W. Master should have a copy of the Book of Constitutions, Prov. Grand Lodge bye-laws, and the bye-laws of his lodge presented to him on his installation by the Installing Master, to read and to study. It would only cost each lodge a few shillings each year, and would promote discipline and harmony. In 1848 only 32 lodges appear in the schedule of the obsolete copy; in 1867, 46 lodges in the revised edition; whilst 61 lodges require enumerating in a future edition. Under these circumstances, I, and my Deputy, have determined to have the Huddersfield edition reprinted. It is gratifying to me to notice the continued prosperity of the Craft in this large province, and to notice that Bro. M. Martin de Bartolomé, P. P.G.M., P.G.H., on the 23rd May, laid the corner stone of a new Masonic hall at Sheffield, under auspicious circumstances. On the 20th, the Lodges Hope and Pentalfa occupied their new buildings at Bradford. On the 5th June, my Deputy inaugurated in appropriate premises the Wharfedale Lodge, at Otley. We hope soon to be informed of another new Masonic Hall at Batley, and on the 8th June my Deputy was present at the inauguration of the Leeds Masonic Club. The club will, we hope, be conducive of much benefit to the Craft in Leeds, and I earnestly ask the brethren of the province to consider the remarks I made at Sheffield on Oct. 20 of last year in reference to the union of clubs with London. In the touching farewell address to our late Deputy to the Craft at Halifax, last year, he said that "peace and concord prevailed throughout the lodges, with but one slight exception, where he trusted the misunderstanding which had arisen (in one lodge) would be speedily and easily adjusted. Brethren, when I addressed you at Wakefield, I referred to this exception, and I stated that my Deputy had not been able to then find a solution to the ruling of the late Deputy being upheld. He now informs me that, with the assistance of our Prov. Grand Registrar, a harmonious settlement has been brought about, and that I can now inform Bro. Bentley Shaw that his decision will be respected. I, and my Deputy, earnestly desire, that in all the lodges there should be peace, concord, and harmony. We especially commend the word "harmony" to your consideration. It is a truly Masonic word, and worthy of all acceptance, that as Masons we should in agreement, in views, in sentiments, in manners, in interests, labour together for peace and friendship, and mutual harmony.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

The annual communication was held at Freemasons' Hall, Sydney, on Monday, the 24th day of April, 1876. There were present V.W. Bro. Ernest O. Smith, District Deputy Grand Master, in the chair; R.W. Bro. A. W. Ritchie, P.D.G. Master Madras; W. Bros. Thomas S. Bullard, P.J.D.G.W., as S.D.G. Warden; William G. Cassidy, P.J.D.G.W., as J.D.G. Warden; Wm. Henry Simpson, District Grand Treas.; O. Spencer Evans, District Grand Registrar; A. Gardner, P.B.G. Purposes; R. Leworthy, District Grand Sec.; W. Webster, P.J. D.G.D., as S.D.G. Deacon; George Merrett, P.S.D. G.W., as J.D.G. Deacon; W. Thomas, A.G.D. Ceremonies; John S. Gordon, D.G.S., as D.G. Purst; S. A. DeLissa, District Grand Tyler; and District Grand Stewards, Past District Grand Officers, Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, and Wardens of Lodges, and other brethren.

The District Grand Lodge was opened by the District Deputy Grand Master in form at 8 p.m.

The minutes of the 17th January were read and confirmed.

Bro. Dr. Charles Leslie DeVine was announced as representative from the Grand Orient of Peru.

The District Deputy Grand Master said that before Bro. DeVine was admitted he had to state that documents had been received from the Grand Secretary of the Gran Orient of Peru, dated Lima, 15th April, 1875, signed by the Grand Master, and under the seal of the Gran Orient of Peru, nominating and appointing Bro. DeVine as the representative of that body to the Masonic bodies of England and the dependencies of the British Crown; the documents written in Spanish have been translated into English, and would now be read by the District Grand Secretary. Documents read as follows:—

No. 417.

We, Doctor Blas Jose Alzamora, Sovereign Grand Inspector General of the 33rd Degree.—Ser. G.M. of the Ancient and Most Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of the Orient of Peru,

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME.

Greeting. Greeting. Greeting.

For as much as the Gran Orient of Free and Accepted Masons of Peru has resolved to cultivate a correspondence more intimate than that which has existed hitherto with the grand bodies of Freemasonry, and considering that they may and ought to cement more closely the bonds of fraternal love, increase the prosperity of the Masonic family, and protect the unity, integrity, and purity of the Order by strengthening its usefulness and honour by the nomination and mutual exchange of representatives on the part of each of the bodies above mentioned.

Wherefore know ye that, having full confidence in our Most Worshipful Bro. Dr. Charles Leslie DeVine, Sovereign Prince of the Rosy Cross, 18th Degree, have we deemed expedient to constitute and nominate, and by these presents do constitute and nominate the aforesaid brother,

Dr. Charles Leslie DeVine, 18th Degree, representative of the Gran Orient of Peru, to the Masonic Powers of England and the Dependencies of the British Crown, for the purposes indicated.

In the testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Gran Orient to be attached hereto, and have signed these presents in the City of Lima, the capital of the Peruvian Republic, on the 5th day of the Masonic month, Nisam, A.D.L.V.L., the year of the True Light, 5635, which corresponds to the 11th April, 1875, E.V.

BLAS JOSE ALZAMORA,

33°, Most Serene Grand Master.

ARTHUR M. WHOLEY, 33°,

Grand Sec. of the Gran Orient.

Worshipful Bro. DeVine was then admitted, and the Deputy District Grand Master received him as the representative of the Gran Orient of Peru.

Bro. C. H. May, P.M. Lodge 1169, read Auditor's report, with balance sheets of District Grand Lodge and Benevolent Funds for the past year. He then moved, seconded by Bro. Frederick Harper, P.M., Balmmain Lodge, 868, that the same be received, adopted, printed, and circulated, which was put and carried.

Bro. Bullard, P.J.D.G.W., proposed, seconded by Bro. Webster, P.J.D.G. Deacon, that Bro. Simpson be re-elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. Put and carried. Bro. Simpson thanked District Grand Lodge for the confidence reposed in him.

The District Grand Secretary read a letter dated the 24th April, from the Right Worshipful the District Grand Master stating his inability to be present at District Grand Lodge that evening, and requesting the District Deputy Grand Master to preside, and to invest with their collars the brethren he had appointed for the ensuing year to be District Grand Lodge office-bearers, he also thanked the retiring officers for the assistance they had rendered him in carrying out the duties of District Grand Lodge. The District Deputy Grand Master, in pursuance of the authority thus delegated to him, in the name and on behalf of the District Grand Master proceeded to invest the following brethren as officers for the ensuing year, namely:—Bros. E. O. Smith, P.M. 556, D.D.G. Master; O. S. Evans, 868, S.D.G. Warden; A. Gardner, 655, J.D.G. Warden; Rev. Wazer Begg, L.L.D., M.D., 390, Chaplain; W. H. Simpson, P.M. 390, D.G. Treasurer; T. S. Bullard, 556, D.G. Registrar; W. Thomas, 555, P.B.G. Purposes; R. Leworthy, 817, D.G. Secretary; W. D. Banks, 656, S.D. G. Deacon; J. Marshall, 390, J.D.G. Deacon; W. J. Robinson, 1169, D.G. Supt. Works; J. S. Gordon, 556, D.G.D. Ceremonies; J. E. Graham, 656, A.D.G.D. Ceremonies; F. Monckton, W.M. 637, D.G. Sword Bearer; T. W. Craven, 655, D.G. Organist; H. J. Wager, 390, D.G. Pursuivant; S. A. De Lissa, P.M. 655, D.G. Tyler.

The District Grand Stewards are W. Bros. J. J. Davy, W.M. 556; H. J. Lovett, 817; H. Perdriau, 868; El Kirchner, 1169; E. Cohen, 1552; — Stratford, 1568.

Bros. Rowe and Walton were appointed Scrutineers for the election of six P.M.'s to serve on the Board of General Purposes; a ballot was then taken when the Scrutineers retired; on their return the result of the ballot was declared to be as follows:—P.M. Webster, Lodge 1169; P.M. Bullard, Lodge 556, P.M. Cassidy, Lodge 817; P.M. Banks, Lodge 656; P.M. Hopson, Lodge 655; P.M. F. Harper, Lodge 868.

Bros. Merrett and Webster were appointed Scrutineers; a ballot was taken for the election of six Past Masters to serve on the Board of the Committee of Benevolence, the Scrutineers declaring the result of the ballot to be as follows:—Bros. Webster, P.M. Lodge 1169; Cassidy, P.M. Lodge 817; Banks, P.M. Lodge 656; Taylor, P.M. Lodge 390; Hopson, P.M. Lodge 655; T. S. Bullard, P.M. Lodge 556.

It was proposed by the D.G. Treasurer, seconded by Bro. Robinson, that Bro. Webster, P.S.D.G. Deacon, be elected Auditor for the ensuing year; proposed by Bro. Taylor, seconded by Bro. Perdriau that Bro. F. Harper, P.M. Lodge 868, be elected Auditor for the ensuing year. Put and carried.

In the absence of the President, the District Grand Secretary brought up the report of the Committee of Benevolence shewing the amount voted in relief of applicants since last communication to be £17, and that the amount granted during the past year was £156. Bro. Simpson proposed, seconded by Bro. Cassidy, that the report be received, adopted, printed, and circulated. Put and carried.

Bro. Simpson, Treasurer, brought up the report of the Committee of the Orphan Society, with the balance sheet, which was read and ordered to be printed and circulated.

A letter was read, dated 4th April, from the Secretary of the Furnishing Committee, asking for an increase in the salary of the Tyler from £4 to the original amount £8 per annum.

Bro. Simpson proposed, seconded by Bro. Taylor, that the salary of the District Grand Secretary be £120 for the ensuing year, and said that the duties of the office continued to be most efficiently performed by Bro. Leworthy.

The Dis. Dep. G. Master also said that the duties of the office had been performed most satisfactorily.

Bro. Monckton, D.G. Sword Bearer, moved as an amendment that the salary of the District Grand Secretary be £150 for the ensuing year; he thought that amount was quite little enough, as the duties of the office had been increased and faithfully carried out by the D.G. Secretary, and now the District Grand Lodge was in so flourishing a condition it could well afford that amount as salary. Bro. E. Cohen seconded the amendment.

Bro. Simpson, in reply, said he thought that the present salary was sufficient for the work done, and reminded D.G. Sword Bearer that the Secretary received besides his salary remuneration from the Freemasons' Hall Company, and further, that he was only required to give up two hours daily to the business of his office. The amendment was put and lost, the original motion was put and carried.

Bro. Bullard, District Grand Registrar, moved, seconded by Bro. Craven, District Grand Org., that the salary of the District Grand Tyler be £8 for the ensuing year.

Bro. Taylor said he thought the present salary of £4 quite sufficient, it was at the rate of £1 for each meeting.

Bro. Bullard, in reply, said the salary at first paid the Tyler by all the lodges, including D.G. Lodge, was £100 per annum, he now had only £96. The salary formerly paid by D.G. Lodge was £8, and was reduced in consequence of the state of its funds. The Tyler had a great number of emergency meetings to attend to for which he was not paid anything extra, D.G. Lodge could now afford to pay the original salary to the Tyler, and he hoped it would do so.

Bro. Taylor said he should not oppose the motion. The motion was then put and carried.

Bro. Simpson, pursuant to notice, moved, "That the sum of £500 be taken from the cash balance and invested at interest for the District Grand Lodge." Bro. Cassidy seconded the motion. Put and carried.

Bro. Simpson further moved, seconded by Bro. Cassidy, "That the District Grand Master and District Grand Treasurer be requested to invest the amount in such a way as they deemed most advantageous for the District Grand Lodge." Put and carried.

The District Deputy Grand Master said that this time twelve months ago he had the honour to preside here and to invest the D.G.L. Officers in the name and on behalf of the District Grand Master. He trusted that the brethren who had that evening accepted office and been invested would attend punctually to their duties; as the meetings of the District Grand Lodge were only held four times a year, he could not consider their attendance on those occasions would be a very great tax on their time. He had to congratulate District Grand Lodge on the prosperous state of their funds. During the past year a very important event had taken place in the installation of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as their Grand Master. Masonry throughout the world has been making rapid advancement of late, for since His Royal Highness's acceptance of office vast numbers had joined the Craft, no doubt owing to the Prince having proved its worthiness by becoming its head, an event that is sure to tell most favourably on Freemasonry. He trusted while we hailed with much gladness the great increase to our numbers we should strictly guard the honour of our Order by being careful not to admit amongst us any who are likely to prove unworthy members of our Craft. He pointed out that two portraits of H.R.H. the Grand Master had been obtained from London, one of which was placed in the lodge-room, and the other in the banquet-room.

The District Grand Master had granted Warrants of Dispensation for two new lodges, one to be named the St. Leonard's Samaritan Lodge, to be held at St. Leonard's, North Shore, and the other the Inverell Lodge, to be held at Inverell.

Bro. Bullard said before District Grand Lodge closed he had an observation to make. He had been informed that the fee charged by the lodges for initiation was too small in comparison with those charged in England, and especially since the accession to office of our Royal Grand Master. He was told that £10 10s. was the fee charged for initiation in some lodges in England. He considered if that was the case that in this colony the fee should be increased. He thought the matter worth consideration.

The business being ended District Grand Lodge was closed in form.

FACTS AND SUGGESTIONS ABOUT THE ANCIENTS AND MODERNS.

By Bro. JACOB NORTON.

A statement appeared in a New York paper about three months ago, that Albion Lodge at Quebec was chartered in 1721. After some enquiry of the author of the article, who assured me that he had seen the charter, &c., I was at first inclined to credit it as a fact, but subsequent reflection, however, induced me to doubt. I could not understand how an English lodge could have found its way into Quebec at a time when the enmity between the English and French colonists in North America was such as to make it doubtful whether an English resident at Quebec would have been tolerated. Further investigation showed that the said Albion Lodge was chartered by the Ancients, hence it could not be older than 1750 or later. Moreover, Quebec was not conquered by the English before September, 1759, and the said lodge, which was originally named "Royal Artillery Lodge," was probably introduced into Quebec by a military regiment, as its name implies. These and several other reasons induced me to send a communication to the "Canadian Masonic News." The MS. was mailed on the 15th of April last, the day I sailed for Europe. For reasons which need not be explained, the article was sent from Montreal to the "Keystone," at Philadelphia, where it was printed on the 29th of April. For once at least, Bro. McCalla and myself agreed in opinion. Bro. W. J. Hughan, of Truro, England, also sided with us, and the only chance of upsetting our united belief depends on the publication of the charter, and I hope the Quebec brethren will ere long comply with our united request, and send a verbatim copy of the Albion Lodge charter to some Masonic journal for publication. Should the charter not be forthcoming we shall certainly take it for granted that we were not mistaken in our belief.

The investigation of that question, however, brought to my notice several other subjects, which I proceed to give: 1st. On carefully re-examining the list of lodges of the United Grand Lodge in 1814, in Bro. Hughan's "Masonic Memorial," I found that besides the Royal Artillery, No. 9, on the list of the Ancients, 1813, and No. 17 on that of the United Grand Lodge, in 1814, that two other Quebec lodges were respectively numbered by the Ancients, viz., 56 and 240, while not a solitary Quebec lodge can be found on the Grand Lodge of England list before the Union in 1813. This itself seems to indicate that the Ancients monopolized Quebec, and gives strength to our opinion that the Royal Artillery was also chartered by them.

2nd. I can also find that the late Charles W. Moore claimed that the so-called St. John's Grand Lodge of Boston chartered a lodge at Quebec "before 1764" (see Mass. Cons. 1857). Bro. Moore gave neither name nor date for the alleged Quebec lodge, except the somewhat dubious "before 1764." I am very much inclined to place that Massachusetts Quebec lodge side by side with the charters said to have been sent from Boston to Philadelphia, Charleston, S.C., Halifax, N.S., to the West Indies, &c. But yet it may be true, and if so, I hope the Quebec brethren will enlighten us upon the subject.

3rd. During my late visit to London, my esteemed friend, Bro. Hervey, Grand Secretary of England, informed me that the policy of the Ancients and Moderns in numbering their lodges differed in this. After certain intervals the Grand Lodge of England used to erase all its defunct lodges, and the numbers were re-conferred, according to the seniority, on the other lodges. That the Grand Lodge of England did re-number part of its lodges several times previous to 1814 can be proved; first, from the African Lodge, Boston, which was originally numbered 459, and was afterwards changed to 370; and second, the first Boston, now St. John's Lodge, known in England as Royal Exchange Lodge, was numbered at its first registry, about 1735 or 6, No. 126; in 1740 its number was changed to 110, and later still it was re-numbered 65, and at the time when it was stricken off, in 1814, it was No. 42. But I have no evidence that the Ancients had ever re-numbered their lodges en masse, and what is more curious still, on the demise of any of its old lodges its number was sold to the highest bidder, or in other words, the lodge that offered the highest sum took the number of the defunct lodge, and was entitled to precedence of the older lodges, and that at the Union in 1814 the United Grand Lodge took the numbers of the lodges of the Ancients, as they then existed, without any regard to seniority of their respective dates of charters, and placed No. 1 of each organization next to each other, changing the number of one of them to No. 2, &c.

Another fact about the lodges of the Ancients and Moderns at the time of the Union in 1814 must be noticed, viz., that on Bro. Hughan's list, as well as on all the lists of lodges published in the English calendars since the Union, the lodges of pre-union Moderns have the respective years of their constitutions annexed, while the lodges of the Ancients are minus of the year when constituted. The reason of this omission I must leave to Bro. Hughan to unravel. But anyhow, while we are certain that No. 1 on the list of the Moderns is older than its No. 2; with the lodges of the Ancients, it is actually impossible to know which is the oldest, as No. 1 may have become defunct, and No. 205 may have bought its number, and may in reality be fifty years the junior of No. 2. Now, the Quebec Lodge Albion, or Royal Artillery, was in 1814 No. 9 on the Ancients' list, but who knows whether the date of its charter may not be 1770, and that either for money or for some other consideration the No. 9 of a defunct lodge might not have been conferred upon it? The fact is, the only way we can learn the date of a charter of the Ancients is from the charter itself, or from a well authenticated copy thereof.

4th. On analyzing Bro. Hughan's list of lodges in 1814 I found that the total number of lodges of the United Grand Lodge of England was 647, out of which 250 were contributed by the Ancients, and 397 were constituted by the Moderns. Out of the 250 lodges of the Ancients, eight lodges were chartered by militia regiments in various parts of England, and about thirty were regular military lodges, while among the lodges originated by the Moderns I found but two militia lodges respectively dated 1791 and 1810, but not a solitary military lodge could I find there. It is evident, therefore, that all the military lodges of "English Registry" we read of in our colonial times, were chartered by the Ancients; for in the first place if the Grand Lodge of England had chartered military lodges before the Union, it would not have been without any in 1814, and secondly, no provision whatever about military lodges was made in any Constitution of the Grand Lodge of England published previous to the union with the ancients. But the first Book of Constitutions published by the United Grand Lodge of England contains regulations for military lodges.

Of the 250 lodges of the Ancients who united with the Grand Lodge in 1813, 127 of these lodges were still subordinate to the Grand Lodge of England in 1874 (when Bro. Hughan's memorial was published), and out of the thirty military lodges chartered by the Ancients but one of these is living, viz., St. John's, Gibraltar, and Royal Battalion of Artillery. Its number on the Ancients' list at the union in 1813 was 148. On the United Grand Lodge's list, in 1814, it was No. 181. In 1832 it was numbered 132, and in 1863 it was made 115. And of the 397 lodges contributed in 1813 or 14 by the Moderns I counted but 205 still acting under the English jurisdiction. Most of the old lodges of both wings have doubtless dissolved since the Union, but still we know that a few of them have seceded and are now working under the jurisdictions of Nova Scotia and Quebec.

And now for another fact about the Ancients that worked in Boston before the Revolution. In 1870, Bro. Gardner, the G.M. of Massachusetts, called my attention to the following paragraphs in an American reprint of "Calcott's Disquisition." After giving the nights of the meetings of the lodges working under the English Provincial Grand Lodge, and of the Scotch Provincial G.M., Joseph Warren, it then goes on to say: "I

"Under the jurisdiction of the Right Worshipful, &c., John, Duke and Marquis of Athol, &c."

"Ancient York, No. 169, the first and Third Tuesday in every month, at Mr. Alexander's Battery—March." This is the only evidence that the Ancients had a lodge in Boston. Of course, we imagined that it was a civilians' lodge. Recently, however, I found the following in "The Early History and Transactions of the Grand Lodge of New York," page 13.

"Minutes of Lodge 169, Ancient York Masons, held at their lodge-room on Tuesday evening, the 23rd of Jan., 1781."

I am firmly persuaded that the No. 169 of Boston was the identical Lodge No. 169 of New York; it was doubtless a military Lodge, and it left Boston with the British troops in 1736. Its lodge nights were on Tuesdays in both places. And as No. 169 is not given in "Hughan's Memorial" on the list of the Ancients, and as the minutes of that lodge remain in New York, the charter and lodge must have remained at New York after the war was over. I may be wrong, but such is my opinion.—"Jewish Record."

DOWN WITH MASONRY.

A large number of Christians, or philanthropists, or Christians and philanthropists, have been in session in Chicago for several days. The object of their gathering is to put down Masonry—not brick and stone masonry, but that dreadful oath-bound association whose members once killed Morgan. That is to say, killed him till after election.

The world watches the proceedings of this body with intense interest, fully believing that in the suppression of Masonry it has a mission, a great work to perform. The association numbers somewhere from 50 to 100 members. Masonry has anywhere from five millions to fifty millions of members. This will oblige every member of the anti-Masonic society to do some heavy work. Each of these has to dispose of from five hundred thousand to one million Masons. It's big odds; but there is no doubt they have the will, the desire, the inclination to succeed. All they lack now is the ability.

There is no doubt of the fact that Gen. Blanchard, in his crusade against the Masons, is doing God service—or at least he thinks he is. Masonry is a dastardly article, anyhow. Able-bodied men who appear on the streets aproned like pastry cooks or butchers occupy an equivocal position. What right have they to wear white aprons? What right have they to wear aprons at all? Are not these aprons worn so that deeds of blood can be committed without marring their clothes with gore? What terrible signification is there in all these stalwart, mysterious men going about with this unfathomable attachment? In truth, any man who will make a spectacle by marching up one street and down another, in broad daylight, with a little white apron strung around him, ought to be suppressed either by Blanchard or the police.

Again, what is meant by other Masons going about in uniform, and wearing pewter swords? What dire project is entertained by these men with plumed hats, gauntlets, and glittering sabres? It may be plunder. It may be rape. It may be something worse than either of these. Whose watch or throat is safe when gloomy-looking bands of men in funeral black, and armed to the teeth with a falchion of glittering pewter, are allowed with impunity to drill in secret places, and to march through the streets at any hour of the day or night? Where is Hickey? Where are the police? Call out the 1st Regiment, and let us have this menace removed at the point of the bayonet!

Blanchard is right every time. Every few days a dripping body is fished from the river. What proof is there that, in every case, the body is not the victim of Masonic hate and vengeance? Who has been able to satisfactorily prove that Masonry did not set fire to Chicago? And see here, Mr. Blanchard, can't you guess who abducted Charlie Ross? Do you twig? Masonry, my boy, dark, secret, silent, implacable Masonry? And did it never occur to you, Mr. Blanchard, to think of Masonry, when you have revolved that sphinx of problems, that hitherto unanswerable question which has been so long calling vainly for answer, from out the gloomy crypts of the past, Who struck Billy Patterson? For all the mysterious crimes that have escaped detection; for the explanation of bloated corpses far out on the sea, rocking idly on the swell, and coming, no one knows whence, and drifting no one knows whither; for gashed throats yawning horribly as grey morning first discovers them in the out-ways of life; for all these let Masonry answer—if it can! Will it? If not, Mr. Blanchard, then abolish its members, and may Hiram Abiff have mercy on their souls.

The Masonic business has gone on long enough, for thousands of years Masonry has existed, and during all that time tempests have swept the earth; volcanoes have inundated us with igneous wrath; wars have prevailed; grasshoppers, the murrain, the itch, measles, drunkenness, divorce, murder, suicide, shipwrecks, and termagant women have abounded and have cursed the earth, like fierce hounds, rending, tearing, afflicting humanity. Who can fail to see the connection between Masonry and all these specified evils? No one. It is as clear as it is that hunger causes nakedness, or that water creates thirst. Down with the acacia! Let it be dug up all throughout the world, and be thrown over the fence. It is a weed which takes up place which might better be occupied by the shamrock, or some other vegetable of a thrifty growth.—"Chicago Times," June 23.

The foundation stone of the new School of Art to be erected on Green Hill, Derby, was laid on Tuesday by the Baroness Burdett-Coutts in the presence of a distinguished company.

GRAND CHAPTER.

The quarterly convocation of Grand Chapter was held on Wednesday at Freemasons' Hall. The chapter was formed as follows:—E. Comp. Samuel Rawson, as M.E.Z.; E. C. Frederick Pattison, as H.; and E. C. Platt, J. There were also present Comps. Lieut.-Col. Creaton, as S.E.; Benj. Head, as S.N.; Hon. W. Warren Vernon, as P. Soj.; Gray and Saunders, Assist. Sojs.; E. J. Barron, Standard Bearer; also Comps. Buss, Snell, Parkinson, Joseph Smith, Hyde Pullen, Hogard, John Boyd, H. E. Francis, W. Hammond, W. Stephens, Pendlebury, Adlard, and others. After the reading of the minutes of the last quarterly convocation, the report of the General Purposes Committee was taken, including a report vouching the correctness of the accounts since 19th April, 1876, and reports as to the reception of petitions for four new chapters, viz., a chapter to be attached to the Jumna Lodge, 1394, to be called the Chalmers Chapter, to meet at Delhi, Punjab; a chapter to be attached to the Tyne Lodge, 991, Willington Quay, Northumberland; a chapter to be attached to the Friends in Council Lodge, 1383, to be called the Friends in Council Chapter, to meet at 33, Golden-square, London; a chapter to be attached to the Lodge of Charity, 563, Umballa, to be called the Umballa Chapter, to meet at Umballa, Punjab, all of which, being found regular, were recommended by the Committee of General Purposes, and granted by Grand Chapter.

A petition from the Fortescue Chapter, 847, Honiton, for a charter of confirmation, in consequence of the loss of the original, which was supported by Comp. the Rev. John Huysbe, Grand Superintendent of Devon, was also granted.

The committee also reported an irregularity which had occurred in the Old Globe Chapter, 200, Scarborough, where, on his simple assertion that he had been twelve months a Master Mason, a brother had been improperly exalted. The committee did not consider that it was a wilful error, and under the circumstances the Grand Chapter merely inflicted a fine of one guinea, with an admonition, and directed that the companion should be re-obligated at the next meeting.

Grand Chapter was then closed in the usual form.

A MASONIC INCIDENT.

At the feast given by the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts in December last, Rev. Bro. Young, the Grand Chaplain, related the following incident, and made the following excellent comments thereon:

The other evening, on a certain occasion, I alluded to the influence of Masonry during the rebellion. Since then I heard a story from one who was in the war, which beautifully illustrated the influence of Masonry in the direction of love and fraternity. In one of the battles of Virginia General Woodworth—I think that is the name—of Vermont, fell, and his body was within the enemy's lines. His friends wished to obtain it, and a Federal officer, who was a Mason, said to the sentinel, who was also a Mason, "You go down to the shore of the stream, and if you see a man on the other side, make some signal to him of a Masonic character." He went down to the shore, and by and by he saw a person on the opposite side. He gave the signal, but no answer was returned. The next morning when he went down he repeated the practice with the same result; no answer was given. Finally the officer himself went down and made some signals, and he soon found them answered on the other side. In course of the day communication was had, the body was given into the hands of its friends, and carried home to Vermont for interment. The rebel officer said that the sentinel on the other side did not know what those signals meant.

Now, it's just that, brethren. The world laughs at our signs, and calls them nonsense. But their object is to touch the secret springs through which we are brought into close and intimate connection with others, and are enabled, as in the case illustrated, to close a bloody chasm, and bring enemies into the relation of friends.

And so in the secret character of our organization. Why, all grand forces of nature are secret. God himself is a great secret, a great mystery; the eye does not look upon Him, the ear does not hear Him, the hand cannot reach Him, and yet we believe in His boundless love, and wisdom, and power, and we worship that Great Unseen and Invisible One. Life is secret and invisible. The surgeon, the dissector, can cut the body and lay open its parts; but he cannot lay his knife upon the secret life and expose it to the eye. The air is invisible. We only feel it on our cheeks; we hear its music in the forests. Electricity is invisible. Gravitation is invisible. All the secret powers and forces that move the world and hold systems together are unseen and secret, eluding the eye and hand. So it is in this grand institution of ours, which I believe we can not too much praise and too much love, brethren, and too much honour in our own manly characters, in our own upright lives, and in our loving disposition. It is that very characteristic of Masonry which gave it the power that is, to-day, in a hundred thousand ways that we don't see, moving the world onward, and lifting it up nearer to the skies, and preaching that love and brotherly kindness which shall make the earth we live on like the heaven we aspire to.

KNOWLEDGE AND SYMPATHY.—Good spirits may be readily restored to the late fortunate owner by a few doses of Holloway's revivifying medicine. Instant action alone is wanted to prevent the development of more disagreeable and dangerous symptoms. Every one has frequently experienced sudden personal changes from gaiety to gloom. The weather often receives the blame, when a faulty digestion alone is the cause of the depression. Holloway's Pills can be honestly recommended for regulating a disordered stomach and improving digestion. They entirely remove all sense of fullness and oppression after eating. They clear the furred tongue, and act as a wholesome stimulant to the liver, and as a gentle aperient to the bowels. They healthfully rouse both body and mind.—ADVT.

Obituary.

BRO. RICHARD DANSON, P.M. 1064.

A large section of the Masonic fraternity in and around Liverpool will learn with regret that Bro. Richard Danson, P.M. 1064, died at Heaton Moor, on Tuesday, the 25th ult., after a long illness. The deceased was best known professionally in Liverpool as the architect of the New Masonic Hall in Hope-street, and he was greatly esteemed by a large number of the brotherhood. Bro. Danson was only 41 years of age.

BRO. CAPTAIN JONES.

Died at Liverpool, on the 21st inst., suddenly, Bro. Captain Jones, formerly one of the Deacons of the Merchants' Lodge, who was very highly esteemed in Masonic circles by many brethren, and whose loss is greatly felt by many who knew him.

BRO. JOHN CHILDS, P.M. 1201.

On Thursday, the 27th ult., the remains of Bro. Past Master John Childs were conveyed to their last resting place in Lewisham Cemetery, and, although little notice could be given, there were many present to show their high regard for one who did the highest honour to Freemasonry by his most consistent and exemplary life, and whose untiring zeal for the cause of temperance and the general good of his fellows raised him in the highest esteem. It was, as far as the Craft is concerned, a private funeral.

By request, Bro. P.M. Wm. Darley, of Adams Lodge, 158, Sheerness, delivered the following oration at the grave after the usual service of the Church of England had been impressively performed by the vicar:—

Brethren and Friends,—
Not many days since I witnessed with pleasure a youth and aged sire shake hands together in the street—both seemed cheerful and happy then. The youth was taken ill, and so was the sire at the same time—the youth, most amiable and dutiful, a promising scholar, and on whom I looked with the greatest hope and comfort for the future, was my own dear boy of 17, whom it was my sorrow on Friday last to follow to the grave after but a week's illness, and his body rests within a very short distance of us. The sire was my dear friend and Brother Childs, whose body lays before us—both have left the clearest testimony that they died happy and have gone to a better world; they each mingle their voices with those before the throne of God. I have reasons to love the memory of Bro. Childs as an honourable, straightforward Mason, and an ornament to society as a lover of Masonry, who religiously carried out his obligation—ever ready to do good and to speak a word for those who were worthy. I honour him because amidst persecution he supported me in my efforts to free our excellent society from the great national curse. At his grave I venerate him as a true friend and brother, of whose acquaintance I was proud, as a man of superior intelligence and scientific attainments, and whose memory I shall ever revere as a godly man. Eternal peace to his ashes; and may the highest honours deck his brow and enshrine his spirit in the realms of light and life in the presence of the Most Holy. At his grave I devoutly pray the Most High God, and ask you present, and all lovers of genuine Masonry, to join me, that in His great goodness and wisdom He will shed His benign light upon His Royal Highness the Grand Master, the Grand Officers, and all possessing an honourable influence, inducing them to discontinue the drinking customs, and thus help to maintain pure and unsullied the noblest institution upon which the sun has ever shone, which has bound and is destined to bind together in sweetest harmony and love men of all nations, creeds, and politics. May the happiest consolations fill the breast of his widow and survivors, and the choicest blessings rest upon his children and children's children for ever. Brethren, I ask you to look with me into the open grave into which our brother has descended; let the spectacle remind us of our inevitable destiny, and guide our reflection into that most useful of all human studies, the knowledge of ourselves. May the Most Holy prepare us by His grace for that change when the great leveller of all shall come that we may join our brother in the Grand Lodge above, where the world's Great Architect lives and reigns supreme for ever. Live, my brethren, for this; show that there is in Masonry something more than a mere name, that you love one another "practically," and thus honour God and your profession. Pour the balm of consolation into the wounds of the sorrowing, help one another in all your lawful callings, do good in every way you can, and may God bless you and yours with every happiness here and hereafter. In closing allow me to pay a tribute to Masonry, a synonym of "Pure Religion," apart from Creed. Creeds are but dogmas or obstinate wills for faith created by local circumstances. Masonry, rising on angel wings above the clash of creeds and the strife of politics, reaching beyond the narrow limits of particular institutions, civil or religious, redolent with the perfumes of heaven, is now flying through the earth on a mission to dissipate prejudices, to teach man to love God and one another, regardless of creed, country, or caste, it has stood for thousands of years and braved the greatest persecution, it has promoted peace and goodwill among men, and raised the happiness of heaven, to which the monarch and the peasant unitedly do homage; whilst its heavenly charms draw together as brethren those who would be in perpetual animosity. Nations fall! Monarchs die! but Masonry, Heaven-born brotherly love, shall flourish and fructify in undying summer, and survive the wreck of matter and the crash of worlds. Finally, may it increase in its influence among all nations. May love and harmony prevail, and the God of the widow and fatherless bless the hand that helps its chariot-wheels along, or that removes impediments out of its way.

The whole were much affected, and the vicar showed respect by remaining. Afterwards the rites of Good Templars were carried out, and the whole sang "For ever with the Lord."

BRO. REV. FRANK W. C. SIMMONS.

The funeral of the late Bro. Rev. Frank W. Churchill Simmons took place at Nelson, New Zealand, on the 18th May, and was attended by a large number of the friends of the deceased gentleman. The mournful cortege left the College at half-past two for the Stoke Cemetery. Immediately after the hearse were coaches containing the nearest and dearest relatives and friends of the departed, and behind these came the collegiate scholars, followed by a great many young men who had left the institution, but bore in grateful and respectful remembrance the valued services of a kind and able master. After these came a carriage with the College Governors and the masters of the various public schools, then came two carriages occupied by well-known members of the Masonic fraternity (without the regalia of the Order), and the sad procession closed with a long string of vehicles of every kind. The service in the church was read by the Bishop of Nelson, assisted by the Rev. J. Kempthorne, after which his lordship read the service at the grave in a very impressive manner. At the conclusion of the service, according to the time-honoured custom of Freemasonry, the brethren present drew near the open grave and deposited sprigs of acacia upon the coffin, thus paying a last tribute of respect to the memory of the well-loved and deservedly esteemed Bro. Frank W. Churchill Simmons.

SMOLLETT A FREEMASON.

In an interesting article entitled "Smollett and Chelsea," by T. H. Gibson, M.A., in the "London Magazine" it is stated—"From one of his last letters, addressed to a friend in Chelsea, it would appear that Smollett was a Freemason; and that, as of course we might quickly infer from his works, he was very fond of a little genial society, not even excluding that tavernous society to which literary men in all ages seem to have been occasionally prone. Smollett, in fact, makes pointed references to the 'set' or convivial company meetings at some favoured and favouring tavern in the locality, and desires to know how the fellows are getting on, and that he may be remembered to them." What is known of this gifted novelist as a Mason? When and where was he initiated? What lodges did he visit? And will any one forward to the "Freemason" a copy of the letter alluded to in the above extract? I strongly suspect that Sterne too was a Freemason. If the true history of the Craft could only be fully come at, it would prove to be a much more glorious one than the rubbish manufactured for us by the "won't go home till morning" class of scribblers, who seem to have forgot that truth is a Masonic virtue.

GEORGE MARKHAM TWEDDELL.

MASONS' MARKS ON THE RUINS OF ANCIENT ROME.—It is only within the last year or two that we have been able to trace out the exact line of the walls of ancient Rome, as built by the kings, and this has been owing to the building of the new city, and the excavations made for that purpose by the British and American Archaeological Society's Exploration Fund. The marks found upon stone buildings of all dates in various parts of the world are those of the Masons, or builders, who were from the earliest times banded together in guilds, none being admitted without serving a specified time; these, again, according to their ability, were divided into different classes, consisting of Apprentices, Fellow Crafts, Master Masons, Mark men, and Architects, as distinct from the labourers, or men who prepared the rough stone, mixed the mortar, or carried the materials. These bands, guilds, or lodges were presided over by the most competent, forming a brotherhood, and as such existing down to the seventeenth century. Many of these lodges had charters and privileges granted to them by various kings and emperors; and because their art was taught only to the freeborn they came to be called Freemasons, which name is retained to the present day by the Masonic lodges, though they are not operative, but speculative Masons. Charlemagne and Hugh Capet granted such charters; also Pope Nicholas III. in 1278; in 1445 John de Medicis, Duke of Florence, became Grand Master of Freemasons; and Pope Leo X. was Grand Master of the Order, also Clement VIII. In our own country, St. Alban got a charter from the king and council for their protection; in 926 King Athelstan likewise granted a charter, and became Grand Master at York. Edward III. revised their constitution in 1358; in the reign of Henry VI. the House of Commons brought in an act to prohibit their meetings, which passed, and was revoked in 1450, when the king and many lords, gentlemen of his Court were made Masons. But to return to the marks. These were made by certain men of the old guild, called Mark men, whose duty it was to mark the stones with certain signs. Thus, in the Masonic lodges of the present day, called Mark lodges, each member of the lodge has a distinctive and peculiar symbol, which no other member of that lodge can take. Although on different parts of the early fortifications in Rome we find Masons' marks often repeated on stones close together, yet taking the existing remains which are at a distance from each other, we do not find the same marks repeated, with only one exception, a mark on the agger in the tower of Servius Tullius, B.C. 580, corresponds with a mark on the Palatine, B.C. 753, and a curious trident mark here is also often found on the wall of Pompeii, near the Porta Romana. Many of the marks are used by the Freemasons of to-day.—"Builder."

WISE PRECAUTIONS.

It is always wise to look ahead, to exercise a judicious caution in regard to determining any of the important relations and movements of life. By such care and forethought many unpleasant complications may be avoided, as well as the frequent embarrassments of condition to which the rash and heedless are always exposed. This careful consideration and judicious scrutiny are especially recommended to persons disposed to seek connection with the Masonic institution. The becoming a Mason ought not to be wholly a leap in the dark. The step is far too important to be taken under the promptings of any sudden whim or impulse, and without any intelligent appreciation of the nature of the society with which affiliation is sought, the kind of company that will be found there, and the general duties that will be imposed. Because of such rash and ill-considered action, disappointment sometimes attends the initiate. We call to mind several instances that illustrate the fact. Under the impulse of personal friendship for a distinguished member of the Craft, an acquaintance of ours inconsiderately sought admission into Masonry. A most estimable citizen, he was constitutionally without a particle of relish for symbolism and scenic display,—his was a prosaic nature to which forms, and ceremonies, and figurative teachings were an abhorrence. Need we say this man was not overmuch pleased with Masonry? He ought never to have entered our doors; and, probably, he would not, if he had only enquired a little more carefully as to the character of the institution.

We call to mind another very excellent person who has never been at home in his Masonic relations, chiefly because of his own strong individualism, over-sensitiveness, and reticence. This man caught glimpses of Masonry in its philosophical aspects, but he did not sufficiently consider that it makes fellowship one of its watchwords, and calls at times for personal unbending in that free intercourse and cheerful companionship for which it gives the opportunity, and provides the occasion. The expectations of our brother were not fully realized; he can enjoy only a section of Masonry, and he would have saved himself from disappointment by exercising a little more care at the outset.

One other case comes to mind. A young man of noble thought and aims, acting impulsively, knocked at the portals of a certain lodge for admission, having sought no information as to who composed its membership. The ceremony of initiation being completed, he found himself surrounded by certain brethren not at all to his liking, with whom he was obliged to associate and fraternize! He felt that he had made a mistake, that he was not in the right place, and that he had acted too hastily. Nominally he is still a Mason, but he is not of us or with us in any true sense.

Better exercise a little more careful thought at the beginning; let the candidate inform himself as to the character and claims of Masonry, look at the list of members belonging to the lodge he proposes to enter, and then if he decides to go forward he will not be likely to be disappointed. All this is in accordance with the old time teachings of Masonry. More than a hundred years ago this was the rule laid down: "In the first place, when you intend to be made a Freemason, go with your friend to the lodge, and desire him to show you the warrant of dispensation by which the lodge is held, &c. When they produce this authority or warrant, then call for the bye-laws, and having seriously perused them, consider whether your natural disposition will incline you to be conformable to them. Next call for the roll, or list of members, where you may find the names of some of your most intimate and esteemed friends, or perhaps the names of such other acquaintances as you would not choose to associate with."—"Freemasons' Repository."

IS IT CHINESE MASONRY?

The Truckee (Cal.) "Republic" says: The funeral of Yee Gee Peow took place yesterday. Full five hundred people, whites and Chinese, witnessed the ceremonies. Just exactly who Yee Gee Peow was, cannot be told. That he was a celebrated member of the Chinese Secret Society is certain. That he held a rank in this society something akin to Grand Lecturer is also known. Further, is mystery. Several times during the past few years he has been in Truckee. The society of which he was so brilliant a luminary terms itself Masonic. The members claim that they are Freemasons. Deceased instituted the first Chinese lodge in Truckee, and has always presided at their meetings since. Possessing no lodge, these enthusiastic Celestials usually met on the tops of the highest hills, and stationed guards to protect themselves from surprise during their mystic rites. Candidates were regularly proposed, balloted for, and, if elected, were regularly initiated. The sessions were always lengthy, usually lasting from nine o'clock p.m. to four or five o'clock a.m. At one time last summer upwards of three hundred Chinamen in this vicinity belonged to this mysterious Order.

HOLLAND.

A Reuter's telegram, dated the Hague, July 27, says that "Prince Alexander of the Netherlands was yesterday initiated into Freemasonry by Prince Frederick, Grand Master of the Order. To-day Prince Frederick celebrated the 60th anniversary of his investiture as Masonic Grand Master for the Netherlands. The Imperial Crown Prince of Germany and deputations from foreign and Dutch lodges were present at the commemorative festival. Prince Frederick was presented by the brethren with a gold hammer set with brilliants."

UNITED STATES.

Ovation in Honour of the New Grand Master of New York.—The special communication of Pacific Lodge, No. 233, was held on Thursday, in the Consistorial Chamber of the Masonic Temple, in honour of the Grand Officers of the Masonic Fraternity of the State of New York, and especially in honour of the unanimous election of R. W. Jas. W. Husted, 33°, to the office of Grand Master, Bro. Husted having been initiated in Pacific Lodge in the year 1856. The lodge was visited by the M. W. Elwood E. Thorne, G. M.; R. W. Jas. W. Husted, Grand Master elect; W. Bro. Joseph J. Couch, Deputy Grand Master elect; M. W. John W. Simons, 33°; R. W. Henry C. Banks, 33°, P. D. D. G. M.; R. W. Bro. Richey, D. D. G. M.; R. W. James E. Morrison, D. D. G. M.; R. W. Charles Hyde, D. D. G. M.; R. W. Bro. Barker, D. D. G. M.; R. W. William T. Woodruff, 32°; W. Bros. Chauncey Depew, Allen, Postly, Davis, Conover, Burgen, Anthon, Brown, Valentine, Dederick, Cummings, Harrison, and many others. The Grand Officers were received with the Grand Honours due to their exalted station, and were each introduced to the brethren by R. W. Bro. Isaac Teichmann, Master, in some very appropriate remarks. The lodge was addressed by R. W. Bro. Thorne, Simons, Couch, and Husted, Bro. Husted speaking at some length, gave reminiscences of his first initiation into the beautiful rites of Freemasonry, in Pacific Lodge, twenty years since, and how few of the old familiar faces were to be seen present, many, no doubt, having passed to the Grand Lodge above. His remarks were exceedingly happy, and were greatly enjoyed by the brethren. After the close of the lodge, an entertainment was given in the banquet room by the Pacific Masonic Association, at which toasts were given, and speeches made by the visiting brethren present. The remarks of Bro. Husted and Bro. Chauncey Depew were greatly applauded.

Masonic Veterans.—The fifth annual meeting and banquet of this association took place in New York during the Grand Lodge week, and was largely attended by an enthusiastic gathering of old fellows, of whom it may be said, Masonically at least, that their eyes are not dimmed nor their natural strength abated. On the contrary, with terms of service ranging from twenty-five to fifty years and more, they are still to the fore, and readier at roll-call to answer "Here!" than many young men who have yet to learn that Bark is a good dog but Holdfast is a better. After the transaction of the usual business, the following officers were unanimously elected:—President, R. W. James M. Austin; Vice-President, R. W. Charles D. Brown; Treasurer, R. W. Robert Macoy; Secretary, W. Adolphe Andreas; Corresponding Secretary, M. W. John W. Simons. At the conclusion of labour, the K. and F. Degree was conferred, fifty veterans sitting down and doing ample justice to an elegant spread. The average age of the party was found to be fifty-four years, which would not be much changed if the entire membership were present, and yet during the past year not a single death has occurred among them. The old boys have our most sincere wishes for many happy returns.

Masonic and General Tidings.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE, North Island of New Zealand.—The clothing and jewels for the above new District Grand Lodge are now on view at Bro. George Kenning's Masonic Show Rooms, Little Britain.

The consecration of the Royal Kensington Lodge, No. 1627, will take place at Freemasons' Hall, on Friday next, the 11th inst., at four p.m. The ceremonies of consecration and installation will be worked by V. W. Bro. Hyde Pullen, P. G. S. B., P. D. P. G. M. Bros. W. T. Raymond is the W. M.; C. E. Soppet, S. W.; and W. I. G. Leith, J. W. designate.

His Excellency Sir Salar Jung, G. C. S. I., has sent, with kind expressions of the merits of the society to general support, a donation of twenty guineas to the Newspaper Press Fund.

A remarkable case of longevity is reported in Virchow's "Archives," by Dr. Ornstein, of Athens. The man, George Stravarides, died in Smyrna, at the age of 132 years. Although this Methuselah had always lived an irregular life, and had consumed an average of more than a hundred drachms of brandy daily, he retained full possession of all his senses, as also a complete set of teeth, up to the moment of his death. He also continued to the last to attend to the duties of his avocation—a baker. This man was born in 1743, in the reign of Mahomed I., and lived during the reigns of the nine Sultans.—"British Medical Journal."

The Dean of Westminster having left London for some weeks, all applications relating to Westminster Abbey are to be sent to the Canon in residence.

At a meeting of the general committee of the Wrexham Eisteddfod, on Monday, a letter was read from Sir W. W. Wynn, M. P., R. W. P. G. M. North Wales, enclosing one he had received from H. R. H. Prince Leopold, R. W. P. G. M. Oxford, in reply to an invitation from Sir Watkin Wynn to visit Wynnystay. His Royal Highness expressed the pleasure it would have afforded him to visit Wales, and to be present at the national gathering, but he was engaged to accompany Her Majesty the Queen to Scotland, and, much to his regret, could not accept the invitation.

The brethren of Hebburn intend to petition the Prov. G. M. of Durham to grant a Charter for holding a lodge at Hebburn, and to name it the St. Cuthbert's Lodge.

The animals presented by his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to the Dublin Zoological Gardens are now on exhibition. They are attracting much attention.

The Prince of Wales has signified to M. Drouyn de Lhuys, President of the Jardin d'Acclimatation, his willingness to become a Vice-President of the society, and has presented to it several animals forming part of his Indian collection.

His Grace the Duke of Abercorn (M. W. G. M. Ireland), arrived in Cork on Tuesday last by special train, in order to attend the annual show of the Royal Agricultural Society, which commences on Wednesday. His Excellency was presented with an address of welcome by the Mayor and Corporation, to which he replied in suitable terms. He drove immediately to the Cork and Bandon Railway terminus, and from thence proceeded by rail to Castle Bernard, the seat of Lord Bandon, whose guest he will be during his sojourn in the south.

We understand that the Queen has approved of the appointment of Mr. John Bishop, barrister-at-law, as stipendiary justice of the peace at Merthyr Tydvil, in the room of Albert de Rutzen, Esq., appointed one of the magistrates of the police courts of the metropolis.

General Bro. Albert Pike, of Washington, has just been presented with a magnificent jewel, as a Sovereign Commander of the A. and A. Rite, Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, on May 31st ult., being the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Supreme Council. It consists of a gold double-headed eagle, gemmed with two hundred and sixty diamonds, surrounding a large amethyst. The jewel cost 900 dol., and was presented by General Bro. Toombs, of Georgia. Of course it was happily presented and most happily received.

The Antonina Palace at Malta has been taken from November next for the residence of the Duchess of Edinburgh, who will thus be not so far from her husband, at sea in the "Sultan."

The Hereditary Grand Duke of Oldenburg has been thrown from his horse, and seriously injured.

General von der Tann has delivered to the Emperor William at Gastein an autograph letter from the King of Bavaria inviting His Majesty to be present at the approaching Wagner Festival at Bayreuth.

The King and Queen of Denmark, accompanied by the King and Queen of the Hellenes, Princess Thyra, and Prince Waldemar, left Copenhagen for St. Petersburg at noon on Wednesday.

Henry Rodney Morris, eldest son of Bishop Morris, of Oregon, in the nineteenth year of his age, lost his life on the 30th of June, in an heroic but vain attempt to rescue two other men from death in a cesspool.

On Wednesday Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold were present at an entertainment given at East Cowes in aid of the families of the men who were killed by the explosion on board the "Thunderer."

On Thursday week the Earl of Derby introduced to Her Majesty Cid El Hadj Mohammed Ebzeby, Ambassador from Morocco; Cid Deces El Zaidy and Cid Ben Nasser Ghannam, his secretaries; and the other members of the mission. Musurus Pasha also presented his credentials as Ambassador from the Sultan Murad.

On Saturday last Sir Salar Jung took leave of Her Majesty.

On Sunday last the Prince and Princess of Wales went over from Goodwood on a visit to Osborne. Their children had arrived at the Cottage on the previous Tuesday. The Queen and the Princess Beatrice attended Divine service at Osborne, where the Rev. George Connor officiated.

The Duke of Cambridge has issued a general order, in which he expresses his entire satisfaction at the result of his inspection of the Second and Fifth Army Corps, which have been brought together this year under the new system of mobilisation.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 5, 1876.

THE VICAR OF BRIGG.

Some correspondence on the refusal of the Vicar of Brigg to allow the Freemasons to assemble for public service in his church has already appeared in our columns. We do not, however, see much good in prolonging it, for many reasons. All such controversies, as a rule, leave the matter where it was at the commencement, and bring us no nearer to an agreement. And too often such polemical disputes are after all only the expression of "individualism," the "internal consciousness," the luxury of self-assertion and self-laudation, and are of no practical or possible benefit to ourselves, to Freemasonry, or to mankind. That the Vicar of Brigg was both shortsighted and intolerant in his unwise determination we shall all agree. Beyond that we do not see that Freemasonry is much affected in any way. Our good Order stands on too firm a basis, happily, to heed or care for the assertions of a Vicar of Brigg, or a Vicar of Bray, and we can afford to laugh, (though we regret the fact itself in the great cause of kindly toleration,) at all such petty manifestations of dislike or perversity, opposition or persecution. We have reason to believe that the clergy generally in Lincolnshire disapprove of such unseemly intolerance. We know several very excellent clergymen in that good county and diocese, Freemasons, and most charitable, friendly, right-minded citizens as well as clerics. We have every warrant for saying that this is an exceptional case, and that the clergy of the Diocese of Lincoln would not generally endorse the act of the Vicar of Brigg. One high dignitary has been good enough to say that he considers our Order "worthy of respect." The Lincolnshire brethren will, we feel sure, accept this as a complete "set off" against any petty discourtesy and childish opposition on the part of the "Vicar of Brigg." We fancy that the whole affair was more a little matter of personality than anything else. But the clergy should never be personal, and should remember that if their professions are worth anything they should be above all the petty feelings and degrading littlenesses of earth. We would recommend the Vicar of Brigg to read Bro. Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, and study carefully the character of the "pouf Persone," of whom it is well said,

And though he holy were and vertuous,
He was to sinful men not dispitous;
Ne of his speech dangerous ne digne,
But in his teching discrete and benigne.
To drawn folk to heven with fairnesse,
By good ensample was his besinesse.
Ne waited after no pompe ne reverence,
He maked him no spiced conscience;
But Cristes lore, and his apostles twelve,
He taught, but first he folwed it himselfe.
Let us hope that on another occasion the Vicar of Brigg will just bethink himself, whether on personal or other grounds, he has any right to offer a deliberate affront to our peaceable, loyal, and religious brotherhood.

THE LODGE LES PHILADELPHES ET CONCORDE REUNIS.

We deeply regret, for many reasons, the official announcement with respect to this so called lodge, in another column. It is now quite clear that it is working without any legal warrant, and no English Freemason can properly or legally attend its meetings. It has no legal authority to meet, much less to make Masons, and it is, in fact, nothing, as far as we are concerned, but a surreptitious meeting of a secret society, not in any sense of the word Masonic. As we said before, we are sorry for it, as we regret to find it to be our duty to point out this fact clearly to the whole of our Anglo-Saxon brotherhood. It has been stated that this society is also quasi-political, but of this, so far, no evidence actually has come before us, though, if a circular, signed by Bro. Vallet and others, if we remember rightly, in any way em-nates from this lodge, no doubt a great deal may be said about a foolish Propaganda, and a resuscitated Fourrierism. At any rate, one thing is clear, until the lodge has a legal warrant it is, as far as we are concerned, an absolutely illegal meeting, and how far it brings itself under the provisions of the "Secret Societies Act" we must leave to wiser heads than ours to say. It is, however, most important clearly to lay down this fact, namely the grave illegality of spurious bodies of Freemasons, establishing themselves without any Masonic warrant, in countries where there is a proper Masonic authority, and as any such proceeding cannot be too severely reprobated in the interests of Masonic unity, order, and right government, so our brethren cannot be too often warned against attending lodges which have no Masonic status, or taking part in proceedings which, if brought before the Board of General Purposes, will draw down censure, and in all probability eventual suspension upon themselves. We say this in no spirit of unkindness to the members of the "Philadelphes," &c., but because it is our bounden duty to point out to our readers what is the absolute truth and legal bearing as regards all such acts and proceedings.

ADVENIANT UTINAM SIC MIHI
SÆPE DIES.

London is looking sensibly thinner, and sundry pretty faces, and well known equipages are "wanting" day by day within the "mystic circle" and the crowded drive at Hyde Park. All London is on the move, and our girls are deserting us in flights of gray and green, and pink and blue, wearing sailors' hats, and striking female "birettas" with heron feathers. Well, we miss them, and shall miss them sadly. Our young men are all downcast and dispirited, and consuming large quantities of "Absinthe" and 8 and 5. It is the hot weather. No more for them the sunny smile, or the merry chaff, the bet, the dance, the promise, and the vow. Alice, and Kate, and Ethel, and Lotty are now far away, or rapidly leaving day by day; the season is all but over for 1876. And what memories cling to it! Pleasant parties and delightful gatherings, the chat in chairs, and rapid flirtations, "Undine" dresses, and wonderful bonnets, the canter in the Row, the meeting at Lillie Bridge, the dinner at Greenwich, that ball—oh yes? that ball, when Angelina promised to her adored Robert Timothy that despite pater and mater, and maiden aunt, and swell of a brother, she should be his. Alas! it's all over. Poor Robert Timothy has learnt that with the best intentions in the world her friends have been too strong for her, especially as he had nothing to offer but his heart, his moustaches, his debts, and his dancing, and that Angelina is going to marry actually in November that big Baronet, whose seat is near to theirs in the country, and whom she quizzed so unmercifully the whole season in town. And what remains? We fancy that Robert Timothy takes it very coolly, and has already made up a little party for salmon fishing in the Fiords. Happy insouciance of youth! We should have felt it more, we venture to think, but then we are old fashioned, and retrograde, and all our reminiscences belong to antiquated foggery. We are not the thing, we cannot go the pace, we are not in the swim, and we have not got the "straight tip." But yet some memories do remain to us all, even to our young men. If they do not think, they can surely remember, even though in this hot weather, "liquoring up" takes away too often the power of reflection, the possibility of reminiscence, and even the ability of thought. How many of them, we make bold to say, will hereafter call up before them happy moments, and charming faces past and gone, will remember with a sigh the jests, the smiles, the illusions of old days, will say, unless they have become soiled and selfish, arrogant and heartless, "oh the days that we went gipsying a long time ago," and re-echo old Ovid's touching words, "Adveniant utinam sic mihi sæpe dies." How little, after all, is the world in London changed from what it was twenty, thirty, or forty years ago. The stalwart and the gay are old and careworn now, the lithe fairies of those pleasant times are stout and cheery dames, many of them grandmothers to-day, and though times have changed, and persons have altered, London is the same. the park is the same. Yes! just as it was, essentially when—well, never mind, when we were young and slim, and our tailor did not sigh with horror at the measure of our waist, or cast upbraiding looks on the tell tale tape, and upon ourselves. Alas, the fair illusions of life for us are over, and like Horace Walpole our days of 'sentiment' are gone. But still we can feel much, and admire more. We detest the "nil admirari" School. These fair girls of ours, whose presence, like the gay flowers, has added such brilliancy and perfume to the park, are still to us most important members of society. On them, we say, mainly depends the future of our social safety, and the reality of our personal and general happiness. They are often severely taken to task, and angrily arraigned, we think, unjustly to-day. They are still practically the same, unchanged and unspoiled. They have the same warm hearts, the same beaming smiles, the same tender sympathies, the same loving hopes as ever. They are still generous and true, and honest hearted and confiding, and brave and good, and if the "vortex of society" has drawn them within its "maelstrom" they are coming to the surface, rather the better for the struggle, and none the worse certainly for their "dip." We are not surprised at the melancholy appearance of our young men; it would be strange if it were not so, as if they do not know it, we can tell them that the girls are a great deal too good for most of them. Many, no doubt, of the "better sort" are feeling all we say, and will admit all that we propound. They know what a blank society becomes without the tender influence of women everywhere, how dreary work is, how dreadful bachelorhood, and they are wisely meditating to lose no more time, but to come to the "pint" on this matter of "domestic policy," as Mr. Samivel Weller judiciously observed, and to secure that angel in pink, blue, white, mauve, or cerise, who has filled for some time their sleeping visions, and monopolized their waking thoughts. May they succeed, and may they be happy, as they will assuredly gain for themselves the truest of companions, and the best of friends, the most loving of helpmates, and the most devoted of wives.

LES PHILADELPHES ET LA CONCORDE REUNIS.

FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON, W.C.,
27th July, 1876.

SIR,—

In answer to your note of yesterday's date, I beg to inform you that the Lodge "Les Philadelphes et la Concorde Reunis," said to meet regularly in London, is not a Lodge under the Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of England, nor has any application been made here for a warrant to establish such a lodge.

I am, Sir, yours obediently,

H. G. BUSS.

FRANCE.

We are glad to find that Bro. Hubert, the editor of the Chaine d'Union is recovered from his serious accident. The Chaine d'Union for July contains much that is interesting and well worth perusal.

Bro. Hubert mentions the "Masonneck Weekblad" published at Deventer, Holland, by Bro. Th. Bello, as a Masonic paper of intellectual powers and Masonic excellence.

By the "Monde Maçonnique" for July, we learn that the Grand Orient is now raising a subscription for the inundations in Alsace and Switzerland. We regret, however, to see that the "Rite Ecossais" is apparently seeking to introduce the "Maconnerie d'Adoption" in France. This, in our opinion, is a great mistake. There can be little doubt that in the last century French Freemasonry was severely injured by the prevalence of this useless and meaningless exerecence on Freemasonry. The Grand Orient has declared that Bro. Mancoede Amaro Lopes, member of the Lodge "Union et Secret," of Bahia, has well deserved of Freemasonry. He had liberated sixty slaves on his entrance into Freemasonry.

DUTIES OF A PROV. G. SECRETARY.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In reply to "Lector" who seeks information regarding the interior economy of a Provincial Grand Secretary's office, I beg to offer the results of my long experience.

1. The books necessary to be kept are those of account and those of record, two of each. The books of account are a cash book and a ledger, the former to contain, of course, receipts and payments (by the P.G. Treasurer), the latter book to contain a debtor and creditor account with each lodge in the province. The forms of these books scarcely need description.

2. The books of record should be a receipt book and a register. Printed forms of receipts, bound up together, and consecutively numbered with their counterfoils, enable the auditors to test the receipt side of the cash book, the payment side being, of course, tested by the vouchers arranged in order of date. The register need only contain copies of the returns from each lodge in the province. Such returns should comprise the name of each member, and should state the amount of his dues. On the first appearance of a name the address should be stated, also the date of initiation, passing, raising or joining. On the disappearance of a name a cause should be sought by the P.G. Secretary, who should record in the register, "resigned, died, or excluded," as the case may be, with the date of such event. The returns should also state the office held by each member. It is unnecessary to insert in the register the "age," that is a matter for Grand Lodge, which, however, I have found to be content with the word "full;" no one requires to be gravely informed that a brother is 40, 50, or 60, as the case may be, nor is it necessary in the case of joining to mention the name of the mother lodge.

3. The register does not require an index, which would be troublesome to make, and would seldom or never be of any practical use—at least, this is my experience.

4. Previous to each meeting it is very advisable to prepare for the Grand Stewards a list of those entitled to sit and vote, and which list should be checked off as each brother passes into lodge.

5. Not having been a salaried P.G. Secretary, and never having heard the point raised, I am unable to answer the question whether it is usual for such to vote on the Provincial Board of General Purposes.

THE LADY FREEMASON.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Can you, or any of your readers, kindly furnish me with any information respecting Elizabeth St. Ledger, daughter of Lord Doneraile, the only lady who ever was admitted as a Freemason?

I know there is a portrait of her extant, with a Masonic apron on. A copy of this portrait hangs in the Masonic Female Orphan School, Dublin.

With many apologies for intruding upon your space,
I am, Sir, yours obediently,

E. OWENS BLACKBURNE.

[Many communications have from time to time appeared respecting this estimable lady, and an account of her, with a portrait, appears in the "Masonic Magazine" for January, 1876. Much of her history is somewhat obscure, and we want a good one.—Ed.]

HIGH PRESSURE BUSINESS LIFE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the "Freemason" of 29th July I observe a notice of a work called "High Pressure Business Life," by Henry Smith, M.D., 8, Burton-crescent.

In "Revelations of Quacks and Quackery," by Detector, which is a reprint of letters published in the "Medical Circular" by F. B. Courtenay, M.R.C.S., Smith, of 8, Burton-crescent, is distinctly included in a list of those who, under fictitious diplomas, carry out their system of fraud principally by means of books and pamphlets, containing indeed much good matter, more completely to ensnare the educated classes, but whose intention is to induce the reader to consult the author on some real or fancied malady.

If I am needlessly trespassing on your time, and classing a worthy member of the medical profession amongst a most nefarious class of swindlers, I shall much regret it, but I wish, in the interests of truth, to put you on your guard against introducing to the public through so influential a channel as that of the "Freemason," a work which, under the guise of philanthropy, has for its object the ensnaring of the credulous in the net of the swindler.

I enclose my card as a guarantee of good faith, and am, Sir, fraternally yours,

Lewis.

[We know nothing of the writer or the work further than as a literary production. As such it is, in our opinion calculated to be useful and do good.—Ed.]

Reviews.

FACSIMILE OF DOMESDAY BOOK. With Translation. By P. G. HARRISON, Esq. Meek, 15, Wine-office-court, Fleet-street, E.C.

We have received the first number of this important reproduction of the Domesday Book, in facsimile. It is most ably edited, and admirably printed, and deserves, we venture to think, the support alike of all collectors of books, as well as of all those who value the great national literary and historical memorials of our country. As the publisher truly observes, "Domesday" was compiled about the year 1080, in the fifteenth year of the reign of William the Conqueror, and is a very interesting historical record of the survey of the whole of 'the land of the King's geld,' in other words, it is a schedule of those lands. The desirability to all who take any interest in the land which they inhabit of being able to consult and become acquainted with one of the most valuable documents ever prepared, has emboldened us to reproduce 'Domesday Book' in a form that can be perfectly understood by all. The work will be issued in parts at 2s. 6d. each, and for those who prefer it, it is proposed also to supply it in volumes, handsomely bound in half calf lettered and gilt edges at £4 4s. per volume." Of course, such a work as this is and must be expensive, but as we hope the movement for lodge libraries will spread, we think, that there is now a good opportunity for many lodges to subscribe for the work. We hope the day is not far distant when every lodge, or every town, will have a good Masonic Library, alike for reference and reading at home, and we wish this literary venture of Mr. Meek all success, and much patronage. A facsimile of "Domesday" and fuller review of it than our crowded pages will allow, will appear in the September Masonic Magazine.

OLD BIBLES; or, an Account of the Various Versions of the English Bible. By J. R. Dore.—Basil M. Pickering, 196, Piccadilly, London.

Bro. Dore, a well-known brother in the good town of Huddersfield, has put forth a very interesting little book on this still more interesting subject. For, strange as it may seem to say so, a great deal of ignorance prevails as regards our glorious inheritance, the English Bible. All that many of us know is that it is, but of its history and the various phases through which it has gone, the obstacles it has had to contend with, and the prejudices to surmount, a large class knows next to nothing. Some of our readers might stare a little if asked to give an account of Wickliffe's or Tyndale's translation, of Coverdale's or Matthews's Bible (proprie Rogers's), of the Great Bible, of Cranmer's Bible, of Taverner's Bible, of the Bishop Bible and others. More of us might hesitate when asked to point out the difference between the authorised version of 1611 and the Bishop's Bible of 1568. And though collectors know well about the "Breeches Bible," even its true history is not always rightly understood or realized. Indeed, the archaeology of the Bible is a most interesting one by itself, and deserves careful and patient study. Bro. Dore has done good service in putting together in simple but lucid phraseology, and a popular form, the history of our English versions, and we cannot too highly commend the work, or call the attention of our brethren to it. Many would be glad to have a concise and readable "introduction" to the history of our English Bible, and when they learn that it is the work of a very zealous brother of our Order we feel sure that they will offer to it alike a hearty support and a ready patronage. We have read it through with great pleasure and profit ourselves, and we trust that many of our readers will do the same.

MASONIC MUSIC.

Three "morceaux" come before us with fair claims for notice and commendation:

No. 1 is "Grand Masonic March," dedicated to Sir W. Wynn, Bart., M.P., P.G.M. for North Wales and Shropshire, and by Bro. T. B. Boucher, P.G.O. (C. Jefferys, 67, Berners-street), which we think is destined to be popular, and used on many Masonic occasions, when the stirring march is alike desirable and indispensable.

No. 2 is the "Welcome Home Polka," by W. Smallwood (B. Williams, 19, Paternoster-row), and which, if we remember rightly, was previously noticed in our columns. At any rate, we can give to it to-day friendly words of approval and commendation.

No. 3 is "Welcome to our Prince," Marche Triomphale, for the pianoforte. By Alfred R. Caul.—B. Williams, 19, Paternoster-row.—We are glad to note such meritorious additions to our Masonic musical repertoire, and we have no doubt but that this "Marche Triomphale" will be welcomed and patronized by our good musical brethren up and down the country. We wish we could go into its actual musical merits, and those of the other two "morceaux" alluded to above, but we are like the gentleman recorded for Mr. Mansfield's inimitable "Log of the Water Lily," whose knowledge of music was limited to "two airs, one of which is 'God Save the Queen,' and the other isn't."

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"Chaine D'Union," "Ladies Treasury," "Le Moniteur des Adjudications," "History of Masonry," by Bro. G. F. Fort, Trubner and Co.

We shall publish next week an address translated from the French from the Chaine D'Union for July, 1876, delivered at Martinique in January this year; and also the New Papal Encyclical.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF MIDDLESEX.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex was held on Saturday, the 29th ult., at the Greyhound Hotel, Hampton Court. The meeting was summoned for half-past two o'clock, by which time a large number of brethren had assembled, but a great deal of time was cut to waste by the sitting of the Audit Committee, and it was nearly if not quite four o'clock before all was in readiness for the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge. At about the hour named the brethren present were marshalled in due order by the P.G.D.C., and entered the lodge room, the R.W. Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett, P.S.G.W. England (Representative from the Grand Lodge of Ireland), Provincial Grand Master, occupying the throne, supported by Bros. Sir George Elliot, Dep. P.G.M.; R. Wentworth Little, P.G.S.W.; Buss, Treasurer; H. Phythian, P.G. Secretary; Sabine, P.G.S.B.; J. M. Siedwell, P.P.G.J.W.; A. A. Richards, P.P.G.J.W.; Charles Horsley, P.G. Reg.; G. Cardwell, P.G. Reg.; W. F. Saxton, P.P.S.G.D.; George Kenning, P.P.G.J.D.; John Singell, P.P.G.D.C.; Thomas Culitt, P.P.G.S.D.; W. H. Green, P.G.D.C.; J. C. Parkinson, P.D.P.G.M.; H. A. Dubois, P.G.S.D.; H. Massey, ("Freemason"); T. Hastings Miller, P.G. Organist; E. H. Thielay, Assistant P.G. Purst.; F. Keily, 1293 P.G. Stwd.; while among the visitors we noticed Bros. C. F. Matier, P.G.W. Greece; T. T. Pyle, T. W. Adams, W.M. 765; Greenwood, P.G.S.D.; J. Maidwell, I.G. 27; J. Green, W.M. 27; J. Terry, F. Binckes, P.G.S.; Nunn, P.G.S.B.; Hyde Pollen, P.G.S.B.; J. Docker, 1567; W. Taylor, 1503; H. Court, Sec. 1503; A. H. Tattershall, P.M. 140; E. Simpson Baikie, P.M. 708; Huggins, P.M. 1238; J. W. Berrie, S.W. 1293; J. W. Baldwin, P.M. 1423; Ingles, W.M. 708; F. Downs Kennedy, P.M. 788 and 1508; W. G. Kentish, 1293; W. Dunham, J.W. 1567; H. Potter, P.M. 11; H. T. Muggeridge, P.M. 192 and 715; Helsdon, P.M. 1549; E. Kimber, P.M. 1415; D. M. Dewar, P.M. 1415; Langley, W.M. 1423; Coulton, P.M. 382; J. Painter, J.W. 1579; Reg. W. Williams, J.W. 1326; F. W. Levander, S.W. 1415; Galton, P.G.S. 382; Vincent, S.W. 1549; Cottebrune, P.G.P.; J. Chidcott, 1512; J. W. Garrod, W.M. 1549; Tidcombe, J.W. 1549; Knyvett, P.M. 1494; Reynolds, 708; Clarkson, P.M. 865; E. Hopwood, W.M. 1512; B. Sharp, P.M. 1326; E. Gilbert, W.M. 1326; J. Hurst, J.W. 1512; D. W. Pearce, W.M. 1293; E. B. Bright, J.W. 778; and others.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened by the P.G.M. with solemn prayer the minutes of the Provincial Grand Lodge, held 26th July, 1875, were read and verified, and the reports of the Audit and Charity Committees were read and confirmed. The balance at credit of the Benevolent Fund was £174 6s. 1d. The roll of the lodges in the province was called over by the Secretary, when it was found that one only (1194) was unrepresented. The roll of the Provincial Grand Officers was also called over, and it appeared that some were unavoidably absent through illness.

The following report of the progress and present position of the Province of Middlesex, which had been circulated with the summonses, was taken as read:

"It has been deemed desirable, by the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, that a brief review of the progress of Freemasonry in Middlesex, since its formation as a Masonic province, should be submitted to this Provincial Grand Lodge. On the 1st December, 1869, the late Earl of Zetland, then M.W. Grand Master, was pleased to appoint Bro. Lt.-Colonel Francis Burdett, P.S.G.W. of England, and Representative of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, to the high and dignified post of Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex, and further to direct that the province should be constituted at as early a date as possible. It may be well to recall the fact that Col. Burdett's nomination was the result of the unanimous votes of the delegates of every lodge in the province, at a meeting specially convened, and that their recommendation was subsequently graciously approved by the (then) Grand Master. It 1869 there were but eight lodges in Middlesex outside the radius of ten miles from Freemasons' Hall, viz., 382 at Uxbridge, 708 at Hampton Court, 788 at Twickenham, 865 at Hounslow, 946 at Strawberry Hill, 1194 at Isleworth, 1237 at Enfield, and 1238 at Southall. The inaugural meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge was held at Teddington on the 22nd January, 1870, on which day the Burdett Lodge, 1293, was also consecrated, Colonel Burdett being the first Master. In the course of the same year three new lodges were added to the Provincial roll, viz., Acacia, 1309, at Potter's Bar (since removed to Southall); Harrow, 1310, at Harrow; and Lebanon, 1326, at Hampton. In 1871 the number of lodges received no addition; but in 1872 two new lodges, the Campbell, 1415, and Era, 1423, both at Hampton Court, were established, and the Bard of Avon, Lodge 778, was transferred from Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire, to a locale in Middlesex. In 1873, the Thames Valley Lodge, No. 1460, received a warrant for Halliford, Shepperton; and in 1874, no less than three new lodges were formed, viz., the Felix, 1494, at Teddington; the Francis Burdett, 1503, at Hampton Hill; and the Hemming, 1512, at Hampton. And the accessions to our strength closes with the Abercorn Lodge, 1549, which was consecrated at Great Stanmore only a few months ago. The number of lodges has thus increased in five years and a half from 8 to 20, and the membership from between 200 and 300 to nearly 1000. But the most gratifying result to the R.W. Provincial Grand Master is the fact that, with comparatively few exceptions, this extraordinary increase in numbers has been attained by the introduction of members who are prepared to fulfil their responsibilities as Freemasons. If it were not so, such a rapid extension in mere numerical strength would become a subject for deprecation and reproof, rather than for congratulation and rejoicing. There are, nevertheless, one or two lodges in which a greater discrimination in the acceptance of candidates and joining members should be exercised and enforced, and the Provincial Grand Master will hold the Masters of any such lodges strictly responsible, in future, that the laws of the Craft are obeyed in their entirety, with reference to the status and character of all persons proposed for admission, either as joining members or initiates. It is, however, very satisfactory to know that the lodges generally are well and ably worked, that harmony and goodwill prevail amongst the brethren, Masonic complaints being almost unknown in the province, and, above all, that a steady and liberal support is being extended to the Masonic Charities. Five years ago hardly a lodge had a vote in its corporate capacity, now, more than half of the existing lodges are Life Governors of the several Masonic Institutions.

At the last three festivals the province was thus represented:—In January, 1875, at the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, by five Stewards, producing lists amounting to £186; at the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, in May, by fourteen Stewards, with £582; and at the July Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, by ten Stewards, with a total of £400, making in the aggregate the handsome sum of £1168 as the united donations of the Freemasons associated with the province, irrespective of large amounts contributed by some of its members, who subscribed through various metropolitan lodges, to which they also belong. The Provincial Grand Master especially desires to thank those Stewards, and the brethren who have thus materially assisted them in maintaining so well the prestige of the province, and he is confident that, as years roll on, the good example which they have set will be followed by their successors in the various lodges. By a steady adherence to the principles of the Craft, and the laws laid down in the Constitutions of the Order, the happiness and prosperity of the brethren will be permanently cemented, and from the experience of the past, which has been so fruitful in true Masonic feeling and good fellowship, the Provincial Grand Master expresses his heartfelt conviction that the Province of Middlesex will ever be conspicuous for the practice of those exalted virtues which at once characterise and adorn our Masonic profession.

The P.G. Sec. read a supplemental report, showing that since the above had been compiled three new lodges had been consecrated in the province, viz., the Elliot, the St. James's, and the Musgrave, which, it was believed, would prove an important addition to the Masonic influence of the province. The supplemental report stated that no complaints had been brought under the notice of the P.G.M. during the past year, and referred to the loss the province had sustained in the death of Bro. Codner, P.P.G. Reg. The R.W.P.G.M. having stated that the next business was to elect a P.G. Treas. for the ensuing year, P.G.S.W. Bro. Little, suggested that it would be convenient to take the motion, notice of which had been placed on the paper by Bro. H. A. Dubois, P.Prov. A.G.D.C., which, being assented to, Bro. Dubois moved—That No. 12 of the Provincial Bye-laws be altered by striking out the words "in April," and explained that in strict accordance with the bye-laws, as they stood at present, the Treasurer could only be elected in April, so that, as they held their meetings now in July, they would contravene their present bye-laws if they elected a Treasurer on this occasion without first altering the bye-law he referred to. The alteration he proposed would have the effect of enabling them to elect a Treasurer in any month of the year.

The motion was seconded by Bro. Little, P.G.S.W., who said, I think myself that this is a very important matter, as we should be almost transgressing our Bye-laws if we proceeded with the election without first expunging the words referred to. I shall, therefore, support Bro. Dubois' motion. The motion was then put and carried unanimously.

P. Grand Master: I think we may now proceed with the election of the Prov. G. Treas. It is a matter in which I myself feel greatly interested, because I feel greatly indebted to him for what he has done in the past, and what I am sure he would do in the future, and therefore I propose that Bro. Buss be re-elected Treasurer for the coming year. I am sure we cannot have a better man to—

Bro. Little: Permit me, R.W. Prov. G.M., to remind you that you proposed to confer a higher office on Bro. Buss, the holding of which would render him ineligible for the post of Prov. G. Treas.

P.G. Master: True, Bro. Little, I had overlooked that fact.

Bro. Dubois: I beg to propose that Bro. Frederick Keily, 1293, Grand Steward, be elected Provincial Grand Treasurer for the ensuing year, than whom I feel sure we could not choose a more worthy brother. The motion having been seconded, it was put by the P.G.M., and carried unanimously.

The Prov. G. Master then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers as follows:—

Sir Geo. Elliot	Deputy Prov. G.M.
Graham	Prov. G.S.W.
H. G. Buss (whose appointment was received by the brethren with loud and long continued applause)	Prov. G.J.W.
Rev. P. M. Holden	Prov. G. Chaplain
Rev. — Reynolds	Prov. Asst. G.C.
Fredk. Keily	Prov. G. Treas.
D. W. Pearce	Prov. G. Reg.
R. Wentworth Little	Prov. G. Sec.

In making this appointment the P.G.M. said that it was through the exertions of Bro. Little that the province now stood in the position it holds. The lodges were not perhaps quite so numerous as those in some northern provinces, but the influence of the province was certainly as great as any. Referring to Bro. Little's recent severe illness, he remarked that they were all extremely glad to see him again among them, and he trusted that he would soon be restored to vigorous health.

H. A. Dubois	Prov. G.S.D.
Fredk. Walters	Prov. G.J.D.
Prov. G.M. Bro. Wigginton	is appointed Prov. G. Supt. of Works, but he is not well enough to be here to-day.
Bro. Capt. G. A. Smith	also, who has been appointed Prov. G.D.C., is also absent from illness; but I trust that I shall have an early opportunity of investing them.
Kennedy	Prov. Asst. G.D.C.
Thielay	Prov. G. Swd. B.

Capt. Regd. Williams	Prov. G. Org.
Elsdon	Prov. G. Purst.
J. W. Baldwin	Prov. Asst. G.P.
J. Gilbert (re-appointed)	Prov. G. Tyler.
Capt. Cockle, Dr. Ramsay, Letchworth, Mason, Huggins, and Knyvett	Prov. G. Stewards

P.G.M.: The next duty that devolves upon me is a very pleasing one. We all look forward to become governors of the different charities, and I have great pleasure in proposing that the following sums be granted to the three Masonic charities:—Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, £10 10s.; Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, £10 10s.; Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Masons, £10. We have most of us watched these institutions with a very jealous eye, and I think every one is satisfied with the way in which they are carried on. I think we should support these charities in every possible way. The donation will be taken out of the funds of the province, so that none of us will feel it individually.

The motion was seconded by the P.G.S.W., and carried unanimously.

Bro. Little: I think I need hardly say that I feel assured that the proposition I am about to make will be heartily endorsed by every member of this Provincial Grand Lodge. You have all had before you the report of the progress of the province under the rule of the R.W. Prov. G. Master, Bro. Col. Burdett. I therefore propose "That a committee be formed for the purpose of commemorating in an appropriate manner the completion by the R.W. Bro. Col. Burdett of seven years in his office as Provincial Grand Master, and of testifying to the great advantage which the province has received from his rule." Perhaps it will be more convenient to take that first before proceeding with the next resolution.

The proposition, having been seconded by Bro. Sabine, was put by the P.G.S.W., and carried unanimously.

Bro. Little: I have now to follow up that motion by proposing "That the committee be composed of all Present and Past P.G. Officers, the W.M.'s, Wardens, P.M.'s, and Secretaries of lodges in the province, with power to add to their number. I think it advisable that the matter should be taken in hand by as many as we can get to assist, and if we could put every one in the province on the committee I think we should only be carrying out their wishes. That is my reason for adding the words "with power to add to their number."

Bro. Horsley: I beg to second that motion. I think that the manner in which our excellent Past P.G.S.W. and present Secretary has worded his motion will enable all of us to express our admiration of the manner in which our R.W. Provincial Grand Master has exercised his functions in a manner worthy of ourselves and of this Provincial Grand Lodge.

The motion was put by the P.G.S.W., and carried nem con, and Bro. Little undertook to call a preliminary meeting, at which the brethren could appoint their officers and settle their mode of procedure.

P.G. Secretary then read letters from Lord Skelmersdale, Lord Donoughmore, the Hon. W. Warren Vernon and others, regretting their inability to accept the invitations that had been sent them.

P.G. Secretary then handed to the P.G.M. a petition that had been prepared for a lodge to be called the Unity Lodge, to be held at West Drayton, as to which the R.W. P.G.M. said that it was very worthily recommended, and that he should have much pleasure in giving it his support in Grand Lodge. The Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed in ample form and with solemn thanksgiving.

A large number of the brethren present in the lodge subsequently reassembled at the banquet table, when the R.W.P.G.M. again presided.

On the removal of the cloth the Chairman proceeded to propose the customary loyal and Masonic toasts. "The Health of the Queen" having been duly honoured and a couple of verses of the National Anthem having been admirably sung, Madame Thaddeus Wells being the soloist, assisted by Bro. Lester, Bro. F. H. Cozens, Bro. Chaplin Henry, and Bro. T. Hastings Miller, P. Prov. G. Organist (who had the direction of the musical arrangements), the R.W.P.G.M. proposed "The Health of the Prince and Princess of Wales," saying, as to the former, that he was not only the commander in chief among Freemasons, but also a Field Marshal in the army of England, and he was confident that his authority was not more warmly supported by the army or the navy than it was by the loving hearts of all our Freemasons. He need not say that he was very happy to comprise in the toast "The Health of the Princess of Wales." He was sure that any commands she might give would be warmly responded to by the whole of the community, but more especially by the body of Freemasons.

In proposing "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Skelmersdale, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers," the R.W. the P.G.M. said that they all knew that the Earl of Carnarvon was a brother who had exerted himself in every way possible for the institution of Freemasonry, but at the same time they knew that he had very little time to spare on account of the important office which he held in the State. There was no doubt in the world that they had one of the best men they possibly could have for Deputy Grand Master. They all knew the Earl of Skelmersdale pretty well as one of the best of Masons and one of the most charitable of men. There were several Grand Officers present, and they were sensible of the honour they conferred by their presence, and he would couple with this toast the name of Bro. Parkinson to respond for the Grand Officers.

Bro. Parkinson—Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master: On behalf of the Grand Officers I beg to return you my sincere thanks for the kindly expressions you have employed with regard to them on this occasion. Speaking of Lord Carnarvon, it is a matter of considerable pride that we have such a Pro Grand Master, who is ready at all times to give us his time when he is able. It is by no means an unfrequent circumstance for him, though immersed in official toil as he is, to leave his office and mingle among us. The Earl of Carnarvon has the happy quality of attracting and keeping the affections of the brethren. When he was a young man fresh from college, one of his earliest training places was the Grand Lodge of England, where he was chosen the leader of what was at that time an active and vigorous Opposition. Lord Skelmersdale is a most excellent Deputy Grand Master. He possesses that winning grace that endears him to his brethren, perhaps in a higher degree than any other we have ever met, which fits him for a leader of men. On the part of the Grand Officers, I thank you for the favour with which this toast has been received. For my part I feel slightly diffident in responding to this toast, because I know that there are many brethren here fully competent to respond as Grand Officers. Passing to the immediate functions which we are assembled to celebrate to-day, I am (taking up the gavel) going to propose to you "The Health of our Provincial Grand Master." It is not very long ago that I had the privilege of serving under him for the good of the province. I know how ready he is to give his mind and ability to promote the good of his fellow creatures. Those who are students of genealogy, and who strive to trace the history of their country in the great families of England, are well aware that the Burdets, from a very early date in English history, have been intimately associated with the rise and progress of our country, now as a confidential counsellor of the sovereign, now as a counsellor of the people, but always for the honour and glory of England. Now our brother is not an unworthy successor to those great and good men. If we look at him in his country residence we find him on the board of guardians, and chairman of the vestry, and that he is always ready to devote himself to the public good. That being Col. Burdett's habit of mind where could he find better exercise for it than the Craft. And I will now say what a very pleasant feeling it is to be aware of having an influence in such a wide reaching circle. Brethren, with all the honours I propose "The Health of Col. Burdett, R.W. Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex."

Prov. G. Master: Brethren, and especially Bro. Parkinson, I feel that I am perfectly incompetent to return thanks for the toast that has just been drunk. I have always been anxious for the good of this province, but I did not think that my health would be accepted in the enthusiastic manner in which it has been received this evening, which shows that I am well supported, but I feel that I have hardly done as much as I ought to have done. I have done all I could for the interest of the province, and I will certainly, in the future, do as much as I can. I assure you it gives me great pleasure to hold my office, because of the sympathy of the brethren of the province over which I have the honour to preside. The R.W.P.G.M. went on to eulogise the officers by whom he had been assisted, especially his present staff, and concluded by proposing "The Health of the Deputy G.M., Bro. Elliott," who, in reply, was understood to say that among the many duties which he had in common with all his hearers, the principles and objects of Freemasonry had for many years occupied his thoughts much and he thought that the success of the province must develop itself in the charity and good feeling which was promoted by such celebrations as they had assisted at that afternoon; but what was presented to his mind was the power and dignity of Freemasonry as exhibited in its charity and religion, which appeared to stand outside the controversial religion of the world, and he thought that if ever a time should come of attacks upon the liberty and religion of the people, the religion of the Order would prove a support to the religion of the people in a degree which they were not at present able to estimate. He attached great importance to the charity force of Freemasonry; it was a great thing to say that they could confer £30,000 or £40,000 a year on the institutions. Whether he attended meetings in the north or south there seemed always to be a sort of homogeneity about Freemasonry which will always be able to take care of itself, and he believed there was a backbone in Freemasonry which would always have a force of gravity about it which would always maintain itself.

During the evening some very good vocal music was contributed by Madame Thaddeus Wells and the musical brethren above mentioned, Sir H. R. Bishop's glee upon Shakespeare's words, "Come over the Brook, Bessie, to me," being especially worthy of remark.

SUMMER FESTIVAL OF DOMATIC LODGE, No. 177.

The annual summer festival took place at Bro. Teale's, Rye House, on Thursday, July 20th, when, owing to the delightful weather, a very large attendance of the brethren evinced the popularity of Bro. Treadwell, the W.M., and the officers of the lodge. The Great Eastern Railway behaved very liberally, charging excursion rates, and having excellent carriages on the trains. Over 100 sat down to the banquet, without any crowding or confusion; indeed, all the arrangements made by the Stewards and the valued Secretary, Bro. Willing, insured comfort and attention. The Stewards were Bros. G. Everett, I.P.M.; Willing, S.W.; Palmer, J.W.; J. Smith, P.G.P. Treas.; Williams, Sec.; Buscall, S.D.; G. Clarke, J.D.; White, I.G.; Spink, D.C.; McLean, S.; and Bros. Ralph, Kent, Willis, Jones, and Seard, the latter of whom also acted as M.C. The banquet was well served, and a well-chosen band played during dinner time. After grace the W.M. said, the day being so fine, and many ladies wishing to enjoy a dance, speeches not being the most attractive of the day's performances, he should propose as few as possible. After the loyal toasts had been given Bro. Foul-ger, P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M." The W. Master expressed his thanks to Bro. Foulger, and said he felt happy to see so many rally round him. He proposed "The Health of the P.M.'s," and was sorry to see only two—Bros. Elgar and Elmes—of so many present. He (the W.M.) had received a letter of apology from Bro. Everett, I.P.M., stating that the heavy bereavement in his family prevented him attending. He knew all the brethren sincerely sympathised with Bro. Everett, and knew perfectly well he was always most anxious to be present with them and help them. Bro. Elmes replied, "The Ladies," "The Visitors," "The Officers and Stewards" were also proposed, and duly responded to.

METROPOLITAN LODGE (No. 1507).—As the number of the brethren of nearly every London lodge yearly increases, it becomes a task of no little difficulty to find a place large enough for the lodges to hold their summer festivals in comfort, especially as the day selected may not always be fine. There are many old resorts near London capable of providing every accommodation, but some brethren belonging to more than one lodge naturally prefer to see more varied scenery than going twice to the same place in perhaps the same week. The Metropolitan Lodge decided to hold their annual festival this year at Bro. Lewis's Hotel, Maidenhead Bridge, one of the most picturesque localities on the Thames. The day appointed, Wednesday, the 26th ult., proved a splendid day. The committee had made special arrangements with the Great Western Railway Company, who acted in a most liberal manner. Many of the brethren left by the early trains to Cookham, and came back to Maidenhead by water, and thoroughly enjoyed the trip. At five o'clock the brethren with their friends (over sixty) sat down to dinner, served in a tent on the private lawn. The dinner gave every satisfaction, and the wines were very good. The W.M., Bro. Michael, proved an efficient chairman, and was ably supported by the I.P.M., Bro. Wilting. The speeches were, owing to the desire of every one to be out in the air, very short, although heartily given and cordially received. Perfect harmony prevailed, and each seemed personally to strive to make each other happy. Great thanks are due to the committee for their arrangements, and most particularly to Bro. Stiles, the Hon. Secretary. The committee consisted of Bros. J. Willing, I.P.M.; T. Williams, S.W.; R. T. Kingham, J.W.; R. Rose, Treas.; G. Tims, Sec.; J. Douglass, S.D.; C. J. Scales, J.D.; W. Side, I.G.; W. M. Stiles, Assist. Sec.; G. Colls, W.S.; H. H. Child, W. Clarke, A. T. Rapkin, most of whom were present. There were also present Bros. Brunell, Clark, Hopton, Lovegrove, &c. Visitors: Bros. Scard, Levy, Burnett, Messrs. Humphreys, Jackson, Pomerooy, and others. The brethren and their friends arrived at Paddington about 10.30, and all concurred that they had spent a most pleasant day, and one that will be long remembered.

NEW CROSS LODGE (No. 1559).—Saturday, August 5th, was a day most anxiously anticipated by not a few brethren, members of the above young lodge, for that was the occasion of the third regular meeting since the light of Masonry first shed its luminous rays in the commodious room at the New Cross Public Hall. The appetite for business had been keenly whetted by the somewhat lengthy interval since the brethren had met together, and the weighty agenda as set forth in the summonses promised ample exercise for the officers, and an abundance of entertainment for M.M.'s, Fellow Crafts, and Entered Apprentices. But unfortunately for the attendance the immediate proximity of that day of pleasure, the first Monday in August, had a marked effect upon the first Saturday in the same month, and many, like the rest of the world, requiring rest and relaxation from labour, it followed that some of the brethren were absent on their holidays. Let us here express a hope that they enjoyed themselves as heartily as did their brethren who assembled at the New Cross Public Hall. Nearly the first to put in an appearance was the veteran Bro. F. Walters, P.P.G.J.D. Middx., Treas., whose new title sits right well upon him. Bro. H. Keeble, P.M., Sec., as a matter of course, was punctual as ever in the observance of his duties; and Bros. Metham, Smith, Grumman, Smurthwaite, and Sewell were among the first to arrive, the complete list of those in attendance being Bros. E. H. Thielley, S.W.; Walter A. Simmonds, J.W.; F. Walters, Prov. Treas.; H. Keeble, P.M., Sec.; Louis Beck, S.D.; H. J. Green, J.D.; W. Hardman, I.G.; A. Church, Tyler; Bros. Smurthwaite, Ernest Smith, Solomon Jewell, R. J. Steers, H. Metham, T. Grumman, W. Cowley; likewise the following visitors:—Bros. G. Madril, W.M. 1472; G. Macdonald, W.M. 1158; E. W. Ives, 1473; T. J. Davidge, 7; J. W. Cole, 1433;

A. F. Roberts, 1426. In the absence of the W.M., Bro. F. Walters assumed the chair, and having opened the lodge in the First Degree, the minutes of the two previous meetings were read and confirmed, after which Bro. H. Keeble, P.M., Sec., took the chair, and submitted the following apprentices:—Bros. T. Grumman, W. Cowley (1559), and Lieutenant Cole, Era Lodge, 1423, to the necessary examination, and having given satisfaction were duly rewarded, and quitted the lodge. The lodge was then opened by the esteemed Bro. Secretary in the Second Degree, and Bros. Solomon Jewell, R. J. Steers, and H. Metham, candidates for raising, interrogated as to the progress they had made in the science, and having received their due reward, took their seats until called upon for raising. Bros. Grumman, Cowley, and Cole were now admitted, and in a careful and impressive manner the W.M. (Bro. Keeble, Secretary) proceeded to pass them to the Degree of Fellow Craft, it being worthy of remark that the esteemed Secretary had never been heard to better advantage than upon this occasion, and at the conclusion of the ceremony received the thanks and congratulations of all present upon the efficient manner he had passed the three brethren. All below the Degree of M.M. having retired, Bro. Walters relieved the W.M., and having opened the lodge in the Third Degree, received Bros. Jewell, Steers, and Metham, and in his usual masterly and perfect style raised these brethren to the "degree of degrees," his clear and solemn delivery holding his hearers in deepest attention, and evoking a spontaneous round of thanks at the termination of his important task. The brethren having taken their seats in a M.M.'s lodge, the W.M. resumed in the First Degree, and vacated the chair, which was once more occupied by Bro. Keeble, who was supported by Bro. Govan Macdonald, W.M. 1158; and Mr. A. Macgillivray, a candidate for Freemasonry, was admitted, and in due solemnity initiated into the mysteries of the First Degree. This concluding the business on the agenda, the W.M. rose for the first time, and a communication of a private nature was made to the brethren by Bro. Walters, which having received their due attention, and the W.M. rising for the second and third times, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment. Bro. Walters proposed "The Health of the Initiate," which was drunk with great cordiality, and the newly made brother, after being entertained with the Entered Apprentice song from the jovial Bro. Treasurer, returned thanks in a speech, teeming with interest, and assured the brethren that, deeply impressed as he was with all he had heard, he could assure them that he should devote no inconsiderable portion of his spare time in following up a noble and truly honourable science. The brethren soon after separated (several calling in at the Star Lodge of Instruction) until the first Saturday in November.

RADCLIFFE.—Lodge of Faith (No. 344).—At the meeting of this lodge, held last week, Bro. Marshall Taylor, P.M., was presented with a purse of gold and a handsomely-framed illuminated address by the brethren belonging to this lodge, as a token of esteem. The presentation was made by the W.M., Bro. C. M. Smith, and Bro. Taylor made a suitable reply. The address read as follows:—"Lodge of Faith, No. 344, of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England. To Bro. Marshall Taylor, P.M., P.P.G.P.—Dear Sir and Brother,—We, the Worshipful Master, Wardens, and Brethren of the Lodge of Faith, desire to express by this testimonial and purse of money our appreciation of your valuable services rendered in the interests of this lodge in particular, and Freemasonry in general, for a considerable number of years, in which you have assisted in carrying on the rituals of this lodge in a very efficient manner, and we also desire that the Great Architect of the Universe will bestow on you and family the blessings of health and prosperity here, and the greater blessings of happiness in the Grand Lodge above.—Signed on behalf of the brethren, C. W. Smith, W.M.; Samuel Marsden, S.W.; Mark Hardman, J.W., Bull's Head Inn, Radcliffe, July 26th, 1876." Bro. Taylor was initiated in the Faith Lodge in 1858; was an officer of East Lancashire Prov. G. Lodge in 1873, and held office in the Royal Arch Chapter in 1875. He is postmaster of Radcliffe, and as he is well versed in Masonic ritual his services are in frequent request.

DERBY.—Hartington Lodge (No. 1085).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Gower-street, on Wednesday, the 2nd August. The brethren present were Bros. S. Pipes, W.M.; H. T. Bobart, I.P.M.; F. Iliffe, P.M.; W. Heathcote, S.W.; Thomas Gadsby, J.W.; M. H. Bobart, Treas., acting as S.D.; George Pipes, Sec.; Joshua Heathcote, J.D.; Butterfield, as I.G.; T. Slinn, Tyler; Steele, Biggs, and Frazer. Visitors: Bros. Bennett, W.M. 731; Wright, P.M. 731; and Burton, 731. The lodge was opened at 7.50 p.m. in the First Degree. After the circular convening the lodge had been read, and the minutes of the last lodge read and confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to pass Bro. G. Hill, after the lodge had been opened in the Second Degree. The next business was to raise Bro. Geo. Johnson, which, after the lodge had been opened in the Third Degree, was performed in a most able and impressive manner by the W.M. The lodge was then resumed in the First Degree. Two gentlemen were proposed for initiation, which brought the lodge to a close, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting hall, where the usual monthly supper was provided. After the cloth had been withdrawn, the usual Masonic toasts were given and heartily received, after which the meeting was brought to a close, the brethren all expressing themselves as having spent a very enjoyable evening.

PAIGNTON.—Torrey Lodge (No. 1358).—The annual installation and banquet of this flourishing lodge took place on Thursday, the 3rd inst., when Bro. John Coudrey, the W.M. elect, was installed as W. Master for the ensuing year by the Rev. Robert Bowden, P.M., P.P.G.C., in the presence of a goodly number of the brethren of the lodge and visitors. The officers were then invested: Bros. W. E. Warren, as I.P.M.; T. Pope, S.W.; J. F. Chinnock, J.W.; G. Campbell, S.D.; F. Palk, J.D.; James Greenfield, P.M., P.P.G.D. Treas.; A. Palk, Secretary; Dr. J. T. Goodridge, P.M., Dir. of Cer.; Rev. N. Platt, Chaplain; T. Brooks, R.A.M. Org.; W. Hunt, I.G.; J. R. Bovey, and G. S. Bridgeman, Stewards; and W. Tozer, Tyler. The brethren, after business, adjourned to the Esplanade Hotel, where a recherche banquet was splendidly served by the manageress, under the presidency of the W. Master. Among those present were Bros. Cooke, of Royal Cumberland Lodge, Bath, P.P.G.S.B. (Somerset); Gordon Campbell, Apollo Lodge, Oxford, Grand Director of Ceremonies (Oxfordshire); A. H. Dendy, J. Hurrell, Hawley Lodge (Dartmouth); and Dr. S. Colston, True Love and Unity (Brixham); G. Std. of Devon. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, the speeches being far beyond the average, and the brethren, having spent a most enjoyable evening, separated at an early hour, feeling confident that the lodge will continue to prosper as hitherto.

LIVERPOOL.—Fermor Hesketh Lodge (No. 1350).—The installation of Bro. R. Collinson, the W.M. elect of the Fermor Hesketh Lodge, was held at the Temple, Hope-street, last month, in the presence of a large gathering of the brethren, including several P.G. Officers. The Installing Officer was Bro. Dr. James Bennett, the retiring W.M., who performed the ceremony in an admirable and impressive manner. Bro. R. Collinson having taken the chair, the following brethren were invested for the ensuing year:—Bros. Dr. Bennett, I.P.M., W. H. Cooper, S.W.; J. O. Samuels, J.W.; J. H. Johnston, P.M., D. of C.; T. A. Collinson, P.M., Treas.; R. Kay, Sec.; Rev. C. F. Mermagen, Chap.; W. P. Evans, S.D.; T. F. Cooper, J.D.; C. P. Titherley, I.G.; Cooke, Org.; J. B. M'Allister, S.S.; R. Thomas, J.S.; P. Ball, Tyler. The lodge was then opened up to the Second Degree, through which two of the brethren were passed by the newly-installed W.M., who discharged his duty most efficiently. The banquet was held in the large dining-hall, the W.M. presiding. The dinner was served in first-class style by Bro. Bull. After the usual loyal toasts, the W.M. proposing "The R.W.P.G.M., Lord Skelmersdale, and the Officers of the P.G. Lodge, Past and Present," and highly eulogised the satisfactory manner in which the offices of the province were administered. Bro. Guepel, P.G.D. of C., responded. Bro. R. Bennett, in proposing "The Health: the W.M." said he trusted Bro. Collinson would receive the same kindness which he had always experienced, and he was satisfied that that brother would prove an able and a zealous W.M. Bro. R. Collinson having expressed his sense of the honour done him by placing him in the chair of his mother lodge, presented, in the name of the lodge, a handsome P.M.'s jewel to Bro. Bennett, in recognition of his efficient and valuable services in the chair during the past year. Bro. Bennett said he accepted the gift with no little pleasure, and he could assure them he should always look back with gratitude to his year of office. The other toasts included "The Past Masters," "The Visiting Brethren," "The Officers," "The West Lancashire and Cheshire Masonic Educational Institutions," "The Musical Brethren," &c. The musical arrangements were excellent, and the singing and pianoforte playing of several of the brethren greatly added to the enjoyment of the evening.

LEWIS CHAPTER (No. 1185).—A convocation of this chapter, the first after its consecration in June last, was held at the King's Arms Hotel, Wood Green, on Saturday, 5th inst. Present: Comps. Arthur Leared, M.E.Z.; George J. Row, H.; Alfred Durrant, J.; Geo. Newman, T. Vesper, P.Z.; Samuel May, P.Z., Treas.; J. W. Berrie, P.S.; Edward B. Grabham, E. pro tem.; Rev. — Ridgeway, Chaplain; and others. The chapter was opened in form with solemn prayer, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Ballots were taken for Comp. Grabham (Mount Sinai Chapter, No. 19) for joining, and several brethren for exaltation, of whom were present Bros. J. R. Cover and W. H. Cox. These brethren on being introduced were exalted into Royal Arch Masonry by the M.E.Z. assisted by Comp. George Newman, who delivered the lectures in a very able and impressive manner. The chapter was then closed, and the companions adjourned to a banquet, presided over by Comp. Leared, M.E.Z., who, after proposing the usual loyal and Masonic toasts gave "The Health of Comps. Cover and Postans," who separately acknowledged the toast. "The Health of the Visitors" was then proposed, and acknowledged by Comp. T. Vesper, who, as an old P.Z., took upon himself to offer the companions some very excellent advice, which was well received, and, if acted upon, cannot fail to be of great service to the chapter. Comp. Grabham responded to the toast of "The Joining Members," and congratulated the M.E.Z. upon the success to which the chapter had already attained, and predicted great prosperity for the future. Comp. G. Newman (to whom the thanks of the chapter are specially due for the exceedingly kind and useful services he has rendered) acknowledged the hearty manner in which his health had been drunk, and assured the chapter that his best services were always at their disposal. Comp. May, P.Z., responded to "The Health of the Treasurer," and Comp. J. W. Berrie, P.S., for "The Officers." It is only due to this last-named companion to say how exceedingly well the work of P.S. was performed by him, and the companions generally may look forward to an officer of great promise in Comp. Berrie. The Janitor's toast having been duly honoured, the companions separated after the enjoyment of an exceedingly pleasant evening, notwithstanding that many members were absent on account of the holidays.

LEICESTER.—Fowke Lodge of Mark Masters (No. 19).—By the cordial invitation of the W.M.M., Bro. Clement Stretton, Past Grand Steward, the brethren of this lodge were entertained at a picnic dinner at his residence on the 13th ult. The brethren assembled to the number of seventy in their lodge-room about one o'clock, from whence they proceeded by rail and private carriages to Glen Hall, Glen Magna, where every provision had been made that could possibly promote the comfort and enjoyment of the assembled guests, and lead them in the grand design of being happy and communicating happiness to others. While some of the brethren joined in the games and amusements on the lawn, others sought the shady walks and cool retreats afforded by the magnificent trees with which the grounds are studded, and all of them manifested much interest in the working models of a complete railway and telegraph system exhibited by the talented son of the Worshipful Master. Bro. C. E. Stretton is an amateur engineer, who is eminently proficient in the theory and practice of railway construction, and, as an occasional contributor to scientific journals, his opinion and advice is highly esteemed by appreciative students in those liberal arts and sciences more immediately connected with this particular branch of engineering. The dinner was of the most recherché description, and was served in a spacious marquee erected near the conservatory. The worthy Worshipful Master presided, and was supported by Bros. Barfoot, P.G.M.O., Mayor of Leicester; W. Kelly, P.G.M.M.; Rev. W. Langley, D.P. G.M.M.; G. Toller, P.G.S.W.; Dr. Clifton, P.G.J.O.; R. Waite, P.G. Treas.; J. M. McAllister, P.G. Sec.; W. T. Rowlett, P.G.S.D.; J. T. Thorp, P.G.A.D.C.; Dr. Hunt, P.G.S.B.; T. A. Wykes, P.G.O.; Dr. Buck, Dr. Meadows, Rev. Brindley, Rev. Dodds, S. S. Partridge, P.P.G. S.W.; W. Sculthorpe, S.W.; R. A. Barber, J.W.; F. J. Baines, P.P.G.O.; and other distinguished Mark Masons. The presence of ladies added greatly to the interest of the happy occasion, and we must observe that, considering we are no longer operative, but Free and Accepted, or Speculative Masons, we can scarcely perceive why the ladies are not more intimately associated in our pursuits. Those of our readers who are interested in Mark Masonry will be glad to learn that a new lodge is being formed in Leicester, mainly through the zeal and influence of Bro. Stretton, and the W.M. designate is the Mayor, Bro. Wm. Barfoot. It only remains for your correspondent to return thanks from a numerous and influential assembly of Mark Masters and their fair friends to the W.M., Bro. Stretton, for the entertainment afforded to them, and the liberality which graced the proceedings of the day.

GRAND CHANCERY.

A meeting of the Grand Chancery of the Sovereign Sanctuary was held on the 3rd August, at Manchester, by the following members: Ill. Bros. John Yarker, 33°, G. M. General; S. P. Leather, 33°, Grand Treasurer General; Beeby Bowman Labrey, 33°, as Grand Chancellor General. The following business was transacted:—1st, the grant of a Mizraim Charter to the Ancient and Primitive Rite in Canada, in favour of V. I. Bros. G. C. Longley, 33-95°; A. G. Hervey, 33-95°; John Dumbille, 33-95°; 2nd, the issue of a dispensation (4-30°) to Ill. Bro. W. L. Erson, and several members of the Ancient and Primitive Rite in the Isle of Man; 3rd, a similar document to several brethren in Gloucestershire; 4th, a similar document to several brethren in Aberdeen, Glasgow, and Edinburgh, in Scotland; 5th, a similar document to Ill. Bro. Barnes and several brethren in Middlesex. Nomination was made of an influential London brother to fill the office of Grand Administrator General, 33°, and Grand Master of Light for the South of England, and referred to the decision of the Sovereign Sanctuary at its next meeting.

CONSECRATION OF THE MORGANWG CHAPTER ROSE CROIX, SWANSEA, GLAMORGANSHIRE.

On Tuesday, the 25th ult., the interesting ceremonies of the consecration of the Morganwg Chapter Rose Croix, and the installation of its M.W. Sovereign, took place in the town of Swansea, South Wales.

The petitioning brethren and visitors assembled at 2 o'clock in the New Masonic Hall, recently built by the Indefatigable Lodge, and which, owing to the exertions of Bros. W. H. Tucker and W. Williams, had been handsomely and appropriately fitted up for the occasion.

Amongst the brethren present were Ill. Bros. Shadwell Clerke, 33°, Gd. Sec. Genl.; Lieut.-General H. E. Doherty, C.B., 33°, Dy. Insp. General; J. C. Parkinson, 31°; Capt. S. George Homfray, 30°; Bros. W. H. Tucker, 18°, M.W. Sov. Designate; W. Williams 18°; J. Goodall, 18°; R. Groves, 18°; and many others.

No less than 28 candidates had been duly proposed and recommended for admission into the Order on this occasion, but many were unable to attend; nine candidates, however, being present were duly perfected by the Gd. Sec. Genl., who then proceeded to perform the solemn and impressive ceremony of consecration, assisted by Ill. Bros. General Doherty, 33°; J. C. Parkinson, 31°; and Capt. S. G. Homfray, 30°.

The M.W. Sov. designate, Bro. W. H. Tucker, was afterwards installed by Ill. Bro. Major Clerke, to whom a vote of thanks was thereon accorded for the very able and perfect manner in which he had performed the ceremonies of the day.

Ill. Bros. Major Clerke, Genl. Doherty, J. C. Parkinson, and Capt. Homfray were elected honorary members, in recognition of their services; and after the usual formulae the chapter was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Mackworth Arms, where they partook of a handsome banquet, under the presidency of Bro. Tucker, the M.W.S.

The usual toasts were given and responded to, and the brethren separated early, the majority having to catch trains.

The following are the list of officers of the chapter:—M.W.S., W. H. Tucker; Prelate, J. Goodall; First General, W. Williams; Second General, G. Bradford; Marshal, J. C. Sladen; Raphael, D. C. Jones; Recorder, J. R. Davies; Treasurer, L. Davies; Captain of Guard, L. Howells; Organist, R. Groves; Herald, R. Maine; Outer Guard, S. Bullewell.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

A quarterly communication of Grand Lodge of Scotland was held on the 7th inst., in the Freemasons' Hall. The throne was occupied by Sir Michael R. Shaw Stewart, Most Worshipful Grand Master, and amongst those supporting him were the Earl of Mar and Kellie, D.S.M.; Henry Inglis, of Torsonce, P.S.G.M.; Major Hamilton, Ramsay, of Garion, S.G.W.; David Kinnear, acting J.G.W.; Wm. Mann, P.G.W.; Captain Charles Hunter, Prov. G.M. Aberdeenshire, East; Dr. Cowan, S. G.M. Perthshire; J. H. Neilson, Proxy P.G.M. and G.S.; John Laurie, G.S.; Alexander Hay, G.T.; and Daniel Robertson, G. Bible-bearer. Grand Lodge having been opened, a number of apologies for absence were read, and intimation was made of the decease of Bro. George Home Drummond, of Ardoch, representative from the Grand Lodge of the Netherlands, and of Bro. David Erskine, representative at the Grand Lodge of Sweden. It was agreed to record in the minutes an expression of regret at the loss of those brethren, and to appoint Major N. Bjorkman, of Sweden, as successor to Bro. Erskine. A petition for a charter to the new lodge at Frickheim was remitted to Grand Committee, with power to grant the same when put in form. The other business was routine.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF GLASGOW.

The quarterly communication of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, Glasgow, on Thursday evening, the 3rd inst., Bro. Fred. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M., presiding; Bro. G. McDonald, W.M. Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73, as P.G.S.W.; Bro. J. Booth, W.M., Thistle Lodge, No. 87, as P.G.J.W. The D.P.G.M. was supported on the dais by Bros. D. M. Nelson, W.M. St John's Lodge, No. 34, Convenor of P.G. Committee; John Monro, W.M. Commercial Lodge, No. 360; John Gillies, P.G. Treas.; John Morgan, W.M. Star Lodge, No. 219, as P.G. Sec.; J. Miller, P.G.J.D.; A. Bain, P.G.B.B.; J. Balfour, P.G. D.C.; and R. Jack, W.M. St. John's Lodge, No. 128, as P.G.I.G. The following were present: Bros. D. Ronald, W.M. 275; W. Har, W.M. 178; W. J. Hogg W.M. 362; John Miller, W.M. 437; D. Gilchrist, W.M. 465; R. McDougal, W.M. 553; W. Phillips, W.M. 556; Browlie, J.W. 34; Dick, Sec. 34; Thomson, S.W. 102; T. Thomas, S.W. 103; Bruntion, I.P.M. 117; Peacock, S.W. 117; Campbell, I.P.M. 128; McLeod, P.M., S.W. 128; Hepburn, S.W. 178; Findlay, S.W. 275; McInnes, S.W. 339; Harley, S.W. 354; McKenzie, J.W. 354; McInnes, S.M. 408; Holms, J.W. 413; Simpson, S.W. 416; McLean, J.W. 419; Davidson, S.W. 465; Peacock, S.W. 581; Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); and a large number of brethren from the province. Before opening the lodge, the Chairman said he might explain the reason of his being there that night, seeing, as they were aware, he had resigned office in connection with the lodge some time ago. No successor to that office, however, had as yet been appointed, and as Bro. Baird, who had in the interim been acting as Provincial Grand Depute Master, was unable to be present at this meeting, he had specially requested him (Bro. Barrow) to be present and preside. Although severing his connection with the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, he still wished well to Masonry, as his presence there that night would show. Bro. Barrow added that he thought it was a great pity that the R.W.P.G. Master had not yet filled up the vacant offices in the Provincial Grand Lodge, and that such a province as that of Glasgow should be in such a condition as it was at the present moment. The lodge having been duly opened, the Chairman read a note from Bro. Archd. M'Taggart, P.G. Secretary, giving formal announcement of his resignation of that office, and thanking the lodge for the uniform kindness and courtesy he had experienced at their hands during the period he held the appointment. Of course, the Chairman said, they could do no more than receive the resignation of Bro. M'Taggart, whose abilities had been very much appreciated in the province during the last few years. Bro. John Morgan, W.M. Lodge Star, 219, acting Secretary for the occasion, then read minutes of meetings of P.G. Lodge and of P.G. Committee, which were duly passed, with exception of a finding by the latter in reference to a schism in Lodge St. Vincent, 553, arising out of the passing of the bye-laws of the latter. In regard to this the motion that the finding of P.G. Committee be sustained was met by an amendment, moved by Bro. John Monro, seconded by Bro. P. Brownlie, 34, and supported by Bro. D. M. Nelson, "That the matter be sent back to the said committee for further consideration." The amendment was carried by a large majority. There was no further business of importance gone into, and the lodge was thereafter closed in due and ancient form; a vote of thanks to Bro. Barrow for his presence in the chair that evening being proposed by Bro. John Monro, and carried with acclamation.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Union and Crown (No. 103).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, 30, Hope-street, on Monday evening, the 31st ult. In the absence of the W.M., Bro. D. Murray, who was in Ireland on important business, the chair was occupied by Bro. Alex. Bain, P.M., P.G.B.B., assisted by Bros. W. Thomas, S.W.; G. Muir, acting J.W.; N. Cameron, Treas.; J. Gillies, P.M., P.G. Treas., Sec.; J. S. Pollock, S.D.; A. Gray, J.D.; P. Cullen, B.B.; J. Derry, S.S.; J. Gray, I.G.; Boyd, Tyler; McGeachy, P.M.; and others. Amongst the visitors were Bros. John Monro, W.M. Lodge Commercial, 360; J. Findlay, S.M. 333; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543, ("Freemason"); J. Campbell, P.M. 128; J. M. Innes, S.M. 408; and others. The lodge was opened in the E.A. Degree, and the minutes of last regular and one emergency meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. J. Monro, W.M. 360, was unanimously elected an honorary member of the lodge, and was duly obligated by Bro. Gillies, P.M. Bro. Monro, in replying, said: W.M., Wardens, and brethren, I am at extreme difficulty to express myself in terms sufficiently becoming for the very high honour you have conferred upon me this evening. I consider this no ordinary honour, because I look upon the Lodge Union and Crown as one of the best regulated lodges in the Province of Glasgow, and reflects credit on the present as well as the past officers. I therefore thank you for the extreme kindness and honour you have done me this evening. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, when Bros. J. Taylor and J. Paterson were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. Bain, P.M., in his usual able manner.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Caledonian Railway (No. 354).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Commercial Hall, 30, Hope-street, on Wednesday evening, the 2nd inst. On account of Bro. A. B. Ferguson, W.M., being out of Glasgow on business, the chair was occupied by Bro. John Harley, S.W.; Bros. Jas. Harley, S.D., acting S.W.; C. McKenzie, J.W. The meeting, as on all former occasions, was particularly well attended, both by the members and visiting brethren. At the request of the acting W.M., Bro. R. A. McLean, Sec., read the minutes of the last regular and one emergency meeting, which were approved of. After disposing of some minor business, Bro. John Fyfe, of Lodge St. Andrew, 465, was proposed and seconded for affiliation into the lodge, and the same having met the unanimous approval of the brethren, he was obligated by Bro. Harley, acting W.M. Mr. Robert Jackson was then proposed and seconded to be initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry and favourably balloted for, was admitted, and received the First Degree at the hands of Bro. Harley, S.W., who performed the ceremony for the first time in a most accurate and masterly style. This ending the business, the lodge was closed.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Commercial (No. 360).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in their hall, 30, Hope-street, on Friday evening, the 4th inst., Bro. John Monro, W.M., in the chair, Bros. J. Brodie, P.M.; J. M. Oliver, S.W.; W. Findlay, S.M., acting J.W.; G. Scott, Treas.; J. Smith, Sec.; R. Reid, S.D.; R. Brodie, Dir. of Music; H. Jamieson, I.G.; and Minnoch, Tyler. Visitors: Bros. J. Gillies, P.M. 103, P.G. Treas.; D. Murray, W.M. 103; W. Thomas, S.W. 103; J. Harley, S.W. 354; W. Mc G. Mason, W.M. 541; J. Fraser, S.W. 541; R. Walker, jun., Sec. 541; J. Murray, S.D. 541; W. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason"); and a large number of others, with a full attendance of members of the lodge. On the lodge being opened, and the minutes of last regular meeting read and adopted, the W.M. said they had no work of their own before them that night. He, however, received applications from Lodges Marie Stuart, 541, and Union and Crown, 103, to oblige them by initiating a candidate from each lodge. He was glad to have it in his power to comply with the request. The two candidates were then admitted and initiated by Bro. Monro, W.M. A brother was then passed for Lodge Union and Crown, 103, by Bro. Brodie, P.M. 360 and 541. Afterwards Bros. Wood, of Lodge No. 103, and Macklin, of Lodge No. 541, were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. Gillies, P.M. 103. Before the lodge was closed Bro. Gillies moved a vote of thanks to Lodge Commercial for their kindness on this as well as on former occasions.

UDDINGSTON.—Lodge St. Bryde (No. 579). A special meeting of the above lodge was held in Latta's Hall, on Tuesday, 1st inst., at 7 p.m. Business: Raising to the Sublime Degree of M.M.; Bro. John Scott presiding as R.W.M., ably assisted by Bro. Ferguson, P.M. 543 ("Freemason") who kindly attended on this occasion. Officers present: Bros. John Scott, D.M., as W.M.; Wilson Walker, S.M.; Thomas Halkett, S.W.; Wm. H. Lindsay, Sec., as J.W.; J. W. Ruddock, I.G.; John Rankan, Tyler. Visiting brethren present: Bros. R. Hutchinson, 233; J. Parker, 233. The following F.C.M.s. were then raised to that of the Sublime Degree of M.M., viz:—Bro. William Watson, Robt. Proudfoot, Alexander Steel, James Patrick, Walter C. Ross, John Bright, Sen., John Baird, Samuel Lorrimer, Andrew McKenzie, James Robertson, William Dalziel, Armit Brown, Alex. McNicol, William Waddle, Henry McCall, and J. Morton. Bro. Ferguson ably assisted in raising the brethren to the Sublime Degree and delivered an exhaustive, impressive, and not to be forgotten charge upon the duties and responsibilities of Master Masons. The lodge was then reduced from the M.M. Degree, to that of F.C., subsequently to that of E.A. Before closing the lodge the Acting W.M. proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Bro. Ferguson for officiating on the occasion, as also for the admirable and exhaustive manner in which Bro. Ferguson had performed the ceremony, to the delight, admiration, and profit of the brethren, and the same was ordered to be inserted in the minutes of proceedings, &c. Bro Ferguson very feelingly replied in a concise speech, after which the lodge was closed by the Acting W.M., assisted by his Wardens, in the usual ancient form.

KILBARCHAN.—Lodge St. Barchan (No. 156).—A meeting of this lodge was held in the lodge-room on the evening of Friday, 4th inst. The R.W.M., Bro. William Lewis, M.D., presided, and was supported by Bros. Andrew Buchanan, D.M. and P.M.; David Scrymgeour, S.M.; Robt. Craig, S.W.; John Orr, J.W.; Fred. Lewis, acting Sec.; J. Hill, S.D.; J. Stevenson, J.D.; and others. The lodge having been opened in due form, the applications of two candidates for initiation, viz., Mr. John Wilson, Liverpool, and Mr. John Wylie, Paisley, were submitted to the meeting. The applications having been accepted, the candidates were regularly initiated into the E.A. Degree by the W.M., in a very able manner. Thereafter, two brethren were passed to the F.C. Degree, and one brother was raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M., the ceremonies in these degrees being likewise gone through by the W.M. There being no other business, the lodge was closed in ancient form.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF HAMPSHIRE AND THE ISLE OF WIGHT.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of the Province of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight was held at Lymington, on Monday, by command of the Provincial Grand Master. The brethren, to the number of about 180, assembled in the Town Hall at high noon.

The Right Worshipful Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Provincial Grand Master, accompanied by the Worshipful Bro. W. Hickman, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, were met at the railway station on their arrival by Bro. Rawlins, the W.M. elect of the New Forest Lodge, and conducted to the Angel Hotel.

The lodge was closed tiled at one p.m., the Provincial Grand Master and his officers being received with the customary Masonic honours.

Among the brethren present were Bros. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., the P.G.M., who presided; W. Hickman, D.P.G.M.; H. Ford, P.S.G.W.; M. E. Frost, P.G.T.; J. E. Le Feuvre, P.G. Sec.; E. Booth, acting J.G.W.; H. Cawte, P.P.G.J.W.; J. Lillywhite, P.G.R.; H. Abraham, P.P.G.D.; Rev. E. W. Watts, W.M. 151; J. R. Weston, P.P.G.R.; F. Pince, P.M. 257; Montague Alex, P.P.G.J.W. (Gloucester), G. F. Lancaster, P.M. 903, P.P. G.J.W.; R. Eve, P.P.G.S.W.; W. Chick, P.P.G.D. Dorset; T. A. Willis, P.P.G. Chaplain; W. Furber, P.M. 394, P.P.G.D.; P. Newman, P.M. and Treas. 175, P.P.G. Sec.; G. Wyatt, P.P.G.S.W.; E. W. Rebbeck, P.M. 195, P.P.G.P.; H. P. Aslatt, P.P.G.S.D.; J. Maltby, P.M. 487, P.P.G.S.B.; R. Osborne, P.G.O.; R. Sharpe, P.P.G.O.; J. Blount Thomas, P.G.S.D.; E. Snelling, P.P.G.A.D.C.; W. J. Hickman, W.M. 130; C. Cox, W.M. 394; G. Rake, 487, P.P.G. Supt. Works; R. Newland, P.M. 342, P.G.A.D.C.; C. W. Wyndham, P.P.S.G.W. Wilts; S. S. Pearce, P.M. 319; E. G. Holbrook, P.M. 309, P.P.G.A.D.C.; S. G. T. Bourke, W.M. 1428; B. Maturin, M.A., P.P.G. Chaplain; J. Maling, W.M. 903; J. Whale, W.M. 309; E. Downing, S.W. 309; J. Harrison, P.M. 804; J. Lintott, I.P.M. 804; R. J. Rastick, W.M. 1069; J. R. Hayman, 257; E. Groves, P.M. 903; J. D. Barford, P.M. 359; G. R. Johnson, 487, P.G. Steward; H. J. Way, W.M. 70; E. M. Wells, P.P.G.D.; G. Bond, S.W. 487; M. Miles, P.M. 130; H. T. Bath, P.M. 319, P.P.G.A.D.C.; R. White, P.M. 1331, P.G.P.; R. J. Turney, W.M. 342; R. B. Cheverton, I.P.M. 151; M. Emanuel, P.M. 359; G. Cross, 359, P.G.S.; J. N. Colston, J.W. 319; A. P. Wilks, W.M. 698; A. J. Hicks, P.M. 132; J. C. Ains, W.M. 35; J. Parkes, 151, P.G.S.B.; T. Giles, P.M. 35, P.G. Sup. Wks.; T. Best, P.M. 1373, P.P.G.S.W.; W. H. Gregory, P.M. 359; J. Newbery, P.M. 1112; H. R. Sims, W.M. 319; Rev. T. A. Willis, P.P.G. Chap. P.M. 309; E. R. Lester, 319, P.G.S.; W. C. Powning, W.M. 1373; W. R. Rogers, P.M. 195; T. J. Fletcher, P.M. 1112, P.G.D.C.; C. A. Dyer, W.M. 359; C. W. A. Jellicoe, J.W. 130; J. Wilson, 903, P.P.G.S.B.; D. Sydenham, W.M. 195; J. E. Salter, I.P.M. 76; S. Dore, I.P.M. 319; J. Puntis, W.M. 694; H. Doman, P.M. 319, P.P.S.G.D.; J. Hayward, P.M. 319, P.P.S.G.W.; J. R. Willson, P.M. 342 and 1428; T. Anderson, W.M. 1331.

On the minutes of the Special Grand Lodge, held at Portsmouth, to draw up an address of congratulation to the Grand Master (the Prince of Wales) on his return from India, being read, the P.G.M. briefly referred to the circumstances attending its presentation, and expressed his regret that owing to the density of the crowd on his Royal Highness's departure from the railway station, it was not possible for the brethren to accompany him; in fact, he only had the opportunity of presenting it through the window of the carriage. A short time afterwards, however he received a most gracious reply, which he would ask the P.G. Secretary to read. It was as follows:—

Marlborough House, Pall Mall, S.W.

Sir William Knollys is desired by the Prince of Wales to thank the Provincial Grand Master, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Worshipful Officers, and brethren of the Province of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, for their address of welcome, and for their congratulations on his safe return from India. It is a source of great thankfulness to his Royal Highness that he has been enabled by a visit to one of the most important possessions of the British Crown to acquire a personal knowledge of its characteristic features—its interests and institutions, and to cement by intercourse with all classes of its inhabitants the friendly feeling which it is so essential should subsist between the mother country and every part of the vast Empire.

On the motion of the P.G. Master, seconded by the D.P.G. Master, the reply was ordered to be printed, and a copy sent to each lodge in the province.

On the report of the committee for managing the Provincial Grand Lodge Funds and the P.G. Treasurer's accounts being read, considerable discussion arose as to the appropriation of a portion of the balance in hand, but it was ultimately decided (on the motion of Bro. E. G. Holbrook) that the committee should be authorised to invest the sum of £200, or such other amount as they might think proper. £20 was again voted to the widow of the late Bro. Stebbing, and £1 per month to Bro. Dawkins until the meeting of the P.G. Lodge in 1877. A special donation of twenty guineas was also granted to the Masonic Girls' School. Bro. W. Hickman, D.P.G.M., pointed out the great disparity which existed between the voting powers of the province in the case of the Boys' and Girls' Schools, the number of votes for the boys' being 480 while that for the girls' was only 250. Although this donation would only give the province two additional votes, he thought this was a step in the right direction.

Bro. Cawte, P.P.J.G.W., expressed a preference for a donation of £50 to the Benevolent Fund, and several brethren suggested a grant to both institutions, but Bro. Beach, P.G.M., counselled caution in dealing with the surplus funds of the lodge, as it was impossible to say what contingencies might arise; and it was eventually agreed that the vote of twenty guineas to the Girls' School should stand, the general question as to the respective claims of various charities on the lodge being referred to the committee to report upon. It was also pointed out that as the usual grant had not been taken up by the Girls' School for two years, the grant would be virtually forty guineas.

The Worshipful Masters of the Gosport, United Brothers, Lodge of Friendship, and Shirley Lodges, were elected a committee to audit the P.G. Treasurer's accounts, and Bros. Wallingford, Hare, and Furber, with the Masters of the various lodges, were re-elected the committee for managing the P.G. Lodge funds.

The routine business having been disposed of, the Provincial Grand Master proceeded to appoint the Grand Officers for the ensuing year. Bro. Mark Frost, P.G. Treas., was (on the motion of Bro. Eve, P.P.S.G.W.) unanimously re-elected by the lodge, and the following other officers were then invested by the P.G.M. with the insignia of office:—

H. Abraham, P.M. 130	Prov. S.G.W.
F. Pine, P.M. 237	Prov. J.G.W.
Revs. F. W. Thoys, 694, and E. W. Watts, 151	Prov. G. Chaps.
E. G. Holbrook, P.M. 309	Prov. G. Reg.
M. E. Frost, P.M. 487	Prov. G. Treas.
J. E. Le Feuvre, P.M. 130	Prov. G. Sec.
S. S. Pearce, 319	Prov. S.G. Deacon.
J. B. Atkinson, 195	Prov. J.G. Deacon.
T. J. D. Rawlins, 319	Prov. G. S. of W.
Fantis, 694	Prov. G. D. of C.
Edwin Groves, 487	Prov. G. Ast.D.ofC.
Dyer, 359	Prov. G. Swd. B.
J. R. Willson, 1428	Prov. G. Purst.
J. W. D. Billow, 487	Prov. G. Org.
Bowyer, P.M. 1461, Tucker, 1112, G. F. Sherman, 487, W. Brown, 963, Legg, and Bailey, 319	Prov. G. Stwds.
Biggs, 130, and Exell, 487	Prov. G. Tylers.

On the motion of Bro. Cawte, P.P.J.G.W., seconded by Bro. Booth, P.P.J.G.W., a letter of condolence was directed to be sent to the widow of the late Bro. Forbes, P.S.G.W., expressing the great loss the Provincial Grand Lodge had sustained by his death.

Bro. Cawte said that Bro. Forbes was for many years an active member of the province, and was always ready by every means in his power to promote the interests of Masonry.

Bro. Rake, P.P.G.S. Works, also bore testimony to Bro. Forbes's excellencies as a Mason, and said that nothing in his lifetime gave him greater pleasure than his appointment as P.S.G.W. last year.

On the motion of Bro. Rake, P.P.G.S. Works, the sum of ten guineas was voted to the Thunderer Relief Fund, and a cheque for that amount was ordered to be sent to the Mayor of Portsmouth.

At three o'clock a banquet was served in a marquee on the lawn at the rear of the residence of Bro. T. J. D. Rawlins, the W.M. elect of the New Forest Lodge, which was served in admirable style by Bro. West, of the Anchor and Hope Hotel, Lymington. The wines, which were of the finest quality, were kindly placed on the table by the liberality of Bro. Rawlins, who spared neither pains nor expense to make the meeting one worthy of the occasion. A string band, under the direction of Mr. J. D. Wilson, Southampton, played some excellent music during dinner, which was partaken of by about 120 brethren, under the presidency of the Provincial Grand Master; and amongst those present were Bro. F. Binckes, Secretary to the Boys' School, and Bro. J. Terry, Secretary to the Home for Aged Freemasons and the widows of deceased brethren.

The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with much enthusiasm—the healths of the P.G.M. (Bro. Beach), the D.P.G.M. (Bro. Hickman), and others of a personal and complimentary character being heartily drunk by the assembled brethren.

The P.G.M. mentioned, in proposing "The Health of the Pro Grand Master of the Order (the Earl of Carnarvon)," that it was his privilege to initiate his lordship into Freemasonry, and also to instal him as Provincial Grand Master of Somersetshire. He congratulated the Freemasons of Hampshire upon assembling at Lymington in such large numbers, and upon the truly Masonic spirit by which they were animated. In selecting the place of meeting, and in appointing the Prov. Grand Officers, it was of course impossible to consult the wishes of every lodge, but it was his endeavour to do justice to the claims of all, and no time or effort should be wanting on his part to further the interests of Freemasonry in the province and to promote the great principles of which it was the embodiment.

Through the kindness of Bro. J. W. Dyson, superintendent at the Southampton Railway Terminus, a special return train left Lymington for Southampton at ten o'clock at night, which was greatly appreciated by the brethren coming from Southampton and neighbourhood.

The whole of the proceedings were most successfully carried out by a committee of five brethren from the New Forest Lodge, to whom the warmest thanks are due.

Before the Grand Lodge was opened a lodge of emergency of the New Forest brethren was held, and two brethren were raised to the Third Degree, after which Bro. H. Fellowes presented to the retiring W.M., Bro. Sims, in the names of the brethren who had been initiated by him during his year of office, a massive 18 carat gold ring, in addition to which the brethren generally have subscribed towards a presentation to be made to him at the next lodge meeting, which will take the form of a beautifully designed P.M.'s jewel.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTIONS FOR GIRLS AND BOYS.

The holidays at our educational Institutions rarely, if ever, occur without some of the pupils remaining, owing to various circumstances, and the present midsummer vacation is no exception in this respect, three girls at Clapham, and twelve boys at Wood Green having to be cared for and amused.

To facilitate this object, Bro. Benjamin Head, a Vice-Patron and member of the House Committee of both Institutions has for some few years past invited the young friends who do not spend their holidays at home to a trip to some favourite country place of resort or attractiveness. Under his kind auspices Windsor, Stonehenge, Salisbury, the Crystal Palace and other localities have been visited, much to the enjoyment of our boys and girls, and the friends by whom they are usually accompanied, and not without instruction to the children, generally including those of larger growth.

This year Box Hill and its delightful neighbourhood were visited, the party numbering about twenty-five, travelling from Victoria per London Brighton and South Coast Railway to Dorking Station, which was reached a few minutes before twelve. A pleasant walk took them to the noted little hostelry, known as "the Punchbowl," where a good luncheon was served, and partaken of with a will. A three hour's ramble over the famous Hill of Box followed, and then a return to the inn. At four o'clock all sat down to a hot dinner, plain, but most excellently served, and to which ample justice was done. Sauntering pleasantly, or reclining sub tegnumi fagi, an hour or two too rapidly sped, and the train at 7.24 conveyed the party back to town, the small contingent from Clapham leaving the train at that wonderful and labyrinthine junction, the mazes of which it is hoped they successfully threaded—the majority proceeding to Wood Green via Victoria. Unfortunately, the only member of either Committee present was the generous founder of the feast, and he arrived only late from circumstances which either unavoidable, perplexing, or annoying, as the case may be.

Bro. Faulkner rendered every assistance in promoting the good humour and enjoyment of the party, over which Bro. F. Binckes presided.

The trip altogether was most successful; the weather, after the morning showers, most delightful. The thanks of all present, as well as of those who have the interests of our schools at heart, are due to one of the oldest and best friends of both—Bro. Benjamin Head.

There were present—Bro. Head; Bro. Binckes, Mrs. and the Misses Binckes; Bro. Faulkner; Miss Sheppard, Girls' School; Mrs. Walkden, Assistant Matron Boys' School.

THE MASONIC LITERARY ADVERTISER.

The following circular is about to be addressed by our respected Publisher to the Trade:—

As we propose with our October number of the "Masonic Magazine" to have a few sheets devoted to literary advertisements alone, we think that a few words of explanation are needful and advisable. It is quite clear that many books to-day do not run a fair chance by not being brought prominently before the reading public, and certainly not our Masonic readers. Hence we wish to afford Masonic publishers and booksellers, and all publishers and booksellers, an opportunity of advertising their works month by month. And in order to do this, so as to obtain the kind support of the Trade, we wish to point out that we shall be willing, for literary announcements alone, to make a considerable reduction in the usual terms of advertisements, and to enter into special arrangements with publishers and booksellers. We feel sure that the concentration of all literary announcements, as well as works of an antiquarian or archaeological character, in a few pages at the commencement of the Magazine, will subserve the interest alike of purveyor and of reader of the current literature of the hour.

All applications for space and terms should be at once made to Bro. George Kenning, 198, Fleet-street, E.C., and they will be immediately attended to.

All advertisements for the monthly number of the "Masonic Magazine" should be sent by the 15th of the month preceding to 198, Fleet-street.

MASONIC ADDRESS TO THE LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND.

On Friday, 4th inst., at seven p.m., His Grace the Duke of Abercorn graciously honoured the Provincial Grand Lodge of Munster with his presence at the Masonic Hall, Tuckey-street, to receive an address from the brethren of the province. Lodge not having been opened, Lady Georgiana Hamilton accompanied His Grace, an innovation which was acknowledged with lively satisfaction by the brethren present, who numbered over 200. We may mention that a much larger assembly would gladly have attended to honour the noble Grand Master of Ireland, but that the arrangements were necessarily very much hurried—it being not known until noon yesterday that His Grace would honour the Craft by his presence in Tuckey-street—and consequently many members of the Order had left town. The brethren assembled about 6.30, and at 7 p.m. His Grace, with his well-known punctuality, was announced by the familiar strains of the National Anthem from the antique organ, at which Dr. Marks presided. When His Grace had taken the chair, the following address was read by Lord Viscount Bernard, P.G.M.:

Most Worshipful Sir,—We, the Freemasons of the Masonic Province of Munster—the most ancient seat of Masonry in Ireland—avail ourselves of your Grace's visit to Cork to give a fraternal welcome to our Grand Master, and to express our high appreciation of the many eminent qualities which distinguish your Grace in the exercise of the functions of your high office.

We heartily recognise the fact that your Grace is pre-eminently fitted to fill the highest position in Masonry in Ireland, and we regard your acceptance of the Grand Master's office as an evidence of the interest which your Grace feels in the welfare of the Craft. We hailed your acceptance of this office with the greatest satisfaction, and felt assured it would dispel many outside prejudices, and tend to promote the noble principles and moral teachings of our ancient Order. As a Freemason, your Grace is aware that one of the first principles of the Order is loyalty; and as representative of Her Most Gracious the Queen in Ireland, we doubt not your Grace will rejoice to hear that the Freemasons of Munster, in common with their brethren throughout the length and breadth of the land, are imbued with feelings of the most ardent and devoted loyalty to Her Majesty's person and throne. In conclusion, permit us to express our earnest prayer that your Grace may be long spared to preside over and govern our Order; and that under your fostering care you may enjoy the gratification of seeing the principles of brotherly love, relief, and truth ever advancing, and becoming more and more disseminated.

Signed on behalf of the members of the brethren of the Masonic Province of Munster,

BERNARD, P.G.M.
ANDERSON COOPER, D.P.G.M.
FRANCIS GUY, P.G.W.
ROBERT WALKER, P.J.W.
HENRY S. NOBLETT, P.G.S.

His Grace the Lord Lieutenant then read the following reply:—

Right Worshipful Sir, and Brethren,—I thank you most heartily for the fraternal and cordial welcome with which you have received me on the occasion of my first visit to this ancient seat of Freemasonry in Munster.

As the representative in Ireland of our Most Gracious Sovereign, it affords me the most lively satisfaction to receive the assurance of that ardent and devoted loyalty to her Majesty's person and throne which has ever been one of the distinguishing badges of our Craft.

Your kind expressions towards myself personally are also very gratifying, and in carrying out the duties of the Grand Mastership of Ireland, it will ever give me the greatest confidence to know that my acceptance of that high office met with your hearty approval.

I need scarcely assure you that I feel a deep interest in the welfare of our Order, and so long as I have the honour to preside over it in this country I shall view with the most sincere pleasure the development of its principles, and the more wide-spread exercise of those virtues of charity and brotherly love which form so striking a characteristic of Freemasons, and which tend so materially to benefit and improve mankind.

Bro. Anderson Cooper, D.P.G.M., then submitted to the inspection of his Grace the ancient minute book of the lodge, from which he read a few interesting items. From one of them it appeared that on St. John's-day, 1726, a meeting of the Grand Lodge of Munster was held in Cork, at which the Hon. James O'Brien was unanimously elected Grand Master and appointed Springett Penn as his Deputy. Also, that in 1730, applications were made from Waterford and Clonmel for warrants to hold lodges. Also, that on the 9th of August, 1731, the minutes were signed by a former Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the well-known James, Lord Baron Kingstown, as Grand Master, who then appointed Adam Newman as his Deputy, and Jonas Morris and William Newenham as Grand Wardens, with the unanimous approbation of the brethren. A very interesting fact for the Craft was brought to light by the perusal of these minutes. A printed copy of the "Entered Apprentice" song was produced dated 1723, in which the following familiar stanza is omitted:

"We're true and sincere,
And just to the fair,
Who may trust us on any occasion:
No mortal can more
The Ladies adore
Than a free and an accepted Mason."

The reading of these lines was received with loud cheers, rendered all the more hearty by the presence of one of those to whom these lines bear so simple yet warm a tribute of respect. This verse of the song, as we have said, does not appear in the printed copy; but it is interpolated in manuscript, and attributed to Springett Penn, mentioned before, who is said to have been a nephew of the great William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania. He was, at all events, the ancestor of Peter Penn Gaskell, of Shanagary, near Cloyne. His Grace evinced a warm interest in these illustrations of the past history of the Craft in the South of Ireland.

Bro. Cooper then showed Lady Georgiana Hamilton the portrait, autograph, and Masonic jewel of the Hon. Mrs. Aldworth, of Newmarket House, who, as is well-known, was the only lady ever admitted to the Order. And, as a souvenir of the fact, Bro. Thomas Ware presented His Grace with an interesting memoir of Mrs. Aldworth's initiation, and a short sketch of her life.

Repeated cheers were then given for his Grace the Duke of Abercorn and Lady Georgiana Hamilton, terminating the proceedings, which though brief were most enthusiastic, and will, we doubt not, afford the Lord Lieutenant one of the most agreeable memories of his visit to the South of Ireland.

ABUSE OF THE BALLOT.

The following remarks, by M.W. John P. Allmond, of Delaware, touch upon a subject on which many of us have had unpleasant experience; his treatment of it is worthy of study:—

Every member of the lodge exercises his right to vote, and by the conditions no member's vote can be called in question. We do not certainly know that any one abuses his principles at the ballot-box, but we do know that times come in the history of some lodges, when for months, or even years, a clear ballot is unknown. This proves either that the lodge is surrounded altogether by bad material, or that somebody inside of it has determined not to be satisfied with any applicant who may present himself. In either case it is hard for the lodge to bear its situation patiently, and resist the impulse to surrender its charter.

Some plain words on what may be termed "the abuses of the secret ballot" are needed. No Mason of any experience will deny that these abuses exist; scarcely any one but has known some palpable instance of wrong perpetrated through the ballot-box. A sacred right to the many has apparently given a few the right to do wrong, which admits of no redress. To remove the wrong would be to root up the right. In our immutable constitutions, the Great Charter of Freemasonry itself was locked up for safety, and the key purposely thrown away and lost. Concealed and brought forth in truth, it admits of no change but growth and the natural development of its vital organism, and it was entrusted to pure hands. These conditions preserved, it is perfect; but, in its contact and struggles with human passions, its very perfections are sometimes distorted into blemishes, and made the means of injustice. It is to be deeply regretted that there are those in the Order who are so far from being Masons as to seize on the ballot-box as an instrument of vengeance.

Humiliating as this admission is, it is, nevertheless, an honest confession, safer to make than to withhold, for it may be the beginning of repentance and reform. The evil is not widespread, nor is it contagious, but it roots itself like a cancer in the body of a lodge where it exists, and slowly but surely wastes it away. Some of our lodges are now suffering from it, and from the highest enjoyment of health, peace, and prosperity, they have been plunged into the depths of weakness and despondency; their energy and activity are lost, and they lie torpid and languishing, as it were pulseless, on the bed of death.

All this simply because one member, perhaps, has been disappointed in his aspiration for office; annoyed by the rejection of the petition of a personal friend or relative; or because some accused brother was not expelled. Forgetful of the high power he wields for good or evil; oblivious of his duties as a Mason, and even forswearing his honour as a man, he resorts to the revenge of the ballot-box, and hides himself behind its unquestionable right and inviolable secrecy. He strikes at the vitals of Masonic fellowship, and from that moment the lodge is dead.

Instances have occurred in which this destroying spirit assumed a bolder attitude, and proclaimed, in the lodge and out of it, in private and public, on the streets and highways, that no more work should be done in — Lodge, as every application would be black-balled—the dissatisfied Mason himself announcing that he would do the deed. In such cases there is speedy redress in charges of "gross unmasonic conduct," and expulsion from the sanctuary so wantonly profaned.

There is some spirit of hardihood, or even bravery, in the latter exhibition of rage, for it discloses an enemy who lays himself open to attack, and challenges combat. It is the covert foe from which the lodge suffers most. He is truly a serpent in a doves' nest, and, as he enjoys his revenge in secrecy, wherever he is, or whoever he may be, he is not likely to charge that the epithet above applies personally and particularly to him. He will know it himself, and keep it among his other Masonic secrets.

Let him keep the secret, and let him resolve henceforth to be a man and a Mason. Let him realize, as he never did before, the essential purity of the thing he has soiled, and the solemnity of the privileges with which he has been trifling, and he will not have read these words in vain. He will thereafter use the secret ballot as contemplated in the design and structure of Freemasonry—the guard of purity, the keynote of harmony, and the soul of honour. He will feel himself free from the tyranny of petty spite, and once more a reasonable, responsible, independent man. He will realize with a keen sensibility the truth of those words:

"'Tis pleasant to have a giant's strength,
But tyrannous to use it like a giant."

Masonic and General Tidings.

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was, on Monday last, unanimously elected a member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

On Wednesday a private match took place round the Isle of Wight between two schooners, the Hildegarde (H.R.H. the Prince of Wales), and the Aline (the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Hardwicke, P.G.M. Cambridgeshire), for a prize of 100 guineas, the first in to win the prize. The start took place at ten o'clock from Cowes, and they got off well together, but before they had got out of Cowes roads the Aline took the lead; they then made one board towards the island, and the wind afterwards going round to the southward a little, it served to lay their heads out towards the Nab Light. They came abreast off Ryde as follows:—

H. M. S.	H. M. S.
Aline	11 19 0
Hildegarde.....	11 23 30

The Aline appeared to increase her lead in making her way to the Nab Light, passing round Bembridge Point at about 1.30, and the Hildegarde about 7 min. afterwards. Having rounded the Warren it was a fine run for the cutters, and the first round was finished, with no very material change, the Aline coming in the winner.

The Duchess of Abercorn has returned to town from visiting the Earl of Mount Edgumbe, R.W. Prov. Grand Master Cornwall, and family at Mount Edgumbe, Devon.

Bros. the Right Hon. Lord Leigh, R. W. Prov. Grand Master Warwickshire, Sir E. A. H. Lechmere Bart., M.P., and R. Woolf, F.S.A., are on the Provisional Committee of the Eastern War Sick and Wounded Relief Fund.

The next meeting of the Frederick Lodge of Unity No. 452 will be held on Tuesday next, the 15th instant, at 3 p.m., at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon, a report of which will appear in our next.

A petition for a Mark Lodge to be called the Simon de Montfort, and held at Leicester, has been sent to the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters. The Mayor of Leicester is W.M. designate, Bro. H. T. Bobart, S.W., and Bro. John Thorpe, one of the most active and zealous Masons in the Province of Leicestershire and Rutland, J.W. A movable meeting of the Mark Grand Lodge will be held in Leicester in the autumn, when it is expected the new lodge will be constituted.

RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.—The Grand Council of Scotland will be inaugurated at Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, at 5 p.m., on the 21st instant, by the officers of the Grand Council of England. Col. Francis Burdett will be the first G. Sovereign and Major Hamilton Ramsay of Garion (S.G.W. Grand Lodge of Scotland) the first G. Viceroy. The banquet will take place at the Windsor Hotel, and many visitors are expected to attend.

RE-OPENING OF CHESTER CATHEDRAL.—Dean Howson, in a letter, says that he is much gratified and encouraged by the warm interest generally taken in the re-opening services of the cathedral on the completion of the restoration of the choir. The dean believes that it would be found on the 8th, the day fixed for the re-opening service, that all parts of the restorative and decorative work in the choir were paid for, except such as can without doubt be met by special funds or by the offerings of the year. He adds that £3000 has recently been subscribed by the Chapter of Chester to the general restoration fund, in addition to the £2000 which they subscribed in 1868. It will be remembered that the Freemasons' of the Province contributed a handsome sedilia, and that the Masonic brethren in West Lancashire are following their example by another gift.

Professor Mommsen has concluded an archaeological tour in Italy. The "Daily News" hears that "He has been everywhere welcomed heartily. The Mayors of the towns met him at the gates, as the Dutch Burgomasters met Erasmus. Professor Mommsen has made important researches on the Neapolitan territory and in the Marches. At Jesi he was entertained at a public banquet. A toast to the alliance of Italy and Germany against Theocracy was rapturously honoured."

The "Whitehall Review" has reason to believe that so good has been the administration of the Parliamentary grant for the Prince of Wales's tour in India, that a small balance will be paid back to the Exchequer. This satisfactory result has been obtained, although the presents of the Prince have been equal in value to those of the native princes.

In consideration of the special and valuable services rendered by Lieutenant Cameron to the cause of science in his recent successful journey of exploration in Africa he has been promoted to the rank of commander in Her Majesty's fleet, such promotion being special and in excess of the authorised numbers.

The Earl of Dartmouth has offered to the Commissioners of West Bromwich, near Birmingham, fifty acres of land for a public park, on a lease for ninety-nine years, at the nominal rent of £1 per annum.

COLLEGE FOR NAVAL CADETS.—The committee appointed by the Admiralty to consider the question of a site for a college for naval cadets are prepared to receive offers of sites for the purpose, accessible by sea or tidal waters. Communications to be addressed to the Secretary, Naval Cadet College Committee, Admiralty, Whitehall, S.W.

ONE YEAR'S "CONSCIENCE MONEY."—An official document has been issued showing that in the year ended the 31st March last the sums remitted to the Chancellor of the Exchequer amounted to £2603 19s 11d.

LEGEND OF STRASBURG CATHEDRAL.

There is a quaint old tradition which comes down to us from ancient times, tottering under its load of age, and replete with the superstitions of the past.

On the borders of Alsatia there lies a great city, dating its foundation far back to the old Roman days, and rich in those architectural relics of the olden time which are ever so dear to the antiquary.

"Quaint offspring of centurial years, the town of Strasburg stands,
Rich in the lore of a mighty past, in legend and in story;
Rich in high-hearted men, honest sons—a country's truest glory;
Rich in its old cathedral church, with clustering ivy spread,
The Santa Crece of the land, where sleep her noble dead."

The story runs that once in every twelvemonth, on the eve of St. John, when the quiet burghers of that ancient city are wrapt in peaceful slumber, and when the hour of midnight clangs out from the loud-tongued bell which hangs in the old cathedral tower, the spirits of the stonemasons by whose hands the sacred pile was erected arise from the tomb, and once more re-visit the scene of their former labours. Up from the dark and gloomy crypt, along the columned aisles and vast dim nave, across the white gleaming marble floor, chequered with ghostly shadows that stream from picture oriel, past the stone-carved statues that keep watch and ward with their swords and sceptres, comes the long train of death-like, night-wandering shadows. Clad in their quaint old mediæval costume, the Masters, with their compasses and rules; the Craftsmen, with their plumbs and squares and levels; the Apprentice lads, with their heavy gavel; all silently greeting their companions, old and dear, with time-honoured salute and token, as of yore.

While the last note of the deep-mouthed bell is still trembling in the air, reverberating from arch to arch, and dying away amid the frozen music of the tracery roof, forth from the western portal streams the shadowy throng. Thrice around the sacred edifice winds the waving, floating train, old Erwin himself leading the way, while far up above, above the sculptured saints who look down upon the sleeping city—up where, at the very summit of the feathery, fairy-like spire, the image of the Queen of Heaven stands—there floats a cold, white-robed female form, the fair Sabina, old Erwin's well-beloved child, whose fair hands aided him in his work. In her right hand a mallet, in her left a chisel, she flits among the sculptured lacework of the noble spires like the Genius of Masonry. With the faint blush of dawn the vision fades, the phantoms dissolve, and the old Masons return to their sepulchre, there to rest until the next St. John's-eve shall summon them to earth.

Ex-Mayor Bernard, of Montreal, was buried July 15th, with Masonic honours. The Grand Lodges of Quebec and Canada and eighteen city Lodges were represented. The Mayor, the City Council, and other municipal officers attended in a body.

Bro. H. A. M. Henderson, editor of the Kentucky "Freemason," delivered a fine St. John's Day address, on June 24th, before the Brethren of Marshall Lodge, No. 427 (Bro. T. J. Bourne, W. M.), at Port Henry, Ky. The procession was a large one, headed by two bands of music. About two thousand persons were in attendance.

An American brother recently attempted to visit an English lodge, and was refused an examination because he had no certificate. He writes to the London "Freemason" as though his case was one of great hardship, but we can't see it. Every brother that travels abroad should possess a Grand Lodge certificate. It would not be a bad rule to require every brother, when outside of his own jurisdiction in the United States, also to possess and exhibit one, when seeking admittance into a lodge in another jurisdiction. Some of our Grand Lodges do require it.—"Keystone."

Something like a panic prevailed at the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, on Wednesday, in consequence of the dry grass in the Marsh Meadows being on fire in the immediate proximity of the large magazine known as No. 5, in which is accumulated a vast store of gunpowder. The fire spread rapidly, and cleared off five acres of grass, but a large force of police hastened to the spot, and there being two fire engines kept at the magazine, and plenty of water obtainable, the flames were extinguished before they reached the building.

Popular education is steadily gaining strength in Egypt. The number of children receiving public instruction has increased from 3,000, in the time of Mahommed Ali, to 60,000 in the first years of the period of 1863-72. The obstacles in the way of public education are, however, great and exceptional in Egypt. Among the 89,893 scholars now in the primary schools there are only 3,018 girls, all, or most of whom, are of non-Mussulman families. Thus one-half of the population of Egypt is, or has been until now, beyond the influence of education, it being one of the dogmas of the East that women are not worthy of the blessings of education. The Khedive proposes to establish, at Alexandria, a great public school for children of all nationalities, at an expense of 65,000 dolls.

Mr. F. Cavill, the well-known professional swimmer, has now fully announced his intention of attempting to emulate the feat of Captain Webb in swimming across the Channel from Dover to Calais, and has fixed the 12th inst. as the day on which he will start should the weather prove favourable.

AN ANCIENT MASONIC CHARTER.

At the session of the General Assembly of Rhode Island, held June, 1758, was passed an act entitled "An act raising two thousand four hundred dollars, for and towards the erecting a public edifice in the town of Newport, to be called and known by the name of Masons' Hall." The preamble recites that—

"Whereas, Robert Jenkins, jun., Master, John Mawdsley, and Samuel Brenton, Wardens, and the chief of the Society of the Free and Accepted Masons in the town of Newport, with sundry other persons inhabitants of this colony, preferred a petition and represented unto this Assembly, that as the said town hath no building in it sufficiently large and commodious for public entertainments, where the Governor and Council, or General Assembly may occasionally meet and dine, and where any of his Majesty's Governors or other officers may be publicly entertained, as they pass through this Government, they, the said society, have agreed to set on foot and erect a commodious building to be called and known by the name of Masons' Hall, for the use of the said society and purposes aforesaid; but finding their funds to be unequal to the expense, they prayed that a lottery may be opened and set up, in order to raise twenty-four hundred dollars for carrying on and completing the proposed building."

The act then provides for the raising by lottery of the sum above named; gives the scheme of the lottery, which is to "consist of four thousand tickets at four dollars each; whereof one thousand one hundred and thirteen shall be fortunate, without any deduction." The prizes range from one of 1000 dolls. to 1000 of 8 dolls each, making the total value of the "fortunate" prizes 13,600 dolls. Managers are appointed to conduct the lottery, who are to be under oath, and give security to the General Treasurer for the payment of the prizes, &c. "Said building when erected shall serve and be improved for the celebration of all public feasts and entertainments as they may occasionally happen, in which the Governor and Council of this Colony or the General Assembly thereof may be concerned, but for no other use or purpose whatsoever without the consent or leave of the said Society of Free and Accepted Masons must be first had and obtained."

After granting authority to purchase and hold a suitable lot of land on which to build the Hall, the act goes on to provide—

"And forasmuch as it may happen that disputes and controversies may arise from time to time, as well about the building and repairing of the said House, as the regulation and government thereof, it is necessary that the said Society have a name in law. Be it therefore further enacted, that the society aforesaid be, and are hereby incorporated, body politic in fact and name by the name of the Master, Wardens, and Society of Free and Accepted Masons in the town of Newport, and by the same name they and their successors shall and may be persons able and capable in law, to sue and be sued, to plea and be impleaded, to answer and be answered unto, to defend and be defended against, in all and singular suits, quarrels, matters, actions, and things, of what kind or nature soever, touching and concerning the building aforesaid."

This, we believe, is the earliest recognition of the fraternity in the records of the State; and this civil charter is the most ancient of any granted in this country, so far as our knowledge extends. Can any correspondent throw further light on this matter?

Gov. Arnold, in his history of Rhode Island, says that in the year in which the charter above named was granted, "the first public celebration of the Order that was ever held in Rhode Island, took place with religious services at Trinity Church."—"Freemasons' Repository."

THE TEMPLE AT JERUSALEM.

In a recent number of the "Contemporary Review," we find the following remarks on the Temple at Jerusalem:—

It is, probably, no exaggeration to say that more has been written regarding the Temple at Jerusalem in respect to any other building in the known world, and unfortunately, it may be added, more that is wild and utterly untenable, this last peculiarity arises from several causes: First, because all the earlier restorers were entirely ignorant of the ground on which the temple stood, and of the local circumstances that governed its construction. It was not, indeed, till the spot was surveyed by the late Mr. Catherwood, in 1833, and his plan published on a sufficient scale in 1862, that restorers had such a map of the ground as would allow them to adjust measurements to a locality with anything like certainty. Though that plan was wonderfully perfect, considering the circumstances under which it was made, it has since been superseded by that made under direction of Capt. (now Major) Wilson, R.E., in 1864-5, which leaves nothing to be desired in this respect. It can be depended upon almost by inches, and has been engraved on a scale sufficiently large for all topographical, if not quite for all architectural, purposes. A second cause of the wildness of the restorations hitherto attempted is, that the Temple at Jerusalem was quite unique. Not only had the Jews only this one temple, but so far as we know, it was entirely of their own invention, and utterly unlike the temples of any of the nations around them. It certainly, at all events, was quite unlike the temples of the Egyptians or Greeks. It may have had affinities with those of the Babylonians and Assyrians; but notwithstanding all that has been done of late years, we know so very little of what the temples of Mesopotamia were, that these hardly help us, even at this day, and the assumption that this might be so was of no use whatever to earlier restorers. Having thus no analogies to guide them, and, as it is literally and absolutely true that not one stone remains on another of the Temple, properly so called, it is not to be wondered that early restorers failed to realize the truth, and indulged in fancies which were utterly untenable. In nine cases out of ten their object was to produce a building that would be worthy of Solomon in all his glory, rather than a sober reproduction of the very moderate building described in the Bible.

THE SPIRIT OF MASONRY.

M. W. Bro. Charles Griswold in concluding his annual address to the Grand Lodge of Minnesota, uses the following touching language:

"Our journey is so very brief, and will so soon be closed, that alienations are sadly out of place; and the precious moments that are left should be faithfully improved in doing good, in strengthening the ties of Brotherly love, and enlarging our mantle of charity. No one who has any manhood about him finds it a difficult matter to think kindly of the departed. With the living we may have our serious differences and sharp cutting words; but somehow, as we come into the presence of the dead, we feel that all animosities are out of place, and all contentions must be for ever dropped. We will gently bear the cold clay to its final resting place; we will utter kind words of sympathy to the bereaved; whatever there was good or beautiful in the life of the departed, we will speak of it then, and in its absence hold our peace. To strike a dead man seems so unnatural, so mean, so cowardly, that we cannot find it in our hearts to do it. All this is as it should be. But if we would only carry the same spirit into all our relations and intercourse with the living, how much better it would be. If, when we are about to utter a hasty word, or to do the unkind act, or pronounce the harsh, uncharitable judgment, we would for a moment stop and ask ourselves the question, 'What about all this if my brother should die to-day?' 'Are my relations with him now what I would wish them to be then?' If we would but follow this course, from how much sorrow and bitter self-accusation we might be saved! And then its effects upon others? With this spirit carried out, how many of the bitter feuds that now rend society would come to an end; aye, would be nipped in the bud, and so never have an existence? How many that are crushed down would be raised up? How it would smooth down the frictions of life, and oil all the wheels of society? How many hearts are aching to-day because of wrong done by brother to brother, in the midst of which death has entered, and the opportunity for reconciliation has gone for ever? I find this sentiment beautifully expressed in verse:

"If I should die to-night!
My friends would look upon my quiet face
Before they laid it in its resting place,
And deem that death had left it almost fair;
And laying snow-white flowers against my hair
Would smooth it down in tearful tenderness;
And fold my hands with lingering caress—
Poor hand—so empty so cold to-night!

"If I should die to-night!
My friends would call to mind with loving thought
Some kindly deed the icy hand had wrought,
Some gentle words the frozen lips had said,
Errands, on which the willing feet had sped;
The memory of my selfishness and pride—
My hasty words would all be put aside,
And so I should be loved and mourned to-night

"If I should die to-night;
Even hearts estranged would turn once more to me.
Recalling other days remorsefully;
The eyes that chill me with averted glance
Would look upon me as of yore, perchance.
And often in the old familiar way—
For who can war with dumb unconscious clay?
And so I might rest forgiven all to-night!

"Oh, friends! I pray to-night!
Keep not your kisses for my dead, cold brow,
The way is lonely; let me feel them now,
Think gently of me, for I am travel-worn;
My faltering feet are pierced with many a thorn.
Forgive! Oh, hearts estranged, forgive, I plead—
When dreamless rest is mine I shall need
The tenderness for which I long to-night."

VALUE OF BOOKS.—So precious were books in the Dark Ages that gifts are recorded as acts of signal generosity, deserving perpetual remembrance. In 690 a King of Northumberland gave 100 acres of land for one book containing a history of the world. A Countess of Anjou gave 200 sheep and a large parcel of rich furs for a volume of homilies; 120 crowns were given for a single book of Livy; 100 crowns of gold for a Concordance, and 40 crowns for a satirical poem called the "Romance of the Rose." In 1720 a Latin Bible was valued at £30, at a time when two arches of London Bridge were built for less money; at a time, too, when the wages of a labourer were only three half-pence per day, and when, of course it would have cost such a man 15 years of labour to buy a Bible, which, after all, being in Latin, he could not have read.

RAILWAY PASSENGER DUTY.—It is shown by a public document just issued that in the year ended the 31st March last the railway passenger duty amounted to £736,369 6s. 2½d.

"London Society" for August contains, among other interesting matter, a story by Bro. Angelo J. Lewis, entitled "My First Client," with a page illustration.

THE LAST PAPAL ENCYCLICAL.

We print in another column a portion of a Papal Encyclical, with reference to the "Brazilian difficulty." We much regret that Bro. Hubert did not give it us "in pleno," as we always think it best to have the "ipsissima verba" before us of all documents which we deal with critically or controversially. Indeed, if any good reader will send us the "Univers" of July 24th, we shall be happy to reproduce the missing portion, and fill up these regrettable "lacunæ" in a public document of some little importance in the controversy before us. But the portion of the Encyclical now presented to the notice of the public contains quite enough to enlighten and alarm, to edify and astound. In the first place, we must notice the remarkable absence of punctuation, a weakness very Papaline. It has been said that ladies' letters are sometimes, not strong in punctuation, but without entering into such a delicate discussion, we may be permitted to observe that a more old-womanish missive we never perused. In the next place, the theory that the Freemasons have surreptitiously joined Christian confraternities, or insinuated themselves among the pious in Brazil is a barefaced—well never mind—let us say a "taradiddle," and too contemptible and puerile to notice. The controversy began by the closing the churches and denying all rites to Freemasons, as Freemasons, in Brazil by those peace-loving and true-hearted shepherds of the church, the Bishop of Olinda and the Bishop of Para. In fact, we almost wonder that Monsignore D' Olinda has not before this been made a Cardinal. In the next place, we must be struck with the assumption of supreme and universal authority, which the kind-hearted old Pope claims, though, as Mr. Gladstone remarks, his language is about as acrid and intolerant, as it is possible for the human mind to conceive, or human language to express. It is not only Roman Catholic Freemasons, but all Freemasons, everywhere, in Europe, America, in Africa, in Asia, "le monde tout entier," that Pio Nono generally anathematizes. Now we have always felt, and feel still, that this is a great impertinence. What business has the Pope of Rome to curse us, who are not Roman Catholics at all? What right has he to say anything at all against those Freemasons who are not of his own fold? If he likes to curse Roman Catholic Freemasons, and they like to be cursed, let him do so by all means, that is another affair; it is a matter of taste, and it is alone for them to settle and complain of. We have nothing to do with it. But we have a right to protest against our names being mixed up in all this "cursing and swearing," though practically the thing itself is not of much importance. Like Balaam's curse of old, such anathemata are rather a compliment and a blessing, as they prove incontestably that the Romish Church finds us in some way opposed to its childish claims of universal sovereignty. Indeed, the most mournful feature of the whole case, "selon nous," as the French say, is this setting the Church above the law of the land in matters, too, purely within the cognisance of the law, and the law alone. In one sense all religious people, except pure Erastians hold that the spiritual power, in things spiritual, is above the temporal power, but only in things spiritual. As regards things temporal, human law and social arrangements, the acts of the legislature, the warning still holds good, "Let every soul be subject to the higher powers, for there is no power but of God, the powers that be are ordained of God." We are still to be "subject not only for wrath but conscience sake," and no true Christian, and no sincere patriot, and no loyal Freemason will ever resist or defy the law of the land in which he resides, or set himself above the decrees of the supreme national authority. We may not always agree with this or that enactment, of this or that particular legislature, but we are to seek the alteration or removal of it by legal and constitutional means, but while it is law it can claim from us, and ought to claim from us all, obedience and respect. But the Ultramontane gives to the Pope a superior authority of appeal, alteration, overruling. "Sec volo sec jubeo" is the motto inscribed on the papal curule chair. Such a principle is in direct antagonism to all constitutional government, all systems of judicature, all laws human—nay, we will add all laws divine. It is in fact the old claim of "dispensing power" in its most offensive form. It is mournful to think into what a struggle Ultramontanism has precipitated the Romish Church. It is simply a struggle now between hyper-spiritualism and legality, between the ridiculous claims of an effete domination and the peaceful onward march of civilization and order, rational authority and national law, nay, more, it is practically "Roma contra mundum," Rome against the world, and that on an untenable and absurd hypothesis of universal sovereignty, of the hopeless pretensions of the darkest days of interdict and excommunication, of a tyrannical spiritual power, and of a debasing clerical intolerance. In such a contest Rome must fail and fall.

MASONS' MARKS.

A communication in our able contemporary, the "Builder," which we printed last week, raises many important questions, and suggests several very interesting considerations for all who take an interest in Masonic archæology. And be it noted, we are now talking of "Masons' Marks" pur et simple, not of the "Mark Degree," which, though no doubt a very interesting grade in itself, has, as far as we are aware, no historical status before the end of the last century. If the theory of the "Builder" be correct, that certain members of the old operative lodges were deputed to "mark" the stones, (not at all an improbable theory, by the way), we have an explanation of the uniformity of marks which has struck all who have studied the subject. To Mr. George Godwin, the well-known architect, must be conceded the merit of having first called attention to this most important subject, though in justice to the memory of our lamented Bro. E. W. Shaw, of the Philanthropic Lodge, Leeds, and the Pentalfa, Bradford, we should never forget that he devoted a "Masonic life time to the acquisition and study of Masons' Marks." His invaluable collections, though we believe still extant, are at present unfortunately inaccessible. It is very remarkable that the recent theory of the "Builder" is nearly the same as Bro. Shaw's, propounded at Sheffield, that the marks are clearly resolvable into special marks, belonging to separate grades. There were even what he termed "blind marks," to show that the stone was wrought by members not of the guild. Some of us may remember that Mr. Street, in his account of the churches in Spain, seems to contend that you could trace the stones worked by different members of one family by special additional distinguishing marks. We believe that when the stones were wrought, the "mark man" marked the stone for the workmen, and that each man would be paid for his passed and marked work. And we will go further, and say, no doubt, in the operative guilds, each member had his mark, and if any used the same mark there was a special distinguishing token or addition, which we sometimes see in the old walls of ecclesiastical and other buildings, not otherwise easy to account for. Upon one point, and a very important one, in the communication of our respected contemporary, we should like a little more information. It is there stated that "many of these lodges" of operative Freemasons "had charters and privileges granted to them by various kings and emperors." We have often seen this and read this, and, though we fully believe it, we wish much that we could light upon such a Masonic charter, it would be worth a great many eloquent dissertations. So far any such charter has eluded all research. The Glasgow Charter, which created and confirmed the sodality to collect subscriptions and rebuild the Cathedral, is, so far, the only extant one. Bishop Lucy is said to have formed a confraternity at Winchester, by Milner, but we are not aware that the original charter exists. We believe, as indeed Depping's invaluable publication seems to prove, that King Charles Martel gave certain privileges, and probably a charter, to the Parisian operative Masons, and also that Albanus probably obtained a charter, and that Athelstan incorporated the Masonic guilds. But these two latter statements, though both probable and possible, still require historical proof. King Athelstan undoubtedly is credited with having granted Charters to various guilds, and there is no a priori reason why our Masonic tradition should not be historically true. Charlemagne and Hugh Capet, probably also did so, as the "Builder" says, but still, strictly speaking, not by any historical evidence, or extant charter that we are aware of, and though as we said, it is highly probable, that is all we can say, as probability is one thing, and proof is another. It is only a probability so far; it is not proven. We should be glad of distinct authority for the statement, that Pope Nicholas III. granted the Freemasons a charter in 1278, and that John de Medicis, in 1445, became Grand Master of Freemasons. Where is this stated? we would respectfully ask, and should be obliged to our contemporary if he would kindly point out to us. Such a statement as this, if made by any competent historian, ought to be proveable, and of it proof must be forthcoming. We do not remember to have seen the statement before, but it is nevertheless not at all an improbable one. That Leo X. as well as Clement VIII. were Grand Masters of the Order, we confess, we doubt very much indeed, and should be deeply obliged to our friendly contemporary, if he can throw a little light on such statements, as if they are true, they are most important, and such facts are worth a great many fictions indeed. We are aware that some of the German writers have talked of Papal Bulls recognizing the "Steinmetzen," and our own Dugdale appears to have had the same idea, but, so far, we have never been able to find any valid authority for any such statement. We are inclined ourselves to believe that such Bulls were issued from Rome at a time when the building art was purely under the control of the religious fraternities and the Monastic orders. But still, we should like to see the proof. A little Charter of three or four lines would be worth a very great deal, indeed, a Bull would be invaluable for once, and we indulge the hope that such will yet turn up, when some future Hughan will write the history of our great Order. We thank the "Builder" for one of the most interesting and suggestive extracts "de rebus Latomicis" we have for some time been permitted to read.

MASONIC PROFESSION AND PRACTICE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am only a young Mason, but although this communication at first sight may appear to have a rebellious tendency, I am quite prepared to bow to superior judgment, wisdom, and experience. As a matter of fact, I write mainly for information, and if I appear harsh in some of my criticisms I must plead a wrong comprehension of Masonic matters and an erroneous impression as to the object of Masonry in general.

I was initiated into the Masonic brotherhood some years since in a provincial lodge composed of educated men of perhaps rather a Bohemian turn of mind, and we met regularly every month all the year round. Although our subscription fee would have fully warranted such a procedure we did not have the customary banquet after lodge, and only allowed ourselves this feast on the night of installation. On ordinary lodge nights we sat down to a plain supper, after which a glass and song passed away the time until we broke up.

You can imagine by this that our lodge fund in hand was usually considerable, while the allowances made to indigent brethren and the remittances of subscriptions to those who could no longer afford to pay it were numerous. Such appeared to me as carrying out some of the precepts upon which the practice of Freemasonry is founded.

I now no longer belong to that lodge. I left the neighbourhood and came to London. Soon afterwards I gained admittance as a joining member to a metropolitan lodge, which I now belong to. In point of subscription it is equal to my mother lodge, but in point of extravagance it vastly exceeds the latter. We meet six times in the year, and have a champagne banquet at each meeting. If I take a visitor with me I pay £1 ros. for him, and the joke is that the lodge prides itself upon its hospitality. The result is that almost upon every occasion when assistance has to be given that cannot be easily refused, a collection has to be made in the lodge.

Having stated these facts, I wish shortly to refer to what my idea of Freemasonry is, and I trust that if I am wrong some generous brother may quickly put me right.

One of the first precepts inculcated in the minds of young Masons is charity. Indeed, from the ritual and traditions of Masonry I conceive the whole fabric to be based on this virtue. The next is temperance. Now, let us take the majority of our English lodges, and consider what portion of their funds goes to charity. Many meet six times in the year, their subscription is five guineas; they eat six banquets, and consume on an average, besides solid food of the most recherché description and cigars, at least two-thirds of a bottle of hock and half a bottle of champagne per head. Added to these expenses are those incidental to the holding and keeping of the lodge, printing circulars, &c. The balance cannot, I opine, be large, and charity must fare but ill. I have known indigent brethren sit at the doors of these lodges anxiously waiting the result of what was being discussed inside, and as the other brethren passed by him into the lodge hardly a civil word of recognition would be granted to him who once, when he had money was a welcome brother. I have not witnessed much charity in connection with Freemasonry in England. True, we have our girls' and boys' schools, and other institutions; but when I look at the number of applicants for shelter yearly turned away from their doors through lack of a sufficient number of votes, or, in other words, influence, I cannot but think that the enormous sums now squandered in so-called "refreshment" might be made to find an asylum for all these poor people. Are not all Masons equal? I was told so when I first joined, but I have got to learn that there are two grades of Masons, the one rich, the other poor. Witness the Tyler of any lodge in England, and see the treatment he gets in a good many. Hustled hither and thither, and often treated like a dog more than a human being. Is he a "brother to a king?"

Another impression I received when I first joined was that I was at liberty to enter any lodge of Freemasons throughout the world, on giving proper satisfaction of my worthiness, and joining in their meeting. Now, however, I imagine a very cold reception would be given to any visitor to an English lodge who had not distinctly been invited by a member of the lodge itself.

I hope I am wrong in this—that these impressions have been formed through want of experience; and, awaiting better instruction,

I remain, fraternally yours,

ZAPHON.

HAPHAZARD VOTING.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir,—

I read with pleasure your opinion that the present system of voting for charities was not haphazard, &c. I think you may like the enclosed little story, which has been lately published as a refutation of one sent out by the so-called Voting Reform Association. They had better cast out the beam from their own eye before they try to take the mote from their brother's.

Yours, almost a Freemason,

DIANA W. PALBY.

Reviews.

"THE HISTORY OF MASONRY." By BRO. G. F. FORT. Trübner & Co.

We have already alluded to this interesting and valuable work, one of the most important contributions to Masonic history which has for some time appeared, and so has our able Bro. W. J. Hughan, in befitting terms of encomium and approval. With a change of publishers, we are glad to recall its many merits to the attention and consideration of our readers, and we would say to all Masonic students everywhere, and we are quite sure that Bro. Hughan will concur in our remarks, that we know of no better modern Masonic work, or one more intensely interesting in itself to the Masonic student and archaeologist. To say that we agree in every position our able brother has taken up would not be the case, but we can equally recognize the value of his work and the thoroughly scholarly way in which he has put together both his arguments and his evidences. The History of Freemasonry is so wide and so important that there is and must ever be many allowable differences respecting it, and it is impossible that we should all at once arrive at an uniform appreciation of the abstract or concrete value of certain portions of general evidence, &c. Indeed, it is not too much to say that many of our theories and suggestions to-day are more or less tentative, as it is only quite recently, in this country at any rate, within the actual memory of some of us, that we have set ourselves critically to analyze the statements and proofs of our Masonic historians. Oliver, despite some great merits and a remarkable "copia verbum," accepted far too hastily previous crude statements of inaccurate Masonic writers, and was himself, despite his undoubted ability, industry, and zeal, somewhat promiscuous in assertion and careless as to reliable authority. Anderson and Preston previously did not profess to be critical; they simply condensed and methodised the confused and chaotic mass of legends and traditions. They reproduced, in fact, the guild version of Masonic history as it was, modernised to suit the requirements of the Order and the intelligence of their readers. They, too, had their merits, and we should be most ungrateful and unwise if we on "ex post facto" grounds ever ignored their many claims to our Masonic consideration and perusal. The German Freemasons have preceded us, "more Germanorum," in critical analysis, and patient study of Masonic legend and evidences by nearly a century, but we venture to think, that in the long run it will be found, that the labours of our English Masonic students, including Bro. D. Murray Lyon, have done a very great deal indeed, and in a very short time, towards a correct appreciation and enlightened study of Masonic history and archaeology. But it is still quite clear that we are only, so to say, beginning the enquiry. Our one great danger still lies from hasty induction, and an impatient realism, without making due allowance for the necessarily slow process of the eradication of error and the assertion of truth. Still the "outcome" of the last few years is very encouraging in every respect, and though the history of Freemasonry has yet to be written, we hail all such readable works as Bro. Fort's as most valuable contributions to a common end, and steps, decided steps in the right direction.

AN ENCYCLICAL.

The "Chaine d'Union" for July gives us a portion of an Encyclical taken from the "Univers," of July 24th, which, as Bro. Hubert truly observes, will probably awaken the religious struggle in Brazil, and render it more bitter than ever.

"L'Univers," Monday, July 24th, 1876. Rome.—To our Venerable brethren the Bishops of Brazil, Pio IX. Pope: You know, Venerable brethren, the troubles which have arisen in Brazil in these "latter days" by the act of those who, being affiliated to the Masonic sect, have insinuated themselves into the brotherhoods of pious Christians, and who, especially in the dioceses of Olinda and of Belem de Para, have brought about a grave conflict, have been for our soul the subject of the most bitter sorrow, for we could not without grief realize how widely the plague of this pernicious sect was spread abroad by the corruption of those fraternities, so much so, that the associations which have been formed to develop among the faithful a sincere spirit of faith and purity were reduced to a condition most miserable in the consequence of the mournful harvest of discord, of which they were only the germs.

Therefore we have judged that we ought without delay to remedy this evil.

This is the reason, Venerable Brother of Olinda, why by letter of date May 29th, 1873, which we addressed you, we raised our voice against this deplorable perversity introduced into the Christian confraternities. Nevertheless, using gentleness and clemency towards the members of the Masonic sect who might be deceived or misled away by delusion, we suspended for a convenient season the proviso of the censures which they had incurred, in order that they might use our goodness to desert their errors, and to retire from condemnable reunions in which they had been initiated. Further, Venerable Brother of Olinda, we commanded you, that having passed this lapse of time, if they had not come to repentance, you should suppress and declare suppressed the said fraternities, in order to re-establish them in conformity to the motive of their foundation by the enrolment of new members absolutely free from the Masonic stain.

Further, when in our Encyclical letter of November 1st, 1873, addressed to the Bishops of the Catholic world, we endeavoured to warn all the faithful against the artifices and snares of the sectaries, by publicly recalling on that occasion the pontifical constitutions issued against their perverse associations, we declared that these constitutions reached not only the Masonic societies in Europe, but also all those in America, and in the other countries of the entire world.

What then has not been our astonishment? when we learnt that, drawing a pretext from the fact that to facilitate the salvation of the culpable we had by our authority raised the interdiction by which certain churches and confraternities were smitten, they have dared to spread about the report in public, that the absolute condemnation did not apply to the Masonic society existing in those latitudes, and that in consequence their Sectaries could in safety of conscience form part of the fraternities of pious Christians.

Now to what point such obligations are distant from the sentiments of our spirit and truth.—29th April. Pius IX., Pope.

A MASONIC ADDRESS.

In the Chaine d'Union for July we find the following address, or rather, an extract from an address, delivered at a meeting of the Lodge Union, Martinique, January, 1876:

My much loved brethren,—

The brilliancy of a fête does not suspend our labours. On the contrary, never have they so much grandeur, so much sublime simplicity, as when joyous harmonies mingle themselves with our accents, at times very sad, always bitter, when we move that human clay which surrounds us all. The heart, in order to console itself, requires to hear the hymn of hope intermingled with the cry of despair. For it is mournful, at the same time that it is sublime, the work which we accomplish. Fraternity alone give us the strength to follow it, after having had the benevolence to undertake it. So many hatreds explode around our steps. Oh! sad blindness. When, then, will the world render justice to itself? It is in vain that our hearts separate themselves from all egotism, that we withdraw ourselves from paths frequented by the crowd, that we enter into our mysterious temple there to work—the calumnious accusations of our enemies follow us everywhere. And yet for whom do we work? For ourselves? No; for humanity. They will not even allow us the satisfaction of receiving its benedictions.

I hear laughter sometimes in the profane world when we talk of our labours. Happy yet, if I hear nothing but laughter. Alas, they urge the speech of malice against very far. When our persecutors wish to pour out upon us the black venom of calumny, they reveal to astonished peoples the secrets that we keep hid in our infected lodges. The Roman Saturnalia are as nothing compared with the ignoble debauchery to which we devote ourselves. Our Temples are receptacles of corruption, and ourselves—I stop. There are men more contemptible than we are, and these are they who are our calumniators, because they are ignorant of our secret, which exasperates them. But they would be undeceived, nevertheless, if only they passed the threshold of a lodge. They would see us labour, labour not merely for ourselves, but for humanity. Oh, then without doubt they would render us justice. But, I hear those who exclaim, what do you do then for humanity? At what do you labour? For what? To propagate the light by inculcating in the spirit of our brethren important truths. By making them love virtue and hate vice. We labour to succour many, to heal the social wounds which egotism has opened out, to aid the wretched whom society repels because they suffer. [We think this is unfair on society.—Ed.] We labour to restore the world to its primitive organization without destroying the progress of ages. [This phrase is rather vague and a little questionable—and is too impractical for English minds, as in truth it is difficult to understand exactly what it means]. We believe in fraternity, we believe it is more than possible, we believe it to be practicable, and we wish that it may be spread on the earth. Behold, this is what we labour for. Our triumph will be the rain of fire which will burn up all social heresies.

The path of life is between two eternities. God marks out for each the place which it ought to occupy, notwithstanding all the difficulties of the soil. This place extends in length from one eternity to the other. It has limits on the right and on the left; and these limits are other places which many human creatures cultivate. The labour of each is marked there according to the duration which God assigns to his existence. Therefore, the daily task is more or less long according as we live for a longer or a shorter time. He whom death mows down in the flower of youth ought to labour twice as much as the person whom the seasons of old age are to whiten. For all men are obliged to give the same quantity of labour to the Master of the road. Sorrow, therefore, for him who labours not, for the day reaches its end, and time marches forward while he amuses himself. Soon the clock sounds the commencement of another day, and a voice cries to him "March!" It is time which passes and draws him after it. So that at the end of each day he discovers Divine hope. At length he arrives at the end of the road, and at the call of eternity he finds an inexorable judge, who asks of him an account of his labours. Terrible moment. What can a human being say to God, whose life has been useless to himself and his brethren?

There are those who pass through the short years of their existence plunged in a sort of blindness, which removes them to a distance from all labour, those efforts which they owe to humanity they waste and spend in pleasures and in orgies, while there are others who lose their health in obstinate toil, without thinking in their egotism to do anything for humanity. Strange aberration of our spiritual nature. It is to repair the evil which they do to society; it is to labour for them, that Freemasonry has been created, in order that ingratitude and egotism may find in the balance of God the counterpoise of charity.

For labour does not consist only in the activity of the movement which is going on in all parts of the globe.

That is an effort of matter which seeks its good each day in multiplying itself. This labour is the speculation of one part of the human race. As regards the other, it is fortune which harnesses to its chariot the miserable beings it has formed. To find his bread the unfortunate sells his liberty, his family, and his rights, of which he does not know how to make use. Certainly this labour has its good side, for without it we should all perish, but it does not answer to the end of God, for all men are not linked to it. [All this is somewhat questionable teaching.—Ed.]

There is another who entirely understands humanity in all its benefits, that is the heart which inspires, that is the spirit which directs. He studies nature continually, in order there to find a solace for all our miseries. [We should rather say religion.—Ed.] He scatters the seeds of truth in the soul, that there they may grow and bring forth fruit. He calls to the share of his favours all classes of society. He goes to the very bottom of the abysses to sound them, to measure them, in order to preserve us from them. He instructs us, he guides us. Where he carries his torch error vanishes, virtue appears. This labour, I say, is that of intelligence, it is that of philosophy, and also of Freemasonry.

At the close of night, when Aurora mounts in the firmament, it is beautiful to note the stars at once grow pale, then be eclipsed at the first ray of the sun. We shall see this spectacle sooner or later on the earth, with the exception that men will be the stars and the sun will be Freemasonry, which will dissipate the clouds of ignorance sown with lying clearness. Then each man who will come to shelter himself in our lodges will enlarge his circle. This is not an illusion. Our ideas, our principles, our doctrine, all that mysterious assemblage which surrounds us, give force and life to our labour. Already we make giant strides in the spirit of peoples. What will it be then when they all understand the work to which we desire to associate them? Already men are less timid because they begin to understand. What will it be then when they thoroughly understand?

Up, up, my brethren, let us go to work. Light! light! Let us not concentrate its rays. Let us spread it on the great social mass as a seed of life, as a benefit, as a restitution of the privileged to those whom misery has sacrificed.

In order to render all more worthy of understanding us let us instruct them, let us develop their intelligence. The future of Freemasonry is brilliant. Sooner or later it will fashion man in its own way. But for that, it must not content itself with giving a material support to those who suffer, but it must give to them also the bread of life. Material charity does not regenerate it sometimes brutifies him who is its object by placing him too low in his own self-esteem. True charity, that of the heart and mind, takes him in his state of ignorance, draws him into the laboratory of literature, shows to him the crucible where science is formed, places him face to face with the present and the future, and says to him, "Depart, behold the end." For while we seek to give solace to some suffering beings, all our efforts ought to be turned to the good of entire humanity. Almsgiving is the bread of each day; let us give it with joy and happiness. Let us labour much to give it. But let us develop the understanding, and let us instruct it in regard of all things true. It is the mind which we ought to form, to knead, to renew, in the young generation. Let us make of literature and science an immense pedestal to humanity. We ought thus to drive back error into its caverns, and proclaim the coming of maturity by the light.

To the work, my brethren. The world will not understand us, it persecutes us, let it regard us laughing at us, let it calumniate us. One day it will know what we have done for it, and that day will be the day of its redemption and its happiness. Then will be the triumph of Freemasonry.

Warm plaudits greeted this "belle colonne d'Architecture," as the "Chaine d'Union" terms it, or, as we should say, this Masonic address.

We have done but scant justice to the original French; but our translation will give an idea of the force and spirit and eloquence of the oration. Some of our readers may think it a little hazy and sentimental, and so, to our practical English point of view, it is; and some of us might wish that we heard less of humanity and more of religion.

We cannot follow that train of thought which apparently regards Humanity and the World, as able to elevate themselves, to purify, to emancipate, and to redeem mankind. Into such philosophical speculations we cannot enter, for this reason, that we believe that it is to higher influences, and to Divine Power, that we are to look, and look alone for the present salvation and eventual restoration of man, kind. But the address we have translated has many fine thoughts and many happy passages. W.F.A.

DOWN WITH MASONRY.

By BRO. P.M. DARLEY, of Lodge 158, Sheerness.

This is not only a cry among fanatics at Chicago, but in every part of the globe where bigotry, superstition, and idolatry prevail, and the feeling is engendered by those making the greatest profession to carry out principles which distinguish Masonry. We here allude to religious professors of all creeds.

If religion teaches veneration for God, is it not a requirement that a candidate shall first make a confession of God, and bend with reverence to seek His blessing?

If brotherly love is binding on the religious professor, is it not equally so upon the Mason who, in addition to joining in an association for the promotion of reciprocal kindness and love, is also, as a rule, a promoter of the general good of society?

Down with Masonry! Yes, down with it, says selfishness, whose sepulchral cold heart lacks, like the Atheist, the warmth of Divine love, and who would sacrifice everything sacred to their silly dogmas; they would tear down a palace or temple dedicated to God, and confine us to the coffin contractions of their narrow prejudices.

They would sink us to the darkness and foggy atmosphere of semi-hermitage, stop the light of knowledge, and make us the victims of an accursed priestcraft as they are themselves, who have ever been ready to break asunder the most sacred bonds, destroy the harmony on earth, and try to reduce the pleasures of heaven to gratify their covetous tyranny—poor Spain to wit.

Up with Masonry, which promotes and does honour to the most generous human sentiments. Up with that which, like the most powerful magnet of the love of God, draws together—heart to heart—those who have borne the most bitter animosities and deadly hate. Up with that which lets in the benign light of heaven, not only to enlighten us into the mysteries of nature and science, but how we may best promote each other's interest and render ourselves most useful to the happiness of mankind. Up with Masonry, which teaches us to pour the balm of consolation to the sorrowing, to help the distressed, and lessen the aggregate of human misery. Up with Masonry, that teaches loyalty to governors and kings, in opposition to those whose influence has sapped the foundation of thrones, destroyed the peace and happiness of society, set nations at war with one another, and promoted sedition and rebellion, and multiplied the fatherless and widow.

Up with Masonry, that adds to the happiness of earth, and raises the bliss of heaven, that promotes peace among man, which must progress under the light of that bright morning star whose rising brings peace and salvation to the faithful and obedient of the human race.

Up with Masonry—let the lie be given to its enemies by the exemplary life of its members and the discountenance of any concomitants which may have a tendency to rob it of its fair fame, or in any way justify its accusers.

That it has been seriously injured in its usefulness by its surroundings is universally admitted, hence thousands who admire Masonry and who would do honour to the Craft have been compelled to disassociate from it. We re-echo, Up with Masonry, by maintaining its purely religious character; by the discountenance of its holy ceremonies being conducted at public houses, the recognized haunts of vice; by the discountenance of those orgies which do dishonour to God and the Craft.

I cannot conceive of the possibility of a due veneration for God, nor of genuine loyalty, followed by drunken revelry. Hence, in any agitation of the question I have been proud to see in various parts of the country lodges entirely separate from hotels, and as a lover of genuine Masonry I say with all my heart, with the most loyal attachment to His Royal Highness and the Grand Officers, that its moral status and prestige will be considerably raised, greater loyalty to the throne and honour to God will follow the removal of lodges from hotels and the discountenance of the drinking practices which have hitherto proved an open sore to this excellent institution.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF THE MEMORIAL TO ADMIRAL LORD JAMES DE SAUMAREZ, AT GUERNSEY.

After the lapse of nearly forty years, Guernsey has at length awakened to the sense of appropriately honouring the memory of one of her most illustrious sons, in the person of Admiral Lord James de Saumarez, whose name in English and European history stands out as a bright and noble example of bravery, patriotism, and Christian duty.

The record of his valiant deeds and his worthy life has been graphically and truthfully handed down to posterity by his friend and relative, the late Ferdinand Brock Tupper, in his carefully compiled "History of Guernsey and its Bailiwick," published in 1854.

On the 15th of March, 1873, the feeling which had long slumbered in the breasts of many patriotic Guernsey men towards their illustrious brother found vent in a meeting presided over by the late respected Jurat Henry Tupper, when amidst the most enthusiastic demonstrations of sympathetic feeling, and sincere eulogy, it was proposed to erect a suitable memorial of national importance to the honour and admiration of the gallant admiral. It was a grand sight to see some of the valiant compatriots of that great and good man rise up on that occasion, and bear their warm and hearty testimony to his valour and his worth; but while referring to this incident the memory of it is saddened by the fact that since that brief period two at least of those most appreciative and most earnest admirers and supporters of the gallant admiral have not been permitted to see the commencement of this good work, but have been called away to the rest which in all faith it has been said their dear brother has long enjoyed before.

The chief difficulty encountered by the committee at the outset was the form which the memorial should take. Many plans were proposed and many suggestions were made, and after much anxious consideration and the inspection of many designs sent in for competition, it was ultimately resolved that the memorial should consist of a lofty obelisk of Guernsey granite, to be erected on the brow of De Lancey Hill, a splendid elevation to the north-east of the island, between St. Peter-Port and St. Sampson's, the site of which, associated with several of the admiral's most gallant deeds, had been cheerfully granted by Her Majesty's Government on the most liberal terms.

Among the numerous designs submitted to the committee that of A. C. Andros, Esq., a Guernseyman, was adopted. As a hearty response had been made to the appeal for subscriptions, tenders were next invited for the execution of the work, and that of Mr. James Le Page, of the Ozouëts, was accepted. The cost of the structure will amount to about £2000, and it is to be completed by September, 1877. It is to be composed entirely of Guernsey granite, and its imposing appearance will form a suitable vis à vis to the Doyle Column on St. Martin's Point.

From the able manner in which Mr. Le Page has executed kindred works of even greater magnitude, we have the fullest confidence that the memorial will be carried out to the satisfaction of the committee, and the credit of the island.

As becoming such an important episode in their island history, the committee exerted themselves to give due effect to the ceremony, and having received an intimation from His Excellency St. George G. Foley, Lieut.-Governor, that he would take a prominent part in the proceedings, a request was forwarded to the several Masonic lodges in the island that they would grace the ceremony with their presence, His Excellency being a honoured and worthy brother. A dispensation from the Grand Lodge of England, under the sign manual of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, having been obtained for this purpose, the brethren were summoned to assemble at their hall in Court Place on Tuesday afternoon, the 1st August, at 2.30 p.m., when the lodge being opened in due form the brethren were suitably addressed, and it was then adjourned for the chief object of its meeting. The procession was arranged by the respective Worshipful Masters of Loyalty, Doyle's, and Mariners Lodges, and was carried out in a most effective manner.

Starting from Manor House at 4 o'clock it consisted of:

V.W. the P.D.P. Grand Master Gallienne, with Trowel. Tyler with Drawn Sword.

As the procession was being marshalled in front of the Hall, the crowd of spectators rapidly increased in numbers. The route was down St. Julien's Avenue, along the Esplanades to De Lancey Hill. The two field batteries of the Royal Military Artillery, under the command of Lieut. Colonel Jones, with their band, brought up the rear. Thousands of people lined the road on either side, the whole distance, about two miles, and appeared much interested in the novel sight.

On arriving at De Lancey Hill the brethren were halted in parallel lines facing each other, and forming an avenue through which the principal officers and distinguished visitors passed to the scene of the ceremony, the procession closing up and following to the enclosure. Here a guard of honour was in attendance, consisting of 100 men of the North Regiment of Militia, under command of Major Naftel, and officered by Capt. H. De Lisle Tupper and Lieutenants Ozanne and Faunce, and ten men from each of the other militia regiments of the island, the whole military force being under the direct command of Lieut.-Col. Gallienne, of the North Regiment. A gallery was erected in the enclosure, and this was occupied by the elite of the island, whilst around were grouped the various distinguished guests who had been invited to take part in the ceremonial. Prominent amongst these were His Excellency Lieut.-General St. George G. Foley, C.B., Lieut.-Governor, Colonel L'Estrange, R.A., Lieut.-Col. McCrea, Adjutant General, Lieut.-Col. Bell, Q.A.D.C., and Governor's Secretary; Major Julius Carey and Capt. W. Carey, A.D.C. to His Excellency; Gen. de Saumarez, Gen. McClean, Lieut.-Col. Orme, Lieut.-Col. Falla, Capt. Borland, R.N., and several officers of the 10th Fusiliers, as well as a large number of the militia officers of the island. The clergy were also in strong force, headed by the Right Reverend Bishop Ryan, D.D., the Very Reverend Carey Brock, M.A., Dean of Guernsey; and the Revs. R. J. Ozanne and G. Lee, St. Peter-Port; N. Cathcart, Holy Trinity; C. S. Darroch, St. Stephen's; A. Morris, St. James'; J. D. Kennedy, St. Sampson's; T. Bell, Vale; C. D. P. Robinson, St. Martin's; F. Mann, Forest; J. Giraud, St. Saviour's; and W. T. Collings, Seigneur of Sark; the Rev. Havilland De Saumarez, and others.

All being in readiness, General De Saumarez addressed the Lieutenant-Governor as follows:—

May it please your Excellency:

We, the Building Committee of this memorial, have been appointed by our fellow countrymen to carry into effect their resolution to erect a fitting monument to the memory of Guernsey's most illustrious son, James Baron De Saumarez, General of Marines, and Vice-Admiral of Great Britain.

In accordance with this resolution we have assembled this day to request, in their name, that your Excellency will now lay, as you have kindly consented to do, the foundation-stone of this memorial.

Forty years, fraught with many and most vital changes in Europe and the world, have passed over us since the nation had to lament the loss of Lord De Saumarez, after a career of more than fifty years actively devoted to the service of his country. How green and flourishing is still his memory, how venerated is the character and the reputation which he sustained during that long career, is abundantly proved by the resolution of his countrymen which we are now present to fulfil, and the manner in which this assembly is attended.

This day, this very day, seventy-eight years ago, was fought the ever memorable battle of the Nile, in which Sir James Saumarez was second indeed in command to Sir Horatio Nelson, but amidst the thunders which echoed in the Bay of Aboukir no one took a more distinguished share than he in the fearful struggle of that glorious action. In recalling that day we are happy in the remembrance that this is not the first occasion in which the names of Foley and De Saumarez have met; they were allied in glory when Sir James Saumarez advanced in the Orion to the attack of the enemy, and the Goliath, commanded by Sir Thomas Foley, gallantly led the fleet into action.

Enjoying the special confidence of his chiefs, Rodney, Hood, and Jervis, distinguished in each of their most illustrious actions, Sir James Saumarez was the honoured comrade of Nelson, Collingwood, and Trowbridge, a bright star in the galaxy of heroes which still illuminates with its brightness the most glorious pages of England's history.

Remarkable from his earliest days in the service, Lord De Saumarez was distinguished for his gallantry as a young lieutenant, for his enterprise combined with skill and bravery as a commander, whether in single fight or when taking part in a general action; but above all was he distinguished as a leader, by the daring boldness and indomitable courage with which, casting aside all fear of responsibility, he flung himself and his fleet successfully upon the enemy, whilst he was still staggering as it were under the blows he had received, and which adverse and uncontrollable circumstances had enabled them to inflict. Well did Earl St. Vincent, himself the head of the Admiralty, then proclaim in the House of Peers Sir James's achievements in the double battle and final victories of Algeiras, declaring that "this gallant achievement surpassed all that he had met with in his reading or his service," and truly then did the great Nelson pronounce in the same august assembly that "a greater action was never fought than that of Sir James Saumarez."

Great and admirable as was the character of this noble commander in war, it never shone more distinctly if less brilliantly than when, preferring humanity and the weal of his country to any glory he might reap from the achievement, he magnanimously denied himself the opportunity of destroying or capturing the Russian fleet when fully in his power, believing as he did that it was hostile only by Napoleon's compulsion. The Northern Powers hastened after the peace to do justice to his conduct of the war.

We may leave to others to speak of his special love for his native island, his integrity of conduct, his eminent piety and benevolence; but ere we conclude we would congratulate our countrymen that whilst England in his lifetime showered her honours upon Sir James Saumarez, and at his death found a place for his statue in the Naval Hall of Greenwich, Guernsey, the land of his birth, will now be able to point with satisfaction to an enduring monument to his memory—may it long remain, not in truth to perpetuate his memory, which will live as long as England's history exists; but let it remain to mark his country's gratitude, a record of past greatness, a monitor to future generations.

In the name of our countrymen the committee beg again to offer their best thanks to your Excellency for so kindly officiating on this auspicious occasion.

General De Saumarez, ladies and gentlemen—It is not only a great pleasure but I esteem it a great favour to be allowed to endeavour to do the duty to the best of my power of laying the foundation stone of the memorial to Lord De Saumarez which you are present to witness.

A long period has passed since the death of Lord De Saumarez, and, as has been well said by General De Saumarez, no monument is wanted to keep the memory of him vividly before his countrymen, still, I cannot refrain from expressing my great satisfaction that the inhabitants of Guernsey have at length come forward, and are about to raise a pillar to his honour of which I am to lay the foundation stone this day.

It is a happy coincidence that this day should be the anniversary of the Battle of the Nile, in which Lord De Saumarez took so distinguished a part. I am much obliged to General De Saumarez for the kind manner in which he mentioned the name and connection of my family who took part in that glorious battle. You, sir, have so well and fully depicted the high seaman-like virtues and the noble qualities for which Lord De Saumarez was distinguished that I can do no more in justice to the subject than say that I justly concur to all you have attested.

Even from where we stand we can see the scene of one of Lord De Saumarez's most daring feats, when he escaped from the enemy's ships by passing between the rocks.

I can need no thanks for officiating on the present occasion. On the contrary, I take it as an honour to be assigned a part in this most interesting ceremony.

The more important portion of the day's proceedings now commenced. V.W. the P.D.P. Grand Master, Bro. Gallienne, advanced to His Excellency with a Master Mason's apron, and clothing him therewith, said:—

"Your Excellency,—I have now the pleasure of investing you with the distinguishing badge of a Master Mason, and of placing in your hands the implements of architecture, to enable you to lay the foundation stone of a monument to the memory of one of Guernsey's noblest sons, the late Lord De Saumarez, in which ceremony your Excellency will be assisted by the Worshipful Masters of our lodges, to whom full power and authority have been granted by command of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Most Illustrious Grand Master. And I beg to assure your Excellency that we, members of the ancient fraternity of Accepted Masons here present, feel especially gratified in having the privilege of assisting you in the performance of the prominent part which has been properly and rightfully assigned to your Excellency."

The trowel was then placed in the hands of His Excellency.

The stone was then raised with a skillful silence, which surprised the assembly, and the following prayer was read by P.M. Armstrong (acting Chaplain), a Mason of 61 years' standing:—

Almighty and Eternal God! Architect and Ruler of the Universe, cause of all existence, at whose creative fiat the pillars of the sky were raised and its beauteous arches formed. We are assembled in Thy great name to acknowledge Thy power, Thy wisdom, and Thy goodness. We implore Thee to bless this our present undertaking, and grant as we raise a memorial to one whom this island is proud to honour as one of her most distinguished sons, we may so emulate all that is good and virtuous, as to be living monuments of Thy love and mercy, and finally be found among that glorious company who shall raise an everlasting memorial to Thy Holy name. "So mote it be."

The various coins were handed to the Lieut.-Governor by P.M. Strickland, and these being deposited by His Excellency in the compartment beneath the stone, P.M. J. B. Gardner presented to His Excellency a brass plate bearing the following inscription:—

"The foundation-stone of this obelisk, erected to commemorate the great public services of the late Admiral James Lord De Saumarez, G.C.B., &c., &c., and the esteem and love in which his name has ever been held by his countrymen in Guernsey, was laid on the 1st August, 1876, by His Excellency Major-General the Hon. St. G. G. Toley, C.B., Lieutenant-Governor."

This inscription was engraved by Messrs. Bolt and Browne, of the Pollet.

His Excellency having read this aloud deposited it over the compartment containing the coins. Mr. Le Page, the contractor, having spread the cement, His Excellency completed the work in a skilful manner with a silver trowel. The stone was next lowered to its position, the band playing the Old Hundredth Hymn. A plumb rule, level, and square were presented to the Lieutenant-Governor by W.M.'s Richard Wilkins and Smythson, and His Excellency tested the foundation-stone with each instrument and declared it to be truly plumb, level, and square. A mallet was next handed to His Excellency by R.W.G.F. La Serre, and His Excellency having struck the stone three times, declared it to be the foundation-stone of the obelisk to be erected in honour of Admiral Lord de Saumarez and to be well and truly laid. P.W.M. Martin then handed to His Excellency the plan and elevation of the memorial, which, after being duly inspected, was handed over to the contractor, Mr. James Le Page. The Militia Artillery then fired a salute of seventeen guns in honour of the event, and then the Very Reverend the Dean offered up prayer.

The Lord's Prayer then followed, in which the assembly joined with due reverence.

Capt. Collas, a veteran friend of the late gallant admiral, now bordering on ninety years of age, then stepped forward, and said he felt proud at being present to join this large and influential gathering, united in the object of laying the foundation stone of a memorial of our illustrious countryman, the Lord De Saumarez, who had so nobly distinguished himself during his naval career in the service of his king and country. The memory of so great a man deserved to be placed on a level with that of the illustrious Lord Nelson. The deceased had also enshrined himself in the hearts of his countrymen and conferred the greatest honour on his native place.

The Rev. W. T. Collins then thanked the Lieut.-Governor for the prominent part he had taken in the day's ceremony, and three hearty cheers were given for His Excellency and a salute of nineteen guns by the Militia Artillery, and the National Anthem played by the band brought the proceedings to a close.

Before leaving the spot General De Saumarez thanked the Worshipful Masters of the respective lodges for the active and valuable assistance they had rendered on the occasion. The vast crowd numbering several thousands, which was most orderly throughout, gradually dispersed; and the Freemasons returned in procession to their hall, where the lodge having been closed in due form, they were dismissed.

Lieut.-Col. McCrea directed the whole proceedings on the ground with consummate tact and judgment, assisted by the General Committee, and Bro. Clarke acted as Director of Ceremonies for the Freemasons.

PALESTINE EXPLORATION FUND.—The Committee of this Society have received from the Foreign Office a copy of a vizierial letter, in which the Governor-General of Syria is directed to recover from the people of Sated the whole of the amount claimed by Mr. Consul Moore on account of damages and expenses caused to the fund by the attack on Lieutenant Conder's party last year. The survey party are now working at the Royal Albert Hall on the map. Lieutenant Conder giving his attention chiefly to the preparation of the voluminous memoirs which will accompany it. In examining his notes he has made a large number of discoveries in addition to those already published in the society's periodical. Among the latest may be mentioned a new site proposed for Emmaus, hitherto a much disputed spot. He finds the name preserved in a corrupt Arabic form, at the exact distance, "about three score furlongs," from Jerusalem. Ancient ruins are observed there, and it lies close to an old Roman road. Another disputed site is that of Ramathaim Zophim, the birthplace of Samuel. Lieutenant Conder suggests a place for which he argues on the three grounds for identifications which he has always observed, viz., the preservation of the ancient name, the nature of the surrounding country, and the order observed in the enumeration of Biblical names. He thinks he has found the three sites of Ebenezer, the "Stone of Help," and the Mizpah of Samuel.

"CANADIAN MASONIC NEWS."—Dear Sir and Brother,—For the present I have found it necessary to suspend the publication of the "News." Whilst I was willing to give time and labour gratuitously for a year or two, with the view of establishing a permanent Masonic journal in the province, I am neither able nor willing to incur a loss beyond that, and as the experience of the past year does not hold out a prospect of meeting its expenses for the next, I have concluded not to commence another volume, but may at some future day, should sufficient inducement offer, re-enter the field of Masonic literature. In the meantime I am no longer entitled to your valuable and interesting exchange, which I shall miss with regret. Thanking you for your past courtesies, and wishing you continued success, I am, yours fraternally, E. M. MYERS.

RE-OPENING OF CHESTER CATHEDRAL.

After having, through a course of neglect extending over two centuries, been allowed to fall into a state of almost absolute ruin, and after having been partially closed (for restoration) for over eight years, the old Cathedral of Saints Werburg and Oswald, at Chester, was reopened for Divine service on Tuesday last, amid the rejoicings of the citizens of Chester and the inhabitants of the diocese generally. The work of restoration has been of the most thorough description, comprehending both the interior and the exterior of the building. The main fabric was composed of local sandstone, of a very unendurable nature, and owing to this and defective workmanship in previous restorations (if the patchings which have from time to time been done are worthy of such a title), the whole edifice was in a state of decay, and when the restoration was commenced it was evident that without some speedy repairs a serious condition of ruin was imminent. About this time Dr. Howson had succeeded Dr. Anson in the Deanery of Chester, and one of the first tasks which he set himself was the entire restoration of the noble building of which he and the other members of the Chapter had the charge. When appealed to, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners contributed liberally to the proposed work, and private benefactors, headed by the present Duke of Westminster and his predecessor in the marquise, gave largely. Sir Gilbert G. Scott was the selected architect for the restoration, and his plans showed how thoroughly he had succeeded in obtaining a clear general insight into the original style and character of the building. These works have taken over eight years in execution, and have cost over £80,000. The bulk of this has been provided by public subscription and, in addition, there have been many private gifts. The Duke of Westminster has presented a magnificent organ screen composed of pillars of Corinthian marble; the Freemasons of Cheshire, a carved oak pulpit of elaborate design; the Freemasons of Lancashire a beautiful sedilla for the choir; and all the stalls have been provided by the liberality of private persons or parishes. The architect gave a fine brass corona or candelabrum, containing 365 lights, and weighing two tons and a half. The old church of St. Oswald has been thrown into the cathedral, increasing its internal accommodation, which was previously very inadequate.

Prior to the opening yesterday, the Mayor of Chester entertained a number of guests at luncheon in the Town Hall. Among the guests were the Duke and Duchess of Westminster and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, the Rev. S. Gladstone and family, the Bishops of Chester and Rochester, the canons and diocesan clergy, the magistrates, aldermen, and council of the city, and others. After the luncheon a procession marched from the Town Hall to the Cathedral, where, at three o'clock, the opening service, in which several Cathedral choirs from a distance took part, commenced. The music was splendidly rendered, and an eloquent and practical sermon preached by the Bishop of Rochester from the words "Establish Thou the work of our hands upon us, yea the work of our hands establish Thou it." His lordship commented strongly on the boastfulness of the present age as to its generosity in the work of church building and church restoration, and said that the money thus spent, large as it truly was, was very small compared with that spent in selfish gratification and love of appearance and show. The building was densely crowded. To-morrow (Wednesday) evening the Dettingen Te Deum is to be performed by a choir 200 strong, and the reopening services are to be continued for nearly a fortnight, with special preachers and choirs.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The Committee of this institution met on Wednesday last at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Lieut.-Col. J. Creaton, P.G.D., presided, and there were also present Bros. Benj. Head, S. Rawson, Raynham W. Stewart, Hyde Pullen, J. A. Farnfield, Erasmus Wilson, H. Browse, Thos. W. White, John G. Stevens, R. Hervé Giraud, William Stephens, Louis Stean, Thomas Cubitt, John Bellerby, Frederick Adlard, and A. H. Tattershall.

Minutes of last meeting were read and verified. Cheques were drawn for the payment of next quarter's annuities.

Petition was read from the widow of Bro. Sumner for half of her late husband's annuity, which was granted.

Four male and two widows' petitions were read and placed on the list of candidates for the next election.

On Wednesday the Queen received a visit at Osborne from the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz. On Saturday Her Majesty, with the Princess Beatrice and Prince Christian Victor of Schleswig-Holstein, attended divine service at Osborne. The Rev. George Prothero officiated. During the week the Countess of Gainsborough, the Hon. Mrs. Hardinge, Lord Suffield, Sir Thomas Biddulph, Mr. Morier (Minister at Lisbon), Miss Morier, Sir John and Lady Cecil, Maria, Marchioness of Ailesbury, and Lord and Lady Colville have dined with the Royal Family.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Dangerous diseases would not present themselves very often if timely attention were bestowed on the first feelings which betray a departure from health. How many life-long maladies spring from neglecting trifling symptoms? The pimple readily curable in the nursery becomes, through carelessness, the immediate torment of after life. With a knowledge of the curative powers of Holloway's Ointment and Pills, and the facility and safety of their application, those who fail to use them for expelling the first seeds of hereditary ailments will have to bear the punishment resulting from their folly. Holloway's remedy will remove eruptions of the skin, scorbutic disease, and acrofula, and heal every description of ulcer, sore, wound, or abrasion.—ADVT.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of the Boys' School was held on Saturday, the 5th instant, at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, when there were present Bros. Major S. H. Clerke, Hyde Pullen, G. M. J. Snow, C. J. Martin, S. B. Ellis, Jessie Turner, H. Browse, Benjamin Head, W. F. C. Moutrie, Frederick Adlard, J. M. P. Montagu, G. J. Palmer, J. F. Dussell, and Frederick Binckes, Secretary.

Bro. Benjamin Head having been unanimously voted into the chair, the Secretary read the minutes of the General Committee held on the 1st July; the minutes of the Quarterly Court held on the 12th July; the minutes of the House Committee held on the 21st July, all of which were confirmed.

The report of the Audit Committee was then read and adopted, and a recommendation from the said committee that a sum of £3000 be invested in 3 per cent. Consols was considered, and the Treasurer was authorised to purchase the said stock.

The Secretary presented a petition for the admission to the school of James Morgan, aged nine years and seven months, by purchase, whereupon it was moved and seconded that the petition be accepted and referred to the House Committee to see whether the child can be received. An outfit vote of £5 was passed in favour of W. G. Fabian, now serving his apprenticeship.

Bro. C. F. Matier gave notice that at the next meeting of the committee he should move that the Secretary's salary be increased £100 a year.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

MARQUESS OF RIPON LODGE (No. 1489).—A regular meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Friday week at the Metropolitan Societies Asylum, Balls Pond, Dalston. Bro. Wm. Stephens (in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. Murlis) opened the lodge. There were also present Bros. Jessett, S.W.; E. J. Wallford, J.W.; Jones, Sec.; High, S.D.; Dr. Symonds, J.D.; H. Miller, I.G.; Glaskin, D.C.; and William Grist, Steward. The visitors were Bros. Easton, of the United States; Bingemann, P.M. 55 and W.M. 1599; Stansfield, 526 and 594; and Stiles, 1507. Bro. Stephens then solicited Bro. Jones, P.M. 445, to perform the ceremony of raising, three of the candidates being Bro. Jones's intimate friends. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and Bros. Haynes, Brewster, Clayson, and Brandon raised to the degree of a M.M. in a most impressive manner. Bro. Murlis then arrived and finished the work, initiating Mr. B. G. Poulton into the mysteries of the Craft. This being the annual period of election, the S.W. was unanimously chosen W.M. for the ensuing year, showing the excellent feeling existing in the lodge towards the senior officer. The Treasurer and Tyler were also unanimously re-elected, and a P.M.'s jewel of the value of 7½ guineas voted by the brethren to the retiring W.M. The lodge was then closed, and adjourned to Friday, the 6th of October. Cold collation followed, and on the removal of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts proposed and duly honoured. Bros. Coard, Grist, and Jessett contributed to the harmony of the evening, which was of a most pleasurable character.

COLCHESTER.—Angel Lodge (No. 51).—The annual meeting of the members of this lodge took place on the 10th inst. It was anticipated that the ceremony of installing Bro. G. Gard Pye (W.M. Star in the East, Harwich, and P.P.G.S. of "W.") would have been performed by Bro. F. A. Philbrick, G.C., P.J.G.W., but in consequence of a domestic bereavement he was unable to be present, and in his stead Bro. F. Binckes, P.G.S., officiated in a very impressive manner. The Worshipful Master then highly complimented his predecessor, Bro. Alfred Welch, P.J.G.W., for his efficient management of the lodge in the past year, and appointed him I.P.M. The other appointments were as follows:—Bros. S. W. Crookes, S.W.; T. T. Balling, J.W.; W. S. Sprent, P.P.G. Swd, Br., Sec.; A. Cobb, P.M., Treas.; Harris, S.D.; J. Hanly, J.D.; W. Brightwell, I.G.; Gunner, Tyler; G. Mercer, and W. H. Abilt, Stds. A large party of brethren afterwards dined at the Three Cups Hotel, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. Pye. In the course of the evening "The Health of the Newly-appointed W.M." was proposed by Bro. Carr, P.G.S., and was duly honoured. "The Health of the Installing Master" having been proposed, Bro. Binckes, in reply, remarked that Bro. Pye must be gifted with unusually high qualifications to merit the honour of being three times elected within the year to fill the highest position in two lodges, namely, Worshipful Master of the Star in the East, Harwich, W.M. of Angel Lodge, and within the present week re-elected as W.M. of the Harwich Lodge. The other toasts included "The Most Worshipful the Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales;" "The Pro Grand Master, Lord Carnarvon, the Deputy G.M., Lord Skelmersdale, and the Grand Officers, Past and Present," responded to by Bro. Binckes; "The Provincial Grand Master for Essex, the Right Worshipful Bro. R. J. Bagshaw;" the Deputy Past Grand Master, Bro. M. E. Clark, and the P.G. Officers," responded to by Bro. John Wright Carr, Provincial Grand Secretary, &c. A well arranged programme of music was admirably carried out by Bros. T. M. Bear, S. Chaplain, A. R. Staines, and J. J. C. Turner. Bros. C. Winterbon and J. J. C. Turner alternately presided at the pianoforte. Amongst those also present during the day's proceedings were the following:—Past Masters and Visitors A. E. Church, A. Cobb, Thomas Rix, C. Cobb, R. Richie, W. P. Lewis, and F. A. Cole; J. H. Staddon, W.M. Perfect Friendship; W. Bobby, W.M. British Union; N. Tracy, P.M., P.P.G.J.W. Suffolk; G. N. Godwin, British Union; R. Ellidson, P.P.G.R. Essex; J. E. Wiseman, P.M. 433; A. Aldous, S.W. 433; J. Richardson, P.M. 433; R. C. Athill; G. Harvey, S.D.; John Dean, W.M.; John Rowland, P.M.; F. Wiseman, P.M.; E. Crate, P.M.; United, &c.

MIDDLETON.—Imperial George Lodge (No. 78).—On Saturday afternoon, 5th inst., the ceremony of laying the corner-stone of the St. Thomas School Church, Bowlee, near Middleton, took place with full Masonic honours. Bro. George Mellor, the Right Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master of East Lancashire, assisted by his officers, performed the ceremony. The brethren assembled at All Saints' School, Rhodes, where a lodge was opened for the occasion, under the warrant of the Imperial George Lodge (78), at 1.50 p.m., by the Worshipful Master, Bro. David Reid, after which the Provincial Grand Officers were announced, and were received in the lodge with grand honours, and having been inducted to their respective positions, Bro. George Mellor, R.W.D.P.G.M. of the province, adjourned the lodge, after which the brethren were marshalled by Bro. J. H. Sillitoe, A.P.G.D.C., assisted by Bro. John Wood, P.M., D.C. 78. The cortege was headed by the congregation and school children of Bowlee and of All Saints', Rhodes, accompanied by two bands, then followed the choir and clergy, the Masonic body completing the procession. Wending their way to the site of the new school church, the choir sang the hymn: "Onward Christian Soldiers," and on nearing the site the brethren having opened out and faced inwards, the R.W.D.P.G.M. and others who were to assist in the ceremony, preceded by the Volume of the Sacred Law, carried by four Lewises, walked through to the platform prepared for them. The choir then sang that heart-stirring hymn "All people that on earth do dwell," after which Bro. Alfred Salts, LL.D., P.G.C. of East Lancashire, offered prayer; which was followed by the anthem "Oh, how amiable are Thy dwellings." Bro. the Rev. Theodore M. Owen, Vicar of Rhodes, and late Chaplain of 78, then in a very applicable address on behalf of the subscribers, presented to the R.W.D.P.G.M., Bro. Mellor, a silver trowel. During the time occupied in lowering the stone to its appointed place, the anthem "Lord of all power and might" was sung. The plumb rule, level, and square were next applied, and the R.W.D.P.G.M. having tested the stone with his mallet, pronounced it well and truly laid. The choir then sang the anthem "I will lift up mine eyes to the hills." The plans of the building were then presented and approved. Corn, wine, and oil were then poured upon the stone, the Provincial Grand Chaplain reading a passage of Scripture dealing with the application of each. Bro. Mellor, R.W.D.P.G.M., next addressed the assembly, in language appropriate, after which the last anthem was sung, "Behold how good and joyful a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." The Masonic body, together with the public, then contributed to the building fund, and the P.G.C. having pronounced a blessing, the brethren again formed in procession and returned to All Saints' School, Rhodes, where the lodge was closed by the R.W.D.P.G.M. The brethren then retired to a cold collation, the R.W.D.P.G.M. presiding. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and enthusiastically received. Speeches were made by the D.P.G.M. and several of his officers; also by two officers of the Imperial George, viz., Bros. David Reid, W.M., and Harvey Heywood, P.M. and Treas. The toast of "The Visitors" was ably acknowledged by Bro. Councillor Ben Brierley, the editor of "Ben Brierley's Journal." After a few remarks by Bro. the Rev. T. M. Owen, and others, the assembly separated, all apparently satisfied with the good work done—"another corner stone." The brethren present at the ceremony were as follows:—Bros. George Mellor, R.W.D.P.G.M.; S. D. Lees, M.D., P.P.S.G.W.; J. G. Smith, P.P.G.J.W.; Alfred Salts, LL.D., P.G.C.; T. J. Hooper, P.G.T.; S. G. Cheetham, P.P.G.T.; J. Tunnah, P.G. Sec.; T. J. Lancashire, P.P.G.S.D.; J. Holmes, P.P.G.J.D.; J. H. Sillitoe, A.P.G.D.C.; Wm. Greatrix, P.P.G.P.; Wm. Roberts, P.P.G.P.; David Reid, W.M. 78; Geo. Bradbury, S.W. 78; J. W. Percival, J.W. 78; H. Heywood, P.M. and Treas.; Jno. Wood, P.M., D.C.; Jno. Dyson, P.M.; Jno. Garlick, P.M.; S. H. Cheetham, P.M.; Samuel Lawton, S.D.; W. S. Clark, M.M.; W. Grimshaw, M.M.; J. B. Howard, M.M.; Wm. Jones, M.M.; C. W. Mills, M.M.; D. Ridley, M.M.; J. W. Lees, M.M.; J. E. Iliff, M.M.; John Kent, Tyler. Visitors: Bros. Rev. T. M. Owen, P.C. 78; R. T. Bowden, P.G.S. of Works, Cheshire; Joseph Sneyd, M.M. 29; R. Gorton, P.M. 266; J. Hardman, P.M. 266; J. Burrows, Sec. 268; John Turner, S.W. 287; J. Kershaw, W.M. 300; J. Peak, J.W. 300; J. C. Bowman, S.D. 300; J. Kinsey, M.M. 324; J. K. Oldham, M.M. 324; Henry Hayes, M.M. 1000; Ben, Brierley, 1077; Robt. Davies, Sec. 1387; E. J. Butterworth, M.M. A brief descriptive account of the school church will doubtless be interesting. It will consist of one large room, for church and school purposes; the interior of which will be 35 feet by 21 feet. There will be a small chancel and an east window of coloured glass, a class-room 15 feet by 13 feet, and a cloak-room and lavatory. The land was presented by the Earl of Wilton, together with a handsome donation towards the cost of the erection of the building, which will be about £700, of which amount £550 has been subscribed. The building is expected to seat about 120 persons.

BOLTON.—St. John's Lodge (No. 221).—The second fete champetre of the members of this lodge with their friends took place on Thursday, the 2nd inst., when a large party assembled at the London and North-Western Railway Station at Bolton, en route to Huyton Station, thence conveyed by waggons to Knowsley Hall, the seat of the Earl of Derby, who had generously placed the grounds at the disposal of the brethren for the day, and also given permission to view the magnificent library and inspect the rare and valuable historic pictures which adorn this princely mansion. The Bolton brethren felt much interest in many of the portraits, more so in that of James, seventh Earl, whose death on the scaffold at Bolton in 1651 forms a melancholy epoch in the history of that period. The portrait of the courageous Condé who defended Lathom House whilst her husband was supporting the fortunes of his monarch was also the subject of considerable interest. The brethren were most courteously received by Mr. Moults, the steward to the Earl, and were much indebted for his kindness in assisting in every way to make the visit agreeable and enjoyable. Luncheon was served at the Hall, as the weather appeared threatening to be stormy, and having done justice to the viands and expressed gratitude to the noble owner of the mansion for his kindness. The party proceeded to promenade the grounds, and inspect the various places of importance. The gardens, the extensive stabling, and array of carriages, &c., were minutely examined, and the vast cellarage with its contents of nut brown ale, enough to satisfy the cravings of a moderately sized city, were carefully looked through and their contents critically tested. The party being now pretty nearly ready for the return journey the vehicles were again brought into requisition, and driven into the Royal Hotel, Prescott, where the fostering hands of the W.M. and D.C. had directed the preparation of suitable provision for the wants of the brethren and ladies. Music after tea enlivened the proceedings. Some brethren adjourned to the bowling green and others to visit the church and cemetery grounds, from which place is obtained perhaps one of the most beautiful views of the country in this county. At about 6.30 p.m. the party were again driven to Huyton Station, from which place the train conveyed them so far as Kenyon Junction. The train was express from one roadside station to another, from Huyton and Kenyon, at which place it became very special, for at this most melancholy spot the unfortunate inmates of the carriages were shunted on to the Bolton line, and there left "to wither and decay," the rain falling heavily, the night dark, and not a habitation to be seen to enliven the gloom. The Chester train arriving at last, the homeward journey was again begun, and after some more express train running and an amusing shunting up and down somewhere in the locality of Chawthorn and Chequerbent, we finally espied Daubhill as a harbour of refuge, and having duly satisfied the ticket collectors, were again permitted to move and finally enter Bolton, dismally tired, hungry, and worn out. The admirable arrangements of the railway, which enabled us in the morning, when all was fine, to reach a station in an hour, and then at night, when all was dark and dreary (carriages without lamps, until strongly urged for at Kenyon), to enable us to return home in so short a period as three hours, is a surprising specimen of the skill and assiduity with which these caterers for the public constantly study their interests and comfort, and is another proof how wisely Parliament punished the audacity of conspirators and promoters of direct lines, or "junctions," who tried to injure existing companies' interest by pandering to the follies of people of obscure places like this, who expect to have privileges equal to those conferred on towns of the magnitude of Bury, and cities of equal importance. A relative of Mrs. Sarah Gamp, who was present with an offspring of her umbrella, has volunteered to walk at the next picnic, in order to save time, in preference to a L. and N.W. journey.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 281).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, on the 9th inst., the chair of King Solomon being occupied by Bro. Thomas Atkinson, the W.M. The lodge was opened in the First Degree with solemn prayer, and the minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Bro. A. K. Allison was unanimously elected a re-joining member, and afterwards elected as Tyler in the room of Bro. Watson, deceased. There being no other business, the usual proclamations were made, which elicited hearty good wishes from the visiting brethren, and the lodge was then closed in peace, love, and harmony.

GRAHAMSTOWN (Cape of Good Hope).—Albany Lodge (No. 389).—The brethren of this ancient lodge met at their new temple on St. John's Day, 24th June, at five o'clock p.m., for the installation of the Worshipful Master. Bro. W. Wedderburn was installed as Worshipful Master for the ensuing term by Past Masters Bros. O. Lester, P. H. Solomon, and A. S. Dudley. The customary honours having been bestowed upon the newly-elected Master by the large number of brethren present, he proceeded to invest the following brethren as officers for 1876-77:—Bros. O. Lester, I.P.M.; J. R. Norton, S.W.; J. Quait, J.W.; Rev. Dr. Ross, Chaplain; W. A. Smith, Treasurer; J. Vialls, Secretary; A. Will, S.D.; C. R. Jones, J.D.; E. C. Goodwin and H. Richmond, Stewards; F. E. Orren, I.G.; G. Shaw, Tyler. Previous to the installation of officers, Bro. O. Lester, I.P.M., was presented with a magnificent Past Master's jewel, and also with an address, engrossed by Bro. J. Vialls, Secretary of the Albany Lodge.

GRAHAMSTOWN (Cape of Good Hope).—St. John's Lodge (No. 828).—On Saturday, 24th June (St. John's Day), the installation of officers for the ensuing Masonic year took place in their lodge-room at twelve o'clock, noon, the Installing Officers being Past Masters Bros. A. S. Dudley, W. Waller, R. Mundy, and P. H. Solomon, who duly invested the presiding Master elect, Bro. Dr. E. Atherstone, with the badge of his office. The brethren having saluted the chair in ancient form, the Worshipful Master invested the following brethren as officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. A. S. Dudley, I.P.M.; T. Middleton, S.W.; F. W. Hepburn, J.W.; P. H. Solomon, Treas.; C. W. Black, Sec.; Jas. Stanton, S.D.; B. E. Cawood, J.D.; Coe, I.G.; A. Will, Tyler; A. Winny, Organist; Rev. Dr. Ross, Chaplain.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Lodge (No. 1051).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on the 7th inst. in the Masonic Room, Athenæum, Bro. H. Longman, W.M., presiding. There was only a small attendance of members and visiting brethren on account of the day being a Bank Holiday. The lodge was opened in the First Degree with solemn prayer. Bros. Chippendall and Jackson having shown proficiency as Entered Apprentices, retired, when the lodge was opened in the Second Degree. Bro. Chippendall was then re-admitted and passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, and afterwards Bro. Jackson was also passed to the same degree. This being all the business, the lodge was closed with the peculiarities of the Craft.

KOWIE (Cape of Good Hope).—Port Alfred Lodge (No. 1468).—The installation of officers for this lodge for the ensuing year was held in the lodge-room, Kowie West, on the 24th June, when the following were invested by Bro. A. N. Street, the W. Master, who was previously installed by Bro. P. M. Jarvis, and that veteran P. M. Bro. R. Currin, of the Albany Lodge, No. 389:—Bros. G. E. Jarvis, I. P. M.; R. Currin, jun., S. W.; Aitchinson, J. W.; Bezant, Treas.; Wagner, Sec.; Garde, S. D.; Taylor, J. D.; Higham, I. G.; Hoyle, Tyler. After saluting the chair according to ancient custom, the lodge was closed in due form.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Lodge (No. 1326).—An emergency meeting of this prosperous lodge was held at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton, on Thursday, August 10th. Bro. E. Gilbert, W. M., presided. He, in an able manner, passed Bros. W. T. Trehearne and W. Blakeley to the Second Degree. The ballot was unanimous in favour of the admission of all the candidates for initiation. There were present Bros. B. Sharp, P. M.; F. Walters, P. G. J. D. Middlesex, P. M., Sec.; J. W. Baldwin, P. M., I. G.; J. B. Shackleton, J. D.; J. J. Marsh, J. R. Croft, D. Steinhauer, J. T. Adams, G. Harrison, and others. The only visitor was Bro. E. Hopwood, P. M. 141, W. M. 1512. There was not any banquet or refreshment.

MORECAMBE.—Morecambe Lodge (No. 1561).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Room, Morecambe-street, on the 4th inst., Bro. H. Longman, W. M. 1051, occupying the chair of K. S. in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Capt. Garnett, W. M. The lodge having been opened in the First Degree with solemn prayer, Bro. Robert Wilkinson gave proof of his proficiency as an Entered Apprentice, and was entrusted and retired. The lodge having been opened in the Second Degree, Bro. Wilkinson was re-admitted and passed to the Degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge was then closed down to the First Degree, and the usual proclamations having been made, and hearty good wishes tendered by the visiting brethren, the lodge closed in peace, love, and harmony.

SOUTHEND.—Priory Chapter (No. 1000).—The regular convocation of this chapter was held at the Middleton Hotel, Southend, on Wednesday, the 9th inst. Present: Comps. Rev. S. R. Wigram, I. P. Z., G. 1st Assist. Soj., as Z.; A. Lucking, H.; J. C. Johnstone, P. Z. 20 (I. C.), as J.; (the M. E. Z., Dr. E. E. Phillips, and J. A. Wardell, J., being unavoidably absent); S. J. Weston, Treas.; W. Pissey, Scribe N.; Jas. Willing, jun., Prin. Soj.; F. Cahow, Thos. Williams, E. Judd, Hales, and E. Eltham. Visitor: Comp. Capt. De L. Anderson. The chapter having been opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for several brethren for exaltation, of whom there were present Bros. W. B. Belliss and H. Sullivan, who were exalted by the acting M. E. Z. in his usual faultless style. Comp. A. Lucking delivered the lectures of the 2nd and 3rd chairs. Comp. A. Lucking then, pursuant to notice of motion, proposed that the days of meeting be altered from the 2nd to the 3rd Wednesday in the months of May, August, November and February, which being seconded, and put to the meeting, was carried unanimously. The chapter was then closed, and the companions adjourned to refreshment. The usual toasts were given and duly honoured, the Janitor's toast bringing the proceedings to a close.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Chapter (No. 1326).—The regular meeting of this well-established chapter took place at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton, on Thursday, August 10th. Comp. B. Sharp, P. Z., as M. E. Z.; F. Walters, P. Z., P. G. First A. S. Middlesex, as H.; and J. W. Baldwin, H. 73, as J., opened the chapter. The companions were admitted. The minutes of the last regular convocation were read and unanimously confirmed. A Board of Installed Principals was formed. Comp. F. Walters, P. Z., &c., installed Comp. E. Hopwood as J. The board was closed, and the companions were re-admitted. Comp. F. Walters, P. Z., proposed that the best thanks of the chapter were due and be given to Comp. Edwin Gilbert, S. N., for his liberality in presenting the chapter with a beautiful twenty-guinea sword of superb workmanship, a set of life lines, a magnificent trowel, a handsome chisel, and an expensively bound Bible, which Comp. E. Hopwood, J., seconded, and it was carried unanimously. Some candidates were proposed for initiation, and the chapter was closed. There were present also Comps. J. B. Shackleton, D. C.; J. R. Croft, and others. Visitor: J. W. Baldwin, H. 73, &c.

INSTRUCTION.

DOMATIC CHAPTER (No. 177).—A very enjoyable evening was spent by a large number of companions of this chapter on Wednesday week, at Air-street, Piccadilly, Comps. Wheeler filling the office of Z.; Bull, H.; Dicketts, T.; and Haslett, P. S. The usual ceremony was ably worked, after which Comp. John Boyd gave the explanation of the R. A. jewel, and the business of the evening was brought to a conclusion by the companions assisting Comp. Boyd to work a portion of the sections. We believe there was no member of the parent chapter present, but No. 145 was represented by no less than seven of its members.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Scotia (No. 178).—A meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday evening, the 9th inst., in the Masonic Hall, 12, Trongate, Bro. Wm. Hart, W. M., presiding; Bros. J. Matheson, P. M.; W. Higgins, D. M.; J. Logan, S. M.; P. Hepburn, S. W.; A. Mercer, J. W.; W. King, sen., Treas.; H. Killin, Sec.; and others. Visitors: R. Prout, W. M. 4; G. Holmes, S. W. 4; John Morgan, W. M. 219; D. Ronald, W. M. 275; Dr. McInnes, S. W. 27; W. Ferguson, P. M. 543 ("Freemason"); G. Muir, P. D. M. 103; J. Henry, J. W. 581; R. Mathieson, Kingston, U. S. America; and others. On the lodge being opened M. J. Murray was initiated by the W. M., for Lodge Glasgow Kilwinning, No. 4. Bro. Prout, W. M. 4, returned thanks to the Master and members of Lodge Scotia for the obligation. Thereafter Bros. Dougan and Dunmoodie were passed Fellow Crafts by Bro. Matheson, P. M.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. George (No. 333).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, on Wednesday evening, the 9th inst., Bro. A. Thomson, W. M., in the chair; Bros. John Winton, I. P. M.; James Findlay, S. M.; J. Tweedie, acting S. W.; J. B. Hardie, acting J. W.; A. McIntyre, Sec.; and others. The lodge having been opened on the E. A. Degree the Secretary read minutes of last meeting, which were approved. Mr. John Gibson was initiated into Freemasonry by Bro. James Findlay, S. W. There being no further business the lodge was closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Athole (No. 413).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday evening, 8th inst., Bro. J. Louttit, W. M., presiding; Daniel Leeds, S. W.; Andrew Holmes, J. W. The W. M. was supported on the dais by Bros. John Miller, P. M., P. G. Dir. of Mus.; W. Neilson, D. M.; J. Baikie, S. M.; Peter Agnew, Treas.; J. Booth, W. M. Lodge Thistle, 87; W. Ferguson, I. P. M. Lodge Royal Arch, 116; and W. Ferguson, I. P. M. Lodge St. John, 543. On the lodge being opened, the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. J. Craig was elected a joining member, and obligated by the W. M. Bro. T. S. Brown was passed by Bro. Louttit, W. M., on behalf of Lodge Clyde, No. 408, and afterwards a brother was raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. Miller, P. M., P. G. Dir. of Mus.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. Vincent (No. 553).—A meeting of this lodge was held in the hall, 162, Kent-road, on Thursday evening, the 10th inst., Bro. R. Macdougall, W. M., presiding; Best, J. W., acting S. W.; Paxton, acting J. W.; and a full attendance of members. The principal business before the meeting was to consider the advisability of removing to more commodious premises, in terms of a motion made at last meeting by Bro. M. Stark, P. D. M. On the motion being put it was carried unanimously, and a committee was then appointed to meet and make arrangements with Bro. Macdougall, the W. M., who has converted a tenement into a hall, opposite Kelvingrove-street, in Dumbarton-road, which will be one of the finest Masonic halls in the province, the side-room accommodation being everything that could be desired, all the seats and chairs being got up in the most elaborate and fashionable style. The lodge was then closed, when all were invited to inspect the new hall, which offer was accepted.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Plantation (No. 581).—A largely attended meeting of this young and prosperous lodge was held on Monday evening, the 7th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Craigiehall-street, Plantation, Bro. Thomas Stobo, W. M., in the chair; J. M. Oliver, S. W. 360, acting S. W.; J. Henry, J. W.; W. Ferguson, D. M.; Alex. Gow, S. M.; W. Taylor, Treas.; R. Allan, Sec.; A. Imrie, S. D.; T. Paterson, I. G.; and Cumming, Tyler. Bro. A. Lindsay was passed by Bro. Oliver, S. W. 360, in his usual careful manner. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, when Bros. Capt. D. Young, T. Lindsay, and James Smith were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. W. Ferguson, D. M., P. M. 543.

BRANDT, THE INDIAN CHIEF, A FREEMASON.

In a foot-note to page 237 of "A Narrative of the Anti-Masonic Excitement in the Western Part of the State of New York, during the years 1826, '7, '8, and a Part of 1829," by Henry Brown, Esq., Counsellor at Law, Batavia, N. Y., Printed by Adams and McCleary, 1829, it is stated:—"At the battle of the Cedars, about thirty miles from Montreal, on the St. Lawrence, Capt. M'Kinstry, of Col. Patterson's regiment of Continental troops, was twice wounded, and taken prisoner by the Indians. His intrepidity as a partisan officer had excited the fears and unforgiving resentment of the savages, who determined to put him to death. Already had the victim been bound to the tree, and surrounded by the faggots intended for his immolation. Hope had fled, and in the agony of despair he uttered the last mystic appeal of a Mason, when, as if Heaven had interposed for his preservation, the warrior Brandt understood and saved him. Brandt had been educated in Europe, and was there made a Mason. Capt. M'Kinley died in June, 1822."—"Tweddell's Middlebrough Miscellany."

METROPOLITAN WORKING MEN'S CLUBS.—Lord Salisbury has consented, at the request of the Working Men's Club and Institute Union, to permit the London Workmen's Clubs affiliated to that society to hold their annual fête in Hatfield Park on Monday next, and inspect the art treasures of Hatfield House.

BRITISH ARCHAEOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION.—On the 14th inst. this association commenced its 33rd annual congress, under the patronage and presidency of the Prince of Wales and Bro. the Earl of Mount Edgumbe, who has been entertaining some of its leading members, Lord Houghton, the Marquis of Hertford, Mr. Planché, and others, during the last two or three days at Mount Edgumbe. The programme of the proceedings of the Congress has just been issued, and all that we can do today is to give an outline of the arrangements of the week. On Monday Lord Mount Edgumbe, as president, was to receive the members and other visitors at his ancient family seat of Cothel, whither they were to be conveyed at an early hour by steamer from their rallying point, Plymouth. The company having inspected the chief rooms of Cothel, were to assemble in the ancient hall, where Lord Mount Edgumbe would give a short account of Cothel and its historic monuments and associations, the architectural features of the house being described in detail by Mr. E. Brock, F. S. A., one of the honorary secretaries of the association. The company were then to visit the memorial chapel in the grounds (the scene of a romantic and well-known legend) and return in the steamer to Saltash for Bodmin, where they were to dine, the Mayor and Corporation receiving them in due form, and Lord Mount Edgumbe was to deliver his inaugural address, other papers being read by the Rev. W. Iago, B. A., "On the Antiquities of Bodmin," and by J. R. Planché ("Somerset Herald") "On the Ancient Earls of Cornwall." Tuesday is to be devoted to an expedition to Tintagel and Lanteglos; and Wednesday to another to Restormel, Llanhydrck, Lostwithiel, and St. Neot's. On Thursday the Association will visit Launceston, where they will be received by the Mayor, returning in the evening to Bodmin. On Friday the Association will go on by train to Truro, where they will be entertained by an exhibition of antiquities at the Royal Institution of Cornwall. Saturday is to be devoted to an excursion to Penzance, the Land's End, and St. Buryan's Church, with visits to sundry monoliths and underground structures in the neighbourhood. On each evening of the week there will be a conversazione either at Bodmin, Truro, or Penzance. For the following week the programme is not as yet quite settled; but in all probability the Monday and Tuesday will be fully occupied by expeditions to St. Just, Chywoone Castle, and St. Michael's Mount, where Sir John St. Aubyn, M. P., has promised to receive and entertain them. If the fine weather should continue, in all probability some other visits to the cromlechs, inscribed stones, and ancient churches of that district will be arranged. It is intended at each evening conversazione that at least one paper shall be read on a subject of local antiquarian interest, and ladies are especially invited to these meetings. Upwards of a hundred antiquarian gentlemen and ladies have already joined the Congress, so that the honorary secretaries have no lack of work before them. A programme is to be issued every day to each visitor, containing full and precise directions, in order to prevent the occurrence of mistakes. The Great Western and South-Western Railways have given every facility to those who join the Congress by allowing the holders of tourist tickets, on presenting their Congress ticket, also to break their journey at the various intermediate stations.

HISTORICAL FALLACIES.—Mr. J. Creagh writes to the "Times": "Mr. Ashley (as reported in the 'Times') is said to have stated in the House of Commons:—'The ruling Turk has not, in fact, changed since the time when the streets of Alexandria were strewn with the books of the Alexandria Library, and when the Caliph Omar exclaimed, 'If these books are in favour of the Koran they are unnecessary, and if they are contrary to the Koran they are mischievous; and so burn them all.' The Turk has not changed in his views of the Koran from that day to this. Such accusations against the founders and propagators of the Prophet's religion are, I represent, without historical foundation, and they are altogether contrary to the testimony of the most learned writers. The Library at Alexandria was destroyed by fanatic Christians nearly 330 years before the capture of that city by Amrou and the Arabs; while the only evidence for attributing this wanton destruction to the Moslem conquerors of Egypt is the report of a stranger who wrote 600 years after the event which he professes to describe. The Mussulman religion positively forbids the burning of any book containing even the name of God; and it permits all historical, scientific, or philosophical compositions, whether the work of Jews or Christians, to be applied to the service of useful investigation. Many profane treatises, including the celebrated Geography of Ptolemy, were translated into Arabic for the use of Mahomedans; and it is to the shamefully-traduced forerunners of these 'benighted Turks' that we are indebted for the application of those geometrical principles and astronomical observations displaying the figure and dimensions of the terrestrial globe, and 'which Europe (in the words of the Rev. Dr. Robertson) in more enlightened times, has been proud to adopt and to imitate.'"

The dignity of a Baronet of the United Kingdom to Sir Richard Temple, of The Nash, in the parish of Kempsey, in the county of Worcester, K. C. S. L., Lieutenant-Governor of the Bengal Provinces of Fort William, is gazetted.

The heat in Spain is fearful, and exceeds any recorded since 1800. In Madrid there are hundreds of persons sleeping on the roofs of houses and in balconies. In Seville people sleep in open streets. The temperature marks 101 in shady rooms. Madrid is wholly deserted and its streets are silent. A telegram adds that the heat in Andalusia has been at 113 Fahrenheit in the shade (!), and forty field labourers have died at Seville of sunstroke or apoplexy. The vines are falling owing to the scorching heat.

ROYAL KENSINGTON LODGE.

The consecration of the Royal Kensington Lodge took place at Freemasons' Hall, on Friday, the 11th inst., when both the ceremonies of consecration and installation were performed by V.W. Bro. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B., P.D.P. G.M., who had been appointed for the purpose by the M. W. Grand Master, assisted by W. Bro. H. G. Buss, Prov. G.J.W. Middlesex, as Director of Ceremonies, by the Rev. Bro. A. W. Hall, P.S.G.W. Surrey, as Chaplain, and other brethren. It is unnecessary to say that the ceremonies were performed in a most impressive manner, as Bro. Hyde Pullen, it is well-known, makes one of the ablest consecrating Masters. Suffice it is to say that after opening the lodge in the three degrees, the Presiding Master addressed a few impressive words to the brethren on the solemn nature of the meeting, and called on the Chaplain to give the prayer, after which the Secretary stated the wishes of the brethren who had petitioned and obtained a warrant for the new lodge, whereupon the Presiding Officer desired these brethren to stand forth while the Secretary read the petition and warrant. The brethren of the new lodge having, in reply to the President's inquiries, signified their approval of the officers appointed by the warrant, the Chaplain addressed the brethren. He said, that when King Solomon built his beautiful temple at Jerusalem strength and ability were typified in it. Freemasonry is founded on the same principles; since it was founded it has undergone no change, but many persecutions, but from those persecutions it has risen like the mythological bird of old, from its ashes, to shine more brightly than before. It has been carried down from then till now, when the noble Order seems to be at its highest pitch of prosperity. The noble sentiments we teach show that we are not a selfish body; they are sentiments of universal benevolence, charity, in its widest and most comprehensive sense, and that other virtue which is lasting as eternity. These three noble principles should make the pledge of a Mason inviolable, his heart tender and merciful, and the course of his life without guile. With these beautiful principles in view, you, brethren of the Royal Kensington Lodge, are about to launch your barque on the ocean of time, and may the Great Architect give you grace and wisdom, and may the Royal Kensington Lodge take its stand as one of the first lodges in this country. The speaker then called attention to the Scripture which tells us that when King Solomon and Hiram walked in the vale of Jordan, between Succoth and Zuthan, the king, observing the soft clay ground there, selected that place for casting the vessels of gold and silver and brass that were to decorate the Temple of the Lord, and there upon this ground did they cast those vessels which were destined for the Holy of Holies. These soft clay grounds, he said, represented our hearts, who are the temple of the living God; our hearts which must be devoted to good works, to be brought forth from time to time as they may be required for his service.

At the close of the oration the choir sang the anthem, "How good and joyful a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

After the dedication prayer and the invocation, the Chaplain read the first sixteen verses of II. Chron., Chap. I, which was succeeded by the uncovering of the lodge board and the dedication and constitution of the lodge, during which ceremony the choir sang the anthems,

"Glory be to God on high,
Peace on earth,
Good will towards men."

and "Glory to God in the highest;
Let all the brethren cry aloud
Praise ye the Lord.

For His merciful kindness is ever great towards us,
And the truth of the Lord endureth for ever.
Blessed be the name of the Lord from this time forth for evermore."

The lodge was then resumed to the Second Degree, and Bro. Buss presented Bro. W. T. Raymond, W.M. designate, to the Presiding Master to receive at his hands the benefit of installation. Bro. Raymond having given his assent to the requirements of Grand Lodge, was obligated, after which a Board of Installed Masters was formed, to whom he was presented, and installed into the chair of K.S. The officers were appointed as follows:—Bro. C. E. Soppet, S.W.; W. E. G. Leith, J.W.; D. M. Dewar, Sec.; H. R. Gill, S.D.; B. F. Cramer, J.D.; H. M. Sydney, I.G.; Samuel Browne, W.S.; W. Steedman, Tyler.

The business of the meeting being now concluded, several propositions for initiates and joining members were made, and the thanks of the brethren were tendered to the Grand Officers and other visitors who had honoured the lodge with their presence, and V.W. Bro. Saml. Tomkins, G. Treas., acknowledged the compliment.

Bro. Dewar: W.M. and brethren,—I have a vote of thanks to propose to our V.W. Bro. Hyde Pullen, for acting as consecrating and installing Master to-day, and that he be made an honorary member of the Royal Kensington Lodge. I also propose the best thanks of the lodge to Bro. Buss for his valuable services as D.C.; also to our Rev. Bro. Hall, for his no less valuable services as Chap., and to Bro. Absalom and the other brethren who filled the Wardens' chairs, and formed the Board of Installed Masters. I propose that this vote of thanks be recorded on the lodge minutes. I am sure that all present must have been greatly edified by the beautiful and impressive manner in which the whole of the ceremonies have been conducted.

Bro. Hyde Pullen: W.M., in my own name, and in the name of my colleagues, I beg to return you our grateful thanks for the kind way in which you have mentioned what we have done. We wish you and the Royal Kensington Lodge every success.

The Chaplain and Bro. Buss also returned their acknowledgments.

The following brethren signed the attendance book:—Bros. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B.; A. W. Hall, P.M. 416, P.S.G.W. Surrey; H. Hall, Sir Isaac Newton Lodge; W. H. Absalom, Mount Lebanon, 34, P.M.; J. C. Dwarber, P.M. 55; Capt. N. G. Phillips, P.M. 1383; H. G. Buss, Burdett, 1203, Prov. J.G.W. Middx.; C. F. Matier, 645, P.G.W. Greece; C. S. Jekyll, W.M. Asaph, 1319; Jno. Bean, P.M. 720; C. H. Driver, P.M. 905, G. Sup. Wks., Surrey; J. P. Leith, 1118, P.G.D.; W. Hamilton, P.M. 34; B. Cramer, 108; C. Taylor, 1426; G. Cardwell, P.M. 3; Theo. Distin, Phoenix; Fredk. Binckes, G.S., Secretary Boys' School; J. R. Jekyll, 1319; J. Rand Bailly, P.M. 4; Benj. Browne, 503; W. S. Gordon Leith, 859; J. P. Robertson, W.M. 55; Robert Perkins, J.W. 34; Samuel Tomkins, G. Treas.; Walter T. Justling, P.M. 55; H. Massey ("Freemason").

After the closing of the lodge and its adjournment till the first Friday in October, the brethren present adjourned to the tavern, where a sumptuous banquet was provided, to which ample justice was done. When the cloth had been withdrawn, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and duly honoured. In proposing "The Health of Lord Skelmersdale, the Deputy Grand Master, with the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past," the W.M. coupled therewith the name of Bro. Parkinson, whom he requested to respond.

Bro. Parkinson: Worshipful Master and brethren,—Where there are few tasks more agreeable, there are many less difficult than returning thanks for the Grand Officers on the present occasion. The Grand Officers are always received at these meetings with so much cordiality and kindness that the task becomes more onerous each time one has to respond to the toast. It makes it the more difficult that one has only to respond to praises; there is nothing to defend. One feels inclined to wish for the presence of a devil's advocate, an institution in the Romish Church—where when a man is canonised and his virtues are spoken of, some one appears on the other side to point out his defects. I feel assured that it would be easier to me to find fault. Declining the Worshipful Master's hint, I shall express myself deeply grateful for the attention we have received. It is a matter of gratification for us all to witness the advent of this admirable lodge, which I have no doubt is destined to long life and prosperity. He concluded by wishing that it might always have youth at its helm and pleasure at its prow.

Bro. Hyde Pullen: The W.M. has given me his gavel and of course you will understand why. Now, I find myself in a very peculiar position at this moment, because I take upon myself, or rather the W.M. has imposed upon me, a task which is usually imposed upon an officer that does not exist in this lodge. I have the collar of the P.M. placed upon me to hold for a time, and I am now about to propose a toast that is given usually by the P.M., but I do offer it to you in my own peculiar sense, and I have great pleasure in presenting to you the toast of the evening, "The Master of the Lodge." We have embarked upon a voyage which has been spoken of to-night by Bro. Parkinson, and the barque that we have entered into and launched forth into the waves of futurity depends upon the capability of every one in and about it to carry it to success at a future time. I will place charity at its prow, hospitality at its helm, and prudence and care amidst its sails. I present to you "The Health of your Master." It is the first time that that toast has been proposed to you, but I trust that such a health will be proposed to you year by year with the expectation of excellence with which it is proposed by me at the present moment, now at its commencement. Brethren, it is something for the W.M. to-night to enter upon his duties for the first time, and it is not only the first time as the Master of a new lodge, but the first time in which he has been Master of any lodge. At such a time there are certain feelings he must have; he is being initiated, as it were, into duties which he never performed before. You will assist him to the utmost to enable him to perform his duties, so that when the time for a change comes round he will leave with honour to himself and glory to the lodge and advantage to the Craft in general. Brethren, with all earnestness I give you "The Health, Happiness, Capability of your Master, and to your willingness to aid and assist him in his year of office."

The W.M.: Brethren, I thank you most sincerely, most heartily for the manner in which you have received the toast proposed by Bro. Pullen. I thank him very much indeed for the kind way in which he has expressed himself, and I must only reiterate his wish that the officers and members and brethren in general will afford me their kind indulgence in every way in carrying on in my year of office my duties as Master of this lodge, and I hope with their assistance to give general satisfaction, and that when my year of office ends there may be no complaints. I thank you all.

Bro. J. Percy Leith, P.G.D.: Worshipful Sir and brethren,—I have been requested to propose the next toast. I am quite sure that it is one you will be pleased to hear, the health of our kind Bro. Hyde Pullen. Bro. Hyde Pullen this evening has performed the duty of Consecrating Officer to the lodge upstairs, and I am confident that there will be none to say that they ever heard the ceremony performed better than they have this evening. It is not the first time we have seen him carrying out this programme in the Craft; no one devotes more time to serving his fellow beings than Bro. Hyde Pullen. I have known Bro. Hyde Pullen for many years, and I have been received with the right hand of fellowship. I desire to couple with Bro. Hyde Pullen this toast—Bro. Hall, the Consecrating Chaplain, and to thank him for the very able manner in which he performed his part of the ceremony. I give you "The Health of Bro. Hyde Pullen and Bro. Hall."

The toast was acknowledged by Bro. Hyde Pullen and Bro. Hall, the latter observing that it did not fall to the lot of many of his profession to consecrate often. He knew that he would never be a bishop, and if he had not consecrated a lodge that evening he might never have had the pleasure of consecrating anything. The bishops consecrated stately edifices built up unto the Lord, and he congratulated himself that he had consecrated a temple made up of a band of brethren, bound together to carry out in themselves, and to carry out in the world, those beautiful teachings, those excellent truths, which the bishops themselves only can teach. He had consecrated a Freemasons' lodge, following at a humble distance the bishops who consecrated temples to the Lord, and he concluded,—May the lodge which I have consecrated be blessed by the Great Architect of the Universe, so that the members may not only be deemed good men, but may be considered members of that science which is all that is good, all that is true, Bro. Hall resumed his seat, thanking the brethren for their reception of his health.

Bro. Absalom: W.M. and brethren,—Although at this moment I know myself to be on the right of the chair, that is to say, I stand in the position of a visitor, yet, believe me, when I look at the brother who occupies the chair, and some of these friendly faces I see around me, I scarcely deem myself a visitor. When once Socrates was asked by an admiring crowd which of the human race he considered nearest to the gods in point of happiness, he replied, "That man who is in want of the fewest things." He left it to be guessed by his auditory whether he intended that answer to imply amplitude of possessions or contraction of desires. If there is any truth in that I must feel myself in a very bad way, because, though my possessions may be limited, my desires are great. First of all, my desire is to stand well with you whom I speak to, certainly. Secondly, while all of those who have addressed you this evening, from the Grand Officer to Bro. Pullen, with thanks for the toasts you proposed, you will not be surprised that I desire much of you in the reception of the toast I am about to propose, for that toast is of great importance to this lodge, and perhaps to Freemasonry itself. I am about to propose "Success to the Royal Kensington Lodge." This toast has been entrusted to my care, and of course you will readily conceive that I must feel no ordinary amount of diffidence in advancing it to your attention, and with the earnest hope that it may meet with your approbation. There is no doubt that each one who attended the meeting upstairs, and had the privilege of hearing the addresses given in so impressive a manner by Bro. Pullen, was greatly benefited by what he heard. They could not have been given more impressively, they could not have been given with greater effect, and, seconded as they were by the eloquent address of our excellent Chaplain. I say all must have felt impressed with the ceremony, and acknowledge that they have received a lesson which will lead them on to greater efforts in the cause of Freemasonry, and to remember among their happiest moments their visit to the Royal Kensington Lodge. Your Master is well known to me. I have watched his advent to Masonry; I have seen the advance he has made; I have watched his attention to the ceremonies, and I have every hope that he will prove a worthy leader to your lodge. He trusted that their noble institutions would not be forgotten in the new lodge—institutions which he believed to be the backbone of Masonry, and that benevolence in its widest sense would be their study. He trusted that an entente cordiale would be established between his lodge (Mount Moriah) and the new lodge, and concluded by inviting the brethren to that lodge.

Several other toasts were proposed and received with the utmost cordiality, and speeches were spoken for which we have no space to spare. It must therefore suffice to say that everything that was done was well done, and that the whole meeting was a genuine success.

CONSECRATION OF THE EBORACUM LODGE,
No. 1611.

On Monday, 7th inst., a ceremony took place in the old city of York fraught with the greatest interest to all brethren of the Royal Art. This was nothing less than the consecration and constitution of a new Masonic lodge, a ceremony which had not been witnessed within the walls of York for ninety-nine years previously, the last occasion being the consecration of the York Lodge, No. 236, in the year 1777. York is in its history and associations very closely linked with Freemasonry. Traditionally it has been the scene of much that is interesting to the Order. It was, according to the cherished legends, in York that the Athelstane charter was granted, in the year 926; it was in the ancient crypt of York Cathedral that the ancient brethren met for the celebration of their rites and ceremonies, and from that time to the present the history of York has been more or less interwoven with that of Freemasonry. Several years ago the propriety of the promotion of a movement for a second lodge in York was discussed, but it was not until the commencement of the current year that a number of brethren, all deeply interested in the progress of Masonry and the welfare of the Craft, forwarded a petition to the Grand Lodge of England for a warrant for a second lodge in York, to be called the Eboracum Lodge. In due course the petition was granted and the warrant issued, the number of the lodge on the grand roll of England being 1611. The Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland, appointed Monday, the 7th August, as the day for the consecration ceremony, and accordingly every preparation was made by the brethren for the successful celebration of the event. We are happy to know that their efforts were crowned with success, and that the day passed off without a single drawback, the R.W.P.G. Master and his Deputy both expressing their great satisfaction at every thing connected with the ceremonial.

The lodge-room is attached to the Queen's Hotel, Micklegate, and is a very handsome apartment, eminently suited or the purpose. It is lofty and spacious, and its decorations, which have been executed by Messrs. Hartley & Son, are tasteful in the extreme. The chairs and pedestals, which are remarkably handsome, and executed with minute correctness in the style of three principal orders of architecture, have been made from designs from the studio of Messrs. Knowles, of the Medieval Art Works, Stonegate. The collars, jewels, &c., have been supplied by Bro. Geo. Kenning, of London, and are both massive and chaste in execution. The carpet has been supplied by Mr. T. G. Turner, Parliament-street, and a very handsome pedestal in the form of a double cube, of old oak, together with the dais, are from the workshops of Messrs. Keswick & Sons. The candlesticks, which are of oak, and nearly five feet in height, from Bro. Kenning's, are beautiful specimens of carving.

At 2.30 p.m. the brethren assembled, and the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge having been formed into procession in an adjoining room, the lodge-room was entered, and Provincial Grand Lodge opened in ample form by the R. Worshipful Prov. G.M. In addition to the Earl of Zetland there were present, members of the Prov. Grand Lodge, Bros. J. P. Bell, D. Prov. G.M.; the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett, Prov. S.G.W.; W. Waller, P.G.J.W.; M. C. Peck, Prov. G. Sec.; Rev. W. Valentine, P. Prov. G. Chaplain and S.W. 236; Woodall (Scarbro'), P.P.S.G.W.; R. G. Smyth (Hull), Prov. G. Director of Ceremonies; C. H. Hunt, Prov. G. Organist; J. Todd, P. Prov. G.O. and Sec. 236; G. Bamford, P. Prov. G.O.; T. Sissons, P. Prov. G.R.; T. Cooper, P.P.G.S.W. and D.C. 236; J. Ward, Prov. G. Pursuivant; and many others. The ceremony of consecration was then proceeded with, the musical portion of the service being most ably performed by a choir of Masonic vocalists from Leeds and Bradford, under the direction of Bro. Thornton Wood, the music being the composition of Bro. Atkinson.

Bro. Thomas Cooper, P.M. 236, was then duly installed First Master of the Eboracum Lodge, and he appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. T. B. Whytehead, 1338, and 236, Senior Warden; J. S. Cumberland, 178, Junior Warden; Geo. Balmford, P.M. 236, Treasurer; James Kay, 1010, Secretary; T. Tuke, 236, Senior Deacon; C. G. Padel, 236, Organist; Sellar, 236, Inner Guard; J. Redfear, Tyler, pro tem.

The Deputy Provincial Grand Master then gave a long and elaborate address, in the course of which he traced the history of Freemasonry in its connection with the city of York, and expressed his satisfaction at the very auspicious manner in which the Eboracum Lodge had come into existence, anticipating for it a very prosperous future. The W.M., Bro. Cooper, then proposed a vote of thanks to the R.W.P.G.M., the D.P.G.M., the Sec., and the P.G. Officers who had attended on the occasion, and announced the R.W.P.G.M., the Earl of Zetland, the D.P.G.M., Dr. Bell, the W.P.P.G.M. Bro. G. Marwood, and the P.G. Sec., Bro. Peck, had been elected honorary members of the lodge.

The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the De Grey Rooms, where a sumptuous banquet had been prepared by Mr. J. Toes, in his well-known style. The W.M. presided, and was supported by the Prov. G.M., the Dep. Prov. G.M., the Prov. G.S.W., the Prov. G. Sec., and others; and the following toasts were duly honoured:—"The Queen and the Craft;" "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M. of England, and the other members of the Royal Family;" "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, M.W. Pro G. Master, with the Grand Officers;" "The Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, R.W. Prov. G.M. of North and East Yorkshire;" "The W. Bro. J. P. Bell, Esq., M.D., J.P., Past Senior Grand Deacon of England, Dep. Prov. Grand M. of N. and E. Yorkshire;" "The W.M. of the Eboracum Lodge;" "The Visiting Brethren;" "The Masonic Charities;" "The Tyler's Toast;" "The York Lodge, 236;" "Prosperity to the City of York;" and others.

An object of great attraction to the brethren in the lodge-room was an interesting Masonic relic in the shape of an ancient Bible, bearing on its flyleaf the following inscription:—"This Bible belongs to the Freemasons meeting at Mr. Howard's, 1761." This valuable memento of the Craft and of a lodge now extinct has been generously presented to the Eboracum Lodge by Mr. Carter, of Stonegate, in whose possession it has remained for many years.

CONSECRATION OF THE ECCLESTON LODGE. No. 1624.

Another London lodge was consecrated on Wednesday evening, at the Grosvenor Hall, Ebury-st., Pimlico, by Bro. W. Hyde Pullen. The S.W. chair was occupied by Bro. John Verity, W.M., Ebury Lodge, No. 1348, and the J.W. chair was filled by Bro. John Coutts, P.G.P. The Secretary's post was conferred on Bro. W. Vincent. The Rev. Bro. Hall, Prov. G.S.W. Surrey, acted as Chaplain. The brethren who were present were:—

Members:—H. A. Hunt, Isaac Isaacs, J. G. Fisher, D. W. McLeod, J. C. Flattely, H. I. Johnson, Samuel Jones, Thomas Lamb, Thomas Webb, E. Powell, Joseph Hicks.

Visitors:—Bros. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B.; Capt. N. G. Phillips, 1383, P.M.; Rev. Ambrose W. Hall, Prov. S.G.W. Surrey; George M. Marshall, 1161, J.S.; Coulton, P.M. 382; J. Barney, 1567; Arthur G. Luard, 1537; J. H. Clutton, 1537; Thomas F. Shattock, 1537; Edward Coles, 1319; H. Massey, P.M. 619 ("Freemason"); H. Parker, P.G. Org. Middx., C. T. Carter, P.M. 145; T. Baxter, 145; Thos. F. Davis, 87; John Hordell, 1348; W. Carter, P.M. 141; Charles Golden, W.M. 1567; Morgan, 1385; Bourne, P.M. 1348; C. Pulman, P.M. 720; John Verity, W.M. 1348; John Elliott, S.W. 1348; W. M. Herbert, 625; G.H. Pownall, 142; J. R. Bainton, 209; Thos. Cox, 511; John Coutts, P.G.D.; A. J. Ireton, J.W. 1348; E. Hart; R. P. Hart; J. R. Lane; Stanhope; John C. Cox, P.M. 1257; W. Vincent, 1194; R. J. Steel, P.M. 1194; C. Simmons, 1194; Thos. Cross, 1194; Chas. Jewell, 511; Geo. Rose, 87; Frank Pownall, 145; A. Flattely, 805; Chas. B. Payne, P.M. 27; J. R. Vine, P.M. 173; Edw. Holland, 141; J. Thurlay Beale, 201; W. Gould, 1158; W. G. Shute, 51; H. T. Stewart, 142; A. Sheppard, 1158; John Hunt, 1348; J. J. Cattle, W.M. 1441; J. T. Woodstock, P.M. 740; Chas. Thomas, 77; Dr. Joseph L. Davies, 357.

The ceremony of opening in the three degrees having been first performed, the consecrating officer addressed the brethren and the usual observances took place. The musical arrangements being conducted under Bro. E. Coles, who was assisted by Bros. G. T. Carter, P.M. No. 382; Henry Parker (piano), T. Baxter, No. 145; and Thurlay Beale, No. 1319. Bro. Hyde Pullen, at the proper time, called upon the Rev. Bro. Hall, Prov. G.J.W. Surrey, to deliver the oration, which the Rev. Chaplain did as follows:—

Brethren, I have been asked to say a few words upon the nature and principles of our Order. It is usual for the Consecrating Chaplain to do this, so that at the dedication of a new lodge the brethren who are to form it may be reminded of the important duties and responsibilities that are about to devolve upon them that they may be the better enabled when their Masonic barque is fairly launched to carry out those sacred teachings to the benefit of the cause, the instruction of the brethren and the glory of the Great Architect. We are well aware that the principles of our Order are to be found in every grade of society in every country, in every clime, among men of every creed; and they are beloved by all; and why? Because they are principles of duty that command attention; they teach us the good and the right way; they teach us to take for our support the pillars of wisdom, strength and beauty, based upon a sure foundation; and I feel quite sure from what I know and what I have heard of the brethren who are about to be appointed to the lodge's offices, that those duties and those principles will be ably and fairly carried out to the best of their ability; and that this lodge will in its transit through the world shine brightly and emerge in the great lodge above to life eternal. I would now call your minds back to some thousands of years ago when there might have been seen a young man flying from his country and seeking in a distant land a shelter and hospitality, flying from a brother's anger; when he by deceit and fraud obtained that brother's birth right. That young man's name was Jacob; and when he lay down to rest at night, the earth his bed, a stone his pillow, and his covering the canopy of heaven, in his sleep a vision appeared to him; he saw a ladder reaching from earth to heaven, and on the ladder angels ascending to the Great Architect, and descending bringing down from Him messages of love and mercy for the benefit and comfort of man below. That ladder we take as one of the great emblems of our Order, as we see when the lodge board is uncovered, as the emblem of the great principles of our Order. And, brethren of the Eccleston Lodge, who are this day about to take the first step of that ladder which is based upon the sacred writings, you will soon ascend the other two which we in Masonry recognise, and go up and up till you reach those ethereal mansions which are above in the starry firmament. But a few words more; I must be brief. You know, in Masonry as well as in nature, when our lodge is opened the badge of innocence and the bond of friendship is shewn and the jewel of equality sparkles in the west; and then we are led up to the Third Degree, and we are taught that the time will come when death will have his prey, when sickness enters your chamber, and when the King of terrors comes through bolts and bars and claims his own. Then, the sprig of acacia is plucked from the spot where it has grown in love, plucked to decorate a departed brother's grave. These are the principles of our Order taught in the Third Degree, leading us by contemplation to the closing hour of our existence, and when they have led us through the intricate windings of this mortal state, finally instruct us how to die. Brethren of the Eccleston Lodge, may you, in whatever situation you are placed, whatever may be your lot in life, carry those duties with you always and perform them so fairly and so well that when the Great Architect comes to make up His jewels you may feel that you have performed your allotted task, so that your last hours may close in peace and love.

The ceremony of consecration was then proceeded with by Bro. Pullen, the musical portions being rendered by Bros. G. T. Carter, P.M. No. 382; Henry Parker, P.G. Organist Middlesex, at the piano; T. Baxter, No. 145; and J. Thurlay Beale, No. 1319; under the direction of Bro. E. Coles, No. 1319.

The whole of the ceremony of consecration was admirably performed, and when it was completed Bro. Hyde Pullen installed Bro. H. A. Hunt, No. 1537, as first W.M. of the new lodge.

After the usual congratulations, Bro. Hunt invested the following brethren:—D. H. McLeod, S.W.; J. C. Flattely, J.W.; Wm. Vincent, S.D.; Samuel Jones, J.D.; J. G. Fisher, I.G.; Isaacs, Treas.; A. W. Beckham, Sec.; Edwd. Powell, D.C.; Wm. Gould, W.S.; E. Coles, Org.; T. Woodstock, Tyler.

The addresses were delivered by Bro. Pullen, and a round of applause greeted him when he resumed his seat. The S.W. then proposed, and the J.W. seconded, the election of Bro. Hyde Pullen as an honorary member of the lodge, a motion which was unanimously adopted, and Bro. Hyde Pullen returned thanks for the compliment.

The W.M. proposed, and the S.W. seconded, a vote of thanks to Bro. the Rev. A. W. Hall, and the other brethren who had assisted in consecrating the lodge, and added to the motion that the names and services of these brethren should be recorded on the minutes.

This having been duly carried, the Rev. A. W. Hall, Bro. Verity, Bro. John Coutts, and Bro. Steward acknowledged the vote, and the lodge was closed after several propositions for initiation and joining had been made. The lodge was adjourned by the J.W. to the third Wednesday in September, and the brethren afterwards sat down to an elegant cold banquet, provided by the caterer of the Grosvenor Club. After partaking of this, the brethren again settled down to the business of the evening, and the door having been given once more in charge of the Tyler, the usual list of loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed.

Bro. John Coutts, P.G.P., was called upon as the representative of the Grand Officers, to respond to the toast proposed and drunk in their honour, and Bro. Hyde Pullen proposed "The W.M.," in doing so he said it had been more than a pleasure to him to propose the toast of the W.M., feeling as he did the importance of having placed in the chair a brother who, he hoped and trusted, would fulfil all the duties of his high office as Master of such a lodge as the Eccleston Lodge was likely to become. He had also another gratification in proposing this toast—the W.M. was the brethren's own selection, although he had not gone through the usual necessary form observed in an already established lodge. The W.M. would do honour to their choice, and fully meet the hopes and expectations they entertained of him. He would perform all his duties well and establish a high reputation for the lodge, and the brethren would in their turn afford him every assistance in their power.

The W.M. replying, said his difficulty in replying to this toast was caused by the flattering expressions of Bro. Hyde Pullen, and by the fact of his (the W.M.) being a very young Mason. Being but a young Mason, he could hardly feel worthy of any flattering expressions. He had been called to a very high office, and he fully appreciated the great importance of it. It would be his endeavour to make the Eccleston Lodge second to none, and when the brethren next met to instal a W.M. he hoped they would shew as good a front as they had already. It would be his earnest endeavour so to conduct the business of the lodge that those who were presented as initiates should be inducted in the true spirit of Masonry and should come into the lodge with the idea that Masonry was an institution not to be taken in hand unadvisedly or lightly, that it might be a secret society, but it was one of those institutions that made up the whole duty of man. It was not for him then to enlarge more particularly on Masonry; it was more for him to speak of those who had come to consecrate the lodge, and who had done it in the most admirable manner, most feelingly, most impressively. These they must honour that evening, as well as those without whom they could not have had that lodge consecrated—the members of the Ebury Lodge, its Master, and Wardens, who fathered the Eccleston Lodge and took its promoters upon trust. By their help Grand Lodge accepted the Eccleston Lodge, which had now bloomed into a full lodge, and it was these brethren whom he now wished to honour, and he would therefore propose "The Ebury Lodge," and called upon its W.M., Bro. Verity, to acknowledge the toast.

Bro. Verity, in responding, said that he and all the brethren of the Ebury Lodge felt very great pleasure in supporting the W.M. on such an important occasion as the consecration of the lodge. For himself, he had taken a very small part in the ceremony, but he nevertheless felt much pleasure in doing even that. When the deputation of brethren wishing to start the Eccleston Lodge waited upon the Ebury Lodge for their recommendation they received the most earnest and warm support, and now that he looked round and saw the way in which the original design had been carried out, he could not help thinking it would reflect honour on the craft. What he had said for himself he said on behalf of all the "Eburyites," who wished the Lodge success, and the Master health and strength to carry out the duties of his high calling properly.

The W.M. then proposed "The Consecrating Master, Bro. Hyde Pullen," who had initiated him in Masonry. It was on that account that he (the W.M.) asked Bro. Hyde Pullen to consecrate the Lodge and to instal him as Master. When asked, Bro. Pullen readily consented to do so; he was always ready to do a good turn for everybody, and when Masonry was concerned in it he was doubly ready. It must have been a great inconvenience to him to attend, and as a slight recognition of his services the brethren would now drink a toast in his honour.

The toast having been most cordially accepted, Bro. Hyde Pullen replied, and said that, as he had said before, so he now repeated, that it had been a great pleasure and gratification to him to attend and consecrate the lodge, and instal its W.M., and now that the W.M. had told the brethren that he (Bro. Pullen) had initiated him in Masonry, they would the better understand how much the pleasure of attending that evening was enhanced by his having to instal him. Having brought him into Masonic existence he hoped that he would develop into manhood, and that the brethren would have the pleasure of seeing it. It was a great comfort to see one's children grow in strength and importance from day to day, and having himself many then round that table whom he had introduced into Masonry in various ways, it was an intense gratification to meet them, not only then, but at all times. He wished the lodge all the success and prosperity that its members themselves could wish for. It had been launched like a boat upon the billows, and he hoped it would prove a good ship, with charity at the prow, with hospitality at the helm, and with care and prudence as pilots who would guide it through all the shoals and quicksands, which were likely to meet it in its course, and steer it safely over the ocean of time, and bring it home to its haven 100 years hence, to celebrate its centenary. He could only hope that every member of the lodge would do his best, would use his most strenuous efforts to aid and assist the W.M. in the discharge of his duties. The W.M. had told them he was a very young Mason, and under those circumstances he claimed their kind help and assistance more warmly and more earnestly than he would do if he were an old and practised Past Master. Pray make all the allowance they could in his favour; excuse him where they saw he might do a little better (but he did not think he would do badly); hold out to him forbearance for any little failings that might occur, and do all they could to render his year of office easy to himself, gratifying to them, the lodge a success in itself and an ornament to the Craft. He (Bro. Pullen) would have the greatest desire to know how well and successfully they steered their barque onwards, and he hoped he would have it in his power to come among the brethren and, if he could, to assist them in piloting their vessel and assisting in every way possible in making the lodge a success. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. the Rev. Ambrose W. Hall then rose, and said there devolved upon him that evening a task, which however, he would not call a task but a pleasure, although he felt some difficulty in fulfilling his duty properly, to propose, if not the most important the most interesting toast of the evening, "Success to the Eccleston Lodge." In asking the brethren, in a very few words, to drink it he trusted that they would not consider that what he said proceeded from those feelings which we were too apt to set down as after-dinner things when we had been hospitably entertained. The Eccleston Lodge started in a way which he was quite sure was an earnest of its future success. As he had said to them in lodge, there devolved upon the brethren responsible duties, and the officers of the lodge appointed that day he was sure those duties would be ably discharged. An old prophet had told them that a day was coming which was called a millennium, when the lion should lie down with the lamb, when the child should play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child put his hand on the cockatrice den, that nothing should hurt or destroy in all the holy mountain of the Great Architect; but whenever that blessed time should come, the brethren, who supplemented the sacred writings which spoke to them of the blessed time, were in a position to do their little quota towards that happy end. He mentioned this merely to show brethren of this new lodge that they had to do many things, to support many principles high and sacred, which if they did not bring this millennium extended among men those grand principles of the Masonic Order, brotherly love, relief and truth, which carried them through the world, repeated by all, loved by the brethren, and they trusted, rewarded eventually by their God. Bro. Hyde Pullen had said that they had launched their Masonic barque on the tide of this world; let him add that they had to bear in that barque those precious things which it was their's to uphold and to keep from being sunk in the billows that they must meet with in passing through their Masonic life. To that barque they must have a banner nailed; "nailed," he said, because they must never take it down; and on that banner must be inscribed the Masonic words, "Excelsior: On and on: Little beginnings: Great ends." Time was so short that he must not go further in proposing what it gave him such great pleasure to speak about, and which might lead him away and made him dwell longer perhaps than their patience would allow; he would therefore only say that from his heart he wished to the Eccleston Lodge—and from the hearts of all the visitors to it that day he was quite sure they proceeded the same wish—a fund of success, and the blessing of the Great Architect of the Universe. (Hear, hear, and cheers.)

The W.M. proposed "The Musical Brethren," to which toast Bro. E. Coles, Organist, responded.

The S. and J.W. replied for "The Officers," and Bro. Morgan and H. Massey ("Freemason") for "The Press."

The Tyler's toast concluded the proceedings, which were enlivened by the vocal and instrumental efforts of the professional brethren before named, and Dr. Davies.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, reached Edinburgh at 8.30 on Wednesday morning. She was met at the station by the Duke of Connaught, now with his regiment at Edinburgh, and proceeded to Holyrood Palace. On Thursday the statue of the late Prince Consort was unveiled, and afterwards the Queen proceeded to Balmoral. Great preparations were made in Edinburgh on the occasion. We shall allude to the ceremony in our next.

The Council of the Hospital Sunday Fund has resolved to distribute £29,943 amongst sixty-nine general and special hospitals and four institutions; and to devote £2336 16s. 8d. to forty-five dispensaries.

The Prime Minister, who is now on a visit to Lord Bradford at Castle Bromwich, near Birmingham, paid an unexpected visit yesterday evening to Ashton Hall and Park. Mr. Disraeli, who was accompanied by Lady Bradford and two other ladies, drove in the first instance to the lower grounds, a public pleasure garden much resorted to by the Birmingham working classes for dancing and boating. After walking round the grounds, where the party were recognized and cheered on leaving, they proceeded through the park to Ashton Hall, over which they were conducted by Mr. Rodway, the Curator.

The National Gallery, with the additional rooms which have been added to it by Mr. Edward Barry has been thrown open to the public. The collection, which now numbers considerably over a thousand pictures, may be said to be separated roughly into two parts—the Old Masters, occupying the East and the Modern Painters the West wing. The division, however, is not absolute, for the terms of the Wynne Ellis bequest render it necessary for that gentleman's pictures to be kept together for ten years; and it was thought desirable to preserve the Peel collection in its completeness as representing the last of a great statesman.

SOME OF THE PECULIARITIES OF ANCIENT CRAFT MASONRY.

WEBB JUNIOR.

It has long been conceded that Freemasonry—an institution peculiar, nay, wonderful, in many respects—is a subject worthy of the attention of the moralist, the statesman and the philosopher.

Others, too, who are not entitled to these high designations, may study this oldest and strongest of human institutions with advantage.

There are some peculiarities of this Institution which will early attract the attention and awaken the interest of the Masonic student and which we may briefly consider.

Our attention may be first directed to the universality claimed for the Order. The Monitors say:

From East to West, and between North and South, Freemasonry extends, and in every clime are Masons to be found.

And the learned Dr. Mackey states that

Over the whole habitable globe are our lodges disseminated. Wherever the wandering steps of civilized man have left their foot-prints, there have our temples been established. The lessons of Masonic love have penetrated into the wilderness of the West, and the red man of our soil has shared with his more enlightened brother the mysteries of our science, while the arid sands of the African desert have more than once been the scene of Masonic greeting.

The claim of universality is, indeed, not an idle boast.

Reports of committee on foreign correspondence, foreign publications of the Order, statistics, the narrative of travellers, and other documents too numerous and elaborate to quote here, all bear testimony to the existence of Masonry in all parts of the world. And while the number of Masons in any one community, or district, may be, and usually is, small in proportion to the whole population of such district, yet there are few localities, indeed, of any considerable size where some members of the Order are not to be found.

Freemasonry, in its organization, principles, methods of teaching, and in its objects, has, and from the facts above stated, must have the elements necessary to a cosmopolitan institution. For example, it recognises no political systems of theories, save only the rights of man by the law of nature; knows nothing of religious creeds or sectarian dogmas as such, save a belief in God, the obligations of the moral law, and the immortality of the soul—fundamental truths about which all men may agree. An eloquent writer truthfully says:

It exists in Pagan, Jewish, Moslem and Papal countries. Some of its members worship the sun, and others the shekinah; some fall before the crescent, and others before the cross; but it has taught them all to respect and tolerate each other.

Its universality is a peculiar characteristic of Freemasonry. Every man belongs to some nationality by birth or adoption, and is an alien in all other lands than his own. Other societies, religious or secular, are, in the main, confined to certain localities or countries. But Freemasonry is a universal republican brotherhood, which knows no international boundaries, no race, no country, but has the whole earth for its territory. It is, essentially, the same institution wherever found, providing for certain wants of men, of all races, and in all conditions of life, and possessing a universal language of signs and symbols understood by its members in all countries.

For convenience, there are lodges, or places of assembly, in cities, villages, and other localities, and separate general and local jurisdictions; but he who becomes a member in one lodge, or jurisdiction, is a Mason, not only there, but everywhere. A Mason in one country is a Mason in all countries, and is recognised as a brother entitled to certain rights and privileges, by the mysterious language he speaks, in all lands. Have we not just cause to be proud of this peculiar feature of our Order.

Another peculiarity of Freemasonry is its elaborate and beautiful system of teaching by symbols, allegories, types and emblems, being the oldest method of imparting instruction known to the world. By this system a large class of important truths and principles are brought within the comprehension of even the most illiterate, and are impressed upon the mind in a manner unequalled by any other method of instruction, but now preserved only in Freemasonry, as a complete system, and in the Romish church, partially. It is a system the beauty and value of which becomes more and more apparent the better we study its history and philosophy.

Our attention is called also, to the system of government of our Order, by a Master and two Wardens, in Grand and subordinate lodges, and certain fundamental and unchangeable rules, known as landmarks, all forming a system of government, original and peculiar, and found nowhere else, except by adoption. It is a perfect and happy blending of absolute power, with representative democracy and the preservation of individual rights by immutable laws. And right here we meet another, and most valuable, peculiarity of Freemasonry,—that is its permanent, unchangeable character. In its system of government, in its landmarks, in its fundamental principles and objects, no changes or innovations are necessary to adapt it to the wants and conditions of men in all countries, and in all times; nor are any changes or innovations permitted. No power exists anywhere within or without the Order to make such changes. Here, indeed, is permanence. No perversion of purposes; no "shifting sands of doctrine." We know what we have. It is, indeed, gratifying to discover that amid the ever changing and ephemeral associations instituted by men, from time to time, for various purposes, there is, at least, one which is steadfast. Is it too much to say that Freemasonry is the only permanent conservator amid the chances and changes of time, of those fundamental laws and principles of human rights and those moral obligations which are binding on all men?

A peculiar feature of Freemasonry is its silence and unobtrusiveness. A lodge may exist in our midst for years, and we hardly recognize the fact. It interferes with no person, sect, party, or opinion, and never asks any favours or special privileges from community, church, or state. It raises no disputes, argues no questions, and strives to live in quietness and peace with all men. Unlike other societies, it ever maintains its dignity and reserve. It seeks not the popular favour; it does not proselyte; it sends out no propagandists, and pays nothing to recruits; and while the worthy who knocks at its doors are seldom denied, they are never urged to seek admission.

The equality of all men before God and in natural right and in the lodge-room, as taught in Masonry, is peculiar to this institution. Other societies, secular and even religious, grant preferment and favours much according to social, pecuniary, and civil distinctions. But Masonic equality is real—not merely theoretical. The Ancient Charges declare that "all preferment among Masons is grounded upon real worth and merit only." The Order regards no man for his worldly worth or honours. Prince and peasant, plebeian and patrician meet upon the same level. The day labourer, the farmer, the mechanic, as has frequently been the fact, may be Master or Grand Master, while the rich man, the professional man or the highest civil or military functionary may be and often is, but a private member. And this is so because Masons assemble in a higher character, or upon a higher plane than that made by merely conventional distinctions,—they meet as men and brethren.

We may add, in conclusion, that, while Masonry knows nothing of political parties, yet in all countries and in all times the Order has taught its disciples the fundamental doctrines of Liberty, Fraternity, and Equality, and these principles Masonry taught before modern republics had existence. Liberty, regulated by law; obedience to established authority; the fatherhood of God; the brotherhood of man, and tolerance of private religious and political opinions, are of the very essence of Freemasonry.

And the thought comes to us here—should it not long since have come to the prejudiced and short-sighted opponents of Masonry—what other institution known among men presents, has always presented, such a powerful, such a successful bulwark to the insidious encroachments of ecclesiastical and political despotisms, which would re-instate and are labouring to re-instate the intellectual darkness, the intolerance and bigotry and the religious dogmas of the Middle Ages?

Despotic power in Church and State to-day, as for ages past, hates Freemasonry with an undying hate. What does it mean?

May not the friends of civil and religious liberty, of morality, of toleration, of fraternity, in all lands, ponder on the question how great and good a work has Freemasonry been, silent but surely, doing in the centuries gone by? What mission has this Order, so old, so strong, so peculiar in its character, to fulfil in the centuries to come?
